I can beat up a crowd around the bar-rooms that the devil wouldn't let in, more than one at a time. Why; if they were all in hell, in less than a month they'd cut off the devil's head and run hell themselves. The devil is a rascal, but he's no fool.

Some people say God made whiskey. God didn't. God didn't make anything that whiskey can be made out of until it rots and becomes so mean that a hog won't eat it. God made the juicy peach, but it can't be made into brandy until it is so rotten that no animal would eat it.

Lost a Subscriber.

We deeply sympathize with the Kansas City Live Stock Indicator in its sad misfortune—the loss of a subscriber. Here is the letter:

Editur life Stock K. Cy. Indicater

"Dere Sur—I hereby offer my resignashun as a subscriber to your paper, it being a pamphlet of such small konsekence as not to benefit my famerly by taken of it. What you need in your shete is branes and sum one to russell up news an' rite eddytoryals on live topicks. No menshun has bin made in your shete of me butcherin' a poland chiny pig weighing 369 pounds, or of the gaps in the chickensout this way. You stujusly ignore the fact that the tater bug is eatin' things up out here, and say nothin about Hi Simpson's durham bull calf breakin its legg fallin down a well or of grandma Sipes havin' the sore leges. Two important weddins here has been utterly ignored by your kolumns, and a two kolumn obitchuary, writ by me on the deth of grandpa Henry, was left out of your shete, to say nuthin' of a alfabetical poem beginning with 'A is for Andy and also for Ark,' writ by my darter. This is why your shete is unpopler here. Furthermoar I sent you fifty Cents to advertis my poal dangus bull for sale, and when I took the truble to have our school teecher write you a long articul telling about his good Qualities, you only printed two Thirds of it and that on your aith page, and I still hav the old muilly devel on my hands. If you don't want eddytoryals from this place and ain't goin' to put no news in your shete, we dont want said shete. Yours in disgust.

Hiram Moals.

P. S.—If you print that obitchuary in your next isoo I may sign agin for your shete. H. M."

When Shall we Stop Advertising.

Ten successful business men were asked when, in their judgment, it would do to "stop advertising." We commend their answers to those business men who do not believe in publishing their wares.

1st. "When population ceases to multiply and the generations that crowd on after you, and never heard of you, stop coming on."

2d. "When you have convinced everybody whose life will touch yours that you have better goods for the price than they can ever get anywhere else."

3d. "When you perceive it to be the rule that men who never advertise are outstripping their neighbors in the same line of business."

4th. "When men stop making fortunes in your very sight, solely through the discreet use of this mighty agent."

5th. "When you forget the words of the shrewdest and most successful business men concering the main cause of their prosperity."

6th. "When every man has become so thoroughly a creature of habit that he will buy this year when he bought last year."

7th. "When younger and fresher and spunkier concerns in your line cease starting up and using the newspaper in telling the people how much better they can do for them than you can."

8th. "When you would rather have your own way and fail, than take advice and win."

9th. "When nobody else thinks it pays to advertise."

10th. "Judicious and persistent advertising is the keystone of success; therefore don't stop, or others will get ahead of you."

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Jumbo Dots.

The refreshing rains have come at last, and for several days the farmers have had nothing to do but look at their crops grow, rest and rejoice.

Health of the people is very good; in fact there is not a single case of sickness in the community.

Rev. A. E. Burns filled his regular appointment here Saturday and Sunday. He preached two excellent sermons.

The Quarterly Conference of the M. E. Church convenes at Lime Springs Thursday next.

Miss Alice Deshazo, of Tuskaloosa, spent Saturday and Sunday here.

Mrs. Hubbard Connell, of Harpersville, is visiting relatives here.

The public schools of this township opened the first Monday in July.

Success to the VIEW. P.

Maplesville Dots.

Crops are looking fine, the best we have had for years.

More corn, cotton, peas, ground peas, potatoes, oats and cane will be produced this year than has been raised in a long time provided the seasons are suitable.

We were glad to see Mr. L. H. DuBose, of Selma, in town last Sunday. We think Selma has improved Mr. DuBose very much.

Mrs. Berry, of Orrville, Ala., is visiting her daughter Mrs. T. D. DuBose.

Mr. P. N. Cronet and family of S. C. have been visiting the family of Dr. Woolley.

Mr. H. B. Sawyers, of California, has been visiting Dr. Woolley.

Mrs. Tidwell has returned to Munford after spending three pleasant months in our healthful climate. We hope she may make as many friends elsewhere as she did here.

We are going to have a new Methodist church at this place, the old one will be torn down.

Our town is lighted every evening by a real street lamp which adds greatly to the looks of things.

Some of our young men enjoyed a serenade last Thursday night. There is nothing like breaking upon the ears of the sleeping with music of such rare quality.

Mr. T. C. Gandy says that he can plow a new ground, that has 6000 years growth of roots in it, with a little deaf mule without cursing, surely goodness and mercy shall follow Thomas all the days of his life and he shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Some of the young people enjoyed a lawn party at the residence of Mr. Wiley King last Friday evening. All who went thought themselves fortunate to be at a place of so much enjoyment. I wish it was in my power to say more about this pleasant evening but it is past the power of my expression to give it justice so the readers will have to take the will for the deed this time and excuse all awkwardness. D.

Jemison Locals.

Mr. J. H. Gibbons and Miss Mary Davenport were married at the residence of the bride's father on the 7th inst. Long life and much happiness to them.

Messrs. J. P. Allen & Co. have sold out their business to Messrs. Henry Leroy and Shelby Allen. We are glad to know that Mr. J. P. Allen will continue to make Jemison his home.

Mr. Henry Leroy has moved his family here and will in the future form one of our circle.

Mr. John Boyd has opened a stock of goods in the Heath store house and bids fair to do a prosperous business.

Mr. John Vines is building a new residence here and will soon make our thriving city his home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Greene and Dr. F. H. Dunklin took in Cullman on the glorious fourth, and report an exceedingly pleasant time.

Miss Stella Malone, one of Mulberry's fairest and sweetest girls, paid Jemison a visit last week.

Mrs. Noblett and Miss Alice Noblett, a charming young lady from Tennessee, are visiting Mrs. Langford.

Mrs. C. H. Smith is visiting LaFayette, Chambers Co., and will be absent during the summer months.

The weather seems to be the most interesting topic of conversation with us now; but I suppose the young folks don't mind it, as I hear it whispered they are to have a dance in Langston's Hall Friday night.

X. Y. Z.

Stanton Puffs.

We are having plenty of rain and farmers are happy.

Our young people had another sociable at Dr. Little's Friday night. The occasion being in the honor of Misses Callier, of Chadwick, Ala., who were visiting our village. One of our dudes reports a very pleasant time.

Last saturday week the employees of the G. & C. L. Co. and of Lodge & Bro.'s coaling, together with their friends from the surrounding country, met at Clanton Ford to have a pic-nic. The Lumber Co. ran the log train to take the mill people out and about two hundred took advantage of the free ride. There were people from Brierfield, Selma, Randolph, Maplesville, Plantersville and Dixie and all seemed to enjoy themselves. The dinner was plentiful, about five hundred people were fully satisfied, and then the lemonade and soda water were free to all. Nothing occurred during the day to mar the pleasure of the people, and to the honor of our citizens we can say there was only one man under the influence of whiskey and he kept very quiet.

There was another sociable for the young folks at Dixie recently but "Rats" may come out of their hiding place and let you know about it.

There have been quite a number of visitors in Stanton during the past week, among whom were Rev. Mr. James and family of Selma.

There was an ice cream supper at Mr. E. W. King's last Friday night. The young people had a pleasant time.

The Presbyterian church held several meetings preparatory to communion last week. Rev. R. A. Lapsley, pastor, conducting them.

Mrs. Margaret Adams, wife of Mr. Berry Adams died at her home near Clanton Ford on the 10th, and was buried at Mt. Carmel church on Sunday. Eld. W. J. Ruddick preached the funeral sermon. The deceased was a member of the M. E. church and leaves a large family to mourn her loss.

We hear that steps will soon be taken to build a Methodist church in Stanton.

Watermelons are very plentiful and cheap in our market. 89.

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

I. B. BOWDOIN

DEALER IN

Family Groceries,

CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. [illegible] THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. ☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

L&N

(LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.)

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

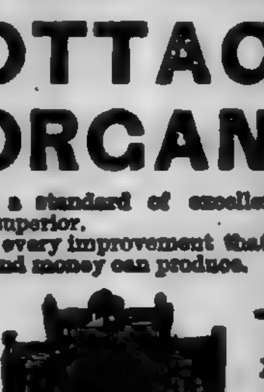
THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THE

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, free.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,

—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—

DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,

Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.

OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,

Birmingham, Ala.

Your Orders Solicited.

[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,

mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.

WILSON HOUSE.

COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.

Birmingham, Alabama.

Jobbers and Retailers of

PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER, Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,

Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜

We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with mar5ly Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

H. L. WILLIAMS,

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Prohibition district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.

Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from blood poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 14, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Be Patient With the Living.

Sweet friend, when thou and I art gone
Beyond earth's weary labor,
When small shall be our need of grace
From comrade or from neighbor,
Passed all the strife, the toil, the care,
And done with all the sighing,
What tender ruth shall we have gained
Alas, by simply dying!

Then lips too chary of their priase,
Will tell our merits over,
And eyes too swift our faults to see,
Shall no defect discover,
Then hands that would not lift a stone
Where stones were thick to cumber
Our steep hill-path, will scatter flowers
Above our pillowed slumber.

Sweet friend, perchance both thou and I,
Ere love is past forgiving,
Should take the earnest lesson home—
Be patient with the living;
To-day's repressed rebuke may save
Our blinding tears tomorrow;
Then patience—e'en when keenest edge
May whet a nameless sorrow.

'Tis easy to be gentle when Death's silence shames our clamor,
And easy to discern the best
Through memory's mystic glamour;
But wise it were for thee and me,
Ere love is past forgiving,
To take the tender lesson home—
Be patient with the living.

—MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

Mr. W. T. Callen is having his residence painted.

Mr. Joe Beasley and wife are spending some time in Clanton.

Mr. M. C. McRee has had a neat sign painted on the front of his store.

Mrs. Ellington, of Tuskegee, is visiting Mrs. W. L. Sampey at this place.

Mrs. Kate Anderson, of Birmingham, is on a visit to relatives at this place.

Mr. Peyton Aldridge is again the happy man—its a 10 pound boy this time.

Call at Mrs. Butler's store if you want fresh lemons and first class groceries and confectioneries.

Mr. W. H. Phillips is having a good deal of lattice work done at his residence on Court Avenue.

Miss Rosa Thornton has returned from Birmingham where she has been taking a course in short hand.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

The next term of our circuit court convenes on Monday the 29th of August and will continue two weeks.

Misses Rosa and Lula Gullahorn, of this place, visited relatives and friends in South Alabama last week.

Mrs. Dr. W. E. Stewart, of this place, has just returned from a visit to Mrs. Chas. J. Duncan, at South Pittsburg, Tenn.

Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Campbell, of Montgomery, relatives of Mrs. W. H. Burton, of this place, are spending the summer here.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Mr. Jno. W. Duke, of Clear Creek got his right foot badly mashed some days ago. He spent several days in Clanton recuperating since.

Sampey's Corner.

I have just received a lot of new goods suitable for summer wear. Also a fresh lot of canned goods, tea, chocolate, &c. Those table peaches and pears are as nice as the fresh fruit from the trees. Flour still sells at reasonable prices and coffee is coming down to more reasonable figures. A good stock of shirts just received.

Mr. A. J. Hall remembered the VIEW with some fine watermelons this week. Mr. H. makes a great success of melon raising and has a large supply for sale.

Rev. J. M. Kailin, of Maplesville, a recent graduate of Howard College, spent a day with friends in Clanton this week. He was on his way to attend the Baptist State Convention at Union Springs.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

A negro named Dave Bugg was arrested and placed in jail here on Monday last charged with stealing hogs. It is said he has been making the hogs around Bivings, Duke & Co's mill victims to his appetite.

The first issue of the Syllacauga Argus, of which Mr. H. G. McCall is editor, has been received. The motto of the Argus is: "Railway connection between Syllacauga and Montgomery." May its fullest hopes in this direction be realized.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

Col. J. M. Oliver, of Dadeville, who has been in Clanton for the past two months bathing in the hot well water, has returned home very much benefitted and he will probably move to this place in a short while to take up his residence with us. He has returned to Dadeville to make the necessary preparations to move.

Of course we hate to do so, but yet must chronicle the news, you known, whether it raises you high or low. Clanton is again a fatherless town—the municipality having collapsed on account of being so hedged about by a law that was supposed to be no law as to be unable to accomplish anything. It is said there are some who are swearing by all the gods that they "will send a man to the Legislature next time." As "oil upon the troubled waters" let them read the riot act and the CXXXIII psalm.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

No Report.

The county commissioners met at the Courthouse Monday. The books of the tax assessor were submitted to the body for inspection, which was the only business transacted. No report of county finances was submitted by the county treasurer, the court not having required that officer to submit a semi-annual report at the July term as the Code directs; consequently there is no report to publish, even at "gratis rates." It is quite evident now that the body means to dodge the publication of such a report just as long as it may please to do so. The VIEW has done its part in insisting upon the publication of reports in compliance with the law.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

Kincheon.

A VIEW man paid a visit to this pleasant neighborhood last week. As he had plenty of time and a fast horse he got lost in the woods and made a fifteen mile trip on a nine mile road. A young native whom he picked up didn't know where Kincheon was, but as he knew where Mr. Mullins' store was, he served as "a grey horse of the right color."

The crops on the way and all through the settlement were in excellent condition, and are the best in a number of years. Mr. W. I. Mullins runs a gin and a grist mill and also a well stocked general merchandise store, at which there was much trade, even at this season. The settlement has a good church and school. The church is a Baptist church and Rev. G. W. Mills, of Plantersville, is pastor.

Our friends put us in good spirits by assisting in getting a club of subscribers for the VIEW, and we returned more than pleased with the settlement and its kind and hospitable citizens.

Good and ill luck may be received with an equal mind, unless the latter takes the form of Piles, one of the most distressing diseases. When thus afflicted the most comforting assurance we can receive is that Tabler's Buckeye Ointment will cure every case of Piles on the Globe. Give it a trial and be convinced.

Ninety Record Books.

"Is it possible? Why I had no conception of the extensive use and popularity of this treatment. What! ninety record books, of seven hundred pages each, in which are recorded alphabetically the 41,000 cases of patients who have been and are using Compound Oxygen Treatment?" Such was the exclamation of surprise of a recent visitor to the principal office of Drs. Starkey & Palen, No. 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia. This office is open from 9 a. m. till 5 p. m. during the week, to all who wish to see for themselves the extent and growth of this deservedly popular treatment. Nor is it any wonder that its almost incredible success should excite numerous charlatans to imitate it and try to palm upon the public a cheap imitation as being similar and equally good and pure! But none are genuine without the names of Drs. Starkey and Palen being stamped in the bottle. For a full history of this treatment, apply to Drs. Starkey & Palen being stamped in the bottle. For a full history of this Treatment, apply to Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., and it will be sent free.

The dearest spot on earth to me is home, and whatever conduces to the health or comfor of the home circle is regarded as a blessing. In the category of blessings we place White's Cream Vermifuge the best worm medicine in the world. It never fails to expel worms when their presence in the stomach is indicated by the usual symptoms.

Final Settlement.

STATE OF ALABAMA, CHILTON CO.
Probate Court, July 5th, 1887.
Estate of Richard Fraser, Deceased.

This day came John M. Fraser, the administrator of said estate, and filed his statement, accounts, vouchers and evidences for final settlement of his administration. It is ordered that the 8th day of August, 1887, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest said settlement if they think proper.

H. J. CALLEN,
jul14 Probate Judge Chilton Co.

NOTICE NO. 6477.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 13, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on August 20th, 1887, viz: Walter H. Jones, Homestead 12973 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ and n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 24, township 23, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Marcus, William H. Marcus, Marion H. Marcus, and Jesse A. Maddox, all of Jumbo, Ala.

jul14* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
June 18, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on August 6, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Nichols Homestead 14785 for the e ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼ and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ section 4, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, Robt. W. Gandy, Daniel H. Mitchell, Joe C. Tucker, all of Dixie, Ala.

jun23 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 1st, 1887.

Complaint having been enterred at this office by J. F. Welch, against Wm. B. Flanagan for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 13434, dated September 9th, 1882, upon the n w ¼ of s w ¼ section 10, township 20, range 11 east, in Chilton county, Ala., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 12th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
jul7-4 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a fieri facias issued out of the office of the circuit court of Chilton county, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment, recently obtained against D. H. Davenport, out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said D. H. Davenport, I have levied on the following property, to-wit: Southwest fourth of Southeast fourth of section twenty (20) township twenty-two (22), range thirteen (13) less two acres off the east side of said s w ¼ of s e ¼, and lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction all the right, title and interest of the above named D. H. Davenport, in and to the above described property, on Monday, the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated at Clanton, this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES SUCH AS

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. ☞ Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

A WELL TRIED TREATMENT

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Sidalls, Merchant, Philad'a.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales.

And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

NOTICE NO. 6409.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., June 2, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on July 30, 1887, viz: Jasper W. Lovelady Homestead 9600 for the n ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼, sec 6, township 20 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: F. G. Gay, James Barnes, and William Price, of Dixie, Ala., and G. W. Harrison, of Chadwick, Ala.

jun9 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against Elijah Headley out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said Elijah Headley, heretofore levied upon under an execution issued by A. C. Mims, a justice of the peace and levied upon the following described lands, viz: S e ¼ of s e ¼ of n w ¼ and s e ¼ of s e ¼, e ½ of s w ¼ of s e ¼ and n ½ of n e ¼ and s e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14, township 21, range 13, lying in Chilton county, Ala.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named Elijah Headley in and to the above described property, on the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞ WATCH IT. ☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, | HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala
SADDLES! | Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice.

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 2D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS, COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.
Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 308. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
CURES—Diphtheria, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, [illegible] Dr. I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass.
PARSONS' MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD. PILLS
These pills were a wonderful discovery. No others like them in the world. [illegible]
MAKE HENS LAY
Sheridan's Condition Powder is absolutely pure and highly concentrated. One ounce is worth a pound of any other kind. It is strictly a medicine to be given with food. [illegible]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 283,
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen Photographs on watch dials, Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,

Avondale, Ala

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager,

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 21-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of [illegible] made on each one's tuition. No charge for [illegible] Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under [illegible]. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

DRUNKENNESS AMONG INDIANS.

The Apaches and the Drink They Make From Corn.

Frederick Schwatka, in his interesting article upon the Apaches in the May "Century," describes the drunkenness among them as follows:

"No drink-loving old topers ever enjoyed their liquor so much as have the Apaches whenever they could procure it—a vice, however, that is rapidly subsiding as the tribes are concentrated at agencies more directly under the eyes of watchful authorities. Mezcal, made from that plant by the Mexicans, found its way in days gone by, when population was scattering and the laws lax, into Apache maws with every trade and dealing between the two races. From corn they made a fermented drink called tiz-win, which is not as strong as the corn-whisky of civilization; but their peculiar method of drinking it compensates for its lack of strength. For some three days before it has reached its highest point of fermentation not a single piece of food is allowed. At the end of that period they fill themselves to their utmost capacity with the unclarified tiz-win. Although half starved, it takes but a few moments to make them feel as if they had had a major-general's rations for six months previous, while the most conspicuous effect is to swell their bump of combativeness to an inordinate degree. If a large number have indulged in this liquor, serious outbreaks and disturbances are almost sure to ensue, especially if other bands of Indians or any whites are near enough for them to reach before this temporary, stimulated combativeness has worn away. In fact, after having, when sober, decided to go upon the war-path, by far the most important preliminary is the manufacture of huge quantities of tiz-win. Its peculiar composition, and the no less peculiar manner of taking the liquor, gives it a most lasting effect upon the system; and an Indian with his stomach distended with it is said to have ahead of him a six or eight days' "spree," and during all this time his warlike qualities are sure to be most conspicuous.

"There is much evidence to show that alcoholic liquor made from corn is an ancient drink of these people, everything necessary to manufacture it being found in their old ruins."

Lieutenant Schwatka's report that so much less liquor than formerly is now sold to the Indians is quite encouraging. It is a curious fact that almost all Anglo-Saxon colonies have prohibited the selling of liquor to the natives. The privilege of getting "drunk, gloriously drunk" is not regarded as a natural and inalienable right of man, but only of civilized man. With reference to the English colonies it may be said that the success of the Australian States in prohibiting the sale of whisky to the aborigines there is leading to an agitation in favor of adopting a similar policy in India. In this case, however, the fact that the natives are on nearly the same plane of civilization as the Europeans makes it impossible to adopt one law for one people and another law for the other. Among both the eastern and western Indians drunkenness is almost entirely the product of European influence. Can European civilization correct the evils which it has occasioned?

There are twenty persons whose gifts to colleges in this country aggregate over $22,000,000. Three of these—Stephen Girard, Johns Hopkins and Asa Packer—gave over $14,000,000.

Chinese Nomenclature.

The following funny names were found in the Mott street Chinese directory for the information of Chinese residents of New York—names not translatable into Chinese: Tombs Police Court is called Stone Wall Court; City Hall, the Chin-Chin House; Third avenue, All Day street; Broadway, the street of Stages (formerly); Grand street, Women Show street; Division street, Female Hat street; Baxter street, Old Cloth Town; Mulberry street, Italian street; Cherry street, Cabbage street; Fulton street, the Peddlers' alley; Maiden lane, the Diamond street; Wall street, American Fan-Tan Shop street; Battery row, Cheap Fare Town; Forty-second street depot, 42 Fare Horse Car Head; Fifth avenue, No Washee street; Sixth avenue Much Washee Street; Chatham street, now Park row, Cheap Sleep street; Mott street, Chinatown; Brooklyn Bridge, the Steel Wire Bridge; Brooklyn, Blue lane; New Jersey, New Jugee; ferry-boat, wiggling boat; elevated road, mid-air road; Electrical Light Company, Steel Friction Company; Cooper Institute, Midway House; Catharine Street, Pad Boy street (some call it Wash Boiler street because the numerous copper boilers the Chinese have bought out of that street for their laundries); Peekman street, Wrapping Paper street; Pell street, near Chinatown, Broke Head street.—New York Herald.

The Bustle of the Great City.

STRANGER FROM GOSHEN—"Wall, so this is the bustle of the great city that we dear about! No wonder the metrolopus is crowded!"—Siftings.

SOME months ago Miss Mary Kovar and Charles Vanek, of East Grand Forks, Dakota, were at a social gathering, and just for fun played the part of bride and groom in a mock marriage. It happened that the man who personated the clergyman was a Justice of the Peace, and on the strength of this, Vanek, who is an elderly man, recently insisted that Miss Kovar should with him to his claim shanty as mistress of his home. She refused, and vehemently denied that she was his wife. Vanek has given notice to the young men in the settlement to keep away from his wife, and proposes to test the legality of the marriage in the courts.

A CITIZEN of Troy took up a small tree from a distant field and set it out in his yard. He afterward noticed a bird fluttering around the tree, and on examination he discovered in the branches the nest of a lark. There were five eggs in the nest, and the bird had followed him home.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Out of some 10,000 species of birds recognized by ornithologists, there are 859 species and sub-species which make their home in North America. There are also eighty-two others which find their way to this continent as stragglers from other countries.

Electric whistles, very melodious in sound, and said to be less expensive in manufacture than electric bells, are being favorably received in France. The whistle is made by fitting a small brass tube with suitable apertures so that it opens against the spring of a suitably-formed commutor, or circuit "make-and break."

Professor Neumayer, of Hamburg, urges the necessity of antarctic explorations, laying special stress on its importance for geology and paleontology. He anticipates that it will show that the South Pole was a centre of dispersion of animals and plants of the southern hemisphere, as the North Pole is believed to have been for the northern.

The Casiquiare, a connecting river between the Orinoco and Rio Negro Rivers, runs six months in one direction, and then turns and runs six months in the opposite direction. The country is so level that a rise or fall of the Orinoco governs the course of that river, which flows a portion of the year into the Amazon, and at another times in an opposite direction.

Some one has thus figured on the ingredients of a ton of coal. Besides gas, a ton of gas coal will yield 1,500 pounds of coke, 20 gallons of ammonia water, and 140 pounds of coal tar. Destructive distillation of the coal tar gives 59.6 pounds of pitch, 17 pounds of creosote, 14 pounds of heavy oils, 9.5 pounds of naphtha yellow, 6.3 pounds of naphthaline, 4.75 pounds of naphthol, 2.25 pounds of alizarine, 2.4 pounds of solvent naphtha, 1.5 pounds of phenol, 1.2 pounds of aurine, 1.1 pounds of analine, 0.77 pound of toludine, 0.46 pound of anthracine and 0.9 pound of toluene.

Experiments made at Ottawa, Canada, during the winter showed that Martini bullets fired into a bank of well-packed snow were completely spent after traversing a distance of not more than four feet. Snider bullets in hard-packed snow, mixed with ice, but hard enough to prevent digging into it with a sheet-iron shovel did not penetrate more than four feet. In perfectly dry snow, packed by natural drift, but capable of being easily crushed in the hand, a bullet penetrated about four feet, and in loose-drifted dry snow less than seven feet, though fired from points only twenty or thirty yards distant.

While it may seem singular that the division line between animals and plants cannot be clearly traced—some forms appearing to belong to either or both kingdoms—it is still more remarkable that mineral substances should seem to be living creatures. One of the most interesting finds in the ocean depths is Huxley's Bathybius, made of shapeless, motionless slime. It has been supposed to be the common origin of the animal and vegetable kingdom, but its organic character has lately been questioned and many naturalists now consider it only gelatinous gypsum. In Eozoon Canadensis we have another another animal of a few years ago which is now regarded as a mineral substance.

A Costly Time-Piece.

The handsome Mexican onyx clock which stands in the reception room of the city residence of George W. Childs, at the southeast corner of Twenty-second and Walnut streets, says the Philadelphia Record, has been much admired by the thousands of visitors to that hospitable mansion, few of whom, probably, know the history of the expensive time-keeper, which is recalled by the death of Le Grand Lockwood in New York. During the Paris Exposition of 1867 Mr. Lockwood, who was a visitor, became especially enamored of this strikingly beautiful clock, whose base, four feet in height, supported a silver statuette of Liberty swinging from one hand a pendulum. Mr. Lockwood, who was then very wealthy, determined to own this clock, and in the auction of exhibited articles bought it, though the Czar of all the Russians, to whom time was then of moment, was a competitor in the bidding. Safely transported to Norwalk, Conn., Mr. Lockwood's home, the costly time-piece was much admired by visitors to Mr. Lockwood's house, and by none more than Mr. and Mrs. George W. Childs. Several years later Mr. Lockwood's house and its many articles of virtue were offered for sale, and, at the suggestion of his good wife, Mr. Childs determined to buy this clock. Arrived at the sale, and the clock put up, Mr. Childs' first bid was $3,000. A stranger sitting immediately behind him raised that $500. Mr. Childs saw the raise and raised back $500, when the astounded stranger, reaching forward, remarked:

"Sir, I come from A. T. Stewart with orders to get that clock, and I must have it."

"I don't care if you came from Golconda," was the reply of the Philadelphian, and he kept raising the bid of his opponent, much to the auctioneer's satisfaction, until he had offered $6,500, at which figure Stewart's man weakened. Mr. Childs removed the time-keeper to his city residence, where it now ticks and tells that time is flying.

The Insect World.

Were it possible to take a census of the individual insects upon the globe, the result must be an array of figures of whose meaning we could form little conception. Members of each species multiply in countless millions, yet even the number of distinct species is so great that we can hardly do more than guess at it. Entomologists generally concede that upward of 100,000 species of insects have been recognized, and some authors place the number as high as 150,000, while it is probable that these may represent not more than a tenth of the number actually inhabiting the earth's surface. "Probably not less than one-half of the indicated forms," says Professor Heilprin, "belong to the order Coleoptera, or beetles, which is by far the most numerously represented of all the orders. The Lepidoptera, or butterflies, have thus far yielded some 15,000 species—or about one-thirteenth of the total number (200,000) estimated by Speyer for the world at large—and an equal number may, perhaps, be credited to the Hymenoptera (bees, wasps and ants), the Hemiptera (bug), and Diptera (flies). The Orthoptera, or straight-winged insects, which include the locusts, grasshoppers, etc., are considerably less numerous, while the species of netted forms (Neuroptera) probably number only about 2,000. The insects are most numerously developed in the tropics, but they are by no means rare in the coldest regions reached by man. Sir George Nares brought home no less than forty-five species of true insects from beyond the seventy-eighth parallel of latitude in Grinnell Land, and more than 300 in Iceland. Many of the insects of earlier geological ages are known to us as fossils from the rocks, these being found by Mr. S. H. Scudder to embrace at the present time at least 2,500 species.

The Pests of the Garden.

The following are probably the most prevalent and mischievous of the garden pests. Out-worms, or larvæ of several species of insects, are often very troublesome when cabbage plants are first set out. They work at night and eat through the stem of the plants at the surface of the ground. Prof. Riley has lured these creatures to their death, and it can be done every time. The method is to bait with poisoned leaves, laying them over the surface of the soil about ten or fifteen feet apart, covering the whole plot or field a few days before planting. The leaves to be employed are those of cabbage, turnip, lettuce or clover; a tablespoonful of Paris green is mixed with a pail of water and kept well stirred. In this the leaves are dipped and then distributed over the ground; or the leaves can be moistened and then dusted with Paris green mixed with flour, in the proportion of one part of poison to twenty of flour. Two such applications, three or four days apart, will clear the field of cut-worms.

The common green worm that feeds on the leaves of the growing cabbage plants can be easily destroyed, and at little cost, by the use of buhach, or Persian insect powder, or a particular preparation of it which is sold in the trade under the name of Insect Exterminator. This is applied in the dry form, blown on with a bellows adapted to the purpose.

The cabbage fly which deposits its eggs on the stems of the young cabbage plants, is often very troublesome. The maggots when hatched out, work into and downwards, through the stem, or groove along the bark until they reach the root, upon which they feed, when the plant dies. One of the best remedies proposed is to scatter slacked lime, ashes or coal dust around the stem of each plant, leaving a few plants here and there through the field unprotected, in order that the flies may visit them and lay their eggs. These plants the flies will seek out and leave the others untouched. The plants that have been visited will soon show the effects of the insects, and can then be pulled up and burned.

The squash-bug and the striped bug that injure the leaves of cucumber and melon vines, can both be kept from doing injury by the application of insect poison, or Insect Exterminator, to the leaves of the plants; it can be dusted on, or be sprinkled on, mixed in water.

The squash-root borer is destroyed with saltpetre, an ounce to a gallon of water. Pour the solution on the soil about the plants soon after the young plants have come up, and repeat the operation two or three times after intervals of four or five days. This is a sure preventive. Some make the application only when then the plant shows signs, by wilting, of being attacked; the remedy is usually effective when thus employed, but it is better to use it in advance.

A Woman's Reminder.

A husband was sitting in his store at Marietta, says the Savanah News, when a letter in a familiar handwriting was handed to him. It was from his wife, whom he had left at home that morning with every assurance of affection and devotion. But the very first sentence startled him:

"I am forced to tell you something that I know will trouble you, but I know it is my duty to do so. I am determined you shall know it, let the result be what it may. I have known for a week that this trial was coming, but kept it to myself until to-day, when it has reached a crisis and I can keep it no longer. You must not censure me too harshly, for you must reap the reward as well as myself. I do hope it won't crush you. The flour is out. Please send me some this afternoon. I thought by this method you would not forget it." She was right. He didn't.

Safety from Malaria.

The most vigorous constitution, and the strongest physique, are not proof against a disease, the germs of which impregnate the air we breath and the water we drink. The true preparative, the surest defense, is to fortify the system with a medicine which possesses specific virtue as a safeguard and remedy. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is precisely this article—proved by conclusive tests to be so. Not only on this continent, wherever miasma gives birth to the malarial infection, but in the tropics where fever and ague assumes its most malignant type, this incomparable, popular and deserving medicine has, for over a third of a century, shown its efficacy. Chills and fever, dumb ague, bilious remittent alike yield to its influence and are prevented by it. The word "fail" has no place in the lexicon of possibilities when this peerless article is used. It tones the stomach, arouses the liver when sluggish, and promotes healthful activity of the kidneys and bladder.

The favorite hymn of the Salvation Army is to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland."

Many People Refuse to Take Cod Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

By investigation it appears, fifty per cent of British army gunpowder is worthless.

"Say, why is everything Either at sixes or at sevens?"

Probably, my dear nervous sister, because you are suffering from some of the diseases peculiar to your sex. You have a "dragging-down" feeling, the backache, you are debilitated, you have pains of various kinds. Take Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" and be cured. Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

The police of London, Eng., number 13,000, and they cover a district of 700 square miles.

Bad Bowels.

The very expression implies suffering. Every mother knows the anxiety over this sickness, but every mother does not know that Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial will regulate and cure all bowel troubles.

Piles Cured for 25 Cents.

DR. WALTON'S CURE FOR PILES is guaranteed to cure the worst case of piles. Price 25 cents. At druggists, or mailed (stamps taken) by the

WALTON REMEDY CO., CLEVELAND, O.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS warms up and invigorates the stomach, improves and strengthens the digestive organs, opens the pores, promotes perspiration, and equalizes the circulation. As a corrector of a disordered system there is nothing to equal it.

If you have a daughter to educate send for an illustrated Catalogue of the Athenæum, Columbia, Tenn. Before deciding, see advertisement in another column.

A Husband's Greatest Blessing

Is a strong, healthy, vigorous wife, with a clear, handsome complexion. These can all be acquired by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y

In the United States there are 132,000 churches, 92,000 ministers, and 19,000,000 members

Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are perfect preventives of constipation. Inclosed in glass bottles, always fresh. By all druggists.

The library of the British Museum contains more than 2,000,000 books.

Bronchitis is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

Valuable Cats.

The "Manse cat" is the premium rat catcher. They are keen and fierce at vermin, but are docile with and much attached to their owners. This breed, some say, is of Welsh origin; they have no tails or only a short stump, which gives them an odd appearance, but they are real workmen. The females, as a rule, are the best. They belong to the short-haired variety and are of all colors, that is, similar to the common English. Some of these animals, when well trained, kill mice and rats more like a dog than the generality of the feline tribe. Excellent ratters can often be obtained from the dock-yards of New York. These cats have in many instances been bred from rat-killing parents from many generations, and has, therefore, become almost a part of their nature.—Southern Cultivator.

It Astonished the Public

To hear of the resignation of Dr. Pierce as a Congressman to devote himself solely to his labors as a physician. It was because his true constituents were sick and afflicted everywhere. They will find Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" a beneficent use of his scientific knowledge in their behalf. Consumption, bronchitis, cough, heart disease, fever and ague, intermittent fever, dropsy, neuralgia, goitre or thick neck, and all diseases of the blood, are cured by this world-renowned medicine. By druggists.

Alderson, W. Va., rejoices in the discovery of a cave with all the attractions.

If afflicted with sore eyes use Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye-water. Druggists sell at 25c. a bottle.

One Fact

Is worth a column of rhetoric, said an American statesman. It is a fact, established by the testimony of thousands of people, that Hood's Sarsaparilla does cure scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases or affections arising from impure state or low condition of the blood. It also overcomes that tired feeling, creates a good appetite, and gives strength to every part of the system. If you need a good blood purifier, tonic, or appetizer, try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It will do you good.

"My daughter received much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla as an excellent tonic after a protracted attack of bronchial pneumonia."—REV. F. H. ADAMS, New Hartford, Conn.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,

A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.

☞ Before deciding where to send your daughter to school, write for an illustrated catalogue giving full particulars, to ROBT. D. SMITH, Pres't, Columbia, Tenn.

MARLIN REPEATING RIFLE

BEST IN THE WORLD!

Guaranteed perfectly accurate and absolutely safe. Made in all sizes for large or small game.

BALLARD

Gallery, Hunting and Target Rifles. Send for Illustrated Catalogue. Marlin Fire Arms Co., New Haven, Conn.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

CENTRAL UNIVERSITY. RICHMOND, KY. Next Session opens Sep. 14, '87

Advantages:—Full Faculty, thorough instruction, healthy location in Blue Grass region. Moderate expenses. ☞ Full information in catalogue. Apply to L. H. BLANTON, D. D., Chancellor.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will Give Away 1,000 Self Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P.O. and express office at once. The National Co., 27 [illegible]

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs Poultry, Dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows. Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D C

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D C

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES

It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH AND BOWELS. FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS PRICE 1 DOLLAR

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading.

Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hon. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 300 University of Penn., 300 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

HERBRAND FIFTH WHEEL

Without increasing the cost we have made the FIFTH WHEEL the strongest and most satisfactory part of a Buggy or Carriage. Illustrated pamphlet free. THE HERBRAND CO. FREMONT, O.

Milo B. Stevens & Co. GLOVER BUILDING, PENSIONS Washington, D. C.

HIRES' Improved Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. ROOT BEER Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 46 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY Co., LaFayette, Ind.

LECTURE ON Rough on Rats.

This is what killed your poor father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'ROUGH'NESS.'

DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of Roaches, Water-bugs, BEETLES

For two or three nights sprinkle "ROUGH ON RATS" dry powder, in, about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. ROACHES

Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "ROUGH ON RATS" is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised, and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.

DESTROYS POTATO BUGS

For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a tablespoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c. and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.

"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES.

Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

DROPSY TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists for Thirteen Years Past, Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex. How long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water? Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

If you order trial send 10cts in stamps to pay postage.

Epilepsy (Fits) Positively Cured.

H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds., 250½ Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

WHETHER YOU WANT A PIANO OR ORGAN

It will pay you to write to

PHILLIPS & CREW, ATLANTA, GA.,

For Catalogue (free) and Prices. Mention this paper.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address [illegible] M. BOLK, P. O. [illegible] 166, Atlanta, Ga.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 36½ S Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

A. N. K. [illegible] '87

WORDS of PRAISE.

The following words, in praise of DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION as a remedy for those delicate diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women, must be of interest to every sufferer from such maladies. They are fair samples of the spontaneous expressions with which thousands give utterance to their sense of gratitude for the inestimable boon of health which has been restored to them by the use of this world-famed medicine.

$100 THROWN AWAY. JOHN E. SEGAR, of Millenbeck, Va., writes: "My wife had been suffering for two or three years with female weakness, and had paid out one hundred dollars to physicians without relief. She took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did her more good than all the medicine given to her by the physicians during the three years they had been practicing upon her."

THE GREATEST EARTHLY BOON. MRS. GEORGE HERGER, of Westfield, N. Y., writes: "I was a great sufferer from leucorrhea, bearing-down pains, and pain continually across my back. Three bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' restored me to perfect health. I treated with Dr. ——, for nine months, without receiving any benefit. The 'Favorite Prescription' is the greatest earthly boon to us poor suffering women."

THREW AWAY HER SUPPORTER. MRS. SOPHIA F. BOSWELL, White Cottage, O., writes: "I took eleven bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of your 'Pellets.' I am doing my work, and have been for some time. I have had to employ help for about sixteen years before I commenced taking your medicine. I have had to wear a supporter most of the time; this I have laid aside, and feel as well as I ever did."

IT WORKS WONDERS. MRS. MAY GLEASON, of Nunica, Ottawa Co., Mich., writes: "Your 'Favorite Prescription' has worked wonders in my case.

Again she writes: "Having taken several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I have regained my health wonderfully, to the astonishment of myself and friends. I can now be on my feet all day, attending to the duties of my household.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

3 PHYSICIANS FAILED. MRS. E. F. MORGAN, of No. 71 Lexington St., East Boston, Mass., says: "Five years ago I was a dreadful sufferer from uterine troubles. Having exhausted the skill of three physicians, I was completely discouraged, and so weak I could with difficulty cross the room alone. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment recommended in his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser.' I commenced to improve at once. In three months I was perfectly cured, and have had no trouble since. I wrote a letter to my family paper, briefly mentioning how my health had been restored, and offering to send the full particulars to any one writing me for them, and enclosing a stamped-envelope for reply. I have received over four hundred letters. In reply, I have described my case and the treatment used, and have earnestly advised them to 'do likewise.' From a great many I have received second letters of thanks, stating that they had commenced the use of 'Favorite Prescription,' had sent the $1.50 required for the 'Medical Adviser,' and had applied the local treatment so fully and plainly laid down therein, and were much better already."

JEALOUS DOCTORS. A Marvelous Cure.—MRS. G. F. SPRAGUE, of Crystal, Mich., writes: "I was troubled with female weakness, leucorrhea and falling of the womb for seven years, so I had to keep my bed for a good part of the time. I doctored with an army of different physicians, and spent large sums of money, but received no lasting benefit. At last my husband persuaded me to try your medicines, which I was loath to do, because I was prejudiced against them, and the doctors said they would do me no good. I finally told my husband that if he would get me some of your medicines, I would try them against the advice of my physician. He got me six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' also six bottles of the 'Discovery,' for ten dollars. I took three bottles of 'Discovery' and four of 'Favorite Prescription,' and I have been a sound woman for four years. I then gave the balance of the medicine to my sister, who was troubled in the same way, and she cured herself in a short time. I have not had to take any medicine now for almost four years."

THE OUTGROWTH OF A VAST EXPERIENCE.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the uterus, or womb and its appendages, in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It promotes digestion and assimilation of food, cures nausea, weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating and eructations of gas.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, or "whites," excessive flowing at monthly periods, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

In pregnancy, "Favorite Prescription" is a "mother's cordial," relieving nausea, weakness of stomach and other distressing symptoms common to that condition. If its use is kept up in the latter months of gestation, it so prepares the system for delivery as to greatly lessen, and many times almost entirely do away with the sufferings of that trying ordeal.

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's large, illustrated Treatise (160 pages) on Diseases of Women.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1887. NUMBER 37.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

The Cincinnati Commercial Gazette facetiously says: "Many persons, including some of our own correspondents, are determined that the English sparrow 'must go.' The chief fault with him, we have thought, was that he did go everywhere he had a chance."

Mr. Colman, United States Commissioner of Agriculture, speaks hopefully of the new method of obtaining sugar from sugar-cane by diffusion. On returning from a recent trip to Louisiana to investigate the operation he is convinced that the process will prove successful. Cane which under ordinary circumstances and methods will yield eighty pounds of sugar to the ton yields 140 pounds under this process.

A Providence man is issuing some tens of thousands of fac-similes of the Vicksburg daily paper which was issued by Grant's soldiers after the capture of the city, having already been put in type by the regular printers. It was printed, as Southern papers were in those days, on the plain side of wall paper. This would not be worthy of note but for the fact that in a quarter of a century or less the people who find these forgeries in their attics will be claiming that their fathers were at Vicksburg, and got one of the only dozen or two copies of the Citizen which were printed.

Every year increases the importance of the cotton production of Mexico, especially in view of the fact that vast tracts of land hitherto inaccessible, and rendered unsafe through the presence of hostile Indians, are being opened up to immigration by the railroad. At present it is cultivated in only twelve States, and the amount produced is not sufficient for home consumption, large quantities being imported from the United States. One district, containing about 1,200,000 acres, lying partly in Coahuila and Durango, produces a perennial cotton plant, which does not require to be planted oftener than once in ten years.

A newspaper printed at Dolores, Argentine Republic, which is situated near the volcanic region, gives an account of a mysterious shower of stones which fell near that city a few weeks ago. The stones are said to have fallen as thick as hail, and varied in size from a pebble to a very respectable boulder. Incalculable damage was done to the crops, tall trees were shivered to atoms, barns and outhouses were demolished and many domestic animals were killed. In some localities the ground was covered with the bodies of wild geese and hawks, which appeared to have been killed during their flight in the air. Several persons were struck and badly injured while at work in the fields; and in the city itself, which missed the violence of the shower, one dwelling was wrecked. The stones are said to have fallen continuously for more than a minute.

Clocks, says the New York Times, are now not only useful but very ornamental, and so very cheap, too. A very pretty antique pressed brass mantel clock, (American make), with a deep-toned cathedral gong of a far-away sound, can be had for $10. A good-time keeper, nickel-plated, costs but 90 cents. The prices have this wide range, and selections can be made from varied thousands of office, clocks, alarms, cuckoos, halls, and striking or silent recorders of the flight of precious hours. Clocks that tell the state of the weather and are also calendars; clocks that tinkle the half hours and chime the full; clocks that work like watches or swing the faithful pendulum, and, in fact, clocks of all kinds, matching all dispositions, are abundant and cheap, and there seems to no excuse for even the occupant of an east side flat not having one. These Yankee clocks are appreciated abroad and below, for the exportations to Europe, Mexico, and South America numbers thousand a day.

The Grant relics, which have been for several months safely guarded in one of the private rooms of the National Museum, in Washington, are now on public exhibition. Recently two handsome plushed lined cases, filled with articles from the collection, were placed in the north hall of the musem, near the main entrance. They contained the presentation swords, gold headed cane, caskets, medallions and many other costly and elegant articles presented by different people at different times to General Grant. Many of these articles are souvenirs of his trip around the world. There is a splendid collection of Japanese coins, one series of seven pieces, old Japanese gold coins of huge size, being valued at $5,000. There are also invitation cards, menu cards, and reminders of entertainments given in his honor, engrossed on gold plates. One invitation card to a masked ball, given at San Francisco upon General Grant's arrival at that city, on his return from his famous tour, is engraved on solid gold, and was inclosed in a silver envelope, with the address engraved upon it. In the right hand corner is a two cent stamp, and in the left the usual: "If not delivered in ten days return to," etc. The articles shown, besides their historical interest, are of great intrinsic value.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

"HUNTING FOR SOULS."

TEXT: "He was a mighty hunter before the Lord."—Genesis, x., 9.

In our day, hunting is a sport; but in the lands and the times infested with wild beasts, it was a matter of life or death with the people. It was very different from going out on a sunshiny afternoon with a patent breech-loader, to shoot reed-birds on the flats, when Pollux and Achilles and Diomedes went out to clear the land of lions and tigers and bears. My text sets forth Nimrod as a hero when it presents him with broad shoulders and shaggy apparel and sun-browned face, and arm bunched with muscle—"a mighty hunter before the Lord." I think he used the bow and the arrow with great success practicing archery.

I have thought if it is such a grand thing and such a brave thing to clear wild beasts out of a country, if it is not a better and braver thing to hunt down and destroy those great evils of society that are stalking the land with fierce eye and bloody paw, and sharp tusk and quick spring. I have wondered if there is not such a thing as Gospel hunting, by which those who are flying from the truth may be captured for God and heaven. The Lord Jesus in His sermon used the art of angling for an illustration when he said: "I will make you fishers of men." And so I think I have authority for using hunting as an illustration of Gospel truth; and I pray God that there may be many a man in this congregation who shall begin to study Gospel archery, of whom it may, after a while, be said: "He was a mighty hunter before the Lord.

How much awkward Christian work there is done in the world! How many good people there are who drive souls away from Christ instead of bringing them to Him! religious blunderers who upset more than they right. Their gun has a crooked barrel, and kicks as it goes off. They are like a clumsy comrade who goes along with skilful hunters; at the very moment he ought to be most quiet he is crackling an alder or falling over a log and frightening away the game. How few Christian people have ever learned the lesson of which I read at the beginning of the service, how that the Lord Jesus Christ at the well went from talking about a cup of water to the most practical religious truths, which won the woman's soul for God! Jesus in the wilderness was breaking bread to the people. I think it was good bread: it was very light bread, and the yeast had done its work thoroughly. Christ, after he had broken the bread, said to the people: "Beware of the yeast, or of the leaven, of the Pharisees!" So natural a transition it was; and how easily they all understood him! But how few Christian people who understand how to fasten the truths of God and religion to the souls of men! Truman Osborne, one of the evangelists who went through this country some years ago, had a wonderful art in the right direction. He came to father's house one day, and while we were all seated in the room, he said: "Mr. Talmage, are all your children Christians?" Father said: "Yes, all but De Witt." Then Truman Osborne looked down into the fire-place, and began to tell a story of a storm that came on the mountains, and all the sheep were in the fold: but there was one lamb outside that perished in the storm. Had he looked me in the eye, I should have been angered when he told me that story; but he looked into the fire-place, and it was so pathetically and beautifully done that I never found any peace until I was sure I was inside the fold, where the other sheep are.

The archers of old times studied their art. They were very precise in the matter. The books gave special directions as to how the archer should go, and as to what an archer should do. He must stand erect and firm, his left foot a little in advance of his right. With his left hand he must take hold of the bow in the middle, and then with the three fingers and the thumb of his righ hand he should lay hold of the arrow and affix it to the string—so precise was the direction given. But how clumsy we are about religious work! How little skill and care we exercise! How often our arrows miss the mark! Oh, that we might learn the art of doing good and become "mighty hunters before the Lord!"

In the first place, if you want to be effectual in doing good, you must be very sure of your weapon. There was something very fascinating about the archery of olden times. Perhaps you do not know what they could do with the bow and arrow. Why the chief battles fought by the English Plantagenets were with the long bow. They would take the arrow of polished wood, and feather it with the plume of a bird, and then it would fly from the bow-string of plaited silk. The broad fields of Agincourt, and Solway Moss, and Neville's Cross, heard the loud thrum of the archer's bow-string. Now, my Christian friends, we have a mightier weapon than that. It is the arrow of the Gospel; it is a sharp arrow; it is a straight arrow; it is feathered from the wing of the dove of God's spirit; it flies from a bow made out of the wood of the cross. As far as I can estimate or calculate, it has brought down four hundred million souls. Paul knew how to bring the notch of that arrow on to that bow-string, and its whirr was heard through the Corinthian theatres, and through the court-room, until the knees of Felix knocked together. It was that arrow that stuck in Luther's heart when he cried out: "Oh, my sins! Oh, my sins!" If it strike a man in the head, it kills his skepticism; if it strike him in the heel, it will turn his step; if it strike him in the heart, he throws up his hands, as did one of old when wounded in the battle, crying: "Oh, Galilean, Thou hast conquered!"

In the armory of the Earl of Pembroke, are old corselets which show that the arrow of the English used to go through the breast-plate, through the body of the warrior, and out through the backplate. What a symbol of that Gospel which is sharper than a two-edged sword, piercing to the dividing asunder of soul and body, and of the joints and marrow! Would to God we had more faith in that Gospel! The humblest man in this house, if he had enough faith in him, could bring a hudred souls to Jesus—perhaps five hundred. Just in proportion as this age seems to believe less and less in it, I believe more and more in it! What are men about that they will not accept their own deliverance? There is nothing proposed by men that can do anything like this Gospel. The religion of Ralph Waldo Emerson was the philosophy of icicles; the religion of Theodore Parker was a sirocco of the desert, covering up the soul with dry sand; the religion of Renan is the romance of believing nothing; the religion of Thomas Carlyle is only a condensed London fog; the religion of the Huxleys and the Spencers is merely a pedestal on which human philosophy sits shivering in the night of the soul, looking up to the stars, offering no help to the nations that crouch and groan at the base. Tell me where there is one man who has rejected that Gospel for another, who is thoroughly satisfied, and helped, and contented in his skepticism, and I will take the car to-morrow and ride five hundred miles to see him. The full power of the Gospel has not yet been touched. As a sportsman throws up his hand and catches the ball flying through the air, just so easily will this Gospel after a while catch this round world flying from its orbit and bring it back to the heart of Christ. Give it full swing, and it will pardon every sin, heal every wound, cure every trouble, emancipate every slave, and ransom every nation. Ye Christian men and women who go out this afternoon to do Christian work, as you go into the Sunday-schools and the lay preaching stations, and the penitentiaries, and the asylums, I want you to feel that you bear in your hand a weapon compared with which the lightning has no speed, and avalanches have no heft, and the thunderbolts of heaven have no power; it is the arrow of the omnipotent Gospel. Take careful aim. Pull the arrow clear back until the head strikes the bow. Then, let it fly. And may the slain of the Lord be many.

Again, if you want to be skillful in spiritual hunting you must hunt in unfrequented and secluded places. Why does the hunter go three or four days in the Pennsylvania forests or over Raquette Lake into the wilds of the Adirondacks? It is the only way to do. The deer are shy, and one "bang" of the gun clears the forest. From the California stage you see, as you go over the plains, here and there a coyote trotting along, almost within range of the gun—sometimes quite within range of it. No one cares for that; it is worthless. The good game is hidden and secluded. Every hunter knows that. So, many of the souls that will be of most worth for Christ, and of most value to the Church, are secluded. They do not come in your way. You will have to go where they are. Yonder they are down in that cellar, yonder they are up in that garret. Far away from the door of any church, the Gospel arrow has not been pointed at them. The tract distributer and the city missionary sometimes just catch a glimpse of them, as a hunter through the trees gets a momentary sight of a partridge or roebuck. The trouble is we are waiting for the game to come to us. We are not good hunters. We are standing in Schermerhorn street, expecting that the timid antelope will come up and eat out of our hand. We are expecting that the prairie-fowl will light on our church-steeple. It is not their habit. If the Church should wait ten millions of years for the world to come in and be saved, it will wait in vain. The world will not come. What the Church wants now is to lift their feet from damask ottomans, and put them in the stirrups. We want a pulpit on wheels. The Church wants not so much cushions as it wants saddle-bags and arrows. We have got to put aside the gown and the kid gloves, and put on the hunting shirt. We have been fishing so long in the brooks that run under the shadow of the Church that the fish know us, and they avoid the hook, and escape as soon as we come to the bank, while yonder is Upper Saranac and Big Tupper's Lake, where the first swing of the Gospel net would break it for the multitude of the fishes. There is outside work to be done. What is that I see in the back-woods? It is a tent. The hunters have made a clearing and camped out. What do they care if they have wet feet, or if they have nothing but a pine branch for a pillow, or for the northeast storm? If a moose in the darkness steps into the lake to drink, they hear it right away. If a loon cries in the midnight, they hear it. So in the service of God we have exposed work. We have got to camp out and rough it. We are putting all our care on the seventy thousand people of Brooklyn who they say come to church. What are we doing for the seven hundred thousand that do not come? Have they no souls? Are they sinless that they need no pardon? Are there no dead in their houses that they need no comfort? Are they cut off from God, to go into eternity—no wing to bear them, no light to cheer them, no welcome to greet them! I hear to-day surging up from the lower depths of Brooklyn a groan that comes through our Christian assemblages and through our Christian churches; and it blots out all this scene from my eye to-day, as by the mists of a great Niagara, for the dash and the plunge of these great torrents of life dropping down into the fathomless and thundering abyss of suffering and woe. I sometimes think that just as God blotted out the Church of Thyatira and Corinth and Laodicea, because of their sloth and stolidity, He will blot out American and English Chritianity, and raise on the ruins a stalwart, wide-awake, missionary Church, that can take the full meaning of that command: "Go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned."

I remark, further, if you want to succeed in Gospel hunting you must have courage. If the hunter stand with trembling hand or shoulder that flinches with fear, instead of his taking the catamount, the catamount takes him. What would become of the Greenlander if, when out hunting for bear, he should stand shivering with terror on an ice-berg? What would have become of Du Chaillu and Livingstone in the African thicket, with a faint heart and a week knee? When a panther comes within twenty paces of you, and it has its eye on you, and it has squatted for the fearful spring, "Steady there."

Courage, O ye spiritual hunters! There are great monsters of iniquity prowling all around about the community. Shall we not in the strength of God go forth and combat them? We not only need more heart, but more backbone. What is the church of God that it should fear to look in the eye any transgression? There is the Bengal tiger of drunkenness that prowls around, and instead of attacking it, how many of us hide under the church pew or the communion table? There is so much invested in it we are afraid to assault it; millions of dollars in barrels, in vats, in spigots, in corkscrews, in gin palaces with marble floors and Italian-top tables, and chased ice-coolers, and in the strychnine, and the logwood, and the tartaric acid, and the nux vomica, that go to make up our "pure" American drinks. I looked with wondering eyes on the "Heidelberg tun." It is the great liquor vat of Germany, which is said to hold eight hundred hogsheads of wine, and only three times in a hundred years has it been filled. But, as I looked at it I said to myself: "That is nothing—eight hundred hogsheads. Why, our American vat holds four million five hundred thousand barrels of strong drinks, and we keep three hundred thousand men with nothing to do but to see that it is filled." Oh, to attack this great monster of intemperance, and the kindred monsters of fraud and uncleanness, requires you to rally all your Chritians courage. Through the press, through the pulpit, through the platform, you must assault it. Would to God that all our American Christians would band together, not for crack-brained fanaticism, but for holy Christian reform. I think it was in 1793 that there went out from Lucknow, India, under the sovereign, the greatest hunting party that was ever projected. There were 10,000 armed men in that hunting party. There were camels, and horses, and elephants. On some, princes rode, and royal ladies, under exquisite housings, and five hundred coolies waited upon the train, and the desolate places of India were invaded by this excursion, and the rhinoceros, and deer, and elephant, fell under the stroke of the sabre and bullet. After a while the party brought back trophies worth fifty thousand rupees, having left the wilderness of India ghastly with the slain bodies of wild beasts. Would to God that instead of here and there a straggler going out to fight these great monsters of iniquity to our country, the million membership of our churches would band together and hew in twain these great crimes that make the land frightful with their roar, and are fattening upon the bodies and souls of immortal men. Who is ready for such a party as that?" Who will be a mighty hunter for the Lord.

I remark again: If you want to be successful in spiritual hunting, you need not only to bring down the game, but bring it in. I think one of the most beautiful pictures of Thorwaldsen is his "Autumn." It represents a sportsman coming home and standing under a grapevine. He has a staff over his shoulder, and on the other end of that staff are hung a rabbit and a brace of birds. Every hunter brings home the game. No one would think of bringing down a reindeer or whipping up a stream for trout, and letting them lie in the woods. At eventide the camp is adorned with the treasures of the forest—beak, and fin, and antler.

If you go out to hunt for immortal souls, not only bring them down under the arrow of the Gospel, but bring them into the Church of God, the grand home and encampment we have pitched this side the skies. Fetch them in, do not let them lie out in the open field. They need our prayers, and sympathies, and help. That is the meaning of the Church of God—help. Oh, ye hunters for the Lord! not only bring down the game, but bring it in.

If Mithridates liked hunting so well that for seven years he never went in-doors, what enthusiasm ought we to have who are hunting for immortal souls. If Domitian practiced archery until he could stand a boy down in the Roman amphitheatre, with a hand out, the fingers outstretched, and then the King could shoot an arrow between the fingers without wounding them, to what drill and what practice ought not we to subject ourselves in order to become spiritual archers and "mighty hunters before the Lord?" But let me say, your will never work any better than you pray. The old archers took the bow, put one end of it down beside the foot, elevated the other end, and it was the rule that the bow should be just the size of the archer; if it were just his size, then he would go into the battle with confidence. Let me say that your power to project good in the world will correspond exactly to your own spiritual stature. In other words, the first thing, in preparation for Christian work, is personal consecration.

> "Oh! for a closer walk with God,
> A calm and heavenly frame,
> A light to shine upon the road
> That leads me to the Lamb."

I am sure that there are some here who at some time have been hit by the Gospel arrow. You felt the wound of that conviction, and you plunged into the world deeper; just as the stag, when the hounds are after it, plunges into Scroon Lake, expecting in that way to escape. Jesus Christ is on your track to-day, impenitent man! not in wrath, but in mercy. Oh, ye chased and panting souls! here is the stream of God's mercy and salvation, where you may cool your thirst. Stop that chase of sin to-day. By the red fountain that leaped from the heart of my Lord, I bid you stop. There is mercy for you—mercy that pardons; that heals; everlasting mercy. Is there in all this house anyone who can refuse the offer that comes from the heart of the dying Son of God?

There is a forest in Germany, a place they call the "deer leap"—two crags about eighteen yards apart, between, a fearful chasm. This is called the "deer leap," because once a hunter was on the track of a deer; it came to one of these crags; there was no escape for it from the pursuit of the hunter, and in utter despair it gathered itself up, and in the death agony attempted to jump across. Of course, it fell, and was dashed on the rocks far beneath. Here is a path to heaven. It is plain; it is safe. Jesus marks it out for every man to walk in. But here is a man who says: "I won't walk in that path; I will take my own way." He comes on up until he confronts the chasm that divides his soul from heaven. Now, his last hour has come, and he resolves that he will leap that chasm, from the heights of earth to the heights of heaven. Stand back now, and give him full swing, for no soul ever did that successively. Let him try, Jump! Jump! He misses the mark, and he goes down, depth below depth, "destroyed without remedy." Men! angels! devils! what should we call that place of awful catastrophe? Let it be known for ever as "The Sinner's Death Leap."

It is said that when Charlemagne's host was overpowered by three armies of the Saracens in the Pass of Roncesvalles, his warrior, Roland, in terrible earnestness, seized a trumpet, and blew it with such terrific strength that the opposing army reeled back with terror; but at the third blast of the trumpet this instrument broke in two. I see your soul fiercely assailed by the powers of earth and hell. I put the mightier trumpet of the Gospel to my lips; and I blow it three times. Blast the first—"Whosoever will, let him come." Blast the Second—"Seek ye the Lord while He may be found. "Blast the third—"Now is the accepted time now is the day of salvation. "Does not the host of your sins fall back? But the trumpet does not, like that of Roland, break in two. As it was handed down to us from the lips of our fathers, we hand it down to the lips of our children, and tell them to sound it when we are dead, that all the generations of men may know that our God is a pardoning God, a sympathetic God, a loving God; and that more to Him than the anthems of heaven, more to Him than the throne on which he sits, more to Him than are the temples of celestial worship, is the joy of seeing the wanderer putting his hand on the door-latch of his Father's house. Hear it, all ye nations! Bread for the worst hunger. Medicine for the worst sickness. Light for the thickest darkness. Harbor from the worst storm.

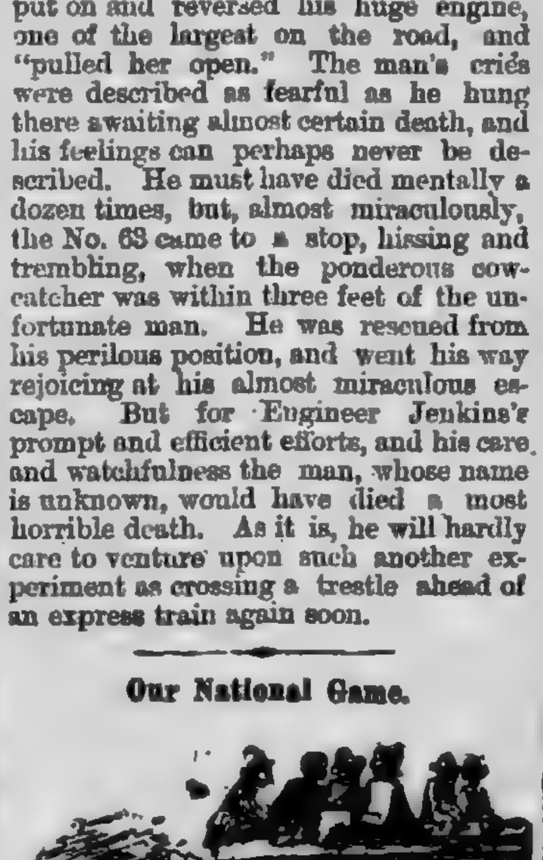
Dr. Prime, in his book of wonderful interest entitled "Around the World," describes a tomb in India of marvelous architecture. Twenty thousand men were twenty-two years in erecting that and the buildings around it. Standing at that tomb, if you speak or sing, after you have ceased you hear the echo coming from a height of 150 feet. It is not like other echoes. The sound is drawn out in sweet prolongation, as though the angels of God were chanting on the wing.

How many souls here to-day, in the tomb of sin, will lift up the voice of penitence and prayer? If now they would cry unto God, the echo would drop from afar—not struck from the marble cupola of an earthly mausoleum, but sounding back from the warm heart of angels, flying with the news; for there is joy among the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth.

Literally Out of the Jaws of Death.

The Savannah News says: The New Orleans express, leaving here at 1.47 p. m., on Wednesday, was running along at the rate of forty miles an hour, between Cairo and Whigham, when the engineer (Jenkins, locomotive 63) on approaching Big Tide Creek, discovered a man making his way over the trestle-work. Finding that he would not have time to get across ahead of the swiftly approaching train, the man, a large, stout individual, endeavored to drop between the ties so as to hold on by his hands while the train should pass over him. To the horror of the engineer, however, the man caught by the waist and hung there between the rails with his head and shoulders sticking up, an object of certain destruction if the train should strike him. Engineer Jenkins sprang off his seat, jammed the air-brakes down as tightly as the could be put on and reversed his huge engine, one of the largest on the road, and "pulled her open." The man's cries were described as fearful as he hung there awaiting almost certain death, and his feelings can perhaps never be described. He must have died mentally a dozen times, but, almost miraculously, the No. 63 came to a stop, hissing and trembling, when the ponderous cow-catcher was within three feet of the unfortunate man. He was rescued from his perilous position, and went his way rejoicing at his almost miraculous escape. But for Engineer Jenkins's prompt and efficient efforts, and his care and watchfulness the man, whose name is unknown, would have died a most horrible death. As it is, he will hardly care to venture upon such another experiment as crossing a trestle ahead of an express train again soon.

Our National Game.



"Hi! Jimmy, come here, quick, or you'll miss the fun. The've knocked a ball clean through a man, an' he's a-lyin' on the ground in convulsions!"—Life.

SOME DAY.

Some day I shall be dead;
Some day this tired head,
With all the anxious thoughts it now doth know,
Shall be laid low.

This body, pain-racked, ill,
Shall lie at length, and still,
Under the clover and the wind-swept grass,
Nor hear you pass.

That were indeed strange sleep:
When—even you—might weep
And come and go—even you—unheard of me
As bird or bee!

Nay, sweetheart, nay!—believe
There is no cause to grieve;
One so wayworn, so sore opprest,
Is glad to rest.

Perchance when that release
Hath wrought its spell of peace,
O'er this unquiet heart long vex'd with woe—
Hearts-ease may grow.

Who loves me will not weep
When that I lie asleep,
But rather joy to think such sorrow may Have end some day.

—Helen Hunt.

TRUE AS STEEL.

"I do wonder why those little savages are allowed to make a coasting hill of the public highway!" grumbled an uncommonly pretty girl, as she hesitated in great perturbation half way up the improvised slide mentioned.

It was an irregular and rather precipitous cross street of a suburban village. It was treacherously icy and swarming with juvenile coasters, one of whom had carried a strip of silken ruby flounce with him as he darted past her.

"It is quite too bad! and my very nicest dress, too," she complained, mentally, as she stopped to draw back and pin together the damaged bit of drapery.

In the annoyance of the moment she did not reflect that something more unpleasant was quite possible if she were not vigilant.

She was quite too engrossed to hear boyish shouts of warning in the road above her, or to see an agile figure that was springing affrightedly toward her.

A big sled, freighted with half a dozen reckless urchins, had started down the tempting descent; on the glassy track it had become partly unmanageable; in a second more it would be upon her unless she heed those warning shouts or a miracle interposed to save her.

Before she really had time to comprehend her peril or understand the sudden, shrill vociferation, there was a wild whirring in the air and a tingling shock, and the next instant she felt herself violently whirled aside by a strong arm which had seized her as the sled flew past.

The agile figure of a manly pedestrian, whose affrighted gestures she had not noticed, had flung himself between her and death, or worse, and she was safe.

As she struggled to her feet a cry of gratitude and pity quivered from her startled lips.

She fully realized what her peril had been and her pity was for her handsome rescuer, who was lying stunned and bruised and bleeding before her.

"Oh, what can I say to you?—what can I do?" she faltered, in a distressing voice, as she bent over him.

His handsome features were alarmingly pallid, and there were tiny drops of warm red blood staining the frozen snow which pillowed his fallen head.

But the bright dark eyes unclosed with a flashing smile which was delightfully tranquilizing.

"Say only that I have made a charming friend," he smiled, as with a wince of pain he uplifted himself to a sitting posture. "I am not badly hurt. I have a surface gash on my cheek, I think, and I have a notion there is a sprained limb. I shall not be able to get to my destination—that's certain." he added, as he made an heroic attempt to stand upright, only to sink back again with a suppressed groan.

Just then the big sled was hauled back up the street, the reckless coasters all penitent and terrified, and eager to render every service.

A helpful idea brightened the girl's anxious face.

"It would be an hour before proper assistance could be brought to you here," she said, in her quick, sweet, girlish voice. "But there is a dear, motherly old lady living in that little cottage at the top of the hill. Let the boys put you on the sled and take you up to her. She is my friend and she will do whatever I wish."

And so a few minutes later the injured young gentleman was snugly ensconced on a cosey lounge of the cosey little cottage and a physician had been sent for.

"Ah, you will be all right again in a few days," the doctor said, cheerfully, "only you must keep yourself perfectly quiet, and not try to exert yourself in any way."

"I can reconcile myself to the situation easily if you will promise to cheer my imprisonment occasionally," the gentleman said, with one of his flashing smiles toward the pretty girl, who readily promised what he seemed so eagerly to desire.

And that was the beginning of pretty Dorinda Grey's acquaintance with the handsome young stranger whom she had exalted to a hero—a king among men.

He had done only what any other man would have done in similar circumstances. He had simply snatched her away from the track of the flying sled. He had perceived no risk to himself, no sacrifice; he had been safely beyond any collision with the coaster—it was his own awkward stumble on the treacherously glassy incline which had caused his mishap. The peril was over when he had slipped upon one of his heels and fallen. It might have happened just the same even if he had not hastened gallantly to the rescue of a distractingly pretty girl.

But there were trifling little truths which he did not deem absolutely necessary to reveal. It was too pleasant to pose as a wounded hero, and to have his temporary confinement enlivened by the visits of his graceful and interesting new acquaintance. For his own sake he preferred not to spoil her little illusions on the subject.

And so Dorinda went homeward, taking with her the image of an elegant figure and handsome countenance of a fascinating young stranger, whose tones were like music, whose smile was like a flash of sunlight, whose brilliant black eyes had gazed admiringly, almost tenderly, into her own.

Her own great brown eyes were bright as stars, her cheeks flushed with a curiously wavering rose tint, as she at length entered the fine old yellow stone mansion at the further end of the village street.

"What on earth has kept you so long, Dodo?" queried a tall and stately young lady in an elegant morning dress of Sevres blue satin. "Did they have the kind of pacha braid I wanted at the store?—or did you forget your errand, and stay all this time gossiping with that simple old Mrs. Merron?"

The rose tint deepened to crimson on Dodo's pretty cheeks, but she did not choose to explain what had deterred her at Mrs. Merron's cottage on the hill.

"I couldn't get the braid, Greta; they don't keep it," she answered. "It is a bonnet braid, anyhow, and that wouldn't do for your dress."

"A bonnet braid! dear me! How stupid a dressmaker can be!" Gretchen exclaimed, impatiently. "But if she will only have the dress finished somehow by the time Mr. Lestrange gets here I won't grumble about minor blunders. And now, Dodo, do be obliging and help me with the trimmings of the ancient ball gown."

"It is too ancient to be rejuvenized, Greta; it ought to be replaced by a new gown altogether," said Dodo, looking with decided resistance at the task suggested.

"It depends on you, Dodo, whether we, any of us, ever have anything new again," sighed a faded little woman from her invalid chair before the fire.

Dodo looked distressed, and all the lovely color suddenly paled from her pretty cheeks.

"Oh, aunty, how does it depend on me!" she faltered, although she guessed what the allusion meant.

* * * * * * *

"I think you will never quite forget the hours which we have passed together here," he said, with seemingly a regretful glance around the room, and at motherly Mrs. Merron, asleep over her knitting before the fire. "They have been hours to be remembered by both of us."

He had bent over her until his dark mustache brushed her forehead; he had clasped both her hands. There was the tenderest significance in his musical tones; the fascination of what seemed tenderest love glowed in the brilliant eyes.

Dodo trembled. She had made him her hero undoubtedly; but in that instant her whole being recoiled from him. Why, she could not have explained; she only know she was aroused somehow to a true knowledge of her own feelings. He had charmed her fancies for the moment, perhaps, but no love—sweet and supreme—would ever thrill her soul for him.

"I ought to have gone before," he continued, uneasily, as if he were dreading some reproach from Dodo herself. "But I was hardly presentable with a puffed and purple bruise decorating a goodly half of my countenance. And my destination is nearer than you guessed, Dodo; my dear little girl, you and I are to meet again, and often."

Dodo noticed the uneasiness of his tones, his entire changed expression, and with a sudden quick instinct she grasped the truth.

You are—are—Mr. Lestrange?" she grasped, with a strange look in her big brown eyes. "You are my cousin Greta's promised husband."

He bowed in a manner so conscious and embarrassed that all Dodo's honest little soul arose to hot indignation against him.

He was no longer a hero in her sight. He was an insincere, shallow trifler, who had amused himself with her simple blushes at his practiced flattery.

Such sublime audacity, such consummate falsity, stunned her. With a look of withering scorn she turned and left him in utter digust.

"I pity Greta, cross and selfish as she is," Dodo thought, as she went slowly up the steps of the old yellow stone mansion.

As she entered the pleasant family sitting-room Greta pressed rudely and sullenly past her and tripped up the stairs.

Mrs. Gray was weeping almost convulsively in her invalid chair before the fire.

"What has happened, aunty?" the girl queried, anxiously and affectionately.

Dodo was sincerely attached to her invalid aunt, whose trials had, indeed, been many and grievous.

"It is that mortgage," was the piteous answer. "There is to be an immediate foreclosure. We shall be absolutely homeless; there won't be $100 left after the sale. I don't care for myself, nor so much on Greta's account—she can earn her own living if she chooses; but there are the poor children—Tommy and Willy! What will become of them?"

Dodo stopped and kissed her aunt in gentle sympathy, but she was silent.

"Dodo, I can't ask you to do anything that might make you unhappy," the weeping woman resumed, "and it seems cruel to remind you that I have been like a mother to you. But, my dear, if you only would consider everything and then decide to do what I would like. And David is waiting for you, dear. He is in the parlor now."

Dodo's pretty face flushed with a sudden sense of her own lack of feeling for others. She had not considered everything as she might have done—that was certain.

Mrs. Grey had indeed been like a mother to her. In her orphaned and penniless childhood she had been taken into the family as one of their own. She had shared and shared alike with them in everything; no hint of her dependence had ever been permitted to pain her. Even the selfish and sometimes disagreeable Greta had treated her entirely as a sister. And when the dear, kind uncle left them she mourned him as one who had been to her like an indulgent father.

The flush had vanished from her pretty cheeks; her face was pale and her large brown eyes very serious as she opened the parlor door and advanced rather timidly toward the gentleman waiting for her.

The serious eyes dropped and her voice choked as she glanced at the earnest face and fine Saxon-looking figure of her patient, true, old lover.

How could she have tried to shut her foolish heart against the love of one all noble and loyal ever she wondered.

But she meant to be frank with him; she would confess all her folly—she would even tell him about that dreadful mortgage, and then, if he loved her no longer, she could not blame him.

He misinterpreted the agitation of the pale face, and checked the confession before it was begun.

"I am not here to hurry your answer, Dodo!" he said very gently. "You shall have your own time about that, my darling. I have come on quite a different errand. I have just learned that your aunt has been threatened with some financial trouble, and I have ventured to adjust the matter by buying the mortgage. I know how hard it would be for her to give up her old home, and how hard it would be for you to see her in such distress when she has always been such a good mother to you. And so I just took the affair in my own hands and her trouble is ended. Why, Dodo, my little love, what is this?" he finished in surprise.

For Dodo had suddenly flung herself face downward on the sofa, and was crying as if her heart would break.

"And it was the mortgage which had come between you and me, David," she cried, with a nervous laugh mingling with the sound of tears." I wouldn't marry you just because poor aunty wanted your help about it, and I tried to hate you, and——"

"And you couldn't," he interrupted, in a voice shaken with its sudden deep gladness, as he took her in his arms and kissed the wet eyes and quivering lips.

And so David Carlyon won his bride."

Greta became eventually the wife of her elegant Mr. Lestrange, and regards herself as the most fortunate of women. —New York Journal.

Riding the Stang.

In the Counties of Surrey and Sussex, when it was known that a man was in the habit of beating the partner of his joys and sorrows, some chaff from the thrashing floor was sprinkled in front of his house at night. If the hint, which was well understood, had not the desired effect, all the cow horns, frying pans and old kettles in the village were pressed into service, and the offender serenaded. Between the pauses in the music the following song was sung:

> There is a man in this place
> Has beat his wife, has beat his wife;
> It is a very great shame and disgrace
> To all who live in this place—
> It is, indeed, upon my life.

This invariably produced the desired effect. But where the offender was too hardened, a severe drubbing was administered by the village dames on a dark night, and in a convenient place. In the Ahr-thal, Switzerland, the peasantry get up a "Thierjagen," or wild-beast hunt, comprising a frightful screeching of rough music, when a man is known to have beaten his wife. In many parts of rural England, Scotland and Wales a curious Saxon custom formerly prevailed, called "Riding the stang," or "Skimmington riding." In some places the stang was a wooden horse, and in others a simple pole. When a man was known to be under petticoat government, or when a shrew was known to have belabored her spouse, a number of villagers would procure a wooden horse or a long pole, astride which, willing or unwilling, a man was placed and carried around the village. A halt was called before the door of the "vixen," and some doggerel lines were recited, after which, with a loud shout of derision and indignation, the party would salute the mortified inmates, and, unless a trifle of money was handed over, the annoyance would continue for some time. There is, in Llandderfel Church, North Wales, one of these "stangs," in the shape of a nondescript animal. One of the guide books says that this piece of wood has a place of honor in the pretty church recently restored, and was used for the purpose of frightening married couples who did not live together according to the orthodox Darby-and-Joan fashion. The horse was ridden to the doors mounted on men's shoulders, when a sort of dialogue was gone through, scarcely complimentary to the inmates of the house.—All the Year Round.

Gypsy Horse Dealers.

The main dependence of American gypsies is upon horse trading and dealing, says an article on the nomad tribes in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Every gypsy man, woman and child is a master of horse lore and horse care and horsemanship. A lad of twelve, or lass of fifteen, is a trader, a jockey and a veterinarian. A large number of animals besides those in actual use always accompany the band. These are traded, sold or their number added to at a moment's notice. Of the keenness, cunning and wonderful proficiency of this race in horse care, trading and dealing, I could relate innumerable incidents. But it is an interesting general fact in this regard, that gypsies are gradually taking the place of all others as middlemen between the farmers of our country and our final markets. Nearly all the draft horses used in our large cities are gathered together by gypsies from farmers in straits for money, cared for a little time, got into excellent form and training, and then sent to the city dealers, who, supposed to belong to other races, are gypsies themselves. Not only is the famous Tattersall of London, who furnishes nearly all the nobility of England with thoroughbred studs, a gypsy, but three of the largest horse markets in this country, in Boston, New York and Washington, are owned and conducted by gypsies, while in the smaller cities of the country these patient, quiet people are gradually securing property with livery and sales stables attached, to which the thousands upon thousands of animals secured during the summer wanderings are shipped. Every one of these animals is purchased for the lowest and sold at the highest possible price. The gypsy is welcomed by the farmer, for the farmer always needs and the gypsy always has money, while the city is becoming more and more used to relying on gypsy selected animals. For, while in a jockeying tourney the gypsy will perform some marvelous swindles, in legitimate purchases and sales his word and guarantee are sacred and inviolable.

The municipal authorities of Metz, and the poorhouse, savings bank and hospital officials there, have been ordered to use the German language in their intercourse with the public.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 21, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Sun strokes in the northern cities were frequent last week.

A branch of the Salvation Army is permanently located in Montgomery, where it will have hard work before it.

The Birmingham Age is now published every day in the week. The Age and the Montgomery Dispatch are the only papers in the State published on Monday.

The hot weather of last week sent the death rate up to an alarming extent in New York city. Children in tenement houses were killed off in droves. In three days 473 deaths were registered.

The father of Maj. J. G. Harris, Register of the U. S. Land office in Montgomery, died at his home in Akron, Ala., last week. He was ninety-three years of age. We hope the Major's life may be so prolonged and made as useful in the future as it has been and is.

It was reported last week through the Associated Press that the Knights of Labor are disintegrating in New York and other Eastern States because of the adoption by the national assembly of an objectionable constitution for the government of the order.

The Watchman says: For all the use it is put to, the guard house in Greensboro might as well not be in existence. "It has been months since any one was locked up in it. And as for a case before the Mayor, such a thing has not been heard of more than once or twice this year. This speaks well for Greensboro.

It also speaks well for prohibition does it not?

Jeff. Davis is again before the public with another harsh letter about an attempt to assassinate him by Federal authorities during the civil war. Mr. Davis thus continues to play into the hands of John Sherman and other Northern politicians by furnishing all material necessary for their bloody shirt oratory.

Duke Campbell, son of Judge G. D. Campbell, of Scottsboro, was assassinated on the night of the 17th inst., by being struck in the head with an axe while asleep in his father's house. It is thought that the assassin was either a negro or a white man with his face blacked. No cause can be assigned for the deed.

In writing up the Press banquet at Birmingham, the Ashville Ægis hunted up the derivation of the word "editor," and found that it comes from the "Latin verb edo, meaning 'to eat,' hence edo edito, edor editor; 'one who eats and drinks.'" And now we know what's been the matter with us all the time. Thanks; go ahead.—Eutaw Mirror.

It has been decided to remove Howard College from Marion by the Baptist State Convention recently in session at Union Springs. The Montgomery Advertiser suggests the establishment of a female university at Marion if the use of the Howard's buildings and grounds can be had for the purpose. It is not yet known where the Howard will be located, both Birmingham and Anniston being lively bidders for its location, with lands and cash as the inducements offered. For the good of the college, we would like to see Anniston's bid the successful one, though should such be the case it is probable that Birmingham would establish a college and "flock" off by herself, as she seems to have a college fever just now. The convention appointed a committee to investigate and with full power to act upon the bids in the removal of the college.

One of the worst and most desperate convicts in the state escaped from the brick yard of Gafford & Jackson, six miles north of the city, (Birmingham) yesterday morning, but was captured a few hours later, after an exciting chase with blood hounds. The convict is a negro named Henry Williams, and is from Chilton county. About two years ago he was convicted of murder and sent to Pratt Mines for eighteen years. Soon after reaching Pratt Mines he succeeded in making his escape, and going back to Chilton county, killed the prosecuting witness against him at his first trial. He then made his way to Mobile and secured employment on a vessel bound for Liverpool. Soon after reaching England he determined to return to Ala., and again worked his passage on a vessel. When he landed at Mobile he was sick and was sent to a hospital there, was recognized and betrayed by a colored man who knew him in Chilton county. When Williams was returned to the convict camp, he was sent to Jackson's rock quarry at Blount Springs. His escape yesterday morning was a daring one. The convicts were let out of the stockade and sent to a branch in the yard to wash for breakfast. One of the guards was a little slow in getting out and Williams, seeing that one end of the yard was unguarded, made a dash for liberty and succeeded in reaching the woods.—Daily Age.

Important to Homesteaders.

Montgomery, July 8.—A great many persons desiring to make homestead and pre-emption entries visit the Land Office, at Montgomery for the purpose, without first informing themselves of the numbers and description of the land they wish to enter. In such instances the parties are often delayed, or have to return home, and make a second trip to the Land Office before making their entries. All this delay and expense would be obviated if people, who want to make entries, would take the precaution to secure a correct discription of the land they desire to enter and bring it with them to the Land Office. Let all persons coming to the Land Office to make entries, remember that they must bring the numbers of the land with them, as the officers and clerks are not expected or required to examine the records—to hunt up vacant lands for parties. Don't forget this. When you read this, call your neighbors attention to it, so it may save much annoyance and expense. Always present your numbers and no trouble can arise.

The inspector of this division authorizes and directs the publication of the above.

J. G. Harris, Register.

The Farmers' Alliance.

The Farmers' Alliance is based largely on the principles of co-operation, which has been tried with such great success in England. Its aims, however, are much more ambitious than those of the English co-operative societies. It has, or is to have, its exchanges in Waco, Little Rock, Vicksburg, Shreveport, and a general exchange in New Orleans, if this can be arranged; its factories and mills at Marble Falls, in Texas, where immense water power has been purchased and where a town is to be laid off, with every municipal advantage; its newspaper devoted to agricultural interests, and, in fact, everything required to carry on business.

The Alliance seeks to escape the burden of the middlemen. It will sell the cotton of its members, not in the present picayune style, one member selling three and another four bales, but by the thousands and hundreds of thousands of bales. It expects to save millions by purchasing its agricultural implements in large quantities instead of a few at a time; and it proposes in this and other ways to save the farmers of the country an immense amount now lost in the present system of conducting business and of buying and selling.

The scheme is, of course, an experiment, but the Texas farmers go into it with great enthusiasm and are confident of success. It remains to be seen whether it will be satisfactory in all its operations or not. The success of the co-operation movement in England ought to encourage it, although, as we have said, the scheme of the Farmers' Alliance is much more ambitious than anything ever tried before. It cannot be denied that the agricultural interests of the country have at times been victimized by railroads and others. The Grange and various other movements were originated to set right the evils of which they complained, and some good has been accomplished by them. It must be said of the Alliance that it starts out most auspiciously, and is well backed by the farmers of Texas and many in Louisiana, Arkansas and neighboring States. It declares that it has no desire to antagonize or injure other interests, and does not intend to do so. It will do well to adhere strictly to this policy. It has undertaken an immense task as it is, and any conflict or quarrel with others will endanger its success.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Why Boys Should Not be Snubbed.

Don't snub a boy because he wears shabby clothes. When Edison, the inventor of the telephone, first entered Boston, he wore a pair of yellow linen breeches in the depth of winter.

Don't snub a boy because his home is plain and unpretending. Abraham Lincon's early home was a log cabin.

Don't snub a boy because of a dullness in his lessons. Hogarth, the celebrated painter and engraver, was a stupid boy at his books.

Don't snub a boy because of the ignorance of his parents. Shakespear, the world's poet, was the son of a man who was unable to write his own name.

Don't snub a boy because he chooses an humble trade. The author of the "Pilgrim's Progress" was a tinker.

Don't snub a boy because of physical disability. Milton was blind.

Don't snub a boy because he stutters. Demosthenes, the great orator of Greece, over came a harsh and stammering voice.—Ex.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

We are needing rain very much. Crops are drying up and the roads are getting very dusty.

The young people enjoyed a sociable last Thursday at the residence of Mrs. Glover.

Only one of our "colored cusins" took advantage of the Birmingham excursion.

Mr. James Coleman was the only gentleman from this place that went to the encampment at Selma. We think Jim gave it his undivided attention while there, judging from the description he gave us of it.

We were glad to shake Mr. Douthit's hand last week; the hand that has handled so many goods, and hear the tongue rattle that has licked so many stamps and envelopes.

Our "colored cusins" in Jack's town were bothered very much with flees at their church, so they spread pine straw under the house and set fire to it to burn out the flees; it made a clean sweep of things, the house being reduced to ashes.

DUNCE.

As regards advertisements the public cares not for their oratorical elegance, nor for the geometry, how long they may be, nor for their arithmetic, how many they may be, but the grand requisite is truth. On this foundation is built the reputation of Whites Cream Vermifuge, and the manufacturers assert only simple truth in saying this remedy will expel worms largely.

Verbena Farm Notes.

Farming interests were once in a hopeful condition; but owing to the continued drought in this immediate vicinity, corn is cut off considerably with most farmers; but when one drives through the lane from Pratt's Saw Mill to Verbena and after noticing the beautiful elms on either side of it, until coming in close proximity to Maj. Gibson's corn all the charms of the elms cease, and one thinks that corn the best that this section ever made, especially those familiar with the unsightly appearance that plot of ground once had, but the Major has succeeded by his indomitable energy in driving back the natives, which consisted of all the huge reptiles and animals that are incident to this latitude, and now has one of the most beautiful farms near Verbena. The Major has also a fine scuppernong grape arbor which will doubtless produce a thousand gallons of wine. In addition he has a fine herd of blooded cattle.

Space would fail us in telling you what all our good farmers are doing; but we will say a word or two for a few of them, trusting the others will not feel slighted by omission.

Col. B. J. Baldwin has the best cotton of this section. Mr. Louis Jones has the watermelons. Mr. W. B. Strock is one of our brag farmers, and has a fine prospect for making plenty and to spare. On the whole, the indications are that plenty will be made.

K.

It is a serious mistake not to alleviate all that needs alleviation as far as lies within our power. If you have a friend suffering with Piles whisper in his ear that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment not only alleviates but positively cures that disease. We wager that he will not stand upon the order of his going but will go at once for Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment.

Stanton Puffs.

The weather is very warm and we sigh for the gentle breeze.

The new boiler for the G. & C. saw mill, to replace the bursted one, has arrived and will be put in place at once.

The colored people had a picnic near Howison last Saturday. They had plenty to eat and enjoyed themselves by dancing.

A colored man was brought before A. A. Dyer, Esq., charged with stealing a hog. He was found guilty and in default of bail was sent to the county jail.

Mr. C. W. Plant has presented the Methodist church with a lot on which to build their house of worship.

Strangers are often seen in our village by your correspondent, but he fails to discover from whence they come and who they are.

The G. & C. L. Co. are building a new railroad bridge across Mulberry creek. Mr. M. Ramsey is superintending the work.

Mr. G. L. Rosenberger, from Selma, has pitched his tent in our village and is ready to take photographs.

Please remind your readers that the Unity Associational S. S. Convention meets at Randolph, Bibb Co., on Wednesday before the first Sunday in August.

89.

Dixie Dots.

Mr. B. P. Britt, of Plantersville, and Mr. T. J. McGee, of Selma, paid us a short visit last Sunday.

Capt. T. D. Parnell is now occupying his new dwelling on Main street in this city.

Crops in this neighborhood are far better than for many years past.

The office at Howison Station has been discontinued, and the business of that office has been transferred to the Dixie office.

Mrs. E. G. Adams and children who have been visiting relatives in Mobile, have returned to their home in this place.

Miss Leila Macon, one of Verbena's most lovely belles, is visiting Miss Virgie Smith, of this place.

Madame rumor has it, that there will be a marriage in high life, near this place, in the near future.

The new saw mill of Messrs. W. L. Parnell & Co., will be steamed up on, or about, Monday, July 25th.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Oscar Broadhead is quite sick at his home in in this place, but hope soon to see him up again.

Our "dude" reports having a nice time last Sunday eve; says he met 40 girls and one boy.

Our town is lighted up every night with a real street lamp, which adds very much to its appearance.

KID.

Bijou Sees Verbena.

We found Verbena in all her beauty and glory. Nature has given this place the charms of green hills, luxuriant shrubbery and flowing streams that please the eye of the weary traveler. Kind friends greeted us, and extended the hospitalities of their homes.

We found all the indications of a live town. Merchants were carrying full stocks and clerks had something to do. Verbena business men take a pride in the appearance of their stores and make them attractive. A little more advertising by the merchants, we think, is all that is necessary to make this town the commercial centre of the county.

The Clifton House has about forty boarders. The greater number of these are Montgomerians who are here for the summer. This is the finest house between Montgomery and Birmingham.

The cottages and residences immediately on the adjacent hills are neat, comfortable and we might almost say palatial. They give the visitors the impressions of a thrifty town.

The two church buildings are neat structures, and give evidence of the morality and refinement of the citizens.

This is a solid prohibition town.

The Verbena Academy is a school of high standing. The Board of Trustees are making efforts to get an able successor to Prof. Acree, the late principal.

The health of the town is excellent. They have enough leisure to enjoy life.

The Detroit Free Press man failed to stop and write up the town and its resources. He would have found enough interesting material to repay his efforts. The mineral resources of the country just east of here, we believe, will some day be developed. The finest mica we have seen can be found there. Iron copper and other minerals can be obtained.

The farm lands are good and are accessible to ready markets.

This is a fine country for dairy and stock farming. This branch of industry is now attracting considerable attention.

Verbena has never tried to get up a boom, but is moving steadily on. If the road from Atlanta to Selma crosses the L. & N. at this point it will add materially to the development of this section by making the town a centre of travel and affording facilities of fast transportation to the principal cities of the South.

BIJOU.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

A gentleman who had been afflicted with piles for years and vainly sought relief in many lands, was told by a friend that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment will surely find speedy and permanent relief.

Final Settlement.

STATE OF ALABAMA, CHILTON CO.
Probate Court, July 5th, 1887.
Estate of Richard Fraser, Deceased.

This day came John M. Fraser, the administrator of said estate, and filed his statement, accounts, vouchers and evidences for final settlement of his administration. It is ordered that the 8th day of August, 1887, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest said settlement if they think proper.

H. J. CALLEN,
jul14 Probate Judge Chilton Co.

NOTICE NO. 6477.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 13, 1887. }

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on August 20th, 1887, viz: Walter H. Jones, Homestead 12073 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ and n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 24, township 23, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Marcus, William H. Marcus, Marion H. Marcus, and Jesse A. Maddox, all of Jumbo, Ala.

jul14* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
June 18, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on August 6, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Nichols Homestead 14785 for the e ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼ and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ section 4, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, Robt. W. Gandy, Daniel H. Mitchell, Joe C. Tucker, all of Dixie, Ala.

jun23 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.
I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
200 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo.
CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE
HEADACHE.
Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.
MALARIAL FEVER.
A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.
BILIOUS COLIC.
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.
DIARRHŒA or FLUX.
Flux, Diarrhea, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.
☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun30-y

L & N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,
And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all
NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
(3) Louisville, Ky.

THE CHICAGO
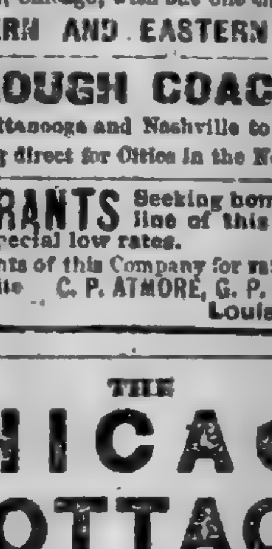
COTTAGE
ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.



These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chas Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Otori, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.
WILSON HOUSE.
COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Prohibition district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.
Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 21, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

We had a good rain Tuesday night.

If you have friends visiting you let us know it.

Two new organs for sale cheap. Apply at this office.

Mrs. Barber, of Selma, visited relatives in Clanton last week.

We think our thermometer almost reached "sheol" this week.

We are glad to hear from our Dixie correspondent again this week.

Wanted—some one to fan us while we set type. Compensation—good company.

Misses Mamie and Ada Marsh, of Birmingham, have been visiting friends in Clanton.

The four room mansion of the junior editor has undergone some improvements recently.

Mr. L. Graham, of Calera, was in Clanton Monday in the interest of the Calera shoe factory.

Call at Mrs. Butler's store if you want fresh lemons and first class groceries and confectioneries.

Several of our merchants have made their stores more attractive by having new signs painted.

Mr. Felix Ashley, now of Birmingham, spent several days at his home in this place this week.

What was left of our court house fence still stands in unbecoming posture as an evidence of our conservatism.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

We would be glad to hear from our Verbena friend "K" often. We all want to know about the farming interests.

Col. J. M. Falkner, of Montgomery, and Miss Lizzie Cameron, of Mountain Creek, were married on Tuesday. May happiness be their lot.

Mr. R. Ehrman will go into the mercantile business at this place again. His stock of goods will be opened about the midde of next month.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Mr. H. C. Thornton and family who have been living at this place for the past twelve months have moved to Lincoln, Ala. We regret very much their removal.

See the new advertisement of the Birmingham Paint, Glass & Wall Paper Co., in another column and send them your orders when in need of paints, glass or wall paper.

Mrs. S. J. Brock, of Birmingham, stopped off in Clanton with her father's family one day last week while en route to Lowndes county where she has gone to visit relatives.

Sampey's Corner.

I have just received a lot of new goods suitable for summer wear. Also a fresh lot of canned goods, tea, chocolate, &c. Those table peaches and pears are as nice as the fresh fruit from the trees. Flour still sells at reasonable prices and coffee is coming down to more reasonable figures. A good stock of shirts just received.

The Need of Speedy Justice.

The negro Floyd Kinneybrew who died in jail at this place last week was at the time of his arrest a very large, strong, healthy man. He was arrested on a charge of rape and given a preliminary hearing before Judge Callen and was committed to jail we suppose without bail or if bail was allowed him he failed to make it and at the following term of our circuit court he failed to get a trial and was again committed to jail. At one time all the witnesses were on hand, so we are informed yet he failed to get a trial. And from the close confinement in his prison cell for over twelve months he gradually wasted away and died last week almost a skeleton. His condition was not brought about from any neglect by the officer in whose charge he was but mainly on account of close confinement and want of exercise. He made his escape from jail one morning recently by getting possession of some keys but being too weak to run was quickly caught and again placed in his cell to die for physicians had said that he would never live to be at his trial if his case was ever reached.

We do not know that this state of affairs could have been avoided, yet it is awful to contemplate the fact that a man has been kept in confinement until he dies, who may have been innocent of the crime for which he was imprisoned. Kinneybrew may have been guilty as charged, but we have heard many say that they did not believe him guilty. If he was innocent who is held accountable for his death?

The courts of the country should have sufficient time in which to give persons who are held as prisoners a hearing at the first opportunity and have their cases decided and not let them die in jail while awaiting trial.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

A runaway accident on main street last Friday came near resulting very seriously. Mr. W. H. Lawrence and a young lady relative were out driving. A very bad place in the road just at the foot of a hill caused the buggy to lurch so much to one side as to throw Mr. L. out. He fell between the wheels and the hind wheel of the vehicle passed over his body but he was not hurt. The young lady was not so fortunate, and after the frightened animal had run some distance she fainted and fell out upon her face sustaining a slight cut on her forehead and a few other scratches on the side of her face. A very narrow escape for both occupants. The vehicle was "wrecked."

The Hot Well.

Dr. Massey has just returned from a business trip to Rockford, and proposes to begin work on the Hot Well hotel at once. He gave us another pointer of equal importance. He says he will order a pump and pump the water out of the well. He will announce the arrival of the pump and the time of placing it at work so that the general public may have an opportunity to investigate should it so desire. He means business, and we hope he will satisfy the doubters yet.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

Resignation.

I this day tender my resignation as intendant for the town of Clanton. I find after investigating the law passed by our last Legislator in regard to the government of our town that there were such restrictions thrown around me that would prevent a discharge of my duties to the interest of the town. I therefore feel it my duty to resign.

Respectfully,
J. M. PONDER.

The air of late has been so much like the atmosphere around "hades" that it has about killed out church entertainments. So says our "devil."

A barbecue at Mr. J. F. Maull's saw mill on last Saturday was well attended by Clantonians who reported a fine time. The VIEW had expected to be represented but unavoidable circumstances prevented it. Our vehicle for transporting us thither was smashed up in a runaway scrape the evening before.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-headache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

Young men who desire a business education should take advantage of the dull summer months to prepare themselves for the busy fall season. We have two scholarships in excellent Commercial Colleges and will sell them to any one who wishes to take such a course of studies, at a very low price. Call on us for further particulars.

Miss Jennie Wilson, of Maplesville, who has been attending Prof. Hicks' school in Clanton is now employed as an assistant by Mrs. B. J. Matthews, wife of Dr. E. A. Matthews, of Lily P. O., who has a flourishing school of more than seventy pupils at Evergreen church in Autauga Co.

Died—At her home in this place, on the morning of the 19th inst., Mrs. F. J. Davis. Her death was a very sudden and unexpected one. She leaves a husband, several children and numerous relatives to mourn her loss. The VIEW extends its sympathy to the bereaved ones.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

A difficulty occurred near Clanton on last Sunday afternoon between Mr. Hays Hunt and Terry Frazer. Hunt received a cut in his left side about four inches long from a knife in the hands of Frazer. The trouble grew out of a dispute over a chicken fight, so we are told. Mr. Hunt's injuries are not serious.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

Messrs. Davis & Brock, and Wilson & Kicker, two of Birmingham's lumber firms composed of Clanton young men have closed out their business in the "Magic City" and will seek their fortunes elsewhere. If Clanton only had a few manufacturing enterprises, such as a furniture factory, a sash, door and blind factory, a spoke and handle factory, a few brick yards and other numerous industries that would pay well here she could keep her young men at home to help swell her tide of progress.

The world is full of shams, but there is no sham about White's Cream Vermifuge, a preparation intended for the benefit of children suffering with worms. We could show many testimonials of its efficacy. It is largely used and the good it has accomplished cannot be estimated. Look to the health of your children, rid them of worms by using White's Cream Vermifuge.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 1st, 1887.

Complaint having been enterred at this office by J. F. Welch, against Wm. B. Flanagan for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 13434, dated September 9th, 1882, upon the n w ¼ of s w ¼ section 10, township 20, range 11 east, in Chilton county, Ala., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 12th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
jul7-4 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a fieri facias issued out of the office of the circuit court of Chilton county, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment, recently obtained against D. H. Davenport, out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said D. H. Davenport, I have levied on the following property, to-wit: Southwest fourth of Southeast fourth of section twenty (20) township twenty-two (22), range thirteen (13) less two acres off the east side of said s w ¼ of s e ¼, and lying and being in Chilton county, Alabama.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction all the right, title and interest of the above named D. H. Davenport, in and to the above described property, on Monday, the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated at Clanton, this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos, Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR, LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING THE... DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
COMPOUND OXYGEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

A WELL TRIED TREATMENT

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Sidalls, Merchant, Philad'a.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales

And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

NOTICE NO. 6409.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., June 2, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on July 30, 1887, viz: Jasper W. Lovelady Homestead 9600 for the n ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼, and the s e ¼ of s w ¼, sec 6, township 20 n range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land, viz: F. G. Gay, James Barnes, and William Price, of Dixie, Ala., and G. W. Harrison, of Chadwick, Ala.

jun9 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, and State of Alabama, and to me directed, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of a certain judgment recently obtained against Elijah Headley out of the goods, chattels, lands and tenements of the said Elijah Headley, heretofore levied upon under an execution issued by A. C. Mims, a justice of the peace and levied upon the following described lands, viz: S e ¼ of s e ¼ of n w ¼ and s e ¼ of s e ¼, e ½ of s w ¼ of s e ¼ and n ½ of n e ¼ and s e ¼ of n e ¼ sec 14, township 21, range 13, lying in Chilton county, Ala.

Therefore, according to said command, I shall expose for sale at public auction, all the right, title and interest of the above named Elijah Headley in and to the above described property, on the 1st day of August, 1887, during the legal hours of sale, at the courthouse door in Clanton, Ala.

Dated this 30th day of June, 1887.

J. T. SMITHERMAN,
Sheriff Chilton Co.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.

New Stock and Low Prices.

HADAWAY,

No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala

SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice.

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.

FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

CURES [illegible]

PARSONS' PILLS

MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD.

These pills were a wonderful discovery. [illegible]

MAKE HENS LAY

[illegible]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞Correspondence solicited.☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug25-y

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,

Avondale, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practical Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Courses free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

The Chilton View Job Office,

IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR

JOB PRINTING,

SUCH AS

NOTE HEADS,

LETTER HEADS,

BILL HEADS,

ENVELOPES,

CARDS,

COMMISSARY CHECKS,

CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS

OF ALL KINDS,

NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.

SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

OLD EDIFICES.

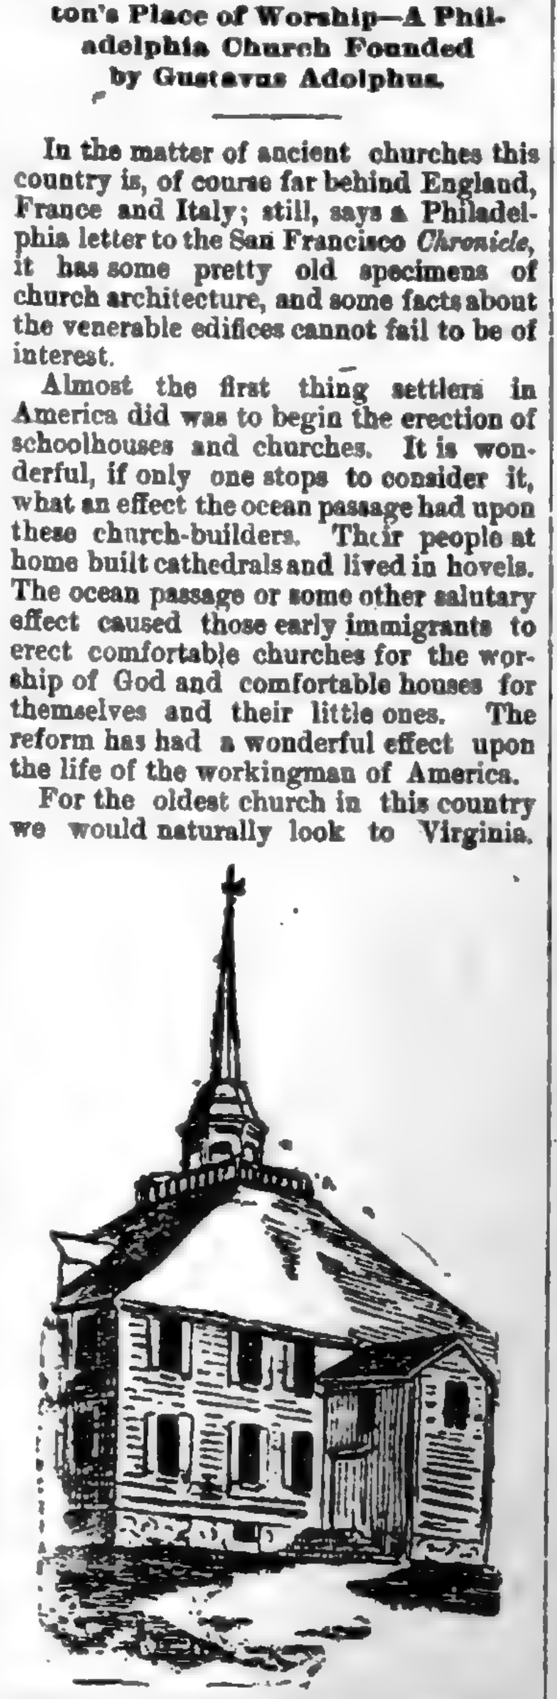
THE THREE OLDEST CHURCHES IN AMERICA.

Hingham's Ancient Fane—Washington's Place of Worship—A Philadelphia Church Founded by Gustavus Adolphus.

In the matter of ancient churches this country is, of course far behind England, France and Italy; still, says a Philadelphia letter to the San Francisco Chronicle, it has some pretty old specimens of church architecture, and some facts about the venerable edifices cannot fail to be of interest.

Almost the first thing settlers in America did was to begin the erection of schoolhouses and churches. It is wonderful, if only one stops to consider it, what an effect the ocean passage had upon these church-builders. Their people at home built cathedrals and lived in hovels. The ocean passage or some other salutary effect caused those early immigrants to erect comfortable churches for the worship of God and comfortable houses for themselves and their little ones. The reform has had a wonderful effect upon the life of the workingman of America.

For the oldest church in this country we would naturally look to Virginia.

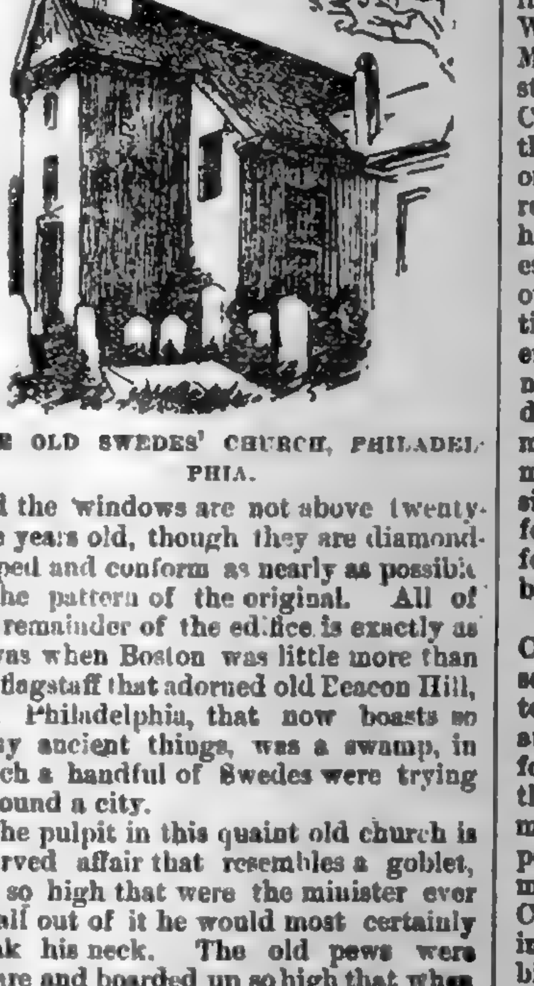


OLDEST CHURCH IN AMERICA, HINGHAM, MASS.

But the aristocratic cavaliers who sailed up the James river brought with them their cavalier notions about the church and its legal establishment, and so they did not personally trouble themselves about religious matters. To be sure, chapels of the Church of England were early erected, but none of them are preserved to the present time. The oldest church edifice in America is at Hingham, Mass. The town of Hingham is an unpretentious one, not more than a dozen miles from the center of the city of Boston. It was settled in 1635, and as the settlers were Puritans a church and a schoolhouse were immediately erected. Both were frail affairs, put up until something better could be afforded. It was not until 1681 that a permanent structure was begun. It was finished and dedicated the following year. Its attendants were Dissenters, and they had for a pastor the strict old Cromwellian divine, the Rev. John Norton. This man was of the Cotton Mather type, and like Mather he used to preach three or four hours and then warming up to his subject turn over his hour glass and begin afresh.

The people who framed and erected this building were loyal subjects of King Charles II, and but little altered it stands to-day a sacred beacon still. What changes it has witnessed! And yet this whole period is spanned by the pastorates of only six men. It would seem to be better than a life insurance policy to be chosen pastor of the First Church of Hingham. The present head of the flock that worships there has seen thirty-two years of service—the shortest period covered by any of his predecessors. The fourth pastor officiated for eighty-two years and the fifth for sixty-five. Among the parishioners have been many Lincolns, the same family from which the President sprung, a branch from an older English brother. Rev. Calvin Lincoln, the sixth pastor of the church, was also of this famous family.

Except in the seating and the windows, the First Church of Hingham stands at present as it did more than a hundred years before the revolution. The seats are modern in style and arrangement, and the windows are not above twenty-five years old, though they are diamond-shaped and conform as nearly as possible to the pattern of the original. All of the remainder of the edifice is exactly as it was when Boston was little more than the flagstaff that adorned old Beacon Hill, and Philadelphia, that now boasts so many ancient things, was a swamp, in which a handful of Swedes were trying to found a city.



THE OLD SWEDES' CHURCH, PHILADELPHIA.

The pulpit in this quaint old church is a carved affair that resembles a goblet, and so high that were the minister ever to fall out of it he would most certainly break his neck. The old pews were square and boarded up so high that when the congregation was seated not even the head of a person could be seen, unless it was from the minister's eyrie away up on the north wall. The central part of the church was cut up into smaller pews, and in front of them and just beneath the pulpit was a raised pew, where the elders were wont to sit. A committee met by arrangement once a year to determine in what seats the several people should sit. These selections were not made according to families, nor according to the ability to pay money. They were made with a view of preserving order. Our New England forefathers did not so much as tolerate a smile on the Sabbath Day. One would suppose that with the high boundaries to the seats it would have been regarded safe to allow a family to sit together. But not so. The women were carefully separated from the men, as well as the single of both sexes from the married people. There was no fire in the church even in the coldest New England weather.

It will surprise many, I think, to learn that King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden founded a church in America. It was just before he set out on the fatal campaign which ended at Lutzen. He chartered an American trading company and to its officers gave money and books with which he charged them to establish in their colony a church upon the Swedish faith. This they did, and Gustavus's successor, King Charles XI, subsequently sent over books and a communion service. The latter is preserved to this day. Christ Church in this city has a pulpit Bible, which it still uses, that was given to it by Queen Anne of England.

The Swedish Church was almost identical with the Church of England in form of public worship, but in belief it was strictly Lutheran. It was the middle of the seventeenth century before the wishes of Gustavus Adolphus were carried out. The Swedes were then sole masters of Pennsylvania. William Penn came some twenty years later, and determined the present site of Philadelphia—a site which the Swedes were trying to establish in a swamp. Of course they failed, while the shrewd Quaker succeeded. Philadelphia was, by the end of the seventeenth century, a struggling village along the Delaware river front. The old church of the Swedes was becoming dilapidated, because it had been poorly built, and a question arose over the site of a new one. As has so often been the case in later times, there grew out of it a bitter war of words. Finally it was agreed to settle the matter by lot. The names of the two most favored sites were put in a hat. The present site was drawn, and on it to-day stands the famous old edifice which is a cherished relic of Philadelphia, so dear in fact that the city would as soon think of parting with its charter as allowing any harm to come to grand old Gloria Dei.

For many years the kings of Sweden were accustomed to send over rectors and to contribute money toward their support. Four of these faithful religious pioneers are interred beneath the altar. A fifth lies in the yard. The structure is small and stands several rods from the street, the entrance being down a shaded path among the tombs, that reminds one forcibly of the lime-covered approach to Holy Trinity, at Stratford-upon-Avon. There is a window above the altar that was sent over from Sweden. There is no chancel, but only a railing and rostrum that extend out into the body of the room. The parish was formerly possessed of twenty acres of land now covered by the city, but through the carelessness of some one it lost the title to it and is now quite poor, where it might have been one of the wealthiest in the country. The Swedes took little part in public affairs, and upon William Penn's last visit to America they accused the pious old Quaker of stealing their land. They did not make the accusation stick, however, and were out of their land just the same. An effort has been making with some success for the past dozen years to endow the parish. The neighborhood in which it stands has become about the lowest in the city and the congregation is by no means self-supporting. The Swedes years ago lost their standing in numbers in this part of the country, the service was changed into English, and the church itself entered the Episcopal communion. A visit to it is like going back into two centuries of the past.

GEO. WASHINGTON'S CHURCH, ALEXANDRIA, VA

The most historic, if not the oldest church in Virginia, is Christ Church, Alexandria. It is locally known as "Washington's Church," having been where Washington attended while he lived at Mount Vernon. The building is still standing and in use. It dates from 1765, Colonel George Washington was one of the vestrymen, his name standing fifth on the list, no less than four men having received higher votes for the office than he. At that time the Episcopal was the established church of the Commonwealth of Virginia, and subject to the jurisdiction of the Bishop of London. With the erection of the diocese of Fairfax the name of King George appears and in the documents Washington figures as the most humble servant of his Majesty. The money of the period was not gold nor silver, and so it happens that the contract for the construction of the edifice calls for the payment of 31,185 pounds of tobacco.

The parish being of the Established Church, the vestry had to do with all sorts of civil affairs, to care for the sick, to bury the dead, to maintain the halt and the blind, and to provide for all the foundlings and vagrants. On a leaf of the old vestry-book there appears the minute of a payment of twenty-four pounds of tobacco "for setting a poor man over the ferry." The rector of Christ Church was the first bishop-elect in this country, though he never became bishop, because the Commonwealth of Virginia was too poor to send him to England to have him consecrated. His name was David Griffith, D. D., and this unfortunate financial condition of Virginia caused him to lose the honor of being the first American bishop. The first were William White, of Philadelphia, and Samuel Provost, of New York. Dr. Griffith died of a broken heart, from grief at not being able to go to England to receive the fulfillment of his ambition.

After General Washington retired from the Presidency he went to live at Mount Vernon, and took great interest in his church work. He began a reform which made the pews comparatively free—the first instance of a free church in this country.

ALL SORTS.

JUST fame is accorded to a Kentuckian who is ninety-nine years old and has never been a candidate for an office.

GENERAL LEE'S statue in Richmond is to cost only $12,000; though the Lee association has $56,000 on hand.

AN old German has invented a safe, that on its lock being tampered with, throws open its doors, seizes and drags and locks in the burglar, and handcuffs and holds him in readiness to be conducted to the police court in the morning.

THE new Tay bridge in Scotland, has just been opened. It is two miles long and 77 feet above the water. In 1879, the structure which the new one replaces, went down with a train during the night-time and nearly 400 people were drowned.

A QUEER thing happened in Connecticut the other day. John G. Wetmore held an insurance policy numbered 20,-199. When he died, the company paid his family exactly the number of dollars and the check drawn for the amount bore the same figures.

Two balloons have been purchased for the military school at Tientsin, China. The larger one is capable of holding sixty or seventy persons, and the smaller thirty persons. An instructor has already arrived at Tientsin, and after five months' practice trial trips will be made.

THE Canadian Pacific has brought itself into sudden conspicuousness as one of the chief routes of the globe by its transportation of a cargo of Japan tea. The tea has arrived in London on the thirty-first day after leaving Yokohama, having traversed 220 degrees of longitude.

THE value of property reported to the Signal Service as destroyed by tornadoes in 205 years was about $28,000,000. Lieut. Finlay estimates this to be about one-tenth the actual value, making the total losses about $300,000,000. The number of deaths reported was 3,165, and the injured 5,049.

A NEW YORK girl has given a jeweler an order for a silver belt in links. Instead of Roman medallions on the linked plates, however, she wants the features of some of her young male friends cut in bas-relief, and has furnished the photographs. They are trophies of her conquests, probably.

Wonderful Inventions.

Two machines of some importance in writing and speaking are about to come before the public. One is the graphophone, a machine which serves as an amanuensis. A corporation for its manufacture has been organized under the laws of West Virginia, which are designed to please corporators and give revenue to the state. A still more important perfection attained is that of Prof. Elisha Gray's "telantograph," a telegraphic apparatus which transmits the handwriting or any other picture traced upon paper any distance. This will be highly valued by business men and bankers. The valuable feature of the invention is the plate on which is laid the paper written on by the sender. A pencil or any sharp object may be used to write with, and the receiving machine traces the message with a pencil or any thing capable of marking, reproducing the form of the message precisely. Thus the sending operator will merely write the message on paper, and when he has finished it will have been finished at the other end of the circuit.

Breaking Down and Building Up.

When a man breaks down in the matter of physical strength, the question of its recovery depends in great measure upon the length of time he allows to elapse before adopting medicinal means to recuperate it. A tonic, which gives a speedy and powerful impulse to the processes of digestion and assimilation, is the best auxiliary he can employ, and he should resort to it promptly. The most reliable dependence of the feeble, the aged and the nervous, has ever proved to be Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an invigorant of national reputation and proven worth, commended by medical men of distinction, not only for building up a broken-down system, but as a remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, fever and ague, and kidney trouble. While not claimed to be a panacea, it is a most useful and comprehensive household remedy. It is, moreover, eminently safe as well as effective.

Charity may cover a multitude of sins, but that is not its regular business.

Tennyson's "May Queen."

Who knows but if the beautiful girl who died so young had been blessed with Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" she might have reigned on many another bright May-day. The "Favorite Prescription" is a certain cure for all those disorders to which females are liable.

Six hundred Baptist preachers in England refused to sign the total abstinence pledge.

Endurance of Society People.

A prominent society lady of Washington asked by the Prince of Wales: "Why is it you people here manifest so little fatigue from dancing, receptions, etc.?" replied: "Why, you see, we Americans gain the vitality wasted in these dissipations by using Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic."

The adoption of the Federal Constitution will be "centennialed" at Philadelphia, Pa., soon.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS warms up and invigorates the stomach, improves and strengthens the digestive organs, opens the pores, promotes perspiration, and equalizes the circulation. As a corrector of a disordered system there is nothing equal to it.

The Best of All.

Of all the medicines I ever heard of or used, I consider Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial the best medicine for all bowel trouble and children teething ever used.

A. J. STINE, Oxford, N. C.

There are 800,000 enrolled members of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Not long ago there were 60,000 holders of U. S. bonds. Now there are only 39,000.

Relief is immediate, and a sure cure. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. 50 cents.

It Should Be Generally Known

That the multitude of diseases of a scrofulous nature generally proceed from a torpid condition of the liver. The blood becomes impure because the liver does not act properly and work off the poison from the system, and the certain results are blotches, pimples, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers and kindred affections, or settling upon the lungs and poisoning their delicate tissues, until ulceration, breaking-down and consumption is established. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will, by acting upon the liver and purifying the blood, cure all these diseases.

The wall-paper pool has expired. Twenty-five of the factories were in it.

Many People Refuse to Take Cod

Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

Ellicott City, Md., has a confirmed smoker who is 2 years old, and has a nurse.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Weak and Weary describes the condition of many people debilitated by the warm weather, by disease or overwork. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine needed to build up and strengthen the body, purify and quicken the sluggish blood, and restore the lost appetite. If you need a good medicine be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"During the summer I was feeling all run down, and thinking I needed something to tone up my system, I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and felt much better. I had also been troubled with dyspepsia, and Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me more than anything else I could find."—JAMES R. DARLOW, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will Give Away 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P.O. and express office at once. The National Co., 27 Dey St., N.Y.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

This represents a healthy life, Throughout its various scenes.

Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES

It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH AND BOWELS FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS PRICE DOLLAR

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

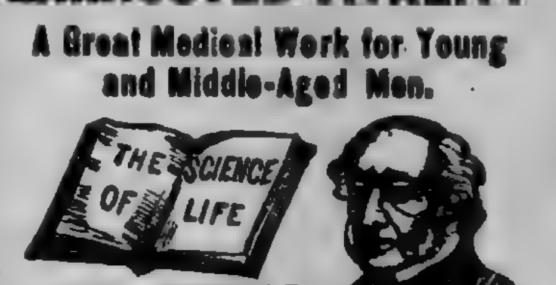
LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY. St. Louis, Mo.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,

—A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES—

Healthy location; handsome grounds (15 acres); capacious buildings, well lighted, heated and ventilated, fine library, apparatus and equipment · 17 teachers; thorough and complete course of instruction. Best advantages in music, elocution, painting, etc. No sectarianism. 36th annual session begins Monday, Sept. 5th, 1887. ☞ Prices reasonable. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.

ROBT. D. SMITH, President, Columbia, Tenn.

JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT 5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60. Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for

TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢

Everybody wants "Tansill's Punch" 5c. cigar now; they were always good, but of late they have improved. I heartily approve of your way of doing business; you are sure to hold and increase our trade. A. ARND, Druggist, Chicago, Ill.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

STATE COLLEGE OF KENTUCKY. | EIGHTEEN PROFESSORS AND INSTRUCTORS.

Agricultural and Mechanical, Scientific, Engineering, Classical, Normal School, Military Tactics, Commercial and Preparatory Courses of Study. Tuition $30 per annum. Board $2.50 per week. U. S. Army Officer Commandant of Cadets. Fall term begins September 14, 1887. For Catalogue and other information, Address JAMES K. PATTERSON, PH. D., LEXINGTON, KY.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

HIRES' Improved Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. ROOT BEER Sold by druggists, mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

TEACHERS WANTED; SEPTEMBER SESSION. ADDRESS, with stamp, Southern Teachers' Agency, P. O. Box 410, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

PATENTS obtained by E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for our book of instructions.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Billious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

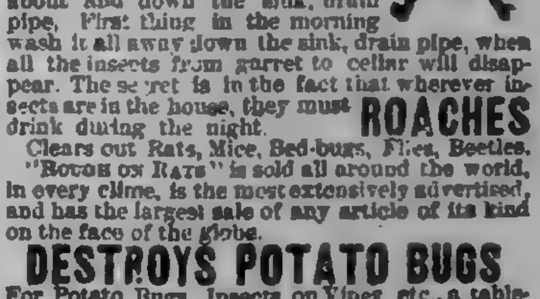
For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,

663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.



This is what killed your poor father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'ROUGHNESS.'

DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of BEETLES Roaches, Water-bugs. For two or three nights sprinkle "ROUGH ON RATS" dry powder, in, about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. ROACHES

Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "ROUGH ON RATS" is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised, and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.

DESTROYS POTATO BUGS

For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a table-spoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.

"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES.

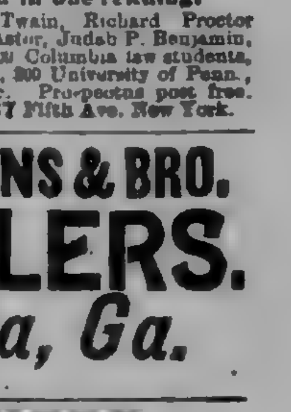
Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE.

The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world.

Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $3 Shoes advertised by other firms.



[Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.]

Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE. If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

MARVELOUS MEMORY DISCOVERY.

Wholly unlike artificial systems. Any book learned in one reading.

Recommended by Mark Twain, Richard Proctor the Scientist, Hon. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Minor, etc. Class of 100 Columbia law students, two classes 200 each at Yale, 200 University of Penn., 300 at Wellesley College, etc. Prospectus post free. PROF. LOISETTE, 237 Fifth Ave. New York.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 33½ S Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address J. M. HOCK, P.O. Box 464, Atlanta, Ga.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.
"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."
TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, JULY 28, 1887. NUMBER 38.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "From Dungeon to Palace."

TEXT: The time of my departure is at hand.—II. Timothy iv., 6.

The way out of this world is so blocked up with coffin and hearse, and undertaker's spade and screwdriver, that the Christian can hardly think as he ought of the most cheerful passage in all his history. We hang black instead of white over the place where the good man gets his last victory. We stand weeping over a heap of chains which the freed soul has shaken off, and we say: "Poor man! What a pity it was he had to come to this!" Come to what? By the time the people have assembled at the obsequies the man has been three days so happy that all the joy of earth accumulated would be wretchedness beside it, and he might better weep over you because you have to stay, than you weep over him because he has to go. It is a fortunate thing that a good man does not have to wait to see his own obsequies, they would be so discordant with his own experience. If the Israelites should go back to Egypt and mourn over the brick kilns they once left, they would not be any more silly than that Christian who should forsake heaven and come down and mourn because he had to leave this world. Our ideas of the Christian's death are morbid and sickly. We look upon it as a dark hole, in which a man stumbles when his breath gives out. This whole subject is odorous with varnish and disinfectants, instead of being sweet with mignonette. Paul, in my text, takes that great clod of a word, "death," and throws it away, and speaks of his "departure"—a beautiful, bright, suggestive word, descriptive of every Christian's release.

Now, departure implies a starting place and a place of destination. When Paul left this world what was the starting point? It was a scene of great physical distress. It was the Tullianum, the lower dungeon of the Mamertine prison. The top dungeon was bad enough, it having no means of ingress or egress but through an opening in the top. Through that the prisoner was lowered, and through that came all the food and air and light received. It was a terrible place, that upper dungeon; but the Tullianum was the lower dungeon, and that was still more wretched, the only light and the only air coming through the roof, and that roof the floor of the upper dungeon. That was Paul's last earthly residence. It was a dungeon just six feet and a half high. It was a doleful place. It had the chill of long centuries of dampness. It was filthy with the long incarceration of miserable wretches. It was there that Paul spent his last days on earth, and it is there that I see him to-day, in the fearful dungeon, shivering, blue with the cold, waiting for that old overcoat which he had sent for up to Troas, and which they had not yet sent down, notwithstanding he had written for it.

If some skilful surgeon should go into that dungeon where Paul is incarcerated, we might find out what are the prospects of Paul's living through the rough imprisonment. In the first place, he is an old man, only two years short of seventy. At that very time when he most needs the warmth and the sunlight, and the fresh air, he is shut out from the sun. What are those scars on his ankles? Why, those were gotten when he was fast, his feet in the stocks. Every time he turned, the flesh on his ankles started. What are those scars on his back? You know he was whipped five times, each time getting thirty-nine strokes—195 bruises on the back (count them!) made by the Jews with rods of elmwood, each one of the 195 strokes bringing the blood. Look at Paul's face and look at his arms. Where did he get those bruises? I think it was when he was struggling ashore amidst the shivered timbers of the shipwreck. I see a gash in Paul's side. Where did he get that? I think he got that in the tussel with highwaymen, for he had been in peril of robbers and he had money of his own. He was a mechanic as well as an apostle, and I think the tents he made were as good as his sermons.

There was a wanness about Paul's looks. What makes that? I think a part of that came from the fact that he was for twenty-four hours on a plank in the Mediterranean sea, suffering terribly, before he was rescued; for he says positively: "I was a night and a day in the deep." Oh, worn out, emaciated old man! surely you must be melancholy. No constitution could endure this and be cheerful. But I press my way through the prison until I come up close to where he is, and by the faint light that streams through the opening I see on his face a supernatural joy, and I bow before him, and I say: "Aged man, how can you keep cheerful amidst all this gloom?" His voice startles the darkness of the place as he cries out: "I am now ready to be offered; and the time of my departure is at hand." Hark! what is that shuffling of feet in the upper dungeon? Why, Paul has an invitation to a banquet, and he is going to dine to-day with the king. Those shuffling feet are the feet of the executioners. They come, and they cry down through the hole of the dungeon: "Hurry up, old man. Come now; get yourself ready." Why, Paul was ready. He had nothing to pack up. He had no baggage to take. He had been ready a good while. I see him rising up, and straightening out his stiffened limbs, and pushing back his white hair from his creviced forehead, and I see him looking up through the hole in the roof of the dungeon into the face of his execution, and hear him say: "I am now ready to be offered, at the time of my departure is at hand." Then they lift him out of the dungeon, and they start with him to the place of execution. They say: "Hurry along, old man, or you will feel the weight of our spear. Hurry along." "How far is it," says Paul, "we have to travel?" "Three miles." Three miles is a good way for an old man to travel after he has been whipped and crippled with maltreatment. But they soon get to the place of execution—Acque Talvia—and he is fastened to the pillar of martyrdom. It does not take any strength to tie him fast. He makes no resistance. O Paul! why not strike for your life? You have a great many friends here. With that withered hand just launch the thunderbolt of the people upon these infamous soldiers. No! Paul was not going to interfere with his own coronation. He was too glad to go. I see him looking up into the face of his executioner, and, as the grim official draws the sword, Paul calmly says: "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand." But I put my hand over my eyes. I want not to see that last struggle. One sharp, keen stroke, and Paul does go to the banquet and Paul does dine with the King.

What a transition it was! From the malaria of Rome to the finest climate in all the universe—the zone of eternal beauty and health. His ashes were put in the catacombs of Rome, but in one moment the air of heaven bathed from his soul the last ache. From shipwreck, from dungeon, from the biting pain of the elm-wood rods, from the sharp sword of the headsman, he goes into the most brilliant assemblage of heaven, a king among kings, multitudes of the sainthood rushing out and stretching forth hands of welcome: for I do really think that as on the right hand of God is Christ, so on the right hand of Christ is Paul, the second great in heaven.

He changed kings likewise. Before the hour of death and up to the last moment he was under Nero, the thick necked, the cruel eyed, the filthy lipped; the sculptured features of that man bringing down to us to this very day the horrible possibilities of his nature—seated as he was amidst pictured marbles of Egypt, under a roof adorned with mother of pearl, in a dining room, which by machinery was kept whirling day and night with most bewitching magnificence: his horses standing in stalls of solid gold, and the grounds around his palace lighted at night by its victims, who had been daubed with tar and pitch and then set fire to illumine the darkness. That was Paul's king. But the next moment he goes into the realm of Him whose reign is love, and whose courts are paved with love, and whose throne is set on pillars of love, and whose scepter is adorned with jewels of love, and whose palace is lighted with love, and whose lifetime is an eternity of love. When Paul was leaving so much on this side the pillar of martyrdom to gain so much on the other side, do you wonder at the cheerful valedictory of the text: "The time of my departure is at hand?"

Now, why cannot all the old people of this congregation have the same holy glee as that aged man had? Charles I., when he was combing his head, found a gray hair, and he sent it to the queen as a great joke; but old age is really no joke at all. For the last forty years you have been dreading that which ought to have being an exhilaration. You say you must fear the struggle at the moment the soul and body part. But millions have endured that moment, and why not we as well? They got through with it, and so can we. Besides this, all medical men agree in saying that there is probably no struggle at all at the last moment—not so much pain as the prick of a pin, the seeming signs of distress being altogether involuntary. But you say: "It is the uncertainty of the future." Now, child of God, do not play the infidel. After God has filled the Bible till it can hold no more with the stories of the good things ahead, better not talk about uncertainties.

But you say: "I cannot bear to think of parting from friends here." If you are old you have more friends in heaven than here. Just take the census. Take some large sheet of paper and begin to record the names of those who have emigrated to the other shore; the companions of your school days, your early business associates, the friends of mid life and those who more recently went away. Can it be that they have been gone so long you do not care any more about them and you do not want their society? Oh, no! There have been days when you have felt that you could not endure it another moment away from their blessed companionship. They have gone. You say you would not like to bring them back to this world of trouble, even if you had the power. It would not do to trust you. God would not give you resurrection power. Before to-morrow morning you would be rattling at the gates of the cemetery, crying to the departed: "Come back to the cradle where you slept! Come back to the hall where you used to play! Come back to the table where you used to sit!" and there would be a great burglary in heaven. No, no! God will not trust you with resurrection power, but he compromises the matter and says: "You cannot bring them where you are." They are more lovely now than ever. Were they beautiful here, they are more beautiful there.

Besides that, it is more healthy there for you than here, aged man; better climate there than these hot summers and cold winters and late springs; better hearing; better eye-sight; more tonic in the air; more perfume in the bloom; more sweetness in the song. Do you not feel, aged man, sometimes, as though you would like to get your arm and foot free? Do you not feel as though you would like to throw away spectacles and canes and crutches? Would you not like to feel the spring and elasticity and mirth of an eternal boyhood? When the point at which you start from this world is old age, and the point to which you go is eternal juvenescence, aged man, clap your hands at the anticipation, and say, in perfect rapture of soul: "The time of my departure is at hand."

I remark, again, all those ought to feel this joy of the text who have a holy curiosity to know what is beyond this earthly terminus. And who has not any curiosity about it? Paul, I suppose, had the most satisfactory view of heaven, and he says: "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." It is like looking through a broken telescope: "Now we see through a glass darkly." Can you tell me anything about that heavenly place? You ask me a thousand questions about it that I cannot answer. I ask you a thousand questions about it that you cannot answer. And do you wonder that Paul was so glad when martyrdom gave him a chance to go over and make discoveries in that blessed country?

I hope some day, by the grace of God, to go over and see for myself; but not now. No well man, no prospered man, I think, wants to go now. But the time will come, I think, when I shall go over. I want to see what they do there, and I want to see how they do it. I do not want to be looking through the gates ajar forever. I want them to swing open. There are 10,000 things I want explained—about you, about myself, about the government of this world, about God, about everything. We start in a plain path of what we know, and in a minute come up against a high wall of what we do not know. I wonder how it looks over there. Somebody tells me it is like a paved city—paved with gold; and another man tells me it is like a fountain, and it is like a tree, and it is like a triumphal procession, and the next man I meet tells me it is all figurative. I really want to know, after the body is resurrected, what they wear and what they eat; and I have an immeasurable curiosity to know what it is, and how it is, and where it is. Columbus risked his life to find this continent, and shall we shudder to go out on a voyage of discovery which shall reveal a vaster and more different country? John Franklin risked his life to find a passage between icebergs, and shall we dread to find a passage to eternal summer? Men in Switzerland travel up the heights of the Matterhorn with alpenstock and guides and rockets and ropes, and getting half way up, stumble and fall down in a terrible massacre. They just want to say they had been on the tops of those high peaks. And shall we fear to go out for the ascent of the eternal hills, which start a thousand miles beyond where stop the highest peaks of the Alps, and when in that ascent there is no peril? A man doomed to die stepped on the scaffold and said in joy: "Now, in ten minutes I will know the great secret." One minute after the vital functions ceased the little child that died last night in Montague street knew more than Jonathan Edwards, or St. Paul himself, before he died. Friends, the exit from this world, or death, if you please to call it, to the Christian is glorious explanation. It is demonstration. It is illumination. It is sunburst. It is the opening of all the windows. It is shutting up the catechism of doubt and the unrolling of all the scrolls of positive and accurate information. Instead of standing at the foot of the ladder and looking up, it is standing at the top of the ladder and looking down. It is the last mystery taken out of botany, and geology, and astronomy, and theology. Oh, will it not be grand to have all questions answered? The perpetually recurring interrogation point changed for the mark of exclamation. All riddles solved. Who will fear to go out on that discovery when all the questions are to be decided which we have been discussing all our lives? Who shall not clap his hands in the anticipation of that blessed country, if it be no better than through holy curiosity, crying: "The time of my departure is at hand!"

I remark, again, we ought to have the joy of the text, because, leaving this world, we move into the best society of the universe. You see a great crowd of people in some street, and you say: "Who is passing there? What General, what Prince is going up there?" Well, I see a great throng in heaven. I say: "Who is the focus of all that admiration? Who is the centre of that glittering company?" It is Jesus, the champion of all worlds, the favorite of all ages. Do you know what is the first question the soul will ask when it comes through the gate of heaven? I think the first question will be: "Where is Jesus, the Saviour that pardoned my sin; that carried my sorrows; that fought my battles; that won my victories?" O radiant One! how I would like to see Thee! Thou of the manger, but without its humiliation; Thou of the cross, but without its pangs; Thou of the grave, but without its darkness.

The Bible intimates that we will talk with Jesus in heaven just as a brother talks with a brother. Now, what will you ask him first? I do not know. I can think what I would ask Paul first, if I saw him in heaven. I think I would like to hear him describe the storm that came upon the ship when there were 275 souls on the vessel, Paul being the only man on board cool enough to describe the storm. There is a fascination about a ship and the sea that I shall never get over, and I think I would like to hear him talk about that first. But when I meet my Lord Jesus Christ, of what shall I first delight to hear Him speak? Now I think what it is. I shall first want to hear the tragedy of his last hours; and then Luke's account of the crucifixion, and Mark's account of the crucifixion, and John's account of the crucifixion will be nothing, while from the living lips of Christ the story shall be told of the gloom that fell, and the devils that arose, and the fact that upon his endurance depended the rescue of a race; and there was darkness in the sky, and there was darkness in the soul, and the pain became more sharp, and the burdens became more heavy, until the mob began to swim away from the dying vision of Christ, and the cursing of the mob came to his ear more faintly, and his hands were fastened to the horizontal piece of the cross, and his feet were fastened to the perpendicular piece of the cross, and his head fell forward in a swoon as he uttered the last moan and cried: "It is finished!" All heaven will stop to listen until the story is done, and every harp will be put down, and every lip closed, and all eyes fixed upon the divine narrator, until the story is done; and then, at the tap of the baton, the eternal orchestra will rouse up; finger on string of harp, and lips to the mouth of trumpet, there shall roll forth the oratorio of the Messiah: "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive blessing, and riches, and honor, and glory, and power, world without end!"

What he endured, oh, who can tell,
To save our souls from death and hell!

When there was between Paul and that magnificent personage only the thinness of the sharp edge of the sword of the executioner, do you wonder that he wanted to go? Oh, my Lord Jesus, let one wave of that glory roll over this auditory! Hark! I hear the wedding bells of heaven ringing now. The marriage of the Lamb has come, and the bride hath made herself ready.

Twenty-seven Beers.

I heard a little story of Col. Markbreit, ex-Assistant Treasurer of the United States at Cincinnati, that is worthy of the types. The Colonel is one of the principal proprietors of the Volksblatt, a German newspaper of influence and respectability. Under the Volksblatt office is a beer saloon, which the reporters and clerks about the establishment seem to have been in the habit of patronizing occasionally. A knock on the counting-room floor was the signal for the man of beverage to send up a glass of beer; two knocks indicated two beers, and so on. Col. Markbreit came into the office late one night. It had been raining and the Colonel had no umbrella. He stamped about on the floor to knock the rain off his boots and clothing, and in less than no time a beer jerker made his appearance from below with twenty-seven schooners of beer on a tray. "Where are you going with that stuff?" demanded the Colonel.

"Here," said Gambrinous; it vos ordered."

"Who ordered it?"

"Vell, I suppose it vas yourself."

"Vell, I suppose it vasn't myselleff," retorted the Colonel in indignant imitation.

"Vell, ainahow, Mr. Markbreit I saw you in the office komin' and heard you on the floor stamp twenty-seven dimes."

The Colonel compromised by paying for all of them, but at the same time warning the beermonger never to do it again.—Oil City Derrick.

A Hint to Nero.

"Say, Nero, I'm going to be out late, an' I don't want you to bark when I get home an' wake the folks up."—Life.

The Picture of Impudence.

"Miss, may I dare invite myself to become your escort?"

"Thanks, I await my friend."

"Permit me then, gracious lady, to help you wait."—Fliegende Blaetter.

A CHILDISH remark very often punctures the assertions of an older head. A friend at the tea table, speaking of the necessity of courtesy and the manner in which it distinguished a gentleman from a boor, said: "I invariably lift my hat to a lady acquaintance on the street." "But, pa," remarked his little daughter, "you don't lift your hat to mother when you meet her on the street; she's one lady you don't do it to, I know."

FULFILMENT.

Fulfilment mocks at Hope's foreshadowing,
On ruined fruits her sullen lips are fed;
Athwart the last-limned dream, the song last said,
She sweeps the leaden shadow of her wing,
A bitter burden of bare blight to bring,
In sudden disenchantment, dull and dead.
And so we waken—in our seraph's stead
To find a gaping goblin-changeling.

Sweet Hope is slain; come, let us bury her:
The dream is done, the labor lost, we say;
But oftimes, gazing on the lifeless clay,
The old fire fills our veins, our longings stir;
And still, to strive anew, we turn away
From yet another dead Hope's sepulchre.
—Scribner.

A SUCCESSFUL SEANCE.

BY GARTAN POSE.

Mr. Clithers sat in his private office (just a corner partitioned off the great grain and meal store), in the thriving town of Bellevue, Ill. As he sat at ease in the armchair, scanning with his keen blue eyes the choice items of news in his morning paper, he looked every inch the shrewd business man he was. Socially he and his wife stood in the front rank.

One half-column article in the paper seemed to interest him beyond all. It was a brief account of a mind-reading exhibition given in an Eastern city.

"Now, that is very remarkable," commented Mr. Clithers, mentally. "There is no trick about it, either. I think the exhibition proved it can be done. Gracious! what a revolution if every one could become a mind-reader! But I suppose he must have a gift."

Just then some painful thought seemed to intrude upon his mind, for he frowned, and then, throwing the newspaper aside, he rose and stepped to his desk. After a hasty glance about him, he slipped a key into a drawer and pulled it out. A pile of bills lay in the inside. He shut it again quickly, and locked it.

"So it is still there," he muttered. "By Jove! I'd give anything to find out who's been robbing me lately. I wonder if that mind-reader could tell me, or is it only a guy or trick? I wish I could get a mind-reader to try his skill on this racket; I know it has baffled me."

Now it is always well to consider whether we really want a thing before we express a haphazard desire for it, because sometimes that eternal schoolteacher, Fate, takes it into her head to accede at once. At least she apparently did in this case, for, as Mr. Clithers turned aside from his desk, the door opened, and a tall individual, arrayed in close-buttoned frock-coat and soft felt hat, advanced with a light step, and presented his card.

Mr. Clithers read with a perceptible start the words:

"WILLIAM WILLIS CARDINALL, MIND READER."

This latter, with one comprehensive glance around the office, removed his hat, and calmly seated himself, not failing to note, indeed, the effect his card had upon Mr. Clithers. That gentleman, after staring at the card some time, at length looked his visitor over, but got little gratification from his inspection.

A full beard covered the lower part of Mr. Cardinall's face and the upper part, showing two high check-bones and a peculiar hooked nose, pinched at the point, with a pair of very brilliant eyes, gave him a hungry look not at all prepossessing.

He smiled in a superior way at Mr. Clithers's scrutiny.

"Perhaps you wonder why I have called," he remarked, in a full but low tone. "I will tell you. I propose to give a seance in this town, and I wish to enlist the aid of the very best people, in order that it may be a success. Do not mistake me; I am not working for money, I merely wish to test my wonderful power before an audience composed only of the most intelligent and cultured people of Bellevue."

"And you really are a mind reader?"

"I am only an amateur as yet, sir, but I feel the power is in me. I have given exhibitions before physicians, men of science and others. I have letters from presidents of colleges and many literary men. Are you acquainted with the President of the Weehawken State University?"

Mr. Clithers confessed that he was not.

"There is a letter from him," continued the mind-reader, picking it out from a package drawn from his pocket.

Mr. Clithers read it. It seemed satisfactory, and he did not doubt the man at all. He was thinking deeply, though.

"Now, my dear sir," went on Cardinall, "I shall have to throw myself on your good nature. I desire to invite to the seance only the cultured and wealthy people of this town—all those who move in good society, in fact—and I must have their names and addresses."

"I have a list of those I invited to a ball recently, if that will do," said Mr. Clithers, who could see no good reason for refusing, and who was perfectly alive to the social eclat of introducing this lion to his friends.

"The very thing. I will fix the date for the evening of the day after to-morrow. I am extremely obliged to you for your great kindess to a perfect stranger, and if I could do anything to show——"

"You can," said Clithers; "by your mind-reading."

"Ah! and how can that be?"

Clithers drew his chair close to his visitor and spoke almost in a whisper.

"For the past month I have been missing money from that drawer in the desk there. It is evidently taken whenever I leave the office. I have always to keep a certain amount of money on hand to make change, and I lock it up when I go out. Yet I find that somehow it is opened in my absence and five or ten dollars taken. I have watched and said nothing about it, but have failed even to suspect any one. Now, can you tell me who stole that money?"

Mr. Cardinall seemed uneasy. He hitched his chair back, and hemmed and hawed.

"Why, you see," he finally said, "that is rather an awkward test. I should have to read the mind of every employe and friend you have. Then, again, I should have to become acquainted thoroughly with this office, so that I could see it plainly in connection with any one else's mind. I am willing to try."

"If you succeed, I will pay you one hundred dollars."

"I want no reward, sir; I shall be only too happy to try. And supposing that I begin at once to convey the impression of this office to my mind, it will be necessary that you go out, sir—even out of the building—and I will, as it were, take possession of the office. Then it will become fixed on my mind."

Just for one moment Mr. Clithers hesitated, but the man's brilliant eyes were upon him, and he acquiesced.

"You need be gone only ten minutes," was the gracious remark of Mr. Cardinall as Clithers went out.

In thirty seconds his retiring footsteps had died away, and quick as a flash the mind-reader stepped across to an old-fashioned safe that stood in the corner, and bent over it. A grim smile played over his face. Then noiselessly he turned to the desk, and was just putting his hand to the money-drawer, when a slight rustle came to his ear. With the light tread of a panther he crossed the room and dropped silently into a chair that was behind the door. It opened inward, and the next instant there was a louder rustle, and the door was pushed open an inch or so. Mr. Cardinall's mind was busy.

"This is the thief," he said to himself. "Now to try the trick that has never failed."

The door swung open, and Mrs. Clithers, a handsome woman of forty summers, glided into the room and turned to close the door. At that moment a hand was placed on her shoulder, and a harsh voice cried:

"Where is all the money you have stolen?"

With distended eyes she turned to look at her accuser. "Oh, my God!" she cried, "I am lost! Oh, have mercy, sir—I will never steal another cent. Oh, I shall die—oh—oh!" and then broke into the most agonizing sobs.

"Stop that," snapped the polite mind-reader, "and explain yourself. Who are you?"

"Sir, I am Mrs. Clithers, and I have as much right in this office as my husband. I am not afraid that he will arrest me; my fear is of his knowing it. Oh, sir, is there not some way of hiding this from him? I promise solemnly never to take any more money in this way."

"Humph!" remarked Cardinall, looking at her composedly; "so you are his wife. So you don't want him to know. Very natural, of course; but hard to do. No, I don't want money. Who do you think I am?"

"A detective, I suppose."

"No, a mind-reader. Don't be afraid," with an amused smile; "your secrets are safe from me. If you give me a little assistance, I shall be mum about this affair. In the first place, I want you to do all in your power to induce your society friends to attend a mind-reading seance your husband will tell you of. In the second place, I want you to send by mail to this address, to-night, if possible, a rough plan, drawn on paper, of your house, and also indicate the receptacles that hold, say a dozen valuable articles, and their location—such as jewelry or silverware, etc. You wonder at such a request? It is in order that I may appear familiar with the inside of your house at the seance, and thus insure its success. Do this and keep a close tongue, and I am dumb. Of course you will be sure to be present at my exhibition to indorse the accuracy of my mind-reading. Is it agreed."

It was evident that she doubted him. Such an extraordinary request. But, then, the shame—the bitter shame.

"I will do it; only don't play me false."

And as he smiled in satisfaction she slipped from the room. He looked at his watch; the ten minutes was nearly up. So he settled himself in the chair, and with a dreamy look in his eyes and a mysterious smile, Mr. Clithers found him on his return.

"I thank you for your courtesy," he said, on taking his leave. "I have forged the first link of the mental chain that will bind your thief. Send that list you spoke of to my hotel—the Palace—and don't fail to turn up at my seance."

And so it happened that evening that two letters addressed to Mr. Cardinall were sent from Mr. Clithers's house.

* * * * * * *

There was quite a crush on the eventful evening at the Bijou Hall, which the mind-reader had secured for his seance. Mrs. Clithers evidently had not failed to keep her promise. Her husband, too, had exerted himself to secure a large attendance of the elite of society. The ladies' tongues were busy discussing from every conceivable point of view the new creed of reading the mind of man.

At 8 o'clock precisely, Mr. Cardinall stepped on the platform. He had made himself conspicuous around the town since his arrival, so he was pretty well known. After a few words of introduction, in which he humbly stated that he was as yet but an amateur, he begged the audience to choose a committee of two to assist him in his demonstrations. A dozen offered themselves, but finally, after much discussion, a society youth, fearfully and wonderfully vain and pompous, and Mr. Clithers, were chosen to represent the audience. When the latter was chosen, a gratified smile wreathed Mr. Cardinall's face, but at the sight of the dudish youth he appeared almost disgusted.

"This is really too bad," whispered he to Mr. Clithers, when the committee were on the platform; he has no mind; I cannot read a vacuum; do—do let me use you as a medium. Just make the youth fetch and carry." And he winked solemnly at Mr. Clithers, who was evidently flattered at this evidence that he had a mind at all. The first test was the hiding of a gold watch by Mr Clithers—the mind-reader and youth retiring. Now, when they both emerged Mr. Cardinall seemed to change his mind about the brains of the youth, for he asked him if he knew where the watch was hid. The youth answered Yes, having watched through a small crack in the door. Then the mind-reader said: "I will find it through you." Immediately both turned their footsteps toward one of the window-sills, and stopped at it. There was the watch. But whether the mind-reader led the youth, or the youth the reader, was more than the audience could determine. However, this success elicited the greatest applause.

Cardinall then requested some one in the audience to hide an article, and he would find it. As he spoke he fixed his eyes on Mrs. Clithers. She read that look at once, and conquering her dislike, stood up and said she would hide something. He bowed and apologized, and retired. She went to the stage and laid the article at the right-hand corner on the floor. It was a common pin. The mind-reader appeared blindfolded, as usual, and stepping down from the stage, took her hand in his. "Where is it?" he whispered, as he bowed. She told him. After a few manœuvres, indicating uncertainty, he rushed to the spot, and picked up the article triumphantly.

The rest of the exhibition consisted entirely of a description of the inside of Mr. Clithers's house. Having asked that gentleman to say to the audience that the mind-reader had never been inside the house, he proceeded to make a minute statement of the location of nearly every article of value Mr. Clithers possessed. The latter was perfectly astounded. There could be no denying the gift of this man. He declared that Mr. Clithers was the best subject he had ever operated on, adding that he had a remarkable brain cell organism. In fact, he had Mr. Clithers blushing with pleasure and the audience in high good humor, when the town-clock struck eleven. He was apologizing for the lateness of the hour, when a sudden bustle became manifest at the door of the hall. Some one was trying to force an entrance, the ushers interposing. A harsh, gruff voice said something in a low tone, and then a passage was made. The audience turning round to ascertain the cause, heard a murmur of "law" and "officers," as two burly men advanced toward the platform. A couple of silly women shrieked. All eyes instinctively turned to the platform. Mr. Cardinall had retreated to the rear. A fearful frown was on his brow, and he was biting his nails convulsively.

"Don't be alarmed," said one of the intruders. "I make no doubt you've had a nice evening of it, he's so very funny"—pointing his finger at the mind-reader—"when he gets started. But he's a lunatic, just the same."

"A lunatic! crazy!" came in a chorus. Some of the women rose hastily, and attempted to go out.

"You'd better all keep still," continued the man. "He takes queer notions, and if he saw you all going out, he might think there was a-fire and get very violent, and maybe kill some one."

"Come, come, angrily remarked Mr. Clithers, loath to give up his idol," are you sure you're not making a mistake? Say, Mr. Cardinall, you are not crazy, are you?"

Whereat both men burst into loud laughter.

"Why, look at him," said the first spokesman; and indeed he did not appear sane. His eyes were flashing vindictively at the audience, and moving right and left, as though looking for a chance to run.

"Oh, he'd deceive a smarter man than you," continued the keeper, for that is what he evidently was. "You see he's got mind-reading on the brain. He's been that way these five years. He got away from the State Asylum six weeks ago, and we've been after him ever since. Here's our papers."

But everybody was so disgusted at the turn affairs had taken, that no one cared to examine the papers; they were only anxious that the lunatic should be got rid of. Some dropped an anxious word that the keepers might have difficulty in taking him off.

"Never you fear," chuckled one of them. "We know our man." And so saying, he walked to the edge of the platform, and drawing from his pocket a large, luscious pear, held it up for Mr. Cardinall to see. That worthy glanced at it and turned away his head. Still it dangled there, and do what he could, his gaze returned to it. Greed sparkled in his eyes. Finally he shook his head. The keeper said, "Come?" He shook his head again. Then from his other pocket the keeper drew another pear and held it up also. The poor mind-reader fixed his eyes on them.

"Both?" he cried.

"Yes, both of 'em, if you'll come quietly," replied the keeper.

"And can I eat one now?" with a comical assumption of shrewdness.

"You shall have them both, now," asserted the keeper. The victory was complete. With a formidable grin, the lunatic came forward, stepped from the platform, and calmly left the hall, demolishing his pear, and occasionally looking at his other prize in exultation.

At the door of the hall a carriage stood, loaded with trunks, and the crowd who had rushed to the door saw two bags lying in the inside of the carriage. Mr. Cardinall and his keepers entered, and the carriage rolled away.

It would be useless to report the Babel of tongues that then found expression among the audience. It was the strangest experience that they had ever met with, and the unfortunate Mr. Clithers encountered many an ill-concealed rebuke in the form of the oft-repeated query:

"How could you ever be so deceived?"

He didn't know himself. What indeed affected him the most was the fact that the mystery of the stolen money was as far from being solved as ever.

So they separated finally, each to his home; but to many there was no rest that night. Most of them did not discover it until the morning; but all the next day there was weeping and wailing in that pretty town. It was found that while they were attending the seance, nearly every house belonging to the wealthy people had been entered, at the second story, and ransacked. It was a perfect night of looting. Mr. Clithers suffered the most. Many jewels which he supposed hidden had been taken, and, worst of all, his safe had been blown open, and all his available cash carried off. He was ruined, and indeed very many besides himself came near to bankruptcy. Somehow, the good people were many hours discussing the matter before they connected the mind-reader with the robberies. Then Mr. Clither's explanation of his safe-robbery opened their eyes fully. It was still a mystery to him how they obtained an acquaintance with the inside of his house, and it is so still, for his wife, although she privately sorrowed over her fault, kept faith with the mind reader. She dared not confess about the money she had purloined, and Mr. Cardinall kept his word.

Shortly afterward, Mr. Clithers received a note, as follows:

"DEAR SIR: You wanted to find out where your money was gone. I think you have discovered by this time who stole it.
THE MIND READER."

But this insolent note did not satisfy the merchant, and to his dying day the truth was hidden from him.—Frank Leslie's.

Turkish Baths.

The bathing establishments, or hamams, consist of large octagonal or circular halls, paved with flag-stones, around which run stone seats or very hard divans. In these halls, which are heated to excess and filled with steam, the bathers have themselves washed, rubbed and shampooed by employes called telaks, who, with their hands encased in hair gloves, knead the flesh vigorously until it becomes clean, flexible, and soft like satin.

Men go to the bath singly, and remain there only an hour or two; but women go there in parties, and sometimes pass the entire day there, drinking syrups, smoking cigarettes, eating rhat loukoum and sweetmeats, and sleeping on divans or in small beds placed around the bath-room.

The exterior of the hamams presents nothing very remarkable. They are large, low structures built of brick, covered with stucco, and always paved with marble. They are lighted only by small round skylights set in the cupolas and provided with greenish panes, which throw into the rooms a dim light, resembling moonlight, and very favorable to repose. A furnace underneath heats the building by means of pipes which are run all through the walls even. The temperature is raised to forty, fifty, and sixty degrees Centigrade.

After undressing, the bathers envelop themselves in a long wrap (peshtamal), and make a delightful plunge into a cloud of vapor, which produces, even in the case of the leanest, a profuse and debilitating perspiration. One puts on clogs, which look like small stilts, to protect one's feet from the extreme heat of the floor. There are large white marble urns fastened against the wall, which receive cold and boiling water by separate faucets; it is around these urns that all the purifications commanded by the Koran are made. Seated upon a little cedar stool, the bather pours upon his head and body large bowls of water, which he heats to the desired temperature by the faucets.

The hamams, of which there are more than 300 in Stamboul alone, have no fixed tariff. The charges depend upon the look and the dress of the bather, and vary from two sous to twenty-three francs. Rich pashas sometimes hire them outright for their families, and think that if they pay less than forty Turkish livres (eighteen dollars), they have done something below their dignity. On the other hand, beggars and poor people are admitted free of charge to certain baths designed for their use; and this is a blessing to them as well as to their neighbors; for these periodical ablutions diminish their extreme filthiness, and arrest the growth of the vermin nourished at their expense—Cosmopolitan.

How the Sultan Lives.

Abdul Hamid lives in Oriental seclusion. He is an inveterate smoker, and shows his European taste by smoking cigarettes, instead of Turkish pipes. His palace surpasses in beauty and magnificence the rich descriptions in the Arabian Nights. Passing through a marvelously beautiful gate of green and gold, halls, chambers and apartments succeed one another, each and all displaying an airy grace and undreamed of splendor. The Hall of Jewels contains a dazzling collection of rubies, sapphires, emeralds, and other precious stones, heaped in large basins, while diamonds of great size and pearls of rare loveliness are as plentiful as green peas in June. While the Sultan lives in all the magnificence of Eastern luxury, the people are wretchedly poor. Beggars infest the streets of Constantinople by day, and thieves by night, and as the city is miserably lighted, and the police very indifferent, the robbers have every opportunity to ply their vocation with success and impunity. The salary of the police is nominally $6 a month, but as even this small amount is seldom paid, they divide the plunder with the thieves. The immense army of cooks, attendants, and others required to keep up the Sultan's large household is a constant drain upon the people. Abdul Hamid's personal expenses are 60,000,000 francs ($12,000,000) a year. His favorite attendant, Kishlar Agra, the Black Eunuch, receives 240,000 francs as his salary, with many rich perquisites. He bears the high sounding title of Gardien de la Porte de la Felicite.—Epoch.

A Japanese Baby in Washington.

Mme. Kuki's baby is the son of the Japanese Minister, and its pretty little Japanese eyes and its yellow cream complexion, together with its winning ways, make it as beautiful as any American baby you have ever seen. Its hair is jet black, and it laughs and cries just like an American baby. It is the pride of the Japanese Minister's heart. He shows it to all of his friends, and brings it out now and then on State occasions.

Mme. Kuki, its mother, is a very accomplished lady. She is fine looking, and she wears dresses and diamonds as fine as any you have seen at a White House reception. She has a creamy yellow complexion, black eyes with half-closed lids, and masses of blue-black hair wound at the back of her head. She dresses in European style, and she keeps her baby dressed in the same manner. The little one is now two years old, and begins to prattle in broken English.—Washington Letter.

Ingrowing Toe-Nails.

A chiropodist says in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "The cause of the ingrowing toe-nails I don't think has been properly stated. My observation has taught me that that trouble is caused chiefly by the use of the knife in the trimming of the nails. Scissors should always be used instead. The knife tears the nail off into the quick, and thus the ingrowing commences. Much of it is caused at Turkish bath establishments. There I have seen persons let an ignorant darky whittle off their nails with a knife, or try to correct the growth of an ingrowing nail. The carelessness people display in the handling of the most important portions of their body is astonishing."

W. H. Parkinson, of Mineral Point, Wis., while sowing oats found a gold ring on the point of one of the seeder teeth. The ring was lost about thirty years ago by a young lady in passing over the farm.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., JULY 28, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The next annual meeting of the Alabama State Agricultural Society will be held at Troy Ala., August 3d, 4th and 5th next.

Mr. Wm. A. Freret, of New Orleans, has been appointed U. S. Supervising Architect by President Cleveland. Salary $4,500. Mr. Freret is of creole descent; and is the gentleman who gave George Washington Cable a drubbing on the streets of Tuskaloosa some years since.

The lengthy comment of the Montgomery Dispatch on the death of Floyd Kinneybrew in the jail at this place last week was not relished by certain individuals in Clanton. For our part we could see nothing offensive in what the Dispatch had to say on the subject. It simply said that an investigation, as to the causes of the prisoner's death, should be made. We stated in our article on this subject last week that the cause of his death was "close confinement and want of exercise" and that "we did not know that this state of affairs could have been avoided;" the Dispatch seems to think that it could have been. However, an officer who discharges his duties thoroughly, and according to the requirements of the law, should not fear or object to an investigation at any time of any of his actions.

The officer in whose charge the prisoner was does not seem to be as much stirred up as some others who have no interests in the matter.

Among many other good things said by Elder Joe Shackelford, on his assuming editorial control of the Alabama Baptist, is the following which we most heartily endorse: "We do not expect an open sea and plain sailing. Our experience in the newspaper business and editorial life has taught us something. It has taught us that an editor's life is not free from troubles and vexations. It has taught us that we need not expect to please everybody in the conduct of a paper, especially a religious paper. There are chronic grumblers whom an angel from heaven could not please, if he were to come to earth and become an editor. There are grumblers who grumble at everybody else except themselves. Somehow they arrive at the conclusion that they are the ones who can edit a paper, and nobody else can. Well, we do not expect to please these, or to make an effort to do so. If we please ourselves, we think we shall have accomplished a wonderful thing. We have our doubts as to our ability to do this."

Alabama is by no means the only State that "can boast of bright crop prospects as the same glad tidings are being wafted from all parts of the country. In the West the yield promises to be the best for a number of years. This will help Alabama in one sense, not that we will have need for any of their grain, but it will cheapen the price of meat which will be of great advantage to us as we believe that Alabama has never yet been abused for raising enough meat. And so long as we give all our time and attention to "king cotton" and none to the raising of hogs it is not likely that we will ever be accused of it. The majority of the farmers throughout Alabama who raise any hogs at all, just try to raise enough for self, never thinking for a single moment that their neighbors one or more of them will have to give perhaps one third, or one fourth of the proceeds of his cotton crop to some northern or western stock raiser for a few hundred pounds of salt pork to enable him to make another crop. One trouble is, we don't try to breed good hogs, but will many times waste enough corn to fatten two goods hogs trying to get an old poor scrub in condition for making pork. Which, when killed won't net exceeding seventy-five pounds after deducting forty pounds for head and feet. Let our farmers endeavor to raise their own hogs and don't rely too much on acorns and fresh air to fatten them. If our farmers will only try this a few years and then say it is not better to raise their meat at home than it is to have some fellow away back North raise it for them, then come around and we will own up.

In an interview with a reporter of the Montgomery Dispatch, the editor of the VIEW gave the reporter some of the comments heard on the streets of Clanton in regard to the death of the negro Kinneybrew. The VIEW man had heard the remarks that he repeated to the Dispatch man. As the Dispatch's comment seemed to lay the blame on the county officer who had charge of Kinneyorew, he thought that impression wrong and attempted to correct it, after being asked for information. But it seems that he stirred up some donkey or donkeys who have induced the Sheriff to misapprehend his effort. We stated that whether or not these comments were correct the matter should be investigated. The VIEW man stated that he "did not think the county had a health officer." The Dispatch reported him as stating that there was none. A misapprehension. The Sheriff publishes a communication in the Advertiser in which he says: "Kinneybrew never made any complaint until a short time before his death." We are told that this is a mistake and that Kinneybrew had made frequent and earnest complaints for some time previous to his death. The statement which follows: "Kinneybrew when admitted to the jail, was in an advanced stage of secondary syphillis of which he died" would seem sufficient to bear out the statement that he had complained, and shows the weakness of the argument. The editor of the VIEW does not wish to lay the blame where it does not belong, but he has nothing to retract, as he replied to inquiries by giving the comments he had heard. It will be some pleasure to him to know that the death of Kinneybrew was due to none other than natural causes, if it can be proved.

It may be said that the matter or manner of Kinneybrew's death was none of our business. But we think quite differently, and the general public, being more intelligent than the writer of the Sheriff's communication, will undoubtedly sustain us in this opinion.

Baptist State Convention.

UNION SPRINGS, ALA.,
July 18th, 1887.

The Alabama Baptist State Convention closed its session to-night. It was one of the most harmonious and enjoyable for many years. The ministers held their meeting on Thursday, the day before the Convention met. Many good speeches on interesting topics were made.

The reports on the different mission fields of the denomination showed that some progress had been made; and especially in foreign lands has the advance been most gratifying.

The most interesting question before the Convention was the removal of Howard College. There was considerable opposition to any change in location, but after a thorough discussion resolutions were passed by which a committee of thirteen was appointed to go to Birmingham, and ascertain the real value of the property at East Lake; and, if satisfactory, make arrangements for the opening of the college with the present faculty in temporary buildings. The committee has the power to reject the Birmingham bid and accept those of any other city. Anniston is the only rival of any consequence who is bidding for the college in opposition to Birmingham. The latter city offers property to the amount of one hundred and seventy thousand dollars, while Anniston will give one hundred and fifty-five thousand. It is more than probable that both bids will be raised, but it is almost certain that Birmingham will get the college. There is hardly any doubt now that Howard College will soon take rank as a leading college in the South. It is expected that an endowment of half a million will be raised in a few years. There is nothing visionary in this. Rev. D. I. Purser who had in charge the work of securing bids in Birmingham felt confident that, but for want of time and the fear of injuring the patronage of the school by keeping the public in suspense as to what would be done with the college, he could have secured at least three hundred thousand dollars.

The subject of general education in all its various aspects was thoroughly ventilated and the conclusion was reached that christian schools are a necessity to counteract the infidelity so rampant in some sections of our country. The instilling of some moral principles into the minds of the young without the Bible is almost an impossibility. By the constitution of the United States, guaranteeing liberty of conscience to all, no religion can be taught in public schools; and so christians can not expect their children to honor the word of God in such schools. It is because of this that Protestant denominations are making strenuous efforts to establish institutions of high standing.

The convention took a firm stand on the prohibition question. Several most interesting speeches were made.

The next session of the convention will be held at Talladega in July, 1888. BIJOU.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

We are having nice rains this week.

A good many of our farmers are eating sweet potatoes.

The pea crop is very promising this season.

Mrs. Lockhart and Mrs. Boyden, of Selma, will spend the summer at Maplesville.

The charming Miss Lula Belle Gilliam, of Howison's mill was the guest of the Misses Glover last week.

The Dunce had the pleasure of meeting one of his old young lady friends, Miss Annie Givhan, at Howison's mill last Sunday.

The readers of the VIEW who were at the re-union, at Randolph last Friday will read the locals with much interest this week to see something of the absence of Davis McGee.

The Dunce was at the re-union and enjoyed himself very much and wishes there were more re-unions. Some say they didn't get enough to eat perhaps they tryed to follow the Dunce's example and eat more than they carried.

DUNCE.

Bivings, Duke & Co's Mill.

We have had fine rains here for the past week and farmers report the best crops for many years past.

Maj. John L. Harrell, of Birmingham, has been down this week to see his daughter and get a little fresh air.

Miss Rebecca Holder has gone to Verbena to spend several days with her father.

Protracted meeting was held at Mt. Pizgah last week and several persons were taken into the church. The ordinance of baptism will be administered to them next Sunday evening by Mr. Stanfield.

Mrs. M. Y. Harrell and daughter, Lucy, who have been spending the past month here left Monday morning for Mobile where they will visit Mrs. L. C. McCants.

Mrs. George Goodson and little son who have been quite sick for several days past are much better.

Dr. A. E. Bivings, who attended the District Conference at Lowndesboro last week, has returned.

Misses Maggie Scherer and Annie Lisa Dunn made [illegible] by spending a few days here last week.

OLD MAID.

Jemison Locals.

Mr. Shelby Allen has moved his family to Jemison and is occupying Mr. W. P. Carter's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Haviland went down to Fitzpatrick's last week to visit relatives. The ladies will spend some time.

Mr. R. B. Pruitt and family from Sylacauga are visiting Mr. W. E. Lowery and other relatives here.

Mr. John Paton and father of Siluria, will move their families to Jemison this fall or winter. The latter has bought and will occupy the Leroy house; the former will build a storehouse and dwelling on an adjoining lot.

Dr. McNeil has bought land just west of town upon which he is going to build a residence. He will move his family here in the fall. We will be glad to welcome the doctor back to his old home.

The young folks went out yesterday en masse to attend the singing convention at Rocky Mount church.

Several new residences are to be built in West Jemison, and one or two in South Jemison in the near future.

Unless something is done to check the aggressions of certain elements, electric lights, a belt line and other modern improvements will be a necessity at no distant day. We must keep abreast of other progressive towns.

Good rains, fine crops, and all lovely along the line.

X. Y. Z.

Strasburg Items.

Although we have been silent for quite a time, we will try once more to renew our acquaintance by sending you a bit of news from this place.

I think we may say without extravagance of language at all that our place is on the incline.

Mr. J. F. Maull is making preparations for moving his mill over sometime in the future.

Dr. J. P. Givhan, we hear, contemplates entering the drug business at this place in the Fall.

We were very highly entertained last Thursday evening at Mr. Maull's in attending a sociable given to his charming daughter, Miss Deedie.

Miss Annie Givhan who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Minnie Givhan at this place left for her home in Uniontown last Friday.

The storehouse of Mrs. M. R. Wilson, one of our most prominent merchants, was struck by lightning on Monday afternoon; the damage, however, was not heavy.

Strasburg has been honored lately with the presence of Messrs. J. Shephard and R. Lee, of Selma, who were on a flying visit to their relatives, Mr. J. J. Lee and family.

With best wishes to the VIEW.

INCE.

Stanton Puffs.

Marriages are all the go this week.

July 20, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. E. S. Starr Mr. Moorer, of Selma to Miss Lizzie King, of Stanton.

July 21, at Mr. David Lodge's by Eld. W. J. Ruddick, Mr. Wiley Rouse to Miss Ludie Smitherman.

July 22, at Mt. Carmel church, by Eld. W. J. Ruddick, Mr. J. M. Jones to Miss Amanda Broadhead.

The young people have this scribe's best wishes for their future happiness.

Prof. E. D. Acker, having closed his school, has gone to Cross Plains to spend vacation.

Our young friend J. R. Gardner is spending a week at Healing Springs, Ala. We hope he will come back well rested.

The new bridge on the G. & C. L. R. R. across Mulberry is completed and has the appearance of being very steady.

The G. & C. L. Co. are having the old saw mill boiler overhauled.

Mr. Harding, a brother-in-law of Mr. C. W. Plant, has been spending a few days in our village.

I made a mistake last week about the time of S. S. Convention at Randolph it meets on Wednesday before the 2d Sunday in Aug. instead of 1st Sunday.

89.

It is moving day with the worms after a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge. They promptly seek new quarters, and the child, so long a sufferer with the horrid things is able to join her playmates in their romps. The symptoms of worms in children are clearly defined and familiar to every mother and White's Cream Vermifuge will relieve your child.

Final Settlement.

STATE OF ALABAMA, CHILTON CO.
Probate Court, July 5th, 1887.

Estate of Richard Fraser, Deceased.

This day came John M. Fraser, the administrator of said estate, and filed his statement, accounts, vouchers and evidences for final settlement of his administration. It is ordered that the 8th day of August, 1887, be appointed a day on which to make such settlement, at which time all persons interested can appear and contest said settlement if they think proper.

jul14 H. J. CALLEN,
Probate Judge Chilton Co.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 1st, 1887.

Complaint having been entered at this office by J. F. Welch, against Wm. B. Flanagan for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 13484, dated September 9th, 1882, upon the n w ¼ of s w ¼ section 10, township 20, range 11 east, in Chilton county, Ala., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 12th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
jul7-4 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

NOTICE NO. 6502.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: John R. Dobbs homestead 1232 for the n w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: H. W. Herbert, John D. Wyatt, Madison Popwell, John Popwell.

jul 28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6500.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: Frank E. Fuller, Homestead 15069, for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec 14, township 21, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said lands, viz: John K. [illegible], Robert M. Reese, William T. Reese and Pierson Cox, all of Stanton, Ala.

jul28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6501.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 10, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Broadhead, Homestead 13128 for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec. 12, township 20, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William A. Smith, George Rucker, Martin Hesler and William H. Foshee, Jr., all of Dixie, Ala.

jul28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6477.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 13, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on August 20th, 1887, viz: Walter M. Jones, Homestead 12973 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ and n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 24, township 23, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Marcus, William E. Marcus, Marion H. Marcus, and Jesse A. Maddox, all of Jumbo, Ala.

jul14 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
June 18, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on August 6, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Nichols Homestead 14785 for the e ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼ and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ section 4, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Cox, Robt. W. Gandy, Daniel H. Mitchell, Joe C. Tucker, all of Dixie, Ala.

Jun23 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 40 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, [illegible] CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH [illegible]

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.
Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.
A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.
Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. ☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' RESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun30-y

L & N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
Louisville, Ky.

THE
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, free.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE.
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.
WILSON HOUSE.
COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER, Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
mar1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Wanted!

A first-class teacher for the Verbena Academy from September 1st. Population district. Climate, health and water unsurpassed.

TRUSTEES.

Verbena, Ala., June 7th, 1887.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure [illegible] from blood poison by it [illegible]. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

CHILTON VIEW.

LANTON, ALA., JULY 28, 1887.

The View is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the ceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will nfer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.

Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

The View is a newspaper for the people.

Several Clantonians spent the day at Shelby Springs last Monday.

Miss Eppie Lewis, of Talledega, is in Clanton visiting friends.

Mr. Tom Windham, of Birmingham, is visiting friends in Clanton.

Miss Bessie Collier, of Troy is visiting her cousin Miss Inez Collier at this place.

Rev. Mr. Handley, of Birmingham, spent several days in Clanton this week.

Misses Libbie Smith and Nannie Sandlin, of Nixburg, Ala., are visiting the family of Mr. Holt.

Misses Mattie and Willie Pou, of Pensacola, are visiting the family of Mr. A. J. Hall near Clanton.

Lost, strayed or stolen, a black cotton umbrella. The finder will be rewarded by returning to this office.

Copious rains in this vicinity have rejoiced the hearts of the farmers, and bountiful crops are now assured.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. J. Duncan, of uth Pittsburg, Tenn., are visiting Dr. W. E. Stewart and family at this place.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved worth in thousands of cases.

The funeral of Mr. Abe Littlejohn and wife will be preached next Sunday at New Salem church, this county, by Rev. A. E. urns.

The young people had a sociable and water-melon feast at Mr. J. L. Gartman's on Friday night and also one at Mr. A. J. Hall's on Monday night.

Mr. Jay Hall who has been second clerk on the steamer "Jewel" the Mobile and Montgomery ade Co. service is at home on a visit to his parents.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

A protracted meeting will be commenced in the Baptist church at this place, next Sabbath, conducted by Rev. Mr. McNeil, of eatsville, and others of the Methodist Protestant faith.

An unpoetical Yankee has described ladies' lips as the glowing gateway of beans, pork, sauerkraut and potatoes. This would provoke Marryat's exclamation of "Such a metaphor I never met afore."

Sampey's Corner.

I have just received a lot of new goods suitable for summer wear. Also a fresh lot of canned goods, tea, chocolate, &c. Those table peaches and pears are as nice as the fresh fruit from the trees. Flour still sells at reasonable prices and coffee is coming down to more reasonable figures. A good stock of shirts just received.

We would be glad to hear from our farmer friends over the county as to the condition of the crops in their neighborhoods. We want such news for publication.

Mr. Fox Wilson, son of Mr. Robert Wilson died at the home of his parents a few miles south of Clanton Wednesday night last. He was about forty years of age.

An interesting communication has been received from the Mulberry neighborhood but as the writer did not send us his or her name along with it we cannot publish.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

A man went home intoxicated. His wife said, "So you've had another glass" "Glass?" said he "Wonderful word. Take off g and it is you."

And she replied, "And take off l and it is you.

Some very much needed work has been done on our streets and we may add that what has been done has been well done. There is still much street work needed and we hope that all who can will volunteer their services or pay what they can until all the streets are worked and put in good condition.

Mr. W. H. Lamar, of Washington, D. C., was married on the 21st inst., to Miss Jennie Lamar, daughter of secretary L. Q. C. Lamar, of the Department of the Interior. The ceremony was preformed at Macon, Ga. Rev. C. R. Lamar, of Demopolis, brother of the groom, officiating. Mr. Lamar is a brother of Mrs. T. Phillips, of Clanton.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

Young men who desire a business education should take advantage of the dull summer months to prepare themselves for the busy fall season. We have two scholarships in excellent Commercial Colleges and will sell them to any one who wishes to take such a course of studies, at a very low price. Call on us for further particulars.

The new Methodist church building is now almost completed. The builders will soon turn the building over to the plasterers and when the plastering is finished and the seats put in it will be ready for dedication. Much work is due Mr. O. A. Duke and others of the building committee for their untiring efforts in having the work pushed through rapidly.

The Cemetery.

About a year ago the fence around our cemetery was built, and at the same time the walks were laid out. The present growth of weeds in the walks and all about the cemetery is a reflection upon the community. I earnestly ask the citizens of Clanton to have a day appointed for all of us to go to work, and clean out the walks and do such work as we find necessary. It speaks well of a town to have a nice, clean cemetery.

CITIZEN.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

A Mum Party.

A mum party is on the tapis for next Friday (to-morrow) night. It will be had at the residence of Mrs. E. C. Lawrence, on Hot Well Ave. Everybody is invited to attend. After the crowd has gathered it will be announced that everybody must keep mum for a specified time or else pay five cents for every time they are caught speaking. Several young ladies will be furnished with little boxes to receive the nickles and whenever they see any one talking they will forthwith and immediately shove their little boxes in the direction of said offenders pocket book, to receive the fine. The proceeds of the entertainment will be given to the church. Come with your pocket full of nickles.

The Hot Well Hotel.

The hotel at the Hot Well is no longer merely a thing talked of but is a reality. Work has already begun on it, the foundation is laid and the frame work is rapidly going up. The building will have about 15 rooms and a basement. Mr. J. L. Gartman has charge of the work and being a rapid workman we expect in a short while to have the hotel completed and filled with guests.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

Street Working.

Our little city seems to be on a boom and I am glad to see enough good citizens take interest in our town to work the streets and have it done, but on the other hand there are always enough kickers in every town who will not take any interest in the good work. These people always find some excuse for not working. I am sorry to say Clanton has a good many of this kind. In some cases parties would be willing to furnish a hand for one day if every stump, root and stone would be removed from in front of their place but otherwise they are not willing, and there are others who do not take any interest whatever, any more than if they did not reside in Clanton. I hope that there are enough of us to stick to the work till it is completed, and I assure you I will furnish my part to beautify our little village.

STREET WORKER.

The Boil!

"Why neighbor, what is the matter? You look used up!"

"O, I have the worst boil I ever had in my life!"

"Well you shouldn't find fault with that. Why it is worth $5 to you."

"You can say as you please about that. I would rather have the $5 and you may have the boil."

Many have felt the force of the last remark. It is an evidence that the system is not in a healthy condition. While suppuration is but forcing a vent for an accumulation of unhealthy and rejected tissue material, its discharge is no evidence that the system will not make any more, but do that which will render the whole system in a healthier condition. To know how this can best be done, send for the Brochure, a book of 200 pages, published by Drs. Starkey and Palen, 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. It will be sent free.

We have just received a new and well selected stock of stationery for job printing purposes and are now ready to print your letter heads, note heads, bill heads, envelopes, commissary checks, cards, posters, circular letters, pamphlets, &c., as cheap and neat as you can get it done elsewhere. Give us your printing to do and we will guarantee satisfaction.

Worthy of Recording.

Fortune knocks once at every man's door; but she doesn't go hunting thro' beer saloons for him if the man happens to be out—Puck.

A woman by way of experiment, recently tied a pedometer to her chin, and discovered that she talked thirty-three miles between breakfast and lunch.

A half-ton of coal, a sack of flour and a dollar in money given to some deserving family will bring the donor nearer to heaven than a dozen of windy prayers.—Western Insurance Review.

The question why printers do not succeed so well as brewers, was thus answered: Because printers work for the head, and brewers work for the stomach, and where twenty men have stomachs but one has brains."

Louise Michel the French Anarchist, would do the poor a real service if she would distribute among them the far famed remedy known as White's Cream Vermifuge, the best preparation in the world for worms. It moves them speedily, and there is no other remedy which possesses its virtues of purity, promptness and efficacy. Use White's Cream Vermifuge and no other.

Things to be Remembered.

BEDS.—Four times a year have the beds and mattresses beaten and shaken in the open air; once a year, if needed, have the latter remade. If bedsteads or boards of a room contain unpleasant intruders, expel them at once by brushing every crevice with strong brine and let it crystalize on, and so remain instead of removing it. Be careful in this process to brine the floors before taking the bed to pieces.

CARPETS.—Be sure and take up your carpets this spring, and this fall, and every spring and fall, and beat them.

Carpets are generally considered unhealthy; which saying is correct, provided they are left on the floor from one year's end to the other without proper dusting and airing.

One woman was heard to say that she hadn't had the brussels carpet on her parlor up for seven years and it was just as bright and nice as on the day it was put down. Perhaps it was; but from the musty atmosphere of the room there might be typhoid fever lurking in every nook and corner.

An old maid said "I never was courted but once in my life, I never shall forget it. It made me feel so comfortable." Similar are the feelings of the man who suffered with piles and was made comfortable by the Use of Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment, a simple and never failing cure for Piles. A hint to such sufferers is sufficient.

MONTGOMERY
FURNITURE COMPANY.
—DEALERS IN—
Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,
And All Kinds of Furniture!
A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.
sep2 y

THE CATERPILLAR.

A Timely Suggestion as to the Best Means of Getting Rid of the Pest.

Montgomery Dispatch.]

EDITORS DISPATCH:—For the benefit of your numerous readers, I venture to propound a little information that may prove beneficial to some of our cotton planters, in view of the large yield of cotton in this section, which is now almost assured unless the caterpillar makes his appearance.

I would advise the farmers to be on the alert and exterminate the despoiler before he ruins the crop, should he make his appearance. This can effectually be done by the use of "Paris green" properly used. The best known manner of applying it is in the dry powder, as follows: Make two sacks from common white cotton cloth, to hold about a gallon each, fill the sacks with the dry powder, and attach to each end of a pole about ten feet long; a man on horse back should then ride up every third to fifth row carrying the pole crosswise in front of him and shake it as he rides. The powder will filter through the cloth and leave a cloud of dust behind him and settle on every part of the plant, and even on the blossom, without the slightest injury to it. The plant will by this means absorb sufficient poison to kill the worms and eggs. This is more economical than sprinkling and more certain.

YOURS, IN SEASON.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR
A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES
—SUCH AS—
Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular
MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.
If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. ☞ Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.
DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN
NOT A DRUG
1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.
A WELL TRIED TREATMENT
For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Sidalls, Merchant, Philad'a.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales

And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

Send us your job work,

This space is reserved by
A. J. BROOKS
AT VERBENA, ALA.,
FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING
☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.
WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.
Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.
Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office.. Correspondence solicited. feb24
References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON
W. H. SARTOR,
FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.
☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.
New Stock and Low Prices.
HADAWAY,
No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala.
SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice.

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS, COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.
Largest Stock in the State.
Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 806. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT
THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.
FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.
[illegible]
PARSONS' PILLS MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD.
[illegible]
MAKE HENS LAY
[illegible]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 283.
☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.
J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.
Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.
feb15-tf]

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 18 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞Correspondence solicited.☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. Janly

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,

Avondale, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

---

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 600 students from 22 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

The Chilton View Job Office,

IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR

JOB PRINTING,

SUCH AS

NOTE HEADS,

LETTER HEADS,

BILL HEADS,

ENVELOPES,

CARDS,

COMMISSARY CHECKS,

CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS,

OF ALL KINDS,

NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.

SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

THE HUMAN CORMORANT.

A MAN WHO CATCHES FISH WITH HIS HANDS AND MOUTH.

A Georgia Colored Man's Remarkable Powers Under Water—Extraordinary Piscatorial Exhibition.

A recent issue of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle contains the following: Some weeks ago the Chronicle made mention of the wonderful feats performed at Moore's Lagoon by a colored man named Wallace Bailey, dubbing him "the human king-fisher," but the account was ridiculed and laughed at generally, being considered the product of vivid imagination. What was then stated, however, did not comprise a third of what this man is capable of doing in the water. Knowing that the great majority of people entirely doubted Bailey's powers, several gentlemen finally persuaded him to name a day for a public exhibition. Yesterday afternoon, therefore, nearly a hundred people had assembled at the lagoon, which is located about one mile from the eastern boundary of the city on the ferry road. Disrobing at one end, he swam down to the open stretch of water before the crowd.

Quickly, but with hardly a ripple of the placid surface, he sank beneath the water. Up to this time many present were skeptical as to the result, and when a minute had nearly elapsed and still he had not come to the top, the doubting ones felt certain that it was a sell of some kind.

"Hello! there he is."

"The human cormorant" came to the top like a cork, holding both hands aloft, in each appearing a struggling fish. This caused a flutter of applause, which encouraged the fisher, and, after throwing his prey out on the bank, he went down again. This, too, was the most successful dive of the day, not only did he have a fish in each hand, but one in his mouth. This was enough in itself to satisfy the entire audience, although some were of the opinion that he had two or three fish tied at the bottom. During the morning he caught two or three bunches, and went in again at 8 o'clock. The water was cold, and he could not stand it longer than an hour. He captured eight or ten fish however, including trout, perch, bream and catfish. It was wonderful work, indeed, and all who saw it were amazed. On leaving the water the man shook like a leaf, and narrowly escaped a chill.

After most of the crowd had left a reporter talked for some time with Bailey. His story was certainly a strange one, and will bear repetition:

"How long have you been at this business?"

"About six years. But I can only enter the water in summer, and even then it freezes me clear to the bone."

"What in the world ever possessed you to try such a thing?"

"Well, sir, it was all in a dream. I took several of my female friends down to Lagoon one afternoon on a fishing party, and while there I fell asleep. I went to dreaming, and thought I just div under and caught 'em with my hands. When I woke up I ran to the other end of the pond, took off my clothes and jumped in. It felt mighty funny at first to keep my eyes open under water, but I stuck to it and in a little while caught two or three dozen fish. Since then I have tried it every summer, and now I can see snags, stumps or anything else. Why, I can tell what kind of fish I see, and can get any kind they tell me."

"After you catch sight of the fish, how do you secure him?"

"Oh, that's easy enough. He can get along pretty fast, at first, for about eight yards, but then he gets slow, and I just keep on and catch him, because, you see, I can stay under the water two or three minutes. The way I catch most of them is by finding their beds. Sometimes there's twenty or thirty huddled together, and then you go up easy, put one in your mouth, grab one in each hand and come up to the top. When the sun comes out good they drop to the bottom, a lot of them getting together in a bed, and goes to sleep or gets stupid anyhow. That's the easiest way to catch 'em, but it doesn't make any difference to me, 'cause I'll get 'em, no matter what they do."

"Do they ever fin you?"

"Sometimes, especially if it's a catfish. See my hands don't you, how they're scratched? That's what done it."

"Why do you prefer to fish in the lagoon?"

"Because it's still water, and clear, too. The river is usually muddy, and besides the current is strong. In eddy water I can outswim a fish, but I can't do it against the stream. It doesn't trouble me a bit to catch 'em in any kind of pond or lake. In the river, if a fish started up stream he would leave me far behind. I have caught several in the Savannah, but it was only by quick work. Still water is the best."

How to Breathe.

"The trouble with you and your only ailment," said a prominent physician to his patient, "is that you don't know how to breathe." The patient looked at the doctor as if he failed to grasp his meaning. "How do I live if I don't breathe?" he asked sharply. "You don't live, you simply exist," retorted the physician, just as sharply. "You take in and expel the air about thirty times a minute, when seventeen times is ample. Your inspirations are so slight that only a small portion of your lungs are filled with air, the remainder lying unfilled and dormant, except in times of great muscular exertion, and that is about once a year with such men as you. Many people die every year because they are too lazy to breathe. Never mind Indian clubs or boxing clubs. Take a walk every day and breathe for all you are worth, deep, strong and about seventeen to the minute. You don't need medicine. Go away and breathe."—Philadelphia Call.

A Sagacious Dog.

A dog-loving family on Staten Island has a remarkably intelligent [illegible]. Discussing his wit, one day, it was proposed to send him up stairs for his mistress's wrap. But first one of the ladies went upstairs, laid the wrap on the floor, and sat down on it with her sewing. The dog was sent and quickly found the wrap [illegible] he tugged at it, first on one side and then on the other. Discouraged, but not dismayed, he paused for a moment, when suddenly making a dive, he seized the sewing [illegible] and ran toward [illegible] now off her [illegible] to rescue her work. This was enough; the dog dropped the sewing, ran for the wrap, and bore it in triumph to his mistress. [illegible]

[illegible] Concert.

[illegible]

Hear the voices from the [illegible]

Solo singers everywhere!

First a low and plaintive murmur,

Then the [illegible] air,

'Tis a grand mosquito concert

At the setting of the sun.

—Harper's Bazar.

Picture of an Eviction.

A force of police and military set out for the townland of Ballyedonoghue, about a mile from Bodyke on the road towards Limerick, in Ireland, for the purpose of evicting a man named Bolton. The troops and police were very much fatigued, owing to the long marches already made with a fierce, tropical heat beating down on them all the way, and they were rested for a start when they turned off the main road into the one leading over the fields and hillside to the tenant's house. The column, instead of advancing to the farm in a body and then forming itself into cordons, approached the place in sections of companies, Col. Turner, mounted on horseback, directing the operations, assisted by Col. Miller and Capt. Welsh. To the surprise of the sheriff and those conducting the campaign, it was found that not the slightest preparation had been made to give any resistance. As the forces were defiling down the fields towards Tenant Bolton's house some policemen left the ranks for the purpose of filling their water-bottles from the well close by. Some young women who observed the men approaching at once stirred up the water in the well so as to dirty it. A policeman threatened to duck one of the girls in the well, and Col. Miller coming up said he felt inclined to give the women a good kicking for their conduct. Two countrymen commenced to groan at the police and call them names. Col. Turner, who observed the latter incident, ordered the policemen with staves to be down on them and arrest them. The countrymen, however, had taken time by the wing, and were far away before some fifty constables were chasing after them to no purpose over the fields. There being no resistance offered, the eviction was carried out without anything whatever of the excitement at similar previous occurrences. The few sticks of furniture in the house were put out, but previous to the sheriff giving up possession to the agent, a son of the tenant was found concealed in the premises, and dragged out by the police. Bolton resented their rough treatment, whereupon he was taken into custody.

Electric Street Cars.

A successful exhibition of a street car propelled by electricity from storage batteries placed under the seats, was made in Philadelphia. The batteries consist of eighty-four small cells, each being of the size of about one-quarter of a cubic foot. The track upon which the car was run is 1,000 feet in length with four curves, one of which has a radius of thirty-three feet. Immediately upon leaving the curve a gradient commences with a rise of 5 per cent, which is equal to 264 feet per mile. There was no brake used, the car being controlled entirely by electricity through the medium of a small handle which was turned as the occasion required so as to regulate the speed, stop, or start the car as might be wished. The stored electric energy is sufficient, it is claimed, to run the car over an ordinary street car track thirty miles without exchanging the battery. It can run upon ordinary street-car tracks where horse cars will run.

Marvelous Growth.

In 1880 the South had 180 cotton mills, while it now has [illegible]. In 1880 there were 31,569 manufactories in the South, producing $6[illegible]6,924,794, against 31,419 now, producing $505,892,000. In 1880 the South mined 6,000,000 tons of coal and in 1886 over 13,000,000, while during the same period $600,000,000 have been spent in building new railroads and improving old ones, the present mileage in the Southern states being 38,767 miles, against 20,642 in 1880.

Prof. Loisette's Memory Discovery.

No doubt can be entertained about the value and genuineness of Prof. Loisette's Memory System, as it is so strongly recommended by Mark Twain, Mr. Proctor, Hons. W. W. Astor, Judah P. Benjamin, Dr. Buckley, and others. For full details send for Prof. L.'s prospectus, at 237 Fifth Ave., New York. From it the System is taught by correspondence quite as well as by personal instruction. Colleges near New York have secured his lectures. He has had 100 Columbia Law students, two classes of 200 each at Yale, 200 at Meriden, 250 at Norwich, 400 at Wellesley College, and 400 at University of Penn. We cannot conceive how a system could receive any higher endorsement.

Are Married People Happy?

Do you think married people are happy, Uncle Jake? "Dat ar 'pends altogedder how dey enjoy demselves; if dey hab chilluns an' keep Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial, dey are certain to be, for hit will cure de bowel troubles and de chillun teething."

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Dr. Thompson's Eye-water. All druggists sell it at 25c. a bottle.

The best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

Boils and Pimples

And other affections arising from impure blood may appear at this season, when the blood is heated. Hood's Sarsaparilla removes the cause of these troubles by purifying, vitalizing and enriching the blood, and at the same time it gives tone and strength to the whole system, and makes one feel "like a new man."

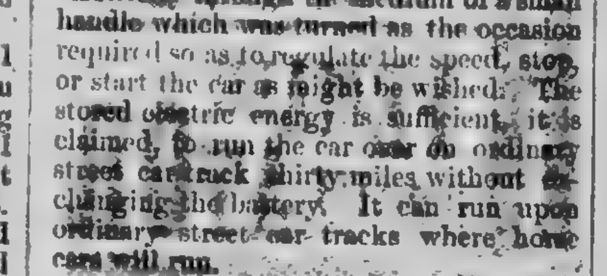
"I know Hood's Sarsaparilla to be good by the trial I gave it for eruptions on my face. I had a hard time to purify my blood, but succeeded at last with Hood's Sarsaparilla."—HARRY G. PAGE, Champaign, Ill.

Be sure to get the peculiar medicine,

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar



MARLIN REPEATING RIFLE

BEST IN THE WORLD!

Guaranteed perfectly accurate and absolutely safe. Made in all sizes for large or small game.

BALLARD

Gallery, Hunting and Target Rifles. Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

Marlin Fire Arms Co., New Haven, Conn.

HERBRAND FIFTH WHEEL

Without increasing the cost we have made the FIFTH WHEEL the strongest and most satisfactory part of a Buggy or Carriage. Illustrated pamphlet free.

THE HERBRAND CO.

FREMONT, O.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.

JEWELERS.

Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 2½ S. Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address [illegible] M. BOCK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

[illegible] Improved ROOT BEER [illegible]

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

INVALIDS' HOTEL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Not a Hospital, but a pleasant Remedial Home, organized with

A FULL STAFF OF EIGHTEEN PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS,

And exclusively devoted to the treatment of all Chronic Diseases.

This imposing Establishment was designed and erected to accommodate the large number of invalids who visit Buffalo from every State and Territory, as well as from many foreign lands, that they may avail themselves of the professional services of the Staff of skilled specialists in medicine and surgery that compose the Faculty of this widely-celebrated institution.

A FAIR AND BUSINESS-LIKE OFFER TO INVALIDS.

We earnestly invite you to come, see and examine for yourself, our institutions, appliances, advantages and success in curing chronic diseases. Have a mind of your own. Do not listen to or heed the counsel of skeptical friends or jealous physicians, who know nothing of us, our system of treatment, or means of cure, yet who never lose an opportunity to misrepresent and endeavor to prejudice people against us. We are responsible to you for what we represent, and if you come and visit us, and find that we have misrepresented, in any particular, our institutions, advantages or success, we will promptly refund to you all expenses of your trip. We court honest, sincere investigation, have no secrets, and are only too glad to show all interested and candid people what we are doing for suffering humanity.

NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.

By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases just as successfully without as with a personal consultation. While we are always glad to see our patients, and become acquainted with them, show them our institutions, and familiarize them with our system of treatment, yet we have not seen one person in five hundred whom we have cured. The perfect accuracy with which scientists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous, if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take, for example, the electro-magnetic telegraph, the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with the most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and foretell what the weather will be in Florida or New York as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between him and the places named. And so in all departments of modern science,

SIGNS OF DISEASE.

what is required is the knowledge of certain signs. From these scientists deduce accurate conclusions regardless of distance. So, also, in medical science, diseases have certain unmistakable signs, or symptoms, and by reason of this fact, we have been enabled to originate and perfect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of chronic diseases, without seeing and personally examining our patients. In recognizing diseases without a personal examination of the patient, we claim to possess no miraculous powers. We obtain our knowledge of the patient's disease by the practical application, to the practice of medicine, of well-established principles of modern science. And it is to the accuracy with which this system has endowed us that we owe our almost world-wide reputation of skillfully treating lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice, and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which, being subjected to scientific analysis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data, to guide the judgment of the skillful practitioner aright in determining the nature of diseased conditions. The most ample resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases, and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of every invalid, however distant he or she may reside from the physicians making the treatment of such affections a specialty. Full particulars of our original, scientific system of examining and treating patients at a distance are contained in "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." By R. V. Pierce, M. D. 1000 pages and over 300 colored and other illustrations. Sent, post-paid, for $1.50. Or write and describe your symptoms, inclosing ten cents in stamps, and a complete treatise, on your particular disease, will be sent you, with our terms for treatment and all particulars.

MARVELOUS SUCCESS.

COMMON SENSE AS APPLIED TO MEDICINE.

It is a well-known fact, and one that appeals to the judgment of every thinking person, that the physician who devotes his whole time to the study and investigation of a certain class of diseases, must become better qualified to treat such diseases than he who attempts to treat every ill to which flesh is heir, without giving special attention to any class of diseases. Men, in all ages of the world, who have become famous, have devoted their lives to some special branch of science, art, or literature.

By thorough organization, and subdividing the practice of medicine and surgery in this institution, every invalid is treated by a specialist—one who devotes his undivided attention to the particular class of diseases to which the case belongs. The advantage of this arrangement must be obvious. Medical science offers a vast field for investigation, and no physician can, within the brief limits of a life-time, achieve the highest degree of success in the treatment of every malady incident to humanity.

OUR FIELD OF SUCCESS.

NASAL, THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES.

The treatment of Diseases of the Air Passages and Lungs, such as Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption, both through correspondence and at our institutions, constitutes an important specialty.

We publish three separate books on Nasal, Throat and Lung Diseases, which give much valuable information, viz: (1) A Treatise on Consumption, Laryngitis and Bronchitis; price, post-paid, ten cents. (2) A Treatise on Asthma, or Phthisic, giving new and successful treatment; price, post-paid, ten cents. (3) A Treatise on Chronic Nasal Catarrh; price, post-paid, two cents.

DISEASES OF DIGESTION.

Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Obstinate Constipation, Chronic Diarrhea, Tape-worms, and kindred affections are among those chronic diseases in the successful treatment of which our specialists have attained great success. Many of the diseases affecting the liver and other organs contributing in their functions to the process of digestion, are very obscure, and are not infrequently mistaken by both laymen and physicians for other maladies, and treatment is employed directed to the removal of a disease which does not exist. Our Complete Treatise on Diseases of the Digestive Organs will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

KIDNEY DISEASES.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES, and kindred maladies, have been very largely treated, and cures effected in thousands of cases which had been pronounced beyond hope. These diseases are readily diagnosticated, or determined, by chemical analysis of the urine, without a personal examination of patients, who can, therefore, generally be successfully treated at their homes. The study and practice of chemical analysis and microscopical examination of the urine in our consideration of cases, with reference to correct diagnosis, in which our institution long ago became famous, has naturally led to a very extensive practice in diseases of the urinary organs. Probably no other institution in the world has been so largely patronized by sufferers from this class of maladies as the old and world-famed World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel. Our specialists have acquired, through a vast and varied experience, great expertness in determining the exact nature of each case, and, hence, have been successful in nicely adapting their remedies for the cure of each individual case.

CAUTION.

These delicate diseases should be carefully treated by a specialist thoroughly familiar with them, and who is competent to ascertain the exact condition and stage of advancement which the disease has made (which can only be ascertained by a careful chemical and microscopical examination of the urine), for medicines which are curative in one stage or condition are known to do positive injury in others. We have never, therefore, attempted to put up anything for general sale through druggists, recommending to cure these diseases, although possessing very superior remedies, knowing full well from an extensive experience that the only safe and successful course is to carefully determine the disease and its progress in each case by a chemical and microscopical examination of the urine, and then adapt our medicines to the exact stage of the disease and condition of our patient.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

To this wise course of action we attribute the marvelous success attained by our specialists in that important and extensive Department of our institutions devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of the kidneys and bladder. The treatment of diseases of the urinary organs having constituted a leading branch of our practice at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and, being in constant receipt of numerous inquiries for a complete work on the nature and curability of these maladies, written in a style to be easily understood, we have published a large Illustrated Treatise on these diseases, which will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

BLADDER DISEASES.

INFLAMMATION OF THE BLADDER, STONE IN THE BLADDER, Gravel, Enlarged Prostate Gland, Retention of Urine, and kindred affections, may be included among those in the cure of which our specialists have achieved extraordinary success. These are fully treated of in our illustrated pamphlet on Urinary Diseases. Sent by mail for ten cents in stamps.

STRICTURE.

STRICTURES AND URINARY FISTULÆ.—Hundreds of cases of the worst form of strictures, many of them greatly aggravated by the careless use of instruments in the hands of inexperienced physicians and surgeons, causing false passages, urinary fistulæ, and other complications, annually consult us for relief and cure. That no case of this class is too difficult for the skill of our specialists is proved by cures reported in our illustrated treatises on these maladies, to which we refer with pride. To intrust this class of cases to physicians of small experience is a dangerous proceeding. Many a man has been ruined for life by so doing, while thousands annually lose their lives through unskillful treatment. Send particulars of your case and ten cents in stamps for a large, illustrated treatise containing many testimonials.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

Epileptic Convulsions, or Fits, Paralysis, or Palsy, Locomotor Ataxia, St. Vitus's Dance, Insomnia, or inability to sleep, and threatened insanity, Nervous Debility, arising from overstudy, excesses, and other causes, and every variety of nervous affection, are treated by our specialists for these diseases with unusual success. See numerous cases reported in our different illustrated pamphlets on nervous diseases, any one of which will be sent for ten cents in postage stamps, when request for them is accompanied with a statement of a case for consultation, so that we may know which one of our Treatises to send.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.

We have a special Department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of Diseases of Women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not already baffled the skill of all the home physicians) has the benefit of a full Council of skilled specialists. Rooms for ladies in the Invalids' Hotel are very private. Send ten cents in stamps for our large Complete Treatise on Diseases of Women, illustrated with numerous wood-cuts and colored plates (160 pages).

RADICAL CURE OF RUPTURE.

HERNIA (Breach), or RUPTURE, no matter of how long standing, or of what size, is promptly and permanently cured by our specialists, without the knife and without dependence upon trusses. Abundant references. Send ten cents for Illustrated Treatise.

PILES, FISTULÆ, and other diseases affecting the lower bowels, are treated with wonderful success. The worst cases of pile tumors are permanently cured in fifteen to twenty days. Send ten cents for Illustrated Treatise.

DELICATE DISEASES.

Organic weakness, nervous debility, premature decline of the manly powers, involuntary vital losses, impaired memory, mental anxiety, absence of will-power, melancholy, weak back, and kindred affections, are speedily, thoroughly and permanently cured.

To those acquainted with our institutions, it is hardly necessary to say that the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, with the branch establishment located at No. 3 New Oxford Street, London, England, have, for many years, enjoyed the distinction of being the most largely patronized and widely celebrated institutions in the world for the treatment and cure of those affections which arise from youthful indiscretions and pernicious, solitary practices.

We, many years ago, established a special Department for the treatment of these diseases, under the management of some of the most skillful physicians and surgeons on our Staff, in order that all who apply to us might receive all the advantages of a full Council of the most experienced specialists.

WE OFFER NO APOLOGY.

We offer no apology for devoting so much attention to this neglected class of diseases, believing no condition of humanity is too wretched to merit the sympathy and best services of the noble profession to which we belong. Many who suffer from these terrible diseases contract them innocently. Why any medical man, intent on doing good and alleviating suffering, should shun such cases, we cannot imagine. Why any one should consider it otherwise than most honorable to cure the worst cases of these diseases, we cannot understand; and yet of all the other maladies which afflict mankind there is probably none about which physicians in general practice know so little. We shall, therefore, continue, as heretofore, to treat with our best consideration, sympathy, and skill, all applicants who are suffering from any of these delicate diseases.

CURED AT HOME. Most of these cases can be treated when at a distance just as well as if here in person.

A Complete Treatise (136 pages) on these diseases sent sealed, in plain envelope, secure from observation, on receipt of only ten cents, in stamps, for postage.

SURGICAL PRACTICE.

Hundreds of the most difficult operations known to modern surgery are annually performed in the most skillful manner, by our Surgeon-specialists. Large Stones are safely removed from the bladder, by crushing, washing and pumping them out, thus avoiding the great danger of cutting. Our specialists remove cataract from the eye, thereby curing blindness. They also straighten cross-eyes and insert artificial ones when needed. Many Ovarian and also Fibroid Tumors of the Uterus are arrested in growth and cured by electrolysis, coupled with other means of our invention, whereby the great danger of cutting operations in these cases is avoided.

Especially has the success of our improved operations for Varicocele, Hydrocele, Fistulæ, Ruptured Cervix Uteri, and for Ruptured Perineum, been alike gratifying both to ourselves and our patients. Not less so have been the results of numerous operations for Stricture of the Cervical Canal, a condition in the female generally resulting in Barrenness, or Sterility, and the cure of which, by a safe and painless operation, removes this commonest of impediments to the bearing of offspring.

A Complete Treatise on any one of the above maladies will be sent on receipt of ten cents in stamps.

ALL CHRONIC DISEASES A SPECIALTY.

Although we have in the preceding paragraphs, made mention of some of the special ailments to which particular attention is given by the specialists at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, yet the institution abounds in skill, facilities, and apparatus for the successful treatment of every form of chronic ailment, whether requiring for its cure medical or surgical means.

All letters of inquiry, or of consultation, should be addressed to

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION,

663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,

A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.

☞ Before deciding where to send your daughter to school, write for an illustrated catalogue giving full particulars, to ROBT. D. SMITH, Pres't, Columbia, Tenn.

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will Give Away 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office at once. The National Co., 23 Dey St., N.Y.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. [illegible] E. H. GELSTON & Co., Washington, D. C.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address DR. WM. M. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

Central University.

RICHMOND, KY. Next Session opens Sep. 14, '87. Full faculty, thorough instruction, healthy location, moderate expenses. For information and Catalogue apply to L. H. Blanton, D. D., Chancellor.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

Milo B. Stevens & Co.

GLOVER BUILDING.

PENSIONS Washington, D. C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

A. N. K. Twenty-nine, '87.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 15	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	16 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	25 00	32 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 4, 1887. NUMBER 39.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

Only one former Vice-President survives—Hannibal Hamlin, the first of the six Republican Vice-Presidents. He was elected to that office in 1860, and is now nearly seventy-eight years old.

A shrewd merchant says that the money expended in labor to keep a brass sign properly scoured could be more profitably invested in newspaper advertising. He does not believe in brass ornaments of any kind.

Sweden has become a great exporter of butter. The amount sent abroad last year was valued at more than $4,000,000. The Swedish dairies are now worked upon the most improved systems. Only skilled hands are employed in receiving the milk, separating and refining the cream, and churning the butter. The work is performed with the greatest care and cleanliness. The dairymaids receive a practical and theoretical training at dairy schools.

Tyler is the only President whose wife died while he was in office, but that was his first wife. He was a widower not quite two years; and counting him there have been six widower Presidents, the others being Jefferson, Jackson, Van Buren, Fillmore and Arthur, these five remaining unmarried while in the White House, and but one bachelor President, Buchanan, who was single throughout his term, Cleveland being the only other who began a term as a bachelor. Fillmore married his second wife after his term as President expired. He and Tyler are the only two of our Presidents who have had two wives.

A plan conceived as long ago as 1873 is about to begin realization for the construction, in New York city, of a Protestant Episcopal Cathedral, which will surpass in size and grandeur any similar building on this continent. The project is being aided by others than Episcopalians, in one instance a Presbyterian giving $100,000. The estimated cost of the structure will be $6,000,000. The construction of the cathedral will be done in sections. The choir, which will probably be erected first, will, it is said, be as large as Trinity Church in the metropolis. The site has not been selected, but it will be as commanding a one as can be secured. The name will be the Cathedral of John the Divine, and the work of building will be commenced at an early day.

Consumption is the cause of nearly fifteen per cent. of the whole number of deaths, or about three in 1,000 of the whole population each year of the world over. Impure air and bad hygiene are potent factors in its production. The disease is most prevalent in temperate climates, but exists in a virulent form in the tropics. The influence of altitude is very marked. There is almost complete immunity from the disease among the higher Alps, the Andes, the Himalayas and other extremely elevated regions; while among the Tennessee and North Carolina mountains, a case of true pulmonary consumption was seldom, if ever, known to originate. In seeking a new location immigrants are wise who settle in non-malarious neighborhoods.

The following statistics have been compiled by the American Steam-boiler Insurance Company of New York of the boiler explosions during the last twelve months:

Flour mills and grain elevators	37
Sugar refineries, dye works, sugar houses and pork-packing establishments	50
Paper mills, bleacheries, etc	31
Rolling mills and iron works	68
Breweries and distilleries	29
Cotton mills and textile manufactories	11
Locomotives, portable boilers and colliery boilers, etc	76
Marine boilers (tugs, floating elevators and other vessels)	100
Planing mills and other wood-workers	131
Miscellaneous, including low-pressure boilers	77
Total	628
Persons killed	1,035
Persons injured	1,223
Total	2,258

Average explosions per month, over fifty-two. Average killed and injured per month, over 188.

There are thirty-seven oleomargarine factories in the United States, two of which are in Denver, two others west of the Mississippi river, eleven in Chicago, six in the State of New York, five in Rhode Island, five in Pennsylvania, four in Ohio, one in Indiana, and one in Massachusetts. All but one are in cities. There are 226 wholesale dealers who have paid special tax; and the whole number of retail dealers is 3,557, in thirty-six States and Territories. With such facilities for supply, those who prefer the imitation to genuine butter need have no trouble in procuring. quan suff. It is stated that the chemist of the Internal Revenue Department at Washington—an officer created under the law of 1886—already has shelves, boxes, pails and packages of the suspected product in hand, with a safe well filled with specimens of all colors, flavors and odors, which have been sent for official analyses. He and his assistants are kept busy, and have at least a month's work before them. There is also a microscopist in the "artificial butter" department, who, with the chemist, is pledged to report on each and every article sent them on which an effort has been made to make it appear of a different substance than it really is.

HOME.

Home's not merely four square walls,
Though with pictures hung and gilded;
Home is where affection calls,
Filled with shrines the heart hath builded!
Home! go watch the faithful dove—
Sailing 'neath the heaven above us;
Home is where there's one to love!
Home is where there's one to love us.

Home's not merely roof and room;
It needs something to endear it.
Home is where the heart can bloom,
Where there's some kind lip to cheer it!
What is home with none to meet!
None to welcome, none to greet us!
Home is sweet, and only sweet,
Where there's one we love to meet us!

TRAILING ARBUTUS.

BY F. E. H. RAYMOND.

"Hurry up, Trixie, dear, and finish your sweeping! Kate Merrill has just run over to say that we are all to go a-Maying this afternoon."

"Oh, that's lovely!" answered a girlish voice from the top stair.

"But I didn't know there were any flowers out yet."

"Well, there are, then. Tom Taylor's been for a ride over 'Break Neck,' and reports there are quantities."

"Did he bring you any?"

"Not one. He said if arbutus was worth having, it was worth going after; and it is he who is getting up the party."

Down came Trixie, dusting each stair as she did so, and looking as pretty in her white mob-cap as ever she did in a new spring hat.

Beatrice Morgan was certainly a charming girl. One couldn't define her beauty—maybe she had none. Still the dark eyes were bright with intelligence, and the saucy little nose had a piquant prettiness of its own. The skin at least was perfect; and if the hair did have to be crimped to make those becoming little waves, why, so did that of many another.

Some critics found fault with the mouth. It was rather large and decided; but it certainly was very womanly as well, and the tender lips parted over a perfect set of teeth. Added to this a trim little figure, whose tenderness still held a suggestion of hidden strength, and Trixie verified old Dr. Taylor's opinion: "Just a bonnie, wholesome, lovable girl."

That good physician would very gladly have seen her the wife of his boy Tom; but unfortunately, the young man had formed a preference of his own, not consonant with his father's choice.

There were a good many pretty girls in Glenham, as there are in every place, if one has the eyes to look for them. They gathered at Kate Merrill's home that bright spring afternoon, and filled the old farm-wagon to overflowing with their exuberant life.

"Every lassie had her laddie." Tom Taylor drove with laughing Kate beside him. A brace of jolly spirits they. There were Lucy Mills and Rob Mitchell, Anna Turner and William Pomfret; lastly Trixie Morgan and Reuben Reeve.

The road was good to the foot of the mountain. There the steady old team was fastened, and the real fun began.

Who does not remember just such a jaunt! The warm spring sunshine; the delight over discovered treasures; an exhilarating sense of the bursting, throbbing life all around!

By-and-by, Beatrice, who had been foremost in the search, grew tired and sat down to rest on a great boulder.

Reuben had wandered a little away in search of water, for the trip had made them all athirst.

As he returned, with his tin cup filled, his face suddenly blanched under its tan.

Trixie, the girl he loved above everything on earth, sat gazing dreamily out over the valley beneath her, and only a few feet from her, ready to spring, was a huge rattlesnake. The unusual warmth of the sun had drawn it from its lair, and some unknown disturbance had roused its anger; may be Trixie's little boot-heel had unknowingly bruised it.

On the instant came the ominous sound of the rattles, and the hoarse cry: "Don't move for your life!" And the girl awoke from her reverie to see Reuben beating and threshing to its death the reptile whose fangs had just now threatened her own life. With a sickening shudder she closed her eyes, and opened them only when a low "Thank God!" reached her ear.

She put out her hand, and Reuben took it, each face still pale with the fright. In such a moment disguises drop. All the love which he had felt, but for his poverty's sake kept hidden beneath his own breast, shone in the young man's eyes, and before their earnest gaze Beatrice dropped her own.

A delicate color crept into the pale cheek, and two great tears welled out from the drooping lids.

There was no need for words. In their great thankfulness, heart spoke to heart. The white hand, still clinging tremblingly to his own, was reverently lifted to the lover's lips; and this was their unspoken betrothal.

Presently, as they strolled slowly down the mountain side toward their waiting friends, Reuben broke the silence.

"Darling, will you give me a spray from your basket?"

Beatrice gathered a few flowers, the rosiest and sweetest of her store, and gave the posy to her lover. In that simple act she felt that she had also given her pledge to trust and wait.

With a tacit understanding neither mentioned the episode through which they had passed, but it required an effort to join in the mirth of their comrades.

"Why, Trixie Morgan, what a lot of flowers you have!" cried Lucy, running to meet them. "Reuben must have helped you to advantage!"

"He did, dear," answered the girl, casting a grateful look at her deliverer.

"Well, you must be awfully tired, to make you both look so solemn; and, Trix, you are as white as if you'd seen a ghost." Beatrice shivered, and Kate's curiosity was also aroused.

"Reuben Reeve," she demanded, with tragic fierceness, "what have you been doing or saying to that girl up there? If you've been reciting any of that horrid poetry or those blood-curdling stories you write, you shall never go Maying with us again."

"I deny the charge, Miss Merrill. Miss Beatrice will bear me out in the assertion that I have not spoken above a dozen sentences since we all separated. But, look at your empty basket! You are the one who wastes time in talking, that is evident."

The laugh was against the accuser now, for Reuben, assuming her own inquisitorial air, arraigned her escort.

"Tom Taylor, give an account of yourself. What kind of a knight errant are you, to let the basket of your lady fair return so empty of the spoils!"

"Well, I'd as soon tell you now as ever that I did talk, and to some purpose. This little girl here has just promised to climb another hill with me—the long one of life. Jolly good times we mean to have, too, spoils or no spoils to show for it, when the journey's done."

It was a frank announcement, and love had made the lighthearted fellow for the once a bit poetical.

They were all old friends and schoolfellows, and well knew that Tom's suit had long been repulsed by blue-eyed Kate, because the old doctor had been opposed. Tom's mother had been a trifle frivolous; enough to make her studious husband's life a burden to him. It was in memory of this, and because he feared Kate Merrill was another of the same sort, that he objected. But all these young people knew better, and that under a laughing manner lay a true and faithful heart.

So it was with warm congratulations they gathered around the open-hearted young couple, and in the midst of much harmless hilarity the homeward ride was taken.

Alas, for the "shadow and shine" of life!

Beatrice Morgan had no mother, and her old father was an invalid. Spring wild-flowers had scarcely given place to the June roses when Mr. Morgan sickened and died. The day of his funeral was the one fixed for Tom and Kate's wedding; and instead of acting the pleasant part of bridesmaid for her friend, poor Trix knelt sobbing by her father's grave.

Change followed change. It was impossible for a young girl to live alone. The Morgans were well connected, and an aunt just going abroad insisted upon taking Beatrice with her. Reuben had tried to be of use in this time of trouble, but officious relatives, who had heard the village rumors, and who thought the match with a poor man unsuitable for their niece, snubbed him so politely, yet decidedly, that he refrained from offering more.

He sought an interview with the girl he loved. She, knowing nothing of the insult which had been offered him, and hurt, on her side, by his apparent want of sympathy, received him coldly.

In the abandon of her grief, her aching heart had longed for the solace of his love. He had failed her! and she recalled, with burning cheek, how easily she had given herself to one who cared so little!

The pain and constraint of both sides were unbearable, and the meeting was brief. But Reuben was not the man to submit tamely to injustice.

"Beatrice," he said, at parting, "you are dearer to me than life or honor, or anything the world holds good. On that May afternoon upon the mountain, I believed that you loved me. Some reptile has come between us. When I have conquered and killed it, I shall ask you to redeem your pledge. Till then, farewell."

He was gone; and Trixie Morgan lay down that night with a greater sense of desolation than before; yet with a renewed belief in the truth of her lover, which she resolved should find an answering truth in her.

Years passed, and the simple Glenham girl had changed much. With native tact she had readily adapted herself to her new surroundings; had enjoyed, with heartiness, the "goods the gods gave her," yet kept throughout it all her own strong individuality.

Some advantageous offers had been made her; and her aunt, who had daughters of her own, began to be anxious that her attractive niece should "settle."

This worldly-wise woman wholly disapproved of the severe course of art study to which Beatrice had applied herself; and quite failed to understand the severe indifference with which she dismissed a wealthy suitor, or the feverish anxiety with which she awaited the reception of her first picture at the Salon.

During the first months of their life in Europe, a few letters had come for Trix, directed in a masculine hand; but with the same motherly care she exercised over the love affairs of her own girls, Mrs. Morgan had retained the missives in her own possession. Her conscience was satisfied—for it was of the good-natured, obliging sort—that they were not destroyed, only kept back for a time.

So the poor girl never knew that Reuben had written; and he, receiving no replies, accepted the fact that his darling wished to ignore him. He gave himself, almost fiercely, to hard work, and gained a steadily advancing position on a leading daily journal. In his leisure hours he wrote magazine articles; and just now had published his first book. The volume proved a success, and with the proceeds of its sale he determined to go abroad.

He said to his friends that he "needed rest, and the education of a foreign tour." To his heart, that he needed, and would find, Beatrice.

But before he went he would run down to Glenham, say good-bye to old companions, and see that the dear, white haired mother had everything provided for her comfort.

Among other places, he dropped in at Tom Taylor's and found Kate down on the floor, playing with her twin boys. She had grown stout in the years that had come and gone since her May-day betrothal, and anxiety about her precious, colicky babies had brought a few puckers to the sunny face. But Kate Taylor's heart was quite as warm as Kate Merrill's had been; and in the plenitude of her young motherhood she longed to take care of and be good to everybody. She had a vivid remembrance of the old days, when Trix and she, Tom and Reuben, had all been young lovers together, and she could not bear that this other pair should miss the sweet completeness of her own life.

She was ready with a bit of news for Mr. Reuben—she hoped it would be good news.

"The Morgans have come back, I hear. They are probably in Boston now, and we hope to see Beatrice very soon."

Her visitor's surprise was as manifest as his eagerness to hear more.

"Yes, and they say Trix has become a fine artist. There was always more in her than the rest of us girls."

"Is she married?"

Reuben tried to be quite cool, but for the life of him couldn't help blurting out his uppermost anxiety in his own fashion.

"Oh, no; I have a letter, which, maybe you'll like to hear;" and she read:

"DEAR KATE: Will you be glad to hear we are coming home?

"My cos Joe has become engaged in a manner highly satisfactory to Aunt Maria, and we are coming to America for the wedding. Louise, you know, married an Englishman, and will tarry abroad, to eat roast beef at her leisure.

"But Joe's fiancee is a cultured Bostonian, and only the sacred surroundings of the modern Athens are fitted for their nuptials!

"Don't mind my nonsense, dear. I am so glad to be coming that I don't know what I write.

"Poor auntie has given me up as a cut-and-dried old maid, the black sheep of her flock; so, after the fuss of the wedding is all over, I'm going to find some respectable, motherly body, and come down to my father's house at Glenham to live and work and be content. You have no sister; so just think how handy I will be in case of the measles, or such!

"I wonder do you ever go a-Maying now? Maybe I'll be home in time for the arbutus; and if so, I'll shoulder one of your fat babies, and you the other, and we'll have a long, delightful day on the mountains. TRIX."

On the 15th! and this was the 3d of May. Even now Beatrice Morgan must be in America, only an hour or two distant from him.

Thackeray says that "all good women are match-makers." Kate was a good woman, and she certainly felt a pleasant sense of satisfaction watching her guest's face while she refolded her letter.

How the stern lines had faded out of it, and how much like the old-time Reuben he began to look!

"Well, I find I must shorten my call," said the young man, springing up. "Thank you for reading the letter; and say good-by to Tom for me."

"What! going so soon? Surely you will stay for supper. Tom will be awfully disappointed to miss you."

"I'm sorry, but—pulling out his watch—"I find I have just time to catch the evening train, after seeing mother again. Good-by."

And up the village street sped Reuben, his feet winged with the energy of hope.

The 9:15 train was late that night, and the impatient traveler was compelled to rest and reflect.

"A needle in a haymow." Boston was a good-sized place, he remembered, and where among its crooked streets dwelt his darling that night?

With the daylight, "hotel registers!" was the bright thought which came to him. As he hoped, the name of the Morgan party were found at a prominent "house;" but to his disgust, he learned also they had left after a brief stay.

"Where did they go?"

"Well, really," the politely non-committal clerk informed him, "he couldn't say, you know. Some private house, he believed, but"—eying our hero's anxious face suspiciously—"really he couldn't say, you know."

Another idea struck the baffled searcher. The Spring Exhibition of Water Colors was in progress at the Art Club-house, and thither, sooner or later, an artist would be sure to find her way.

He bought the morning paper, and hurried to Newbury street. It was very early, himself the first visitor. So he tried to pass the time in reading. Instead, he did the most unromantic thing possible—went sound asleep. A wakeful night, after a hurried journey, had wearied him greatly; the quietude of the deserted gallery was irresistible, and Dame Nature placidly poked Miss Romance into her pocket for a bit.

After a refreshing nap, Reuben awoke to find the rooms quite full of people. A little ashamed of his "forgetfulness," he rose and sauntered about the gallery. Presently, something arrested him. It was a delicate, subtly sweet odor, which in a flash carried him back to old Break Neck and a May-day, years gone by.

He looked around now, eagerly.

A lady in a dark blue traveling-dress stood before one of the pictures, but not looking at it. On the contrary, she was holding to her face, and as nearly hiding, in a little caressing motion of delight, a bunch of trailing-arbutus.

Despite its distinguished and foreign air, there was something very familiar about the trim figure; and the half-hidden profile was, could be, only that of Beatrice. His heart gave a great bound and in an instant he was at the lady's side.

The brown eyes looked up at him in glad amaze. How lovely she had grown!

"Beatrice, darling, I was crossing the ocean to find you. The old serpent of my poverty is dead; let all the doubts and misunderstandings of these years die with it. If I was afraid to make my meaning plain before, I am not now. Here I ask you, dear love of my whole life, will you be my wife?"

Once more the soft eyes filled with happy tears, and vailed themselves before his passionate glance; once more a white hand held out to him a bunch of their own sacred, dainty flowers. He took them both, the hand and the blossoms, with tender revenge, and will keep them to the end.—Frank Leslie's.

Fish Traveling Overland.

A singular fact in connection with the pike is its habit of suddenly appearing in ponds in which it did not previously exist. Experiments which have been made would seem to point to the inference that this fish, like the eel, will travel over land for a short distance through wet grass, to reach water. An instance of this kind once happened at the Zoological Gardens. During the night, a tank in which a pipe was confined burst, and the pike being left, was found in the morning by the keeper making its way along the path toward a pond at some distance. When picked up it had already gone some twenty yards, and seemed to have sufficient strength left to accomplish the remainder of the journey.—Chambers's Journal.

Expected a Kick.

A cow stood looking over a gate on Brush street the other day, and a woman stood waving her apron at the cow from the front steps. A boy came along and saw the situation and called out:

"She won't hook you, ma'am."

"Oh, I ain't afraid of her hooking me," replied the woman, "but I don't want her to come into the house and kick my furniture all to pieces."—Detroit Free Press.

The warm sunshine and the gentle zephyr may melt the glacier which has bid defiance to the howling tempest, so the voice of kindness will touch the heart which no severity can subdue.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "Watering the Sheep."

TEXT: "We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."—Genesis xxix., 8.

A scene in Mesopotamia, beautifully pastoral. A well of water of great value in that region. The fields around about it white with three flocks of sheep lying down waiting for the watering. I hear their bleating coming on the bright air, and the laughter of young men and maidens indulging in rustic repartee. I look off and I see other flocks of sheep coming. Meanwhile, Jacob, a stranger, on the interesting errand of looking for a wife, comes to the well. A beautiful shepherdess comes to the same well. I see her approaching, followed by her father's flock of sheep. It was a memorable meeting. Jacob married that shepherdess. The Bible account of it is: "Jacob kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice and wept." It has always been a mystery to me what he found to cry about. But before that scene occurred, Jacob accosts the shepherds and asks them why they postpone the slaking of the thirst of these sheep, and why they did not immediately proceed to water them. The shepherds reply to the effect: "We are all good neighbors, and, as a matter of courtesy, we wait until all the sheep of the neighborhood come up. Besides that, this stone on the well's mouth is somewhat heavy, and several of us take hold of it and push it aside, and then the buckets and the troughs are filled, and the sheep are satisfied. We cannot, until all the flocks are gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

Oh, this is a thirsty world! Hot for the head, and blistering for the feet, and parching for the tongue. The world's great want is a cool, refreshing, satisfying draught. We wander around and we find the cistern empty. Long and tedious drought has dried up the world's fountains, but nearly nineteen centuries ago, a Shepherd, with crook in the shape of a cross, and feet cut to the bleeding, explored the desert passages of this world, and one day came across a well a thousand feet deep, bubbling and bright, and opalescent, and looked to the north, and the south, and the east, and the west, and cried out with a voice strong and musical that rang through the ages: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters!"

Now a great flock of sheep to-day gather around this Gospel well. There are a great many thirsty souls. I wonder why the flocks of all nations do not gather—why so many stay thirsty; and while I am wondering about it, my text breaks forth in the explanation, saying: "We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

If a herd of swine come to a well they angrily justle each other for the precedence; if a drove of cattle come to a well, they hook each other back from the water, but when a flock of sheep come, though a hundred of them shall be disappointed, they only express it by sad bleating; they come together peacefully. We want a great multitude to come around the Gospel well. I know there are those who do not like a crowd—they think a crowd is vulgar. If they are oppressed for room in church it makes them positively impatient and belligerent. We have had people permanently leave our church because many other people came to it. Not so did these Oriental sheepherds. They waited until all the flocks were gathered, and the more flocks that came the better they liked it. And so we ought to be anxious that all the people should come. Go out into the highways and the hedges and compel them to come in. Go to the rich and tell them they are indigent without the Gospel of Jesus. Go to the poor and tell them the affluence there is in Christ. Go to the blind and tell them of the touch that gives eternal illumination. Go to the lame and tell them of the joy that will make the lame man leap like a hart. Gather all the sheep off of all the mountains. None so torn of the dogs, none so sick, none so worried, none so dying, as to be omitted. Why not gather a great flock! All Brooklyn in a flock; all New York in a flock; all London in a flock; all the world in a flock. This well of the Gospel is deep enough to put out the burning thirst of the twelve hundred million, of the race. Do not let the Church, by a spirit of exclusiveness, keep the world out. Let down all the bars, swing open all the gates, scatter all the invitations: "Whosoever will, let him come." Come, white and black. Come, red men of the forest. Come, Laplander, out of the snow. Come, Patagonian, out of the heat. Come in furs. Come panting under palm leaves. Come one. Come all. Come now. As at this well of Mesopotamia, Jacob and Rachel were betrothed, so this morning, at this well of salvation, Christ our Shepherd will meet you coming up with your long flocks of cares and anxieties, and He will stretch out his hand in pledge of His affection, while all heaven will cry out: "Behold the bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him."

You notice that this well of Mesopotamia had a stone on it, which must be removed before the sheep could be watered; and I find on the well of salvation to-day impediments and obstacles, which must be removed in order that you may obtain the refreshment and life of this Gospel. In your case the impediment is pride of heart. You cannot bear to come to so democratic a fountain; you do not want to come with so many others. It is to you like—when you are dry, coming to a town pump, as compared to sitting in a parlor sipping out of a chased chalice which has just been lifted from a silver salver. Not so many publicans and sinners. You want to get to heaven, but it must be in a special car, with your feet on a Turkish ottoman and a band of music on board the train. You do not want to be in company with rustic Jacob and Rachel, and to be drinking out of the fountain where ten thousand sheep have been drinking before you. You will have to remove the obstacle of pride, or never find your way to the well. You will have to come as we came, willing to take the water of eternal life in any way, and at any hand, and in any kind of pitcher, crying out: "Oh, Lord Jesus, I am dying of thirst. Give me the water of eternal life, whether in trough or goblet; give me the water of eternal life; I care not in what it comes to me." Away with all your hindrances of pride from the well's mouth.

Here is another man who is kept back from this water of life by the stone of an obdurate heart, which lies over the mouth of the well. You have no more feeling upon this subject than if God had yet to do you the first kindness, or you had to do God the first wrong. Seated on his lap all these years, His everlasting arms sheltering you, where is your gratitude? Where is your morning and evening prayer? Where are your consecrated lives? I say to you, as Daniel said to Belshazzar: "The God in whose hand thy breath is, and all thy way, thou has not glorified." If you treated anybody as badly as you have treated God, you would have made five hundred apologies—yes, your whole life would have been an apology. Three times a day you have been seated at God's table. Spring summer autumn and winter he has appropriately appareled you. Your health from Him, your companion from Him, your children from Him, your home from him; all the bright surroundings of your life from Him. O man, what dost thou with that hard heart? Canst thou not feel one throb of gratitude toward the God that made you, and the Christ who came to redeem you, and the Holy Ghost who has all these years been importuning you? If you could sit down five minutes under the tree of a Saviour's martyrdom, and feel his warm life-blood trickling on your forehead, and cheek, and hands, methinks you would get some appreciation of what you owe to a crucified Jesus.

"Heart of stone, relent, relent,
Touched by Jesus' cross subdued;
See His body, mangled, rent,
Covered with a gore of blood.
Sinful soul, what hast thou done?
Crucified the eternal Son."

Jacob with a good deal of tug and push took the stone from the well's mouth, so that the flocks might be watered. And I would that this morning my word, blessed of God, might remove the hindrances to your getting up to the Gospel well. Yes, I take it for granted that the work is done, and now like Oriental shepherds, I proceed to water the sheep.

Come, all ye thirsty! You have an undefined longing in your soul. You tried money making; that did not satisfy you. You tried office under Government; that did not satisfy you. You tried pictures and sculptures; but works of art did not satisfy you. You are as much discontented with this life as the celebrated French author who felt that he could not any longer endure the misfortunes of the world, and who said: "At four o'clock this afternoon I shall put an end to my own existence. Meanwhile, I must toil on up to that time for the sustenance of my family." And he wrote on his book until the clock struck four, when he folded up his manuscript and, by his own hand, concluded his earthly life. There are men in this house who are perfectly discontented. Unhappy in the past, unhappy to-day, to be unhappy forever, unless you come to this Gospel well. This satisfies the soul with a high, deep, all-absorbing, and eternal satisfaction. It comes, and it offers the most unfortunate man so much of this world as is best for him, and throws all heaven into the bargain. The wealth of Crœsus, and of all the Stewarts, and of all the Barings, and all the Rothschilds, is only a poor, miserable shilling, compared with the eternal fortunes that Christ offers you to-day. In the far East there was a king who used once a year to get on the scales, while on the other side the scales were placed gold, and silver, and gems; indeed, enough were placed there to balance the king; then, at the close of the weighing, all those treasures were thrown among the populace. But Christ to-day steps on one side the scales, and on the other side are all the treasures of the universe, and He says: "All are yours—all height, all depth, all length, all breadth, all eternity; all are yours." We don't appreciate the promises of the Gospel. When an aged clergyman was dying—a man very eminent in the Church—a young theological student stood by his side, and the aged man looked up and said to him: "Can't you give me some comfort in my dying hour?" "No," said the young man; "I can't talk to you on this subject; you know all about it, and have known it so long." "Well, said the dying man, "just recite to me some promises." The young man thought a moment, and he came to this promise: "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin;" and the old man clapped his hands, and in his dying moment said: "That's just the promise I have been waiting for. 'The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin.'" Oh, the warmth, the grandeur, the magnificence of the promises.

Come also to this Gospel well all ye troubled. I do not suppose you have escaped. Compare your view of this life at fifteen years of age with what your view is of it at forty, or sixty, or seventy. What a great contrast of opinion! Were you right then, or are you right now? Two cups placed in your hands, the one a sweet cup the other a sour cup. A cup of joy a cup of grief. Which has been the nearest to being full, and out of which have you the more frequently partaken? What a different place Greenwood is from what it used to be! Once it was to you a grand city improvement, and you went out on the pleasure excursion, and you ran laughingly up the mound, and you criticised in a light way the epitaph. But since the day when you heard the bell toll at the gate when you went in with the procession, it is a sad place, and there is a flood of rushing memories that suffuse the eye and overmaster the heart. Oh, you have had trouble, trouble, trouble. God only knows how much you have had. It is a wonder you have been able to live through it. It is a wonder your nervous system has not been shattered and your brain has not reeled. Trouble, trouble. If I could gather all the griefs, of all sorts, from this great audience, and could put them in one scroll, neither man nor angel could endure the recitation. Well, what do you want? Would you like to have your property back again? "No," you say, as a Christian man, "I was becoming arrogant, and I think that is why the Lord took it away. I don't want to have my property back. Well, would you have your departed friends back again? "No," you say, "I couldn't take the responsibility of bringing them from a tearless realm to a realm of tears. I couldn't do it." Well, then, what do you want? A thousand voices in the audience cry out: "Comfort, give us comfort." For that reason I have rolled away the stone from the well's mouth. Come, all ye wounded of the flock, pursued of the wolves, come to the fountain where the Lord's sick and bereft ones have come.

"Ah," says some one, "you are not old enough to understand my sorrow. You have not been in the world as long as I have, and you can't talk to me about my misfortunes in the time of old age." Well, I may not have lived as long as you, but I have been a great deal among old people, and I know how they feel about their failing health, and about their departed friends, and about the loneliness that sometimes strikes through their souls. After two persons have lived together for forty or fifty years, and one of them is taken away, what desolation! I shall not forget the cry of the late Rev. DeWitt, of New York, when he stood by the open grave of his wife, and after the obsequies had ended, he looked down into the open place and said: "Farewell, my honored, faithful and beloved wife. The bond that bound us is severed. Thou art in glory, and I am here on earth. We shall meet again. Farewell! Farewell!" To lean on a prop for fifty years, and then have it break under you! There were only two years' difference between the death of my father and mother. After my mother's decease, my father used to go around as though looking for something; he would often get up from one room, without any seeming reason, and go to another room; and then he would take his cane and start out and some one would say: "Father, where are you going?" and he would answer: "I don't know exactly where I am going." Always looking for something. Though he was a tender-hearted man, I never saw him cry but once, and that was at the burial of my mother. After sixty years living together, it was hard to part. And there are aged people to-day who are feeling just such a pang as that. I want to tell them there is perfect enchantment in the promises of this Gospel; and I come to them and offer them my arm, or I take their arm and I bring them to this Gospel well. Sit down, father or mother, sit down. See if there is anything at the well for you. Come, David, the Psalmist, have you anything encouraging to offer them? "Yes," says the Psalmist; "'They shall still bring forth fruit in old age, they shall be fat and flourishing, to show that the Lord is upright. He is my rock, and there is no unrighteousness in me.'" Come, Isaiah, have you anything to say out of your prophecies for these aged people?" Yes," says Isaiah: "'Down to old age I am with thee, and to hoary hairs will I carry thee.'" Well, if the Lord is going to carry you, you ought not to worry much about your failing eyesight and failing limbs. You get a little worried for fear some time you will come to want, do you? Your children and grandchildren sometimes speak a little sharp at you because of your ailments. The Lord will not speak sharp. Do you think you will come to want? Who do you think the Lord is? Are His granaries empty? Will He feed the raven, and the rabbit, and the lion in the desert, and forget you? Why, naturalists tell us that the porpoise will not forsake its wounded and sick mates. And do you suppose the Lord of heaven and earth has not as much sympathy as the fish of the sea? But you say: "I am so near worn out, and I am of no use to God any more." I think the Lord knows whether you are of any more use or not; if you were of no more use He would have taken you before this. Do you think God has forgotten you because He has taken care of you seventy or eighty years? He thinks more of you to-day than He ever did, because you think more of Him. May the God of Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and Paul, the aged, be your God for ever!

But I gather all the promises to-day in a group, and I ask the shepherds to drive their flocks of lambs and sheep up to the sparkling supply. "Behold, happy is the man whom God correcteth." "Though he cause grief, yet will He have compassion." "Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the Lord delivereth him out of them all." "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." I am determined this morning that no one shall go out of this house uncomforted. Yonder is a timid and shrinking soul who seems to hide away from the consolations I am uttering, as a child with a sore hand hides away from the physician lest he touch the wound too roughly, and the mother has to go and compel the little patient to come out and see the physician. So I come to your timid and shrinking soul to-day, and compel you to come out in the presence of the Divine Physician. He will not hurt you. He has been healing wounds for many years, and He will give you gentle and omnipotent medicament. But people, when they have trouble, go anywhere rather than to God. De Quincey took opium to get rid of his troubles. Charles Lamb took to punch. Theodore Hook took to something stronger, Edwin Forrest took to theatrical dissipation. And men have run all around the earth, hoping in the quick transit to get away from their misfortunes. It has been a dead failure. There is only one well that can slake the thirst of an afflicted spirit, and that is the deep and inexhaustible well of the Gospel.

But some one says, in the audience: "Notwithstanding all you have said this morning, I find no alleviation for my troubles." Well, I am not through yet. I have left the most potent consideration for the last. I am going to soothe you with the thought of heaven. However talkative we may be, there will come a time when the stoutest and most emphatic interrogation will evoke from us no answer. As soon as we have closed our lips for the final silence, no power on earth can break that taciturnity. But where, O Christian, will be your spirit? In a scene of infinite gladness. The spring morning of heaven waving its blossoms in the bright air. Victors fresh from battle showing their scars. The rain of earthly sorrow struck through with the rainbow of eternal joy. In one group God and angels and the redeemed—Paul and Silas, Latimer and Ridley, Isaiah and Jeremiah, Payson and John Milton, Gabriel and Michael the archangel. Long line of choristers reaching across the hills. Seas of joy dashing to the white beach. Conquerors marching from gate to gate. You among them.

Oh, what a great flock of sheep God will gather around the celestial well. No stone on the well's mouth, while the Shepherd waters the sheep. There Jacob will recognize Rachel, the shepherdess. And standing on one side of the well of eternal rapture, your children; and standing on the other side of eternal rapture, your Christian ancestry, you will be bounded on all sides by a joy so keen and grand that no other world has ever been permitted to experience it. Out of that one deep well of heaven, the Shepherd will dip reunion for the bereaved, wealth for the poor, health for the sick, rest for the weary. And then all the flock of the Lord's sheep will lie down in the green pastures, and world without end we will praise the Lord that on this summer Sabbath morning we were permitted to study the story of Jacob and Rachel, the shepherdess, at the well in Mesopotamia.

HOW WOOD IS MADE.

A Most Interesting Lesson in Natural History.

In many trees the annual layers are so regular, and seem to be placed so nicely, that one not a botanist might be pardoned for believing that the sap was changed to wood matter in the leaves, and the new formed matter sent down, sliding over the old layer like a section of telescope; but, though the food was prepared by the leaves in a great measure, the actual growth was made by the germination of some of the cells along the whole outside wall of last years' wood beneath the inner bark. The germination of the cells takes place about the middle of June. Take a healthy cherry tree, and strip it entirely of its bark to any length desired. At that season a viscid liquid will be found covering the woody surface in abundance. The stripped part is covered with a cloth to prevent evaporation, and in a few days numerous dots, like needle points, will be seen the sixteenth of an inch apart all over the surface. These are the young cells that have germinated from those of last year. They continue germinating, one from the other, until they meet, when they unite and form a complete surface.

In the autumn a layer of wood will be found just as thick as in the part of the tree not disbarked, and a single layer of liber, with its outer coat of cellular matter—perfect bark—will have been formed over the whole. The entire formation of wood and bark can thus be seen by the ordinary observer without the necessity of any microscopical work. Other people have tried the experiment with other trees. We have seen large apple trees that have had their bark peeled wholly off from their trunks, at the season named, make an entire new layer of bark and wood, not only with no injury to the tree, but to its manifest enjoyment; but our own experiments were confined exclusively to the cherry. By this experiment we learn that there is no difference primarily in any part of the annual covering. The same cell may become permanent tissue or generating tissue, and from the generative tissue may come, before the season of growth closes, every form of structure known to anatomists, from pure wood to the outermost cuticle of the bark. How these cells become differential may be passed over here. We know that cell growth is not always uniform in its operations. The law that changes the outermost series of newly made cells into liber need not necessarily operate so exactly as to make them perfect to this end—a few may be thrown off into the liber as generative tissue—and, granting this possibility, we see how the woody granules in the apple are formed.—The Garden.

A Home Run.

A few days ago two ball nines composed of boys were playing a match game in Brooklyn, and in place of a bat were using an old discarded coal shovel handle. The game had become intensely exciting and the opposing had what they termed a slugger at the bat. Two runners occupied the bases, and three strikes had been called on the slugger. The next ball pitched the slugger banged away, and, at the call of his enthusiastic captain, ran down to the first, then to the second, third and home, keeping the shovel handle in in his hand all way round. The nine having the field and spectators, from the time the slugger had struck the ball, were in the meanwhile looking for the sphere, but did not discover its whereabouts until the runner showed it to the umpire, wedged fast in the hand grip of the shovel. Of course there was much kicking indulged in at the discovery, but the umpire decided a home run.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 4, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The Montgomery Dispatch ought to lecture its proof-reader.

Alabama's colored university has been located in Montgomery.

Howard College will be located at East Lake near Birmingham.

Telegraphic reports from all over Alabama show great damage to crops by the wind and rain storm of last week.

The best thing to give to your enemy is forgiveness; to your opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to yourself, respect; to all men, charity.

The head of the Farmers' Alliance in Madison county is Hon. A. Whited, a member of the last General Assembly. The Alliance must have many good points to attract solid men like Mr. Whited.—Montgomery Adv.

Natural gas has been struck at Hartselle, in Morgan county, and the excitement over the find is intense. The flame of burning gas rises 14 feet above the ground. The only fear is that the vein is not strong enough for practical purposes.

The blatherskites in the Grand Army are kept busy explaining that they never said anything and never meant what they said. They have been on the defensive since the President's St. Louis letter was published, and it is safe to say that the Fairchilds and the Tuttles will meet their comrades this year in a very much chastened state of mind.—Philadelphia Times.

Frank Harris, alias May, a colored man living near Greensboro, died very suddenly on last Sunday. It was supposed by many that Frank made a raid on some one's watermelon patch the night before and ate a melon that had been poisoned, which caused his death. This inference is drawn from the manner in which he died.—Greensboro Watchman.

Look out over here, negroes.

The communication of "A Frequent Contributor" is from a cool, clear-headed business man, and states facts as he finds them. There are some people who are "loose on trigger," and inclined to fly off at a tangent. He is not one of this kind and his communication is written in a spirit of fairness. The editor of the VIEW has never made any personal examination of the jail, and did not know what degree of weight the comments which he heard in Clanton and which were published in the Dispatch interview, were entitled to.

Col. J. G. Harvey, of the Greensboro Beacon, is the Nestor of the Alabama press. He is a graduate of the U. S. Millitary Academy at West Point, and shows his training even in his age as a gentleman of fine bearing and elegant manners. If we are not mistaken he attended the Academy with Jefferson Davis. In his humble work on the Beacon which he has conducted for the last half century we think he has done as much good and far less harm for his country and his countrymen than has Mr. Davis. He is an honor to the profession.

Bro. Ike Out Again.

Last Friday was the day of the soldier's re-union meeting at Randolph, and as Bro. Ike has been looking forward, with fond anticipation, to that day he mounted his mule very early and made his entrance into Randolph at an early hour. He expected to meet many of his old army comrades and did so. He was anxious to hear his old General speak; but when Capt. Gardner announced that General Morgan would not be there on the occasion, Bro. Ike kinder wilted, but the short speeches of Col. Reed and Maj. Graham, and Capt. Gardner revived him to some extent, and he felt at home again. With an eye singly fixed to the good time and things he expected to realize at the table about Monday, his feelings were reconciled to the sad disappointment he had met, by reason of General Morgan's absence. But alas! alas! about noon a little sprinkle of rain passed over and the good times he looked forward to, all passed off with the rain. I met him about 2 oclock in the evening, on his mule, and asked him what was up. he replied "he had been to Randolph that day and was then on his way home to dinner. Bro. Ike thinks that the soldiers' meeting, like some of the land companies, will eventually fag out.

SAM. MING.

The Truth of the Matter.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I have read with considerable interest the articles in the VIEW and the Montgomery papers in regard to the death of the negro Kinneybrew, in our county jail, and not that I want to keep up a controversy, but because of the question being brought up as to the healthfulness of our jail, am I prompted to write a few lines concerning it.

You stated in your interview with the Dispatch editor that you heard in Clanton the jail was damp and that the sunshine never reached the inside. This I have observed to be the case, as the iron slats in the windows are so arranged as to shut out every ray of sunshine. The two front windows it is true have not these slats in them, but the building faces the north, and consequently the sun never reaches them.

The Sheriff in his communications to the Montgomery papers attempted to controvert this statement by saying that the thermometer registered 10 degrees lower in the jail than outside, which, instead of contradicting the remarks you heard in Clanton, only confirms them. If the sun's rays are shut out, and the damp atmosphere which is always found in such secluded places is never purified and dried out by the sun it is a natural consequence that it will be cooler there than out in the open air where the sunshine purifies the atmosphere and warms the earth.

The fact that the jail cost $8,500 does not prevent it from being a sickly place, and on the other hand, the lack of God-given sunshine makes it sickly. Sunshine is as necessary to the health of human beings and all animals, as it is to the growth of trees and plants.

Certainly the Sheriff is not to blame and cannot help matters, though he seems to have taken the matter as a personal attack upon himself, while as far as I could see he was exonerated by all and has made himself very ridiculous by trying to answer an article which had no bearing upon his official duties save to commend them.

I am of the opinion that the jail is sickly and the marked difference in the temperature inside and out goes to prove that it is, and would again call the attention of the grand jury to the matter. I think some steps should be taken to remedy the lack of sunshine before other prisoners meet the fate of Kinneybrew.

A FREQUENT CONTRIBUTOR.

As many of the readers of the VIEW wish to know something of the Farmer's Alliance, we have been glad to obtain the "declaration of purposes" which is found in the constitution of the order. It is as follows:

DECLARATION OF PURPOSES.

Profoundly impressed that we, the Farmers Alliance, united by the strong and faithful ties of financial and home interests, should set forth our declaration of intentions; we therefore resolve,

1. To labor for the education of the agricultural classes, in the science of economical government in a strictly non-partisan spirit.
2. To endorse the motto, "in things essential unity; and in all things, charity."
3. To develop a better state, mentally, morally, socially and financially.
4. To create a better understanding for sustaining civil officers in maintaining law and order.
5. To constantly strive to secure entire harmony and good will among all mankind and brotherly love among ourselves.
6. To suppress personal, local, sectional and national prejudices; all unhealthful rivalry and selfish ambition.

The brightest jewels which it garners are the fears of widows and orphans, and its imperative commands are to visit the home where lacerated hearts are bleeding; to assuage the suffering of a brother or sister; bury the dead; care for the widow and educate the orphans; to exercise charity towards offenders; to construe words and deeds in their most favorable light, granting honesty of purpose and good intentions to others; and to protect the principles of the Alliance unto death. Its laws are reason and equity, its cardinal doctrines inspire purity of thought and life, its intention is "peace on earth and good will towards men."

"Each of the above gentlemen have all they can do at home.—Atlanta Capital.

The "Eufaula Grammarian" (some of our esteemed contemporaries have been pleased to so refer to us) moves to amend by inserting the word "has" where "have" appears, and then let the game go on.—Eufaula Times.

The VIEW has noticed that the Times is strongly inclined to clip and correct every ungrammatical sentence it may see in a contemporary, and holds that it is a mistaken policy unless the correcting is to be well done. In the foregoing sentence from the Capital it would sound some better if the word "they" in the last line be displaced by the singular, "he," would it not? We are too modest to do more than ask the esteemed "Eufaula Grammarian" for information. If he says nay it is nay. Perhaps his recent title may mean that he is a grammarian of his own peculiar kind; not that he is a good grammarian.

The Juries.

The following is a list of the grand and petit jurors drawn for the Fall term of the Chilton county circuit court for 1887:

GRAND JURORS.

A S Jones, W A Mims, F A Gulledge, W W Wadesworth, W T Mahan, L J Hand, Elijah Mimes, W R White, J W Scott, James Cook, Rass Manus, B W Garner, James M Roberson, J H Griffis, Willey Ramsey, William S Howard, B F Hammon, John Boyd, James A Stephens, E M Beane, and J H Chandler.

PETIT JURORS FOR FIRST WEEK.

M M Durbin, J S Jones, Sr., J T B Chandler, J H Rasbery, Joseph Green, T J Wyatt, W A Sims, W H Parr, C J Coburn, C T Zimmerman, M F Armstrong, E H Parish, J J Robberts, W A Marcus, R R Killingsworth, W D Sartor, J D Atkinson, Jesse Driver, J R Vinson, R Ehrman, E E Eddings, Jasper Giles, John Gay, Jesse S Aldridge, T J Lenoir, J G Buckhalter, James T Cooley, J T Traywick, J F Palmer, T J Powell, H M Beasley, James Popwell, T L Elam, Alford Nartel, Green Coffer, and A J Hall.

PETIT JURORS FOR SECOND WEEK.

J L Palmer, N W Latham, J F Goodgame, Lunsford Moore, W L Weaver, J J Mote, A F Childres, P M Jones, J M Woolley, D M Martin, Lum Watson, W L Waldrop, P M Moore, S K Rasbery, A A Dyer, W R Dawson, Jessee T Jones, Henry Benson, J H Keener, R J Williams, John O'neal, L L Killingworth, J S King, N J Calliway, M F Fuller, William Vines, R L Williams, G W Jones, W H Bean, D Z Marchant, John Strock, E F Fuller, J H Aldridge, F H Brooks, W N Jones and James H Collins.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Dixie Dots.

Mr. H. H. and Miss Elva Stewart, of Selma, are visiting relatives in our town.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Oscar Broadhead, who has been quite sick is improving rapidly.

Mrs. M. A. Hare, of Shield's Mill, Dallas Co., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Crum.

It is with regret that we chronicle the serious illness of Mrs. E. G. Adams.

J. B. Murphree, formerly of the firm of Howison, Carter & Co., has moved to Louisville, Ky.

A number of our people attended the soldier's re-union at Randolph recently.

We were glad to meet Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Crossland, of Selma, last week. Mrs. C. is visiting Mrs. Ed. Adams.

We hope this Fall will find our farmers in good spirits over the splendid crops, and we trust that the long looked for "full crop" will be harvested at last.

One of the best barbecues of the season, was given Wednesday the 20th ult., by the good people of East Perry Co., at Heard's school house. Quite a number of our young people, including your scribe, were in attendance. The crowd was immense, and so was the dinner; the weather was too warm for dancing. but a very enjoyable day was spent,

KID.

If you wish to arouse a woman's enthusiasm, or awaken her gratitude, confer a benefit upon her children, and if you know of a little one who is the victim of worms recommend the use of White's Cream Vermifuge, and thereby confer a favor which only a fond mother can appreciate. This remedy is the best worm medicine in the world.

Verbena.

Mrs. Castley died very suddenly at Pratt Mills of heart disease.

Mesdames Williams and Wetmore, of Selma, are visiting Mrs. A. A. Green.

Misses Williams and Wetmore, of Selma, and Mr. W. H. McKleroy, of Anniston, a graduate of Howard College, are visiting Dr. Caffey and family.

Misses Virgin, Wescott and Fanny Norton, of Montgomery, are visiting the Misses Clisby.

Mr. Mack Allen and wife, of Montgomery, are with Mr. Barrett.

E. R. Shannon, of Montgomery, spent a couple of days with his mother, Mrs. J. C. Gibson. Mrs. R. L. Watt and daughter, Miss Mary, and C. A. Lanier and wife are at Mrs. Gibson's.

Dr. F. Chambers, of New York, and Mrs. Col. Wm. Alexander, of Eufaula, spent a few days at the Clifton House, visiting their brother, Wm. L. Chambers and family.

At the Clifton House: Capt. Cole and family, of Mobile, Mrs. Alford and daughter, Miss Emma, Col. B. Dunham's two daughters, Anna and Bessie, the Misses Elsberry, Mr. Sam Elsberry and wife, Mrs. Thornton, of Montgomery, Mrs. Judge Brickell and son Robert, of Huntsville, Ala.

The "Bill Arp" of Alabama made it pleasant for us a few days ago while visiting his sister, Mrs. Col. Baldwin.

Mr. Kennerly Williamson and his charming bride, of Dallas, Tex., are having a good time while visiting his family, relatives and friends.

The school board elected Prof. Acker, a gentleman of high standing as an educator, principal of the Academy.

If your correspondent "K" had been going home from Verbena, when he saw all that corn and those fine grapes and big snakes one would naturally suppose he had been testing some of that grape juice, which makes two stalks of corn grow where only one grew before.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

White's Cream Vermifuge is pure white. There are also so-called remedies that are white, but there the similarity ends. There is nothing like White's Cream Vermifuge as a remedy for worms, and if your druggist seeks to give you any other preparation instead of it, beg to be excused and insist that you will have no other than White's Cream Vermifuge.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 1st, 1887.

Complaint having been enterred at this office by J. F. Welch, against Wm. B. Flanagan for abandoning his Homestead Entry No. 13434, dated September 9th, 1882, upon the n w ¼ of s w ¼ section 10, township 20, range 11 east, in Chilton county, Ala., with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 12th day of August, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
jul7-4 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

NOTICE NO. 6621.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
July 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17, 1887, viz: Henry H. Herbert, Homestead 12524 for the n w ¼ sec 22 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: N. A. Dobbs, John D. Wyatt, A. C. Duke, and W. A. Jones, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug3 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6502.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: John R. Dobbs homestead 14332 for the n w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: H. W. Herbert, John D. Wyatt, Madison Popwell, John Popwell.

jul 28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6500.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: Frank E. Fuller, Homestead 12969, for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec 14, township 20, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said lands, viz: John Klinner, Robert M. Robuck, William F. Robuck and Richard Coe, all of Stanton, Ala.

jul28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6501.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 10, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Broadhead, Homestead 13128 for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec. 12, township 20, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William A. Smith, George Rucker, Martin Hesler and William H. Foshee, Jr., all of Dixie, Ala.

jul28* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6477.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 13, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on August 20th, 1887, viz: Walter H. Jones, Homestead 12973 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ and n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 24, township 23, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Marcus, William H. Marcus, Marion H. Marcus, and Jesse A. Maddox, all of Jumbo, Ala.

jul14* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
June 18, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on August 6, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Nichols Homestead 14785 for the e ½ of s e ¼, the s w ¼ of s e ¼ and the s e ¼ of s w ¼ section 4, township 20 north, range 11 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James I. Cox, Robt. W. Gandy, Daniel H. Mitchell, Joe C. Tucker, all of Dixie, Ala.

jun23 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.
I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

MARRIAGE GUIDE
260 PAGES, Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, [illegible] money or stamps. Same, paper cover, [illegible] This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo.
CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE
HEADACHE.
Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.
MALARIAL FEVER.
A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.
BILIOUS COLIC.
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.
DIARRHŒA or FLUX.
Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT.
Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.
☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' "[illegible] CENTURY ALMANAC," or Address
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun30-y

L&N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,
And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all
NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.
(3)

THE CHICAGO
COTTAGE
ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.
WILSON HOUSE.
COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Wool Carding.
Now is the time to get your wool carded. Our cards are in fine order. Ship to
E. G. WALKER,
Montevallo, Ala.

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 4, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:48 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Dog days.

Mr. A. J. L. Dennis has a good school of forty pupils at Cooper's.

See notice of wool carding in another column.

The mail train was six hours late Tuesday evening.

Miss Reed Hide, of Nashville, is visiting the family of Mr. O. A. Duke.

Remember the moon-light picnic to-morrow night and be sure to attend.

Mrs. J. D. Lamar, of Deatsville, is visiting relatives in Clanton this week.

The Misses Pou, who have been visiting relatives in Clanton, have gone to Robinson Springs.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

For lack of interest the protracted meeting conducted by Rev. H. H. McNeil and others was closed Tuesday night.

Miss Maggie Scheussler, who has been spending some time with friends in Clanton, has returned to her home in Montgomery.

Mrs. A. J. Cooper died very suddenly at her home at Cooper's Station on the 31st ult. Supposed to be heart disease.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

Mrs. A. J. Marlar sends the VIEW some of the finest beets we ever saw. One of them weighed five pounds. Who can beat this beet.

Mr. R. L. Wooley, of Rock Springs neighborhood, gave us a pleasant call Tuesday. He reports crops not seriously damaged in his neighborhood.

We give so much of our space this week to crop news that we are compelled to leave out many interesting batches of locals from different points in the county.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

A large crowd attended the Mum party at Mrs. E. C. Lawrence's last Friday night. Two dollars and a half was collected and paid over to the President of the Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church.

Nearly all the roads leading to Clanton are in bad condition, owing to the recent washing rains. Court will soon meet and we hope they will be put in better order before it does, or the grand jury may have some extra work of this kind to attend to.

Special Notice.

I am now receiving my fall stock comprising nearly every article needed in the family or on the farm. The prices will be as low as any of my competitors, and on fine goods, I will save you money. No shoddy goods sold for good ones. If you do not find my goods as I represent them, I will take pleasure in making the proper reduction in price or refunding the money.

W. L. SAMPEY.

If men would expend as much energy in being honest as they do in making other people believe they are honest, the world would be given to less dishonesty.

A friend in the western part of the county writes: "I admire the candor with which you discuss matters of public concern." Another reader from a different section says: "It seems that when the VIEW wants to 'make Rome howl' it generally succeeds in doing so."

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

In the decline of life infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

Moonlight Picnic!

The most attractive entertainment of the season will be at the M. E. Church Friday evening, Aug. 5th, for the benefit of the church. Recitations by Miss Butler. Music by the amateurs of Clanton. Ice lemonade in the grove near the church. Admission adults 15 cts. Children 10 cts.

Verbena Academy.

A correspondent writing from Dixie says: "We very much regret to learn that Prof. E. D. Acker leaves his school at Stanton to take the principalship of the Verbena Academy, which is a great loss to this vicinity, but a great gain to Verbena, and I hope a wider field for Prof. Acker's useful services."

"Although some flowers of Eden we still inherit the trail of the serpent is over them all." Sickness and sorrow mark our pathway and make of life a pilgrimage through a vale of shadows. Some evils we can successfully combat if we choose the right weapons, and when afflicted with Piles can find a certain remedy in Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment.

The roughest joke that has been played on the VIEW for some time was managed thusly: Mr. R. L. Woolley, of West Chilton, sent us a large water-melon weighing 43 pounds. He sent it in the care of Mr. Jno. Garner and that is about all the VIEW knows about it except that Mr. Garner came around and told us the facts in the case and said that the water-melon was done eat up. Which made us feel good of course, and then to add to our pleasure in the matter about three times a day he comes around and slaps himself on his "water-melon-carrier" and remarks, "I tell you that water-melon was powerful good." Ought he be let go at large?

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago, and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Over On Mulberry.

A pleasant visit was made to the Mulberry neighborhood last Friday, it being the occasion of the Baptist District Meeting at Mulberry Church. This is the oldest settlement in the county, and is the best farming section. The lands are fertile and level. A fine class of citizens reside in the vicinity and they added greatly to the pleasure of our stay by their cordial hospitality. The VIEW man returned not only with pleasant memories of the well-to-do citizens and pretty girls he saw, but with a good club of subscribers in addition.

Following are the officers of the Chilton county Farmer's Alliance:

R. M. Honeycutt, President; N. A. Dobbs, Vice President; Alex. G. Dake, Sec'y; J. M. Parish, Treasurer; W. G. Riggins, Lecturer; Jas. A. Logan, Asst. Lecturer; Wm. A. Wood, Chaplain; A. Eiland, Doorkeeper; E. W. Honeycutt, Ass't Doorkeeper; W. H. Conway, Sergeant at Arms. The Committees are composed as follows: Trade Committee—J. J. Honeycutt, J. P. Nix, B. M. Gentry, Wm. Lambert, Sr., Alfred Popwell, Madison Popwell, L. Hobb. Co-operative Committee—J. W. Brantley, J. G. Barnett, O. M. Mastin, M. M. Bates, Robt. Roper. Finance Committee—J. B. Moore, D. A. White, J. L. Williams. Executive Committee—B. W. Garner, W. H. Bean, James Garner, W. W. Adams, B. F. Rasberry. Stock Agent—Jos. Green. County Business Agent—Alex G. Dake.

THE CROPS.

The Condition of the Crops in Chilton County.

In compliance with our request the following reports of the condition of crops have been received during the week and additional reports from the same localities were still coming in as we went to press. A very good summary of the condition of crops in Chilton may be obtained by reading these reports.

CLANTON.

Crops are good. No serious damage. Plenty of rain. Rice crop flourishing.

WILLIS LOWE.

Some slight damage by wind and rain in my neighborhood, but the general outlook is promising.

E. H. LOWE, SR.

No material damage to the cotton crop in my vicinity. Corn was beaten down and some will be lost from rotting.

J. H. ALDRIDGE.

JUMBO.

Corn is damaged some in my neighborhood, but the prospect is alright for a good cotton crop. Cane, peas and potatoes will make good crops.

M. M. B.

I would say that the crop prospect is flattering. The corn crop excels any other for several years. Cotton is well formed and promises a usual yield at least. Sugar cane and other crops look well.

T. MULLINS.

Crops are good. No serious damage in my neighborhood.

M. TAYLOR.

Crops are very good. Only slight damage from the wind and rain. We will make more than a fair crop all around.

J. E. ELLISON.

VERBENA.

Crops damaged considerably in my immediate neighborhood by the wind and rain.

W. S. J.

Have traveled over portions of Chilton, Autauga and Elmore counties during the last few weeks. Crops seen in Chilton are generally good, better than many seem to think, and better than is generally the case at this time of year.

H. M. STROCK.

MAPLESVILLE.

I have been over the greater portion of this and Mulberry neighborhoods. Crops are not seriously damaged. We will make more than an average crop if seasons continue favorable.

J. M. K.

LILY.

The crops are pretty good around my place.

D. A. WHITE.

Corn and cane crops here are about made, and are as good as the lands will produce. I can't guess at the cotton crop yet. The weed looks well but is getting grassy on some farms—too much planted.

G. W. JONES.

MULBERRY.

All the crops around my place are in excellent condition

R. E. B. HICKS.

Crops are better in this section than they have been for many years, and if seasons continue favorable, we will make plenty and to spare.

J.

JEMISON.

Corn and cotton good, but somewhat damaged by the recent rains and winds which blew the corn down very badly, pea vines will cover the corn that is down and cause some to rot. However, the corn crop will be a good average crop as compared with other years. Cotton has as a general thing a good bottom crop, but is going to weed too much at present. Pea prospect good. Sugar cane below an average. Sweet potatoes good. Tobacco scarce and sorry. Sorghum medium.

J. W. BRANTLEY.

Crops in this and adjoining communities which I have visited are good and very good, old citizens say the best they have ever seen. The corn crop is made and is as good as the land can make it. Cotton, peas and potatoes promise very fair. Some of the ribbon cane, what little I have seen; sorry to say I see very few patches of this valuable crop, though it may be growing on parts of the farms which I have not seen—hope it is so. Melons good—if you don't believe it, come up and taste them.

A. E. BURNS.

DIXIE.

The crop outlook is very good. With the exception of '82, the best of this date in seventeen or eighteen years.

Cotton to full capacity of land. Some corn was a little injured by a few very dry hot days between the 10th and 20th of June. Late corn, peas and potatoes are doing very well.

SAW.

Crops are better this season than they have been since the year 1882. Rice crop especially promising.

J. H. G.

STRASBURG.

The prospect for crops in our neighborhood is good, better than it has been since 1882, though the storm last Wednesday damaged corn considerably. Old farmers say the damage to the corn crop is about one-fourth.

J. BICE.

COOPER'S.

I think the damage to the crops around my place has been considerable, though I am unable to estimate it.

A. P.

The corn crop very much damaged in this neighborhood. Can't tell about the damage to cotton. Other crops good.

J. W. WILSON.

I have been riding over the county for the past ten days, and from what I can see and learn the prospects for a good crop are better than for five years. While a few localities have suffered and complain, I think the damage slight. Would suggest to those who think farming hard and unprofitable to travel the public road leading from Cooper's by the way of Pratt Saw Mill to W. B. Strock's thence to W. F. Claughton's and notice carefully on either side of the road the beautiful crops, the neat cultivation, abundant outlook for a good harvest, which demonstrates the proper use of fertilizing and intelligent farming.

P. C. DENNIS.

KINCHEON.

The crop prospect in this section up to the 27th of July was the best for many years, think it would be safe to say the finest ever grown on the pine lands. But since the wind and rain storm which continued for a day and night, the corn is tangled, broken off and a greater portion blown to the ground, leaving it in a condition to rot. The estimated damage to the corn is about one-fifth. The cotton weed is very large and is well fruited, but is throwing off just now on account of too much rain, but was very slightly injured by the storm. The pea and potato crop is growing fine under the frequent showers. Sugar cane and hay crop was never better.

Observing farmers of long experience say the crop is at least ten days earlier than for a number of years.

W. I. MULLINS.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR, LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT, DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To Mothers," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN.

COMPOUND OXYGEN

NOT A DRUG

1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

A WELL TRIED TREATMENT

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H. P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Siddalls, Merchant, Philad'a
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales

And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

Send us your job work.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, | HAND MADE HARNESS.

New Stock and Low Prices.

HADAWAY,

No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala

SADDLES! | Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice.

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 806. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN.

FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

PARSONS' PILLS

MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD.

MAKE HENS LAY

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER.

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. E. Phillips.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,

Avondale, Ala

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 21-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 3 to 5 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

The Chilton View Job Office,

IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR

JOB PRINTING,

SUCH AS

NOTE HEADS,

LETTER HEADS,

BILL HEADS,

ENVELOPES,

CARDS,

COMMISSARY CHECKS,

CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS

OF ALL KINDS,

NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.

SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

A system of weather observations on a small scale has been established in Brazil, records from fifteen stations now being regularly communicated to the observatory of Rio Janeiro.

Two astronomers of the Grand Ducal observatory, Carlsruhe, have made the remarkable observation that the disc of the planet Uranus appears distinctly elliptical instead of perfectly circular.

According to Engineering, of London, M. G. A. Cassagnee, of Paris, has invented a system of stenotelegraphy by which he can transmit a despatch in shorthand along a single wire and print it at a distant station in stenotelegraph characters with a rapidity exceeding that of any telegraphic apparatus.

M. Gavol has ascertained that the absorption of atmosphere oxygen by coal dust usually produces the rise in the temperature to which spontaneous combustion is due. Lignite is ignited at the low temperature of 300°, anthracite at 575° and other varieties of coal in a powdered state, at intermediate temperatures.

M. Stanislaus Meunier of Paris has been for many years busy with the reproduction of artificial minerals. His latest work is in the formation of the red balas ruby, and he has succeeded in the attempt. By taking well-crystallized aluminate of magnesia and colored a rose tint by traces of chromium a stone is produced the exact counterpart of the natural product.

An interesting series of experiments has been made by Dr. J. W. Fraser on the influence of our common beverages on digestion. Among these drinks he finds that water is usually the best. Of infusions, tea or cocoa acts most favorably when bread is eaten, and coffee is the best for use with meats or eggs. Eggs are the best animal food with infused beverages, and should be soft-boiled when tea is the beverage, and hard-boiled with coffee or cocoa.

It is generally supposed that pneumonia is due to the accidental penetration of specific microbes into the system, but the observations of M. Jaccoud, a French student of the subject, show that thedisease really results from the development under favorable conditions of microbic germs permanently present in the system. A chief condition of such development is a sudden chill, which explains the frequent concidence of lung affections with abrupt changes of temperature.

A communication to the London Meteorological society, by Capt. Toynbee, states as his conclusion that clouds of not less than 2,000 feet in thickness are seldom accompanied by rain, or, if they are, it is very gentle, consisting of minute drops; with a thickness of between 3,000 and 4,000 feet, the size of the drops is moderate; with increasing thickness of the clouds comes an increasing size of the drops, and at the same time the degree of temperature becomes lowered. When the thickness amounts to more than 6,000 feet hail is produced.

Hunting Ducks With Pumpkins.

Captain John Leale, of the steamboat that runs between Alviso, Cal., and San Francisco, recently noticed a very singular phenomenon in the slough, at the former place. His attention was first attracted by four pumpkins floating on the water at the edge of the eelgrass. There was nothing very odd about that, but as there were several ducks near the pumpkins he watched them, wondering whether it would be worth his while to fetch his gun out of the cabin and wait for a shot.

While he was lazily watching and wondering an odd thing happened. A duck swam up to one of the pumpkins, pecked at it, and disappeared. Captain Leale expected to see the duck come up again, but it didn't. Another duck sailed up, picked a seed out of one of a pair of pumpkins, and went down in an attitude of extreme surprise without making a squawk. The vigorous manner in which the duck sank did not seem consistent with any unassisted operation of the law of gravitation, and never before had Captain John seen a duck founder stern foremost. He became mightily interested in the phenomenon. When two ducks swam up to the other pair of pumpkins, pecked at them and went down with colors flying and with an emphatic kerslump, Captain John concluded that it was time to make some investigations in the interest of science. He ordered the deckhands to lower a boat, and clambering into it sculled toward the mysterious and extraordinary pumpkins. As he approached, two of the pumpkins revolved half a turn and began floating toward shore against the tide, which was almost as odd a thing for a pumpkin to do as the drowning of ducks. Captain John stood up and sculled faster, and he was still further surprised to see the pumpkins rise out of water. Then he noticed that under each pumpkin was a pair of shoulders, and in a moment two Chinamen, with pumpkin shells over their heads like helmets, in which small eye holes appeared, waded ashore. Each Chinaman had a pair of ducks by the legs, and the ducks were dead. The Chinaman explained that when a duck came up to eat pumpkin seed it was necessary to grab it very firmly and quickly by the leg, and yank it down to a watery grave before it recovered from its surprise sufficiently to squawk. The heathen candidly confessed that this wholly irregular and unsportsmanlike method of hunting the toothsome duck was imported, along with cheap labor and other evils, from the banks of the Hoang Ho.—New York Sun.

Habits of Sharks.

Of the large sharks one of the commonest is the "fox shark" or "thrasher." It is found on the British and on the Mediterranean and Atlantic coast, as also on the coasts of California and New Zealand. The "thrasher" reaches a length of fifteen feet, of which the tail takes more than one-half and is quite harmless to man. It follows the shoals of herrings, pilchards and sprats in their migrations, destroying incredible numbers. Its method of attack gives it its name, as in feeding it uses the long tail for splashing the surface of the water, while it swims in gradually decreasing circles around a shoal of fishes which are thus kept so crowded together as to fall an easy prey to their enemy. Gunther does not credit the statements that it has been seen to attack whales and other large cetaceans, and thinks they rest upon erroneous observations.

The "basking shark" is the largest of the North Atlantic sharks, growing to a length of more than thirty feet. On the west coast of Ireland it is chased for the oil, which is extracted from the liver, one fish yielding from a ton to a ton and a half. It derives its name from the fact that many specimens may be seen in calm weather lying together motionless, with the upper part of the back raised above the surface of the water.—American Angler.

"At the time of the death of George IV., in 1830, there were 396 hereditary peers," says London Truth.

STRAY SHOTS.

It is estimated that there are more than 50,000 families in London with only one room each to live in.

Nearly 75 per cent. of the inmates in the New York city insane asylum, according to Superintendent MacDonald, are foreign born.

The best salary in the world, according to age, is that of King Alfonso, of Spain. The young monarch is fourteen months old and is paid $1,500,000 a year.

Dr. Dollinger, one of the founders of the old Catholic movement after the declaration of the Pope's infallibility, is now more than 80 years old and in very feeble health.

A student of Vanderbilt University, in Tennessee, has just beat the world's record in high kicking, having succeeded in hitting a mark at the unprecedented height of 9 feet 8¼ inches.

The National Bureau of Statistics shows that on the $700,000,000 which annually passes into the tills of the retailers of intoxicating liquors in this country there is a profit of 133⅓ per cent.

The United States pays every year for cigars and cigarettes $186,500,000 and $20,000,000 for tobacco smoked in pipes. To this it adds the cost of chewing tobacco, $50,000,000, bringing the entire tobacco bill for the year up to $256,500,000.

The ladies will be interested to know that the bustle is of Persian origin. Nott, in his notes on the "Odes of Hafiz," defines the "refaight" as a kind of bolster which the ladies fix to the under garment to produce a certain roundness thought by them to be becoming.

It is now settled that typhoid fever germs are carried almost wholly in water, and that while freezing does not destroy them boiling always does. Filtration is wholly ineffective for the purification of water bearing these germs, so that the water in a well may be infected from sinks, etc., at a considerable distance. With these facts definitely determined it ought to be easy to reduce the danger of typhoid fever to a minimum by care.

A strange religious sect has made its headquarters at Chatham, Eng., where its devotees are building an immense temple which will cost $250,000. It calls itself the "New and latter house of Israel," and its members believe that they are immortal, and that they are the remnant of true Israelites who will reign with Christ for 1,000 years. The founder of the sect was a man named Jezriel, who is now dead. His death was a great shock to the believers, but his wife said that it was an accident and declared herself his successor.

His Platform.

Crawford, the Scout, stated the following facts about himself at a meeting in Denver, Colorado: Through the intemperate habits of my father I was deprived of even the rudiments of an education; indeed, when I enlisted in the army to fight for my country I was obliged to make my cross, not knowing how to write my own name. While lying wounded in a hospital in West Philadelphia one of those good angels of mercy, a Sister of Charity, taught me to read and write. I had an angel mother, and when she lay upon her deathbed she called me to her side, and taking my hand in hers, said to me: "Johnny, my son, you know your mother loves you. I am dying; will you not give me a promise that I can take up to heaven with me?" "Mother," I said, "I will promise you anything." "Then promise me, my son, that you will never drink intoxicating liquor, and it will not be so hard for me to leave the earth." Need I tell you, my friends, that I gave that promise, and that I have faithfully kept it."

An Apt Reply.

In one of the battles of the Mexican war, Lieut. George H. Derby was wounded and the commander-in-chief, Gen. Scott, being near, rode up to the group surrounding him, and finding that the injury was not dangerous, started away with the parting salutation: "Good-day, Lieut. Darby." "Good-day, Gen. Scatt," responded the part addressed, sufficiently loud for his retiring superior to hear. "The general's name is not Scatt," said one of the group. "No!" was the response, "and neither is my name Darby."

"I Feel So Well."

"I want to thank you for telling me of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes a lady to her friend. "For a long time I was unfit to attend to the work of my household. I kept about, but I felt thoroughly miserable. I had terrible backaches, and bearing-down sensations across me and was quite weak and discouraged. I sent and got some of the medicine after receiving your letter, and it has cured me. I hardly know myself. I feel so well."

There will be a Woman's Interstate Industrial Exhibition at Chicago, Ill., in September.

She is the Idol of My Heart.

Well, then, why don't you do something to bring back the roses to her cheeks and the light to her eyes? Don't you see she is suffering from nervous debility, the result of female weakness? A bottle of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic will brighten those pale cheeks, and send new life through that wasted form. If you love her, take heed.

Old pill boxes are spread over the land by the thousands after having been emptied by suffering humanity. What a mass of sickening, disgusting medicine the poor stomach has to contend with. Too much strong medicine. Prickly Ash Bitters is rapidly and surely taking the place of all this class of drugs, and is curing all the ills arising from a disordered condition of the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels.

A Wholesale Groceryman.

Mr. T. D. Meador, of the firm of Oglesby & Meador, thinks it just as important to fortify against the sudden attacks of the bowels, as against the robber that invades the household. He says Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial is the weapon, a dead shot to bowel troubles.

Shetland ponies are never over 42 inches high. Many bogus ones are sold in the South.

Don't disgust everybody by hawking, blowing and spitting, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and be cured.

Jersey City, N. J., has an accumulation of unpaid taxes amounting to $6,000,000.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Best, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 50c.

Warm Weather

Often causes extreme tired feeling and debility, and in the weakened condition of the system diseases arising from impure blood are liable to appear. To gain strength, to overcome disease, and to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiarly adapted to the needs of this season.

"When I took Hood's Sarsaparilla that heaviness in my stomach left; the dullness in my head, and the gloomy, despondent feeling disappeared. I began to get stronger, my blood gained better circulation, the coldness in my hands and feet left me, and my kidneys do not bother me as before."—G. W. HULL, Attorney at Law, Millersburg, O.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will Give Away 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office at once. The National Co., 21 Dey St., N.Y.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

Many People Refuse to Take Cod Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

In one day recently 126 clergymen sailed from New York for Europe.

All "Played Out."

"Don't know what ails me lately. Can't eat well—can't sleep well. Can't work, and don't enjoy doing anything. Ain't really sick, and I really ain't well. Feel all kind o' played out, someway." That is what scores of men say every day. If they would take Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," they would soon have no occasion to say it. It purifies the blood, tones up the system and fortifies it against disease. It is a great anti-billious remedy as well.

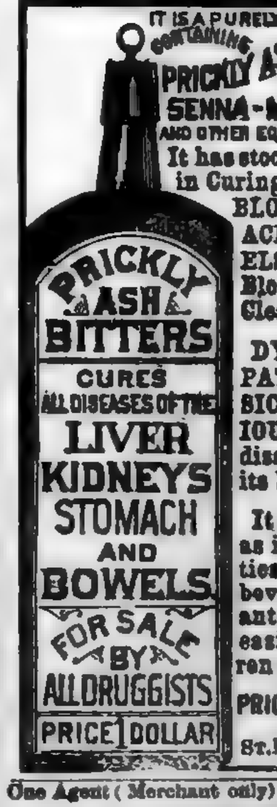
Pennsylvania has 8,776 Sunday-schools; Ohio, 6,751, and New York only 6,584.

Piles Cured for 25 Cents.

Dr. Walton's Cure for Piles is guaranteed to cure the worst case of piles. Price 25 cents. At druggists, or mailed (stamps taken) by the

Walton Remedy Co., Cleveland, O.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS



PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH AND BOWELS
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS
PRICE DOLLAR

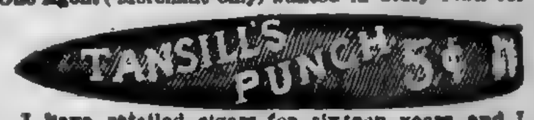
IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES. It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, St. Louis and Kansas City

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for



I have retailed cigars for sixteen years and I consider your "Tansill's Punch" the best 5c. cigar I ever saw. JOHN W. ATTKEY, Druggist Carbondale, Pa.

Your "Tansill's Punch" 5c. cigar is becoming more popular every day. Cigar drummers don't bother us any more. HUGO ANDRIESSEN, Beaver, Pa.

Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows. Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D. C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY

A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.

KNOW THYSELF.

PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY, St. Louis, Mo.

STATE COLLEGE OF KENTUCKY. EIGHTEEN PROFESSORS AND INSTRUCTORS.

Agricultural and Mechanical, Scientific, Engineering, Classical, Normal School, Military Tactics, Commercial and Preparatory Courses of Study. Tuition $20 per annum. Board $3.50 per week. U. S. Army Officer Commandant of Cadets. Fall term begins September 14, 1887. For Catalogue and other information, Address JAMES K. PATTERSON, PH. D., LEXINGTON, KY.

JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT

5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.

Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

WEAK MEN, WEAK WOMEN, YOU CAN BE CURED! Dr. BAIRD'S BLOOD GRANULES are marvelous, the SENSATION of the hour. Thousands have used them and not one but is enthusiastic over their wonderful properties. 25 cents; 5 boxes, $1. Of Druggists or by mail, postage prepaid. All invalids should send account of case, symptoms, etc., with order and we will DO YOU GOOD. Address Dr. WM. H. BAIRD, Washington, N. J.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

Lecture on "ROUGH ON RATS."

This is what killed your poor father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'Rough'ness.

DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of Roaches, Water-bugs, Beetles. For 2 or 3 nights sprinkle "ROUGH ON RATS" dry powder, in, about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. ROACHES Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "ROUGH ON RATS," is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.

DESTROYS POTATO BUGS For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a tablespoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c. and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.

"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES.

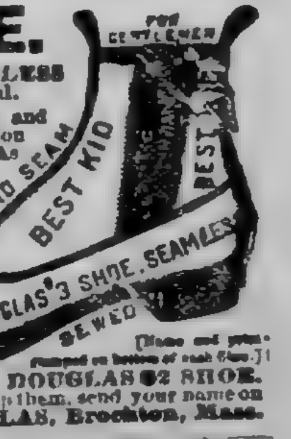
Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE.



The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world. Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $3 Shoes advertised by other firms. [Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.]

Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE. If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,

—A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES—

Healthy location; handsome grounds (15 acres); capacious buildings, well lighted, heated and ventilated; fine library, apparatus and equipment; 17 teachers; thorough and complete course of instruction. Best advantages in music, elocution, painting, etc. No sectarianism. 58th annual session begins Monday, Sept. 5th, 1887. ☞ Prices reasonable. Handsomest Catalogue Free. ROBT. D. SMITH, President, Columbia, Tenn.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circular.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 85 S Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

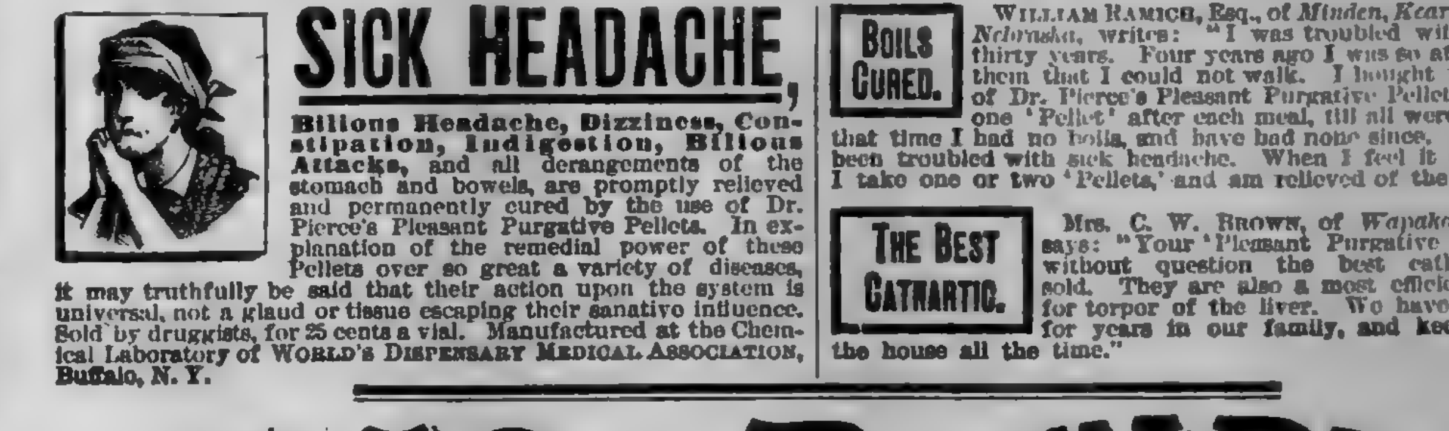
TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address [illegible], P. O. Box 166, Atlanta, Ga.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for Circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured satisfactory before any pay. [illegible] Cincinnati, O.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest. CATARRH Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

A. N. U. .... Thirty, '87



This represents a healthy life. Throughout its various scenes.

Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.

The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS. ○○○ ○○○

THE ORIGINAL LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS!

Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, or Little Sugar-coated Granules or Pills.

BEING ENTIRELY VEGETABLE, Dr. Pierce's Pellets operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a LAXATIVE, ALTERATIVE, or PURGATIVE, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE, Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, for 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

BOILS CURED. William Ramich, Esq., of Minden, Kearney County, Nebraska, writes: "I was troubled with boils for thirty years. Four years ago I was so afflicted with them that I could not walk. I bought two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, and took one 'Pellet' after each meal, till all were gone. By that time I had no boils, and have had none since. I have also been troubled with sick headache. When I feel it coming on, I take one or two 'Pellets,' and am relieved of the headache."

THE BEST CATHARTIC. Mrs. C. W. Brown, of Wapakoneta, Ohio, says: "Your 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets' are without question the best cathartic ever sold. They are also a most efficient remedy for torpor of the liver. We have used them for years in our family, and keep them in the house all the time."

$500 REWARD

Is offered by the PROPRIETORS OF DR. SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy

FOR A CASE OF CATARRH WHICH THEY CAN NOT CURE.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.

Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. However, only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties,

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

CURES THE WORST CASES OF

Catarrh, "Cold in the Head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

PRICE 50 CENTS.

UNTOLD AGONY FROM CATARRH. Prof. W. Hausner, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

CONSTANTLY HAWKING AND SPITTING. Thomas J. Rushing, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

THREE BOTTLES CURE CATARRH. Eli Robbins, Runyon P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION.'

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA.. THURSDAY. AUGUST 11, 1887. NUMBER 40.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	13 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	[illegible]
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	[illegible]	60 00
1 Column	40 00	[illegible]	100 00

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

It is an interesting fact that every member of the recent General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church South who served in the war was strongly in favor of union with the Northern Church.

There are now over 1,000 Young Men's Christian Associations in this country, with a membership of 140,000, expending for Christian work $785,000. The aggregate of property in buildings, libraries, etc., is over $5,000,000.

The New York Chinese mission has between 4,000 and 5,000 Celestials in its Sunday-schools. About sixty have joined the various churches. The first Sunday-school for these people was founded in New York eighteen years ago.

James H. Macdonald, the new Lieutenant-Governor of Michigan, has an income of $40,000 a year on an investment which cost him less than $350. When Captain Moore discovered the Colby mine in the great Gogebic iron range he sold a third interest to Macdonald for a few dollars. The land is now worked by a company which pays a royalty of forty cents a ton. The royalty for the present year amounts to $120,000, a third of which goes to Lieut.-Governor Macdonald.

A singular phenomenon was lately witnessed near Greenville, Ala. A whirlwind about fifteen feet wide passed over a pond, forcing the water up for about two or two and a half feet its entire width, then twisting it into a pillar about a foot in diameter. This stem was perpendicular for about six feet, when it gradually widened until a height of about sixty or seventy feet was attained. The water then fell in a spray. Those who witnessed it say that the whirlwind formed a huge goblet of the water, and it was one of the prettiest sights they ever saw.

The agricultural Department has issued a report to show that 10,000,000 acres of forests are used yearly in this country for fuel and lumber. Fires, it is calculated destroy about 10,000,000 acres more. The forest area of this country is less than 450,000,000 acres. At this rate we will in a quarter of a century have no forests. Whatever relief may come in the future from a change in the fuel question the demand for timber will increase as the country increases in population. The whole thing seems to point to arboriculture on a large scale systematically, and in no long time either.

It was supposed that the death of the late Captain Eads would end the Tehauntepec ship-railway project, of which he was the originator. It seems not. The stockholders in the enterprise, twenty-five or thirty of whom, representing $15,000,000 of stock, reside at Pittsburg, have determined to continue the work, and have selected one of their number, Colonel James B. Andrews, to take charge of it. He is a brother-in-law of the deceased engineer, and said to be entirely competent to carry on the enterprise. The stockholders have abandoned the idea of asking for a Government loan, and will prosecute the work on its merits.

Columbia college, New York, has its first lady "bachelor" in the person of Miss Mary Parsons Hankey, who has received her decree after having pursued at home the college course of study. She has shown remarkable capacity for absorbing knowledge, and her studies included eight languages, and various sciences, or altogether thirty distinct subjects. But this is not all, says the Tribune, quoting a friend of the lady: "She is an excellent draughtsman, skilful with the pencil and the brush, and a musician of good taste and execution. As to housewifery, she has, I believe shown President Barnard something, and if the proof of the pudding be in the eating I do not think he had cause to complain, but that is a very small part of her excellence in that department; in fact, I have never known a better example of a finely-proportioned and well-rounded education for a woman, and that woman a lady, than Mary possesses.

The Troy Times thinks that believers in the unlucky number thirteen will find a confirmation of the theory in a recent accident which befell a New York Central train at the metropolis. It says: "There were thirteen cars in line and on board thirteen undertakers, who were returning home from a convention held at Syracuse. Belief in the sinister character is widespread, many intelligent people feeling an awe of it which they would not willingly acknowledge. It has been said that President Garfield had an undue fear of the number, but rumor may have misrepresented him. He is reported to have especially disliked to sit in a company of a dozen and one at table. On the other hand, seven is the lucky number, because, for instance, a human being sheds his teeth at seven, becomes a youth at twice seven, a man at three times seven and reaches the grand climacteric at nine times seven. But who doubts that accidents have befallen railroad trains consisting of seven cars, or to human beings in other ways identified with the number? Great is superstition!"

VOICES OF THE BELLS.

I heard the bells at dawn of day,
Beyond the hills, far blue,
"The world is fair," they seemed to say,
"And everywhere the flowers of May
Are blossoming for you."
Blithe bells of morn! My pulses thrill,
For in my heart I hear them still.

I heard the bells above my head
Clang out at noon again;
And "Work, work, work!" they harshly said,
"The dewy hours of morn have fled,
Toil on, O sons of men!"
Discordant bells, that sorely fret
The weary soul with cares beset.

I heard the bells at eventide
The vesper hour chime low;
The day was done, and side by side
The weary toilers far and wide
All homeward seemed to go.
Sweet vesper bells, your tone is best,
Morn fled, toil done, and God confessed.

—Gussie Packard Du Bois, in Current.

DENIS.

A STORY FROM THE FRENCH.

Monsieur Marambot opened the letter his servant Denis brought him, and smiled.

Denis, who had been in his employ for twenty years—a little, jolly, thickset man, who was constantly referred to, through all the country round, as the very model of a valet—queried:

"Monsieur is happy? Monsieur has received some good news?"

Monsieur Marambot was not rich. He was a bachelor, and had been a village druggist for many years. He now lived on the small revenue made with great difficulty by selling medicines to the country people. He answered:

"Yes, my boy. Old Malois does not want to go into court, and to-morrow I will get my money. Five thousand francs will help an old bachelor along pretty well."

And M. Marambot rubbed his hands together. He was a man of rather resigned character, not particularly joval—incapable of anything like sustained effort, and quite indifferent about his own affairs.

He might easily have made a better living by taking advantage of the death of certain fellow-druggists, who had stores well-situated in large centres, to take one of the vacant businesses and so assure himself of a lucrative custom. But the trouble of moving, and the thought of all the other things he would have to do, always prevented it, and after thinking over the matter for a day or two, he would merely say:

"Ah! bah! Next time I'll really think about it. One loses nothing by waiting, anyhow. Perhaps I'll get a still better chance."

Denis, on the contrary, was always urging his master to attempt something. Naturally energetic, he would declare:

"Oh! as for me, if I just had the capital to start with, I would have made a fortune. Only a thousand francs, and I'd make my way soon enough."

M. Marambot smiled without replying, went into his little garden, and walked up and down with his hands behind him, in a revery.

Denis, all day long, sang ballads and country songs, as if he were in an uncommonly good humor. He even showed unusual activity; for he cleaned all the window panes in the house, singing at the top of his voice while he wiped the glass.

Astonished at his zeal, M. Marambot said to him several times, with a smile:

"If you keep on working like that, my boy, you will have nothing to do to-morrow."

Next morning, about nine o'clock, the postmaster handed Denis four letters for his master, one of which was very heavy. M. Marambot at once locked himself up in his room, and remained there until late in the afternoon. He then entrusted his servant with four letters for the post. One of them was addressed to M. Malois; it was, no doubt, an acknowledgement of money received.

Denis asked his master no questions; he seemed to be that day as melancholy and sullen as he had been merry the evening before.

Night came. M. Marambot went to bed at his usual hour, and slept.

He was awakened by a singular noise. He sat up at once in his bed and listened. But all at once his bedroom door opened, and Denis appeared on the scene, holding a candle in one hand and a kitchen-knife in the other; his eyes wild and fixed; his lips compressed as if under the influence of some terrible emotion, and his face so pale that he looked like a ghost.

Monsieur Marambot, at first stricken dumb with astonishment, concluded that Denis was walking in his sleep, and he got up to intercept him, when Denis suddenly blew out the light and made a rush for the bed. His master instinctively put out his hands to save himself from the shock of the encounter, which flung him upon his back, and then he tried to seize the hands of the domestic, who seemed to have become demented, and who was striking at him with all his might.

The first blow of the knife struck him in the shoulder; the second blow he received in his forehead, the third in his chest. He struggled frantically, putting out his hands in the dark, and kicking out with his feet, shouting:

"Denis! Denis!—are you mad? Denis! What are you doing? Denis!"

But Denis, panting with his efforts, still kept striking, became more and more furious; sometimes a kick or a blow would fling him back, but he always rushed on again, wildly. Monsieur Marambot received two more wounds—one in the leg and one in the abdomen. But a sudden thought came to him, and he screamed out:

"Stop, Denis, stop! I have not yet got my money!"

The man at once stopped striking. Monsieur Marambot could hear him panting in the dark.

M. Marambot spoke again:

"I have not yet got a cent. M. Malois has gone back on his word; the case is going before the courts; that is why you took those letters to the post. You had better read the letters lying on my desk."

And, with a supreme effort, he managed to get hold of the matches on the table and to strike a light.

He was covered with blood. Jets of it had spattered the wall. The sheets, the bed-curtains—everything was red. Denis, also bloody from head to foot, was standing in the middle of the room.

When he saw all this, Monsieur Marambot thought it was all over with him, and became unconscious.

He came to himself again at daylight. It took him some little time to collect his senses—to understand—to remember. But suddenly the recollection of the attempt and the sensation of his wounds came to him, and so intense a fear took possession of him that he shut his eyes so as not to see anything. At the end of a few minutes his terror calmed, and he began to think. He had not died from the blows—therefore he had some chance of living. He felt weak—very weak, but had no violent pain, though he felt a soreness at various points of his body, as of severe pinching. He also felt very chilly, and wet, and compressed, as if he had been tightly swathed with bandages. He thought the humidity must be blood, and a shudder passed through him at the thought of all that red fluid which had issued from his own veins in such quantity as to wet his bed. The idea of having to see that awful sight again, completely upset him, and he shut his eyes as tightly as he could, as if afraid they might open in spite of him.

What had become of Denis? He must have run away.

But what was he, Marambot, now going to do? To get up, and call for help? Why, if he were to make the least movement, all his wounds would certainly break open again, and he would die from loss of blood.

All of a sudden he heard his bedroom pushed open. His heart almost stopped. That was certainly Denis coming back to finish him. He tried to hold his breath so that the murderer would think he was really dead—that the job was thoroughly done.

He felt the sheet pulled off—then felt some one feeling his abdomen. A sharp pain near his hip made him start. Now he felt somebody washing his wound—very gently—with cold water. Therefore, the crime must have been discovered, and they were attending to his wounds; he was being nursed. A wild joy came on him; but through a lingering sense of prudence, he tried not to show that he was conscious, and he half opened one eye, only one, with ever so many precautions.

He recognized Denis standing beside him—Denis himself! Good Lord! He shuts his eyes again forthwith.

Denis! What on earth was he doing? What did he want? What frightful project was he now endeavoring to accomplish?

What was he doing? Why, he was washing him simply to hide all traces of the crime. And now, perhaps, he would bury him ten feet deep in the garden, so that nobody could ever find him. Or else, perhaps, in the cellar under the place where the bottles of choice wine were kept.

And M. Marambot began to tremble so much that every limb shook.

He thought: "It is all up with me—all up with me!" He shut his eye not to see the last blow of the knife coming. It did not come. Denis was now lifting him, and binding his wounds with some linen. Then he begin to bind the wound in the leg, very carefully, as he had learned to do when his master was a druggist.

There could be no more doubt in the mind of any one who knew the business. The servant, after having tried to kill him, was now trying to save him.

Then, in a dying voice, M. Marambot gave him this piece of practical counsel:

"The washing and dressing ought to be done with carbolic acid and diluted with soap and water."

Denis answered:

"That's what I'm doing, monsieur."

M. Marambot opened both his eyes.

There was no trace of blood now, either in the bed or on the wall, or in the room or upon the person of the assassin. The wounded man was lying upon clean white sheets.

The two men looked at one another. Finally M. Marambot said, very gently:

"You have committed a crime."

Denis replied:

"I am trying to make reparation for it, monsieur. If you promise not to denounce me, I will continue to serve you as faithfully as in the past."

Well, it was not the most propitious time to argue with his servant. M. Marambot, as he closed his eyes again articulated:

"I swear to you that I will never denounce you."

Denis saved his master. He passed whole nights and days without sleep, never leaving the patient's room a moment—preparing lotions, mixing medicines, giving doses, feeling his master's pulse, counting it anxiously—managing the case with the skill of a professional nurse and the devotion of a son.

Every minute or two he would asked: "Well, monsieur, how do you feel now?"

Monsieur Marambot would reply, feebly: "A little better, my boy, thank you."

And often, when the wounded man awoke in the night, he would see his nurse weeping silently, as he sat in his arm-chair by the bed, and wiping his eyes.

Never in his life had the old druggist been so well cared for—so much petted and caressed. At first he said to himself, "Just so soon as I get well, I'll get rid of the rascal." But when he was fully convalescent he kept putting off the man's dismissal from day to day.

He thought to himself that no other person would ever show him so much attention or bestow upon him so much care. He had a hold on the man now—could control him by fear—and even he told him that he had made a will and deposited it with a notary, in which will was a statement denouncing Denis in case anything should occur.

This precaution seemed to assure him against any further attempt on his life; and then he began to ask himself whether it would not be better to keep the man anyhow, as he could thus keep a better watch over his future actions.

He found it as impossible to make up his mind about this matter, as he had found it formerly impossible to decide whether to open a drug store or not.

"Well, there's time enough to think about that," he would say to himself.

Meanwhile Denis continued to show himself to be a perfect domestic. M. Marambot got well. He kept Denis.

But one morning, just as he had finished breakfast, he suddenly heard a great noise in the kitchen. He ran thither, and saw Denis struggling in the grasp of two gendarmes.

One of the officers began to take notes in a note-book.

As soon as he saw his master, the servant sobbed out:

"You denounced me monsieur!—after all your promises! That is not right. You broke your word of honor, M. Marambot!—that was not right!—that was not right!"

Monsieur Marambot, utterly astounded, and greatly pained at being suspected, lifted up his hand, and said:

"I swear to you, before God, my boy, that I never denounced you. I have not even got the faintest idea how these policemen ever heard of the attempt to murder me!"

The one who was taking notes, gave a start:

"What! you say he tried to murder you, M. Marambot?"

More and more confused, the druggist answered:

"Why, yes—but I never denounced him—never said a word about it—I swear I never said a word—He served me very well ever since."

The officer severely replied:

"I note down your statement. Justice will take full cognizance of this new fact, which was not known to us before, Monsieur Marambot. I was simply ordered to arrest your servant for stealing two ducks from Monsieur Duhamel; we have witnesses to prove the theft. Sorry, Monsieur Marambot; I shall testify to what you have just said."

Then turning to the gendarmes, he said:

"Take him along."

They took Denis along.

The attorney for the defendant entered a plea of insanity—using the two different charges to make a case for his client.

He proved clearly that the theft of the two ducks must have been performed in the same mental condition which caused the eight knife-stabs to have been inflicted upon M. Marambot. He made a very fine analysis of all the different phases of this mental aberration, which, he felt sure, he said, would yield to a few week's judicious medical treatment in a good private asylum. He spoke enthusiastically of the continuous self-devotion of this honest servant—the unceasing care he had bestowed upon the employer he had wounded in a moment of mental aberration.

Monsieur Marambot, painfully impressed by the awful recollection of that night, felt the tears rise to his eyes.

The shrewd lawyer noticed it—spread out his arms with a great gesture, waved the long black sleeves of his robe like bats' wings, and vociferated in a sonorous tone:

"Look! look! look! gentlemen of the jury!—look at those tears! What more need I now say in behalf of my client? What argument, what discourse, what reasoning could weigh against the evidence of those tears of his own master? Those tears plead louder than my voice—they plead louder than the voice of the law—they cry out for pardon for the madness of a moment! They impolore; they absolve; they bless!"

He held his peace, and sat down.

Turning to Marambot, whose testimony had been all in favor of Denis, the Judge asked:

"But in any event, sir—even admitting that you believe this man to be insane—I cannot understand your reason for keeping him in your employ. He was, under all circumstances, dangerous."

Marambot replied, wiping his eyes;

"What else could I do, your Honor?—it is so hard to find servants nowadays. I might have found worse."

Denis was acquitted and sent to an insane asylum, at his master's expense.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Buying A Suit of Clothes.

Fogg was going to buy a new suit, and Mrs. F. very kindly offered to accompany him. Arrived at the store a salesman approached with his business smirk. "I want a suit of clothes," said Fogg abruptly. Mrs. F.—"Something not too expensive, you know." "Yes'm" replied the salesman, turning his attention to the lady and utterly ignoring Fogg. Mrs. F. (examining cloth)—"Do you think this will match his complexion?" Salesman—"Admirably! Couldn't suit it better." Mrs. F.—"Do you think so? How fortunate, I'm sure! But won't this fade?" Salesman—"Not a particle. I wore one like it five years, and it didn't change color in the least." Mrs. F.—"And will it wash?" Salesman—"Perfectly." Mrs. F.—"Well, you may cut off a sample. What else have you?" The same catechism is repeated half a score of times, and the Foggs retire; Mrs. F. radiant, as one should be who has done a great work, and Fogg, looking sour, sad and discontented. Mrs. F. (on the street)—"Now, David, I'll take these home and wash 'em out, so's to be sure the colors are fast, and then I'll take them over to Mrs. Brown's and see what she says. She's a great judge, you know. And if she likes them, and aunt Kate thinks they'll be becoming, and Mrs. Black says they aren't too young for you, we will come again and decide."—Boston Transcript.

Treatment of Balky Horses.

The Farmer's Gazette (Ireland) gives the following different ways of treating balky horses, which are recommended for trial:

First, pat the horse on the neck, examine him carefully, first one side, then the other; if you can get him a handful of grass, give it to him, and speak encouragingly to him. Then jump into the wagon, and give the word go, and he will generally obey. Second, taking the horse out of the shafts, and turning him around in a circle until he is giddy, will generally start him. Third, another way to cure a balky horse is, place your hand over his nose and shut off his wind until he wants to go. Fourth, then, again, take a couple of turns of stout twine around the fore legs, just below the knee, tight enough for the horse to feel it; tie in a bow knot. At the first click he will probably go dancing off. After going a short distance you can get out and remove the string, to prevent injury to the tendons. Fifth, again, you can try the following: Take the tail of the horse between the hind legs, and tie it by a cord to the saddle girth. Sixth, the last remedy I know, is as follows: Tie a string around the horse's ear, close to the head. This will divert his attention, and start him.

True [illegible] doth not alw[illegible] joy [illegible] but in [illegible]

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DEVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "Preaching, Teaching and Exhortation,"

TEXT: Or ministry, let us wait on our ministering; or he that teacheth, on teaching; or he that exhorteth, on exhortation." —Romans, xii., 7-8.

Before the world is converted the style of religious discourse will have to be converted. You might as well go into the modern Sedan or Gettysburg with bows and arrows instead of rifles and bombshells and sparks of artillery, as to expect to conquer this world for God by the old styles of exhortation and sermonology. Jonathan Edwards preached the sermons most adapted to the age in which he lived, but if those sermons were preached now they would divide an audience into two classes, those sound asleep and those wanting to go home.

But there is a religious discourse of the future—who will preach it I have no idea; in what part of the earth it will be born I have no idea; in which denominations of Christians it will be delivered I cannot guess. That discourse or exhortation may be born in the country meeting-house on the banks of the St. Lawrence, or the Oregon, or the Ohio, or the Tombigbee, or the Alabama. The person who shall deliver it may this moment be in a cradle under the shadow of the Sierra Nevadas, or in a New England farm-house, or amid the rice-fields of Southern Savannas. Or this moment there may be some young man in some of our theological seminaries, in the junior or middle or senior class, shaping that weapon of power. Or there may be coming some new baptism of the Holy Ghost on the churches, so that some of us who now stand in the watch-towers of Zion, waking to a realization of our present inefficiency, may preach it ourselves. That coming discourse may not be fifty years off. And let us pray God that its arrival may be hastened, while I announce to you what I think will be the chief characteristics of that discourse or exhortation when it does arrive, and I want to make the remarks of the morning appropriate and suggestive to all classes of Christian workers

First of all I remark, that that future religious discourse will be full of a living Christ in contradistinction to didactic technicalities. A discourse may be full of Christ though hardly mentioning His name, and a sermon may be empty of Christ while every sentence is repititious of His titles. The world wants a living Christ, not a Christ standing at the head of a formal system of theology, but a Christ who means pardon and sympathy, and condolence, and brotherhood, and life, and heaven. A poor man's Christ. A rich man's Christ. An overworked man's Christ. An invalid's Christ. A farmer's Christ. A merchant's Christ. An artisan's Christ. An every man's Christ.

A symmetrical and fine-worded system of theology is well enough for theological classes, but it has no more business in a pulpit than have the technical phrases of an anatomist or a psychologist or a physician in the sick room of a patient. The world wants help, immediate and world-uplifting, and it will come through a discourse in which Christ shall walk right down into the immortal soul and take everlasting possession of it, filling it as full of light as is this noonday firmament.

That sermon or exhortation of the future will not deal with man in the threadbare illustrations of Jesus Christ. In that coming address there will be instances of vicarious suffering taken right out of everyday life, for there is not a day somebody is not dying for others. As the physician saving his diphtheritic patient by sacrificing his own life; as the ship captain going down with his vessel while he is getting his passengers into the life-boat; as the fireman consuming in the burning building while he is taking a child out of a fourth-story window; as in summer the strong swimmer at East Hampton, or Long Branch, or Cape May, or Lake George, himself perished trying to rescue the drowning; as the newspaper boy one summer, supporting his mother for some years, his invalid mother, when offered by a gentleman fifty cents to get some especial paper, and he got it, and rushed up in his anxiety to deliver it, and was crushed under the wheels of the train, and lay on the grass with only strength enough to say: "Oh, what will become of my poor sick mother now?"

Vicarious suffering. The world is full of it. An engineer said to me on a locomotive in Dakota: "We men seem to be coming to better appreciation than we used to. Did you see that account the other day of an engineer who, to save his passengers, stuck to his place, and when he was found dead in the locomotive, which was upside down, he was found still smiling, his hand on the air-brake?" And as the engineer said it to me, he put his hand on the air-brake to illustrate his meaning, and I looked at him and thought: "You would be just as much of a hero in the same crisis."

Oh, in that religious discourse of the future there will be living illustrations taken out from every-day life of vicarious suffering—illustrations that will bring to mind the ghastlier sacrifice of Him who in the high places of the field, on the cross, fought our battles, and wept our griefs, and endured our struggle, and died our death.

A German sculptor made an image of Christ, and he asked his little child two years old who it was, and she said: "That must be some great man." The sculptor was displeased with the criticism, so he got another block of marble, and chiseled away on it two or three years, and then he brought in his little child four or five years of age, and he said to her: "Who do you think that is?" she said: "That must be the One who took little children in his arms and blessed them." Then the sculptor was satisfied. Oh, my friends, what the world wants is not a cold Christ, not an intellectual Christ, not a severely magisterial Christ, but a loving Christ, spreading out His arms of sympathy to press the whole world to His loving heart.

But, I remark again, that the religious discourse of the future will be short. Condensation is demanded by the age in which we live. No more need of long introductions and long applications, and so many divisions to a discourse that it may be said to be hydra-headed. In other days men got all their information from the pulpit. There were few books and there were no newspapers, and there was little travel from place to place, and people would sit and listen two and a half hours to a religious discourse, and "seventeenthly" would find them fresh and chipper. In those days there was enough time for a man to take an hour to warm himself up to the subject and an hour to cool off. But what was a necessity then is a superfluity now. Congregations are full of knowledge from books, from newspapers, from rapid and continuous intercommunication, and long disquisitions of what they know already will not be abided. If a religious teacher cannot compress what he wishes to say to the people in the space of forty-five minutes, better adjourn it to some other day.

The trouble is we preach audiences into a Christian frame, and then we preach them out of it. We forget that every auditor has so much capacity of attention, and when that is exhausted he is restless. That accident on the Long Island Railroad some years ago came from the fact that the brakes were out of order, and when they wanted to stop the train they could not stop, and hence the casualty was terrific. In all religious discourse we want locomotive power and propulsion. We want at the same time stout brakes to let down at the right instant. It is a dismal thing after a hearer has comprehended the whole subject, to hear a man say: "Now to recapitulate," and "a few words by way of application," and "once more," and "finally," and "now to conclude."

Paul preached until midnight, and Eutychus got sound asleep and fell out of a window and broke his neck. Some would say: "Good for him." I would rather be sympathetic like Paul and resuscitate him. That accident is often quoted now in religious circles as a warning against somnolence in church. It is just as much a warning to [illegible] against prolixity. [illegible] was [illegible] in his [illegible], but Paul made a mistake when he kept on until midnight. He ought to have stopped at eleven o'clock, and there would have been no accident. If Paul might have gone on to too great length, let all those of us who are now preaching the Gospel remember that there is a limit to religious discourse, or ought to be, and that in our time we have no apostolic power of miracles.

Napoleon in an address of seven minutes thrilled his army, and thrilled Europe. Christ's Sermon on the Mount, the model sermon, was less than eighteen minutes long at ordinary mode of delivery. It is not electricity scattered all over the sky that strikes, but electricity gathered into a thunderbolt and hurled, and it is not religious truth scattered over, spread out over a vast reach of time, but religious truth projected in compact form that flashes light upon the soul and rives its indifference.

When the religious discourse of the future arrives in this land and in the Christian church, the discourse which is to arouse the world and startle the nations, and usher in the kingdom, it will be a brief discourse. Hear it all theological students, all ye just entering upon religious work, all ye men and women who in Sabbath-schools and other departments are toiling for Christ and the salvation of immortals: Brevity! Brevity!

But I remark also that the religious discourse of the future of which I speak will be a popular discourse. There are those in these times who speak of a popular sermon as though there must be something wrong about it. As these critics are dull themselves the world gets the impression that a sermon is good in proportion as it is stupid. Christ was the most popular preacher the world ever saw, and considering the small number of the world's population, had the largest audience ever gathered. He never preached anywhere without making a great sensation. People rushed out in the wilderness to hear him, reckless of their physical necessities. So great was their anxiety to hear Christ that, taking no food with them, they would have fainted and starved had not Christ performed a miracle and fed them.

Why did so many people take the truth at Christ's hands? Because they all understood it. He illustrated his subject by a hen and her chickens, by a bushel measure, by a handful of salt, by a bird's flight and by a lily's aroma. All the people knew what He meant and they flocked to Him. And when the religious discourse of the future appears, it will not be Princetonian, not Rochesterian, not Andoverian, not Middletonian, but Olivetic—plain, practical, unique, earnest—comprehensive of all the woes, wants, sins, sorrows and necessities of an auditory.

But when that exhortation or discourse does come there will be a thousand gleaming scimetars to charge on it. There are in so many theological seminaries professors telling young men how to preach, themselves not knowing how; and I am told that if a young man in some of our theological seminaries says anything quaint or thrilling or unique, faculty and students fly at him and set him right, and straighten him out, and smooth him down, and chop him off, until he says everything just as everybody else says it.

Oh, when the future religious discourse of the Christian church arrives, all the churches of Christ in our great cities will be thronged. The world wants spiritual help. All who have buried their dead want comfort. All know themselves to be mortal and to be immortal and they want to hear about the great future. I tell you, my friends, if the people of our great cities who have had trouble only thought they could get practical and sympathetic help in the Christian church, there would not be a street in New York, or Brooklyn, or Chicago, or Charleston, or Philadelphia, or Boston which would be passable on the Sabbath day if their were a church on it; for all the people would press to that asylum of mercy, that great house of comfort and consolation.

A mother with a dead babe in her arms came to the god Veda, and asked to have her child restored to life. The god Veda said to her: "You go and get a handful of mustard from a house in which there has been no sorrow, and in which there has been no death, and I will restore your child to life." So the mother went out, and she went from house to house, and from home to home, looking for a place where there had been no sorrow and where there had been no death, but she found none. She went back to the god Veda and said: "My mission is a failure; you see I haven't brought the mustard seed; I can't find a place where there has been no sorrow and no death." "Oh," says the god Veda, "understand your sorrows are no worse than the sorrows of others; we all have our griefs, and all have our heart-breaks."

Laugh and the world laughs with you,
Weep, and you weep alone:
For the sad old earth must borrow its mirth,
But has trouble enough of its own.

We hear a great deal of discussion now all over the land about why people do not go to church. Some say it is because Christianity is dying out, and because people do not believe in the truth of God's word, and all that. They are false reasons. The reason is because our sermons and exhortations are not interesting, and practical, and helpful. Some one might as well tell the whole truth on this subject, and so I will tell it. The religious discourse of the future, the Gospel sermon to come forth and shake the nations and lift people out of darkness, will be a popular sermon, just for the simple reason that it will meet the woes and the wants and the anxieties of the people.

There are in all our denominations ecclesiastical mummies sitting around to frown upon the fresh young pulpits of America, to try to awe them down, to cry out: Tut! tut! tut! Sensational!" They stand to-day preaching in churches that hold a thousand people, and there are a hundred persons present, and if they cannot have the world saved in their way it seems as if they do not want it saved at all.

I do not know but the old way of making ministers of the Gospel is better—a collegiate education and an apprenticeship under the care and home attention of some earnest, aged Christian minister, the young man getting the patriarch's spirit and assisting him in his religious service. Young lawyers study with old lawyers, young physicians with old physicians, and I believe it would be a great help if every young man studying for the Gospel ministry could put himself in the home, and heart, and sympathy, and under the benediction and perpetual presence of a Christian minister.

But I remark again, the religious discourse of the future will be an awakening sermon. From alter rail to the front door step under that sermon an audience will get up and start for heaven. There will be in it many a staccato passage. It will not be a lullaby; it will be a battle charge. Men will drop their sins, for they will feel the hot breath of pursuing retribution on the back of their necks. It will be sympathetic with all the physical distresses as well as the spiritual distresses of the world. Christ not only preached but He healed paralysis, and He healed epileysy, and He healed the dumb and the blind and ten lepers.

That religious discourse of the future will be an everyday sermon, going right down into every man's life, and it will teach him how to vote, how to bargain, how to plough, how to do any work he is called to, how to wield trowel and pen and pencil and yard-stick and plane. And it will teach women how to preside over their households, and how to educate their children, and how to imitate Miriam and Esther and Vashti and Eunice, the mother of Timothy, and Mary, the mother of Christ: and those women who on Northern and Southern battlefields, were mistaken by the wounded for angels of mercy fresh from the throne of God.

Yes, I have to tell you the religious discourse of the future will be a reported sermon. If you have an idea that printing was invented simply to print secular books, and stenography and phonography were contrived merely to set forth secular ideas, you are mistaken. The printing press is to be the great agency of Gospel proclamation. It is high time that good men instead of denouncing the press, employ it to scatter forth the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The vast majority of people in our cities do not come to church, and nothing but the printed sermon can reach them and call them to pardon, and life, and peace, and heaven.

So I cannot understand the nervousness of some of my brethren of the ministry. When they see a newspaper man coming in they say: "Alas, there is a reporter." [illegible] added reporter is ten thousand, fifty thousand, a hundred thousand immortal souls added to the auditory. The time will come when all the village, town and city newspapers will reproduce the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and sermons preached on the Sabbath will reverberate all around the world, and, some by type and some by voice, all nations will be evangelized.

The practical bearing of this is upon those who are engaged in Christian work, not only upon theological students and young ministers, but upon all who preach the Gospel, and all who exhort in meeting, and that is all of you if you are doing your duty. Do you exhort in prayer meeting? Be short and be spirited. Do you teach in Bible class? Though you have to study every night be interesting. Do you accost people on the subject of religion in their homes or in public places? Study adroitness and use common sense. The most graceful and most beautiful thing on earth is the religion of Jesus Christ, and if you awkwardly present it, it is defamation. We must do our work rapidly, and we must do it effectively. Soon our time for work will be gone.

A dying Christian took out his watch and gave it to a friend and said: "Take that watch, I have no more use for it; time is ended for me and eternity begins." Oh, my friends, when our watch has ticked away for us the last moment, and our clock has struck for us the last hour, may it be found we did our work well, that we did it in the very best way, and whether we preached the Gospel in pulpits or taught Sabbath classes, or administered to the sick as physicians, or bargained as merchants, or plead the law as attorneys or were busy as artisans, or as husbandmen, or as mechanics, or were like Martha called to give a meal to a hungry Christ, or like Hannah to make a coat for a prophet, or like Deborah to rouse the courage of some timid Barak in the Lord's conflict, we did our work in such a way that it will stand the test of the Judgment. And in the long procession of the redeemed that march around the throne, may it be found there are many there brought to God through our instrumentality and in whose rescue we are exultant.

But, O ye unsaved, wait not for that religious discourse of the future. It may come after your obsequies. It may come after the stone-cutter has chiseled your name on the slab, fifty years before. Do not wait for a great steamer of the Cunard or White Star line to take you off the wreck, but hail the first craft, with however low a mast and however small a hulk, and however poor a rudder, and however weak a captain. Better a disabled schooner that comes up in time than a full-rigged brig that comes up after you have sunken.

Instead of waiting for that religious discourse of the future—it may be forty, fifty years off—take this plain invitation of a man who, to have given you spiritual eyesight, would be glad to be called the spittle by the hand of Christ put on the eyes of a blind man, and who would consider the highest compliment of this service, if at the close five hundred men should start from these doors, saying: "Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not. This one thing I know, whereas I was blind now I see."

Swifter than shadows over the plain, quicker than birds in their autumnal flight, hastier than eagles to their prey, hie you to a sympathetic Christ. The orchestras of heaven have already strung their instruments to celebrate your rescue.

"And many were the voices around the throne, Rejoice, for the Lord brings back his own."

A Transformation.

As he walked by my side in the Mall
His figure looked graceful and tall;
But when in the sand
He scrambled to land
How those tailor-made shoulders did fall.

—Texas Siftings.

The Age of Steam.

Particular and trifling incidents seen in a big city often remind one of some great generalization. For instance, I saw on Van Buren street an Italian with a little steam engine rigged up on his scissor grinding cart. As the wheel revolved swiftly and the brown, serious-faced man made sparks of fire fly from the stone, one could not help reflecting that this is surely the age of steam.—Chicago Herald.

A Sad Ending to a Beautiful Tale.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 11, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - -	$1.50
One copy six months - - - -	75
One copy four " - - - -	50

The Brierfield Iron Manufacturing Co. has failed.

◆

If all the world were agreed it would be a very stupid place.

◆

The Mountain Eagle nominates Wm. O. Monroe, editor of the Eutaw Whig and Observer, for Secretary of State. He would make a good one.

◆

The Birmingham Herald, recently established, is assuredly a fine newspaper even without the Associated Press dispatches. We predict much success ahead for such an ably conducted paper.

◆

Vincent's trial was begun in the Montgomery city court Monday. It will probably consume many days, perhaps weeks, and the daily papers will be full of it. It will in many respects be the most notable trial in the history of the State.

◆

Kentucky is still the "dark and bloody ground." At the State election held last week a row at Manchester, a small village of 300 people, resulted in the death of six men. The State Democratic ticket was elected by a good majority.

◆

A syndicate of New York and Pittsburg capitalists have just closed a transaction by which they become owners of nearly one hundred thousand acres of the finest pine forest in the South. The lands are along the northern line of South Carolina and Georgia, most of it being in the latter State. The price paid was one million dollars in cash. The intention of the purchasers is not to develop the lands but to hold them as an investment until the advance in the price of lumber greatly increases their value.

◆

The Farmer's Alliance.

(Chattanooga Commercial.]

In speaking, the other day, of the Farmers' Alliance, which originated in Texas and has spread thence to all the neighboring Gulf States. The Times-Democrat expressed its opinion that the purposes of the association were generally excellent and most of them practicable; and that it had a fine field if it confined itself to its legitimate business—the improvement of the condition of the farmers. It ventured the further opinion that if, on the other hand it deserted this legitimate and promising field and became mixed up in other matters and antagonized other interests, this might defeat the great objects it has in view. Here is a case in point: The Farmers' Alliance of several counties in the Gulf States have determined to uphold primaries and nominate political tickets for county and district officers.

The result of this plan must be unfortunate. It makes little difference whether the Alliance tickets are successful or defeated. The moment the Association goes into politics and commences to nominate candidates, it will begin to make enemies, to arouse antagonisms it would otherwise never have known, and to create dissensions within its own ranks. The unfortunate disposition shown in this country to carry all questions into politics has been the ruin of many a good movement. The farmers of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi are strong enough to get such legislation as they need; and when they organize separately and nominate purely agricultural tickets, the natural result will be to arouse other interests in opposition to them, their tickets and their demands.

The Farmers' Alliance has cut out a big undertaking for itself in the many reforms and changes which it is seeking to bring about in the transaction of agricultural business. It has a herculean task before it, without seeking at the same time to interfere with and control politics. Any class politics is bad, and the class which organizes separately almost invariably finds itself opposed by a combination of the other classes.

It is to be hoped, for its own success, that the Farmers' Alliance and its subordinate lodges will confine themselves to the industrial enterprises they have undertaken instead of embarking in the stormy sea of politics, which has wrecked so many other promising organizations.

Past and Present.

Well I kin tell ye what is a fact, and there is no use in denying it, folks now-a-days and children neither hain't like they was when I was a gal. I was powerful pert like, and noticed pretty close about things in gineral. Mammy said I had an old head on young shoulders. I was awful purty, too, the boys said so, my head was red, complexion the same, while my eyes was sorter like a ganders. Mammy she was powerful proud of my fine pearance, when I dressed in my red frock and blue ribbins, she said too, she knowed I was born to marry the President, but pap he spoke up and says he don't tell Jerusha such nonsense, for it will nigh on addle her brain, for you know says he, how 'fected gals are, specially when they git fixed out in red ribbins and calico frocks. Poor old pap he was a good old soul as ever trod shoe leather, and mammy sometimes peered like she got powerful fretted with him; kase she said pap was "so tarnation slow, like a soft-shell turtle." Mammy, she would often say; "law sakes just look at Hesekiah. I could build Noey's ark while he is a feeding the old dun cow, and red steer." But you see pap was obleeged to have patience bekase he plowed the old red steer; he was awful slow, him and pap suited you see. It taken pap nigh on to two hours to git him from the paster to our field where our truck growed. It tuck bud Jehossey along to beat the old thing with a ten foot pole. Bud's name you see was Jehosaphat; and we called him "Jehossey" for short. My tother bud's name was Daniel Moses, poor old pap, he got powerful stirred up like, one frosty morning, it was powerful cold, and pap he was "snappin around" at mammy and the old red steer, and Dan Moses he was helpin pap to git him to the paster; most onlucky for Dan Moses he gin the old man a soundin lick on the head instead of the old red steer. La how the old fellow bi'led over, and bud did too in a mud puddle.

La me if I hain't forgot to tell you about my blessed little sis. She was the beautifullest little creetur you ever laid your mortal eyes on, white head and eyes kinder red. But law me I just declare if I hain't wandered clean away from my subject; old folks will do sich like you know; powerful forgitful. When I first started out on my subject it was to tell you the difference in folk now in this day and time and the good old days when I was a gal. There was no cars then nor trustles neither; the women folk didn't look like camels with a hump on their backs. Men's legs didn't look like walking canes; gals put less cloth in their frocks and men folks more in their breeches. It was a different state of 'fairs let me tell you, and gals didn't sit up primped up to play on the pianna and orgun, while their mammy drudged in the kitchen. The young man of this day and time smokes seegars while pap hoes corn and taters. And oh the tattling and backbiting that is floating around these times. I tell you some of the church folks will take a bite at you too and when they git through with you my sakes it will take a mikerscope to find the pieces that are left of you. I must say good bye now; perhaps you will hear agin from your aunt

SUSAN ANN DAWKINS.

Jemison, Ala., July, '87.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Swift Creek.

A great change has been made in our community. One year ago we were destitute of any society whatever that would give life to the present or rising generation. The first move for the better there was great interest manifested in a school which was being taught here. About this time we organized a Sabbath school, which is still prospering. We now have a church organized, consisting of thirty-five members. We have preaching three Sabbaths in every month. Now we are going to build a new church house; will begin work on it next week. The principal part of the funds have already been raised. Any one wishing to invest in a good cause is at liberty to do so. All favors will be highly appreciated.

HUMPHRIES.

Blue Creek Locals.

Misses Nenie Oden, of Childersburg, and Lillian Ellis, of Prattville, visited their cousin Miss Janie Oden at Blue Creek last week.

Mr. T. M. Ternan is having a new dwelling and store house erected on his place near Spanish Fort.

The Messrs. Wells have a new saw mill in progress near this place.

Mr. F. M. Connell has a flourishing school of forty pupils at Corinth church.

Mr. James Sharp and family moved to this place last week.

Mr. Sebourn Robinson has an interesting school at Pleasant Cherry.

Hog and chicken cholera is prevailing in this vicinity.

Rain is abundant and crops are flourishing. Late corn is very fine.

The young people of this place accompanied by visiting friends had a regular "Betsy Hamilton" drive on last Friday.

CARYL.

Maplesville Dots.

August 1st, 1887.

We have had plenty of rain and crops are looking fine.

Mrs. W. H. Foshee, of Clanton, visited friends and relatives at this place recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. DuBose, of Selma, are visiting "the old folks at home."

The people, of Maplesville were glad to see Mrs. Judge Callen looking so well.

Mr. W. D. Kelley, of Selma, gave us a flying visit last Saturday.

I was asked to say a few words concerning crops. Well I have always been taught to keep silent if there was nothing to say. I can simply say that the crops are the best that have ever been seen in this country. A few of our farmers say their corn does not shoot well but we rather think those farmers did not use enough ammunition to justify their corn to shoot at all. Cotton is two weeks earlier this year than it was last year and is about twice as good. Cane is a great deal better than it was last year and so are potatoes and all other crops.

DUNCE.

Rock Ridge Dots.

Rain, rain, two much rain.

Health of the community good.

Crops somewhat damaged by wind and continuous rain.

Fodder pulling would be the go if the rain would cease.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father, on the 7th, Mr. F. M. Powell to Miss Lona Adkins, Justice A. C. Mims officiating.

Both old and young enjoyed themselves splendidly at the basket dinner at Kincheon on Saturday the 6th. More than two hundred people were in attendance.

Mr. E. M. Davenport has been visiting relatives on Mulberry.

Mrs. J. R. Missildine has returned from a visit to her parents, of Montgomery county.

Mr. J. H. Davenport has the finest tobacco patch that we have seen. He has over 800 plants which will make 200 lbs. or more.

Some of our farmers have introduced a new style of hunting stock. They hitch a mule to a one horse wagon and then as many as can conveniently ride get on and they start through the piney woods in search of cows, sheep &c.

Stanton Puffs.

Mrs. Thomas has bought a lot in Stanton and is building a residence.

Prof. E. D. Acker has resigned as principal of the Stanton Academy. We regret very much to lose him, and congratulate our Verbena friends, as they have secured in Prof. Acker a worthy successor to Prof. Acree.

Plant street has been widened out, which is a great convenience.

The boiler which was being repaired is completed and is now occupying its old position. The saw mill will soon be running to its full capacity.

Rev. J. M. Kailin occupied the pulpit at the Baptist Church one Sunday evening recently.

Our Baptist Church ought to have a bell, who will start?

The Methodists are raising means to build a church, in our village.

89.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. Doctor Waite, of Montgomery preached in the Baptist church Sunday last.

Col. R. S. Lanier and wife of Macon, Ga., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Gibson.

The bright and accomplished Miss Susie Everhart of Montgomery, made us all happy one day last week.

Mr. Foster Elsberry, of Decatur, is with his family at the "Clifton."

Mr. Leland, of New Orleans is at the Clifton House, for the purpose of looking out a route for a new railroad to pass through Chilton county.

Mr. Robert Chambers and Miss Maggie Peet, of Montgomery, spent Sunday with W. L. Chambers and family.

Miss Bettie and Mr. Ben Merriwether are enjoying Verbena society.

Mr. Editor, we can show more handsome, winsome and attractive young lady visitors, together with our own, than any village in the state. Our little town is full of them.

A Day at Kincheon.

It was our good fortune to attend the picnic at Kincheon on last Saturday, the 6th, and as the VIEW man was not there, (he was expected) and as we did not recognize any of the VIEW correspondents, we will try and write up the day.

It was not a barbecue and public speaking, Sunday school picnic or anything of the kind; nor did the amusement consist in dancing, but it was a straight old fashioned picnic, where the citizens of the community united in a grand social meeting, where the old men discussed the conditions of the crops, the state of politics and the general news of the day; where the old ladies met in——well we don't know what they did, but the boys spent the time chatting the girls (and they didn't seem to care.) Such was the order of the day when at twelve o'clock Mr. Abb Poole asked the ladies to please prepare the table. Mr. Editor "then there was hurrying to and fro," and in a few minutes they set free to all, a dinner such as is not often seen, but such as the good ladies of Kincheon neighborhood seldom fail to prepare.

We cannot do justice to that dinner now but we warrant that we did our part Saturday. Among the visitors was the jovial K. Wells and wife and a crowd of young folks from Verbena who all seemed to enjoy the occasion hugely.

Messrs. W. I. Mullins and Solomon Owen were the funny men and they furnished plenty of dry jokes to keep the crowd amused.

Hoping that we may spend many such days as Saturday with the people of Kincheon and that the VIEW man will not miss another picnic there we are,

O. E. and W.

Jemison Locals.

This scribe was so fortunate as to receive an invitation to a picnic given by several Sunday schools in the vicinity of New Salem church on Friday, the 29th ult. There was an excellent programme rendered in the way of singing, lectures, &c. Mr. J. Bice made a brief talk on Sunday school work followed by Mr. W. A. Porter, Supt. of Collins' Chapel school, who made a good speech in favor of Sunday schools.

Revs. W. G. Riggins and A. E. Burns both delivered excellent addresses, portraying the duties of parents to their children in regard to accompanying them to the Sunday school instead of remaining away and sending them. The last named gentleman made the audience hungry by winding up his remarks with relating the anecdote about the boy and the buckwheat cakes.

Mr. "Fox" Maull took the stand and announced that the audience were all cordially invited to partake of "a Sunday school drink" (ice lemonade). After the said drink, a magnificent dinner was spread and every one feasted to their heart's content. The young folks then repaired two and two to buggies, mossy banks, and rustic seats, there to remain till the intermission had expired. The audience reassembled and prayer was offered by Mr. A. B. Hill.

Rev. J. C. Hand and Messrs. W. A. Mims and E. M. Bean made interesting remarks in regard to Sunday school work.

A vote of thanks should be tendered to Mr. J. L. Busby and Messrs. Lee and Maull for the excellent management of the programme of the day.

Every one express themselves as wishing that the New Salem neighborhood would do so again.

X. Y. Z.

Strasburg Items.

A lightning-rod agent visited us soon after the accident; he found a ready sale for his rods.

Misses Annie Maull and Mamie Lanier are spending the week in Montgomery with their cousin Miss Lila Hayni.

Master Edgar Givhan left Monday morning for Atlanta, where he will spend the remaining holidays and perhaps attend school there the following session.

There is some talk of building a church at Strasburg, whether jest or earnest we are uninformed.

The three Sunday schools; Collin's Chapel, Friendship and New-Salem, united in their annual picnic Friday the 29th ult., at Mr. Maddox's mill. The occasion was quite pleasant.

Heavy showers continue to visit us a few times during the day.

The social circle of our quiet little place was very much enlivened during the past week, by the bright smiles of Miss Mollie Honeycutt, of Jemison.

Misses Mary and Emma Wilson, of Columbus, Ga., are visiting relatives at this place.

Miss Effie Lee, who has been spending the summer near here, has returned to her home in Selma.

The drug store of our town, is now complete.

Miss Flora Dainwood, of Selma, has made glad her friends, the Misses Lee and others, by paying them a visit this week.

Mrs. T. H. Wilkes, of Brierfield, is visiting her sister Mrs. A. J. Garner at this place.

INCE.

The health of our community is very good.

Our town is on a boom. Hammers are heard from daylight till dark.

Dr. J. P. Givhan is having his drug store built and will be ready to move into it the last of the week.

From the prospects I think there will be a wedding in our town soon. Hope we will get some of the wedding cake.

Miss Minnie Givhan opened her school on Monday the first day of of August. Her prospects for a large school bids fair to be good.

The Sunday school picnic at New Salem last Friday was a success.

SAM

NOTICE NO. 6502.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: John R. Dobbs homestead 14332 for the n w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: H. W. Herbert, John D. Wyatt, Madison Popwell, John Popwell.

jul 28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6500.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: Frank E. Fuller, Homestead 12968, for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec 14, township 20, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said lands, viz: John Klinner, Robert M. Robuck, William F. Robuck and Richard Coe, all of Clanton, Ala.

jul28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6501.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 10, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Broadhead, Homestead 13128 for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec. 12, township 20, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William A. Smith, George Rucker, Martin Hesler and William H. Foshee, Jr., all of Dixie, Ala.

jul28* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6477.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 13, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on August 29th, 1887, viz: Walter H. Jones, Homestead 12973 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ and n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 24, township 23, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Marcus, William H. Marcus, Marion H. Marcus, and Jesse A. Maddox, all of Jumbo, Ala.

jul14* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated. In Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.
Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.
A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

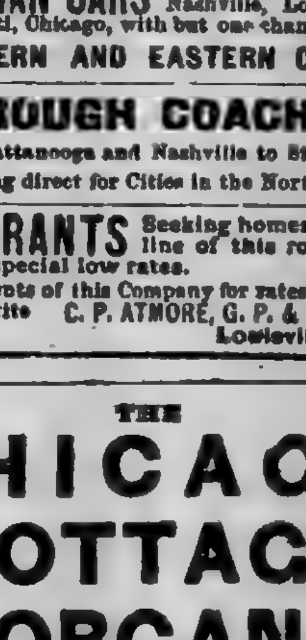
DIARRHŒA or FLUX.
Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. ☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' RESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

L&N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

THE
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior. It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.



OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.
WILSON HOUSE.
COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salesrooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Wool Carding.

Now is the time to get your wool carded. Our cards are in fine order. Ship to
E. G. WALKER,
Montevallo, Ala.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 11, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Advertise in your county paper.

Commissioner's court met last Monday.

Mrs. Beasley is quite sick at her home in this place.

We have had rain storms almost daily for the past week.

Gordon DuBose, Esq., is again among his Clanton friends.

Mr. W. M. Wilson is the happy father of a fine girl, born last week.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Mr. Timberlake, the popular hat drummer from Louisville, visited our burg this week.

Dr. Collier, of Troy, visited the family of Mr. W. A. Collier at this place this week.

Work has been commenced on an addition to the residence of Mr. W. H. Foshee.

A little infant of Mr. Joe Popwell died at its home near Kincheon last Friday.

A wagon load of large fish came in from the Coosa Friday and was sold on the streets.

Mr. T. E. Gilchrist is having a nice residence built out at "Ternanville" two miles east of town.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

Mrs. W. H. Phillips, of this place, is visiting relatives in Opelika, in the hope of recuperating her health.

Monroe, eldest son of Mr. J. A. Scotts, died at his home in the Kincheon neighborhood recently.

Rev. Mr. Briggs, our Methodist pastor, filled his regular appointments at this place last Sabbath.

Mr. J. H. Chandler has been quite sick for the past two weeks. We are glad to see him out again.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

Mr. Willis Lowe sends us some very fine apples. Thanks. We are proud of such friends as Mr. Lowe.

The report of small pox at Union Springs has been confirmed. A similar report as to Eufaula has been denied.

Since our last issue the crops throughout this section have been damaged some by continued wet weather.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Dress Goods at Sampey's.

Ladies, read this. I have just received 3000 yds good calico at 6 cents, 1000 yards good ginghams at 10 cents, 1000 yards cotton checks, 1000 yards sheeting, 1000 yards shirting, 300 yards hickory shirting, 300 yards Scotch Cheviots, a nice lot of worsteds, flannels and linseys. Ladies' and Misses' wool Jerseys at $1.00 and $1.25 each. Brocaded velvet for trimmings 60c. Good bargains in dress buttons—I got them at half price. Come and see for yourselves.

W. L. SAMPEY.

The frame work of the Hot Well hotel is about all up. The work has been very much retarded by the recent rains.

A little infant boy of Mr. Frank Wells died at Wells & Co's mill near Verbena, Tuesday night. He was one of twins.

Mr. R. L. Wooley sends us another water-melon which is the largest yet received and the man who beats it will get the premium.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

Mr. J. W. Edwards is putting a new fence around his residence on Main street and otherwise improving his place. He intends moving into it at no distant day.

An accident occurred at Bangor, on the L. & N. road one day last week, caused by the cow-catcher dropping off which threw the engine from the track, killing the engineer. Trains were delayed several hours thereby.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

In the decline of life infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

At the drawing for the crazy quilt made by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church the quilt was drawn by Miss Willie Pou. The quilt brought $15.00 there being thirty tickets to the drawing at 50 cts each.

We will say to parties who have to attend circuit court which convenes at this place on the 29th inst., that court will not commence until 12 o'clock of that day, and by leaving home that morning you can reach here in time.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

Judge Lapsley has been suddenly called to New York and Judge Moore of the fourth circuit is holding court this week at Wetumpka in his stead. Judge Moore will preside at our own court should Judge Lapsley not be able to return in time.

Last Tuesday's Advertiser says: "Four prisoners were brought in yesterday by deputy marshal Love, from Chilton county, charged with a mild case of moon shining. They were taken before commissioner Bell, who discharged two and bound the others over."

Dust thou art, unto dust thou must return. We accept this idea with philosophic resignation, knowing that when the grave closes over us the worms will banquet there, but when we see symptoms of worms in our little darlings, how gladly we accept such a remedy for them as White's Cream Vermifuge the best preparation known for the expulsion of worms.

A merchant should advertise in the paper published in the town in which he is doing business simply to support and keep it up if nothing else. A paper is an advantage to a town which is worth paying for and every dollar spent in advertising in it will bring you in two.

"The cry is still they come," after administering White's Cream Vermifuge to a child suffering with worms. Therefore, do not neglect to use it when you see unmistakable evidence of their presence. A capricious appetite, a cough, feverishness, picking the nose, and other signs familiar to every experienced mother call for prompt action. Administer White's Cream Vermifuge at once and save funeral expenses.

The entertainment at the Methodist church last Friday night was very well attended considering the inclemency of the weather. About ten dollars was taken in. A vote of thanks should be tendered Miss Butler for so materially assisting our people in making the entertainment interesting.

Croup is a treacherous disease, and generally the most severe at night when unable to properly watch it. The best known remedy is Ellis' C. S. A. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

Notice.

One or more members of the agricultural committee of each subordinate Alliance in the county is requested to meet me at the Academy in Clanton at 10 o'clock on Friday, the 26th inst., for the transaction of important business. Any Alliance which is without an agricultural committee should appoint one at once.

ALEX. G. DAKE,
Sec'y Co. Farmer's Alliance.

Two More Reports.

DIXIE, ALA., Aug. 4, 1887.

Crops in the southwest portion of the county on the little Oakmulgee are very good although corn and cotton have been damaged some by the recent heavy winds.

Yours truly,
D. H. MITCHELL.

LILY, AUGUST 4, '87.

Our corn crop is the best we have had in several years. Cotton is good but injured by too much rain that caused it to shed. We have a fine prospect for a potato crop and cane is looking fine. Taken altogether I think the crops as good as the lands will make, where they have been cultivated. S. J.

A Generous and Extensive Loan.

An earnest Christian lady makes the following offer to our readers: "I will loan, free of postal and all charges to such of your readers as will promise a careful reading and to pay return postage after reading it, a book which in interesting style shows the Bible to be a self-interpreter, and its teachings grandly harmonious, viewed in the light of sanctified reason and common sense. "I want to put this book into the hands of all skeptically inclined, as an aid and guard against the growing scientific skepticism. It is not dry, musty reading, but truly 'meat in due season' to the truth hungry. The light of this precious little volume has made the Bible a new book, a treasure, a mine of wealth, to many as to myself. And I feel that I cannot better use my means than in circulating this work by the thousand." Address Postal Card to

MRS. C. B. LEMUELS,
Alleghany, Pa.

The good effects of Ellis' P. P. P. on a debilitated person are felt at once, and a cure follows its use. If suffering from bloop poison try a bottle. For sale by W. H. Phillips, Clanton.

NOTICE NO. 6621.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
July 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17, 1887, viz: Henry H. Herbert, Homestead 12524 for the n w ¼ sec 22 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: N. A. Dobbs, John D. Wyatt, A. C. Duke, and W. A. Jones, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug3 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6433.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
Aug. 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 23rd, 1887, viz: James C. Williams, homestead 13282, for the w ½ of se ¼ and sw ¼ of ne ¼, sec 12, township 20, range 13. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: William I Mullins, William C. Dickerson, Thomas W. Weldon and J. H. Griffis, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 5474.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 9, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Thomas Craddock, homestead 10220 for the n ½ of s w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14 township 24 north range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George B. Glasscock, and Lowery J. Glasscock, of Shelby Iron Works, Ala., Elijah Headley and Samuel L. Arledge, of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 5475.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 24th, 1887, viz: Oma Hill, homestead 10336, for the s e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 14 township 24 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 5473.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the followidg named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Lowery J. Glasscock, homestead 11294 for the s w ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 14, township 24, range. 14. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

SUCH AS—

Painful, Profuse, Suppressed, Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR. NEVER OUT OF ORDER

NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO ORANGE MASS.
CHICAGO ILL. — 30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. — DALLAS TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO. — ATLANTA GA. — SAN FRANCISCO

aug10-1y

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

DRS. STARKEY AND PALEN

COMPOUND OXYGEN

1529 Arch Street, Philad'a, Pa.

A WELL TRIED TREATMENT

For Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Hay Fever, Headache, Debility, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and ALL CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISORDERS.

"The Compound Oxygen Treatment," Drs. Starkey and Palen, No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, have been using for the last seventeen years, is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen MAGNETIZED, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world.

Drs. Starkey & Palen have the liberty to refer to the following named well known persons who have tried their treatment:

Hon. Wm. D. Kelley, Member of Congress, Philadelphia.
Rev. Victor L. Conrad, Editor Lutheran Observer, Philadelphia.
Rev. Charles W. Cushing, D. D., Rochester, N. Y.
Hon. Wm. Penn Nixon, Editor Inter-Ocean, Chicago, Ill.
Rev. A. W. Moore, Editor The Centenary, Lancaster, S. C.
W. H. Worthington, Editor New South Birmingham, Ala.
Judge H P. Vrooman, Quenemo, Kan.
Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Melrose, Massachusetts.
Judge R. S. Voorhees, New York City.
Mr. E. C. Knight, Philadelphia.
Mr. Frank Sidalls, Merchant, Philad'a.
Hon. W. W. Schuyler, Easton, Pa.
Edward L. Wilson, 833 Broadway, N. Y., Ed. Philadelphia Photographer.
Fidelia M. Lyon, Waimea, Hawaii, Sandwich Islands.
Alexander Ritchie, Inverness, Scotland.
Mrs. Manuel V. Ortega, Zacatecas, Mex.
Mrs. Emma Cooper, Utilla, Spanish Honduras, Central America.
J. Cobb, U. S. Vice Consul, Casablanca, Morocco.
M. V. Ashbrook, Red Bluff, Cal.
Ernest Turner, Nottingham, England.
Jacob Ward, Bowral, New South Wales

And thousands of others in every part of the United States.

"Compound Oxygen—its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a new brochure of two hundred pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a record of several hundred surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Also "Compound Oxygen—its Origin and Development," an interesting book of one hundred pages. Both or either will be mailed free to any address on application. Read the brochure.

DRS. STARKEY & PALEN,
No. 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
[jun16-2m]

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

Saddles, Bridles, Track Collars, Blankets, Collars, Collar Pads, Lap Robes, Buggy Whips, Ankle Whip Boots, HAND MADE HARNESS.

New Stock and Low Prices.

HADAWAY,

No. 125 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala

SADDLES! Stage Harness, Coach Harness, Track Harness, Girths, Whip Lashes, Riding Whips, Leather Halters, Rope Halters ☞ Repairing done at Short Notice.

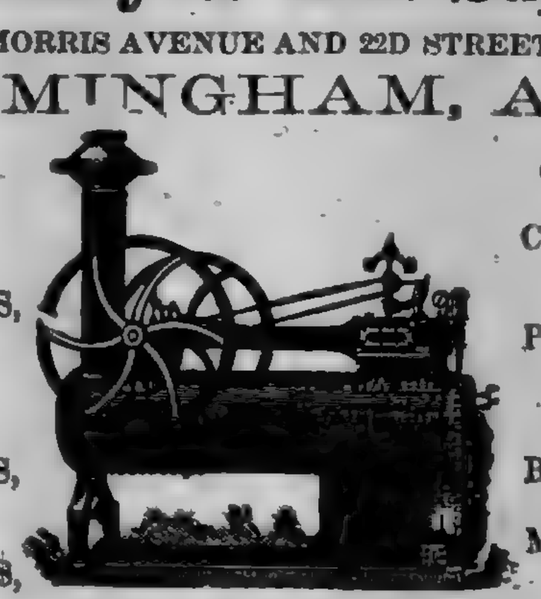
WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,



COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

THE MOST WONDERFUL FAMILY REMEDY EVER KNOWN. FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL USE.

PARSONS' PILLS MAKE NEW, RICH BLOOD.

MAKE HENS LAY

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen: Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS.

BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,

Avondale, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation. [illegible]

FULL COURSE [illegible]

TIME AND COST. [illegible]

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

The Chilton View Job Office,

IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR

JOB PRINTING,

SUCH AS

NOTE HEADS,

LETTER HEADS,

BILL HEADS,

ENVELOPES,

CARDS,

COMMISSARY CHECKS,

CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS

OF ALL KINDS,

NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.

SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

Calves and Their Food.

An Indiana farmer says in the New York World: "Farmers not unfrequently complain that they cannot grow calves economically, and they often sacrifice to the butcher animals it would pay them better to keep. Any one of experience with stock will know before a heifer is a week old whether it is best to fatten it for veal or raise for a good milch cow. Each calf should be examined and its form and marks noted before that time and its merits decided upon. Then, if it is to be kept, eagerness for immediate profits and the wish to raise it as cheaply as possible should not be allowed to lead one to stint the animal too much in milk. The pennies saved by such treatment at this stage of the animal's existence will be counted in dollars lost on it when mature. All live stock that is worth growing at all should be kept steadily gaining with good food and good treatment from the very beginning. A plan I have practiced with satisfactory results is to take the calves away from the cow when three days old. As soon as they have been taught to drink, give them four quarts of milk morning and night, using new milk for a month; then for a fortnight take one-half new and one-half skim, with a little meal; then for a time all skim milk and a larger amount of meal; at the end of two months give sour milk, barley, hay, grass, etc."

Surface Versus Subsoil.

A few years since, says Josiah Hoopes in the New York Tribune, a controversy arose among many practical orchardists as to the benefit of trenching the soil. Some advocates of this practice went so far as to advise cultivators to deepen their soil in all localities, regardless of its character. About twenty years ago a prominent fruitman fully imbued with the idea that deep trenching was an actual necessity in his ground, prepared several acres by hand-labor, stirring the soil some three feet deep. The expense was enormous; the result a decided failure. Pear trees planted on that tract have never grown so well as the others in the vicinity where the land was not so treated, and grapevines set at the same time long since passed away. Three systems were in vogue for manipulating the ground. 1. Simply remove the top-soil and loosen the strata below—which events proved the best. 2. Mix surface and subsoil together—which is to be deprecated. 3. Place the good soil below; bring the subsoil to the surface—and this was worst of all.

The theory of ameliorating and enriching subsoils by bringing them in contact with air and applied fertilizers sounds plausible; but in practice it appears to poison the roots of growing plants—or, at best, affects them disastrously. In sections of nursery stock where the roots run deep, it is impossible to remove the trees without bringing a portion of the subsoil to the top, and in all such cases succeeding crops of young plants feel the difference between this state of the soil and that which had been simply ploughed deep. Subsoiling where the texture of the soil is heavy and tenacious is doubtless beneficial, but on all light soils the work seems useless for trees. One of the newer dogmas of horticulture is that of preferring firm to mellow soil for roots to grow in. It has been demonstrated that the latter can penetrate the hardest ground with ease; and rootlets of the couchgrass have been known to grow directly through a potato in preference to turning aside. The power of a growing root is enormous, and it is a question if the necessity exists for pulverizing the soil in any case.

Farm and Garden Notes.

The latest wrinkle for pigs is lettuce.

Chickens are to be guarded against hawks, owls, rats and skunks.

If a rat gets into a chicken coop it will kill every chick if it can have time to carry them off before being discovered.

No invariable rule can be laid down for the raising of calves on skim milk and each feeder must make a rule for each calf.

Whenever the currant worm appears spray the bushes with white hellebore, a tablespoonful of the powder to a pailful water.

Setting strawberry plants on ground that has been in cultivation for two or three years is advised as a preventive of white grub.

Do not kill the mole until satisfied whether it is an enemy or a friend. Sometimes the mole destroys a large number of cutworms and slugs.

Small chickens should never be kept or fed with old ones. They are apt to be injured. Have two or three yards and separate them according to size and strength.

Dampness is bad for young chicks. Arrange their drinking vessels so that they cannot get into them, and do not allow them to run in the wet grass or be out in a storm.

If sheep have free access to salt they will never over-eat of it, but if salted occasionally and given it freely they will eat too much, which provokes unnatural thirst and possibly injurious effects.

The American Cultivator says if every farmer would limit himself in ploughing to such an area as he can cultivate and manure in the most thorough manner, there would soon cease to be any complaint about farming not paying.

Next to the rose, the clematis is doubtless the most popular flower plant of the day. It blooms hardily during the entire season and embraces a great variety of beautiful colors. The clematis is a rapid climber, and, if carefully trained, attains to a height of from five to fifteen feet in a season. Planted so as to cover the pillars of verandas, or trained on a trellis or stump or other object, it has no equal. It may also be planted in rocking or winding flower beds, but it will require pegging down. The large purple flowers of this variety are produced in the greatest profusion and remain on the plant a long time. This is a very satisfactory plant to cultivate, as it increases in size and beauty each year.

Prepare trees for planting by cutting the tops back in proportion to the amount of injury done to the roots, which is generally from one-half to two-thirds of the entire top. On this pruning all shoots should be entirely cut away that are not needed for the formation of a perfect head, and the others cut back one-half or two-thirds of their length. If the head is not formed high enough upon the trunk it may often be carried higher by cutting off all lateral shoots, leaving the most central one for a leader, upon which will be formed the new head several inches higher than the first. All injured roots should have the ends cut smooth with a sharp knife, and with small fruits, like the grape, currant and strawberry, it is often desirable to cut back some of the larger ones.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Health Hints.

Iodide of potassium and nux vomica are invaluable in alcoholic hardening of the liver.—Albany Press.

Charcoal liberally added to a flaxseed meal poultice makes an application for inflamed and foul-smelling ulcers.

If you want to have a sure and rapid action from your medicine, take it in hot water. It will then be very quickly absorbed and operate much more efficiently.

If you ever endured the agony of a felon, you will appreciate the fact that it can be cured by woolen smoke. Place the woolen rags under an inverted flower-pot, and put coals upon them, or set them on fire some other way, then hold the felon over the smoke, and it will extract all the pain.—Boston Cultivator.

At Roosevelt Hospital, New York, in the treatment of typhoid fever, the sole diet while the fever lasts is milk and lime water in equal parts. Ten grains each of subnitrate of bismuth and pepsin are given in the milk four times daily. Solid food is allowed on the tenth or twelfth day after the subsidence of the fever. The convalescents commence the change in diet on tenderloin steak.

Styes are such troublesome little ailments, that the following remedy for their cure, recommended by M. Abadie, may be welcome. Dissolve one part of boracic acid in thirty parts of distilled water, and drop on some of this solution with a wetted piece of wadding, several times a day. It is said not only to effect a cure, but to prevent a return of this annoying affection.

Now that summer is here, special care should be taken to prevent the contamination of wells through the entrance of sewer poison, or house refuse from drains. In the country, particularly, wells are frequently dug near outhouses or barnyards, and in the city insufficient care is taken to protect them from cess-pools, sewers, etc. There are doubtless three million and a half deaths in the world yearly which are due to disregard of the above conditions of health. Just think this over, and perhaps a few hundred lives may be saved!—Albany Press.

Story of a Diamond.

It seems that fairies are still to be met with in Ireland, if we may credit the story which Mr. Doyle tells of his friend, Mrs. Brooke. The family lived on the banks of Lough Erne, where pearls of more or less value are found, as they are at places in England. Mrs. Brooke took to collecting these pearls, and children in the neighboring villages got into the habit of bringing her any that were picked up, receiving in return a shilling or two for their find.

One day a little girl arrived from a greater distance than usual, offering not a pearl, but a pebble. Mrs. Brooke, who was only seeking after pearls, declined to buy it. Shortly afterward the butler, a good natured man, came up and suggested she should change her mind.

"The little girl," he said, "has had a very long walk, and is crying bitterly at having to go home empty-handed."

"Oh, very well," said Mrs. Brooke, "take the stone and give the child what she asks for it."

This he did. A month or two afterward, a friend, a great traveler, who knew South America well, after ogling the pebble for some time, broke out thus: "Do you know, if I were in Brazil, I should be certain that in that bit of stone you had got hold of a real diamond."

The bit of stone was submitted to a competent jeweler in Dublin, who entirely confirmed this suspicion; and the Lough Erne pebble is now set in one of Mrs. Brooke's diamond rings. Unluckily, all traces of the little girl and her whereabouts had been lost.—Youth's Companion.

Growth in Children.

The rate of growth of children varies according to sex. Thus, at the age of eleven and twelve years, boys are larger and heavier than girls; but from that age on the evolution of the girls is more rapid, and they soon overtake the boys and pass them, till the age of fifteen years is reached, when the boys regain the ascendency, while the girls remain nearly stationary. A curious relation has been discovered between the growth of children in stature and in weight. M. Malling-Hansen, director of the Deaf and Dumb Institution at Copenhagen, has for three years weighed and measured his pupils daily; and he has observed that their growth does not take place regularly and progressively, but by stages separated by intervals of rest. Weight also increases by periods after intervals of equilibrium. While the weight is increasing, the stature remains nearly stationary, and vice versa. The maximum of increase of stature corresponds with a minimum period of augmentation of weight. The vital forces appear not to work on both sides at once. These variations are subject to the influence of the seasons. During autumn and early winter, according to M. Malling-Hansen, the child accumulates weight, while his stature increases slowly; but during spring, stature receives a veritable push, while weight increases but little. Some local habits have an influence on the stature. Stendhal remarked that many Roman girls had deformed vertebral columns, or were a little humpbacked, and found that it was the result of a popular belief prevailing in Rome that parents could promote the growth of their children by punching them in the back.—Popular Science Monthly.

Why Do Bees and Wasps Sting?

Their weapons often serve to protect them from their enemies, but with bees, especially the honey or hive bees, at the approach of winter, the drones or males are no longer of any use, and are killed off by the stings of the workers, to save the stores of honey they would otherwise consume. With many of the wasps their stings are food preservers. The large wasps which make their holes in the ground, and some bees, like the carpenter bees, which cut circular holes in boards, or other wood: deposit an egg in one of these holes, place food for the grub that will hatch from this egg to feed upon, and when this grub has made its growth, it goes into the chrysalis state, and in time comes out a perfect bee, or wasp, as it may be. But, you will ask, "what has this to do with the sting?" A great deal. If the caterpillar or other insect, intended as food for the young bee or wasp, were dead, when stored away, it would decay and be useless. The effect of the poison of the sting is to keep it in a semi-torpid existence, alive, but still dormant, and thus preserve the food in a proper condition to be eaten by the grub of the bee or wasp. In this respect we can see that the sting plays a very useful part, but when the sting is employed upon ourselves, we fail to see what good end is accomplished. Even when a bee-keeper is doing his best for the comfort and welfare of his bees, they will often turn upon and sting him, most needlessly and painfully.—American Agriculturist.

A MAN went home intoxicated. His wife said: "So you've had another glass!" "Glass!" said he. "Wonderful word. Take off g and it is you."

"Yes," she replied, "and then take off l and it is you."

Many People Refuse to Take Cod Liver Oil on account of its unpleasant taste. This difficulty has been overcome in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It being as palatable as milk, and the most valuable remedy known for the treatment of Consumption, Scrofula and Bronchitis, General Debility, Wasting Diseases of Children, Chronic Coughs and Colds, has caused physicians in all parts of the world to use it. Physicians report our little patients take it with pleasure. Try Scott's Emulsion and be convinced.

Mr. Corcoran, the Washington, D. C., philanthropist is recovering, but can never walk.

"Throw Physic to the Dogs"

When it is the old-fashioned blue mass, blue pill sort, and insist on using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," a modern medical luxury, being small, sugar-coated granules, containing the active principles of certain roots and herbs, and which will be found to contain as much cathartic power as any of the old-fashioned, larger pills, without the latter's violent, drastic effects. The pellets operate thoroughly but harmlessly, establishing a permanently healthy action of the stomach and bowels, and as an anti-bilious remedy are unequaled.

Flower mission work is the fashionable charitable craze in New York this season.

"A little fire is quickly trodden out Which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench."

Procrastination may rob you of time, but by increased diligence you can make up the loss; but if it rob you of life the loss is irremediable. If your health is delicate, your appetite fickle, your sleep broken, your mind depressed, your whole being out of sorts, depend on it you are seriously diseased. In all such cases Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will speedily effect a genuine, radical cure—make a new man of you and save you from the tortures of a lingering disease.

Chicago claims a loss of $12,000,000 in the building trades from strikes.

* * * * Piles, fistulæ rupture and stricture radically cured. Book of particulars 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

In New York they hire out wedding trosseaus for a nightly rental varying from $7 to $40.

Threw the Powder Overboard,

Were thrilling words, spoken at a time of great danger. The lives of all on the vessel depended on prompt action. Your life may be blessed and prolonged by the prompt use of Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic for that blood trouble.

OLD pill boxes are spread over the land by the thousands after having been emptied by suffering humanity. What a mass of sickening, disgusting medicine the poor stomach has to contend with. Too much strong medicine. Prickly Ash Bitters is rapidly and surely taking the place of all this class of drugs, and is curing all the ills arising from a disordered condition of the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels.

A Physician From Iowa.

Dr. H. Munk, Nevada, Iowa, states: Have been practicing medicine fifteen years, and of all the medicines I have ever seen for the bowels, Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial is by far the best.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N. Y.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Dr. Thompson's Eye-water. All druggists sell it at 25c. a bottle.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

Tired Languid Dull

Expresses the condition of thousands of people at this season. The depressing effects of the warm weather and that tired feeling are quickly overcome by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives strength in place of weakness, gives tone to every organ, creates an appetite and purifies the blood. Give it a trial now.

"I have been troubled for many years with violent headache. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I feel like a new being. I earnestly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all who suffer with headaches." —MRS. E. SATCHELL, Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

Central University,

RICHMOND, KY. Next Session opens Sep. 14, '87

Full Faculty, thorough instruction, healthy location, moderate expense. For information and Catalogue apply to L. H. Blanton, D. D., Chancellor.

PATENTS obtained by E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for our book of instructions.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.

As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

HARTERS

THE ONLY TRUE

IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS
Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.
THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY
St. Louis, Mo.

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,

A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.

☞ Before deciding where to send your daughter to school, write for an illustrated catalogue giving full particulars, to ROBT. D. SMITH, Pres't, Columbia, Tenn.

MARLIN REPEATING RIFLE

BEST IN THE WORLD!

Guaranteed perfectly accurate and absolutely safe. Made in all sizes for large or small game.

BALLARD

Gallery, Hunting and Target Rifles. Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

Marlin Fire Arms Co., New Haven, Conn.

Milo B. Stevens & Co.

PENSIONS GLOVER BUILDING, Washington, D. C.

A BIG OFFER. To introduce them, we will Give Away 1,000 Self-Operating Washing Machines. If you want one send us your name, P. O. and express office at once. The National Co., 23 Dey St., N. Y.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Packages 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

This is what killed your poor father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'Rough'ness.

DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of Roaches, Water-bugs, Beetles. For 2 or 3 nights sprinkle "ROUGH ON RATS" dry powder, in, about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. — ROACHES Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "ROUGH ON RATS," is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.

DESTROYS POTATO BUGS

For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a tablespoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c. and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.

"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES.

Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

TULANE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA.

[Formerly, 1847,—1884, the University of Louisiana.] Its advantages for practical instruction, and especially in the diseases of the South-west are unequaled, as the law secures it superabundant materials from the great Charity Hospital with its 700 beds, and 20,000 patients annually. Students have no hospital-fees to pay and special instruction is daily given at the bedside of the sick, as in no other institution. For catalogue or information, address

Prof. S. E. CHAILLÉ, M. D., Dean,
☞ P. O. Drawer, 261, New Orleans, La.

DROPSY

TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,

Specialists for Thirteen Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex. How long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water? Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

If you order trial send 10cts in stamps to pay postage.

Epilepsy (Fits) Positively Cured.

H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. D's.,
250½ Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.

JEWELERS.

Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 28½ S. Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

TAPEWORM CURE Illustrated Book sent FREE. Address A. M. BOCK, P. O. Box 466, Atlanta, Ga.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

A. N. U.................................Thirty-one, '87

LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG DISEASES.

LIVER DISEASE AND HEART TROUBLE. Mrs. MARY A. MCCLURE, Columbus, Kans., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery,' and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use. I am very grateful for your kindness, and thank God and thank you that I am as well as I am after years of suffering."

LIVER DISEASE. Mrs. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I wish to say a few words in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' For five years previous to taking them I was a great sufferer; I had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am happy to say I am now well and strong, thanks to your medicines."

Chronic Diarrhea Cured.—D. LAZARRE, Esq., 275 and 277 Decatur Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I used three bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it has cured me of chronic diarrhea. My bowels are now regular."

GENERAL DEBILITY. Mrs. PARMELIA BRUNDAGE, of 161 Lock Street, Lockport, N. Y. writes: "I was troubled with chills, nervous and general debility, with frequent sore throat, and my mouth was badly cankered. My liver was inactive, and I suffered much from dyspepsia. I am pleased to say that your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets' have cured me of all these ailments and I cannot say enough in their praise. I must also say a word in reference to your 'Favorite Prescription,' as it has proven itself a most excellent medicine for weak females. It has been used in my family with excellent results."

Dyspepsia.—JAMES L. COLBY, Esq., of Yucatan, Houston Co., Minn., writes: "I was troubled with indigestion, and would eat heartily and grow poor at the same time. I experienced heartburn, sour stomach, and many other disagreeable symptoms common to that disorder. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and I am now entirely free from the dyspepsia, and am, in fact, healthier than I have been for five years. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one and one-half pounds, and have done as much work the past summer as I have ever done in the same length of time in my life. I never took a medicine that seemed to tone up the muscles and invigorate the whole system equal to your 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'"

INVIGORATES THE SYSTEM.

Dyspepsia.—THERESA A. CASS, of Springfield, Mo., writes: "I was troubled one year with liver complaint, dyspepsia, and sleeplessness, but your 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

Chills and Fever.—Rev. H. E. MOSLEY, Montmorenci, S. C., writes: "Last August I thought I would die with chills and fever. I took your 'Discovery' and it stopped them in a very short time."

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

— Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

INDIGESTION BOILS, BLOTCHES. Rev. F. ASBURY HOWELL, Pastor of the M. E. Church, of Silverton, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with catarrh and indigestion. Boils and blotches began to arise on the surface of the skin, and I experienced a tired feeling and dullness. I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as directed by him for such complaints, and in one week's time I began to feel like a new man, and am now sound and well. The 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets' are the best remedy for bilious or sick headache, or tightness about the chest, and bad taste in the mouth, that I have ever used. My wife could not walk across the floor when she began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now she can walk quite a little ways, and do some light work."

HIP-JOINT DISEASE. Mrs. IDA M. STRONG, of Ainsworth, Ind., writes: "My little boy had been troubled with hip-joint disease for two years. When he commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' he was confined to his bed, and could not be moved without suffering great pain. But now, thanks to your 'Discovery,' he is able to be up all the time, and can walk with the help of crutches. He does not suffer any pain, and can eat and sleep as well as any one. It has only been about three months since he commenced using your medicine. I cannot find words with which to express my gratitude for the benefit he has received through you."

A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION. Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News," of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "Mrs. ELIZA ANN POOLE, wife of Leonard Poole, of Williamsburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczema by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease appeared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, then attacked the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and prolonged her days."

Mr. T. A. AYRES, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.

CONSUMPTION, WEAK LUNGS, SPITTING OF BLOOD.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. While it promptly cures the severest Coughs it strengthens the system and purifies the blood.

It rapidly builds up the system, and increases the flesh and weight of those reduced below the usual standard of health by "wasting diseases."

Consumption.—Mrs. EDWARD NEWTON, of Harrowsmith, Ont., writes: "You will ever be praised by me for the remarkable cure in my case. I was so reduced that my friends had all given me up, and I had also been given up by two doctors. I then went to the best doctor in these parts. He told me that medicine was only a punishment in my case, and would not undertake to treat me. He said I might try Cod liver oil if I liked, as that was the only thing that could possibly have any curative power over consumption so far advanced. I tried the Cod liver oil as a last treatment, but I was so weak I could not keep it on my stomach. My husband, not feeling satisfied to give me up yet, though he had bought for me everything he saw advertised for my complaint, procured a quantity of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took only four bottles, and, to the surprise of everybody, am to-day doing my own work, and am entirely free from that terrible cough which harrassed me night and day. I have been afflicted with rheumatism for a number of years, and now feel so much better that I believe, with a continuation of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I will be restored to perfect health. I would say to those who are falling a prey to that terrible disease consumption, do not do as I did, take everything else first; but take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' in the early stages of the disease, and thereby save a great deal of suffering and be restored to health at once. Any person who is still in doubt, need but write me, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply, when the foregoing statement will be fully substantiated by me."

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Ulcer Cured.—ISAAC E. DOWNS, Esq., of Spring Valley, Rockland Co., N. Y. (P. O. Box 28), writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my daughter of a very bad ulcer located on the thigh. After trying almost everything without success, we procured three bottles of your 'Discovery,' which healed it up perfectly." Mr. Downs continues:

Consumption and Heart Disease.—"I also wish to thank you for the remarkable cure you have effected in my case. For three years I had suffered from that terrible disease, consumption, and heart disease. Before consulting you I had wasted away to a skeleton; could not sleep nor rest, and many times wished to die to be out of my misery. I then consulted you, and you told me you had hopes of curing me, but it would take time. I took five months' treatment in all. The first two months I was almost discouraged; could not perceive any favorable symptoms, but the third month I began to pick up in flesh and strength. I cannot now recite how, step by step, the signs and realities of returning health gradually but surely developed themselves. To-day I tip the scales at one hundred and sixty, and am well and strong."

WASTED TO A SKELETON.

Our principal reliance in curing Mr. Downs' terrible disease was the "Golden Medical Discovery."

BLEEDING FROM LUNGS. JOSEPH F. MCFARLAND, Esq., Athens, La., writes: "My wife had frequent bleeding from the lungs before she commenced using your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She has not had any since its use. For some six months she has been feeling so well that she has discontinued it."

Golden Medical Discovery is Sold by Druggists. Price $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Proprietors,

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Space.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 12	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 00
4 Inches	13 00	18 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 00	35 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 18, 1887. NUMBER 41.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

THE CALL.

When evil, like a poisoned wind,
Sweeps the good seed from soul and mind,
Or hearts ignore the love divine—
The tempter seeks each vacant shrine.

We fall and feel we cannot rise,
While others grasp the sacred prize:
Sin's fog enshrouds our spirits view
Till God's clear sunshine glimmers through.
—William H. Hayne.

Practical Simplicity.

"Just the way with women folks," growled Mr. Harrison, "the old story of Flora McFlimsey over again, 'nothing to wear.'"

"But, papa, you want us to dress respectably, don't you," asked pretty Polly, with a suspicion of a tear in her eye.

"Why, yes; respectably," replied Mr. Harrison, still grumpily, "my mother dressed respectably without these everlasting flummeries you girls are always teasing me for; good, plain, sensible clothes and common sense shoes, no opera toes and French heels on her feet," and he glanced suggestively at the dainty slipper, which inopportunely showed itself beneath the ruffle of Polly's pretty morning wrapper.

"Grandmamma wore a long green veil, and a nice big bonnet, too, didn't she?" said mischievous Nellie, "and her hair in a little knob at the nape of her neck."

"You needn't make fun, miss," replied her father, sternly, "your grandmother was always sensibly and neatly dressed, and it would be refreshing to see some of her good taste in my family."

"But, really, Mr. Harrison, the girls have nothing suitable to wear to Mrs. Lincoln's grand party," said Mrs. Harrison, a meek, gentle-voiced little woman.

"No, and they haven't had anything for the last five years," replied Mr. Harrison, with withering sarcasm; "buy! buy! and yet they are in the same distressing situation of the female before mentioned," and he leaned back in his chair with an air of having clinched the conversation with an unanswerable argument.

"I wish I was a man," said pretty Nell, with a pout, "then I could wear one suit everywhere by varying my neckties."

"Papa, dear, you are going with us to the picnic, ain't you?" said Kitty anxiously; she was a dainty little fairy and her father's favorite, and, as she spoke, she glanced at her sisters with eyes so full of fun and mischief, that they knew she had some plan in her fertile little brain.

"Picnic!" said Mr. Harrison, in a softened tone; he could not be cross with Kitty and she well knew it. "Bugs and earwigs! When I want my dinner seasoned with spiders and grand-daddies, I can eat it in the garden."

"Oh, but, papa, we want to go awfully!" said Kitty, coming and perching herself on his knee; she took daring advantage of her privileges as the youngest, "and it is so awkward to go to such a place without a gentleman."

"Oh, well! I can charter Tom for the occasion," replied Mr. Harrison, quite good humoredly, "he is used to handling packages, and you'll find he will manage your five baskets and fifteen bundles in good style." Tom was porter in Mr. Harrison's large store, and doubtless merited the recommendation.

"But that isn't you, papa," replied persistent Kitty, winding her arms around her stiff-necked parent, and kissing the lips which could say such unkind things.

"Oh, you wheedler!" responded Mr. Harrison, with a feeble attempt at dignity "but there; I have just been informed that you have nothing to wear."

"Oh! just for a picnic, papa, one can wear anything, you know," and her eyes danced a perfect jig of delighted mischief, "plain white is perfectly suitable for a bug and beetle affair of that kind."

"In my day, plain white was considered just the thing for party occasions also," said Mr. Harrison, quite mollified by his pet's attentions.

"No hoops, or bustles, I suppose," said Kitty, thoughtfully.

"Not a hoop," replied Mr. Harrison, "and as for bustles, pah!"

"Now, papa, I'll make a bargain with you," said Kitty. "If you will go to the picnic with us, we'll agree to wear our picnic dresses to the party. Isn't that fair?"

"Well, fair enough if there's no hidden reservations," replied Mr. Harrison, cautiously. "How many yards of muslin and bolts of ribbon is it going to take to befrill you for the picnic?"

"If you'll give me ten dollars I think I can manage the whole matter," replied Kitty, demurely.

"Well! well! that's getting off quite cheaply," said Mr. Harrison, laughing, as he counted out the money, while Mrs. Harrison and the sisters looked on in perfect amazement, well knowing that Kitty had some plan in her wise little head, without in the least comprehending what it could be.

The picnic morning was a rarity in the weather line; a perfectly clear sky, and just breeze enough to make it delightful, and Mr. Harrison was in a rare good humor also, which was unusual enough to add materially to the pleasures of the day, for, unfortunately, he could be decidedly "grumpy" on occasions, but happily for all concerned, the preceding day had been a particularly profitable one.

"It appears to me, mother, it takes those girls an unusual time to prink this morning," said Mr. Harrison, looking at his watch a little nervously, "the train leaves at eight."

"They'll be down presently," said the mother, with a surreptitious smile, as she packed the sandwiches into one of the baskets.

At length there was a subdued rustling on the stairs, and the three girls filed in demurely, and announced themselves ready.

"What in——," said Mr. Harrison, as his eyes fell upon them, and seeing the joke and his own defeat at one glance, he bit his lip, and left the sentence unuttered.

Plain white dresses without a ruffle, tuck, or overskirt, thick, high boots, broad toes and no heels, not a hoop or bustle, they were the plainest, primmest trio of maidens, that ever appeared before a fault-finding papa. Nell's bright hair was strained back from her high forehead, giving her a wild, hawkish look, under her immense poke hat, which was adorned with a long green veil hanging in folds over one shoulder.

Polly was as near hideous as possible, under a great limp, sailor hat, which flapped discontentedly at every motion, while dainty Kitty's good looks were effectually buried in the depths of a generous white sunbonnet.

"Your dresses are very becoming, girls," said Mrs. Harrison, sweetly, as the youthful grandmothers ranged themselves in a row.

"We think so," replied Kitty, solemnly. "If I could only have finished my black silk apron."

"And my handkerchief reticule," said Nell.

"Don't we look neat, papa?" said Kitty, turning herself around for his inspection.

"Very neat," replied Mr. Harrison, dryly, turning away to hide a smile of mingled amusement and vexation.

"We quite agree with you papa, that so much frippery is all nonsense," said Nell, arranging her veil carefully.

"And we are counting on creating quite a sensation at Mrs. Lincoln's party," said Polly, mischievously, as she picked out the bow of her muslin hat strings.

Mr. Harrison was fairly caught in his own trap, and his own often repeated words came back to him with rather unpleasant force, as he looked at his daughters in their unbecoming array, and thought of chaperoning the outlandish figures through the day.

He had not before realized how proud he had been of the daughters whose good taste had made so much of nature's charms, and the scanty supply of pin money, so grudgingly doled out to them. Not that Mr. Harrison's means necessitated close management; on the contrary, a steadily increasing bank account made such economy totally unnecessary, but unfortunately, as riches increased, liberality shriveled and grew less, until Mrs. Harrison actually dreaded to ask him for money to carry on the household, even upon the most economical basis.

"You see, papa, I've given up cosmetics, and have to rely on nature and a green veil for a complexion," said Nell, drawing her veil closely over her face, as she dropped Polly's arm, and took her father's in a delightfully filial clasp.

"Ah, Harrison! out for a pleasant trip, eh?" said a fashionable acquaintance, as they turned into Madison street, looking quizzically at the curious figures with a puzzled air.

"Yes, sir; yes," replied Mr. Harrison, stiffly, getting very red; he would have given a month's profits if the girls had been dressed in the usual "fripperies."

As might have been expected, the party was the observed of all observers, as they passed along, and one little street gamin called out enthusiastically to another: "Hi there, Jimmy! see them yer Kate Greenyways?" and Mr. Harrison felt as if he was the proprietor of a circus, and would gladly have left them to go alone, if he could have done so, without acknowledging himself ignominiously beaten.

In the car it was worse still; sly giggles and whispers greeted them on every hand, though, of course, their acquaintances understood that there was some joke about the matter; but the girls were seemingly entirely unconscious of the sensation they were creating, and chatted and laughed under their monstrous head gear with all their accustomed vivacity, keeping close to their father the while to check any furtive attempt on his part to escape to the smoking car.

In the grove, however, it was not so easy to keep him in surveillance, and after dinner he took an umbrella and moodily stalked off to the shade of a giant oak, and stretched himself upon the grass for a siesta. He had been there but a short time, when a couple of gentlemen strolled along that way, and, seating themselves on the other side of the tree, entered into conversation.

"By the way, Clifford, who are those gawks over yonder, in the stupendous millinery?"

Mr. Harrison turned cold with horror; the speaker was the returned European, in whose honor Mrs. Lincoln's party was given, and whom he had thought of in connection with Nell, who was still heart whole. "'Gawks' indeed!"

"Those?" replied the gentleman addressed as Clifford, "why they are the daughters of Mr. Harrison, the rich merchant."

"Not Chauncy Harrison's daughters?" replied the first in a voice of amazement.

"The same," replied the other, "and, as they are usually models of good taste and neatness, I presume there is some joke at the bottom of their absurd appearance to-day. I shrewdly suspect their father has been giving them a curtain lecture on the follies of fashion, and they are giving him an ocular demonstration of his own ideas."

"But surely, he has no need to restrict them in any reasonable desires," said the first voice.

"Oh, no!" replied the other, "but they do say he is a stingy old bear in his own family and though the girls appear neatly and tastefully dressed in public, my wife tells me that they are obliged to turn and re-turn and make over as rigidly as if they were at the very foot of the ladder, instead of at the top."

"It's a shame!" broke out the younger man with warmth, "a man don't deserve a family who will treat them in that way."

"That's true," replied the elder gentleman, and his tone had a shade of sadness in it. "I would give all I'm worth, if I had those merry girls to make sunshine in my quiet home," and he sighed, as he thought of a far away cemetery, where the hopes of a lifetime lay buried.

Just here the conversation was interrupted by Kitty, who came tripping along toward the umbrella on the other side of the tree; usually her movements were most graceful, but to-day the short, flappy dress persisted in catching on the tops of her big shoes, in a most awkward manner.

"Why, papa, are you tired of us, that you get away by yourself?" she asked, sweetly, as she curled down by his side; meanwhile the gentlemen had risen, and, looking at each other with horrified faces, had beaten a precipitate retreat.

"No, Kitty; no," he replied, in an unusually gentle tone, and placing a caressing hand on the trim waist, "but I am thinking, so run away dear, please," and Kitty wisely obeyed.

Yes, he was thinking, and his train of thought was on a new line, as he pondered over and over the words he had heard, and somehow, as he [illegible] his merry daughters, with their pretty, winsome ways, and their gentle mother in the balance with his long bank account, the money side grew wonderfully light, and he thought with a shudder of what the world would be to him with even one of the loved ones taken from him.

"'Stingy old bear,' that just describes it," he said to himself, as he looked back over the many contests, in which the very least which could be made to supply the family wants had been grudgingly given, only too frequently, with bitter words which made the giving worse than a charity.

"Hasn't this been a most delightful day, papa?" said Polly, who escorted her father home from the train.

"Yes," assented Mr. Harrison, soberly, "and a most profitable one also," and he meant his words, most sincerely.

"I don't think so," said Kitty, as they were entering the gate, "for I have a horrid green grass stain right on the hem of my dress, and I shall have to put in a new breadth before I can wear it to the party," and Mr. Harrison bit his lip at the allusion to their compact, but said nothing.

"Poor papa; he was so ashamed of us," said Kitty, as the girls retired to their bed, "actually, Nell, I never was so sorry for any one in my life."

"Girls," said Mr. Harrison, the next morning at breakfast, "didn't I hear you say something about a party to which you had been invited?" with an innocent air of inquiring for information.

"At Mrs. Lincoln's, perhaps you mean," replied Nell, falling in with his conceit and willing to ignore the past.

"You may need a little pin money for the occasion," he continued, taking a roll of bills from his pocket-book, and carelessly flipping one toward the plate of each of his daughters, "and I presume a trifle of spending money wouldn't come amiss with your mother," he continued, as he laid a bill beside his wife's plate, and hurried away before the astonished family could thank him for such a remarkable performance.

"One hundred dollars!" said Polly, in an awe-struck tone as she gazed at her bill in amazement.

"And mine is two hundred," said the little mother, with actual tears in her happy eyes.

"That means that the new silk which you have needed so long is to be forthcoming at once," said Nell, patting her own bill with loving fingers.

"And for once we are going to have party dresses, without one shred of economy stitched into them!" said Kitty, getting up, and dancing such a spirited pirouette in her delight, that the parrot wagged her head in wonder, as she shrilly inquired in her favorite phrase: "Bless me! what ails the child!"—F. M. Howard, in the Current.

Arbor Day.

The first suggestion of tree planting under the direction of State authority was made by B. G. Northrop, then Secretary of the Connecticut Board of Education, about 1865, in an official State report. In 1876 this same gentleman endeavored to stimulate "centennial tree-planting" by the offer of prizes to the children of Connecticut. But the idea of setting apart a day for the work had originated with ex Governor Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, who about 1872 induced the Governor of that State to issue a proclamation appointing a day for the planting of trees throughout the State. A year or two later the day was made a legal holiday by enactment of the Legislature, and provision was made for awarding premiums to those who put out the most trees in its observance. It is said that nearly 700,000,000 Arbor Day trees are now in thriving condition on the prairie tracts of the State. The example of Nebraska was soon followed by Kansas, and with grand results. Arbor Day in Minnesota, first observed in 1876, resulted, it is said, in planting over a million and a half of trees. In Michigan the Arbor Day law was passed in 1881, and in Ohio in 1882. Since then Arbor Day has been observed in Colorado, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Indiana, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Florida, Alabama, Missouri, California, Kentucky, Maine and Georgia. In several other States its observance has been secured by the recommendation of the Grange, the Grand Army of the Republic, or by State agricultural societies. While at the outset economic tree-planting was the primary aim, the adornment of home and school grounds soon followed. On the first Ohio Arbor Day, the children of Cincinnati joined in an attractive celebration, in the form of planting memorial trees and dedicating them to authors, statesmen, and other distinguished citizens. B. G. Northrup says, concerning the value of the observance of Arbor Day: While forests should not be planted on our rich, arable lands, there are in New England and all the Atlantic States large areas of barrens worthless for field crops, that may profitably be devoted to wood-growing. The feasibility of reclaiming our most sterile wastes is proved by many facts both at home and abroad. Our Atlantic sand plains were once covered with forests and can be re-forested. Over 10,000 acres on Cape Cod, which thirty years ago were barren, sandy plains, are now covered with thriving planted forests.—Inter-Ocean.

How's Business?

The tailor answers: Sew, sew.
The acrobat, jumping.
The yachtsman, booming.
The distiller, still.
The baker, rising.
The writing-master, flourishing.
The trial justice, fine.
The apartment hotel-keeper, flat.
The weather bureau clerk, fluctuating.
The plumber, piping.
The gardener, springing up.
The furniture teamster, on the move.
The minister whose church is in debt, fair.
The shoemaker, awl right, with an upper tendency.
The rag-gatherer, picking up.
The hod-carrier and elevator boy, now up and now down.
The undertaker, run into the ground.
The doctor, recovering.
The cobbler, on the mend.
The astronomer, looking up.
The lobster catcher, gone to pot.
The aeronaut, going up.
The diver, going down.—Boston Courier.

Tennyson is reported in failing health, and discussion is already rife as to who will succeed him as Laureate.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "Employments in Heaven."

TEXT: "Now it came to pass in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, in the fifth day of the month, as I was among the captives by the river of Chebar, that the heavens were opened."—Ezekiel i, 1.

Ezekiel, with others, had been expatriated, and while in foreign slavery was standing on the banks of the royal canal which he and other serfs had been condemned to dig by the order of Nebuchadnezzar—this royal canal, in the text, called the river of Chebar; the illustrious exile had visions of Heaven. Indeed, it is almost always so that the brightest visions of heaven come not to those who are on mountain tops of prosperity, but to some John on desolate Patmos, or to some Paul in Mamertine dungeon, or to some Ezekiel standing on the banks of a ditch he has been compelled to dig—yea, to the weary, to the heart broken, to those whom sorrow has banished.

The text is very particular to give us the exact time of the vision. It was in the thirtieth year, and in the fourth month, and in the fifth day of the month. So you have had visions of earth you shall never forget. You remember the year, you remember the month, you remember the day, you remember the hour. Why may not we have some such vision this morning, and it be in the sixth month, and in the fourth day of the month?

The question is often silently asked, though perhaps never audibly propounded: "What are our departed Christian friends doing now?" The question is more easily answered than you might perhaps suppose. Though there has come no recent intelligence from the heavenly city, and we seem dependent upon the story of eighteen centuries ago, still I think we may from strongest inference decide what are the present occupations of our transferred kinsfolk.

After God has made a nature he never eradicates the chief characteristics of its temperament. You never knew a man phlegmatic in temperament to become sanguine in temperament. You never knew a man sanguine in temperament to become phlegmatic in temperament. Conversion plants new principles in the soul, but Paul and John are just as different from each other after conversion as they were different from each other before conversion. If conversion does not eradicate the prominent characteristics of the temperament neither will death eradicate them.

You have, then, only by a sum in subtraction and a sum in addition to decide what are the employments of your departed friends in the better world. You are to subtract from them all earthly grossness and add all earthly goodness, and then you are to come to the conclusion that they are doing now in heaven what in their best moments they did on earth. The reason that so many people never start for heaven is because they could not stand it if they got there if it should turn out to be the rigid and formal place some people photograph it.

We like to come to church, but we would not want to stay here till next Christmas. We like to hear the Hallelujah Chorus, but we would not want to hear it all the time for fifty centuries. It might be on some great occasion it would be possibly comfortable to wear a crown of gold weighing several pounds, but it would be an affliction to wear such a crown forever. In other words, we run the descriptions of Heaven into the ground while we make that which was intended as especial and celebrative to be the exclusive employment of Heaven. You might as well, if asked to describe the habits of American society, describe a Decoration Day, or a Fourth of July, or an autumnal Thanksgiving as though it were all the time that way.

I am not going to speculate in regard to the future world, but I must by inevitable laws of inference and deduction and common-sense conclude that in Heaven we will be just as different from each other as we are now different, and hence, that there will be at least as many different employments in the celestial world as there are employments here. Christ is to be the great love, the great joy, the great rapture, the great worship of Heaven: but will that abolish employment? No more than loves on earth—paternal, filial, fraternal, conjugal love—abolish earthly occupation.

In the first place, I remark that all those of our departed Christian friends who on earth found great joy in the fine arts are now indulging their tastes in the same direction. On earth they had their gladdest pleasures amid pictures and statuary, and in the study of the laws of light and shade and perspective. Have you any idea that that affluence of faculty at death collapsed and perished? Why so, when there is more for them to look at, and they have keener appreciation of the beautiful, and they stand amid the very looms where the sunsets and the rainbows and the spring mornings are woven?

Are you so obtuse as to suppose that because the painter drops his easel and the sculptor his chisel and the engraver his knife, that therefore that taste, which he was enlarging and intensifying for forty or fifty years, is entirely obliterated? These artists, or these friends of art, on earth worked in coarse material and with imperfect brain and with frail hand. Now they have carried their art into larger liberties and into wider circumference. They are at their old business yet, but without the fatigues, without the limitations, without the hindrances of the terrestrial studio.

Raphael could now improve upon his masterpiece of Michael the Archangel now that he has seen him, and could improve upon his masterpiece of the Holy Family now that he has visited them. Michael Angelo could better present the Last Judgment after he has seen its flash and heard the rumbling battering rams of its thunder. Exquisite colors here, graceful lines here, powerful chiaroscuro here; but I am persuaded that the grander studios and the brighter galleries are higher up by the winding marble stairs of the sepulchre, and that Turner, and Holman, and Hunt, and Rembrandt, and Titian, and Paul Veronese, if they exercised saving faith in the Christ whom they portrayed upon the canvas, are painters yet, but their strength of faculty multiplied ten-thousand fold. The reason that God took away their eye and their hand, and their brain was that he might give them something more limber, more wieldly, more skilful, more multipliant.

Do not, therefore, be melancholy among the tapestries, and the bric-a-bric, and the embroideries, and the water colors, and the works of art which your departed friends used to admire. Do not say: "I am sorry they had to leave all these things." Rather say: "I am glad they have gone up to higher artistic opportunity and appreciation." Our friends who found so much joy in the fine arts on earth are now luxuriating in Louvres and Luxembourgs celestial.

I remark again, that all our departed Christian friends who in this world were passionately fond of music are still regaling that taste in the world celestial. The Bible says so much about the music of Heaven that it cannot all be figurative. The Bible over and over again speaks of the songs of Heaven. If Heaven had no songs of its own a vast number of those of earth would have been taken up by the earthly emigrants. Surely the Christian at death does not lose his memory. Then there must be millions of souls in Heaven who know "Coronation," and "Antioch," and "Mount Pisgah," and "Old Hundred." The leader of the eternal orchestra need only once tap his baton and all Heaven will be ready for the hallelujah.

Cannot the soul sing? How often we compliment some exquisite singer by saying: "There was so much soul in her music." In heaven it will be all soul, until the body after a while comes up in the resurrection, and then there will be an additional heaven. Cannot the soul hear? If it can hear then it can hear music. Do not, therefore, let it be in your household when some member leaves for Heaven, as it is in some households, that you close the piano and unstring the harp for two years, because the fingers that used to play on them are still. You must remember that they have better instruments of music where they are.

You ask me: "Do they have real harps and real trumpets and real organs?" I do not know. Some wiseacres say positively there are no such things in Heaven. I do not know, but I should not be surprised if the God who made all the mountains and all the hills and all the forests and all the metals of the earth and all the growths of the universe—I should not be surprised if He could, if He had a mind to, make a few harps and trumpets and organs.

Grand old Haydn, sick and worn out, was carried for the last time into the music hall and there he heard his own oratorio of the "Creation." History says that as the orchestra came to that famous passage: "Let there be light!" the whole audience rose and cheered, and Haydn waved his hand toward Heaven and said: "It comes from there." Overwhelmed with his own music, he was carried out in his chair, and as he came to the door he spread his hand toward the orchestra as in benediction.

Haydn was right when he waved his hand toward Heaven and said: "It comes from there."

Music was born in heaven and it will ever have its highest throne in heaven; and I want you to understand that our departed friends, who were passionately fond of music here, are now at the headquarters of harmony. I think that the grand old church tunes that died when your grandfathers died have gone with them to heaven.

Again, I remark that those of our departed Christian friends who in this world had very strong military spirit are now in armies Celestial and out on bloodless battle. There are hundreds of people born soldiers. They cannot help it. They belong to regiments in time of peace. They cannot hear a drum or fife without trying to keep step to the music. They are Christians, and when they fight they fight on the right side. Now when these, our Christian friends who had natural and powerful military spirit, entered Heaven, they entered the celestial army.

The door of Heaven hardly opens but you hear a military demonstration. David cried out: "The chariots of God are twenty thousand." Elisha saw the mountains filled with celestial cavalry. St. John said: "The armies which are in heaven followed him on white horses." Now, when those who had the military spirit on earth sanctified entered glory, I suppose they right away enlisted in some heavenly campaign, they volunteered right away. There must needs be in Heaven soldiers with a soldierly spirit. There are grand parade days when the King reviews the troops. There must be armed escort sent out to bring up from earth to Heaven those who were more than conquerors. There must be crusades ever being fitted out for some part of God's dominion—battles, bloodless, groanless, painless. Angels of evil to be fought down and fought back. Other rebellious worlds to be conquered. Worlds to be put to the torch. Worlds to be saved. Worlds to be demolished. Worlds to be sunk. Worlds to be hoisted.

Beside that, in our own world there are battles for the right and against the wrong where we must have the heavenly military. That is what keeps us Christian reformers so buoyant. So few good men against so many bad men, so few churches against so many grog-shops, so few pure printing presses against so many polluted printing presses, and yet we are buoyant and courageous, because while we know that the armies of evil in the world are larger in number than the army of the truth, there are celestial cohorts in the air fighting on our side.

I have not so much faith in the army on the ground as I have in the army in the air. O, God! open our eyes that we may see them. The military spirits that went up from earth to join the military spirits before the throne—Joshua, and Caleb, and Gideon, and David, and Samson, and the hundreds of Christian warriors who on earth fought with fleshly arm, and now having gone up on high are coming down the hills of Heaven ready to fight among the invisibles. Yonder they are—coming, coming. Did you not hear them as they swept by?

But what are our mathematical friends to do in the next world? They found their joy and their delight in mathematics. There was more poetry for them in Euclid than in John Milton. They were as passionately fond of mathematics as Plato, who wrote over his door: "Let no one enter here who is not acquainted with geometry." What are they doing now? They are busy with figures yet. No place in all the universe like Heaven for figures. Numbers infinite, distances infinite, calculations infinite. The didatic Dr. Dick said he really thought that the redeemed in Heaven spent some of their time with the higher branches of mathematics.

Some of our transferred and transported metaphysicians—what are they doing now? Studying the human mind, only under better circumstances than they used to study it. They used to study the mind sheathed in the dull human body. Now the spirit unsheathed—now they are studying the sword outside the scabbard. Have you any doubt about what Sir William Hamilton is doing in Heaven, or what Jonathan Edwards is doing in Heaven, or the multitudes on earth who had a passion for metaphysics sanctified by the grace of God? No difficulty in guessing. Metaphysics, glorious metaphysics, everlasting metaphysics.

What are our departed Christian friends who are explorers doing now? Exploring yet, but with lightning locomotion, with vision microscopic and telescopic at the same time. A continent at a glance. A world in a second. A planetary system in a day. Christian John Franklin no more in disabled "Erebus" pushing toward the North Pole, Christian De Long no more trying to free blockaded "Jeannette" from the ice, Christian Livingstone no more amid African malarias trying to make revelation of a dark continent; but all of them in the twinkling of an eye taking in that which was unapproachable. Mont Blanc scaled without alpenstock. The coral depths of the ocean explored without a diving bell. The mountains unbarred and opened without Sir Humphrey Davy's safety lamp.

What are our departed friends who found their chief joy in study doing now? Studying yet, but instead of a few thousand volumes on a few shelves, all the volumes of the universe open before them—geologic, ornithologic, conchologic, botanic, astronomic, philosophic. No more need of Leyden-jars, or voltaic piles, or electric batteries, standing as they do face to face with the facts of the universe.

What are the historians doing now? Studying history yet, but not the history of a few centuries of our planet only, but the history of the eternities—whole milleniums before Xenophon, or Herodotus, or Moses, or Adam was born. History of one world, history of all worlds.

What are our departed astronomers doing? Studying astronomy yet, but not through the dull lens of earthly observatory, but with one stroke of wing going right out to Jupiter and Mars and Mercury and Saturn and Orion and the Pleiades—overtaking and passing swiftest comet in their flight. Herschel died a Christian. Have you any doubt about what Herschel is doing? Isaac Newton died a Christian. Have you any doubt about what Isaac Newton is doing? Joseph Henry died a Christian. Have you any doubt about what Joseph Henry is doing? They were in discussion, all these astronomers of earth, about what the aurora borealis was, and none of them could guess. They know now; they have been out there to see for themselves.

What are our departed Christian chemists doing? Following out their own science, following out and following out forever. Since they died they have solved ten thousand questions which once puzzled the earthly laboratory. They stand on the other side of the thin wall of electricity, the wall that seems to divide the physical from the spiritual world, the thin wall of electricity, so thin the wall that ever and anon it seems to be almost broken through—broken through from our side by telephonic and telegraphic apparatus, broken through from the other side by strange influences which men in their ignorance call spiritualistic manifestations. All that matter cleared. Agassiz standing amid his student explorers down in Brazil coming across some great novelty in the rocks, taking off his hat and saying: "Gentlemen, let us pray; we must have divine illumination; we want wisdom from the Creator to study these rocks; Humble them: let us pray." Agassiz going right on with his studies forever and forever.

But what are the men of the law, who in this world found their chief joy in the legal profession—what are they doing now? Studying law in a universe where everything is controlled by law, from flight of humming bird to flight of world—law, not dry and hard and dredging, but righteous and magnificent law, before which man and cherub and seraph and archangel and God himself bow. The chain of law long enough to wind around the immensities and infinity and eternity. Chain of law. What a place to study law, where all the links of the chain are in the hand!

What are our departed Christian friends who in this world had their joy in the healing art, doing now? Busy at their old business. No sickness in heaven, but plenty of sickness on earth, plenty of wounds in the different parts of God's dominion to be healed and to be medicated. You cannot understand why that patient got well after all the skilful doctors of New York and Brooklyn had said he must die. Perhaps Abercombie touched him—Abercombie, who, after many years' doctoring the bodies and the souls of people in Scotland went up to God in 1844. Perhaps Abercombie touched him.

I should not wonder if my old friend, Dr. John Brown, who died in Edinburgh—John Brown, the author of "Rab and His Friends"—John Brown, who was as humble a Christian as he was skilful physician and world-renowned author—I should not wonder if he had been back again and again to see some of his old patients. Those who had their joy in healing the sickness and the woes of earth, gone up to Heaven, are come forth again for benignant medicament.

But what are our friends who found their chief joy in conversation and in sociality doing now? In brighter conversation there and in grander sociality.

What a place to visit in, where your next-door neighbors are kings and queens. You yourselves kingly and queenly. If they want to know more particularly about the first Paradise, they have only to go over and ask Adam. If they want to know how the sun and the moon halted, they have only to go over and ask Joshua. If they want to know how the storm pelted Sodom, they have only to go over and ask Lot. If they want to know more about the arrogance of Haman, they have only to go over and ask Mordecai. If they want to know how the Red Sea boiled when it was cloven, they have only to go over and ask Moses. If they want to know the particulars about the Bethlehem advent, tey have only to go over and ask the serenading angels who stood that Christmas night in the balconies of crystal. If they want to know more of the particulars of the crucifixion, they have only to go over and ask those who were personal spectators while the mountains crouched and the heavens got black in the face at the spectacle. If they want to know more about the sufferings of the Scotch Covenanters, they have only to go over and ask Andrew Melville. If they want to know more about the old-time revivals, they have only to go over and ask Whitefield, and Wesley, and Livingston, and Fletcher and Nettleton, and Finney. Oh! what a place to visit in.

If eternity were one minute shorter it would not be long enough for such sociality. Think of our friends in this world who were passionately fond of flowers turned into Paradise. Think of our friends who were very fond of raising superb fruit turned into the orchard where each tree has twelve kinds of fruit at once, and bearing the fruit all the year round.

What are our departed Christian friends doing in Heaven—those who on earth found their chief joy in the Gospel ministry? They are visiting their old congregations.

Most of those ministers have got their people around them already. When I get to heaven—as by the grace of God I am destined to go to that place—I will come and see you all. Yea, I will come to all the people to whom I have ministered in the Gospel, and to the millions of souls to whom, through the kindness of the printing press, I am permitted to preach every week in this land and in other lands—letters coming from New Zealand and Australia and uttermost parts of the earth, as well as from near nations, telling me of the souls I have helped—I will visit them all. I give them fair notice. Our departed friends of the ministry engaged in that delectable entertainment now.

But what are our departed Christian friends, who in all departments of usefulness were busy, finding their chief joy in doing good—what are they doing now? Going right on with the work. John Howard visiting dungeons; the dead women of Northern and Southern battle-fields still abroad looking for the wounded; George Peabody still watching the poor; Thomas Clarkson still looking after the enslaved—all of those who did good on earth busier since death than before. The tombstone not the terminus but the starting-post. What are our departed Christian friends, who found their chief joy in studying God, doing now? Studying God yet. No need of revelation now, for unblanched they are face to face. Now, they can handle the omnipotent thunderbolts just as a child handles the sword of a father come back from victorious battle. They have no sin, nor fear consequently. Studying Christ, not through a revelation, save the revelation of the scars, that deep lettering which brings it all up quick enough. Studying the Christ of the Bethlehem caravansary, the Christ of the awful massacre, with its hemorrhage of head and hand and foot and side—the Christ of the shattered mausoleum—Christ the sacrifice, the star, the sun, the man, the God, the God-man, the man-God.

But hark! the bell of the cathedral rings—the cathedral bell of heaven.

What is the matter now? There is going to be a great meeting in the temple. Worshippers all coming through the aisles. Make room for the conqueror. Christ standing in the temple. All heaven gathering around Him. Those who loved the beautiful come to look at the Rose of Sharon. Those who loved music come to listen to His voice. Those who were mathematicians come to count the years of His reign. Those who were explorers come to discover the height and the depth, and the length and the breadth of His love. Those who had the military spirit on earth sanctified, and the military spirit in Heaven, come to look at the Captain of their salvation. The astronomers come to look at the morning star. The men of the law come to look at Him who is the Judge of quick and dead. The men who healed the sick come to look at Him who was wounded for our transgressions.

All different and different forever in many respects, yet all alike in admiration for Christ, in worship for Christ, and all alike in joining in the doxology: "Unto Him who washed us from our sins in His own blood, and made us kings and priests unto God, to Him be glory in the church throughout all ages, world without end!" Amen.

A "Duck of a Bonnet."

—Fliegende Blätter.

According to the last census they have a surplus in Germany—1,000,000 women. What an enormous waist!—Siftings.

HAYMAKING SONG.

Work altogether!
Who would laugh or pl
In the right bright weathe
To rake and make the ha
With a wind light-blowing,
Across the field to run,
And broad above us glow
The good warm sun!

We can't see to-morrow—
Round the wind may slip!
We may wake to find sorrow—
The country all a-drip.
Work while the sun shines,
And give your brave best;
On wet days, when none shines,
Time enough to rest.

Each sunny minute
Is made of molten gold;
Whoso works to win it
May gather wealth untold.
If all are whole-hearted,
This bright, mellow night
Shall see the last load carted,
The rick built right.

In all life's doing
There's still a Now to grip,
And he will learn rueing
Who lets the Now slip.
Fools, the hour declining,
Think "some other day!"
While the sun is shining
Wise men make their hay.

PITH AND POINT.

After dinner—A hungry tramp.

A Western man has had a needle taken out of his body. He now knows how to account for the stitches in his side.

"Listen to your wife," says a medical advertisement. As though one didn't have to listen to her.—Boston Transcript.

Tennyson's last poem is in blank verse. Some critics are mean enough to insinuate that he ought to fill out the blanks.—Cleveland Sun.

Dialogue between two blind men—"Do you know the gentleman who gave you a franc just now?" "Only by sight?"—Paris Gaulois.

The parents of a pair of Boston twins named one Simul and the other Taneous because they were born at the same time.—Washington Critic.

He always loved the joys of home,
At home at night he always tarried,
And never thought abroad to roam
Until he'd been for six months married.
—Boston Courier.

There are men in New York who spend half their their time dodging people they have borrowed money of, and the other half in hunting up fresh victims.—Siftings.

According to an eminent English authority a goose lives fifty years. Provided, of course, he refrains from blowing out the gas when he retires.—Yonkers Statesman.

Farmers in the summer time don't need to buy the funny papers. All they have to do is to go out and watch the city boarders trying to swing the scythe.—Journal of Education.

WHAT BEFELL MR. BELL.

There was a young fellow named Ernest P. Bell,
Who got very mellow at the Planters' Hotel;
But he punched
The proprietor,
And he lunched
Then much quieter
In the chilly retreat of a dungeon cell.
Expense: $100 and costs as well.
—Hotel Mail.

Talks About Law" is the title of a lecture a man is delivering in central Dakota towns. We have heard it given several times by men who were coming out of a court-room and we shouldn't think that the authorities would let a man deliver it in public. It's about as sulphureous a talk as you ever heard.—Dakota Bell.

The Compass Plant.

Long before men learned to poise a piece of magnetized iron on a pivot to indicate the north, there were natural compasses growing on the American prairies, and they still flourish in large numbers as a reliable guide to travelers across the American desert. They are a peculiar species of plant, called the compass plant, the pilot weed, or the polar plant, and have been known for generations to the Western hunter, although the scientific world has known them but a short time. The edges of its leaves are said to be always pointed due north and south. An authority states: "Repeated observations upon the prairies, with measurements by the compass of the directions assumed by hundreds of leaves, especially of the radical ones, have shown that as to prevalent position the popular belief has a certain foundation in the fact."

Captain Mayne Reid mentions it in one of his books as follows: "We had a guide to our direction unerring as the magnetic needle. We were traversing the region of the polar plant, the planes of whose leaves at almost every step pointed out our meridian. It grew upon our track, and was crushed under the hoofs of our horses as we rode onward." The traveler Burton also refers to it: "Whilst in the damper ground appeared the polar plant, that prairie compass the plane of whose leaf ever turns toward the magnetic meridian." Another writer says: "Fortunately none goes to the prairies for the first time without being shown, in case of mishaps, the groups of compass-weed which abound all over the plains, and the broad flat leaves of which point due north and south with an accuracy as unvarying as that of the magnetic needle itself.—Harper's Young People.

Pedal Measurements.

The size of the foot varies in individuals within wide limits, but the average length among different peoples is pretty constant, and would appear, with certain exceptions, to be an indication of the degree of civilization to which the community had attained. Thus, according to a series of measurements collected from various sources, we find the proportionate length of the foot to the height of the individual, represented by 100, to be as follows: Parisians, 14.8; Russians, 15.5; Hungarians, 15.4; Chinese, 15.1; Australian aborigines, 15.1; Algerians, 15.6.—Medical Record.

The plain and wholesome things of life are its greatest blessings. We are taught to pray not for luxuries or dainties, but for daily bread.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 18, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

A hung jury in the second case against Vincent.

President Cleveland will visit Montgomery during the State Fair.

Col. J. T. Murfee has resigned as President of Howard College, and will establish in the Howard buildings at Marion a military academy of high grade. With Col. Murfee at its head it will undoubtedly take the front rank as an educational institution.

We see that Dr. P. C. Cardus, of Mobile, is on the wing examining druggists throughout the State. What other class of business men will have to be examined next? Lookout lawyers, doctors, merchants, brick masons, carpenters, black smiths, real estate agents and printers.—Ex.

The Vincent Trial.

Defaulting ex-Treasurer I. H. Vincent has been convicted on the first indictment upon which he was tried, which indictment was for the embezzlement of $20,000. He may get a sentence of from 2 to 5 years in the penitentiary on this conviction. He is now being tried on the second indictment for the embezzlement of $9,000.

Mr. John McKay, one of the oldest and best known engineers on the Louisville & Nashville railroad was badly scalded in an accident at Deatsville last week and died Monday night in Birmingham. Mr. McKay was one of the largest men in the country, weighing 360 pounds. He was well known in Clanton, having stopped here for sometime to use the water of our hot well on an afflicted hand.

Jesse Duke is a negro who has been promulgating foul and indecent insinuations in regard to white women through a newspaper which he edits in that city. On Monday the villain could not be found in Montgomery by a committee of white citizens representing the wealth and intelligence of the city, whose determined purpose was to see Duke vacate the town without parley or apology. The negro had already sought safety in flight. Montgomery acted with great moderation, and Duke's escape with his life is a surprise. The Dispatch deserves credit for having called attention to and denounced Duke's vile editorial.

Is it Harrington?

A special from Birmingham to the Advertiser, says: "Sheriff J. R. Webster, of Covington county, Miss., passed through the city this morning en route to Columbiana, having in charge a negro who is believed to be Green Harrington, alias Wallace Burk, who raped a white lady at Helena, April 29. The negro was arrested in Mississippi about four weeks ago, and answers the description in almost every particular."

It will be remembered that Harrington is the supposed murderer of Mr. Abe Littlejohn and wife, which horrible deed is yet fresh in the minds of the readers of the View.

An Important Decision.

Bibb Blade.]

The attention of our readers and the County Commissioners is called to the following letter from Attorney General McClellan, which settles a mooted question. This report has never been published in this county, probably because the Commissioners have not been informed on the subject. Noticing that other papers contained these reports, we wrote to the Attorney General to know if the law required it, and below is the reply. Of course, the court will hereafter comply with the law:

Office of Attorney Gen'l.
Montgomery, Aug. 5, '87.

Messrs. S. H. Gist & Son,
Six Mile, Ala.:

Dear Sirs—A reply to your letter of the 26th has been delayed by reason of my absence. The law requires commissioners courts to make semi-annual publications on the 1st day of January and July in each year, showing the receipts and expenditures of money for the county, specifying—particularly—the sources from which received and the purposes for which expended, [code 750]and imposes fines for failing to perform this duty. [code 4273]

I know of no law requiring the publication of the report or account of the County treasurer except by posting at the court house door; [code 848] nor, as I think, any other proceedings of commissioners court than the statement of receipts and expenditures referred to above is required by law to be published.

Yours truly,
T. N. McClellan.

SOLID SENSE.

From the Diary of a Phunny Phellow.

If you want to find dignity of character inspect from the brow up.

If you want to discern the true inwardness of a person, observe closely from the brow to the lips.

If you want to get a general idea of the person measure by your natural judgment the whole head.

If you will practice this plan, blended with reason and common sense, you will seldom be deceived in any one you meet.

I have noticed that the inhabitants of country villages are disposed to exaggerate upon every occurrence, and when there is no occurrence to exaggerate upon, there are some always ready to make "much ado about nothing." Due to a monotonous life and lack of mental exercise.

N. B.—Those who read the View carefully and prayerfully seem to be free from these troubles.

The man who shakes your hand with a warm and hearty grasp is a man of force of character, while the man who holds out a limp paw for you to shake is an opposite character, and often is one who should be watched by everybody.

The man who makes few remarks while listening to you, and occasionally asks very simple questions to draw you out is generally taking your mental measure, and when you set him down as a simpleton because he don't talk, you may sometimes "get left." There are but few exceptions to this rule. It is almost invariably the case that the greatest fools talk the most.

As to criticisms—heard and indulged in—no man who amounts to anything can escape criticism, favorable and unfavorable, and few can afford to give time and attention to the remarks of every cur that wants to hear himself bark. The more criticism a man receives the more is his influence felt.

I have noticed that the procession of those who have bowed themselves out after colliding with the View is gradually growing. A rear view as they bow themselves out usually discloses the fact that they have attempted to sit down upon a particularly active buzz-saw and desire to withdraw for repairs.

Philo.

ABSTRACT

Of Assessment for 1887—Showing Value of Property in Chilton County.

Tax Assessor Smith has kindly furnished us with an abstract of assessment for the county for the year 1887, which shows an encouraging increase in value of the taxable property of the county compared with the preceeding year. It is hereto appended:

REAL ESTATE.
No. of acres of land	399,743
Value of lands	$550,334
Value of town property	117,129
Total	667,463
PERSONAL PROPERTY.
Ferries	$ 200
Printing presses	750
Merchandise	57,390
Household goods	4,694
Libraries	1,190
Jewelry	1,230
Pianos	6,109
Clocks	8,065
Wagons	9,703
Farming tools	348
Pistols	384
Guns	5,795
Cows	22,284
Horses	63,198
Mules	38,260
Jacks	200
Hogs	286
Sheep	1,093
Goats	1,326
Money	44,085
Railroads	756,507
Telegraph lines	5,460
All other property	168,105
Telegraph gross proceeds	757
Total	1,197,369
Real estate	667,463
Full total	1,864,832
Total for last year (1886)	1,709,210
Increase for the year 1887	155,622

A Cotton Crop Prediction.

The Eufaula Mail says: Mr. George Lewis, of Lodi, who was in the city yesterday, said that this year's cotton crop in Alabama would be the shortest in the history of the State since the war. The prophecy is so at variance with what the newspapers say that we put it on record so that we may all laugh at George next year when he begins to talk about cotton.—Advertiser.

"Johnny" inquired his aunt "What do you like best of all?" "Candy," replied Johnny. "And what after that?" inquired his aunt. "More candy," replied Johnny, after a moment's deliberation.

OUR MERCHANTS.

Something About the Men Who Make Our Town.

Clanton has a number of whole-souled, clever business men who would draw trade to any point of the compass at which they might locate. The number of people on the streets, and the freight receipts at this point go to prove that the business of the place is constantly increasing. When they secure the trade they should unite in efforts to keep it here. This seems to be the design now of our business men, and there is more than usual unity with them in this matter. From this fact, coupled with the fine crop prospect, we can expect a large trade here during the next business season.

Our town obtains no permanently beneficial advertising, save through the circulation of the View, and, having interests here, the View will naturally continue to labor for its growth and prosperity.

Starting out from the court-house, the first establishment that we reach is that of

J. E. EVANS.

Mr. Evans is a man of experience in his line of business. He deals in family supplies and confectioneries. The community has married him off about half-a-dozen times in as many years and to as many fair ones. He seems disinclined to Mormonism, however, and persists in remaining a bachelor. Though unmarried, he is not working for self altogether, and he deserves to succeed. He is a patron of the View in several ways, but he ought to advertise—for his own good.

The next in line, proceeding down the street is a good old soldier who carries through life the scars of his patriotism. He has been in business but a short while, yet has a growing trade. He is "as honest as the day is long," to use a trite saying, and we are sure he is just as honest at night. When you come to Clanton you will find him a good man to trade with. He believes in spending what money he has to spend at home, and therein we agree with him. Call on him.

I. B. BOWDOIN.

Further on we reach the store of

M. C. MCREE.

This is another recent establishment that is steadily growing. Mr. Mc. insists that this is "the beatingest town he ever staid all night in," which means that it can't be beat in a great many things good, bad and indifferent. Furthermore, it can't "beat" him. He is a shrewd and clever business man who is always agreeable and obliging. He ought to advertise.

W. M. WILSON

comes next in order. Mr. Wilson sells goods low for cash and not so low on credit. We used to know him as a constant joker at everybody's expense. Since he became a benedict he seems happy enough without his jokes. You can feel sure that he will not sell you shoddy goods or charge you two prices, for he is a sagacious young man, and knows that it would injure his trade to do so. He has been a liberal patron of the View in the past and ought to advertise "some more."

The next store is that of

R. EHRMAN.

Mr. Ehrman is a genius on a trade. He is possessed of great energy and tact and is well informed on business methods. Whenever any public enterprise is on foot he is to be found ready to aid with his hand and pocket. He does as much work as any man we know and he does not get due credit for what he does. He knows how to look after his own interests perhaps, for that is a fundamental principle of trade and business, and he is just as ready to aid any worthy cause as any one you could find. We would just as soon go to him to borrow a dollar as to any man we know. He no doubt suspects this, as we understand he don't keep any money about his person. He will have a large stock of goods for you to select from; and as he has made us work our legs till they ache printing circulars, we hope he will advertise as some return for hard work.

Next comes our enterprising young druggist, who can sell you enough drugs in a minute to last you a year in such a healthy country as this. Mr. Phillips is a careful and accomplished pharmacist and as such he is a most useful citizen in our community. Those who patronize him are always impressed with his courteous urbanity, and can go away feeling that they have been in the company of a gentleman.

W. H. PHILLIPS,

Over the drug store is the millinery store of Mrs. T. Phillips. We could not do justice to this worthy and accomplished lady and beg to be excused from doing more than calling attention to the fact that we have a millinery and dress-making establishment of which all the ladies in town feel proud.

The next store is that of

W. H. SARTOR,

conducted by Mr. W. D. Sartor, where the best quality of family supplies are always to be found. The Messrs. Sartor, both father and son, are meeting with much success since opening, and such success is well deserved and easily accounted for as a standing advertisement is kept before the people. May they grow rich and happy.

R. P. WOOLEY.

Mr. Wooley's is the next house. He is likewise a patron of the View, and as a consequence is nearly always busy selling goods. He doesn't mind the work as he seems to grow fatter as the years roll on. He is a most deserving young man who attends to his own business and lets others attend to theirs. He is sure to succeed on such a plan.

Coming back on the opposite side of the street, we must not neglect to mention the millinery and dress-making establishment of Mrs. M. A. Butler, a lady who has a pleasant word for all and who can always give satisfaction with her work. She also carries a nice stock of confectioneries.

Next we reach the store of

T. M. EDWARDS.

Tom's good points are that he is a quiet, unobtrusive young man, who attends closely to business; and he seems to have enough to keep him busy, which speaks well for one starting out so young. He is the youngest of our business men. As he grows older and gains experience his talent for his business will increase. He keeps a good stock of general merchandise.

W. L. SAMPEY.

Mr. Sampey is a first honor graduate of Howard College. He is a very calm and staid young man, and he wears his honors with due dignity. In manners he is bland and complaisant and means business from the word go. He always carries an excellent stock of goods, and as he advertises them, he never has time to loaf, which is a great point gained by a business man. We believe he is the next youngest of our merchants. Success has already perched upon his banner. He is a staunch friend of the right and we are glad to note his prosperity.

SIMPSON & CALLEN.

The senior member of this firm is Mr. W. J. Simpson, son-in-law of Probate Judge Callen. Mr. Simpson was for a number of years station agent here for the L. & N. R. R. We have noted that he never permits his business to rush him. Even when depot agent, though kept very close at his work, yet it was done carefully and deliberately and without any hurry. This is a good point in his favor—for a man ought never to do anything in a hurry except to catch a flea; and often it is not well to do that too fast. We have been impressed with this characteristic, and it is our opinion that should he go into the newspaper business, he would sell out when the "devil" began to rush him for copy and the ink and paper men for money.

The other member of the firm is Mr. W. T. Callen, eldest son of our Probate Judge. The writer first knew him as a cadet at the State University. He is a man who does not imbibe prejudices, and does not seek to pull down anyone else in order that he may succeed. The firm is a strong one, and they have a good trade already established. We would like to see them advertise in the View, and extend their trade.

Next and last comes the farmer's store conducted by

T. E. GILCHRIST.

Mr. Gilchrist is a modest and unassuming christian gentleman, who has seen hard work himself as a farmer. He is a man who is well-disposed to every body—having seen enough of human nature during a useful life to understand that there is more happiness in an adherence to the gold rule than otherwise. He has evidently adopted the principles of the Farmers' Alliance, which are good principles to put in practice and live up to. He seems to be giving full satisfaction in his present position.

These are all of our merchants. They are all clever and accommodating gentlemen. Each deserves what we have written of him, and that is one reason why we have written. As a whole they will endeavor to build up the trade of our place, which we now urge them to unite in doing, and that is another reason why we have set ourselves to the task herein, believing that our words will be properly appreciated.

Come in and trade with them, and if you are a close observer of men you will find that each is just the man we have described him to be.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE.

Pupils in attendance last session 211. Officers engaged 19.

Twenty-eighth session opens Wednesday, Sept. 14.

For catalogues apply to
ALONZO HILL,
aug18-1m] President.

A. J. MASSEY,
OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

☞ Will go far and near.

Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

NOTICE NO. 6561.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Lowery J. Glasscock, homestead 11294 for the s w ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 14, township 24, range 14. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6502.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: John R. Dobbs homestead 14332 for the n w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: H. W. Herbert, John D. Wyatt, Madison Popwell, John Popwell.

jul 28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6500.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: Frank E. Fuller, Homestead 12969, for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec 14, township 20, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said lands, viz: John Klinner, Robert M. Robuck, William F. Robuck and Richard Coe, all of Stanton, Ala.

jul28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6501.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 10, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Broadhead, Homestead 13128 for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec. 12, township 20, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William A. Smith, George Rucker, Martin Hesler and William H. Fosbee, Jr., all of Dixie, Ala.

jul28* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6477.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., July 13, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on August 29th, 1887, viz: Walter H. Jones, Homestead 12973 for the s e ¼ of n e ¼ and n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 24, township 23, range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James L. Marcus, William H. Marcus, Marion H. Marcus, and Jesse A. Maddox, all of Jumbo, Ala.

jul14* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated, in Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice: who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 30 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.
Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.
A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.
Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.
☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' RECENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

L&N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, and the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
Louisville, Ky.

THE CHICAGO
COTTAGE
ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, free.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS,

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 18 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

TOM COWIN, Greensboro, Ala. D. H. BROWN, Marion, Ala.
WILSON HOUSE.
COWIN & BROWN, Prop's.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of TOM COWIN, formerly manager of the Florence Hotel. [6m

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salesrooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Wool Carding.

Now is the time to get your wool carded. Our cards are in fine order. Ship to
E. G. WALKER,
Montevallo, Ala.

Subscribe for the View.

Now is a good time to place Fall advertisements.

CHILTON VIEW

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 18, 1887.

This VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable county journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Send us your job work.

Mrs. Givhan visited friends in Montgomery this week.

In such warm weather everybody should try to keep cool.

Mrs. Sam Holt visited her brother Mr. Lee Holt at this place this week.

Prof. Lamar, of the Tuskaloosa Female College, was in Clanton Saturday.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

The VIEW job office is kept busy but we can find time to do your work so bring it along.

Remember to put the little amount you owe the VIEW in your pocket when you come to court.

Rev. Mr. Jno. Sampey, spent Friday night last in Clanton. He was en route to Mobile.

Mr. Martin, of Union Springs, visited his family, who are summering at this place, last week.

Misses Smith and Sandlin, of Nixburg, Coosa county, again visited relatives in Clanton this week.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

We understand that the ladies have an ice cream supper and a concert on the tapis for court week.

Mr. T. M. Ternan, of the Blue Creek neighborhood, visited friends and relatives in Clanton this week.

A sociable was enjoyed by the young folks on last Saturday night at the residence of Mrs. Tom Phillips.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Strangers have been numerous in Clanton during the summer. When the new hotel at the hot well is completed they will be more numerous.

The Young Men's Debating Club will be re-organized next Saturday night at the court house and all young men and boys who feel interested are requested to be present.

Read the advertisement in this issue of Sol. D. Bloch & Co. This is an enterprising firm, of Birmingham, which proposes to handled your cotton for you at an advantage. They will equalize freight rates with other cotton markets and no drayage will be charged.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Dress Goods at Sampey's.

Ladies, read this. I have just received 3000 yds good calico at 6 cents, 1000 yards good ginghams at 10 cents, 1000 yards cotton checks, 1000 yards sheeting, 1000 yards shirting, 300 yards hickory shirting, 300 yards Scotch Cheviots, a nice lot of worsteds, flannels and linseys. Ladies' and Misses' wool Jerseys at $1.00 and $1.25 each. Brocaded velvet for trimmings 60c. Good bargains in dress buttons—I get them at half price. Come and see for yourselves.

W. L. SAMPEY.

Notice!

I will be in Clanton or at the hot well during court, and will be prepared to do all dental work brought to me. A. J. MASSEY.

Mrs. DeJarnette and family, of this place, took a trip on the steamer "Jewel" from Montgomery to Mobile and returned last week. We regret to learn that they expect to move to Mobile in the fall.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

Remember!

If you find a cross mark (X) on your paper after your name, it means that your subscription is due. Please remit by hand or registered letter.

The finest apples we have seen this season were brought to our office Monday morning by Mr. B. J. Carr, of this county. Several of the largest ones measured eleven and a half inches in circumference.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

A Mr. Middleton, of Montgomery county, has purchased the residence of Mr. Joe Chandler near town and will move his family up here next month to live. Mr. Chandler will move out to his saw mill.

A run away mule attached to a wagon created some excitement on Main street yesterday. There was very little of the wagon attached when he got through running among the trees around the court house.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

Messrs. Lomb, Hershey & Co., a Birmingham machinery firm have an advertisement in this issue. They claim to be the only firm in the South who sell uniformily at Manufacturer's net prices. Parties in need of machinery will do well to read their advertisement and patronize them.

Young Will Aldridge, who only a few weeks since began work as apprentice in the VIEW office is one of the brightest boys of his age we have met, and is learning the art preservative with remarkable rapidity. He is a quiet, steady work, and we are disposed to think he is of just such material as the best citizens are made.

Died, at her home in this place, on Tuesday the 16th inst., after an illness of several weeks, Mrs. R. J. Beasley. She leaves a husband and several children and grand children besides numerous friends and relatives to mourn her loss. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the people in their affliction and great loss.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

Prof. Alonzo Hill, of the Tuskaloosa Female College, visited Clanton in the interest of his excellent institution last week. Prof. Hill is a graduate of the University of Virginia, and is a native Alabamian who is without a superior as an educator of young ladies. The college over which he presides is the largest and best equipped female school in the State.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boshee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the disease make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles.

Orange Blossoms.

On the morning of the 11th inst., Miss Eula F. Wooley, daughter of Dr. A. S. Wooley, of Maplesville, formerly of Selma, Ala., was married to Mr. Arthur B. Sawyer, of Columbia, S. C.

Mr. Sawyer is a young man of sterling qualities and one among the leading lawyers of his city.

The bride is a well known young lady in Selma and vicinity, possessing every attribute of a lovely character, and she has won a host of friends wherever known, who regret to lose her presence after shedding so many rays of sunlight and happiness wherever she has gone.

The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for Tallulah Falls, Ga., and Ashville, N. C., to spend the honeymoon, thence to Columbia their future home. The VIEW wishes them a life of happiness and success, which they so richly deserve.

Among the many bridal presents we mention by Mr. Sawyer a splendid and costly set of diamonds and a silver toilet set; by Mrs. Canady, of Columbia, S. C., diamond breast-pin; by Mrs. J. C. Wooley, embroidered velvet pin cushion and gold thimble; by Mr. J. C. Wooley, a full set of china and silver set and spoon-holder; by Herbert E. Wooley a richly carved silver butter-dish; by A. C. Wooley and wife, a beautiful plush dressing case; by Master Price and Miss Gena Wooley, a beautiful boquet of flowers, and from her father, Dr. A. S. Wooley, a house and lot.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Jemison Locals.

The weather has been warm, warmer, warmest, but like all things in this life, these days will soon pass away and icy winter will hold his sway.

Health of our village very good since the reign of measles and whooping cough has come to a close.

Building still progressing. The Academy is nearly completed, and will be ready for pupils by Fall. Two new dwellings now going up, and we learn of other lots being purchased with the expectation of building.

The young people, on several occasions have had a gay time tripping the light fantastic toe.

Mrs. Scott, of Montgomery, will spend some time with her mother, Mrs. Gaines, of this place.

Mrs. V. A. O'Connor, of Fort Gaines, Ga., is visiting relatives, Mrs. Mooney and Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. O'Connor is a splendid musician, and has a music class here.

Maplesville Dots.

We are having fine weather to pull fodder.

Mr. Clayton Woolley and wife, and Mr. Herbert Woolley, of Mississippi, spent several days recently with their father, Dr. Woolley.

Mr. Crit Woolley and family, of Selma, recently spent a few days with the old folks at home.

Miss Lula Robinson, of Selma, spent the week with her friend Miss Eula Woolley, of this place.

Our little town was visited by the charming Misses Laddie Welch and Lula Lussiter, of Plantersville, last week.

Mr. James DuBose got himself a little crippled monkeying with a wild horse. If Mr. DuBose was in reach we would extend turpentine to him.

Mr. Ike Gist, of Jones Switch, is having a house erected on Main street.

We will soon have a new church in our little town; Mr. J. D. Watersworth is taking a very active part in the building. DUNCE.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. Mr. Briggs preached two fine sermons to large congregations Sunday last.

Dr. Caffey is fitting up a nice office near the Clifton.

Mr. Geo. A. Birch, E. H. Jacobi, G. Lemlie, T. F. Leak and their families, all of Montgomery, but recently from Shelby Springs, Miss Cora Simon, New Orleans, Dr. S. P. Smith, Prattville, and Prof. Alonzo Hill, Tuskaloosa, are at the Clifton House.

Miss Mamie McKenzie, of Dunham, is at Dr. Pitts'. Mrs. Dollie Cain and children, of Wetumpka, are visiting Mrs. Matthews. The Misses Hart, of Eufaula, are with their sister, Mrs. Thornton. Mrs. Cooper, of Selma, is with Rev. A. A. Green, Mrs. Lucy Lanier, William Adams, and E. R. Shannon, of Montgomery, spent the day with Mrs. Gibson. C. A. Lanier and wife have gone to "Montgomery White," Va. Sam Elsberry and wife left for Waukesha. Mr. Morris and family and Mrs. Dr. Baldwin have gone to Ashville, N. C. Mr. Flurrie Davis, of Montgomery, and J. R. Goodson, Louisville, are at Mrs. Magers.

Mr. Leland, of New Orleans, did not locate that new route through Chilton. He used the S. & N. railroad track which answered his purpose very well.

We were glad to see Capt. Clisby at Church. His health is good but he can't walk much now. Don't come to the station any more, and we don't hear the bird, nor deer, nor Indian stories. He is still faithful to President Cleveland, the Advertiser, and the ladies who play ten pins. Truly, we miss the Captain.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos, Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

A. C. ROGERS, Manager,
210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD BIRTH EASY

SHORTENS LABOR. LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDANT TO IT. DIMINISHES THE DANGER TO LIFE OF BOTH MOTHER AND CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To Mothers," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL.
30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO.
ATLANTA, GA.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

aug10-1y

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

NOTICE NO. 6621.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., July 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17, 1887, viz: Henry H. Herbert, Homestead 12524 for the n w ¼ sec 22 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: N. A. Dobbs, John D. Wyatt, A. C. Duke, and W. A. Jones, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug3 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6569.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 23rd, 1887, viz: James C. Williams, homestead 13282, for the w ½ of se ¼ and sw ¼ of ne ¼, sec 12, township 20, range 18. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: William I Mullins, William C. Dickerson, Thomas W. Weldon and J. H. Griffis, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6559.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 24th, 1887, viz: Oma Hill, homestead 10836, for the s e ¼ of se ¼ sec 14 township 24 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6560.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 9, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Thomas Craddock, homestead 10820 for the n ½ of s w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14 township 24 north range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George R. Glasscock, and Lowery J. Glasscock, of Shelby Iron Works, Ala., Elijah Headley and Samuel L. Arledge, of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞ WATCH IT. ☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAYERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1st AND 21st STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES. PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 306. [july8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods,

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug26-y

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
DEALERS IN
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager,
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street
LOUISVILLE, KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education
Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.
The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 6000 Graduates in Business.
Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.
Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation. FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c. TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course. PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 500 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation. Lexington, Ky., contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,
WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

The Chilton View Job Office,
IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR
JOB PRINTING,
SUCH AS
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
BILL HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
COMMISSARY CHECKS,
CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS
OF ALL KINDS,
NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.
SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

A TALK ABOUT PARROTS.

TWENTY THOUSAND POLLYS IN THE METROPOLIS.

A Bird That is an Interesting Subject of Study—Taking Care of Parrots—Their Memory.

The parrot population of this city is estimated at twenty thousand. The Pollys, as they are all called, without distinction of sex, are interesting subjects of study. There are good and bad parrots, just as there are good children and bad children. The bad parrot is one which has not forgotten the harsh, discordant screams of parrot language in the tropical forests, and indulges in them throughout the livelong day. He is also the possessor of a limited vocabulary of the "Polly wants a cracker" style, whose endless reiteration is even more aggravatingly annoying than his natural screeching and chattering.

The screeching nuisance can be discouraged and ultimately reformed by judiciously administered punishments. The vocabulary can be extended and made interesting by careful training, and some melodious and tuneful whistling may be taught as a pleasant adjunct to the spoken word. The reason there are so few good parrots is found in the great mortality among these birds. While in the process of reformation and education they die in such great numbers that a steady stream of recruits is necessarily kept coming into the country. The result is to keep down the proportion of good parrots, birds that can talk considerably, sing something and whistle tunes.

A Sun reporter had his attention attracted by a fine parrot in front of Jefferson Market the other day. Stopping to look at it his thoughts reverted to the appalling death rate among parrots, and he was pitying the pretty fellow, when the latter suddenly perked his head sideways with the question: "What's the matter with you, hey?" followed by a burst of uproarious laughter. The owner of the parrot, John Morris, the florist, was for years a bird fancier, though he does not now keep birds for sale. Mr. Morris talked entertainingly.

"Sam is a very smart bird," said he. "When you are disposed to pity Sam on account of any impression on your part that he is in any danger of losing his excellent health, you are away off. I have three other parrots in just as good shape. It is the effect of their care and diet. They get no bread, no coffee, no fruit, no vegetables, no hemp seed, and especially no meat. They do get plenty of good, plain canary seed, water, and a liberal supply of sand and gravel. Two-thirds of the mortality among parrots comes from over-feeding. Some years ago I came to this conclusion. The birds that came to me, sick and feverish, with ragged, dull, and dirty plumage, were so evidently suffering from dyspepsia, that over-feeding was the first thought as to the cause. In their confined state, having little or no exercise, they suffer if they are stuffed with rich, heavy food.

"It occurred to me that canary seed contained all the necessary elements of nourishment in a simple, easily digestible form. I determined to make the experiment. A sick parrot that was brought in to me was chosen as a promising subject. He had suffered from dyspepsia for months, and was a miserable looking bird, that seemed bound to die anyway. I thought he might as well die testing my treatment as to perish in the old-fashioned way of being stuffed to death. I put him in a clean cage and for twenty-four hours put no food of any kind in the cups. Then I put in a little hemp seed, so that the bird would neither starve nor get enough to eat. The hemp seed lasted only a part of the day, and the next morning I put in some canary seed. When the hemp seed was gone that day the bird began picking at and playing with the canary seed. In a day or two he had learned to crack and eat it. Then I gradually lessened the quantity of hemp seed, and after awhile supplied nothing but the canary seed.

"Old bird fanciers shook their heads and said the bird could not live on canary seed alone, and that I was bound to lose him. But I persevered, and the result justified me. The bird steadily improved in condition and plumage. I have since repeated the treatment many times with the same success, and have adopted canary seed as the standard and sole food for my parrots. Several fanciers and ladies who have seen my birds, tried it, too, and I tell you of it for the benefit of the public."

"Do parrots have to be kept in a very warm temperature?"

"That is the popular belief, but my experience has been that parrots can be made capable of enduring as much cold as any other bird.

"Do parrots ever forget what they have acquired?"

"Indeed they do. Many persons believe that if they get a good bird it will continue to talk well. This is a mistake. The memory of a parrot has often to be refreshed. A bird that has been trained to talk and whistle and sing would, if left to itself for a few months, forget these accomplishments and take up the cries and screams of its wild state."

"Do parrots breed in captivity?"

"They have been bred in France. But it is a troublesome and expensive task to do it. Besides, the birds are so excitable and jealous when mating that they become unfitted for pets. They breed so rapidly in such a wide extent of territory where they remain wild that the supply is ample and cheap, and there is not sufficient inducement to try to raise them here.—New York Sun.

Street Bands in the Metropolis.

The increase of uniformed street bands is beginning to attract attention. Their performance is almost entirely confined to the more populous districts, but once in a while they favor the aristocratic localities. One band is very neatly and showily dressed, and numbers nine pieces. It has a leader who affects Gilmorean pyrotechnics with his baton, and who receives the cap collections of the bassoon. This band is capable of solos, and, in an appreciative neighborhood, the Levy of the wandering instrumentalists pierces the ears not only of the groundlings, but of the occupants of the six stories with his peculiar strains. Occasionally mine host of a lager bier saloon invites them to partake of the foaming glass, and then, in return, the band makes the place resound with the "Watch on the Rhine." The matter of their remuneration has often been discussed. Of course their receipts are erratic. The men have each made as much as four dollars a day, but are satisfied with an average week's earnings of twenty dollars.—New York Times.

Ripe and Seedy.

"How are you feeling?" said the cucumber to the peach.

"I'm ripe for anything," replied the peach. "How are you feeling?"

"Rather seedy.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Pretty belt buckles of all styles are worn with the belts that accompany the blouse waist.

White serge costumes are very stylish when perfectly simply made with tailor cut and finish.

The panel which is formed of a ladder of bows is a very stylish trimming for a white costume.

Puffs characterize all the fashionable dress sleeves. But only slim people should wear them.

A vest and cuffs with revers of the same velvet are worn on mulls and muslins as well as China crapes.

The Louis XIV. coat basque is a favorite model for making the basque of tailor costumes in white cloth.

Very pretty fancy Tuscan straws, with colored beads, may be very attractive and stylish if trimmed judiciously.

Butterfly bows ornament very stylish white costumes which have no other trimming. Watered ribbon picot edge is used.

The colored Jersey is a very convenient and also attractive garment, and may be trimmed to correspond with any costume.

Fine French satines are always worth getting and are stylish this season in cashmere colors trimmed with plain velvet.

Small checks are invariably combined with plain fabrics this season. The check forming the skirts and the waist is of plain fabric.

Every really fashionable dress nowadays must have a long, pointed waist, full front, clinging skirts, puffed sleeves, high shoulders and a girdle.

Not content with a single necklace, people who are fortunate enough wear them all at once, no matter how incongruous in appearance.

A maid of honor in Queen Victoria's household receives a salary of $1,500 a year, and her presence is required only twelve weeks annually.

Spite of the efforts of fashion writers, dress-makers, and milliners, heliotrope is not a popular color. It is "trying" to almost every variety of complexion.

The prettiest summer bonnets and hats are of straw, trimmed with white mull, white laces, white flowers, white ostrich tips, white aigrettes and white birds.

Very fine plaiting is now worn where formerly kilt plaiting was used, and in white dresses for young girls this sort of trimming for the underskirt is stylish.

Beaded girdles are very stylish and more elegant than the very heavy silver-linked fetters with which the fashionable young woman burdens herself at present.

A new way of showing off a handsome locket or pendant is wearing it attached to a dainty bit of ribbon on the left side of the corsage, in the style of a military decoration.

Marbled silk is a new variety of this ever acceptable summer fabric, which is very generally used in Paris in the most stylish of costumes for dress occasions. It is also imported.

A fiery fancy in the way of a red frock is of scarlet batiste dotted with black and trimmed with black velvet bows and cascades of black lace, the hat, parasol and shoes to match.

Mrs. R. L. Hughes, of Lexington, Ga., has a ball of yarn that was spun and woven during the Revolutionary war. She also has a butter dish brought from England by her ancestors in 1650.

There is a very wonderful old lady at Maidstone, England, Miss Heathorn, who has been known since girlhood as the "Fair Maid of Kent." She is 103 years old and is said to retain slight traces of her former marvelous beauty.

The oldest woman in Indiana is Mrs. Magdalena Boggs, of Milton. She was born near Lancaster, Penn., December 22, 1788, and is therefore nearly 104 years old. Her health is good.

Women are now wearing great silver girdles hanging loose from the waist in mediæval fashion, and supporting a silver bound memorandum book, gotten up to look like a "book of hours," and a silver "pilgrim's bottle" by way of a vinaigrette.

Yellow muslin is the most stylish costume among an elaborate trousseau of a recent bride. The delicate fabric makes a particularly soft and pretty back ground for its trimming of delicate valenciennes edge. Golden brown velvet ribbon bows finish the harmonious effect.

It is stated that the money given by the women of the Presbyterian Church in the United States during the past sixteen years foots up to $2,150,000—representing the entire support of more than 200 women missionaries, 203 native Bible readers, and more than 150 schools.

The latest fancy in hair dressing is the coiffure a la vrai Greque, not high on the head, but drawn up in a loose coil, rolled under something like a French twist on the back of the head, brushed off the temples and forehead, with only a few light curly tresses falling from under a riviere of jewels or a Greek fillet that just touches the top of the forehead and describes a straight line to the back of the head. The whole effect is very close, and no additional hair is required.

The Fear of the Dead in China.

The great overruling superstitions of China are, however, the fear of the dead and the belief in Feng Shui. The latter word means literally "wind and water," and seems to typify both the good and the baneful influences of physical phenomena. It is the existence of these two superstitions which really forms the barrier to progress in China, because they interfere with the reception of foreign ideas and the development of industrial projects in mining, railway making, and so forth. Feng-Shui is defined, says the Roman Catholic Bishop of Ningpo, as the "path of the Great Dragon, who rushes through the air just above the houses, spouting blessings in showers from his nostrils. He flies straight forward, unless by evil chance he should strike against some high building, in which case he turns aside at an angle, and so the houses beyond loose their share of his blessing. Hence the zealous care of the Chinese house-builders lest any one should build a house higher than his neighbor, and the singular uniformity of domestic architecture."

The fear of the dead leads to the most slavish form of ancestor worship, and the first three weeks of April are specially devoted to the service of the shades. At that time every one visits the graves of his relations with offerings, carried in trays or in baskets. The cost of these annual services and offerings to the dead is estimated by Miss Gordon Cumming to be not less than thirty-two millions sterling, all to propitiate the spirits of those whose graves cover the country, and who are believed to be powerful for evil if neglected. The dead are often honored by the bestowal of new titles if there is reason for distinguishing them.—All the Year Round.

Deadly Effects of Dynamite.

A terrible accident occurred at Jasz Beresy, near Pesth, which resulted in a most serious loss of life. A body of fifty-two engineers, from the Hungarian Honved, with several officers, were receiving instructions in the use of explosives. They were drawn up in a semicircle, and the instructor, for the purpose of illustrating an experiment, set fire to a fuse. This he threw away while alight, and it fell upon a packet of dynamite weighing not more than a pound. A fearful explosion immediately followed, and the instructing officer and the surgeon, who stood near, were literally blown to pieces. Several other officers and seven men were killed on the spot, whilst ten others died in the course of the day, either from their wounds or under the operations, which, in many cases, were necessary. A lieutenant had part of one leg blown away, and when the doctors arrived two of them proceeded to amputate it, he meanwhile composedly smoking a cigarette; but the poor fellow died two hours after the operation. Twenty-seven persons were killed, while forty were severely and eight slightly injured.

WOODEN shoes for children have been introduced with some success in London. They are so cheap that they cannot be pawned, as leather shoes frequently are, by the parents of many poor children to whom they are given by charitable people.

Above all other earthly ills,
I hate the big, old-fashioned pills;
By slow degrees they downward wend,
And often pause, or upward tend;
With such discomfort are they fraught,
Their good effects amount to naught.
Now, Dr. Pierce prepares a pill
That just exactly fills the bill—
A Pellet, rather, that is all—
A Pleasant Purgative, and small;
Just try them as you feel their need,
You'll find that I speak truth, indeed.

Cincinnati has subscribed $900,000 for the celebration of her centennial in 1888.

Children Starving To Death

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. COHEN, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

In Germany the law forbids the sale of tobacco to youths under 18 years of age.

The Morning Dress.

It is said that a lady's standing in society can easily be determined by her dress at the breakfast-table; an expensive, showy costume indicating that the wearer has not yet learned the proprieties. But no one need be afraid of being called "shoddy" if her loveliness is as apparent by daylight as at the hops. Perfect beauty is never the attendant of disease; above all, of those diseases peculiar to women, and which find a ready cure in Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Price reduced to one dollar. By druggists.

The French people will erect next year a bronze statue of Mirabeau at Le Bignon.

OLD pill boxes are spread over the land by the thousands after having been emptied by suffering humanity. What a mass of sickening, disgusting medicine the poor stomach has to contend with. Too much strong medicine. Prickly Ash Bitters is rapidly and surely taking the place of all this class of drugs, and is curing all the ills arising from a disordered condition of the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels.

It Is a Fact,

That Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic is cooling to the blood, controls excessive perspiration, and will safely tide you over that period characterized by headache, fainting spells, exhaustive spasmodic affections, and will give strength and new life to the entire system.

Piles Cured for 25 Cents.

DR. WALTON'S CURE FOR PILES is guaranteed to cure the worst case of piles. Price 25 cents. At druggists, or mailed (stamps taken) by the WALTON REMEDY CO., CLEVELAND, O.

People Who Travel.

Change of climate or water very often affect the bowels seriously. If on the first symptoms of any disturbance you would take Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial much suffering might be saved.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

The number of religious sects in England and Wales now number 230.

The "old reliable"—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

The owner of false weights is like the Arab—he silently steals a weigh.

3 months' treatment for 50c. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by Druggists.

Dyspepsia
Makes many lives miserable, and often leads to self destruction. Distress after eating, sick headache, heartburn, sour stomach, mental depression, etc., are caused by this very common and increasing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves sick headache, clears the mind and cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia.
"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness or tired, all-gone feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling."—G. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DYGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty-five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N.Y.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for
TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢
We are selling four times as many "Tansill's Punch" against any other cigar and have only had them in the case a week.
J. A. TOBIN, Druggist, Brockport, N.Y.
Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

OPIUM Habit Cured satisfactory before any pay. Prof. J. B. BASTOS, 20th Ward, Cincinnati, O.

This represents a healthy life throughout its various seasons.
Free such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.
Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. [illegible] Sold by druggists.
J. F. SMITH & CO., [illegible]
The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

The best and except Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.
It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS
FOR HORSES.
UVILLA, W. Va., Nov. 17, 1886. }
Recently I bought a young horse. He was taken very ill with Pneumonia. I tried to think of something to relieve him. Concluded what was good for man would be good for the horse. So I got a bottle of Piso's Cure and gave him half of it through the nostrils. This helped him, and I continued giving same doses night and morning until I had used two bottles. The horse has become perfectly sound. I can recommend Piso's Cure for the horse as well as for man.
N. S. J. STRIDER.
PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

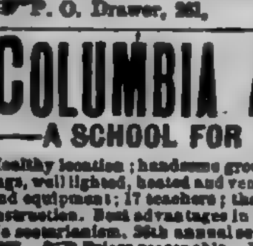
HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC
Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.
LADIES suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.
(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)
THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY, St. Louis, Mo.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE. FOR GENTLEMEN
The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world.
Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $3 Shoes advertised by other firms.

[Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.]
Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE. If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.
TULANE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA.
[Formerly, 1847,—1884, the University of Louisiana.] Its advantages for practical instruction, and especially in the diseases of the South-west are unequaled, as the law secures it superabundant materials from the great Charity Hospital with its 700 beds, and 20,000 patients annually. Students have no hospital-fees to pay and special instruction is daily given at the bedside of the sick, as in no other institution. For catalogue or information, address
Prof. S. E. CHAILLÉ, M. D., Dean,
☞ P. O. Drawer, 261, New Orleans, La.

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,
—A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES—
Healthy location; handsome grounds (15 acres); capacious buildings, well lighted, heated and ventilated; fine library, apparatus and equipment; 17 teachers; thorough and complete course of instruction. Best advantages in music, elocution, painting, etc. No sectarianism. 36th annual session begins Monday, Sept. 5th, 1887. ☞ Prices reasonable. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
ROBT. D. SMITH, President, Columbia, Tenn.



JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT
5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

Central University,
RICHMOND, KY. Next Session opens Sep. 14, '87
Full Faculty, thorough instruction, healthy location, moderate expense. For information and Catalogue apply to L. H. Blanton, D. D., Chancellor.

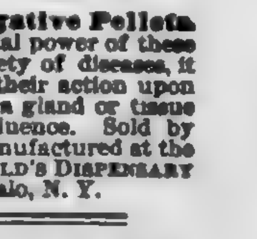
HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Package 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

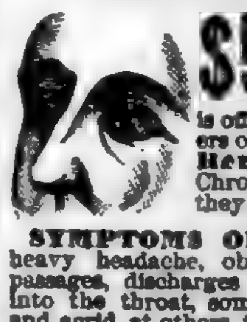
OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.
Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.
SICK HEADACHE,

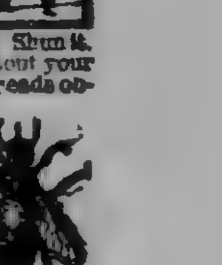


Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.



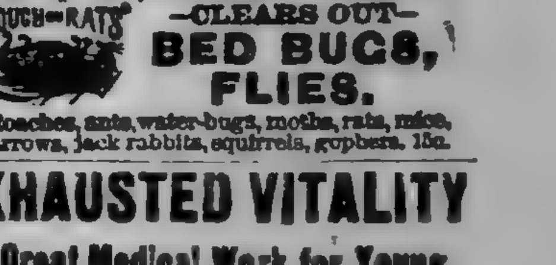
$500 REWARD
is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.
SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.
By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.
Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.
"Untold Agony from Catarrh."
Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."
"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."
THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."
Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.
ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

Lecture on "ROUGH ON RATS."
This is what killed your poor father. Shun it. Avoid anything containing it throughout your future useful (?) careers. We older heads object to its special 'Rough'ness.'



DON'T FOOL away time and money in futile efforts with insect powder, borax or what not, used at random all over the house to get rid of Roaches, Water-bugs, Beetles. For 2 or 3 nights sprinkle "ROUGH ON RATS" drypowder, about and down the sink, drain pipe. First thing in the morning wash it all away down the sink, drain pipe, when all the insects from garret to cellar will disappear. The secret is in the fact that wherever insects are in the house, they must drink during the night. ROACHES
Clears out Rats, Mice, Bed-bugs, Flies, Beetles. "ROUGH ON RATS," is sold all around the world, in every clime, is the most extensively advertised and has the largest sale of any article of its kind on the face of the globe.
DESTROYS POTATO BUGS
For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, etc., a tablespoonful of the powder, well shaken, in a keg of water, and applied with sprinkling pot, spray syringe, or whisk broom. Keep it well stirred up. 15c., 25c. and $1 Boxes. Agr. size.
"ROUGH ON RATS" —CLEARS OUT— BED BUGS, FLIES.
Roaches, ants, water-bugs, moths, rats, mice, sparrows, jack rabbits, squirrels, gophers. 15c.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



THE SCIENCE OF LIFE
KNOW THYSELF.
PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M.D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above. Name this paper.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 28½ S. Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimen of Penmanship.

TEACHERS WANTED: September Session. Address, with stamp, Southern Teachers' Agency, P. O. Box 410, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circular. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 50	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	21 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	27 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, AUGUST 25, 1887. NUMBER 42.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

THE HEIGHTS AND THE VALLEY.

There are gray clouds in the valley,
Clouds and mists and chilling rain,
But the heights are bathed in sunshine,
There we look with longings vain.

Silver moonlight in the valley,
Glitters on the heights above,
While the dew-drops in the valley,
Kiss the lilies that they love.

On the heights there are no lilies,
They love best the valley low,
All that glitters on the heights, is Diamond, ice and pearls of snow.

THE ABANDONED BRIG.

A SAILOR'S STORY.

A more singular incident than one which occurred while I was one of the crew of the ship Stranger, is not to be found in the records of the sea. We loaded at Liverpool for the Cape and ports beyond, on the west coast of Africa. Our last port of call was to be Zanzibar. Before leaving the docks at Liverpool two or three of us took down the map hanging on the wall at our boarding house and traced out the course. When we came to figure up the distance we were amazed. When we came to figure on the perils of such a voyage we wondered how many of us would live to see the palms of Africa. The average landsman sees a ship pull out of her dock without asking or caring which way she is to go, how long the voyage is to be, or what the perils of her course. Perhaps it is not his business to ask or care. Each vocation in life has its profits and perils, and it is seemingly left to each toiler to work out his own salvation.

Well, we had touched at Port Natal to unload some machines, and were headed up for the Mozambique channel, when we got caught in a cyclone. It came on about 10 o'clock in the morning, and we had everything snug to meet it. Two coasting schooners, both bound our way, had come out of Natal with us, and when the storm came howling down both were in full sight. Inside of twenty minutes one foundered and went to the bottom, and the other we almost ran over as she drifted bottom up. We had a big craft, and she had taken out enough cargo to float like a cork; but within an hour the sea got up until a mill pond constantly washed our decks, and now and then a wave came over the rail, which filled her until we stood hip deep in the frothy water. We had to knock away a portion of the bulwarks to give her a chance to unload, but even then there were occasions when it seemed as if she could not rise with her burden. I don't remember that any of us were frightened. Both watches were on duty, the officers alert, and we knew that nothing could be done, except to stand ready if any sudden peril menaced us. We were not lying to, as would have been the case in a roaring gale. With the wind screaming and shrieking along at the rate of eighty or ninety miles an hour, no ship could have been held up to it, even if she were not driven under stern first.

I had been sailing for fifteen years, and yet had never encountered anything like this storm. The anger of it was appalling. It seemed determined that nothing made by the hand of man should survive it. When we slid down into the great hollows between the waves the wind was lost to us on the decks, but it roared and shrieked through our tophamper like ten thousand mad devils. Then, as we slowly climbed the steep hill of water, the ship seeming to stand almost perpendicular on her stern, the wild blasts struck us again, until every man had to hang on for his life. When we were in the full embrace of the storm the report of a field piece could not have been heard twenty feet. I had only one look astern of the ship. A five-pound note could not have hired me to look again. A great wall of water, crested with six feet of froth, was rushing down as if to roll over us, and I shut my eyes and held my breath. It lifted the ship and flung her forward as a boy might toss a chip, but I would not look again.

It was about noon, and I was making my way aft to tell the Captain that we could make out some sort of a wreck on our port bow, when we were swept by a wave from stern to stem. My grip on the life line was broken as the waters rushed over me, and next instant I knew I was being carried over the rail. As I went I bumped against two of the men, buried over their heads in water, but hanging on for life. I clutched at one of them, and tore a piece from his jacket, and thirty seconds later I was overboard for good and trying to get my head above the foam, which piled up on the surface like yeast. When I did get a look around me the ship was a quarter of a mile away, and just sinking into a hollow. I know it has been the case with most sailors who have been put in such peril that no hope of salvation existed, that a feeling of exultation was born. It was so with me. I had a profound pity for the poor fellows on board the Stranger. Their danger seemed far greater than mine. They would drive on until the ship grounded or struck a rock, and every soul of them would perish on the cruel ledges or be drowned in the clutch of the deadly undertow. My death would be easy and without pain. All I had to do was to cease struggling and sink down, down, down to a peaceful sleep below the vexed surface. I was doubtless drowning when this feeling was upon me, but something occurred to arouse me. Some object bumped against me, and instinctively I reached out toward it. It was a part of the cook's galley or house. The wave which had swept me overboard had smashed the house and sent one whole side of it after me. I can remember that I knew what the object was, and that I grasped it and felt that I had a chance for life, but then comes a blank. I suppose I was buffeted about until I lost consciousness, but I had a grip on the wreckage which even death would not have released.

The next thing I remember was a feeling of thirst. I thought I was wandering in the woods in search of a spring, and the longer I hunted the more thirsty I became. I was about to slide down a bank into a dark ravine when I opened my eyes and found myself extended on the wreckage, either hand gripping so firmly that it was only after several trials that I could open my fingers. The wind had gone down a good deal, and with it some of the fury of the sea, but I was still being tossed about in a very uncomfortable manner. The sun was about half an hour high, and as the events of the day slowly came back to my befogged brain, I figured that it was now coming on to sunset. Half an hour later, greatly to my surprise, the sun was much higher, and by and by I was forced to the conclusion that it was morning, and that I had floated all the afternoon and all night. Hunger and thirst soon proved the correctness of this conclusion. As the sun came up the wind and sea went down, and before noon I was pretty comfortably fixed, though stiff and bruised from being so much knocked about. Hope and ambition were slow in coming, and it was fully midday before my mind was clear. Did I hope? Yes. Hope is the last thing to desert a sailor, no matter how desperate the circumstances. It was almost hope against hope, however. I understood something of navigation, and knew that it was a circular storm which struck the ship. There was no telling how large the circle, or whether the Stranger was on the outer or the inner edge. I afterward learned that we were very near the centre, and did not feel the force as much as ships 100 miles to the south or west. A great part of the island of Madagascar was ravaged, and terrible havoc was created seventy-five miles inland from Port Natal, East London, Georgetown and the Cape. Two whalers 120 miles to the west of us were dismasted, and two others went down with all hands.

I think it was about ten o'clock in the forenoon when, as I was heaved up on a sea, I caught sight of a craft dead ahead of me and not more than a mile away. I didn't make her out very well for a time, as there was a haze in the sky and the spray flying about me, but when I drifted nearer I found her to be a dismasted brig. It was a mercy that I was driving straight down upon her, for I had'nt the strength to turn my unwieldy float in either direction. There were no signs of life about the wreck, and I made up my wind for a tremendous struggle to get aboard of her. She was a hulk, and being tossed about like a cork, and there was no telling how long she would float, but I felt that if I missed her I should drift away to an awful death from hunger and thirst. It seemed as if Providence guided my float. The wreck was stern on to me. This was proof that her wheel had been lashed, and that her steering gear was all right. You would have thought she would have drove faster than my float, and I was surprised that she didn't. It was found, as I may tell you here, that one of her anchors was overboard, with ten fathoms of chain attached to it. This gave her a heavy drag, and my pace was twice as fast as hers. When I came up I drove past her stern on the port side, missing her by not more than four feet. There was a lot of her top hamper on the port side held there by ropes which had not been severed and I drove into this mess as we went into the trough of the sea. Climbing up the height beyond, the wreckage slewed in toward the hulk, and I seized the opportunity to grasp a rope and draw myself on board. I did not get there before receiving several hard bumps, and when I was safe on deck I had to sit down for a while to recover my breath.

The decks were in a terrible litter, and a good share of the bulwarks on the starboard side had been washed away. Boats, booms and everything else movable had gone, and it was plain enough that the brig had been wave-swept. As a sailor I could tell by the feel of her that she had little or no water in her hold, and that was the main question with me just then. The first move I made was to begin at the ropes holding the wreckage alongside. I had my sheath knife to work with, and later on found an ax, and in about half an hour I had the satisfaction of seeing everything go clear. The hulk made less work of it riding the waves after that, and the danger of having a butt started was disposed of for good. It was only after I had cleared the wreckage away that I felt hunger and thirst come upon me, and I put away the ax and looked around for water. The scuttle butt was lashed firmly in its place, with a cork in the bung, and after a little hunting I found the drinking can and indulged in a long and refreshing draught. Not a drop of salt water had entered the barrel. To satisfy my hunger I must go below. The brig was built in the old-fashioned way, with the cook's galley, steward's pantry, and all that sort of thing below decks. I found everything much knocked about and broken, but in the coppers was a piece of beef, thoroughly done, and I soon turned up a fair supply of ship's bread. With these articles of provender I returned to the deck and ate until I was thoroughly satisfied.

Not the slightest suspicion that any one living was aboard had crossed my mind. Indeed, I was only too thankful that I had not encountered any dead. I was about through with my meal, and was thinking of making a careful investigation below, when I was suddenly seized from behind, flung violently to the deck from my seat on the main hatch, and I found myself on my back with a man on top of me, his hand on my throat, and his knee on my chest. It came upon me so very sudden that I had no strength for a time. It was only when the stranger raised his other hand, which clutched an iron belaying pin, to give me a blow on the head, that I put forth any effort. It was well for me that I was in the prime of life and possessed of lots of strength, for he was a burly fellow and determined to do for me. I tore his clutch loose, and put forth a great effort and turned him over, but we had a terrible struggle before I conquered him. I did not get the better of him until I had given him a rap over the head with the same pin. While he was unconscious I tied him hand and foot, and then for the first time got a good look at him. He was a common sailor, strong as a bull, and without doubt, a lunatic. Fear of death had unsettled his mind, and led him to hide himself away when the others left the brig. He had looked upon me as an enemy, and no doubt intended to take my life.

Well, after I had the man securely tied he recovered consciousness, and it was well that I had not been sparing of the rope. He made herculean efforts to break loose, and, being now in a sort of frenzy, he would have been more than a match for me. His screams and shrieks and curses were awful to hear, and I left him securely tied to the deck and descended into the cabin. Scarcely anything here had been disturbed by human hands. I found the brig's log, and from it I made out that her name was the Saint Joseph, and that she had been up the coast on a trading voyage. She had a cargo of fine woods, hides, furs, spices, and dried fruits, and carried a crew of twelve men. The last entry in the log told of a fair run and fair weather. Her cargo I got from her papers. When I had thoroughly ransacked the cabin I went forward to the forecastle. The men had gone without their bags. Then I went on deck, found the sounding rod, and sounded the well. The brig did not have two inches of water in her. I was fussing about for a couple of hours, and during all that time the lunatic never ceased to scream and shout and try to burst his bonds. When I finally got around to see if I could not do something for him he all at once subsided, and would neither look at nor speak to me.

During the afternoon the wind was constantly falling and the sea going down, and the weather put on such a settled look that I grew very hopeful. I was aboard of a hulk, drifting I knew not where, and had a dangerous man for a comrade, but there was plenty to eat, the brig was dry, and the chances of being sighted and rescued were good. It was a long afternoon to me, though I was kept busy rummaging about and clearing up the litter. When the sun finally went down the night came on hazy, and the wind fell to a two-knot breeze. I was in a great quandary as to what to do with the man, who seemed to have been asleep for several hours. I lighted the ship's lanterns and hung them overboard, and then, about two hours after dark, I carried the man some tea and bread and canned fruit. He lay on the broad of his back, and was deaf to my soothing words. I held up his head and put the tea to his lips, and in anstant he seemed to go wild. By a mighty effort he loosed the ropes—I afterward found he had gnawed some of them in twain—and next instant he was upon me. Neither of us had any weapons, nor was there opportunity to secure one. We grappled each other, and in less than a minute I saw that it was his life or mine, or perhaps both. He was seeking to drag me to the broken bulwarks, and I was seeking to prevent. He had a grip like death, and as we struggled back and forth amidships we tore the clothes off of each other, and used our hands and feet whenever there was an opening. He was the stronger of the two, but I could use my fists the better, and this evened us up. I said that we had no weapons. I had my sheath knife, but I did not propose to use that until I felt that my life depended upon it. The time finally came. I was growing weak, and while he seemed as strong as ever. I was just about to loosen the grip I had on him with my right hand and reach for my knife when there was a great shout from the bows, a number of men came running along the decks, and a voice which I recognized as that of the master of the Stranger called out:

"What is it? Who are you? What is going on?"

"Lay hold of him, Mr. Jameson: he's crazy!" I shouted, and with that four or five men seized him and flung him to the deck.

Now, let me tell you what had happened. I was lost overboard from the ship about midday. Six hours afterward she sprung aleak, and was abandoned just before she went down. The crew got away in two boats, outlived the storm, and were heading up the Madagascar when they spied my lights and altered their course to make the wreck. They had hailed the hulk several times, and finally came aboard just in time to prevent a deed which would have been a burden to my peace of mind forever after. The crew which left the brig were never heard of more, while the lunatic died next day after our men came aboard. Not a man from the Stranger was lost, and we rigged up the brig and took her to the Cape, and the salvage more than paid for the loss of our ship and cargo.—New York Sun.

How Rothschild Won at Waterloo.

The sudden return of Napoleon from Elba shattered all of Rothschild's golden dreams, and so filled him with anxiety that he proceeded to Belgium and followed close in the wake of the English army. As appears from the following extract, the battle of Waterloo was watched by him most anxiously: "When at length the Duke of Wellington took up his position at Waterloo, Nathan Meyer felt that the critical moment on which hung the fortunes not of Europe alone, but of the Rothschilds, also had arrived. When Napoleon's Old Guard had been driven back by the British bayonets in the greatest confusion and disorder, Nathan Meyer, who was on the battlefield, spurred his horse back to Brussels." Having made his way to England as fast as post-horses could carry him, and in spite of a tempestuous sea which necessitated his offering two thousand francs to a fisherman as a bribe to take him across, he was next day to be seen leaning against his well known pillar on the Stock Exchange, apparently broken in health and spirits, and looking as if he had been overwhelmed and crushed by some direful calamity. The greatest gloom and despondency had for days prevailed in the city, and as men looked at Rothschild, and then significantly at each other, they seemed to come to the conclusion that the worst was yet to be known.

The gloom and despondency were not lessened when a rumor became current that Rothschild had told a friend in confidence that Blucher with his 117,000 Prussians, had been defeated on June 16th and 17th at Ligny, and that Wellington could not hope to arrest Napoleon's victorious forces. The Funds dropped rapidly. But the next afternoon a certain wild reaction set it. It was everywhere reported that Wellington was victorious. Nathan Meyer himself had been the first to announce the good news. The funds rose again at a bound. Many pitied Rothschild for the enormous losses he had, as they thought, suffered, they little suspecting that, while his known agents had been selling openly, his unknown agents bought up secretly every piece of scrip they could secure. Far from losing, he had by his manipulations pocketed nearly a million sterling."—London Truth.

It is a mere idle declamation about consistency to represent it as a disgrace to a man to confess himself wiser to-day than yesterday.

What prevents us from being natural is the desire to appear so.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject, "Christian Principles In Life and Fire Insurance."

TEXT: "Let him appoint officers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Egypt in the seven plenteous years."—Genesis xli., 34.

These were the words of Joseph, the President of the first insurance company that the world ever saw. Pharaoh had a dream that distracted him. He thought he stood on the banks of the River Nile, and saw coming up out of the river seven fat, sleek, glossy cows, and they began to browse in the thick grass. Nothing frightful about that. But after them, coming out of the same river, he saw seven cows that were guant and starved, and the worst looking cows that had ever been seen in the land, and in the ferocity of hunger they devoured their seven fat predecessors. Pharaoh, the King, sent for Joseph to decipher these midnight hieroglyphics. Joseph made short work of it, and intimated the seven fat cows that came out of the river are seven years with plenty to eat, the seven emaciated cows that followed them are seven years with nothing to eat. "Now," said Joseph, "Let us take one-fifth of the corn crop of the seven prosperous years and keep it as a provision for the seven years in which there shall be no corn crop." The King took the counsel and appointed Joseph, because of his integrity and public spiritedness, as the President of the undertaking. The farmers paid one-fifth of their income as a premium. In all the towns and cities of the land there were branch houses. This great Egyptian life insurance company had millions of dollars as assets. After awhile the dark days came and the whole nation would have starved if it had not been for the provision they had made for the future. But now these suffering families had nothing to do but go up and collect the amount of their life policies. The Bible puts it in one short phrase: "In all the land of Egypt there was bread." I say this was the first life insurance company. It was divinely organized. It had in it all the advantages of the "whole life plan," of the "tontine plan," of the "reserved endowment plan," and all the other good plans. We are told that Rev. Dr. Anhate, of Lincolnshire, England, originated the first life insurance company in 1698. No! it is as old as the corn cribs of Egypt; and God himself was the author and originator. If that were not so I would not take your time and mine in Sabbath discussion of this subject. I feel it is a theme, vital, religious and of infinite import, the morals of life and fire insurance.

About ten or twelve years ago there was a great panic in life insurance which did good. Under the storm the untrustworthy and bogus institutions were scattered, while the genuine were tested and firmly established, and where does the life insurance institution stand to-day? What amount of comfort, of education, of moral and spiritual advantage is represented in the simple statistic that in this country the life insurance companies in one year paid $7,000,000 to the families of the bereft; and in five years they paid $300,000,000 to the families of the bereft; and are promising to pay—and hold themselves in readiness to pay—$2,000,000,000 to the families of the bereft!

They have actually paid out more by dividends and death claims than they have ever received in premiums. I know of what I speak. The life insurance companies of this country paid more than $7,000,000 of taxes to the government in five years. So, instead of these companies being indebted to the land, the land is indebted to them. To cry out against life insurance because here and there one company has behaved badly is as absurd as it would be for a man to burn down 1,000 acres of harvest field in order to kill the moles and potato bugs—as preposterous as a man who should blow up a crowded steamer in mid-Atlantic for the purpose of destroying the barnacles on the bottom of the hulk.

But what does the Bible say in regard to this subject? If the Bible favors the institution, I will favor it; if the Bible denounces it, I will denounce it. In addition to the forecast of Joseph in the text, I call your attention to Paul's comparison. Here is one man who, through neglect, fails to support his family while he lives, or after he dies. Here is another man, who abhors the Scriptures and rejects God. Which of those men is the worse? Well, you say, the latter. Paul says the former. Paul says that a man who neglects to care for his household is more obnoxious than a man who rejects the Scriptures: "He that provideth not for his own, and especially those of his own household, is worse than an infidel." Life insurance companies help most of us to provide for our families after we are gone; but, if we have the money to pay the premiums and do not pay them, we have no right to expect mercy at the hand of God in the judgment. We are worse than Tom Paine, worse than Voltaire, and worse than Shaftesbury. The Bible declares it—we are worse than an infidel. After the certificate of death has been made out, and thirty or sixty days have passed, and the officer of the life insurance company comes into the bereft household and pays down the hard cash on an insurance policy, that officer of the company is performing a positively religious rite according to the Apostle James, who says: "True religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and the widow in their affliction," and so on. The religion of Christ proposes to take care of the temporal wants of the people as well as the spiritual. When Hezekiah was dying the injunction came to him: "Set thy house in order, for thou shalt die and not live." That injunction in our day would mean: "Make your will; settle up your accounts; make things plain; don't deceive your heirs with rolls of worthless mining stock; don't deceive them with deeds for western lands that will never yield any crop but chills and fever; don't leave for them notes that have been outlawed, and second mortgages on property that will not pay the first." "Set thy house in order." That is, fix up things, so your going out of the world may make as little consternation as possible. See the lean cattle devouring the fat cattle, and in the time of plenty prepare for the time of want. The difficulty is, when men think of their death, they are afraid to think of it only in connection with their spiritual welfare, and not of the devastation in the household which will come because of their emigration from it. It is meanly selfish for you to be so absorbed in the heaven to which you are going that you forget what is to become of your wife and children after you are dead. You can get out of this world without leaving a dollar and yet die happy if you could not provide for them: you can trust them in the hands of the God who owns all the harvests, and the herds, and the flocks; but if you could pay the premiums on a policy and neglect them it is a mean thing for you to go up to heaven while they go into the poorhouse. You, at death, move into a mansion, river front, and they move into two rooms on the fourth story of a tenement house in a back street. When they are out at the elbows and knees, the thought of your splendid robes in heaven will not keep them warm. The minister may preach a splendid sermon over your remains, and the quartet may sing like four angels in the organ loft, but your death will be a swindle. You had the means to provide for the comfort of your household when you left it and you wickedly neglected it. "Oh," says some one, "I have more faith than you; I believe when I go out of this world the Lord will provide for them." Go to Blackwell's Island, go through all the poorhouses of the country, and I will show you how often God provides for the neglected children of neglectful parents. That is, he provides for them through public charity. As for myself, I would rather have the Lord provide for my family in a private home, and through my own industry, and paternal and conjugal faithfulness. But says some man: "I mean in the next ten or twenty years to make a great fortune, and so I shall [illegible]able." How do you know you are going to live ten or twenty years? If we could look up the highway of the future, we could see it crossed by pneumonia, and pleurisies, and consumptions, and colliding rail trains, and runaway horses, and breaking bridges, and funeral processions. Are you so certain you are going to live ten or twenty years, you can warrant your household any comfort after you go away from them? Beside that, the vast majority of men die poor! Two only out of a hundred succeed in business. Are you very certain you are going to be one of the two? Rich one day, poor the next. A man in New York got $2,000,000, and the money turned his brain and he died in a lunatic asylum. All his property was left with the business firm, and they swamped it: and then the family of the insane man were left without a dollar. In eighteen months the prosperity, the insanity, the insolvency, and the complete domestic ruin. Beside that, there are men who die solvent, who are solvent before they get under the ground, or before their estate is settled up. How soon the auctioneer's mallet can knock the life out of an estate. A man thinks the property is worth $15,000; under a forced sale it brings $7,000. The business man takes advantage of the crisis and he compels the widow of his deceased partner to sell out to him at a ruinous price, or lose all. The stock was supposed to be very valuable, but it has been so "watered" that when the executor tries to sell it he is laughed out of Wall street, or the administrator is ordered by the surrogate to wind up the whole affair. The estate was supposed at the man's death to be worth $60,000; but after the indebtedness had been met, and the bills of the doctor and the undertaker, and the tombstone cutter have been paid, there is nothing left. That means the children are to come home from school and go to work. That means the complete hardship of the wife, turned out with nothing but a needle to fight the great battle of the world. Tear down the lambrequins, close the piano, rip up the Axminster, sell out the wardrobe, and let the mother take a child in each hand and trudge out into the desert of the world. A life insurance would have hindered all that.

But, says some one, "I am a man of small means, and I can't afford to pay the premium." That is sometimes a lawful and a genuine excuse, and there is no answer to it; but in nine cases out of ten when a man says that he smokes up in cigars, and drinks down in wine, and expends in luxuries enough money to have paid the premium on a life insurance policy which would have kept his family from beggary when he is dead. A man ought to put himself down on the strictest economy until he can meet this Christian necessity. You have no right to the luxuries of life until you have made such provision. I admire what was said by Rev. Dr. Guthrie, the great Scottish preacher. A few years before his death he stood in a public meeting and declared: "When I came to Edinburgh the people sometimes laughed at my black stockings and at my cotton umbrella, and they said I loooked like a common plowman, and they derided me because I lived in a house for which I paid £25 a year rent, and oftentimes I walked when I would have been very glad to have a cab: but, gentlemen, I did all that because I wanted to pay the premium on a life insurance that would keep my family comfortable if I should die." That I take to be the right expression of an honest, intelligent, Christian man.

The utter indifference of many people on this important subject accounts for much of the crime and the pauperism of the day. Who are these children sweeping the crossings with broken brooms and begging of you a penny as you go by? Who are these lost souls gliding under the gaslight, in thin shawls? Ah, they are the victims of want; in many of the cases the forecast of parents and grandparents might have prohibited it. God only knows how they struggled to do right. They prayed until the tears froze on their cheeks, they sewed on the sack until the breaking of the day; but they could not get enough money to pay the rent; they could not get enough money to decently clothe themselves; and one day in that wretched home the angel of purity and the angel of crime fought a great fight between the empty bread tray and the fireless hearth, and the blackwinged angel shrieked: "Aha! I have won the day." Says some man: "I believe what you say; it is right and Christian, and I mean some time to attend to this matter." My friend, you are going to lose the comfort of your household in the same way the sinner loses heaven, by procrastination. I see all around me the destitute and suffering families of parents who meant some day to attend to this Christian duty. During the process of adjournment the man gets his feet wet, then comes a chill and delirium and the doleful shake of the doctor's head, and the obsequies. If there be anything more pitiable than a woman delicately brought up, and on her marriage day by an indulgent father given to a man to whom she is the chief joy and pride of life until the moment of his death, and then that same woman going out with helpless children at her back to struggle for bread in a world where brawny muscle and rugged soul are necessary—I say, if there be anything more pitiable than that, I do not know what it is. And yet there are good women who are indifferent in regard to their husband's duty in this respect: and there are those positively hostile, as though a life insurance subjected a man to some fatality. There is in Brooklyn to-day a very poor woman keeping a candy shop, who vehemently opposed the insurance of her husband's life, and when application had been made for a policy of $10,000 she frustrated it. She would never have a document in the house that implied it was possible for her husband ever to die. One day, in quick revolution of machinery, his life was instantly dashed out. What is the sequel? She is, with annoying tug, making the half of a miserable living. Her two children have been taken away from her in order that they may be clothed and schooled, and her life is to be a prolonged hardship. O man, before forty eight hours have passed away, appear at the desk of some of our great life insurance companies, have the stethoscope of the physician put to your heart and lungs, and by the seal of some honest company decree that your children shall not be subjected to the humiliation of financial struggle in the day of your demise.

But I must ask the men engaged in life insurance business whether they feel the importance of their trust, and charge them I must that they need divine grace to help them in their work. In this day, when there are so many rivalries in your line of business, you will be tempted to overstate the amount of assets and the extent of the surplus, and you will be tempted to abuse the franchise of the company, and make up the deficits of one year by adding some of the receipts of another year; and you will be tempted to send out mean, anonymous circulars derogatory to other companies, forgetful of the fact that anonymous communication means only two things—the cowardice of the author and the insufficiency of the police in allowing such a thing to be dated anywhere save inside of a penitentiary. Under the mighty pressure many have gone down, and you will follow them if you have too much confidence in yourself, and do not appeal to the Lord for positive help. But if any of you belong to that miscreant class of people who, without any financial ability, organize themselves into what they call a life insurance company, with a pretended capital of $200,000 or $300,000, then vote yourself into the lucrative position, and then take all the premiums for yourself, and then, at the approach of the State Superintendent, drop all into the hands of those life insurance undertakers whose business it is to gather up the remains of defunct organizations and bury them in their own fault—then, I say, you had better get out of the business, and disgorge the widow's houses you have swallowed. But my word is to all those who are legitimately engaged in the business. You ought to be better than other men, not only because of the responsibilities that rest upon you, but because the truth is ever confronting you that your stay on earth is uncertain, and your life a matter of a few days or years. Do not these black edged letters that come into your office make you think? Does not the doctor's certificate on the death claim give you a thrill? Your periodicals, your advertisements, and even the lithography of your policies [illegible] to your own showing the chances that you will die this year are at least 3 per cent. Are you prepared for the tremendous exigency? The most condemned man in the judgment day will be the unprepared life insurance man, for the simple reason that his whole business was connected with human exit, and he cannot say: "I did not think." His whole business was to think on that one thing. O, my brother, get insured for eternity. In consideration of what Christ has done in your behalf, have the indenture this day made out, signed and sealed with the red seal of the cross.

But I have words of encouragement and comfort for those of my hearers who are engaged in the fire insurance business. You are ordained by God to stand between us and the most raging element of nature. We are indebted to you for what the national board of underwriters and the convention of chiefs of the fire department have effected through your suggestions and through your encouragement. We are indebted to you for what you have effected in the construction of buildings, and in the change in the habits of our cities; so that by scientific principles orderly companies extinguish the fire, instead of the old time riots which used to extinguish the citizens. And we are indebted to you for the successful demands you have made for the repeal of unjust laws—for the battle you have waged against incendiarism and arson—for the fatal blow you have given to the theory that corporations have no souls, by the cheerfulness and promptitude with which you have met losses from which you might have escaped through technicality of the law. I do not know any class of men in our midst more high toned and worthy of confidence than these men, and yet I have sometimes feared that while your chief business is to calculate about losses on earthly property, you might without sufficient thought go into that which, in regard to your soul, in your own parlance might be called "hazards," "extra hazards," "special hazards." An unforgiven sin in the soul is more inflammable and explosive than camphene or nitro-glycerine. However the rates may be—yea, though the whole earth were paid down to you in one solid premium—you cannot afford to lose your soul. Do not take that risk lest it be said hereafter that while in this world you had keen business faculty, when you went out of the world you went out everlastingly insolvent. The scientific Hitchcocks and Sillimans and Mitchells of the world have united with the sacred writers to make us believe that there is coming a conflagration to sweep across the earth, compared with which that of Chicago in 1881, and that of Boston in 1872, and that of New York in 1835, were mere nothing, Brooklyn on fire! New York on fire! Charleston on fire! San Francisco on fire! Canton on fire! St. Petersburg on fire! Paris on fire! London on fire! the Andes on fire! the Appenines on fire! the Himalaya on fire! What will be peculiar about the day will be that the water with which we put out great fires will itself take flame; and the Mississippi, and the Ohio, and the St. Lawrence, and Lake Erie, and the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and tumbling Niagara, shall with red tongues lick the heavens. The geological heats of the center of the world will burn out toward the circumference, and the heats of the outside will burn down from the circumference to the center, and this world will become not only according to the Bible, but according to science, a living coal, the living coal afterward whitening into ashes, the ashes scattered by the breath of the last hurricane, and all that will be left of this glorious planet will be the flakes of ashes fallen on other worlds. Oh! on that day will you be fireproof, or will you be a total loss? Will you be rescued, or will you be consumed? When this great cathedral of the world, with its pillars of rocks, and its pinnacles of mountains, and its cellar of golden mine, and its upholstery of morning cloud, and its baptismal font of the sea, shall blaze, will you get out on the fire escape of the Lord's deliverance? Oh! on that day for which all other days were made, may it be found that these life insurance men had a paid up policy, and these fire insurance men had given them, instead of the debris of a consumed worldly estate, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

THE CUSTER MASSACRE.

Capt. Harry Horne Says Not a Single Man Came Out Alive.

At Solomon's Wild West show on Ruggles street, near Tremont, Capt. Harry Horne, who has passed many years among the Indians, gave an interesting talk recently on the traits of the Indians. Capt. Horne was with Custer three hours before the battle in which he met his fate. The speaker strongly intimated that others besides the Indians were concerned in the affair. After the battle, while examining the trail to discover the number of Indians in the fight, a network of wire was found stretched in the grass in the valley near the plateau where the battle occurred, the purpose of which was to throw the horses of the soldiers should they attemp to escape, making it an easy matter for the Indians to shoot them down. Not a single man who went into the battle with Custer came out alive, notwithstanding the fact that it has been asserted that a man known as "Curley, the half-breed," escaped.

"That individual," said Capt. Horne, "was with Reno, and rode at his side to the battlefield after the massacre. It has been asserted also that Custer's body was found neatly rolled up in a blanket. On the contrary, he was found lying upon the ground with his men. Custer was led into one of the greatest traps ever set. Reno heard the firing, and while knowing that it was Custer giving battle, waited for 20 minutes before going to his relief and then by a trail which he knew was roundabout. Reno said, when it was suggested that he go to assist Custer, that Custer knew how to get in, and he could get out. All of the bodies were found side by side as they fell, and the Indians had plenty of time to escape. About ten days after the battle, accompanied by certain Government officials, I visited the scene of the battle, and found that the wire had been removed—the field had been fired. Gen. Reno was ordered to Washington and court martialed, but allowed to return to his command. One of his first acts upon his return was to assault a woman. The wife of an officer said to him: 'General, you ought never to hold up your head again after what has happened.' In reply he struck her square in the face with his hand, knocking her down, for which he was again called to account."—Boston Transcript.

Celia Fortune of Kenton, O., was walking through the new Court House at Tiffin with some young friends. Suddenly she stepped up to the marriage record and dared any young man present to take out the papers and make her his. The challenge was accepted by a young man of the party, and the knot was tied at Fostoria the same night.

An aged negro blacksmith, who still does good work at the forge in Ozan, Ark., and who is known as Governor Pickens, is probably the oldest working blacksmith living. He was born in South Carolina March 7, 1787, and was sold on the block in New Orleans and taken to Arkansas in [illegible].

THE SOUL.

"I am weary of life," said the rose
As she leaned to look over the wall;
"I am tired of the garden close,
And the birds, and the bees, and all!"
She was plucked with a careless smile
As a beautiful dame went by,
To bloom on her breast awhile,
And be cast in the dust to die.

"I am tired of the tree," said the bird,
"Of the leaves in the wind and the rain,
Of the trills and the tunes I have heard
And warbled again and again."
He was shut from the sky and the stars
In a cage, like a savage thing,
And beating his breast on the bars
He died, with a broken wing.

"I would go to the war," said the boy;
"I am weary of clover in bloom;
In the rush of the battle is joy,
And I pant for a sabre and plume."
In the face of the foeman he led—
To the wail of the wounded, the moan
Of the dying—and over the dead
He mounted the steps of a throne.

For the soul is a thing that grows—
The soul is a deathless flame;
In the king and the bird and the rose
It was ever the one and the same.
It was born of a beam of the sun,
From the heart of the blossom it passed
To the bird and the boy, where it won
The glory it pined for, at last.

—Minnie Irving.

PITH AND POINT.

A deep mystery—The bed of the ocean.—Stockton Prodigal.

Where there is a deficiency of brain you will generally find a preponderance of collar.—Peoria Call.

A Texas photographer advertises to "take a photograph as quick as a mule can kick."—Burlington Free Press.

To the crook that dines in a restaurant the silver spoons are like some kinds of medicine—to be taken after meals.—St. Paul Herald.

A married man remarks that the principal difference between a man's hat and a woman's bonnet is about $12.—Minneapolis Journal.

"There he goes!" We knew a man once who said it was the height of his ambition to hear the people say of him: "There he goes." One day his ambition was gratified, but he was going to the penitentiary.—Siftings

A Philadelphia paper says there is enough beer consumed in the United States every year to float all the navies in the world. That's nothing. Twenty schooners sometimes come out of one keg.—Washington Critic.

Omaha wife—"What has become of your friend, Fireater?" Omaha husband—"He is still doing the editorial work, but is no longer able to hold a pen and does all his writing by dictation." "Does he dictate to his daughter or his wife?" "To his daughter, of course."—Omaha World.

"Oh, Rowena," exclaimed Voltigera Tapemeasure, dropping on his knees without a struggle, "your beauty fires my heart—" "My daughter," said old Hengist Wheatcorner, entering the room, "I will divide the contract with you: I will fire the rest of him." Which he did.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Cashing Big Checks.

In a gathering recently of five or six men, most of whom are at least reputed to be wealthy, doubt was expressed by each one if there is a man in New York who could draw his check for $1,000,000 and have it honored in actual cash.

One of the group, a prominent financier, said: "I know of an instance not long since which is a fair illustration of these million dollar checks. A London man had a business transaction in which a payment was to be made to him of £68,000. For business reasons he did not wish the checks to be passed as in ordinary business transactions. A check had been given to him on Mills, Glynn, Currie & Co., who are the recognized outside bankers of the Bank of England. He went to them and demanded the cash for the check. They had not so much money on hand and were obliged to ask him to wait until they could go to the Bank of England and procure it. When he had secured the cash he went to the other bankers to make a deposit. The second house refused to accept the money on deposit until he had explained to them in the fullest manner where he got it. They had never had so large a deposit made in cash at one time. They would not accept it without knowing where it came from, and looked upon him with suspicion for having so much cash in his possession until he had explained the circumstances of his business. Of course the Bank of England had money enough to meet such a check or a much larger one, the same as the United States Treasury would be able to meet a great demand. But the fact that £68,000 should be a stumper for two of the biggest banking establishments of London indicate how small a part actual cash plays in the business transactions of the day."—New York Tribune.

A Few Amiable Delusions.

That our best girl is perfection personified.

That our children are phenomenally bright.

That the man who does not share our political opinions is either an idiot or a rascal.

That we could edit a paper with great success.

That dullness is profundity.

That vulgarity is wit.

That our friends would get along a great deal better if they would only follow our advice.

That we possess unusual histrionic talent.

That we can prevent our son from falling in love with the first girl he meets, just as we did.—Tid-Bits.

Professionals.

"Beautiful!" said the [illegible]. "Sixty birds in two hours, and only missed two shots."

A quiet gentleman sitting in a corner of the hotel office put down his paper, rushed across the room and grasped him warmly by the hand. "Allow me to congratulate you, sir," he said; "I am a professional myself."

"Professional [illegible]?"

"No, professional liar."

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 25, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - -	$1.50
One copy six months - - -	75
One copy four " - - -	50

Dr. C. M. Howard died at his home in Autauga county last week. He was a noble citizen.

Alabama's "great and growing newspaper," the Advertiser, seems just a little spiteful towards Georgia's "great and growing newspaper," the Constitution.

Duke the negro editor went to Tuscaloosa. But it seems that somebody hinted that that was the wrong place for him, so he batted his eyes about three times and left for Tennessee.

Somebody has accused Dr. J. B. Hawthorne of plagiarism in appropriating a temperance lecture from Dr. Strong's little book "Our Country." Well, plagiarism is a small crime compared with tippling stagger juice.

We again call the attention of the Montgomery Dispatch to the diabolical effrontery of its proof reader. A telegram from this place in its columns Saturday said the hot well boom here would make some of the other Alabama booms "pale into significance." We hope when the Dispatch hears from the hot well again it will think the last word should be "insignificance."

There are numbers of scalawags in Alabama to-day who have been associates and political pals of the negro Jesse Duke in the dark past of our State's history, and they would rejoice and endorse all that Duke has written or could write if by that means Blaine could be elected President to give them place of preferment. They are lower and viler than the scoundrel Duke, though they may be able to associate with decent people.

Good gracious! Do you want to know anything more about the Smith family. At the annual ball of the Pickwick Club of Prattville Friday night, the following couples were present among others: W. D. Smith, Jr., and Miss Maggie Smith; C. Smith and Miss Bertha Smith; T. McKeithen and Miss Joe Smith; D. Morgan and Miss Clara Smith; Z. Smith and Miss Marion Ellis; John Smith and Miss Mary J. Smith. The Smiths of Prattville agree with Solomon that there is a time to dance, and they attend unanimously.

The Chicago Herald has a clear and concise way of stating facts which is refreshing. In a recent article on "Color—North and South," it says: "The difference between the North and the South in this regard is that the negro enjoys perfect equality in theory and no equality in fact, while in the South both fact and theory agree in denying him equality and relegating him to a sphere by himself. This he knows and understands, and he expects nothing else. As a consequence the Northern negro, being actually barred out of any actual social commerce with the Northern white, and not being specifically encouraged to improve himself on his own account and by his own means, does nothing. He is an outcast and knows it. At the South, on the contrary, he has his society, and wishing or expecting no other he has improved it and improves himself in consequence. Norther sentiment is vitiated by a moral color-blindness which amounts to hypocrisy, that does no one any good and does the negro much harm."

"Here is a shoe shop. One man in the shop is always busy at work during the day—always industrious. In the evening he goes courting some nice girl. There are five other men in the shop who don't do any such thing. They spend their evenings in dissipation. The first young man by and by cuts cut these others and gets a boot and shoe shop of his own. Then he marries the girl. Soon he is able to take his wife out to ride of an evening. The five laborers, his former companions, who see him in this luxury, retire to a neighboring saloon and pass a resolution that there is an eternal struggle between capital and labor."

Exchange.

There is a point in the above, which is clipped scond-hand from an exchange, and that point shows that the men who are generally found inveighing against their more fortunate neighbors, are the men who have done the least to advance their own condition. They spend their time and their money in carousing dissipation, and when a companion, by his energy, industry, economy, and perseverance, has outstripped them and embraced his opportunities for bettering his condition in the world, then they become envious and are willing to impute the basest of reasons for his success. They never think to ask themselves why they have not succeeded. Is there any thing in the above picture that suggests that the success of the young man was due to any grinding process exercised on his fellows? No, neither can their failure be attributed to his success.

Can a man expect corn to grow from lettuce seed, or to reap wheat from wild onion stalks? Yet it is just as reasonable to think this as to think a man will ever be any better off who spends his time in idleness and his money for drink. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

The View and the Register.

Among other things being republished just now from newspapers edited by negroes, the following extract is from a paper called the Atlanta Defiance:

As Crispus Attucks spilled his blood that the tree of liberty may be watered, so will we drain the swamps and ditches with ours, that the negro have his rights. We are a people and an important component part of this country. Rights we must have, rights we will have.

This extract may be all rot and no poetry. But such teachings will have their effect upon the ignorant. If, as the Montgomery Dispatch apprehends there is likely to be trouble in the South in the future between the races, it is to be greatly hoped that the white radicals who are all along making political capital from such teachings, will be the first to reap their just reward. Let it be so, even though in putting them out the way it may be necessary to also shelve some of the weak-kneed white innocents with whom the black-hearted rascals are often seen chumming.

Notwithstanding its attitude on the great coon drill, we are glad to note that the Mobile Register upholds these sentiments, and is getting right again, by coming squarely over on the side of the white man—the side of intelligence and good government. The Register has recovered from its temporary dementia and now sees clearly that neither the "negro question" nor the "radical question" are dead in this country, nor yet sleeping.

And Still the Wonder Grew.

[Atlanta Journal.]

The three following paragraphs are from the United Herald, the paper edited by Smith Easley, colored, who came to this office four days ago to ask a correction of some violent articles attributed to his paper under plea that his white patrons objected to them. Since then the editorial column of the Herald penned the following:

"The negroes of Montgomery, Ala., are not fit for spittoons for the devil."

"The cowardly curs of Montgomery, Ala., should trot their apple carts up to Atlanta. A little Georgia lead will be sufficient for the curs of Alabama."

"Editor Dukes, of the Montgomery, Ala., Herald, either lied at first or he was too much of a coward to hold his own at the final test. We have lost all respect for the editor of the Herald, of Montgomery, Ala.

THE WHIPPING MACHINE.

Its Revival Sadly Needed in Many Schools.

The Tuskaloosa Gazette republishes the school advertisement of Wm. M. Price, who taught the young idea away back in the twenties. The heading and all is as follows:

"TUSKALOOSA THRASHING MACHINE FOR THE MORAL AND INTELLECTUAL IMPROVEMENT OF YOUTH.

I announce to the citizens of Tuskaloosa and the commonwealth of Alabama, that I have opened the session of this wonder-working machine on the 20th ultimo, and the machinery is now like Wiggism, undergoing thorough repair, and will by Monday next, be refitted for the operations of another toilsome siege. At which time the third session will commence and continue until the last of October.

Those persons having subjects for this machine are invited to avail themselves of its advantages, provided they are well pleased with the salutary influence it has over mind and morals when judiciously applied to the external surface of the patient. Those to whose nice, refined and highly sublimated sensibilites it is obnoxious, are particularly requested to quarter their little urchins in some other factory of morals and intellects more congenial to their own, and where manual labor is reduced down to a specie currency—for my wages are not reduced yet as you will now see.

The necessary fees attending this machine are, in the intellectual department as follows: For orthography, reading and writing, $20; for English grammar, geography and arithmetic, $25; for Latin Greek and higher branches, $30.

In the moral department, that is for the use wear and tear of the machinery, $1.25. This last fee I have certainly put down too low; I do it in order to indicate the remarkably low estimate placed upon the morals of our country.

The above fees must be paid to Messrs. Vaughn and Cidder, on or by the close of the first quarter, in the paper currency of our own State institutions. WM. M. PRICE."

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

We had a nice rain on Monday.

Some of the farmers are afraid their cotton crop will be injured by the rust.

Miss Lula DuBose has been on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Berry, of Orrville.

Mrs. DuBose, of Orrville, is on a visit to her mother, Mrs. Goodwin.

Mr. Fletcher McCary, of Birmingham, spent several days in our village last week. DUNCE.

Swift Creek.

Rev. Mr. Taylor filled his regular appointment at Pilgrim's Rest last Sunday and baptized eight applicants at Mill's bridge.

Crops are good over here.

J. M. Patrick and J. F. Chambers had a little difficulty last Saturday. Patrick's mule got into Chambers' field and was shut in by Chambers. Patrick's wife tried to get him to give it up. But Chambers said nay. So Patrick went over and Chambers asked what he was going to do. Patrick said he was going to take his mule home. Chambers told him he would show him about that, and made at him, but before he could get hold of him, Patrick gave him a "dry joke" on the head, and then all of the family came out and set the dogs on Patrick, and Patrick had to "hit the grit" and leave his mule in care of Chambers and family.

I saw Bill Dad with a young lady last Sunday. Bill is a nice young man, about the size of Simon Clarke.

Excuse this letter and I will do better. NAIL DRIVER.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. C. W. Hare, editor of the Alabama Baptist, preached for us Sunday. He has purchased a house and lot from Mr. Haralson and will be a permanent resident of our village.

Col. S. W. John, wife and daughter, of Selma, are with Mrs. Clisby; Mr. Carlisle Jones, of Selma, with Dr. Caffey's sons.

F. G. Caffey has been elected principal of Furman Academy.

Rev. B. H. Crumpton will begin a protracted meeting at the Baptist church first Sunday in Sept.

Mr. Foster Elsberry of Decatur; Misses Cora and Estelle Simon, of New Orleans, are at the Clifton.

Mr. A. M. Baldwin and wife, of Montgomery, spent Sunday with Col. Baldwin.

W. L. Chambers and family left for Virginia Springs and R. S. Laneir for Baltimore.

Mrs. A. J. Brooks and daughter have returned from Blount Springs.

Mrs. M. P. Watt and daughter have returned to Mrs. Gibson's.

Mr. Mitchell Williamson, of Birmingham, Miss Emma Terry, of Virginia and Mrs. Bird Merriwether, of Snowdown, are visiting Dr. Williamson's family.

Several of our citizens attended a Methodist pic-nic at Ruhamah church Friday last. Quite a success. Everybody had a good time.

All the young people of our village enjoyed the big fish fry given by Mr. Higgins on Coosa river last week.

Jemison Locals.

The Rev. Mr. Armstrong preached two excellent sermons at the Presbyterian church Sunday. He also administered the ordinance of baptism to several children.

Died, on Friday, the 19th inst., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Allen. We tender our sympathies to the bereaved parents.

Mr. J. L. Skaggs has been dangerously ill for some days, but we are glad to note that he is better and hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Mrs. C. H. Smith and Mrs. Luckett are back at home after an absence of some weeks.

Mrs. McMeans, of Brewton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. H. Smith.

Miss Birdie Deramus, of Autauga, is visiting relatives in Jemison.

Mr. J. B. Wooley is visiting friends here, and we hope he will come back to live. He is an excellent young man and has a host of friends in Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bristow have removed to Tuskaloosa to live. Mrs. B. was one of the Jemison girls, and as she is a most excellent lady we regret exceedingly to give her up.

Messrs. J. R. Hill and S. J. Luckett have been absent visiting Shelby county for a week. The presumption is that they are off on a courting expedition. Success to them.

Jemison downs Clanton on the big beet. Mr. J. H. Gibbons raised one in his garden that weighed eight pounds. Next. X. Y. Z.

No family should be without Ellis' Magic Oil Liniment, the greatest external remedy known. It cures all aches and pains. Price 25 cents per bottle, at W. H. Phillips.

The Piedmont Exposition.

ATLANTA, Ga. August 20.—The programme of the Piedmont Exposition, which opens here on October 10th, is issued to-day. It shows that Birmingham, Anniston, Rome, Gadsden, Decatur, Sheffield, Talladega, Tallapoosa and other mineral and manufacturing centres, and seven railroad companies in the Piedmont region will make an elaborate collection of exhibits of agricultural and industrial products minerals and woods. These collective exhibits will make the largest and best exposition of Southern resources ever seen. One thousand men are at work providing extra space to accommodate the exhibits.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

—SUCH AS—

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Wanted!

To purchase 50 head of calves and yearlings from six months to one and a half years old. Will pay spot cash.

J. F. MAULL,
Maull's Mill, near Strasburg, Ala.
aug25-4t

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE.

Pupils in attendance last session 211. Officers engaged 19.

Twenty-eighth session opens Wednesday, Sept. 14.

For catalogues apply to
ALONZO HILL,
aug18-1m] President.

A. J. MASSEY,
OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

☞ Will go far and near.
Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

M. C. McRee,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries,
—AND—
General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

NOTICE NO. 6561.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the followidg named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Lowery J. Glasscock, homestead 11294 for the s w ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 14, township 24, range 14. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6502.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: John R. Dobbs homestead 14332 for the n w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: H. W. Herbert, John D. Wyatt, Madison Popwell, John Popwell.

jul 28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6500.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: Frank E. Fuller, Homestead 12969, for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec 14, township 20, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said lands, viz: John Klinner, Robert M. Robuck, William F. Robuck and Richard Coe, all of Stanton, Ala.

jul28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6501.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 10, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Broadhead, Homestead 13128 for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec. 12, township 22, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William A. Smith, George Rocker, Martin Hester and William H. Foshee, Jr., all of Dixie, Ala.

jul28* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

I. B. BOWDOIN
DEALER IN
Family Groceries,
CLANTON, ALA.

I will keep on hand for sale, a nice line of Family Groceries, such as may be desired by the Clanton trade, and will sell as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. f 24 6

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR Books, Stationery,
Musical Instruments,
Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

THE
Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

MARRIAGE GUIDE

260 PAGES. Illustrated. In Cloth and Gilt Binding, 50c. money or stamps. Same, paper cover, 25c. This Book contains ALL the curious, doubtful or inquisitive want to know. Full of very interesting and valuable information. HEALTH, BEAUTY and HAPPINESS are promoted by its advice—who may Marry, who not, why; Medical Aid, when necessary, brought home to you. 50 Wonderful PEN PICTURES, true to life. Young or old, married or single, sick or well, should read it. Sent sealed by DR. WHITTIER, St. Louis, Mo. CUT THIS OUT AND SEND WITH ORDER.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. ☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

L & N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOMERY, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
(3) Louisville, Ky.

THE CHICAGO
COTTAGE
ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, mailed.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1928 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,
—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—
DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,
Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,
Birmingham, Ala.
Your Orders Solicited.
[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

WILSON HOUSE.
A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salesrooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES.
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Wool Carding.

Now is the time to get your wool carded. Our cards are in fine order. Ship to
E. G. WALKER,
Montevallo, Ala.

Subscribe for the View.

Now is a good time to place Fall advertisements

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., AUG. 25, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.

—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

From Psalm LXVIII.

Gracious Father bow thine ear,
  Poor and needy tho' I be
Keep my soul from death and fear,
  Let thy mercies dwell with me.

May my soul in thee rejoice—
  Thou art ready to forgive,
Listen to the suppliants voice,
  Give me grace that I may live.

In my trouble I will call
  On thy name, for thou wilt hear,
Thou my Savior, art my all,
  Thou wilt lend a listening ear.

Teach me Lord thy holy way.
  I will praise thee with my heart,
I will praise, and I will pray.
  Let me ne'er from thee depart.

Mr. Joe Beasley has located in Birmingham.

Rev. J. C. Armstrong, of Birmingham, is visiting friends in Clanton.

Mrs. S. J. Brock is spending some time with her parents in this place.

Mrs. W. H. Phillips has returned from an extended visit to relatives in Opelika.

Misses DeLaney and Mattie Duke, of this place, are visiting Nashville.

Mrs. Wallis Glover, of Pratt Saw Mill, spent one day with friends in Clanton last week.

We understand that Mr. Chas. Phillips, of Opelika, still intends moving to Clanton.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Rev. C. W. Hare, editor of the Alabama Baptist, was in Clanton Monday on a prospecting visit.

Remember to put the little amount you owe the VIEW in your pocket when you come to court.

Mr. J. F. Maull, near Strasburg, wants to purchase fifty head of calves and yearlings. See notice.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

Mr. M. C. McRee has an advertisement in the VIEW this week to which attention is invited. Give him a call.

Butler & Gatchell, Selma, Ala., have an advertisement on the fourth page of the VIEW to which we invite the attention of the public.

T. E. Callier & Son, the old reliable merchants, of Dixie, have an advertisement in the VIEW to which we call the attention of our readers.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

We learn that Dr. J. S. Johnson will soon build a store house, on his lot in the rear of Sampey's store, to be used by him as an office and drug store.

Dress Goods at Sampey's.

Ladies, read this. I have just received 3000 yds good calico at 6 cents, 1000 yards good ginghams at 10 cents, 1000 yards cotton checks, 1000 yards sheeting, 1000 yards shirting, 300 yards hickory shirting, 300 yards Scotch Cheviots, a nice lot of worsteds, flannels and linseys. Ladies' and Misses' wool Jerseys at $1.00 and $1.25 each. Brocaded velvet for trimmings 60c. Good bargains in dress buttons—I got them at half price. Come and see for yourselves.

W. L. SAMPEY.

The wife of the junior editor acknowledges the receipt of a basket full of nice apples from Miss Georgia Lowe and returns thanks for them.

Messrs. G. W. Marcus & Bro. have purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., in wagon and blacksmith work, and propose to carry it on at the same stand. They have an advertisement in this paper.

Mr. Willis Lowe brought the VIEW some very fine apples last Saturday. They compared favorably with any we have yet seen, several of them measuring 11½ inches in circumference.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

Remember!

If you find a cross mark (X) on your paper after your name, it means that your subscription is due. Please remit by hand or registered letter.

The gun club had a picnic at their grounds near town on Tuesday. Several gentlemen from Birmingham and Pratt Saw Mill were in attendance. Some good shooting was done and all reported a fine time and lots of fun.

Dr. Caffey, of Verbena, will probably be tendered the position of college physician of Howard College, when the college goes to Birmingham. It is thought that Gen. Stephen D. Lee, of Mississippi will accept the presidency of the college.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn Messrs. H. J. Callen, O. A. Duke, B. H. Chesnutt, E. T. Gullahorn, and W. D. Sartor compose a committee whose duty it is to attend to the laying off lots in our cemetery and they desire to inform the public that any one desiring the exclusive right to a lot in the cemetery can obtain it by applying to any one of them at any time.

Basket Dinner at the Hot Well.

There will be a basket dinner at the hot well on Friday, Sept. 2d, at which time Dr. Massey proposes to demonstrate the genuineness of the well by withdrawing the water. Everybody from far and near is invited to be present with sisters, cousins and aunts. Efforts will be made to obtain special low rates on the railroad for the day.

Errata.

In our article on the merchants last week we spoke of Mr. Gilchrist's adherence "to the gold rule." This was a typographical error susceptible of misconstruction. It should have been "the golden rule," which is this: "Do unto others as you would be done by." We have no doubt, however, that our friend will also adhere to the gold rule if you have no other kind of cash with which to purchase your goods.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

There is no use attempting to disguise the fact that a newspaper is what its home town makes it. If the merchants and others do not advertise and it is forced to fill its available space with foreign advertising, there can be little exhibition of enterprise on the part of the local paper. On the other hand, if the business men of the place are public spirited, they will come to the front and make a showing in the columns of the local paper. They reap immediate advantage from such action, and at the same time call attention to their town, so that the community at large has the benefit of their enterprise.—Ex.

The Hot Well.

Dr. A. J. Massey, of this place has secured a lease of the Hot Well at Clanton for a number of years, and he is now engaged in the erection of a commodious hotel and bath houses on the grounds.

Considerable doubt yet exists among the minds of many as to the genuineness of the well, and to remove this the Dr. will take steps to have the truth displayed so that none can doubt.

Pending this it may be said that if the well is genuine the Dr. has captured a veritable bonanza, and his friends in Rockford hope that such will be the case.

Rockford Enterprise.

Proprietary Medicines.

A visit to Dr. Green's Laboratory, at Woodbury, N. J., has considerably changed our views, and especially our prejudices in regard to what are generally known as "Standard Patent Medicines." Of course we are getting to that age in life when we are forced to conclude life itself is a humbug, and naturally distrust anything that has not withstood long and tried experiences. Being a physician I had the curiosity to know how such a sale of two medical preparations could be sustained for so many years. The perfect system upon which the business is conducted, and the pharmaceutical arrangements for the manufacture of the two recipes with which we were made acquainted, are sufficiently convincing to us that the August Flower, for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaints, and Boschee's German Syrup, for Throat and Lung Troubles, were for the complaints they are recommended, most excellent remedies, and only regret that in much of our practice, medical ethics prevent us from prescribing them without making the formulas public. When we were shown the great quantity of voluntary letters having been forwarded Dr. Green, from all parts of the country, and from all classes of people, lawyers, ministers and doctors, giving a description of their ailments, testimonials of their cures, etc., I feel like endorsing Dr. Green's suggestion that the Government accept such valuable formulas, and license them for general use by giving protection to the inventor same as patents generally.—Copied from N. Y. Druggists' Circular of October, 1886.

Uncle Pete.

MR. EDITOR:—I want you to give me and uncle Pete some good advice. Uncle Pete has a good mill and gin, but we have done so bad that people won't let us grind for them, and I don't think they will let us gin their cotton. Uncle Pete is always abusing somebody and is as sharp as a brier. Some people don't think he has got more than half sense, but Uncle Pete has got more sense than they think. He has got enough sence to go behind people's backs to talk about them. Uncle Pete is old and childish and don't think people ought to pay any attention to him. Uncle Pete is a powerful warrior, but he never gets to fight any one because he always backs everybody out and says what he pleases after he gets off from them. Uncle Pete is not an overbearing man. He is too little for that though he says he feels like he would weigh one thousand pounds, and he feels too stout to do ordinary work. Now, Mr. Editor, as I know you are a man of sense, I want you to tell us what to do. You know we want to gin all the cotton.

D.

Ah, Sonny, your Uncle Peter only needs to advertise to get all the work he wants and grow rich.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicine in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cedts remain the same size.

In the decline of life infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

First Farmer—"Ever been up to the city?" Second Farmer—"Once." "Only once eh? Got took in, did ye?" "Yes, but I'm getting them there city folks now." "Ye air? How?" I'm takin' city boarders."—Omaha World.

Times without number has the world paid tribute to a mother's devotion. Further evidence of her love for her children is the fact that she appreciates White's Cream Vermifuge the great remedy for worms. Good mothers know its value, and use it promptly when they observe symptoms of worms, thereby restoring their children to perfect health.

Never be sorry for any generous thing that you ever did, even if it was betrayed. Never be sorry that your were magnanimous, if the person was mean afterwards. Never be sorry that you gave, it was right for you to give, even if you were imposed upon. You cannot afford to keep on the safe side by being mean.—Ex.

There are remedies and remedies, but no preparation has ever been compounded to equal White's Cream Vermifuge as a worm medicine. It is absolutely pure, safe simple and efficacious and no mother who has tried it but pronounces it not only a success, but the only worm medicine that positively accomplishes all that is claimed for it.

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds. Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos. Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

DAVID JACKSON, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE C° ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL. — 30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. — DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO. ATLANTA, GA. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

aug10-1y

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

NOTICE NO. 6621.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., July 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17, 1887, viz: Henry H. Herbert, Homestead 12524 for the n w ¼ sec 22 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: N. A. Dobbs, John D. Wyatt, A. C. Duke, and W. A. Jones, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug3 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6569.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 23rd, 1887, viz: James C. Williams, homestead 13282, for the w ½ of se ¼ and sw ¼ of ne ¼, sec 12, township 20, range 13. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: William I Mullins, William C. Dickerson, Thomas W. Weldon and J. H. Griffis, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6559.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 24th, 1887, viz: Oma Hill, homestead 10336, for the s e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 14 township 24 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6560.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 9, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Thomas Craddock, homestead 10230 for the n ½ of s w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14 township 24 north range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George B. Glasscock, and Lowery J. Glasscock, of Shelby Iron Works, Ala., Elijah Headley and Samuel L. Arledge, of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce.

mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1st AVE. AND 21st STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala.

[aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS, COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box [illegible]. [July6]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,

Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen: Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜

Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,

Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER.

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor,

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

Ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not [illegible] satisfactory [illegible] and get your [illegible] sale by W. H. Phillips.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.

DEALERS IN

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,

Avondale, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager.

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

Business Education

Commercial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.

The Cheapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education. Its Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.

Highest Honor (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of Book-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.

Students can begin at any time, as they are instructed individually, by 10 teachers. No vacation.

FULL COURSE embraces extensive and practical Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Mercantile Correspondence, Banking, Practice, Lectures, &c., &c.

TIME AND COST. It requires from 2 to 3 months to complete the Full Business Course at a total cost of about $90, which includes Tuition, Books, and Board in a nice family. When two or more enter together a reduction of $5 is made on each one's tuition. No charge for reviewing Course.

PHONOGRAPHY, TYPE-WRITING and TELEGRAPHY are specialties and have special teachers and separate rooms. Literary Course free for remainder of session under 10 professors. Over 800 students from 21 States and Foreign Countries in attendance last year. Kentucky University Diploma, under seal, presented its students on graduation.

Lexington, Ky. contains nearly 30,000 inhabitants, is beautiful, healthy, historical, and easily accessible, being situated on the leading rail-roads from the North, South, East and West. For circulars address its President,

WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

The Chilton View Job Office,

IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR

JOB PRINTING,

SUCH AS

NOTE HEADS,

LETTER HEADS,

BILL HEADS,

ENVELOPES,

CARDS,

COMMISSARY CHECKS,

CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS

OF ALL KINDS,

NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.

SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

One Man's Dangerous Occupation in New York.

A Current That Would Kill an Army in a Second.

In a Broadway basement, at the corner of John street, writes a New York correspondent, is a circular iron plate on whose surface raised letters indicate that it belongs to Mr. Thomas A. Edison, America's greatest inventor. Every other evening about 8 o'clock, after the busy thoroughfare has been deserted by every son of toil, excepting it may be the thirsty tramp and the thirstier policeman, an intelligent, neatly dressed man, carrying a medium-sized box, emerges from the dusk and stops at the plate. From the box he draws a singular looking rug about two feet square and four inches thick, composed of loosely wound and more loosely woven cotton wick. On this he kneels and, then with a queer assortment of cold chisels, cleaners, jimmies and wrenches removes the plate after much toil from the metal frame in which it was so firmly set. Beneath is a large square chamber whose walls and floor seem to be incrusted metal. Near both top and bottom are ponderous rings of polished copper separated and held in place by unrecognizable pads and washers of some dark substance that looks like silky India rubber. From each ring wires radiate, passing through the walls of the chamber and losing themselves in the earth below the pavement. The man covers his hand with a rubber glove and works a few minutes with the complicated attachments, here removing a piece, there tightening a screw, here changing the positions of a wire and there inserting an insular. As he paused I asked him which of the many electric systems begotten in Menlo Park he was engaged upon.

"This time upon the Edison illuminating, though I superintend several others and frequently am called in to consult upon electrical matters by outside concerns. To-night I am testing and regulating."

"Why do you take so many precautions?"

"Partly for my own safety and partly for the sake of doing first-class work. You see there is a current moving through those two mains, as we call them, that could kill 100,000 men in an instant. If through carelessness I put myself in its way and got its full force that would be the last of me. A year ago I was a little thoughtless or clumsy, and slightly 'grounded the negative main.' That is, I touched that upper ring of copper when one knee was on the bare paving stone. Here's what the current did." He rolled up his coat and shirt sleeve, and displayed a muscular arm that looked as if it had been engraved with a chisel and then eaten with nitric acid to produce an etching plate. "I was in the hospital over a month for that, and it was so tough a lesson that I'll never forget it. I'll show you how strong that current is." He took a broken pair of fine pliers, and holding them with a cleft piece of wood touched one end of the upper copper ring and one to the steel cover rim. In an instant the gray metal broke into sparks and flame. He removed it with the remark: "That current would burn up a crowbar or a lamppost if it were properly directed."

"Is there much danger?"

"There used to be, but it grows smaller every day as we know more about handling electricity. It's like a horse sometimes that runs away. It will get into railroad tracks and knock a horse over and sometimes kill the animal. Sometimes it leaks out of the wires and gets into a water or steam pipe and then paralyzes some of these Italians you see digging up the streets nowadays. They think it's the devil and hold a prayer meeting."

Mabel's Singing.

"Did you hear me singing, papa?" asked Mabel, as she tripped merrily into the room.

"I did, my child, I did."

"And how did you like it, papa dear?"

"I can't say that I enjoyed it very much."

"Not enjoy my singing?"

"Well perhaps it wasn't the singing I didn't like. It might have been the composition. Yes I think that it was the selection. I could have suggested considerable improvement upon it."

"How, papa. What change would you make?"

"I think the composition would sound much better if it were transformed into one, long, sweet, continuous rest."

And Mabel went and shut the piano with all her might.—[Merchant Traveler.

Fashions in Cocked Hats.

The three-cornered hat, of which Louis XIV. was the great patron, enjoyed a long popularity, although it underwent, in the course of a hundred years or so, as many changes as the renowned knife of that sentimental sailor, who, after having the instrument thrice rebladed and once fitted with a new handle, regarded it as a "keepsake" still. The fierce little hat of Marlborough's days, with its Ramillies cock, its broad lace and the dainty snow-white edging of tiny, down feathers, differed much from the "opera hat" of our great grandsires, the chapeau bras of the French; a slim contrivance, that was made to be worn under the arm rather than on the head, and which never seemed quite in its right place when it was perched on the frizzled and powdered locks of its owner.—[Hatter and Furrier.

A MAN WITHOUT A JAW.

Wounded with a Poisoned Spear in an African Jungle.

A man without a jaw is Michael Castelar, who was recently admitted as a patient to Roosevelt Hospital, N. Y. The Herald says:

He is a Spaniard, about fifty years old, and has spent much of his time at sea.

Three years ago the bark on which he was acting as mate was driven ashore on the coast of Africa in a hurricane. Three sailors beside Castelar were the only ones who survived the shipwreck, and one of the sailors fortunately had been a member of an expedition that had gone into the interior several years before in search of ivory and was familiar with the country and the habits of the natives. To get to the nearest civilized settlement required a journey of about seven hundred miles through thick jungles and miasmatic lowlands and over lofty mountains. The four started on the wearisome march. At the end of a month two of the sailors died of fever, and after their bodies had been decently buried the survivors pressed on to a place of safety.

There was plenty of food in the wild growing vegetation, bird's nests and small game, and much danger from the wild beasts and ferocious natives. The two men always avoided the natives whenever it was possible, but on several occasions there were hand to hand conflicts and the travelers had many a wound to testify to the agility of the native born citizens. On one occasion Castelar, while fighting with a native, was struck in the face by a long spear-like weapon the point of which was driven through both cheeks. Castelar grabbed the weapon and with a dexterous thrust sent it into the black man's heart. He carried the thing with him afterward. Some leaves that the sailor gathered checked the hemorrhage from the severe wound, and when they got into the settlement, about ten days later, the wound seemed to be healing well.

An English surgeon was visited, and to save disfigurement from the imperfect healing, he reopened the wound and sewed it up in the regular way. But the wound did not heal as readily as had been anticipated, and the flesh sloughed away in a surprising manner. Castelar lost flesh, became exceedingly weak and in time his skin became a dark copper color. Then the surgeon, on examining the weapon with which the wound was made, found that it was the travjah or poisonous spear. The head of the spear is dipped in a vegetable poison known only to the natives, which, though it acts slowly, is believed by them to produce certain death. An antidote was given and had the effect of improving the patient's condition and rendering the skin a natural color. The external wound in the cheek closed, but there was constant soreness and twinges of pain in both jaws.

Castelar was so completely run down that he was advised to take a sea voyage, and when a tramp steamer came into the port he shipped on her, bound for China and then to this city. Throughout the long voyage Castelar did not have a moment's peace. The motion of the vessel seemed to aggravate the pain in his jaws, and on the trip from China here he would have been turned over to the fishes if the captain had not been unusually mild for his calling. The day of his arrival he was removed to Roosevelt Hospital, and his case was carefully studied in the light of the history of the injury.

From the symptoms and the gradual decline in the patient's health the conclusion was reached by Dr. Spencer that the patient had a cancerous tumor involving both jaws. As to how far the condition of the jaws was due to the inoculation from the poison was a matter of doubt. Some of the consulting physicians held that it had nothing to do with it. But it was decided that extirpation of the jaw was necessary. The patient was taken to the operating room the day after his admission to the hospital and placed under the influence of ether, and the operation was successfully and skillfully performed. What was left did not look much like a face.

The wound has now nearly healed, the patient is recovering strength, but his face is as flat as a pancake. An attempt will be made as soon as the tenderness is gone to put in an artificial rubber jaw to give the face a natural appearance. If the patient can get used to the inconvenience there will not be much deformity left in the contour, though, of course, the scars will show something of what he has gone through. Whether there will be a permanent cure cannot be told for a year.

Virtues of Iron Sulphate.

Dr. A. B. Griffiths, an Englishman, has just published a communication which is of great importance to horticulturists and agriculturists. He demonstrates that iron sulphate is an antidote for many of the most virulent epidemics which attack field and garden crops. The iron sulphate destroys the cellulose of the funguses, but does not affect that of the attacked plant. It is, therefore, an antidote and destroyer of such parasite germs and funguses as the potato disease, wheat mildew, etc.

Virginia City, Nev., is gradually sinking into the earth, the supports left in her great mines not being strong enough to hold her weight.

P. T. Barnum has offered $20,000 for the capture and delivery to him, or his agent, of the famous sea-serpent of Lake Champlain, dead or alive, provided that the serpent is more than fifty feet long.

An Offensive Breath

Is most distressing, not only to the person afflicted if he have any pride, but to those with whom he comes in contact. It is a delicate matter to speak of, but it has parted not only friends but lovers. Bad breath and catarrh are inseparable. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases, as thousands can testify.

A sun motor is the latest invention of John Ericsson who designed the "Monitor."

No investment pays so well as a good education, as is clearly shown by the record of the Alumni of the RUGBY SCHOOL, LOUISVILLE, KY. It offers the best advantages, and enjoys the highest class of patronage. For fifteen years it has stood with the foremost in preparing boys for college or business life. The terms are reasonable. Send for catalogue to

A. L. McDONALD, Principal.

The Bluegrass Country.

John H. Jones, Tuttle, Ky., writes: I have been selling medicine for seventeen years, I pronounce Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial the best I ever sold. It gives joy to every mother.

It is a Pleasure,

Writes Mrs. Eliza Ann Smith, of Vermillion, Erie Co., Ohio, to tell the ladies everywhere that nothing surpasses Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic for all irregularities. "It cured me when the physicians and all other remedies failed."

* * * * Organic weakness or loss of power in either sex, however induced, speedily and permanently cured. Enclose 10 cents in stamps for book of particulars. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Hirsh Harris, a Polish Jew, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., at the advanced age of 109 years.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Dr. Thompson's Eye-water. All druggists sell it at 25c. a bottle.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is agreeable to use. It is not a liquid or a snuff. 50c.

Children Starving To Death

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. Cohen, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

The Jubilee editorial in the British London Times was over eleven columns long.

Especially to Women.

"Sweet is revenge, especially to women," said the gifted, but naughty, Lord Byron. Surely he was in bad humor when he wrote such words. But there are complaints that only women suffer, that are carrying numbers of them down to early graves. There is hope for those who suffer, no matter how sorely, or severely, in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Safe in its action it is a blessing, especially to women, and to men, too, for when women suffer, the household is askew.

Chatham Co., N. C., has a venerable mule that is known to be fifty-seven years old.

Old pill boxes are spread over the land by the thousands after having been emptied by suffering humanity. What a mass of sickening, disgusting medicine the poor stomach has to contend with. Too much strong medicine. Prickly Ash Bitters is rapidly and surely taking the place of all this class of drugs, and is curing all the ills arising from a disordered condition of the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels.

The "Y's" is the name of a new society fast spreading. "Social purity" is the aim.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Good Health

You cannot have without pure blood; therefore, to keep well, purify the blood by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine is peculiarly designed to act upon the blood, and through that upon all the organs and tissues of the body. It has a specific action, also, upon the secretions and excretions, and assists nature to expel from the system all humors, impure particles and effete matter through the lungs, liver, bowels, kidneys and skin. It effectually aids weak, impaired and debilitated organs, invigorates the nervous system, tones the digestion and imparts new life and energy to all the functions of the body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.

It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.

As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

I found it a specific for Hay Fever. For 10 years I have been a great sufferer from Aug. 9th till frost. Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventive I have ever found. Hay Fever sufferers should know of its efficacy.—Frank B. Ainsworth, Publisher, Indianapolis, Ind.

Apply Balm into each nostril.

HIRES' Improved ROOT BEER Package 25c. Makes 5 gals. of delicious, sparkling, wholesome beverage. Sold by druggists; mailed for 25c. C. E. HIRES, 48 N. Dela. Ave., Phila., Pa.

KIDDER'S

DIGESTYLIN

A SURE CURE FOR

INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.

Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.

We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.

FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.

IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.

For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhoea, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.

Take DIGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty-five years.

WM. F. KIDDER & CO., Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N. Y.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

FOR HORSES.

UVILLA, W. Va., Nov. 17, 1886.

Recently I bought a young horse. He was taken very ill with Pneumonia. I tried to think of something to relieve him. Concluded what was good for man would be good for the horse. So I got a bottle of Piso's Cure and gave him half of it through the nostrils. This helped him, and I continued giving same doses night and morning until I had used two bottles. The horse has become perfectly sound. I can recommend Piso's Cure for the horse as well as for man.

N. S. J. Strider.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,

A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.

☞ Before deciding where to send your daughter to school, write for an illustrated catalogue giving full particulars, to ROBT. D. SMITH, Pres't, Columbia, Tenn.

Central University,

RICHMOND, KY. Next Session opens Sep. 14, '87

Full Faculty, thorough instruction, healthy location, moderate expense. For information and Catalogue apply to L. H. Blanton, D. D., Chancellor.

Milo B. Stevens & Co. GLOVER BUILDING, PENSIONS Washington, D. C.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows—Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D.C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

Gone where the Woodbine Twineth.

Rats are smart, but "Rough on Rats" beats them. Clears out Rats, Mice, Roaches, Water Bugs, Flies, Beetles, Moths, Ants, Mosquitoes, Bed-bugs, Insects, Potato Bugs, Sparrows, Skunks, Weasel, Gophers, Chipmunks, Moles, Musk Rats, Jack Rabbits, Squirrels. 15c. & 25c.

HEN LICE.

"Rough on Rats" is a complete preventive and destroyer of Hen Lice. Mix a 25c. box of "Rough on Rats" to a pail of whitewash, keep it well stirred up while applying. Whitewash the whole interior of the Hennery; inside and outside of the nests. The cure is radical and complete.

POTATO BUGS

For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, Shrubs, Trees, 1 pound or half the contents of a $1.00 box of "Rough on Rats" (Agricultural Size) to be thoroughly mixed with one to two barrels of plaster, or what is better air slacked lime. Much depends upon thorough mixing, so as to completely distribute the poison. Sprinkle it on plants, trees or shrubs when damp or wet, and is quite effective when mixed with lime, dusted on without moisture. While in its concentrated state it is the most active and strongest of all Bug Poisons; when mixed as above is comparatively harmless to animals or persons, in any quantity they would take. If preferred to use in liquid form, a tablespoonful of the full strength "Rough on Rats" Powder, well shaken, in a keg of water and applied with a sprinkling pot, spray syringe or whisk broom, will be found very effective. Keep it well stirred up while using. Sold by all Druggists and Storekeepers. 15c., 25c. & $1.

E. S. Wells, Chemist, Jersey City, N. J.

HARTER'S THE ONLY TRUE IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and Restore the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.

LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the Original and Best.

(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)

THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY, St. Louis, Mo.

MARLIN REPEATING RIFLE BEST IN THE WORLD!

Guaranteed perfectly accurate and absolutely safe. Made in all sizes for large or small game.

BALLARD Gallery, Hunting and Target Rifles. Send for illustrated Catalogue. Marlin Fire Arms Co., New Haven, Conn.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Catalogue.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 38½ S. Broad St. Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

A. N. U. .... Thirty-three, '87

WORDS of PRAISE.

The following words, in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a remedy for those delicate diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women, must be of interest to every sufferer from such maladies. They are fair samples of the spontaneous expressions with which thousands give utterance to their sense of gratitude for the inestimable boon of health which has been restored to them by the use of this world-famed medicine.

$100 THROWN AWAY. John E. Segar, of Millenbeck, Va., writes: "My wife had been suffering for two or three years with female weakness, and had paid out one hundred dollars to physicians without relief. She took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did her more good than all the medicine given to her by the physicians during the three years they had been practicing upon her."

THE GREATEST EARTHLY BOON. Mrs. George Herger, of Westfield, N. Y., writes: "I was a great sufferer from leucorrhea, bearing-down pains, and pain continually across my back. Three bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' restored me to perfect health. I treated with Dr. ——, for nine months, without receiving any benefit. The 'Favorite Prescription' is the greatest earthly boon to us poor suffering women."

THREW AWAY HER SUPPORTER. Mrs. Sophia F. Boswell, White Cottage, O., writes: "I took eleven bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one bottle of your 'Pellets.' I am doing my work, and have been for some time. I have had to employ help for about sixteen years before I commenced taking your medicine. I have had to wear a supporter most of the time; this I have laid aside, and feel as well as I ever did."

IT WORKS WONDERS. Mrs. May Gleason, of Nunica, Ottawa Co., Mich., writes: "Your 'Favorite Prescription' has worked wonders in my case.

Again she writes: "Having taken several bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I have regained my health wonderfully, to the astonishment of myself and friends. I can now be on my feet all day, attending to the duties of my household.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous exhaustion or prostration, another with pain here or there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going and indifferent, or over-busy doctor, separate and distinct diseases, for which he prescribes his pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disorder. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery.

3 PHYSICIANS FAILED. Mrs. E. F. Morgan, of No. 71 Lexington St., East Boston, Mass., says: "Five years ago I was a dreadful sufferer from uterine troubles. Having exhausted the skill of three physicians, I was completely discouraged, and so weak I could with difficulty cross the room alone. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and using the local treatment recommended in his 'Common Sense Medical Adviser.' I commenced to improve at once. In three months I was perfectly cured, and have had no trouble since. I wrote a letter to my family paper, briefly mentioning how my health had been restored, and offering to send the full particulars to any one writing me for them, and enclosing a stamped-envelope for reply. I have received over four hundred letters. In reply, I have described my case and the treatment used, and have earnestly advised them to 'do likewise.' From a great many I have received second letters of thanks, stating that they had commenced the use of 'Favorite Prescription,' had sent the $1.50 required for the 'Medical Adviser,' and had applied the local treatment so fully and plainly laid down therein, and were much better already."

JEALOUS DOCTORS. A Marvelous Cure.—Mrs. G. F. Sprague, of Crystal, Mich., writes: "I was troubled with female weakness, leucorrhea and falling of the womb for seven years, so I had to keep my bed for a good part of the time. I doctored with an army of different physicians, and spent large sums of money, but received no lasting benefit. At last my husband persuaded me to try your medicines, which I was loath to do, because I was prejudiced against them, and the doctors said they would do me no good. I finally told my husband that if he would get me some of your medicines, I would try them against the advice of my physician. He got me six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' also six bottles of the 'Discovery,' for ten dollars. I took three bottles of 'Discovery' and four of 'Favorite Prescription,' and I have been a sound woman for four years. I then gave the balance of the medicine to my sister, who was troubled in the same way, and she cured herself in a short time. I have not had to take any medicine now for almost four years."

THE OUTGROWTH OF A VAST EXPERIENCE.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the uterus, or womb and its appendages, in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It promotes digestion and assimilation of food, cures nausea, weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating and eructations of gas.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, or "whites," excessive flowing at monthly periods, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

In pregnancy, "Favorite Prescription" is a "mother's cordial," relieving nausea, weakness of stomach and other distressing symptoms common to that condition. If its use is kept up in the latter months of gestation, it so prepares the system for delivery as to greatly lessen, and many times almost entirely do away with the sufferings of that trying ordeal.

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women sold, by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, [illegible] Main Street, BUFFALO, N. Y.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	18 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	36 00
¼ Column	16 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1887. NUMBER 43.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

THE CLEARING UP.

At dawn there was no shred of pink,
No ploughing up in clouds of gold
Of that gray field, the eastern sky;
But dim-defined, and white and cold,
The fog's wet wings blew here and there,
The plaintive rain-sounds filled the air.

And all the loitering morning hours,
And all the lagging afternoon,
We've watched the swift, unswerving lines,
And listened to the mellow croon;
But now the tidal turn is near—
Some change pervades the atmosphere.

The crowing of a barnyard fowl
Comes clear and shrill and jubilant,
Borne from some fence's dripping top;
And broken is the silvery slant
Of slender, westward-driven threads
Across the reeking garden beds.

A breeze springs up brimful of scen
And essences all warm and wet,
Of savory herb and spicy weed,
And rose and pink and mignonette,
And rain steeped shrub and odorous root,
And mellow, over-ripened fruit.

From out a white, dissolving cloud
An amber arrow of the sun
Comes flashing, quivering through the mists—
The rainy day is almost done.
The west grows pink, the earth grows fair,
And rain-wrought freshness fills the air.
—Hattie Whitney, in the Current.

BORROWED PLUMES.

An odd-looking figure, arrayed in a shabby cloak and a green veil, appeared before Charles Lorraine, junior partner in the firm of Stearne & Lorraine, book publishers.

"I have a book here I would like to offer you, sir."

There was a quiver in the girlish voice, and the cotton-gloved hand holding the manuscript trembled, in spite of her efforts to be calm.

"Yes, I suppose so; much obliged, but we are not needing anything just at present." And Mr. Lorraine went on with his writing.

"Surely, sir, you do not mean that you will not even look at it?"

"Certainly I mean it; we have no time to waste over manuscripts we do not want."

"But how do you know mine would not be accepted without seeing it? I have spent months—years, I may say—"

"No doubt; so have others who might have been better employed."

"But I have traveled far, at some expense. My case is a peculiar one."

"So are they all; each one has a special plea to urge in offering us a book; so really, madam or miss, you are wasting your time and mine. I must beg you to excuse me from further discussion; I am busy."

"Order me out at once!" came hysterically from the folds of the green veil. "Oh, what will become of me? What shall I do?" And turning around, as though in answer to her own question, she ran straight into the arms of the senior partner, Horace Stearne, who was coming in at that moment.

He had a vision of quivering red lips, startled brown eyes and tear-wet lashes, and then, before he could recover from his astonishment, she was gone.

"Confound it!" Charley was saying. "Can't a man refuse to buy a bundle of grimy manuscript without raising a tempest? By Jove! that young woman has missed her fate by choosing literature—she should go on the stage in high tragedy."

"Did you look at her offering, Charlie?"

"I looked at her; that was enough!"

"You should have allowed her to leave it here a little while, just to satisfy her, you know. Poor child, I suppose she has built upon its acceptance."

He turned to the door and looked up and down the street.

"She is out of sight entirely, now," he added regretfully.

Upon leaving the publishing house the girl kept her veil closely drawn, and, turning into a side street, walked rapidly, but aimlessly, until she reached the outskirts of the city; then, seating herself upon a stone by the wayside, withdrew her veil.

She was not noticeably handsome. Her eyes, although a beautiful brown, were dull with agony; her face was tear-stained and swollen, and her yellow hair dishevelled. It was in the latter part of November, and night was coming on, but this wretched girl was homeless.

Her pitiful story is quickly told. Her father, the only parent she could remember, had been a poor schoolmaster, her mother having died at her birth. He had educated his child himself, with particular care, so at eighteen she was far in advance of most girls of her age, and from her narrow experience, by the aid of a vivid fancy, she had written a novel.

Then suddenly she found herself fatherless, and when the funeral expenses were paid she was the possessor of a library of well thumbed volumes, six dollars in money and her precious novel.

But this in itself was her fortune, and though dazed by her sudden bereavement, she determined to go to the city and turn it into hard cash as speedily as possible.

"I dare not buy a bit of decent mourning yet," she sobbed. "I must save the six dollars to pay my expenses until I get my money."

Poor child! she never dreamed of disappointment. She knew so little of life as it really is—of its hard struggles for small triumphs, its sharp competition and crowded marts. She knew not that

> "For one who wins the crown,
> Hundreds go down, go down!"

So, a business card from the publishing house of Stearne & Lorraine having fallen into her possession, she had carried her precious manuscript straight to them, with what result we already know.

A small dwelling was near where she sat, and several cows were gathering the scant herbage by the wayside. The tinkle of their bells had a soothing effect, and when they turned their meek eyes upon her, she almost felt as though they pitied her misery.

The cottage door opened, and a woman came toward her with a couple of milk pails, and as she knelt to her task, she glanced over her shoulder at the silent figure, looking so pitiful and desolate. She finished her milking, hesitated a moment, and then remarked,—

"Aren't you cold sitting there?"

"Yes."

"Won't you come into my house, and warm yourself? This is a poor place to rest."

The young girl arose and silently followed her.

"What is your name?" she asked, kindly but curiously, as they entered the tiny dwelling, and she proceeded to make her guest comfortable.

"Jennie Morrison, I—

But tears and sobs choked back the rest of the sentence. In an hour the thoughtful, kind-hearted woman, who was a spinster living all alone, knew the whole sad story, and declared she should stay there until something could be done.

"You can keep house until I carry the milk to my customers," she said, briskly.

"Yes, and I'll sell the milk for you, or do anything I can. I'm not afraid to work." And so the poor novel was put away, and the authoress lost in a milkmaid.

One morning, late in February, as Messrs. Lorraine & Stearne sat in their private office, an elegant carriage drew up before the door, and the liveried footman assisted to the pavement a lady, velvet robed and ermine wrapped. She ascended the steps, and in a few seconds stood in the presence of the two young publishers. With quiet dignity she accepted the proffered seat, and then threw back her cloak, displaying costly jewels at throat, wrists and girdle.

The footman who accompanied her carried in his hand a square package.

"I have brought a book," she said, motioning toward it, "which I wish you to examine."

"Certainly; shall be happy to do so," smiled Mr. Lorraine, coming forward and taking the package from the servant's hand.

"Let me know your opinion at your earliest convenience," she said, rising and dropping a dainty card into the receiver as she turned away.

Mr. Lorraine followed her to the carriage, and then watched it disappear.

"Hey, Charlie, struck?" asked Mr. Stearne, as he re-entered.

"Struck? Yes, by Jove! if you choose to call it that. But did you ever see such a vision of loveliness?"

"Vision of dry goods, you mean. Do you really suppose such a creature could write anything the public would care to read?"

"She is beautiful, rich, and no doubt talented," declared Charlie, eagerly scanning the white enameled and gold card she had left. "Miss Dollie Williams, 208 Park street. Dollie Williams; not highly romantic, Charlie, and you dote on names, you know."

The gentlemen addressed looked a little crestfallen, but he tore open the manuscript.

"We'll see what it is like," he said, for I want an excuse for calling at No. 208 at my 'earliest convenience.'"

Mr. Stearne said nothing. He knew his partner to be a superficial observer, although he prided himself on his discernment; but both were surprised as they perused the work. It was not practical and sadly needed revision, but the web of fancy was exquisite, showing that the young authoress possessed no common talent.

"We must make her an offer of some kind," declared Charlie, "though I suppose what we do will seem beggarly."

"Then perhaps we had better do nothing," said Mr. Stearne, who could not reconcile the over-dressed fashionable lady with the evidence of intellect and careful training displayed in her work.

"Then I shall make her an individual offer one of these days, which I hope she will not have the heart to refuse."

"Well. We'll drive out to No. 208 this afternoon. Let us settle this business first, and then your individual offer will be in order.

No. 208. Could it be that mean-looking dwelling, the single door of which was surrounded by cows, while a milkmaid was busily plying her task?

Mr. Lorraine's face was a study as they drove up to the door.

"There's some mistake," said he, and his companion could only smile broadly to keep from laughing outright.

"We are looking for Miss Dollie Williams," said Mr. Sterne, politely, to the middle-aged woman who answered their knock.

"I am Miss Dollie Williams, sir," answered she, briskly. "Walk in, gentlemen."

"Really, madam, you must be mistaken," said Mr. Lorraine, aghast.

"Mistaken! Don't I know my own name, hey? You are printers, Stearne & Lorraine, aren't you?"

"Well, yes, but—"

"Its all right, then. Didn't expect you to call. Thought you would write, but no harm done. I hope—"

At this moment the milkmaid entered, bearing in each hand a foam-capped pail. She looked startled and confused, first at one then the other, then, placing her milk-pails on the floor, she faced them defiantly. The vivid scarlet in her cheeks and lips, and the proud light in her dark eyes, gave her a beauty no embellishment could brighten.

"I did not mean you to see me thus," she said, candidly, "but perhaps it is just as well."

"Yes, perhaps," said Mr. Lorraine, with an assumption of dignity. "But how came you to appear as you did at our office?"

"Cannot the jackdaw pin on the peacock's feathers?" she retorted, haughtily. "You, sir, have been kind enough to show me how vast is the difference between the two birds. Had I obtained a hearing in my own character I would never have dreamed of assuming that of another—did not dream of doing so, until the lady herself suggested it, and insisted on placing everything at my disposal to try the experiment. She has kindly interested herself in me—is one of our best milk customers—isn't she, Dollie?"

Mr. Lorraine sat in helpless silence, while his partner in business negotiated with the young authoress, congratulating her on her unquestionable talent as a writer.

Both young men were silent during the drive homeward, though from different emotions. For the image of the young girl, as he had imagined her, was shattered in the shallow heart of Charles Lorraine by the same master stroke that had now enshrined it forever in the true, noble one of Horace Stearne.

One year later Mr. Stearne led the girl he loved to the altar, looking, not like a peacock, but a snow-white dove.

The rich, eccentric lady had made a pet of her, and introduced her to society as a rising young authoress. But Dollie, her first true friend, was never forgotten.

Gambling at Monte Carlo.

Before play commences, which it does at 11 or 12 o'clock, according to the season, solemn processions may be seen on their way to the salon. First come two attendants in livery, carrying between them a money chest, and close behind march the croupiers who are to begin work, and of whom there are seven to each table. Four of these sit facing each other on either side of the roulette board in the centre, and one at each end. The seventh, the chef-de-partie, as he is called, perches himself on a high stool close behind one of the pairs of croupiers at the centre, keeps a look out all around, and is appealed to in case of any dispute. "Je domine" are the words in which he expresses his position.

Each of the croupiers, the chef-de-partie excepted, is armed with a long handled rake, which, as it has so much work to do, is strengthened at the foot by a plate of brass. The bank notes are placed in boxes, the money counted out, and the louis and five-franc pieces arranged in long rows standing on their edges, so that they look like gold and silver snakes. Each of the four croupiers at the centre has snakes of both colors to look after. Those at the ends of the tables have nothing to do with raking in or paying out the money lost or won; their business is to put stakes on, or rake winnings off, for those who, unable to secure seats at the table, are crowding around outside; to get change for them as required, and to keep order.

And now is the time to begin; the rake of the croupiers facing each other at the centre are laid across the table head to head, their long, thin handles appearing beyond the elbows of the men about to wield them with so much skill. The croupiers at the top and bottom lay their instruments close in front of them at right angles to the length of the table, which is long enough to accommodate about twenty players beside the croupiers, and eight shorter rakes unshod with brass are placed ready for the use of the players. All is now prepared for the attack, the garrison is perfectly supplied with the sinews of war. The table and men together form form one machine, a machine that plays without committing a mistake, never made reckless by disaster, never rendered foolish by success.

Open the doors then, and let all who will approach and do battle. Daily the challenge is accepted, the chairs are seized at once, the forces are ready to renew the assault. Many of the players produced pocketbooks or sheets of paper ruled in every conceivable way; these are the believers in the systems of martingales. Others are content to use the cards and pins supplied by the attendants; others again neither know nor care what color or number last came up, but play haphazard as the fancy takes them. When those who mean to play have put on their stakes, the croupier in charge of the roulette board, who has several times uttered the warning: "Messieurs, faites vos jeux," gives the ball a spin in one direction, the revolving disk a twist in the other and the battle begins in earnest.—Cosmopolitan

Fancy Fowls and Fancy Prices.

Robert Colgate, President of the Atlantic White Lead Company, is rapidly stocking Sandacre, as his country seat at Quogue, L. I., is called. He has lately bought sixty fowls of the black Minorca breed. He paid $20 apiece for them. He is about to add about $500 worth of black Leghorns. He has a number of Plymouth Rocks that cost $10 each. Mr. Colgate has bought five incubators and eight brooders. One of the incubators holds 500 eggs. He has $8,000 invested so far in fowls, incubators and brooders.

W. K. Vanderbilt has the largest stock of fancy fowls in this country, having invested $15,000. He is the only rich man that makes money out of the business. It pays him five per cent. He has 3,000 fowls and a full assortment of incubators and brooders. Some of the latter were set out in the snow last winter when the thermometer indicated zero and brought their stock of chicks through all right. He has 100 English pheasants. Their eggs are being used in incubators. The chicks will be raised in brooders. Pheasants will not hatch in confinement. At Tuxedo Park, where 1,000 pheasants were introduced last year, the result has not been satisfactory. Only 700 chicks were hatched. These proved to be weak and spiritless. They were hatched by bantams. These cannot take care of pheasants, which run almost as soon as they pick the shell. When once out of the coop they are lost, as nobody can find them any more than they can mice. It is said that every pheasant raised at Tuxedo Park cost $10.—New York Sun.

Shrewd Buzzards.

While a party was out fishing at Lochloosa a short time since a large alligator was shot, which sank to the bottom and remained there until it died. When the carcass came to the surface the buzzards soon discovered it, and they swarmed about in large numbers. The breeze keep the lake in such a ripple, however, that they could not keep a foothold on the body of the 'gator, as it turned and floated with every wave. The Florida buzzard is a shrewd bird, and his reasoning powers are much greater than he has ever gained credit for. Baffled by the wind and wave, and hungry from fruitless efforts to anchor the 'gator, the birds held a consultation. As a result two of them flew at the 'gator, and fastening their talons on the body they spread their wings sail-fashion, and piloted the carcass to the shore of the lake, where the flock made a hearty meal. The buzzard is not a pretty bird, nor is he known in song and story like the American eagle. His name brings up suggestions of bad odors, and he is never made a pet of nor shown that kindness or consideration accorded more favored birds, but when it comes down to good, hard mule sense, and practical and calculating ingenuity, he can discount all his kin, notwithstanding his well known reputation for dullness and stupidity. The Florida buzzard is entitled to the chromo.—Palatka (Fla.) News.

The young woman who read the essay at graduation upon "The stern duties of life upon which we are about entering" was last seen in the hammock reading a Seaside novel, while her mother was washing the dinner dishes in the hot kitchen.—Boston Transcript.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject, "Concerning the Bigots."

TEXT: "Then said they unto him, say now Shibboleth; and he said Sibboleth: for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him and slew him at the passages of Jordan."—Judges xii, 6.

Do you notice the difference of pronunciation between shibboleth and sibboleth? A very small and unimportant difference, you say. And yet that difference was the difference between life and death for a great many people. The Lord's people, Gilead and Ephraim, got into a great fight, and Ephraim was worsted, and on the retreat came to the fords of the river Jordan to cross. Order was given that all Ephraimites coming there should be slain. But how could it be found out who were Ephraimites? They were detected by their pronunciation. Shibboleth was a word that stood for river. The Ephraimites had a brogue of their own, and when they tried to say shibboleth always left out the sound of the "h." When it was asked that they say shibboleth they said sibboleth, and were slain. "Then said they unto him, Say now Shibboleth; and he said Sibboleth, for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him and slew him at the passage of Jordan." A very small difference, you say, between Gilead and Ephraim, and yet how much intolerance about that small difference. The Lord's tribe in our time—by which I mean the different denominations of Christians—sometimes magnify a very small difference, and the only difference between scores of denominations to-day is the difference between shibboleth and sibboleth.

The church of God is divided into a great number of denominations. Time would fail me to tell of the Calvinists, and the Arminians, and the Sabbatarians, and the Baxterians, and the Dunkers, and the Shakers, and the Quakers, and the Methodists, and the Baptists, and the Episcopalians, and the Lutherans, and the Congregationalists, and the Presbyterians, and the Spiritualists, and a score of other denominations of religionists, some of them founded by very good men, some of them founded by very egotistic men, and some of them founded by very bad men. But as I demand for myself liberty of conscience, I must give that same liberty to every other man, remembering that he no more differs from me than I differ from him. I advocate the largest liberty in all religious belief and form of worship. In art, in politics, in morals, and in religion let there be no gag law, no moving of the previous question, no persecution, no intolerance.

You know that the air and the water keep pure by constant circulation, and I think there is a tendency in religious discussion to purification and moral health. Between the Fourth and the Sixteenth centuries the church proposed to make people think aright by prohibiting discussion and by strong censorship of the press, and by rack, and gibbet, and hot lead down the throat, tried to make people orthodox; but it was discovered that you cannot change a man's belief by twisting off his head, and that you cannot make a man see things differently by putting an awl through his eyes. There is something in a man's conscience which will hurl off the mountain that you throw upon it, and, unsinged of the fire, out of the flame will make red wings on which the martyr will mount to glory.

In that time of which I speak, between the Fourth and Sixteenth centuries, people went from the house of God into the most appalling iniquity, and right along by consecrated altars there were tides of drunkenness and licentiousness such as the world never heard of, and the very sewers of perdition broke loose and flooded the church. After a while the printing press was freed, and it broke the shackles of the human mind. Then there came a large number of bad books, but where there was one man hostile to the Christian religion there were twenty men ready to advocate it; so I have not any nervousness in regard to this battle going on between truth and error.

The truth will conquer just as certainly as that God is stronger than the devil. Let error run if you only let truth run along with it. Urged on by skeptic's shout and transcendentalist's spur, let it run. God's angels of wrath are in hot pursuit, and quicker than eagle's beak catches out a hawk's heart God's vengeance will tear it to pieces.

I propose this morning to speak to you of sectarianism—its origin, its evils and its curses. There are those who would make us think that this monster, with horns and hoofs, is religion. I shall chase it to its hiding place, and drag it out of the caverns of darkness and rip off his hide. But I want to make a distinction between bigotry and the lawful fondness for peculiar religious beliefs and forms of worship. I have no admiration for a nothingarian.

In a world of such tremendous vicissitude and temptation, and with a soul that must after a while stand before a throne of insufferable brightness, in a day when the rocking of the mountains and the flaming of the heavens and the upheaval of the sea shall be among the least of the excitements, to give account for every thought, word, action, preference and dislike—that man is mad who has no religious preference. But our early education, our physical temperament, our mental constitution will very much decide our form of worship.

A style of psalmody that may please me may displease you. Some would like to have a minister in gown, and bands, and surplice, and others prefer to have a minister in plain citizen's apparel. Some are most impressed when a little child is presented at the altar and sprinkled with the waters of a holy benediction "in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost;" and others are more impressed when the penitent comes up out of the river, his garments dripping with the waters of a baptism which signifies the washing away of sin. Let either have his own way. One man likes no noise in prayer, not a word, not a whisper. Another man just as good prefers by gesticulation and exclamation to express his devotional aspirations. One is just as good as the other. "Every man fully persuaded in his own mind."

George Whitefield was going over a Quaker rather roughly for some of his religious sentiments, and the Quaker said: "George, I am as thou art; I am for bringing all men to the hope of the Gospel; therefore, if thou wilt not quarrel with me about my broad brim, I will not quarrel with thee about thy black gown. George, give me thy hand."

I. In tracing out the religion of sectarianism, or bigotry, I find that a great deal of it comes from wrong education in the home circle. There are parents who do not think it wrong to caricature and jeer the peculiar forms of religion in the world and denounce other sects and other denominations. It is very often the case that that kind of education acts just opposite to what was expected, and the children grow up and, after a while go and see for themselves; and looking in those churches, and finding that the people are good there, and they love God and keep his commandments, by natural reaction they go and join those very churches. I could mention the names of prominent ministers of the gospel who spent their whole lives bombarding other denominations, and who lived to see their children preach the Gospel in those very denominations. But it is often the case that bigotry starts in a household and that the subject of it never recovers. There are tens of thousands of bigots 10 years old.

I think sectarianism and bigotry also rise from too great prominence of any one denomination in a community. All the other denominations are wrong, and his denomination is right because his denomination is the most wealthy, or the most popular, or the most influential, and it is "our" church, and "our" religious organization, and "our" choir, and "our" minister, and the man tosses his head and wags other denominations to know their places. It is a great deal better in any community where the great denominations of Christians are about equal in power, marching side by side for the [illegible] is no evidence that the church is acceptable to God. Better a barn with Christ in the manger than a cathedral with magnificent harmonies rolling through the long drawn aisles and an angel from heaven in the pulpit if there is no Christ in the chancel and no Christ in the robes. Bigotry is often the child of ignorance.

You seldom find a man with large intellect who is a bigot. It is the man who thinks he knows a great deal but does not. That man is almost always a bigot. The whole tendency of education and civilization is to bring a man out of that kind of state of mind and heart. There was in the far east a great obelisk, and one side of the obelisk was white, another side of the obelisk was green, another side of the obelisk was blue, and travelers went and looked at that obelisk, but they did not walk around it. One man looked at one side, another at another side, and they came home, each one looking at only one side. And they happened to meet, the story says, and they got into a rank quarrel about the color of that obelisk. One man said it was white, another man said it was green, another man said it was blue, and when they were in the very heat of the controversy a more intelligent traveler came and said: "Gentlemen, I have seen that obelisk, and you are all right and you are all wrong. Why didn't you walk all around the obelisk?"

Look out for the man who sees only one side of a religious truth. Look out for the man who never walks around about these great theories of God and eternity and the dead. He will be a bigot inevitably—the man who only sees one side. There is no man more to be pitied than he who has in his head just one idea—no more, no less. More light, less sectarianism. There is nothing that will so soon kill bigotry as sunshine—God's sunshine.

II. So I have set before you what I consider to be the causes of bigotry. I have set before you the origin of this great evil. What are some of the baleful effects? First of all it cripples investigation. You are wrong, and I am right, and that ends it. No taste for exploration, no spirit of investigation. From the glorious realm of God's truth, over which an archangel might fly from eternity to eternity and not reach the limit, the man shuts himself out and dies, a blind mole under a corn shock. It stops all investigation.

While each denomination of Christians is to present all the truths of the Bible, it seems to me that God has given to each denomination an especial mission to give particular emphasis to some one doctrine; and so the Calvinistic churches must present the sovereignty of God, and the Arminian churches must present man's free agency, and the Episcopal churches must present the importance of order and solemn ceremony, and the Baptist churches must present the necessity of ordinances, and the Congregational church must present the responsibility of the individual member, and the Methodist church must show what holy enthusiasm and hearty congregational singing can accomplish. While each denomination of Christians must set forth all the doctrines of the Bible, I feel it is especially incumbent upon each denomination to put particular emphasis upon some one doctrine.

Another great damage done by the sectarianism and bigotry of the church is that it disgusts people with the Christian religion. Now, my friends, the Church of God was never intended for a war barrack. People are afraid of a riot. You go down the street and you see an excitement, and missiles flying through the air, and you hear the shock of firearms. Do you, the peaceful and industrious citizen, go through that street? "Oh, no!" you will say, "I'll go around the block." Now, men come and look upon this narrow path to heaven, and sometimes see the ecclesiastical brickbats flying every whither, and they say: "Well, I guess I'll take the broad road: if it is so rough, and there is so much sharp shooting on the narrow road, I guess I'll try the broad road."

Francis I. so hated the Lutherans that he said if he thought there was one drop of Lutheran blood in his veins he would puncture them and let that drop out. Just as long as there is so much hostility between denomination and denomination, or between one professed Christian and another, or between one church and another, just so long men will be disgusted with the Christian religion and say: "If that is religion, I want none of it."

Again, bigotry and sectarianism do great damage in the fact that they hinder the triumph of the Gospel. Oh, how much wasted ammunition, how many men of splendid intellect have given their whole life to controversial disputes, when, if they had given their life to something practical, they might have been vastly useful! Suppose this morning, while I speak, there were a common enemy coming up the bay through the Narrows, and all the forts around New York began to fire into each other—you would cry out, "National suicide! Why don't those forts blaze away in one direction, and that against the common enemy?" And yet I sometimes see in the church of the Lord Jesus Christ a strange thing going on—church against church, minister against minister, denomination against denomination, firing away into their own fort, or the fort which ought to be on the same side, instead of concentrating their energy and giving one mighty and everlasting volley against the navies of darkness riding up through the bay!

I go out sometimes in the summer, and I find two beehives, and these two hives are in a quarrel. I come near enough, not to be stung, but I come just near enough to hear the controversy, and one beehive says: "That field of clover is the sweetest," and another behive says: "That field of clover is the sweetest." I come in between them, and I say: "Stop this quarrel: if you like that field of clover best, go there; if you like that field of clover best, go there; but let me tell you that that hive which gets the most honey is the best hive." So I come out between the churches of the Lord Jesus Christ. One denomination of Christians says: "That field of Christian doctrine is best," and another says: "This field of Christian doctrine is best." Well, I say: "Go where you get the most honey." That is the best church which gets the most honey of Christian grace for the heart, and the most honey of Christian usefulness for the life.

Besides that, if you want to build up any denomination, you will never build it up by trying to pull some other down. Intolerance never put anything down. How much has intolerance accomplished, for instance, against the Methodist Church? For long years her ministry were forbidden the pulpits of Great Britain. Why was it that so many of them preached in the fields? Simply because they could not get into the churches. And the name of the church was given in derision and as a sarcasm. The critics of the church said: "They have no order, they have no method in their worship;" and the critics, therefore, in irony called them "Methodists."

I am told that in Astor library, New York, kept as curiosities, there are 707 books and pamphlets against Methodism. Did intolerance stop that church? No; it is either first or second amid the denominations of Christendom, her missionary stations in all parts of the world, her men not only important in religious trusts, but important also in secular trusts. Church marching on, and the more intolerance against it, the faster it marches.

What did intolerance accomplish against the Baptist Church? If laughing scorn and tirade could have destroyed the church it would not to-day have a disciple left.

The Baptists were hurled out of Boston in the olden times. Those who sympathised with them were confined, and when a petition was offered asking leniency in their behalf all men who signed it were indicted. Has intolerance stopped the Baptist Church? The last statistics in regard to it showed about 30,000 churches and about 2,500,000 communicants. Intolerance never put down anything.

In England a law was made against the Jew. England thrust back the Jew and thrust down the Jew, and declared that no Jew should hold an official position. What came of it? Were the Jews destroyed? Was their religion overthrown? No. Who became prime minister of England years ago? Who was the next to the throne? Who was higher than the throne [illegible] The descendant of a Jew. What were we celebrating in all our churches as well as synagogues a few years ago? The one hundredth birthday anniversary of Montefiore, the great Jewish philanthropist. Intolerance never yet put down anything.

III. But now, my friends, having shown you the origin of bigotry or sectarianism, and having shown you the damage it does, I want briefly to show you how we are to war against this terrible evil, and I think we ought to begin our war by realizing our weakness and our imperfections. If we make so many mistakes in the common affairs of life, is it not possible that we may make mistakes in regard to our religious affairs? Shall we take a man by the throat, or by the collar, because he cannot see religious truths just as we do? In the light of eternity it will be found out, I think, there was something wrong in all our creeds, and something right in all our creeds. But since we may make mistakes in regard to things of the world, do not let us be egotistic, and so puffed up as to have an idea that we cannot make any mistake in regard to religious theories. And then I think we will do a great deal to overthrow the sectarianism from our hearts, and the sectarianism from the world, by chiefly enlarging upon those things in which we agree rather than those on which we differ.

Now, here is a great Gospel platform. A man comes up on this side the platform and says: "I don't believe in baby sprinkling." Shall I shove him off? Here is a man coming up on this side the platform, and he says: "I don't believe in the perseverance of the saints." Shall I shove him off? No. I will say: "Do you believe in the Lord Jesus as your Savior? Do you trust Him for time and for eternity?" He says: "Yes." "Do you take Christ for time and for eternity?" "Yes." I say: "Come on, brothers; one in time and one in eternity; brother now, brother forever." Blessed be God for a Gospel platform so large that all who receive Christ may stand on it!

I think we may overthrow the severe sectarianism and bigotry in our hearts, and in the church also, by realizing that all the denominations of Christians have yielded noble institutions and noble men. There is nothing that so stirs my soul as this thought. One denomination yielded a Robert Hall and an Adoniram Judson; another yielded a Latimer and a Melville; another yielded John Wesley and the blessed Summerfield, while our own denomination yielded John Knox and the Alexanders—men of whom the world was not worthy. Now, I say, if we are honest and fair-minded men, when we come up in the presence of such churches and such denominations, although they may be different from our own, we ought to admire them and we ought to love and honor them. Churches which can produce such men, and such large-hearted charity, and such magnificent martyrdom, ought to win our affection—at any rate, our respect. So come on, ye 400,000 Episcopalians in this country, and ye 800,000 Presbyterians, and ye 2,250,000 Baptists, and ye nearly 3,750,000 Methodists—come on, shoulder to shoulder we will march for the world's conquest; for all nations are to be saved, and God demands that you and I help do it. Forward, the whole line.

Moreover, we may also overthrow the feeling of severe sectarianism by joining other denominations in Christian work. I like when the springtime comes and the anniversary occasions begin and all denominations come up on the same platform. That overthrows sectarianism. In the Young Men's Christian association, in the Bible society, in the Tract society, in the Foreign Missionary society, shoulder to shoulder all denominations.

Perhaps I might more forcibly illustrate this truth by calling your attention to an incident which took place fourteen or fifteen years ago. One Monday morning at about 3 o'clock, while her 900 passengers were sound asleep in her berths dreaming of home, the steamer Atlantic crashed into Mars Head. Five hundred souls in ten minutes landed in eternity! Oh, what a scene! Agonized men and women running up and down the gangways and clutching for the rigging, and the plunge of the helpless steamer, and the clapping of the hands of the merciless sea over the drowning and the dead, threw two continents into terror. But see this brave quartermaster pushing out with the life-line until he gets to the rock; and see these fishermen gathering up the shipwrecked and taking them into the cabins and wrapping them in the flannels snug and warm; and see that minister of the Gospel with three other men getting into a lifeboat and pushing out for the wreck, pulling away across the surf and pulling away until they save one more man, and then getting back with him to the shore. Can those men ever forget that night? And can they ever forget their companionship in peril, companionship in struggle, companionship in awful catastrophe and rescue? Never! Never! In whatever part of the earth they meet they will be friends when they mention the story of that awful night when the Atlantic struck Mars Head.

Well, my friend, our world has gone into a worse shipwreck. Sin drove it on the rocks. The old ship has lurched and tossed in the tempests of six thousand years. Out with the life line! I do not care what denomination carries it. Out with the lifeboat! I do not care what denomination rows it. Side by side in the memory of common hardships, and common trials, and common prayers, and common tears, let us be brothers forever. We must be. We must be.

> One army of the living God
> To whose command we bow;
> Part of the host have crossed the flood
> And part are crossing now.

And I expect to see the day when all denominations of Christians shall join hands around the cross of Christ and recite the creed: "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, and in the communion of saints, and in the life everlasting." May God inspire us all with the largest hearted Christian charity!

A Society Incident.

There is a story about two Bowery gentlemen in New York that's not too dried. One of them was moving in what the other considered swell society, and he was puzzled how he managed to keep up the style,

"How do you do it?" he asked.

"Vell, you see, I buys me a dress coat mit tails at an auction, an' when I gets on dat coat I gets blenty of invitations, an' I goes oud."

"But where does you get the monish?"

"The monish! You see venever I goes I takes away mit me a silver spoon or a knife or somethings, an' I gets two or three dollars for them. It's easy as pie. Vy don't you try it?"

"Me! I vas honest. I could'nt do do such pizness."

However, he was persuaded to buy a cheap dress suit and go into society under the guidance of his ingenious friend. The first party they attended the old bird said:

"Vy don't you make away mit somethings? It'll never be known. We's pizness men."

"No; I couldn't. Vat! accept of their hospitality, an' den—no—no. I couldn't do it."

"Look here. This is de vay." And he pulled up his trousers and showed two knives and a spoon sticking in his boot. The other was too honest to follow his example. When the supper was in progress the honest one got up and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I vas much obliged for your hospitality. I vas not good at speech making, but I vas able to do some sligh-of-hand tricks. You see I takes dem two knives and one spoon, so. You see I puts dem in my pocket, so. Now I say presto queeck! You looks in dat man's boots und you finds dem knives and spoon."

Then he said good night and went home.

An English writer says: "The girl of England stands alone." The girl of America has to be supported.—Burlington Free Press.

ESTRANGED.

A barrier hath risen between
Thy heart and mine, Oh friend, I weep—
Cruel and strong, though all unseen!

We made that barrier, thou and I,
And strengthened it as days went by;
Ah, me! I scarce know how or why!

Mayhap some promise made and broken,
Some word unkind, though lightly spoken;
Then, hearts that grieved but gave no token.

Farewell! Oh loyal heart and true,
How wouldst though pity if thou knew
The mazes that I wander through.

As wider, wider, every day,
Our paths diverge—Oh friend, I pray
That thine may be the sunnier way!

I in my lone lot scarce could pine
While thou were quaffing life's red wine,
E'en though its bitterest cup were mine!
—Katherine E. Conway.

PITH AND POINT.

A close race: Misers.

A man is seldom very much hated until he is successful.

A correspondent wants to know how long eels live. About the same as short eels, we suppose.—Texas Siftings.

Johnnie says that out of school his teacher is lamb-like, and that in school she is lamm like to.—Marathon Independent.

> "A man is master of his fate!"
> This proverb's light grows dim,
> For when his wife's a heavy weight,
> His fate, then, masters him.
> —Boston Budget.

An English writer says: "The girl of England stands alone." That's just the difference; the girl of America always has a host of admirers about her.—Somerville Journal.

The phrase "midsummer madness" was originated by a man who had been watching another man in a hammock being toyed with by several mosquitoes.—Somerville Journal.

An agricultural exchange asks "how to make hogs pay." This is a hard question to answer. The best way to avoid the difficulty is not to sell a hog anything unless he pays you for it in advance.—Traveler's Record.

Mamma (to Walter, who has just returned from his first experience with a fishing rod)—What, back so soon? Walter—Yes'm; I thought I'd come home. The worms were so nervous I couldn't get 'em on the hooks.—Harper's Bazar.

THE MAID OF VERNON.

There was once a fair maid of South Vernon,
Who'd a hat with a big bunch of fern on,
The crown stood out straight,
Two pounds was its weight,
With a brim that an engine could turn on.
—Harper's Bazar.

A Berlin newspaper claims to have discovered the longest word in any language, but it is only a line and two-thirds in length. The longest word that has ever come under our notice is the clergyman's "One word more, and I will close." It would make about a column.—Norristown Herald.

Small Farms in the South.

The cutting down of forests in the South by the owners of saw mills is opening up large tracts of cheap lands, which are gradually being turned into farms. The larger portion of these lands will produce cotton, corn, fruits, and vegetables, and, where fertilized, will make as good crops as Western lands. The mill men still hold large tracts from which the trees have been cut. It would seem that it would not be a bad plan for them to form a syndicate for the purpose of placing at least a portion of their holdings on the market. Many men in the North and West would avail themselves of the opportunity thus afforded to secure homes in the South, where the climate permits out-of-door work the whole year, where crops are certain, and where the rigors of bleak Winters may be escaped. Last year a well-to-do farmer from Northern Ohio came to this section of Georgia and leased a tract of land as an experiment. His experience has been so satisfactory that he has decided to sell his farm in Ohio and spend the remainder of his days here. He also intends to try to induce a number of his neighbors in Ohio to follow his example. To the farmers and mechanics of the North and West the South must look for the increase of its white population. The unskilled immigrant from Europe cannot compete with the negro in the lower kinds of labor, and therefore will not, for the present at least, come South. To the Northern or Western man, however, who is looking for cheap lands, and who has the means to establish himself, the South offers inducements unequaled by those of any other country in the world.—Savannah (Ga.) News.

Poison in a Man's Bite.

A species of what may be termed a human rattlesnake is creating considerable interest at Mobile, Ala., and an incident of a few days ago tends to awaken an investigation of scientific importance. Officer W. J. Yorke, while arresting a negro, was bitten in the hand by the negro and since that time the hand has become greatly inflamed and swollen. In February last Officer King, one of the best men on the police force, was bitten in a similar manner by a negro whom he had under arrest. In two days King's hand had swelled, and then the inflammation attacked his arms and legs, and for two weeks his life was in danger. Since then he has been slowly recovering, but is not yet able to put his right foot on the ground. The negroes and some whites declare that he had blue gums, and that only those with blue gums have poisonous bites. This belief is generally held, and the colored people have, it seems, an aphorism: "Don't fight with a blue-gummed man."

Much interest was taken in King's case, and as soon as Yorke was bitten an examination of the negro was made, and it was discovered that his gums are of a white blue color. In both cases of biting the negroes were very [illegible].—Mail and Express.

Grasshoppers are causing great trouble in Algeria this year. In one district 50,000 gallons of eggs have been [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 1, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Red on a railroad means "stop here," but on a man's nose it signifies "I'm going right on, right on"—It represents danger in both cases and he who passes the first is liable to end with a jam—while he who continues beyond the other will end with the jim-jams.

One J. J. Woodall has issued a call for a State Convention to meet in the city of Birmingham, Friday, September 16, 1887, at 1 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of electing a state central committee and adopting a plan for a thorough organization of the Union Labor party in the State.

From an interview with a prominent republican, published in the Montgomery Dispatch, it is plain that the republicans will reorganize next year and nominate candidates in many if not all of the congressional districts of the state. The duty of democrats, in view of this, is made plain by the recent utterances of Duke and other negro editors of Alabama and Georgia. —Ex.

In our day a man can get a certificate or recommendation from somebody and for something. Some men can prove anything however absurb, inconsistent or ridiculous, and can find adherents for any theory or doctrine they may promulgate. There is somebody to commend and applaud everything done or said by another. Even the meanest men on earth have friends and the best have enemies. Aye, indeed what a conundrum are the inhabitants of this lovely world.

An editor who expects to please everyone is entitled to all the sympathy he can find lying around loose, for he is sure to encounter a terrible disappointment that will wreck his young life. An editor to please every one must be a strange composition of opposites. He must write sarcastic articles, and he must not; he must give all the news and suppress half of it; he must belong to all the churches and board at all the boarding houses; get shaved at all the barber shops and publish everything everybody wants free, and never ask a man for his subscription.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

Everything is getting very dry and the roads dusty.

Most of the farmers that used guano this year will make no cotton after August.

Maplesville is very dull now; three of our brightest young people are gone.

Mr. Frank Kelley, one of our brightest young men, left us last week to try his fortune in Ashby, where we hope he will succeed in whatever he may undertake.

Miss Fannie Foshee one of our pretty little angels has gone to Plantersville to attend school.

The charming Miss Willie Glover, who was well known by her kind and pleasant disposition, has gone to Newnan, Ga., with her uncle, Mr. N. B. Glover, where she will attend school.

Mrs. Douthit, of Ashby, and her sister, Miss Rea Otey, of Uniontown, are visiting friends in our village this week.

Messrs. Charlie and Ed. Cooper, of Selma, are visiting friends at this place this week.

The Rev. Mr. Star, of Plantersville, preached us a very able sermon in our new church last week. Mr. Star will preach for us next year which will be appreciated by all.

There is some talk of a new railroad coming near here soon, we hope it may come.

Some one broke into our colored merchant's store house last Sunday night and stole eight dollars. No one has been suspected yet but they are on a sharp lookout for the thief. DUNCE.

Jemison Locals.

A singing convention met at the Baptist church in Jemison on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and the occasion was very enjoyable to those who are fond of vocal music.

Mr. John Patton and father of Siluria have commenced the erection of a large storehouse and dwelling in north Jemison which the former will occupy when completed.

Mr. F. M. Hunt and mother returned from a pleasure trip to Autauga Co. last Friday, both looking much improved.

Rev. A. E. Burns has been considerably indisposed for the past few days; so much so that he failed to fill his appointment in Clanton last Sunday. We are glad to know that he is improving.

Mrs. Jeff Whatley and Mrs. Nabors, of Birmingham, are visiting Mr. Henry Leroy's and Mr. Shelby Allen's families. The latter returned home this morning.

Mrs. Mack Carter and Miss Birdie Deramus, one of Shelby Iron Works fairest daughters, are visiting Mr. Burns' family.

Mr. Charlie McLane one of the Shelby Iron Co.'s popular salesman came down yesterday to see about his best girl, who is visiting this place. The consequence was that one of the Jemison boys looks crestfallen and in fact is quite ill.

Miss Jodie Rasberry, of Mulberry, paid our town a flying visit Sunday, much to the delight of her friends here.

Miss Leila Parker, one of Columbiana's most popular young ladies, is visiting friends and relatives here.

Miss Mary Murphy, of Bibb Co., is lending her charming presence to the society of Jemison. She is visiting Mr. Chapman's family.

Miss Miller, of Rome, Ga., is visiting her aunt Mrs. Jno. W. Middlebrooks.

Jemison expects to send down a delegation to see the genuineness of the hot well tested next Friday.

The corn crop is fine, but cotton will fall short 20 per cent of what it promised five weeks ago.

X. Y. Z.

Six Mile Creek.

Cotton picking all the rage. Some complaint of rust injuring cotton.

The corn crop was injured somewhat by the gale in July, but is very good where properly cultivated.

Prof. Hicks, of Bibb county, has a good school at Macedonia. Miss Emily Love has an interesting school at Pleasant Grove.

Mr. T. J. Gentry and daughters, of Bibb county, visited relatives here last week.

Mrs. Paratine Jones, who has been visiting relatives here, has returned to her home at Paragould, Ark. Rev. J. M. Langston, of Bibb Co., preached an interesting sermon at Macedonia on the 12th inst., it being the introductory sermon to the district meeting held there.

The Baptists at Pleasant Grove have their new church nearly finished. Many thanks are due Mr. Ezekiel Atchinson for so liberally assisting in the work, without which it would not have made such rapid progress.

Mr. W. T. Waldrup has recently returned from a visit to North Ala., very well pleased with that part.

Of course Mr. James Nix is happy. It's a girl.

Master Newman Crumpton is low with fever.

A public road has been lately opened from Mr. J. P. Gentry's on the Shelby Springs road to Jemison. RUSTIC.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. A. J. Briggs, Jr., filled his father's appointment Sunday with much credit to himself.

Prof. Acker and family have moved to our village. School will begin in a few days.

Mesdames. Williams, Wetmore and Hooper have returned to their homes in Selma.

Capt. Cole and family have gone to Georgia.

Mr. Paul Sanguinetti and family, of Montgomery, are at the Clifton.

Mrs. S. T. Brittle and Miss Jennie DeBardeleben, of Birmingham, spent a week with Mrs. Wingate.

Mr. Bentley a young attorney, and Mr. Gulledge, of Rockford, have been visiting Mr. F. A. Gulledge.

Mr. Wm. G. Merriwether brought in the first bale of cotton last week.

Quite a crowd have gone out this morning Tuesday, to another picnic and fish fry at Mr. Higgins ferry on the Coosa.

We attended a most enjoyable social entertainment given by Miss Carlotta Ready in the parlors of the Clifton Hotel, consisting of tableaux, charades, vocal and instrumental music, &c. Miss Carlotta is a great favorite here, and richly deserves all the good things said about her.

Our Alabama "Bill Arp" is here again this week.

Mrs. Mott, of New Orleans, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Billings.

Blue Creek Locals.

MUSIC ON THE WATERS, &C.

One of the most delightful picnics of the season was given on the Coosa river at Higgins Ferry last Thursday Aug. the 25th. Dancing was the order of the day; music was furnished by Traywick's Band. Lancers, galops and other favorite dances wound themselves in and out of the flying hours in what seemed to a quiet looker on, delightful confusion.

On going to the table we found about one hundred pounds of fish prepared in nice style, and ample dinner for all who were present. Lemonade was served at intervals during the day.

The river was in fine boating order and presented a lively appearance. In the afternoon the party filed into the spacious flat boat and music and dancing was enjoyed while crossing the glassy waters of the Coosa, and a delightful march was played while the party was leaving the boat.

Rev. J. M. Stanfield filled his regular appointment at the M. P. Church last Sunday.

The Corinth debating club meets every Friday night. CARYL.

Attention R. R. L.

For sprains, bruises, rheumatism, cramps, inflammation, swellings, cuts, burns, etc., in man, and splint, ring bone, windgall, epizootic, scratches, etc. in horses, Rangum Root Liniment is a sure cure. The "King of Liniments" is a universal verdict. Never fails to cure any ailment that can be reached by an external medical application. 50 cents per bottle. For sale by all druggists.

Kincheon.

As our community has been overlooked for some time, I will give you a few items, and hope you will find space in your valuable columns for us.

Crops are fine in this section, although cotton has been slightly damaged by rust. The farmers think they will make plenty of hog and hominy to do them.

We had a good old-fashioned meeting recently at Sardis' Church, conducted by Rev. Mr. Taylor.

Mr. J. C. Parker has an interesting school at Camp Spring school house.

Tell your correspondent the "Nail Driver" that he left out an important item in the Chambers vs. Patrick affray. When Mr. Patrick ran he also left his hat in care of Chambers and family.

The VIEW may get left by one man in this neighborhood, who wants to pay for his paper in 'possums. 'Possums are scarce, but we wish the VIEW success. GREENHORN.

Now is the Time to use Hodges' Sarsaparilla with Iodide of Potash, the great purifier for the blood. A certain cure for rheumatism, scrofulous affections, and all diseases peculiar to females. Renovates and invigorates the system. Physicians recommend it. Take no other. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Nashville, Tenn. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

THE NEW PARTY.

If They Succeed in all They Undertake Good-bye to the Old Ones.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., August 23.—The executive committee of the new political party recently organized in this city under the name of "The American party," to-day issued an official call for a national convention to meet in this city Friday and Saturday, the 16th and 17th of September, and they call upon all American citizens of whatever party or special affiliation who sympathize with the sentiments and are in favor of the political objects of the new party, to attend for the purpose of completing the organization and promoting among others the following specific objects.

First—To emphasize and perpetuate the sentiment America for Americans.

Second—The restriction of immigration.

Third—A thorough revision of the naturalization laws.

Fourth—Reserving American lands for American citizens only.

Fifth—The protection of Americans in all their rights on land or or on sea, in all parts of the world.

Sixth—To restrict and guard the right of the elective franchise.

Seventh—To abolish polygamy in the United States immediately and entirely.

Eighth—To enact and enforce such laws as will tend to eradicate intemperance.

Ninth—To develop the resources of the country by a wise system of internal improvements.

Tenth—To protect and promote an American system of free schools.

Eleventh—To adjust the relations between labor and capital on a permanent basis of equity and justice, and especially do we invite representatives and members of the following organizations to meet and co-operate with us in said convention: Patriotic Order Sons of America, Order of United American Mechanics, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Order of Deputies, Sons of Revolutionary Sires, Political Alliance, United Minute Men, Various Granges and all other orders and organizations whose principles and sentiments will enable them to work in the American party on the foreign basis.

EPO

Don't waste time and money and undergo needless torture with the knife when Ethiopian Pile Ointment will afford instant relief and certain cure in every case of blind, bleeding, itching, internal and external piles. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn. 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

THE

Verbena High School.

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class	$1 50
Intermediate Class	2 50
High School "	3 00
Commercial "	3 00
Collegiate "	4 00

Primary Department is confined to reading, writing and spelling.

Intermediate Department will include arithmetic and the first lessons in grammar, geography and elocution.

High School Department will include algebra, geometry and a complete English and Scientific course.

Commercial Course includes book-keeping and the law of contracts.

Collegiate course includes higher Mathematics, French, Latin and Greek.

MISS CALLIER is a graduate of the Marion Female Seminary and has four years' experience in teaching.

MRS. DAVIS graduated at the Summerfield (Ala.) school in 1859 and has several years' experience.

Tuition is payable monthly in advance, but patrons are allowed the first two weeks in each month in which to settle.

Good board in private families at reasonable prices.

Students will be prepared for any class in college.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR, LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT!

DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE.

Pupils in attendance last session 211. Officers engaged 19.

Twenty-eighth session opens Wednesday, Sept. 14.

For catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

aug18-1m]

A. J. MASSEY,

OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

☞ Will go far and near.

Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

NOTICE NO. 6561.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Lowery J. Glasscock, homestead 11294 for the s w ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 14, township 24, range 14. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6502.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: John R. Dobbs homestead 14332 for the n w ¼ sec 28 t 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: H. W. Herbert, John D. Wyatt, Madison Popwell, John Popwell.

jul 28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6500.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17th, 1887, viz: Frank E. Fuller, Homestead 12960, for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec 14, township 20, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said lands, viz: John Klinner, Robert M. Robuck, William F. Robuck and Richard Coe, all of Stanton, Ala.

jul28 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6501.

U. S. Land Office, Montgomery, Ala., July 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 10, 1887, viz: Thomas J. Broadhead, Homestead 13128 for the e ½ of n w ¼ and w ½ of n e ¼, sec. 12, township 20, range 11 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: William A. Smith, George Rucker, Martin Hesler and William H. Foshee, Jr., all of Dixie, Ala.

jul28* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. Try it. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. ☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' [illegible] ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT.

NEVER FAILS TO CURE SPRAINS CUTS RHEUMATISM AND ALL DISEASES OF MAN AND BEAST THAT CAN BE REACHED BY AN EXTERNAL MEDICAL APPLICATION 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT IS GUARANTEED TO CURE ALL FORMS OF PILES

HODGES' SARSAPARILLA CURES ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM AN IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD.

T. I. N. C. IS THE ONLY INFALLIBLE CURE ON EARTH FOR ALL KINDS OF NEURALGIA SOLD EVERYWHERE

MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. CO NASHVILLE, TENN.

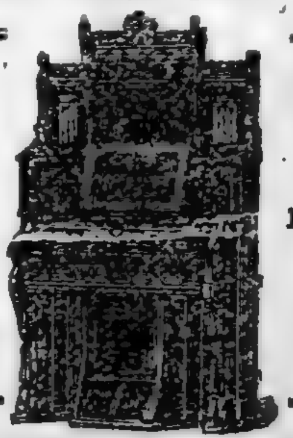
THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

L&N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of NASHVILLE, MEMPHIS, MONTGOMERY, MOBILE and N. ORLEANS

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

THE

Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

Wanted!

To purchase 50 head of calves and yearlings from six months to one and a half years old. Will pay spot cash.

J. F. MAULL,

Maull's Mill, near Strasburg, Ala.

aug25-4t

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

JOHN P. LEEPER,

—Wholesale and Retail Dealer in—

DOORS, SASH & BLINDS,

Stair Rails, Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.

OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, COR. MORRIS AVE. AND 22ND ST.,

Birmingham, Ala.

Your Orders Solicited.

[may 18-y]

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK.

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,

mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

WILSON HOUSE.

A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.

Birmingham, Alabama.

Jobbers and Retailers of

PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,

Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,

Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜

We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,

ma51y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Wool Carding.

Now is the time to get your wool carded. Our cards are in fine order. Ship to

E. G. WALKER,

Montevallo, Ala.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Now is a good time to place your advertisements.

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 1, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

A photographer has pitched his tent in Clanton.

Mr. W. L. Sampey is having his residence painted.

To-morrow, Friday, is the day for the hot well test.

Large numbers of farmers are attending court this week.

Work has been commenced on the store house of Dr. J. S. Johnson.

An exchange says that cucumbers will remove freckles and small boys.

Judge Jefferson Falkner, of Mountain Creek was in to see us Tuesday.

Prof. J. M. Corderie, of Jemison, greeted his many friends in Clanton Monday.

If you want school books you can find what you want at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Mrs. Ashley, of Montgomery, has been visiting the family of Mr. Felix Ashley, in this place.

Call on Mrs. Phillips over the Drug Store and see her new lot of Ladies' Hats and trimmings.

The first bale of cotton sold in Clanton was raised by Mr. Aaron Dennis and weighed 539 pounds.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

The cross mark on your paper means that your subscription is due and we would be glad to have the money.

Of the attorneys attending court this week solicitor Fitzpatrick bears off the palm as the noblest looking Roman of them all.

Mr. J. A. Dorse, of Jacksonville, has moved his family to Clanton to live. He will be in the employ of the L. & N. railroad company.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

Dixie beat is again honored with triplets, all boys. The mother is the wife of Mr. W. L. Weaver. She says they are very pert at present.

We are requested by Dr. Massey to say that everything is ready at the hot well for the test to-morrow and that the test will be made.

Mr. J. Ransom sends the VIEW some very fine sweet patatoes. If his crop is as good as the samples sent it is well worth bragging on. He has them for sale.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Dress Goods at Sampey's.

Ladies, read this. I have just received 9000 yds good calico at 6 cents, 1000 yards good ginghams at 10 cents, 1000 yards cotton checks, 1000 yards sheeting, 1000 yards shirting, 800 yards hickory shirting, 800 yards Scotch Cheviots, a nice lot of worsteds, flannels and linseys. Ladies' and Misses' wool Jerseys at $1.00 and $1.25 each. Brocaded velvet for trimmings 60c. Good bargains in dress buttons—I got them at half price. Come and see for yourselves.

Miss Anna Lou Duke, of this place, left for Nashville, Tenn., on Monday, where she will attend school at Ward's Seminary during the coming scholastic year.

The first bale of cotton sold at Clanton, August 29th at 8-80 to W. L. Sampey. The first bale sold at Verbena on the same date was bought by C. T. Zimmerman at 8-40.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago, and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

Mr. Willis Lowe brings us some of the finest scuppernong grapes we have ever seen. The largest one measured 1¼ inches in diameter or about 4 inches in circumference.

Mr. Chas. Phillips, of Opelika, has moved to Clanton and opened a grocery store in the building just east of the drug store. We welcome him to our burg and hope that his business may boom along with the town.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn

Rev. Mr. Burns, our Baptist pastor was sick last Sabbath consequently there was no preaching at this place. He will protract the meeting at his next appointment which will be the 4th Sunday in September. Rev. Mr. Smith, of Talladega, will assist him.

Train Kills a Negro.

A negro by the name of Rufus Sammons, was run over and killed Monday night near Pine Hill by passenger train No. 4. It is supposed that the victim was intoxicated and lay down upon the track, as a jug was found near by.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

Mr. A. D. Bentley, of Rockford, Coosa county, has decided to locate in Clanton to practice law. He is a recent graduate of the law department of the State University at Tuskaloosa and is just starting out to make his mark at his chosen profession. We hope success may crown his every effort.

The young men of this place, did the handsome thing last Friday night in the way of an ice cream festival given in honor of the young ladies of Clanton who are soon to leave home for school. They sent out some very pretty invitations printed in gilt, which by the way, were printed at the VIEW office. A good crowd of young people were present and enjoyed themselves immensely. The entertainment was given at the residence of Mr. W. J. Simpson.

In the decline of life infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

In another column will be found the announcement of the Verbena High school, presided over by Prof. E. D. Acker, who is to be assisted by Miss Fannie Callier and Mrs. Fannie H. Davis. Prof. Acker comes to us highly recommended by some of the most prominent public men and proficient educators in Alabama, and we have no doubt but that he will add greatly to the already wide reputation for excellency now enjoyed by the institution over which he has been placed.

TINC

Don't suffer any longer, but use Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure, the only infallible cure on earth for all forms of neuralgia and nervous headache. Raugum Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn. 50 cents per

To the Public.

In view of the fact that I have wronged Mr. F. J. Davis in circulating the report that he defrauded me in our lumber business, I publish this statement. There were certain parts of the business unexplained, he being the book-keeper and having charge of the bank account. Everything has proved satisfactory.

S. J. BROCK.

CLANTON, Aug. 26, 87.

I accept the above retraction. Circumstances were such that I could not explain before.

F. J. DAVIS.

Having purchased the school book and stationery business of W. M. Wilson, the VIEW Stationery Stand is now prepared to furnish you with any school book you may want and also all kinds of stationery, writing material and anything usually kept in a book and stationery store. If you want anything which we haven't got in stock we will take pleasure in ordering it for you. Call on us.

As Jennie Deans once said in her memorable address to the Queen: It is not what we have done for ourselves, but what we have done for others that we think on most pleasantly." Realize this pure pleasure by recommending White's Cream Vermifuge, the best worm medicine ever prepared. It means death to worms, health to children.

Mr. E. D. Acker, formerly of this county, has been elected Principal of the Verbena, High School, at Verbena, Chilton county. Mr. Acker is an accomplished gentleman of high character; with abilities such as win distinction in any walk of life. That he will make a success of the Verbena institute of learning will go without saying. He has many friends in this county who watch his ever upward career with deep interest.—Jacksonville Republican.

E. D. Acker, Esq., formerly one of the editors of the Post, was in town this week, visiting his many friends and relations here. He has been living at Stanton since he left Cross Plains last winter, and has been engaged in teaching. Mr. Acker, we learn is soon to take charge of a fine school at Verbena, and will make that his future home. We wish him much success in the honorable and useful calling to which he is devoting his time and for which his talents and learning so eminently qualify him. Cross Plains Post.

In mansions, in wretched tenement houses, in frontier shanties, in the mines, we hear commendatory words of Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment because it is a never failing remedy for piles. You have no one to blame but yourself if afflicted with piles, you sit sit sighing in the chimney corner, when a bottle of Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment would give relief.

American Bible Society Day in the Sunday Schools.

MR. EDITOR: Will you let me call the attention of the Sunday Schools and the Sunday School workers of this city and others, to the First Sunday in September as American Bible Society Sunday School Day.

The appointment of this day for the purpose of bringing before all the Sunday Schools in Alabama and Florida the work of this great benevolent society in its efforts to put a copy of the Bible in the hands of every living person.

Over eleven hundred million people in the world have never seen or heard of this Book, which alone has eternal life.

To supply these persons with the Bible we ask every Sunday School in Alabama and Florida to make a contribution on this occasion, and forward me the money so raised and it will be forwarded at once to the Parent Society in New York.

Please publish the accompanying circular.

Fraternally,
Z. A. PARKER,
Birmingham, Ala.
Dist. Supt. A. B. S., Ala. and Fla.

Do not put off until to-morrow that which should be done to-day. Especially in matters pertaining to health procrastination is dangerous. If your children show symptoms of worms, rid them of these intolerable pests by using White's Cream Vermifuge and note the happy effect. The worms will follow and your child experience a speedy relief. Your verdict will be there is no other remedy like this.

MAKE FULL BALES.

Something of Special Interest to Growers of the Fleecy Staple.

Owing to a new regulation of the New York Cotton Exchange, on and after September 1, 1887, cotton buyers in all interior towns will deduct from bales weighing under 400 pounds, one-fourth cent per pound, under 350 pounds one-half cent per pound; and packages less than 300 pounds are not considered bales and are therefore unmerchantable, The ginners and farmers will do well to note this fact in putting up their cotton. They will also find it to their interest to increase the general average of their bales, as the heavy weight of bales from the southwest, is in addition to the superior staple, an additional inducement for Northern and European spinners to give their orders to that section. This is an important matter to the ginners and farmers, and should receive their attention.—Advertiser.

Remember to put the little amount you owe the VIEW in your

MONTGOMERY FURNITURE COMPANY.

—DEALERS IN—

Bed Room and Parlor Suits, Looking Glasses, Lounges, Hall Racks, Wardrobes, Chairs, Safes, Side Boards, Cradles, Cribs, Baby Carriages, Spring Beds, Mattresses, Refrigerators, Pianos, Organs, Carpets,

And All Kinds of Furniture!

DAVID JACKSON, Manager,

210 Bibb Street, Wharton's Old Stand Next to McDonald's Opera House.

sep2 y

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE Co. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL.
30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO.
ATLANTA, GA.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

aug10-1y

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

NOTICE NO. 6621.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
July 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17, 1887, viz: Henry H. Herbert, Homestead 12524 for the n w ¼ sec 22 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: N. A. Dobbs, John D. Wyatt, A. C. Duke, and W. A. Jones, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug3 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6569.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
Aug. 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 23rd, 1887, viz: James C. Williams, homestead 13282, for the w ½ of se ¼ and sw ¼ of ne ¼, sec 12, township 20, range 13. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: William I Mullins, William C. Dickerson, Thomas W. Weldon and J. H. Griffis, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6559.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 24th, 1887, viz: Oma Hill, homestead 10836, for the s e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 14 township 24 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6560.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 9, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Thomas Craddock, homestead 10220 for the n ½ of s w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14 township 24 north range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George B. Glasscock, and Lowery J. Glasscock, of Shelby Iron Works, Ala., Elijah Headley and Samuel L.

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

WATCH IT.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala.

[aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street . ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

Correspondence solicited.

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.

Agents for Chas. Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

MONTGOMERY STABLES,
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 440. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER.

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market.

AL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
IRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager.
Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand
ALL KINDS OF n, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

utler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing er, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums, USICAL INSTRUMENTS,
t Music and Scrap Books,
Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

OUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
nt
d on
THE LOUISVILLE
Business College,
Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street
LOUISVILLE, KY.
PING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

usiness Education
ial College of Ky. University, Lexington, Ky.
eapest and Best College in the World for a Practical Business Education.
ts Graduates the Most Successful. 8000 Graduates in Business.
r (Diploma of Honor and Gold Medal) at World's Exposition for System of k-keeping and General Business Education over all Colleges.
URSE
D COST.
WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

I. BARCLIFT & CO.
——DEALERS IN——
GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
u are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote
e you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery
[mar 24-1y]

Chilton View Job Office,
IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR OB PRINTING,
SUCH AS HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
BILL HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
ISSARY CHECKS,
CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS
OF ALL KINDS,
LY AND WITH DISPATCH.
D US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION
TEED.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Premature Souring of Milk.

Milk that is cooled to a low temperature will sour very rapidly when the temperature is raised again. This is a well-known characteristic of milk and all other nitrogenous bodies. Meat that is kept for a time in a refrigerator will very quickly spoil when taken out, and milk has the same peculiarity. It is supposed that the cold breaks up the atoms of milk sugar, which change to lactic acid by a rearrangement of the atoms without any fermentation. Milk should be cooled moderately, and not lower than 50 or 55 degrees. If care is taken to have every utensil perfectly clean, washed first with cold water and a stiff brush to go into the corners, then scald and again rinse with cold water and well aired, and the milk is cleanly drawn and thoroughly strained and then put into the cans in the ice water and covered only with a double cloth and not shut down closely with the covers, then cooled down to 55 degrees and shipped at that temperature, the cans being quite filled and covered with a clean muslin cloth under the cover to prevent agitation, there ought to be no trouble in sending the milk a six-hours' journey at night. It is a good thing to cover the cans with a blanket on the way to the depot. A tablespoonful of carbonate of potash dissolved in water may be added to each can of milk.—New York Times.

Transplanting Celery.

Select, if practicable, the first day after a heavy rain for transplanting celery, when the ground is cool and moist. Be very sure and press the soil firmly around each plant; this is an important matter and ought not to be neglected. A usual plan is to set the plants in rows three feet apart, the plants being about six inches distant in the rows. Celery plants, where space is limited, are often set between rows of early vegetables.

Numbered with popular varieties is Golden Dwarf. This is a leading variety in the great celery-growing districts in and around Kalamazoo, Mich. It is also a popular sort with New York growers. In size and habit of growth it is much the same as the dwarf white kinds, except that when blanched the heart is of a waxy golden yellow. It is one of the best keepers known, in winter.

Boston market celery is a favorite around Boston and is similar to the Dwarf White, but rather more robust. The White Plume celery is a comparatively new sort which has gained favor among amateur gardeners, because the leaves and stalks are naturally white and do not require blanching by the old process of high banking. By simply tying up the stalks and drawing the soil up with a hoe the work of blanching is complete. Giant White celery is one of the best of the large-growing sorts, and is prized in Southern sections on account of its thriving in a hot, dry atmosphere.—New York World.

Chop Feed for Horses.

There can be no doubt of the superiority of chopped feed over whole grain for feeding work horses. It is true that a horse in the prime of life and health, and whose teeth are good, will reduce whole grain more completely with nature's grinders than will a mill, and that grain, when ground, does not require so much mastication unless mixed with cut hay or straw, as when fed whole, nor become so thoroughly insalivated during the process of mastication; yet when a horse is allowed to become very hungry and then fed on whole grain, he will eat so voraciously as not to take time to masticate or insalivate his food, and the probable result is an attack of colic, which often proves fatal.

It is a well-known fact among physiologists that unless the mouthful of provender be well saturated with saliva before entering the stomach the gastric juices of the later refuse to act chemically upon it, and therefore the first stages of digestion are interfered with and disease invited.

The horse possesses a small stomach in comparison to his intestines, and consequently the former requires to be constantly supplied with food in order to afford ailment to the latter, for which reason a horse cannot, with impunity, be kept any length of time without provender of some kind. Most young horses masticate whole grain sufficiently well to secure its complete insalivation, and therefore it is in a fit state to be acted upon by the stomach, and have its nutritive qualities all extracted; but older horses fed on whole grain are apt to "bolt their oats," and therefore require chop feed, the whole secret of the matter being in the more complete mastication and insalivation, and consequent digestion of the food. If oats or corn escape whole in the droppings, common sense would dictate the advantage of grinding the food. When nature fails in the operation she must be supplemented by art, and the mill-stones brought to the assistance of the horse's grinders.—Baltimore Sun.

Farm and Garden Notes.

The quince tree is a great feeder and requires good cultivation.

Tomato plants, before blossoming, are benefited by liquid fertilizers.

Adapt the amount of food given to a working horse to the work performed.

The ashes made on a farm are valuable and should be collected and kept dry for use.

A mulch between the rows of raspberries and blackberries saves time in cultivating.

Bone and ashes are good fertilizers for small fruits in soils containing much vegetable matter.

Every prudent suburban housekeeper knows the victualing value of a good garden and a good cow.

If you keep a stable, pour all spent soapsuds, wash-water, dish-water on the manure pile intended to enrich your garden.

Some one says: "Draw out a little cider daily and return it to the barrel in a small stream if cider is to be turned to vinegar."

An extensive orchardist says he finds a mixture of copperas and glue to be the best thing to keep rabbits and mice from injuring fruit trees.

Crude castor oil appears to be the best oil that can be rubbed into boots and shoes without interfering with the use of ordinary shoe blacking.

The benefits claimed for the use of comb foundation are that it encourages the bees to begin immediate work and saves a great deal of honey.

Red celery is preferred in the English markets, and as the stalks are more solid, and hence keep better in winter than white, the preference is growing in this country.

Moderation in the early years of peach bearing is recommended by high authority, to be followed after maturity with very generous treatment. A moderate crop of large peaches will sell for more than a heavier crop of small ones, besides being less exhausting.

Jarring or knocking off blackberries and raspberries is now advocated as a cheap and easy way of gathering these fruits when they are to be used for drying or evaporating.

Experiments in England suggest the possibility of attenuating the virus of swine fever by mixing it with certain chemical materials for inoculative purposes. It is said M. Pasteur's method of protective inoculation for hydrophobia has not proved successful as a preventive of swine fever.

The oat is a splendid food for young animals, because, compared with corn, straw, etc., it is rich in muscle and bone-forming elements; and this also makes it a splendid food for work animals. Corn should be fed sparingly to work animals, during the summer especially, as it is a heating food. It will pay to make the grain ration of oats in the morning and at noon.

A correspondent gives his way of keeping the curculio off the plum and cherry trees. Take refuse wool and tie it around the trunk of the tree so as to let it hang down, and then every morning turn up the wool and catch them. Another way recommended is to wind the body with a strip of paper six inches wide, and keep this paper well coated with printer's ink or similar substance.

Watermelons, says the Agriculturist, in their early stage are beset by numerous pests, and later by two-legged vermin. If, by industrious use of various poisons a good stand of plants is secured, we usually get a good crop. We one season caused people to respect our watermelons by posting a notice advising that, in selecting melons, they should be careful to avoid those which had been poisoned.

Mr. Burnett tells in the New England Farmer that it is quite as important that skimmed milk be warmed for young pigs as for calves. Thousands of pigs are annually made sick, given the scours, &c., by being fed all the cold milk they will eat after a long interval of fasting. Pigs should be fed little and often when they are taken from the sow. Blood heat should be the rule for milk for young pigs.

In keeping a horse fat, there is as much in the driver as in the feed. A horse well curried, and rubbed with a woolen rag afterward, is sure to make a sleek-coated horse, and when well groomed is, we may say, half-fed. A cross and nervous driver will fill the horse with fear and dread, and will rapidly run his horse down. Use any animal kindly. Always be firm and make the horse mind, but never get excited. A cool headed driver makes a long headed horse.

Dairying will pay in the long run, if it is intelligently managed. There is no business that promises better, for there is none for whose products there is a more universal demand; and the more of good butter the better it will pay. It is not because the market is overstocked with good butter that prices are low, but low prices come from the tons of poor butter that are thrown upon the market. This poor butter is sold to the country dealer at about the price of grease, but little more.

In a young orchard such crops may be grown as require manuring and hoeing. Potatoes, squashes, cucumbers for pickles, sweet corn and root crops generally, if not allowed to encroach upon the trees, may be so managed that the fertility of the soil will be increased. When the orchard comes into bearing, seed it and convert it into a pig pasture. The benefit will be reciprocal. The pigs will thrive finely, requiring but little other food, while the droppings of the pigs and their gathering of fallen fruit will be of great benefit to the trees.

A correspondent of the Germantown Telegraph has been trying sulphur for scab in potatoes. After covering the potatoes lightly, he sprinkled a good handful of a mixture of ashes and plaster—with sulphur added at the rate of ten pounds to the hundred—around each hill. Among those so treated there were no scabs or wire-worms. Other portions of the land were badly infested. In his culture he plants three or four inches deep, hoes twice, and plows four times, never letting weeds grow, and makes a flat broad hill two or three inches high.

What They Eat in England.

the English restaurants and at English tables, generally, one is particularly struck with the absence of any great variety of vegetables, says a London letter to the Boston Herald. There are plenty of meats, fowls, game, fish, and all the rest of the solids, but of vegetables there is a poverty. Potatoes, French beans, French peas, cauliflower, cucumbers, lettuce, radishes, and a thing they call vegetable marrow, about fill out the list. The peas are those little, flavorless things we get in tins in America, the cucumbers are long, thin affairs, sometimes growing to a yard in length, and lettuce is about the sweetest and best thing of its kind in the whole world. Then there is that vegetable marrow! Yes, it is there. And there it ought to stay. It tastes about like what an overripe cucumber should taste, having been previously boiled, so that it might be served hot. It is insipid, and watery, and soft, and it "squashes" in the mouth. American peas, beans, cucumbers, radishes, and potatoes are much better and larger and more richly flavored than are the same articles over here. It is all in the climate, I suppose. Beans, peas, and those things come mainly from France. Even the bulk of the strawberries and at least three quarters of the asparagus consumed in England are grown in the hotter countries. Corn is unknown. Ask for that succulent vegetable and the waiter will stare at you in helpless amazement. Insist on having it, and he will probably bring you some wheat on a plate. Wheat is called corn in England, and corn is called maize. That, perhaps, is why the waiter looks amazed when you ask for corn.

The potatoes over here are generally little things that look like English walnuts. The Irish potato, as seen in Ireland, is a miserable dwarf, and its English cousin is little or no better. Sweet potatoes they have none. Turnips, parsnips, squash, carrots, and the like seldom reach the table. I believe they grow in England, but they don't seem to be in much demand. Tomatoes grow in hot-houses, and are costly. They are not particularly liked, either. Peaches, too, are either grown on vines inside the roofs of hot-houses or are trained up a south wall. An ordinary American peach tree would have no show in the world in such an atmosphere as this. Peaches are, of course, very great luxuries. They cost at least a shilling apiece if they are of any size, and they are eaten after an elaborate degree of preparation that makes them seem doubly valuable. Melons are non est, unless they be especially imported from France, and even those do not bear any comparison to our own full-flavored, juicy canteloupes. The watermelon is entirely unknown. But there are such delicacies as green walnuts and almonds and green figs within reach of easy importation, and they make up for a good deal in the way of shortage elsewhere.

Chloral Drunkards.

Physicians in New York feel some alarm at the increasing number of young women who indulge to a great extent in deadly stimulants and narcotics, like chloral or opium. Both here and in England "her drops" are as much a part of a fashionable married woman's toilet as her cologne bottle, and are used with as much freedom as men employ in calling for cocktails at the club, "with a dash of absinthe."

"What is Woman's Worth?"

Asked a fair damsel of a crusty old bachelor. He did not know, so she said: "W. O. man" (double you, O man). But a woman feels worth little if disease has invaded her system and is daily sapping her strength. For all female weaknesses, Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" stands unrivaled. It cures the complaint and builds up the system. Send 10 cents in stamps for pamphlet to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Content is the name of one of the most popular of the belles at Long Branch.

Children Starving To Death

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. COHEN, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

A Yale lock is capable of 60,000,000 combinations, but bank cashiers know'em all.

THOSE who are trying to break up the baneful habit of intemperance will experience great benefit from the use of Prickly Ash Bitters. Liquors derange the system. Prickly Ash Bitters will remedy the evil results and restore the brain, stomach and liver to healthy action, thereby strengthening the will power, thoroughly cleansing and toning up the system and remove every taint of disease. It is purely a medicine, and while pleasant to the taste, it cannot be used as a beverage by reason of its cathartic properties.

No Time To Soothe Her Own Baby.

Nurse (to fashionable mother).—The baby is very restless, ma'am. I can't do anything with her.

F. M.—She's teething, I suppose.

N.—Yes'm. I think if you was to take her in your arms a little while it might soothe her.

F. M.—I? Impossible. I haven't time to spare. I am just making ready to attend a meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Give baby some of Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial.

No investment pays so well as a good education, as is clearly shown by the record of the Alumni of the RUGBY SCHOOL, LOUISVILLE, Ky. It offers the best advantages, and enjoys the highest class of patronage. For fifteen years it has stood with the foremost in preparing boys for college or business life. The terms are reasonable. Send for catalogue to

A. L. MCDONALD, Principal.

Ladies of the White House

Have found that their sometimes excessive duties produce a low, weak, tired and tremulous state of the system, and that iron restores richness and color to the blood, calisaya bark a natural, healthful tone to the digestive organs, phosphorus mildly stimulates the brain—all combined in Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.

Crawford County, Pa., has a "polecat farm" where fur is raised for ladies' cloaks.

Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets,"

Positively Popular; Provoke Praise; Prove Priceless; Peculiarly Prompt; Preceptibly Potent; Producing Permanent Profit; Precluding Pimples and Pistules; Promoting Purity and Peace. Purchase, Price, Petty. Pharmacists Patronizing Pierce Procure Plenty.

John Gomez, living at Marco, Fla., has the reputation of being 111 years old.

Piles Cured for 25 Cents.

DR. WALTON'S CURE FOR PILES is guaranteed to cure the worst case of piles. Price 25 cents. At druggists, or mailed (stamps taken) by the

WALTON REMEDY CO., CLEVELAND, O.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

The railway system of the United States now aggregates in round numbers 141,300 miles.

Use the great specific for "cold in the head" and catarrh—Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

If this is any particular dog's day he can come and get it, and no questions asked.

If a cough disturbs your sleep, take Piso's Cure for Consumption and rest well.

The Confidence
Of people who have tried Hood's Sarsaparilla, in this preparation, is remarkable. Many who have failed to derive any good whatever from other articles are completely restored to health by the peculiar curative powers of this medicine. For diseases caused by impure blood, or low state of the system, it is unsurpassed. If you need a good medicine, give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.
"Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier has no equal. It tones the system, strengthens and invigorates, giving new life. I have taken it for kidney complaint, with the best results."—D. R. SAUNDERS, 2 Pearl Street, Cincinnati, O.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.
It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

JONES
HE PAYS the FREIGHT
5 Ton Wagon Scales,
Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
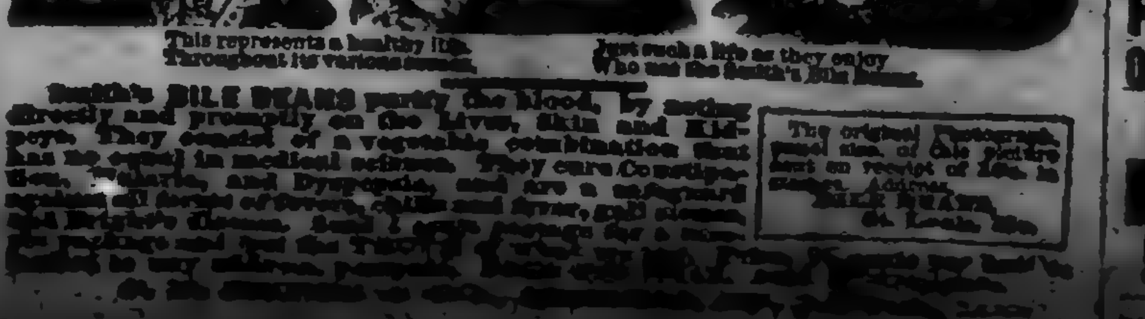
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

COLUMBIA ATHENÆUM,
—A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES—
Healthy location; handsome grounds (15 acres); capacious buildings, well lighted, heated and ventilated; fine library, apparatus and equipment; 17 teachers; thorough and complete course of instruction. Best advantages in music, elocution, painting, etc. No sectarianism. 38th annual session begins Monday, Sept. 5th, 1887. ☞ Prices reasonable. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE.
ROBT. D. SMITH, President, Columbia, Tenn.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co., Coatesville, Pa.

GOLD is worth $850 per pound. Pettit's Eye Salve $1,000, but is sold at 25 cents a box by dealers.



This represents a healthy life. Throughout its various seasons.
Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.
Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones and Bright's disease.
The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

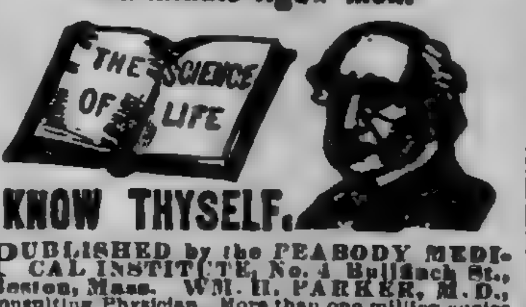
KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DYGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty-five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N.Y.

QUEEN OF THE SOUTH
PORTABLE MILLS.
SELECT FRENCH BUHRS,
For Stock Feed or Meal for Family Use.
Six Sizes. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Write for Descriptive Circular.
Mention this paper.
Straub Machinery Co.,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS.
ASTHMA.
In this disease, Piso's Cure for Consumption is found as useful as any other remedy.
In a great many cases it will give relief that is almost equal to a cure.
Without trying it you cannot tell whether it is good for you or not.
Sold by druggists everywhere.
PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS.

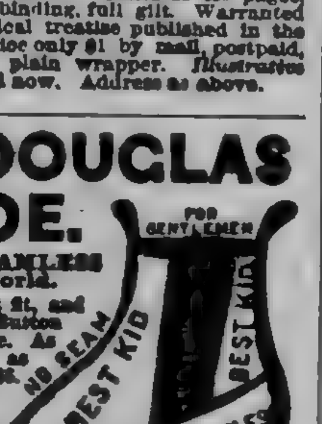
HARTER'S
THE ONLY TRUE
IRON TONIC
Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS and RESTORE the HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength and Tired Feeling absolutely cured: Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.
LADIES Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.
(Dr. HARTER'S LIVER PILLS Cure Constipation, Liver Complaint and Sick Headache. Sample Dose and Dream Book mailed on receipt of two cents in postage.)
THE DR. HARTER MEDICINE COMPANY, St. Louis, Mo.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.

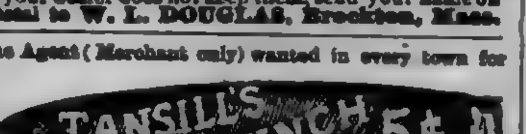


KNOW THYSELF.
PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above.
Name this paper.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 SHOE.



The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world.
Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $3 Shoes advertised by other firms.
[Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.]
Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE. If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.
One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for



Your "Tansill's Punch" 5c. cigars are as staple as sugar and they never fail to give perfect satisfaction.
H. W. MARAN, Champaign, Ill.
Your "Tansill's Punch" 5c. cigars are undoubtedly better than you represent them.
E. P. DAVIS, Mt. Gilead, Ohio.
Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

Central University,
RICHMOND, KY. Next Session opens Sep. 14, '87
Full Faculty, thorough instruction, healthy location, moderate expense. For information and Catalogue apply to L. H. Blanton, D. D., Chancellor.

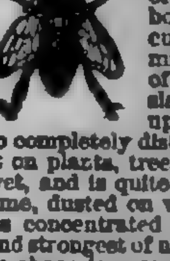
Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy.
Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

PATENTS obtained by E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for our book of instructions.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.
As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.
As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.
"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."
As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."
"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.
"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.
Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.
For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address,
World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Gone where the Woodbine Twineth.
Rats are smart, but "ROUGH ON RATS" beats them. Clears out Rats, Mice, Roaches, Water Bugs, Flies, Beetles, Moths, Ants, Mosquitoes, Bed-bugs, Insects, Potato Bugs, Sparrows, Skunks, Weasel, Gophers, Chipmunks, Moles, Musk Rats, Jack Rabbits, Squirrels. 15c. & 25c.
HEN LICE.
"ROUGH ON RATS" is a complete preventive and destroyer of Hen Lice. Mix a 25c. box of "ROUGH ON RATS" to a pail of whitewash, keep it well stirred up while applying. Whitewash the whole interior of the Hennery; inside and outside of the nests. The cure is radical and complete.
POTATO BUGS



For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, Shrubs, Trees, 1 pound or half the contents of a $1.00 box of "ROUGH ON RATS" (Agricultural Size) to be thoroughly mixed with one to two barrels of plaster, or what is better air slacked lime. Much depends upon thorough mixing, so as to completely distribute the poison. Sprinkle it on plants, trees or shrubs when damp or wet, and is quite effective when mixed with lime, dusted on without moisture. While in its concentrated state it is the most active and strongest of all Bug Poisons; when mixed as above is comparatively harmless to animals or persons, in any quantity they would take. If preferred to use in liquid form, a tablespoonful of the full strength "ROUGH ON RATS" Powder, well shaken, in a keg of water and applied with a sprinkling pot, spray syringe or whisk broom, will be found very effective. Keep it well stirred up while using. Sold by all Druggists and Storekeepers. 15c., 25c. & $1.
E. S. WELLS, Chemist, Jersey City, N. J.

WEBSTER'S Unabridged Dictionary.
Invaluable in every School and at every Fireside.
A DICTIONARY
118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings,
GAZETTEER OF THE WORLD of 25,000 Titles, and a
BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY of nearly 10,000 Noted Persons,
ALL IN ONE BOOK.
Contains 3000 more Words and nearly 2000 more Illustrations than any other American Dictionary.
Webster is Standard Authority in the Gov't Printing Office, and with the U. S. Supreme Court. It is recommended by State Sup'ts of Schools in 37 States, and by nearly all of the College Presidents. Sale 20 to 1 of any other series.
It is a library in itself, and contains the pith and the essence of all other books. With this and the Bible, we might go comfortably through the world and find no great lack.—Independent.
G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Young Men Can get the most Practical Business Education at Goldsmith's School of Business, 21½ S Broad St., Atlanta, Ga. Send for Circulars & Specimens of Penmanship.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

OPIUM Habit Cured [illegible]

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Sold by druggists [illegible]

Rates of Ad

One Dollar per Sq space or less, for th
Cents for each subse

INCHES.	3
1 Inch	$ 5
2 Inches	7
3 Inches	10
4 Inches	12
5 Inches	15
¼ Column	1
½ Column	27
1 Column	40

THE STRE

A fair child plays by the Cooing the songs the bo
Not a thought of guile,
To cloud the innocent
While the spring fl
Heart as light as the mor
No taint of sin nor shade o
To cloud the beautiful bro
And the spring flow

A lithe youth walks by Watching the silvery wat
His heart still pure as Unvexed by the ruth of
While the streams
Dreaming as one in a mo
Lazily watching the laug
Sporting its way in the
And the stream flow

A strong man stands by t
Thoughtfully watching
His shoulders stooped
His broad brow bent wi
While the stream fl
His stature bent by the Heart half sick with its g
And eyes bedimmed by
And the tide flows

An old man waits on the Counting the years that Waiting there for the
To bear him away to h
While the tide flows
Longingly waiting the shi
To bear him across to his While the day grows dar gloam,
And the tide rolls on

The Model M

Unless one is wealthy in being a charming fell the privilege of the rich sion of the unemploy should be practical an better to have a perman to be fascinating. Th truths of modern lif
Erskine never realized.
Intellectually, we mu not of much importance either a brilliant or an in his life. But then he good-looking, with h hair, his clear-cut prof eyes. He was as popula was with women, and accomplishment except money. His father had his cavalry sword and a
Peninsular War in Hughie hung the first glass, put the second o
Ruff's Guide and lived on two hundred a aunt allowed him. H thing. He had gone change for six months;
butterfly to do among
He had been a tea merc longer, but had soon Souchong. Then he dry sherry. That did
mately he became noth ineffectual young man profile and no professio
To make matters wo
The girl he loved daughter of a retire lost his temper and India, and had never them again. Laura ado was ready to kiss her sh were the handsomest co and had not a penny pie
The Colonel was very but would not hear of
"Come to me, my boy, got £10,000 of your own,
about it," he used to looked very glum on th to go to Laura for consol
One morning, as he w
Holland Park, where th
he dropped in to see a his, Alan Trevor. Tre
Indeed, few people days. But he was artists are rare. Pe strange, rough fellow, face and red hair. Ho took up the brush he wa and his pictures wer after. He had been ver by Hughie, at first, it m edged, entirely on acco looks. "The only peopl know," he used to say, are bete and beautiful artistic pleasure to look a lectual repose to talk darlings rule the world!
he got to know Hughie him quite as much for his spirits and his generous, and had given him the
to his studio.

When Hughie came in putting the finishing tou ful life-size picture of a b beggar himself was stand platform in a corner of
was a wizened old man, wrinkled parchment, and expression. Over his shou a coarse brown cloak, all ters; his thick boots wer cobbled, and with one han a rough stick, while wit held out his battered hat f

"What an amazing mo
Hughie, as he shook h friend.

"An amazing model!"
at the top of his voice;
so! Such beggars as he ar with every day. My stars!
ing Rembrandt would him!"

"Poor old chap!" said miserable he looks! But you painters, his face is hi

"Certainly," replied don't want a beggar to l
you?"

"How much does a mod ting?" asked Hughie, as he a comfortable seat on a div

"A shilling an hour."

"And how much do you picture, Alan?"

"O, for this I get a thou

"Pounds?"

"Guineas. Painters, poe cians always get guineas."

"Well, I think the mod a percentage," said Hugh
"they work quite as hard a

"Nonsense, nonsense!
the trouble of laying on th and standing all day long
It's all very well, Hughie,

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	38 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION." TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1887. NUMBER 44.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

THE STREAM.

A fair child plays by the mountain spring,
Cooing the songs the bobolinks sing,
Not a thought of guile, or shadow of care,
To cloud the innocent brow so fair,
While the spring flows on—
Heart as light as the morning air,
No taint of sin nor shade of care,
To cloud the beautiful brow so fair,
And the spring flows on.

A lithe youth walks by the sparkling stream,
Watching the silvery waters gleam,
His heart still pure as its waters are,
Unvexed by the ruth of a single care.
While the streams flows on.
Dreaming as one in a morning dream,
Lazily watching the laughing stream
Sporting its way in the noonday beam,
And the stream flows on.

A strong man stands by the river side,
Thoughtfully watching the fretful tide,
His shoulders stooped by the toil of years.
His broad brow bent with the bale of cares,
While the stream flows on.
His stature bent by the moil of years,
Heart half sick with its gathering cares,
And eyes bedimmed by unbidden tears,
And the tide flows on.

An old man waits on the ocean shore,
Counting the years that have gone before,
Waiting there for the ship to come
To bear him away to his final home,
While the tide flows on.
Longingly waiting the ship to come
To bear him across to his long, long home,
While the day grows dark in the evening's gleam,
And the tide rolls on.

—B. F. Sawyer.

The Model Millionaire.

Unless one is wealthy there is no good in being a charming fellow. Romance is the privilege of the rich, not the profession of the unemployed. The poor should be practical and prosaic. It is better to have a permanent income than to be fascinating. These are the great truths of modern life which Hughie Erskine never realized. Poor Hughie! Intellectually, we must admit, he was not of much importance. He never said either a brilliant or an ill-natured thing in his life. But then he was wonderfully good-looking, with his crisp brown hair, his clear-cut profile, and his gray eyes. He was as popular with men as he was with women, and he had every accomplishment except that of making money. His father had bequeathed him his cavalry sword and a 'History of the Peninsular War' in fifteen volumes. Hughie hung the first over his looking glass, put the second on a shelf between Ruff's Guide and Baily's Magazine, and lived on two hundred a year that an old aunt allowed him. He had tried everything. He had gone on the Stock Exchange for six months; but what was a butterfly to do among bulls and bears? He had been a tea merchant for a little longer, but had soon tired of Pekoe and Souchong. Then he had tried selling dry sherry. That did not answer. Ultimately he became nothing, a delightful, ineffectual young man with a perfect profile and no profession.

To make matters worse, he was in love. The girl he loved was Laura Merton, the daughter of a retired colonel who had lost his temper and his digestion in India, and had never found either of them again. Laura adored him, and he was ready to kiss her shoestrings. They were the handsomest couple in London, and had not a penny piece between them. The Colonel was very fond of Hughie, but would not hear of any engagement.

"Come to me, my boy, when you have got £10,000 of your own, and we will see about it," he used to say; and Hughie looked very glum on those days, and had to go to Laura for consolation.

One morning, as he was on his way to Holland Park, where the Mertons lived, he dropped in to see a great friend of his, Alan Trevor. Trevor was a painter. Indeed, few people escape that nowadays. But he was also an artist, and artists are rare. Personally he was a strange, rough fellow, with a freckled face and red hair. However, when he took up the brush he was a real master, and his pictures were eagerly sought after. He had been very much attracted by Hughie, at first, it must be acknowledged, entirely on account of his good looks. "The only people a painter should know," he used to say, "are people who are bete and beautiful, people who are an artistic pleasure to look at and an intellectual repose to talk to. Dandies and darlings rule the world!" However, after he got to know Hughie better, he liked him quite as much for his bright, buoyant spirits and his generous, reckless nature, and had given him the permanent entree to his studio.

When Hughie came in he found Trevor putting the finishing touches to a wonderful life-size picture of a beggar man. The beggar himself was standing on a raised platform in a corner of the studio. He was a wizened old man, with a face like wrinkled parchment, and a most piteous expression. Over his shoulders was flung a coarse brown cloak, all tears and tatters; his thick boots were patched and cobbled, and with one hand he leaned on a rough stick, while with the other he held out his battered hat for alms.

"What an amazing model!" whispered Hughie, as he shook hands with his friend.

"An amazing model?" shouted Trevor at the top of his voice; "I should think so! Such beggars as he are not to be met with every day. My stars! what an etching Rembrandt would have made of him!"

"Poor old chap!" said Hughie, "how miserable he looks! But I suppose, to you painters, his face is his fortune?"

"Certainly," replied Trevor; "you don't want a beggar to look happy, do you?"

"How much does a model get for sitting?" asked Hughie, as he found himself a comfortable seat on a divan.

"A shilling an hour."

"And how much do you get for your picture, Alan?"

"O, for this I get a thousand."

"Pounds?"

"Guineas. Painters, poets, and physicians always get guineas."

"Well, I think the model should have a percentage," said Hughie, laughing; "they work quite as hard as you do."

"Nonsense, nonsense! Why, look at the trouble of laying on the paint alone, and standing all day long at one's easel! It's all very well, Hughie, for you to talk, but I assure you that there are moments when art approaches the dignity of manual labor. But you mustn't chatter; I'm very busy. Smoke a cigarette, and keep quiet."

After some time the servant came in, and told Trevor that the frame maker wanted to speak to him.

"Don't run away, Hughie," he said, as he went out. "I will be back in a moment."

The old beggar man took advantage of Trevor's absence to rest for a moment on a wooden bench that was behind him. He looked so forlorn and wretched that Hughie could not help pitying him, and he felt in his pockets to see what money he had. All he could find was a sovereign and some coppers. "Poor old fellow," he thought to himself, "he wants it more than I do, but it means no hansoms for a fortnight," and he walked across the studio and slipped the sovereign into the beggar's hand.

The old man started, and a faint smile flitted across his withered lips. "Thank you, sir," he said, in a foreign accent.

Then Trevor arrived, and Hughie took his leave, blushing a little at what he had done. He spent the day with Laura, got a charming scolding for his extravagance, and had to walk home.

That night he strolled into the Palette Club about 11 o'clock, and found Trevor sitting by himself in the smoking room.

"Well, Alan, did you get the picture finished all right?" he said, as he lit his cigarette.

"Finished and framed, my boy!" answered Trevor; and, by the by, you have made a conquest. That old model you saw is quite devoted to you. I had to tell him all about you—who you are, where you live, what your income is, what prospects you have——"

"My dear Alan," cried Hughie, "I shall probably find him waiting for me when I go home. But of course you are only joking. Poor old beggar! I wish I could do something for him. I think it is dreadful that any one should be so miserable. I have got heaps of old clothes at home—do you think he would care for any of them? Why, his rags were falling to bits."

"But he looks splendid in them," said Trevor. "I wouldn't paint him in a frock coat for anything. What you call rags I call romance. What seems poverty to you is picturesqueness to me. However, I'll tell him of your offer."

"Alan," said Hughie seriously, "you painters are a heartless lot."

"An artist's heart is his head," replied Trevor; "and besides, our business is to realize the world as we see it, not to reform it as we know it. And now tell me how Laura is. The old model was quite interested in her."

"You don't mean to say you talked to him about her?" said Hughie.

"Certainly I did. He knows all about the relentless Colonel, the lovely damsel, and the £10,000."

"You told that old beggar all my private affairs?" cried Hughie, looking very red and angry.

"My dear boy," said Trevor, smiling, "that old beggar, as you call him, is one of the richest men in Europe. He could buy all London to-morrow without overdrawing his account. He has a house in every capital, dines off gold plates, and can prevent Russia going to war when he chooses."

"What on earth do you mean?" exclaimed Hughie.

"What I say," said Trevor. "The old man you saw to-day was Baron Hausberg. He is a great friend of mine, buys all my pictures and that sort of thing, and gave me a commission a month ago to paint him as a beggar. And I must say he made a magnificent figure in his rags, or perhaps I should say in my rags; they are an old suit I got in Spain."

"Baron Hausberg!" cried Hughie. "Good heavens! I gave him a sovereign!" and he sank into an armchair the picture of dismay.

"Gave him a sovereign!" shouted Trevor and he burst into a roar of laughter. "My dear boy, you'll never see it again."

"I think you might have told me, Alan," said Hughie sulkily, "and not let me make such a fool of myself."

"Well, to begin with, Hughie," said Trevor, "it never entered my mind that you went about distributing alms in that reckless way. I can understand your kissing a pretty model, but your giving a sovereign to an ugly one—by Jove, no! Besides, the fact is that I really was not at home to-day to anyone; and when you came in I didn't know whether Hausberg would like his name mentioned. You know he wasn't in full dress."

"What a duffer he must think me!" said Hughie.

"Not at all. He was in the highest spirits after you left; kept chuckling to himself and rubbing his old wrinkled hands together. I couldn't make out why he was so interested to know all about you; but I see it all now. He'll invest your sovereign for you, Hughie, pay you the interest every six month, and have a capital story to tell after dinner.

"I am an unlucky chap," growled Hughie. "The best thing I can do is to go to bed; and, my dear Alan, you mustn't tell anyone. I shouldn't dare to show my face in the Row."

"Nonsense! It reflects the highest credit on your philanthropic spirit, Hughie, and don't run away. Have another cigarette, and you can talk about Laura as much as you like."

However, Hughie wouldn't stop, but walked home, feeling very unhappy, and leaving Alan and Trevor in fits of laughter.

The next morning, as he was at breakfast, the servant brought him up a card, on which was written "Monsieur Gustave Naudin, de la part de M. le Baron Hausberg." "I suppose he has come for an apology," said Hughie to himself; and he told the servant to show the visitor up.

An old gentleman with gold spectacles and gray hair came into the room, and said, in a slight French accent, "Have I the honor of addressing Monsieur Hugh Erskine?"

Hughie bowed.

"I have come from Baron Hausberg," he continued. "The Baron——"

"I beg, sir, that you will offer him my sincere apologies," said Hughie.

"The Baron," said the old gentleman, with a smile, "has commissioned me to bring you this letter;" and he handed Hughie a sealed envelope.

On the outside was written: "A wedding-present to Hugh Erskine and Laura Merton, from an old beggar," and inside was a check for £10,000.

When they were married Alan Trevor was the best man, and the Baron made a speech at the wedding-breakfast.

"Millionaire models," said Alan, "are rare enough; but, by Jove, model millionaires are rarer still!"—London World.

FAMILY MATTERS.

Useful Hints.

Mortar and paint may be removed from window glass with hot, sharp vinegar.

If you have no dark place for the fruit cans, wrap each one separately in heavy paper.

A tablespoonful of turpentine boiled with white clothes will greatly aid the whitening process.

Dusting cloths must be washed often or they will carry more dirt into the rooms than they take out.

To test nutmegs, prick them with a pin, and if they are good the oil will instantly spread cround the puncture.

Cayenne pepper blown into the cracks where ants congregate will drive them away. The same remedy is also good for mice.

To scour knives easily, mix a small quantity of baking soda with your brick dust, and see if your knives do not polish better.

When a black silk garment begins to show tiny holes or cracks not large enough to be darned or patched, pieces of black sticking plaster may be cut to the size and pasted on the wrong side and pressed with a warm iron over a thin paper.

Healthful Summer Drinks.

Sarsaparilla Mead: Three pounds sugar, three ounces tartaric acid, one ounce cream tartar, one ounce flour, one ounce essence of sarsaparilla, three quarts water. Strain and bottle it, then let it stand ten days before using.

Maple Beer: To four gallons boiling water put one quart maple syrup and one tablespoonful essence of spruce; when about milk warm add one pint of yeast, and when fermented bottle it. In three days it will be fit for use.

Currant Shrub: Boil currant juice and sugar, in proportion of one pound sugar to one pint juice, five minutes Stir it constantly while cooling; when cold, bottle it. Use like raspberry shrub, one spoonful or two to a tumblerful of water.

Raspberry Liquor: A pint of raspberries in a quart of spirits must be corked tightly for a month; then clarify a pound of sugar in a pint and a half of water; filter off the spirit and add it to the syrup; mix well and put it in small bottles.

Raspberry Vinegar: Mash two quarts of rasberries in an earthen vessel; put them in a large stone bottle or jar, pour into them two quarts of good wine vinegar, cork the jar slightly and let the juice distill in the sun or warmth for two or three weeks; then filter clear and bottle it, corking it well.

English Ginger Beer: Pour four quarts of boiling water on one ounce and a half of ginger, one ounce cream tartar, one pound brown sugar and two lemons sliced thin. Put in two gills of yeast, let it ferment twenty-four hours and bottle it. It improves by keeping a few weeks, unless it is very hot weather, and it is a very nice beverage.

Lemonade Syrup: With one pound of lump sugar rasp the yellow rind of six lemons. Moisten the sugar with as much water as it will absorb, and boil it to a clear syrup. Add the juice of twelve lemons, stirring it in well beside the fire, but do not let it boil any more. Bottle the syrup at once, and cork it when cold. Mix a little of this syrup with cold water when lemonade is wanted.

Raspberry Vinegar with Sugar: Mash the fruit in an earthen bowl; to every pound of raspberries add a pint of vinegar; cover, and let it stand two or three days, then press it through a jelly-bag; to every pint put half a pound of loaf sugar; set the juice on the fire to come to a boil, take off any scum that rises; allow five minutes' gentle boiling; set it to get cold, then pour it into small bottles and cork well.

Currant Vinegar: This fine vinegar is made by simply pressing the fruit to a mash; let it stand a night, then strain the juice off clear and fill bottles to the brim. Set them uncorked in the sun or in a warm place until the fermentation ceases. Any little impurity that rises skim off with a piece of blotting paper, and cork the bottles well. White currants are excellent for delicate pale vinegar. Red ones make a vinegar equal to that made from the finest red wine.

Oatmeal Drinks: First put into a large pan a quarter of a pound of fine, fresh oatmeal, six ounces of white sugar, and half a lemon, cut into small pieces. Mix with a little warm water; then pour over it one gallon of boiling water, stirring all together thoroughly, and use when cold. This makes a most refreshing and strengthening drink. If preferred, raspberry vinegar, citric acid or any other flavoring may be used instead of the lemon. More oatmeal may also be used if preferred. Second—Six ounces of fine oatmeal, four ounces of cocoa and eight ounces of sugar, mixed gradually and smoothly into a gallon of boiling water. Use when cold.

Ginger Beer: The following recipe for making a very superior ginger beer is taken from the treatise of Dr. Pereira on diet. The honey gives the beverage a peculiar softness, and from not being fermented with yeast it is less violent in its action when opened, but requires to be kept a somewhat longer time before use: White sugar, five pounds; lemon juice, quarter of a pint; honey, one-quarter of a pound; ginger bruised, five ounces; water, four and a half gallons. Boil the ginger in three quarts of the water for half an hour, then add the sugar, lemon juice and honey, with the remainder of the water, and strain through a cloth; when cold add a quarter of the white of an egg and a small teaspoonful of essence of lemon. Let the whole stand four days and then bottle; it will keep for many months. This quantity will make one hundred bottles.

Professor Neumayer, of Hamburg, urges the necessity of antarctic explorations, laying special stress on its importance for geology and paleontology. He anticipates that it will show that the south pole was a centre of dispersion of animals and plants of the southern hemisphere, as the north pole is supposed to have been for the northern.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "The Facts Proved."

TEXT: "We are witnesses."—Acts xv., 3.

In the days of George Stephenson, the perfecter of the locomotive engine, the scientists proved conclusively that a railway train could never be driven by steam power successfully and without peril; but the rushing express train from Liverpool to Edinburgh, and from Edinburgh to London, have made all the nation witnesses of the splendid achievement. Machinists and navigators proved conclusively that a steamer could never cross the Atlantic ocean; but no sooner had they successfully proved the impossibility of such an undertaking than the work was done, and the passengers on the Cunard and the Inman and the National and the White Star lines are witnesses. There went up a guffaw of wise laughter at Professor Morse's proposition to make the lightning of heaven his errand boy, and it was proved conclusively that the thing could never be done; but now all the news of the wide world by Associated Press, put in your hands every morning and night, has made all nations witnesses.

So in the time of Christ it was proved conclusively that it was impossible for him to rise from the dead. It was shown logically that when he was dead he was dead, and the heart and the liver and the lungs having ceased to perform their offices, the limbs would be rigid beyond all power of friction or arousal. They showed it to be an absolute absurdity that the dead Christ should ever get up alive; but no sooner had they proved this than the dead Christ arose, and the disciples beheld him, heard his voice and talked with him, and they took the witness stand to prove that to be true which the wiseacres of the day had proved to be impossible; the record of the experiment and of the testimony is in the text: "Him hath God raised from the dead, whereof we are witnesses."

Now, let me play the skeptic for a moment. "There is no God," says the skeptic, for I have never seen Him with my physical eyesight. Your Bible is a pack of contradictions. There never was a miracle. Lazarus was not raised from the dead, and the water was never turned into wine. Your religion is an imposition on the credulity of the ages." There is an aged man moving in that pew as though he would like to respond. Here are hundreds of people with faces a little flushed at these announcements, and all through this house there is a suppressed feeling which would like to speak out in behalf of the truth of our glorious Christianity, as in the days of the text, crying out: "We are witnesses."

The fact is, that if this world is ever brought to God, it will not be through argument, but through testimony. You might cover the whole earth with apologies for Christianity and learned treatises in defense of religion—you would not convert a soul. Lectures on the harmony between science and religion are beautiful mental discipline, but have never saved a soul, and never will save a soul. Put a man of the world and a man of the church against each other and the man of the world will in all probability get the triumph. There are a thousand things in our religion that seem illogical to the world, and always will seem illogical.

Our weapon in this conflict is faith, not logic; faith, not metaphysics; faith, not profundity; faith, not scholastic exploration. But then, in order to have faith, we must have testimony, and if 500 men, or 1,000 men, or 500,000 men, or 5,000,000 men get up and tell me that they have felt the religion of Jesus Christ a joy, a comfort, a help, an inspiration, I am bound as a fair minded man to accept their testimony. I want just now to put before you three propositions, the truth of which I think this audience will attest with overwhelming unanimity.

The first proposition is: We are witnesses that the religion of Christ is able to convert a soul.

The Gospel may have had a hard time to conquer us, we may have fought it back, but we were vanquished. You say conversion is only an imaginary thing. We know better. "We are witnesses." There never was so great a change in our heart and life on any other subject as this. People laughed at the missionaries in Madagascar because they preached ten years without one convert; but there are 33,000 converts in Madagascar to-day. People laughed at Dr. Judson, the Baptist missionary, because he kept on preaching in Burmah five years without a single convert: but there are 20,000 Baptists in Burmah to-day. People laughed at Dr. Morrison, in China, for preaching there seven years without a single conversion; but there are 15,000 Christians in China to-day. People laughed at the missionaries for preaching at Tahiti for fifteen years without a single conversion, and at the missionaries for preaching in Bengal seventeen years without a single conversion; yet in all those lands there are multitudes of Christians to-day.

But why go so far to find evidences of the Gospel's power to save a soul? "We are witnesses." We were so proud that no man could have humbled us; we were so hard that no earthly power could have melted us; angels of God were all around about us, they could not overcome us; but one day, perhaps at a Methodist anxious seat, or at a Presbyterian catechetical lecture, or at a burial, or on horseback, a power seized us, and made us get down, and made us tremble, and made us kneel, and made us cry for mercy, and we tried to wrench ourselves away from the grasp, but we could not. It flung us flat, and when we arose we were as much changed as Gourgis, the heathen, who went into a prayer meeting with a dagger and a gun to disturb the meeting and destroy it, but the next day was found crying: "Oh, my great sins! Oh! my great Saviour!" and for eleven years preached the gospel of Christ to his fellow mountaineers, the last words on his dying lips being "Free grace!" Oh, it was free grace.

There is a man who was for ten years a hard drinker. The dreadful appetite had sent down its roots around the palate and the tongue, and on down until they were interlinked with the vitals of the body, mind and soul; but he has not taken any stimulants for two years. What did that! Not temperance societies. Not prohibitory laws. Not moral suasion. Conversion did it. "Why," said one upon whom the great change had come, "sir, I feel just as though I were somebody else."

There is a sea captain who swore all the way from New York to Havana, and from Havana to San Francisco, and when he was in port he was worse than when he was on the sea. What power was it that washed his tongue clean of profanities and made him a psalm singer? Conversion by the Holy Spirit. There are thousands of people in this house to-night who are no more what they once were than a waterlily is nightshade, or a morning lark is a vulture, or day is night.

Now, if I should demand that all those people in this house who have felt the converting power of religion should rise, so far from being ashamed, they would spring to their feet with more alacrity than they ever sprang to the dance, the tears mingling with their exhilaration as they cried: "We are witnesses!" And if they tried to sing the old Gospel hymn they would break down with emotion by the time they got to the second line:

Ashamed of Jesus, that dear friend
On whom my hopes of heaven depend!
No! When I blush be this my shame,
That I no more revere his name.

Again I remark that "we are witnesses" of the Gospel's power to comfort.

When a man has trouble the world comes in and says: "Now get your mind off this; go out and breathe the fresh air; plunge deeper into business." What poor advice. Get your mind off of it! when everything is upturned with the bereavement and everything reminds you of what you have lost. Get your mind off of it! They might as well advise you to stop thinking. You cannot stop thinking, and you cannot stop thinking in that direction. Take a walk in the fresh air! Why, along that very street or that very road she once accompanied you. Out of that grass plot she plucked flowers, or into that show window she looked, fascinated, saying: "Come, see the pictures." Go deeper into business! Why, she was associated with all your business ambition, and since she has gone you have no ambition left. Oh, this is a clumsy world when it tries to comfort a broken heart! I can build a Corliss engine, I can paint a Raphael's "Madonna," I can play a Beethoven's "Symphony" as easily as this world can comfort a broken heart. And yet you have been comforted. How was it done? Did Christ come to you and say: "Get your mind of this; go out and breathe the fresh air; plunge deeper into business?" No. There was a minute when he came to you—perhaps in the watches of the night, perhaps in your place of business, perhaps along the street—and he breathed something into your soul that gave peace, rest, infinite quiet, so that you could take out the photograph of the departed one and look into the eyes and the face of the dear one, and say: "It is all right; she is better off; I would not call her back. Lord, I thank thee that thou hast comforted my poor heart."

There are Christian parents here who are willing to testify to the power of this Gospel to comfort. Your son had just graduated from school or college and was going into business, and the Lord took him. Or your daughter had just graduated from the young ladies' seminary and you thought she was going to be a useful woman and of long life; but the Lord took her and you were tempted to say: "All this culture of twenty years for nothing?" Or the little child came home from school with the hot fever that stopped not for the agonized prayer or for the skillful physician, and the little child was taken. Or the babe was lifted out of your arms by some quick epidemic, and you stood wondering why God ever gave you that child at all, if so soon he was to take it away. And yet you are not repining, you are not fretful, you are not fighting against God.

What has enabled you to stand all the trial? "Oh," you say, "I took the medicine that God gave my sick soul. In my distress I threw myself at the feet of a sympathizing God, and when I was too weak to pray or to look up, he breathed into me a peace that I think must be the foretaste of that Heaven where there is neither a tear, nor a farewell, nor a grave." Come, all ye who have been out to the grave to weep there—come, all ye comforted souls, get up off your knees. Is there no power in this Gospel to soothe the heart? Is there no power in this religion to quiet the worst paroxysm of grief? There comes up an answer from comforted widowhood and orphanage and childlessness, saying: "Aye, aye, we are witnesses!"

Again, I remark that we are witnesses of the fact that religion has power to give composure in the last moment. I shall never forget the first time I confronted death. We went across the cornfields in the country. I was led by my father's hand and we came to the farm house were the bereavement had come, and we saw the crowd of wagons and carriages: but there was one carriage that especially attracted my boyish attention, and it had black plumes. I said: "What's that? what's that? Why those black tassels at the top?" and after it was explained to me, I was lifted up to look upon the bright face of an aged Christian woman, who three days before had parted in triumph. The whole scene made an impression I never forgot.

In our sermons and in our lay exhortations we are very apt, when we want to bring illustrations of dying triumph, to go back to some distinguished personage—to a John Knox or a Harriet Newell. But I want you for witnesses.

I want to knew if you have ever seen anything to make you believe that the religion of Christ can give composure in the final hour. Now, in the courts, attorney, jury and judge will never admit mere hearsay. They demand that the witness must have seen with his own eyes, or heard with his own ears, and so I am critical in my examination of you now, and I want to know whether you have seen or heard anything that makes you believe that the religion of Christ gives comfort in the final hour.

"Oh, yes," you say, "I saw my father and mother depart. There was a great difference in their deathbeds. Standing by the one we felt more veneration. By the other there was more tenderness." Before the one you bowed perhaps in awe. In the other case you felt as if you would like to go along with her. How did they feel in that last hour? How did they seem to act? Were they very much frightened? Did they take hold of this world with both hands as though they did not want to give it up? "Oh, no," you say, "no, I remember as though it were yesterday; she had a kind word for us all, and there were a few mementoes distributed among the children, and then she told us how kind we must be to our father in his loneliness, and then she kissed us goodby and went asleep as a child in a cradle."

What made her so composed? Natural courage? "No," you say; "mother was very nervous. When the carriage inclined to the side of the road she would cry out. She was always rather weakly." What, then, gave her composure? Was it because she did not care much for you and the pang of parting was not great? "Oh," you say, "she showered upon us a wealth of affection; no mother ever loved her children more than mother loved us. She showed it by the way she nursed us when we were sick, and she toiled for us until her strength gave out." What, then, was it that gave her composure in the last hour? Do not hide it. Be frank and let me know. "Oh," you say, "it was because she was so good. She made the Lord her portion, and she had faith that she would go straight to glory, and that we should all meet her at last at the foot of the throne."

Here are people who say: "I saw a Christian brother die, and he triumphed." And some one else: "I saw a Christian sister die, and she triumphed." Some one else will say: "I saw a Christian daughter die and she triumphed." Come, all ye who have seen the last moments of a Christian, and give testimony in this cause on trial. Uncover your heads, put your hand on the old family Bible from which they used to read the promises, and promise in the presence of high heaven that you will tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. With what you have seen with your own eyes, and from what you have heard with your own ears, is there power in this Gospel to give calmness and triumph in the last exigency? The response comes from all sides, from young, and old, and middle aged: "We are witnesses!"

You see, my friends, I have not put before you an abstraction, or a chimera, or anything like guess work. I present you affidavits of the best men and women, living and dead. Two witnesses in court will establish a fact. Here are not two witnesses but thousands of witnesses—on earth millions of witnesses, and in heaven a great multitude of witnesses that no man can number, testifying that there is power in this religion to convert the soul, to give comfort in trouble, and to afford composure in the last hour.

If ten men should come to you when you are sick with appalling sickness, and say they had the same sickness, and took a certain medicine, and it cured them, you would probably take it. Now, suppose ten other men should come up and say: "We don't believe there is anything in that medicine." "Well," I say: "have you ever tried it?" "No. I never tried it, but don't believe there is anything in it." Of course you discredit their testimony. The skeptic may come and say: "There is no power in your religion!" "Have your ever tried it?" "No, no." "Then avaunt!" Let me take the testimony of the millions of souls that have been converted to God and comforted in trial and solaced in the last hour. We will take their testimony as they cry: "We are witnesses!"

Some time ago Prof. Henry, of Washington, discovered a new star, and the tidings sped by submarine telegraph, and all the observatories were watching for that new star. Oh, hearer; looking out through the darkness of your soul, canst thou see a bright light beaming on thee? "Where?" you say, "Where? How can I find it?" Look along by the line of the cross of the Son of God. Do you not see it trembling with all tenderness and beaming with all hope? It is the Star of Bethlehem.

Deep horror then my vitals froze,
Death struck, I ceased the tide to stem,
When suddenly a star arose—
It was the Star of Bethlehem.

It is easier for you all to become Christians than it is to stay away from Christ and heaven. When Mme. Sontag began her musical career she was hissed off the stage at Vienna by the friends of her rival, Amelia Steininger, who had already begun to decline through her dissipation. Years passed on, and one day Mme. Sontag, in her glory, was riding through the streets of Berlin, when she saw a little child leading a blind woman, and she said: "Come here, my little child, come here. Who is that you are leading by the hand?" And the little child replied: "That's my mother; that's Amelia Steininger. She used to be a great singer, but she lost her voice, and she cried so much about it that she lost her eyesight." "Give my love to her," said Mme. Sontag, "and tell her an old acquaintance will call on her this afternoon."

The next week in Berlin a vast assemblage gathered at a benefit for that poor blind woman, and it was said that Mme. Sontag sang that night as she had never sung before. And she took a skilled occulist, who in vain tried to give eyesight to the poor blind woman. Until the day of Amelia Steininger's death Mme. Sontag took care of her and her daughter after her. That was what the queen of song did for her enemy.

But, oh! hear a more thrilling story still. Blind, immortal, poor and lost—thou who, when the world and Christ were rivals for thy heart, didst hiss thy Lord away—Christ comes now to give thee sight, to give thee a home, to give thee heaven. With more than a Sontag's generosity he comes now to meet your need. With more than a Sontag's music he comes to plead for thy deliverance.

A Combination.

A little girl.
A green pear.

Combination.

—Philadelphia Press.

Youthful Courtesy.

NEW RESIDENT—"Can I turn over and play wis zoo?"

GENTLEMAN ADDRESSED—"No, yer can't; and if yer don't stop lookin' at our house, I'll throw a brick at yer."—Life.

As the Virginia street car rolled from Cottage street into Virginia, says the Buffalo Courier, a young woman motioned the conductor to stop. Before the car had come to a standstill she stepped off and landed her full length upon the pavement on her back. It seemed to the passengers that she must have been seriously injured, and as she was being assisted to her feet, one lady with an expression of pity upon her face said: "What a foolish woman." The injured one straightened herself in an instant, waved her broken parasol in a threatening manner and shouted: "When I want your opinion I'll ask for it."

Cutting.

Miss Hazeltine and her dearest friend have had a tiff, and the air is getting a little lurid.

"No matter what you say as to my personal appearance, good judges often speak of my startling resemblance to Marie Antoinette; so there!"

"Yes, you do resemble her wonderfully; that is, at the somewhat late period of her—I can't say life—when she lost her head."—Tid-Bits.

"Hoist With His Own Petard."

Mr. Carrington—"My dear, if you would only devote less attention to those foolish novels, and more to the details of the household, I am sure things here would go smoother."

Mrs. Carrington—"My dear, if you would devote less attention to your club and more to your wife, I know they would. If you will take the trouble to glance at the title of the novel, you will see that it's a Cook Book."—Tid-Bits."

A Washington man tells of a quarrel between two negro boys. The larger boy with great volubility was applying every sort of abusive epithet. The younger boy, leaning against a fence and steadily regarding the speaker with a sudden scowl, waited for a halt. At last it came. "Is you done?" "Yes, I is done." Then slowly and coolly the younger said: "All dem dings you say I is, you is dem."

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW said something the other day that is good enough to frame. He said: "Looking back upon a life of nearly fifty years, I remember those who started with me. All those who were sober and industrious and saved their money, now own their own households, but every one of those who drank are dead.

GREAT complaints have been made about the impure drinking water at Baltimore. Mr. Martin, chief engineer, says there is a bad taste in the water which is due to a very small red ant which now infests the water. The ants are dying out, and the water will have its proper taste soon.

Thankful for Small Favors.

"No, Algernon, I cannot marry you. Papa will not allow it."

"Why not?"

"Because he says you are an actor."

"Your father is much kinder than the [illegible]."—Washington Critic.

BEFORE THE DAWN.

The silence of the summer night—
A space or two before its flight,
Falls deeper on the dewy height
And hollow, where all webby-white,
The early mists begin to float:
And then the peaceful hush is stirred—
The first sweet carol of a bird
From out the solemn dark is heard,
A clear, awakening note.

We hear it, rousing from a dream,
And know while all things earthly seem Wrapped close in night, a vague white gleam
Is surely broadening to a beam
Of flaring light and fervent power;
A drowsy fancy of the dawn
Comes to us, in a moment gone—
Perhaps a fairy on the lawn
Is creeping from each flower.

Perhaps between the night and day,
The elves do meet and dance away
The mystic hour when mortals stay
Enchained by slumber's potent sway,
And vanish when the east grows red.
And in good truth must fairies ply
A hundred arts while yet the sky
Is dark, before the planets die,
Or the late moon has fled.

They tint the velvet sward anew,
And brim the lilybells with dew,
And tinge the skies with tender blue,
And trail white vails of vapor through,
The treetops and the valleys low;
They stir and fan the drowsy air,
And scatter fragrance everywhere;
And pin white blossoms here and there
Like starry flecks of snow.

And lo! when daylight breaks serene,
Upon the widespread, radiant scene—
The bloom of flowers, the dewy green
Of treetops, with white webs between
The early glow of lane and lawn,
We look, and utter words of praise,
But reck not of the heaven-sent fays
Who set the picture for our gaze
And flit before the dawn.

—Hattie Whitney.

PITH AND POINT.

Old as the hills—The valleys.

A legal blank—The idiotic lawyer.

A large head is a sign of brains, but a big head is a sign of folly.—Philadelphia Call.

A piece of her cake she'd give—how kind—
Whenever to ask he did see fit;
Now they are married, a piece of her mind
She will give without his asking for it.
—Goodall's Sun.

A novel under the curious name of "The Wasp" is just published. It must have a bad ending.—Life.

The small boy in a frolic
Robs the orchard of its apples,
And his infantile cruel colic
Subsequently grimly grapples.
—Boston Courier.

"Johnny," said the minister, rather severely, "do you chew tobacco?" "Yes, sir," was the reply, "but I'm clean out just now; Jimmy Brown's got some, though."—Washington Critic.

Truth, crushed to earth, will rise again,
It springeth quickly up:
And those who have tried the experiment says
It's the same with a barrel hoop.
—Tid-Bits.

Oft in the chilly night,
Ere solar rays had bound us,
Have we for heat cried out
With blankets all around us.

But now when Sol has got the call
To burn us up like tether,
We sigh for ice, with breezes nice,
And civil-service weather.
—New York Journal

Short Stories From the Chinese.

A young tiger met an old one and said: "I got hold of a man to-day whose upper parts were so tasteless and his nether parts so sour, that, hungry as I was, I left him in disgust. I wonder what sort of man this could be?" "A student who has had to buy his degree," was the reply.

Chang and Chung mutually agreed to start a brewery. Said Chang to Chung: "You supply the rice and I will furnish the water." "But," queried Chung, "if the profits are divided accordingly to the capital embarked, I am afraid it will be difficult to apportion your share." "Oh, I'm not afraid," said Chang; "when the brew is over, give me the water; you can have the remainder."

A man was seized by a tiger. The victim's son took his bow and pursued. "Hit him in the leg," cried the father, "else you'll spoil the market value of the skin."

A bibulous individual, on entering a restaurant, noticed that the wine cups were small. After seating himself, he gave vent to a most demoniacal series of howls and groans. "What is the matter?" asked the startled landlord. "Ah," answered the man, "my father, a hale, hearty man, met his death at a friend's table by accidentally swallowing a small wine cup, so whenever I see similar ones, the memory of the sad event overcomes me." It is needless to add that the cup was replaced by a larger one.

A hard drinker dreamed that he had become possessed of a bottle of genuine stuff, but, determined to enjoy it thoroughly, he had begun to heat it. During the heating process he awoke. "Hoo, hoo," he groaned. "If I had known this was to happen, I would have drunk it cold."

A servant did not fill a guest's cup to the brim. The latter, holding it up, remarked: "This cup is too deep, and broke a piece of. "How is that?" cried the host. "If the upper part can't hold liquor, of what use is it?" was the smart retort.—Chinese Review.

Discipline Must Be Preserved.

A cadet at West Point was recently arrested and confined three days in the guard house for brushing a fly off his nose while on parade. And that same day the Indians came up to a small fort in Northwestern Dakota, and chased the man on picket duty a mile and a half and then run off twelve head of horses and yelled so loudly that the hair of the commanding officer, who recently came out from Washington, turned white. And the Government never said a word—not a whisper. You wouldn't have known it was anywhere around. In fact, it wasn't. It was back at West Point running that poor cadet all over the grounds and whooping at him till it was hoarse and asking him what he meant by insulting the flag by brushing that fly off his nose.—Dakota Bell.

We commonly slander more through vanity than malice.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 8, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The Non-Unionist is the name of a fiery "straight-out rat paper" recently established as the organ of the non-union printers in Montgomery.

The strike of the L. & N. brakemen is still on. Most of the strikers places have been filled with new men and trains are now run through on regular time.

Dick Busteed, at one time a Federal Judge of Alabama, but now of New York, is said to have behaved so badly that his wife has sued for a divorce. The old sinner is charged with running off and living with another woman.

The Contest Case.

The contest case for the probate judgeship of this county was taken up in our circuit court last Thursday and a continuance was asked for by the contestee, on the ground of a defect in the affidavit of the contestant. The court over-ruled this and the contestee then offered a demurrer which, after much discussion both pro and con, the court failed to sustain. The contestee then claimed that a sufficient number of illegal votes had been polled for the contestant as to reduce his majority enough to make the contestee duly elected and asked a continuance so as to have sufficient time to prove the same. A continuance was granted.

THE CROPS.

Later Reports of the Prospect in Chilton County.

The following reports have been obtained from farmer friends attending court. It will be gathered from these reports that owing to continued wet weather, the outlook is not so encouraging as when we published our last reports, especially as to the cotton crop.

VERBENA.

Corn fair average. Peas, potatoes, cane, and all other cereals good. Cotton cut off one-third by the storm of July 27th, and worms have also made their appearance, which makes it difficult to determine how much the cotton crop will be short of an average crop. Picking cotton is under good headway. Fodder was saved in good condition. Hay prospects good.

K. W.

Cotton crop around me is sorry. Corn crop is good. Pea crop would make a fine yield with an early rain. Rice bad stand. Potatoes needing rain.

L. MOORE.

DIXIE.

Cotton damaged some in this neighborhood by rust and rain. Corn, cane and all other crops good.

J. R. PARNELL.

JEMISON.

The corn crop is fine, but cotton will fall short 20 per cent. of what it promised five weeks ago.

H. C.

STRASBURG.

Crops generally appear good, though some rust in cotton.

B. F. HAMMOND.

KINCHEON.

Crops are fine in this section although cotton has been slightly damaged by rust. The farmers think they will make plenty of hog and hominy to do them.

J. W. KEMP.

Corn crop fine, as are other grain and small crops. Cotton very sorry. Will raise only two-thirds of a cotton crop.

C.

JUMBO.

Cotton crop mighty sorry. Sugar cane, peas, and grain crops very good. Corn crops the best in many years.

J. J. HONEYCUTT.

LILY.

Crops not so good around me as when I last reported. Considerable rust in cotton. Damage about one-third. Other crops the very best.

D. A. WHITE.

Cotton crop sorry—too much wet weather. Corn crop large and pea, potato and cane crops ditto.

JASPER GILES.

NORTHWEST CHILTON.

Some rust in cotton. Corn crop damaged by the gale in July, but is very good where properly cultivated.

Z. J. JONES.

LOMAX.

Cotton crop around me has been cut short one-third by rust and wet weather. Corn, peas and other crops very good.

J. B. MORGAN.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. Mr. Skipper has returned from Mont Eagle and Lookout Mountain, very much improved. Commenced a protracted meeting Sunday, and has preached several of his usual earnest and impressive sermons to good congregations. Much interest is manifested and a good number went forward to be prayed for last night (Monday).

Our high school opened Monday morning with a good attendance. All seemed pleased with Prof. Acker, and his assistants. Miss Callier comes to us highly recommended as a teacher and Christian lady. Mrs. Davis is too well and favorably known here to need any recommendation. I am satisfied that this is one of the best points in Alabama for a first-class high school. With prohibition, churches, Sunday schools, good health, society, cheap board, good water, altogether make it very attractive for school purposes.

Dr. B. J. Baldwin has gone to Ashville, N. C., to join his family. Mrs. Billing goes by Ashville to Niagara. Col. John and family have returned to Selma. Mr. Haetterman and family, of Mount Willing are at the Clifton. Miss Abbott Spratlin, of Montgomery, is with her aunt, Mrs. Zimmerman. Mrs. Bostwick, of Benton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Farley.

Josh Billings says, "Brevity and silence are too great cards, and next to saying nothing, saying little is the strength of the game." Therefore we say briefly that White's Cream Vermifuge is preferred by all as a remedy for worms, for the simple reason that it is the only pure preparation that brings the worms surely and speedily.

Maplesville Dots.

All the fall crops are needing rain very much.

Our farmers are having a nice time to gather their cotton now and they should take advantage of it.

Mrs. Burns, of Selma, is visiting friends at Maplesville this week.

We are glad to have our young friend Master Walter Boline, of Selma, with us this week and hope he will make a long stay.

Rev. Mr. Star, of Plantersville, will preach at the new church, at this place next Sunday.

The Florence, Tuscaloosa and Montgomery railroad that is now being surveyed will probably cross the E. T. V. & G. about three hundred yards below Maplesville; just at the entrance of the deep cut.

Misses Ursuld DuBose and Mamie Kelley called on the Glover boys one day last week and as usual found the young men in the field but they soon came to the house and entertained the ladies for awhile; then they were escorted by Mr. Frank G. around to the ground pea patch. They seemed surprised to see nearly four acres in ground peas and many of the vines measuring fifteen feet in circumference. One of the young ladies actually wished she were a hog for about an hour. What next?

DUNCE.

A misanthropic kind of a fellow was he who sat in the chimney corner hugging to his bosom a starless kind of disbelief in all things good until a friend brought him a bottle of Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment which curing him of piles transformed him into a happy mortal. Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment is the best remedy ever prepared for piles.

Stanton Puffs.

We have not seen anything from this burg in a month, but we are still in the land of the living.

Mr. C. W. Plant has been and is still very sick.

Rev. G. W. Mills has resigned the pastorate of the Baptist church. Rev. J. M. McCord has been called as his successor.

The new road across Mulberry has been opened. Mr. M. Ramsey is building the bridge across the creek.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. E. A. McGehee has decided to leave our village and move to Marion where she has accepted a position at the Judson.

Stanton Academy is still without a teacher. Arrangements will be made to-night which we hope will give us a good one.

Revs. Mr. Noble and Dr. Urquhart are holding a protracted meeting this week in the Presbyterian church. They will probably be assisted by Rev. Mr. James, of Selma.

Mr. Ed. Thrash and Miss Eunice Thrash are visiting at Mr. Richard's this week.

We learn that Mrs. Wallace, of Montevallo, is going to move to our town, to keep house for her sons who are in business here.

Mrs. Thomas is building a residence in Stanton. It is nearing completion.

The furniture factory is crowded with orders and shipments are being made almost daily.

Mr. Harwood, of Uniontown, was in town yesterday looking after the school here.

Mr. G. W. Vaught, has sold his house and lot here to Mr. R. Davidson, of Selma. Mr. Hernandez has rented it for the year and has moved his family into it.

89

Our Cool Weather.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

Some of our readers will be pleased to hear that reputable weather prophets predict cool weather until about December 1st, after which date the winter will be rather warmer than usual.

The first part of September will be unusually cool, it is said, and about the 13th a heavy storm may be expected to cross the continent. This storm will be accompanied by high winds, rain, hail and thunder. Its most destructive force will be expended in the Atlantic States. The middle ten days of the month will probably be warm, and the last ten will be cool.

These predictions are from Professor Foster, of Iowa, and he rarely ever makes a mistake, they will be of general interest.

A Democratic Record.

Somebody asked the Little Rock Democrat to point out what the democrats have accomplished in the three years which they have had charge of the government, and that paper replies as follows:

1. It has restored more than 100,000,000 acres of unearned land grants to the public domain for the benefit of poor settlers.

2. It has paid nearly $200,000,000 of the public debt, and at the same time paid more money for pensions than was ever paid before in the same time.

3. The expenses of the government have been reduced about $15,000,000.

4. Hordes of lazy, incompetent and useless officials have been dispensed with.

5. It has broken up Indian rings land rings and tradeship rings that flourished till the democrats came into power.

6. It has established business methods and strict economy for jobbery and wasteful extravagance.

7. It has given the lie to the charge that the democrats if entrusted to power would "put the negro back in slavery and pension the confederate soldiers."

8. It has done more in three years to curb the rapacity of corporations than the republican party did in a quarter of a century.

9. The democratic party repealed the odious and unjust tenure of office act.

10. A democratic congress passed an act forbidding the ownership of land by aliens.

11. A democratic congress instituted a searching inquiry into the affairs and management of the Pacific railroads—an investigation which has already accomplished much good.

12. The democrats reduced the fees on postal money orders and extended the benefits of the free delivery system.

13. A democratic congress ordered the adjustment of railroad land grants.

14. A democratic congress passed an act authorizing the issue of small silver certificates, a matter of great advantage to the people.

15. A democratic congress passed an act settling the succession to the presidency, and also the act regulating the counting of the electoral vote. There could be no more important acts.

16. A democratic congress passed an act forbidding the use of convict labor upon all government works. A just and wise act.

All this has been done by democrats inside of three years. And we assure our correspondent that this is only a part of the "splendid record" made by the democratic party within that time.

Attention R. R. L.

For sprains, bruises, rheumatism, cramps, inflammation, swellings, cuts, burns, etc., in man, and splint, ring bone, windgall, epizootic, scratches, etc. in horses, Rangum Root Liniment is a sure cure. The "King of Liniments" is a universal verdict. Never fails to cure any ailment that can be reached by an external medical application. 50 cents per bottle. For sale by all druggists.

The Editor.

The Mobile Register has something to say about an ideal newspaper editor. He must not seek to please himself but rather seek to please all tastes among his patrons. We are disposed to think he must all the time please himself. He must be a man of quick perceptions, correct taste and strong faith in himself. It is not necessary that the public shall agree with all he says. If all he says has the imprint of his own character upon it, and his character being as we describe it, the public will read his utterances and read again. An editor must not be a cosmopolite in the sense of the Register's definition, but rather a positive force ahead of the level of public opinion.—Age.

According to Mother Goose, when a man marries his trouble begins, but experience teaches him that some evils must be remedied. Hence when it is remedied he procures a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge a preparation that will cure all the children on the globe if they are troubled with worms. White's Cream Vermifuge means death to worms.

TINC

Don't suffer any longer, but use Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure, the only infallible cure on earth for all forms of neuralgia and nervous headache. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn 50 cents per box. Sold by all druggists. sep 1 to use Hodges' Sarsaparilla with Iodide of Potash, the great purifier for the blood. A certain cure for rheumatism, scrofulous affections, and all diseases peculiar to females. Renovates and invigorates the system. Physicians recommend it. Take no other. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Nashville, Tenn. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Now is the Time

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicine in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

—SUCH AS—

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. [illegible] send for book [illegible] to Woman, mailed free. B[illegible] Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE.

Pupils in attendance last session 211. Officers engaged 19.

Twenty-eighth session opens Wednesday, Sept. 14.

For catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

aug18-1m]

A. J. MASSEY,

OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

☞ Will go far and near.

Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

NOTICE NO. 6561.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., }
August 10, 1887. }

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Lowery J. Glasscock, homestead 11294 for the s w ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 14, township 24, range 14. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6650.

U. S. Land Office, }
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 31, 1887. }

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15, 1887, viz: John Morris, declaratory statement 1266 for the w ½ of n w ¼ sec 24, t 24 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henry Jones William Greie, George Eatres, Jonathan Eatres, all of Shelby Iron Works, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.

☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address

COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

THE LIGHT-RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL. - 30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. - DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO. ATLANTA, GA.

aug10-1y

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT.

NEVER FAILS TO CURE SPRAINS CUTS RHEUMATISM AND ALL DISEASES OF MAN AND BEAST THAT CAN BE REACHED BY AN EXTERNAL MEDICAL APPLICATION 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT IS GUARANTEED TO CURE ALL FORMS OF PILES

HODGES SARSAPARILLA CURES ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM AN IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD.

T. I. N. C. IS THE ONLY INFALLIBLE CURE ON EARTH FOR ALL KINDS OF NEURALGIA

SOLD EVERYWHERE

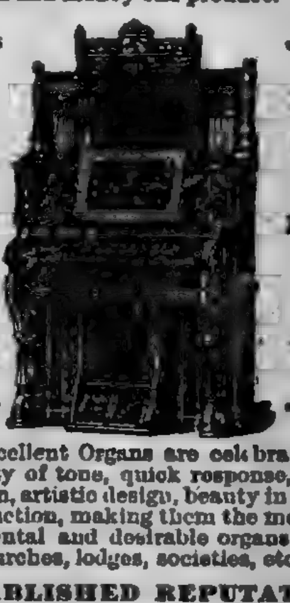
MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. CO NASHVILLE. TENN.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

L&N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,

And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

(3)

THE Cheap Cash Store,

—OF—

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 26-6

Wanted!

To purchase 50 head of calves and yearlings from six months to one and a half years old. Will pay spot cash.

J. F. MAULL,

Maull's Mill, near Strasburg, Ala.

aug25-4t

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,

Are displaying a Complete and Varied Assortment of

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes, Clothing and Millinery.

Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,

Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.

Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,

SELMA, ALABAMA.

mar24-y]

WILSON HOUSE.

A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.

Birmingham, Alabama.

Jobbers and Retailers of

PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER, Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,

Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜

We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,

ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Wool Carding.

Now is the time to get your wool carded. Our cards are in fine order. Ship to

E. G. WALKER,

Montevallo, Ala.

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements.

GO TO BLANK BROS., LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 8, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.

—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Mrs. W. H. McNeil is visiting Birmingham.

See the Tax Collector's notice in another column.

Verbena sent a large delegation up to look at the hot well test.

The VIEW Stationery Stand is the place to get your writing material.

Court week demonstrated that Sheriff Smitherman is a hard working officer.

Miss Graft, of Robinson Springs is visiting Clanton. She is the guest of Mrs. Evans.

If you want school books you can find what you want at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Mrs. A. M. Adams and family are spending a month with friends and relatives in Clanton.

Call on Mrs. Phillips over the Drug Store and see her new lot of Ladies' Hats and trimmings.

The Montgomery and Shelby county bars were well represented at this term of our circuit court.

Malarial poison may be thoroughly eradicated from the system by using Dr. J. H. McLean's Chill and Fever cure. It is mild in action and a certain cure. 50 cts. a bottle.

Mr. Morgan, who attends to Mr. J. H. Chandler's lumber yard at this place is off on a visit to his home in Louisiana.

Attorney Collier developed into "a whole team" on the election contest case. He is generally at home in a court of law.

Judge Moore, of the fourth circuit, has presided over our court during the present term with great satisfaction to all concerned.

The farmer's friend has for many years been Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment, for horses, cattle, hogs and sheep. It has proved its worth in thousands of cases.

If you want nice fresh candies, crackers, canned goods and all kinds of confectioneries you should call on Mrs. M. A. Butler on the west side of the railroad.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Ehrman, of this place, on Friday night last, a son. Mr. Ehrman says the business of R. Ehrman will soon be changed to Ehrman & Son.

If you suffer pricking pains on moving the eyes, or cannot bear bright light, and find your sight weak and failing you should use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve. 25 cts. a box.

Mr. C. C. DuBose, of the Shelby Chronicle, was in Clanton Friday. He is an enterprising and thorough-going newspaper man and it gives us pleasure to note his success.

The Terry Show Case Co., of Nashville, Tenn., have a double column advertisement in the VIEW to which attention is called. This is an old and well established manufactory of show cases, cabinets, &c. They will give you bottom prices on the very best goods manufactured in their line.

Mixed News.

The hot well boom has proved a failure and we consider this bad news. To counteract this I will let you know that I am selling everything very cheap, and this is good news for those who buy goods in Clanton, the best market this side of Montgomery. Come and see for yourselves and bring your cotton to market while the price is good.

Yours Truly,
W. L. SAMPEY.

Mr. S. J. Brock and wife have gone to Montgomery to live. Mr. Brock will engage in the retail grocery business in that progressive city. We wish him much success.

There were more strangers at the hot well Friday than home folks. It might have been due to the fact that the home folks had greater and more frequent opportunities for close observations heretofore.

Mr. Will Wadsworth, of Wadsworth Station, paid the VIEW a pleasant call last Friday. He has just returned from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where he has been attending the Eastman Business College.

A sort of lethargy sometimes takes possession of the kidneys and bladder; they should be promptly stimulated to healthful action by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney balm.

Persons who lead a life of exposure are subject to rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago and will find a valuable remedy in Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment; it will banish pain and subdue inflamation.

S. M. Rigney, Veterinary Surgeon says: To kill lice on stock boil one ounce coculusendicus in one gallon of water for half an hour then wash all over where the lice are. They will all be dead in one hour.

Messrs. R. E. Bolling & Son, of Montgomery, have an advertisement in this issue of the VIEW. Mr. Ed. Trimble, who is well known in this section, is still connected with this firm and desires to inform his friends that he will be pleased to wait on them when they visit the city and will also take pleasure in attending to their orders by mail.

When the stomach lacks vigor and regularity there will be flatulence, heartburn, nausea, sick-heard ache, nervousness, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier, to give tone and regularity to the stomach.

Faults of digestion cause disorders of the liver, and the whole system becomes deranged. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier perfects the process of digestion and assimilation, and thus makes pure blood.

Chilton should have an exhibit at the State Fair to be held in Montgomery next month. We only have one month now to prepare for it and if anything is going to be done in that direction it should be done at once. Our timber and mineral resources would make a fine showing at Alabama's Exposition.

Bloom, Montgomery's best tailor has an advertisement in the VIEW. He has recently enlarged his tailoring apartments to meet the requirements of his increasing patronage and he is now better prepared than ever to do all kinds of work in his line. He makes dying scouring, cleaning and repairing, of ladies' and gentlemens' apparel a specialty. Read his advertisement and give him a trial.

When you are constipated with loss of appetite, headache, take Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets, they are pleasant to take and will cure you, 25 cts a vial.

The quality of the blood depends much upon good or bad digestion and assimilation; to make the blood rich in life and strength giving constituents, use Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier; it will nourish the properties of the blood from which the elements of vitality are drawn.

Having purchased the school book and stationery business of W. M. Wilson, the VIEW Stationery Stand is now prepared to furnish you with any school book you may want and also all kinds of stationery, writing material and anything usually kept in a book and stationery store. If you want anything which we haven't got in stock we will take pleasure in ordering it for you. Call on us.

Conceit is to human character what salt is to the ocean; it keeps it sweet and renders it endurable.

A lecture ought to be something which all can understand, about something which interests everybody.

I admire a man mainly for his primary relation with truth, as I understand truth; not for any secondary artifice in handling his ideas.

Little minded people's thoughts move in such small circles that five minutes conversation gives you an area long enough to determine their whole course.

In the decline of life, infirmities beset us to which our youth and maturity were strangers, our kidneys and liver are subject to derangement, but nothing equals Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm as a regulator of these organs.

The Result.

After three days investigation and deliberation the committee conducting the hot well test gave it as their opinion that the water was originally cold and had been heated by artificial means. The following special correspondence to the Montgomery Dispatch is republished to show the impression which the well generally and very reasonably created upon every stranger. The well has been a small wonder for a great while, however the water may have been heated.

CLANTON, Sept 2.—A large number of citizens, including ladies and gentlemen from different parts of the country, were present to-day to witness the test made of the temperature of the Clanton hot well under the direction and in the presence of a committee composed of Dr. Green, of Opelika, Robert Douglas, mineralogist, W. R. Holder, and W. W. Wadsworth, of Mountain Creek, and Jas. M. Ponder, which began about 12 o'clock to-day and continued up to 6 p. m., during which time they had water drawn out at the rate of eight or ten gallons per minute without causing much effect upon the temperature of the water, which registered 140 degrees at the beginning and at the close of the examination the temperature indicated 136 degrees. The well is 8x10 feet in diameter and 35 feet deep, and was well filled in the beginning and at the close of the examination contained about ten to fifteen feet of water. During the test the hot steam continually rose from the well and to one's flesh appeared hotter than in the earlier part of the day. There were many present who still doubted the cause of the heat, and insisted that it was communicated from a steam jet used in running the steam sawmill belonging to Mr. Blasingame which enters the well and when used would evidently tend to heat the water. This jet is about an inch in diameter, and was not used to-day after the test began and for hours was kept several inches above the water entirely disconnected with it. Dr. S. M. Rigney late in the evening was let down into the well as far as he was able to go, on account of the heat and came out covered with prespiration, and reported the walls of the well which are of clay so hot that he could not bear his hands upon them. I bathed my hands in the water and drank some of it after drawn and cooled, and was satisfied no artificial heat could create and retain for so long a time and especially after such large quantities of water had been drawn out—much more than the well contained in the beginning of the test. I learned after I left the well that at 6 o'clock corked bottles were let down in the water to the bottom of the well, and on removing the stopper with a string were drawn up through this large volume of hot water filled with cold water. I saw several whom I knew who stated that when the mill was idle for weeks and no fires were kept there, and deep snow and ice everywhere thick, that this water still preserved its heat as now; and others whom I saw, told me of cures it had effected with them in a short time by its use, for only a few days. And yet we have our doubting Thomases. How it is that the cold water can be in this hot water I can't see. The test will go further before this committee reports. The well is now leased for ten years at $1,000 a year, be it, hot or cold. The lessee was present to-day and witnessed the test.

But They Don't Know It.

[Wilmington Star.]

A faithful newspaper is about the best friend the people have.

E P O

Don't waste time and money and undergo needless torture with the knife when when Ethiopian Pile Ointment will afford instant relief and certain cure in every case of blind, bleeding, itching, internal and external piles. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn. 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

NOTICE NO. 6500.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 7, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15th, 1887, viz: Homestead 18490 for the s ½ of s e ¼ sec 6, t 20 n r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Robert M. Robuck, E. F. Fuller, William F. Robuck, all of Maplesville, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Tax Notice.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1887:

Strasburg	October	17
D. H. Mullins'	"	18
Archey's	"	19
Jemison	"	20
Providence	"	21
David Woolley's	"	22
Macedonia	"	24
Benson	"	15
Mapleaville	"	25
R. Latham's	"	26
Dixie	"	27
Pilgrim's Rest Church	"	28
Kincheon	"	29
Energy Postoffice	November	2
Verbena	"	3
Cooper's	"	4
Clanton	"	6
Cane Creek Church	"	8
Maull's Mill	"	9
Chandler's Mill	"	10
Bivings, Duke & Co.'s	"	11

D. A. WHITE, T. C.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

DON"T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

NOTICE NO. 6621.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
July 30, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on September 17, 1887, viz: Henry H. Herbert, Homestead 12524 for the n w ¼ sec 22 t 21 n r 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: N. A. Dobbs, John D. Wyatt, A. C. Duke, and W. A. Jones, all of Clanton, Ala.

aug3 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6569.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
Aug. 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 23rd, 1887, viz: James C. Williams, homestead 13282, for the w ½ of se ¼ and sw ¼ of ne ¼, sec 12, township 20, range 13. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: William I Mullins, William C. Dickerson, Thomas W. Weldon and J. H. Griffis, all of Kincheon, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6559.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 24th, 1887, viz: Oma Hill, homestead 10336, for the s e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 14 township 24 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6560.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 9, 1887,

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Thomas Craddock, homestead 10220 for the n ½ of s w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14 township 24 north range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George B. Glasscock, and Lowery J. Glasscock, of Shelby Iron Works, Ala., Elijah Headley and Samuel L. Arledge, of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

THE

Verbena High School.

—:o:—

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

—:o:—

Will Open Sept: 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class		$1 50
Intermediate Class,		2 50
High School	"	3 00
Commercial	"	3 00
Collegiate	"	4 00

Primary Department is confined to reading, writing and spelling.

Intermediate Department will include arithmetic and the first lessons in grammar, geography and elocution.

High School Department will include algebra, geometry and a complete English and Scientific course.

Commercial Course includes bookkeeping and the law of contracts.

Collegiate course includes higher Mathematics, French, Latin and Greek.

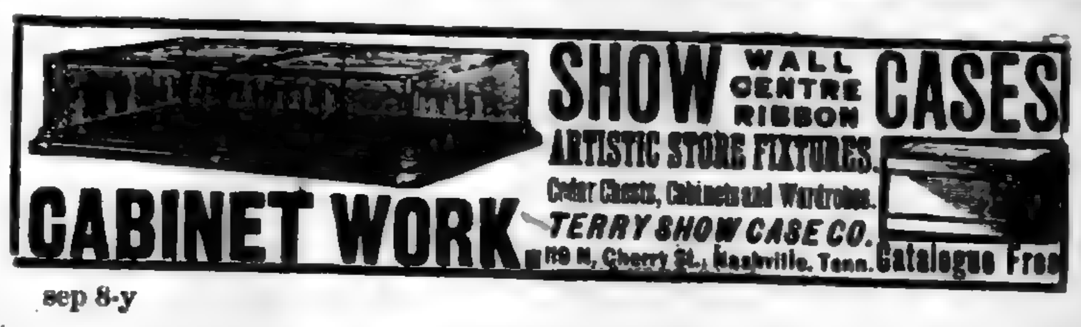
MISS CALLIER is a graduate of the Marion Female Seminary and has four years' experience in teaching.

MRS. DAVIS graduated at the Summerfield (Ala.) school in 1859 and has several years' experience.

Tuition is payable monthly in advance, but patrons are allowed the first two weeks in each month in which to settle.

Good board in private families at reasonable prices.

Students will be prepared for any class in college.



SHOW WALL CENTRE RIBBON CASES

ARTISTIC STORE FIXTURES.

Cedar Chests, Cabinets and Wardrobes.

CABINET WORK

TERRY SHOW CASE CO.

119 N. Cherry St., Nashville, Tenn. Catalogue Free

sep 8-y

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

WATCH IT.

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1st AVE. AND 21st STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES.
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices: P. O. Box 808. [July8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos: 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

—o—

Wholesale Grocers,

—o—

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. [jan23-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils, [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY
- AND -
SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O., Telephone 448. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods,

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. [illegible]

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.

SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

PAT WALSH, Manager,

A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand

ALL KINDS OF

Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work

DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.

☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,

922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.

CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

Sheet Music and Scrap Books,

Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

---

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.

Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,

Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street

LOUISVILLE, KY.

BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.

☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS, STAIR RAILS,

Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.

Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.

—DEALERS IN—

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,

Avondale, Ala.

☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

The Chilton View Job Office,

IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR

JOB PRINTING,

SUCH AS

NOTE HEADS,

LETTER HEADS,

BILL HEADS,

ENVELOPES,

CARDS,

COMMISSARY CHECKS,

CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS

OF ALL KINDS,

NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.

SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

NEWS AND NOTES FOR WOMEN.

The old-fashioned sandal is re-established in favor for ladies' wear.

The rage for two colors extends even to passementerie ornamentation for dresses and mantles.

A novelty which is likely to prove invaluable for wearing during outdoor pursuits is mittens of light calf leather.

A new silk glove is long enough to go over the sleeve, and so trimmed with bows as to appear as if fastened by them.

Children's dresses are longer-waisted than last season, being made down to the waist line and sometimes slightly below.

A much favored ornament of the moment consists of necklaces of passementerie composed of several graduated rows.

The long redingote polonaise is much favored for all costumes for walking and morning wear, and many variations of it are seen.

Homespun costumes usually have a decoration of hussar braid and buttons extending from the top to the edge of the skirt.

Coarse homespun clothes are still worn, the newest showing broad stripes of colored fluffy dots on their fawn-colored or neutral-tinted grounds.

Broche costumes are made with pique waistcoats, which may be of any shade from pure white to the darkest orange embroidered with colored spots.

It is becoming customary to make the trains of wedding gowns separate from the skirt, so that it may be removed when the dress is afterward worn at balls.

The Princess Mampour, of Ismail, is a very extravagant young potentate. She is up to her jeweled ears in debt, and yet she thinks nothing of paying $500 for a pug.

The once ugly waterproof has developed into an elegant garment in wool or silk of fashionable pattern and color, and is a very desirable addition to a lady's wardrobe.

When belles travel they more and more take to what may be called aggressive costumes. Enveloping cloaks are made of pronounced plaid, and sometimes a skull cap is worn to match.

Mrs. Stephen Morley, a Montreal woman of wealth, kept over 200 cats in her house. The board of health raided her, and she lost her pets. Now she is suing the board for damages.

Skirts made of fancy stuffs, with which different overdresses may be worn, are fashionable. The draperies are usually arranged high, leaving the skirt the conspicuous feature of the costume.

In scarfs nearly every style now seems to be worn, including China crepe, India silk and cashmere, plain and embroidered. However, the Spanish lace scarf still continues not only staple, but the favorite.

For silk and wool combination dresses contrasts of color are again seen, with fine, soft camel's hair for the waists and drapery over a silk skirt of Ottoman, Bengaline, faille Francaise or any good repped silk.

Miss Annie Thomas, of Billings, Montana, is the busiest woman in that busy territory. She conducts a 6,000-acre ranch, looks after valuable timber property and has an interest in two paying mines near Butte City.

Very elegant looking costumes have plain but ample draperies, which are artistically fastened here and there with agraffes of old silver. These pretty ornaments are also seen upon the crowns and brims of stringless bonnets and large hats.

London photographers encourage the idea of American women being presented at court. Every woman immediately has her picture taken in court costume to send home to her dear 500 friends. The photographers are growing rich under this new dispensation.

The wife of the Viceroy Li, of China, recently paid a visit to the foreign hospital for women at Tien-Tsin and showed much sympathy with the poor patients. She ordered her attendants to distribute money to all alike. The incident is regarded as noteworthy, as Chinese dignitaries heretofore have paid little heed to charity.

It is estimated that there are 3,000,000 workingwomen in England, about one-half of whom are in domestic employment. Further, that half the working class families of the land are maintained by the work of women's hands at ridiculously low wages. The British Weekly suggests that jubilee year is a good time to make some efforts looking to a betterment of their condition.

A dainty flower parasol of real blossoms was lately presented to the Czarina by the officers of a Russian corps on regimental fete day. Pale pink roses formed the centre of the parasol, with a border of deep red blooms, while sprays of lilies of the valley hung all around the edge in a graceful fringe. The arms of the regiment were embroidered on a white satin ribbon knotted around the ivory handle of the parasol.

The latest fancy in hair dressing is the coiffure a la vrai Greque, not high on the head, but drawn in a close coil, rolled under something like a French twist on the back of the head, brushed off the temples and forehead, with only a few light curly tresses falling from under a riviere of jewels, or a Greek fillet that just touches the top of the forehead and describes a straight line to the back of the head. The whole effect is very close, and no additional hair is required.

To Properly Endorse a Check.

Very few otherwise intelligent and educated people understand how to properly endorse a check payable to their order, and few realize the inconvenience they cause by placing their endorsement in an awkward position. An observance of the following rules will enable anybody to place the signature in the proper place:

1. Write across the back—not lengthwise.

2. The top of the back is the left end of the face.

3. To deposit a check, write "For deposit only to credit of——," and below this write his own name.

4. Simply writing your own name on the back of a check signifies that it has passed through your hands and is payable to bearer.

6. Always indorse a check just as it appears on the face. For instance, if the check is payable to "G. Read," indorse "G. Reed;" if to "Geo. Read," indorse "Geo. Read;" if to "George F. Read," indorse "George F. Read." If the spelling of the name on the face of the check is wrong, indorse first just as the face appears, and below in the proper way.

6. If you wish to make the check payable to some particular person, write "payable to——or order—— —"

In England all checks are payable to bearer, but in this country all strangers presenting checks for payment must be identified by some one known to the bank.—Commercial News.

PROF. REUB. FIELDS.

Missouri's Mathematical Prodigy and His Wonderful Work.

One of the most wonderful men of this day is living a few miles south of Higginsville, Mo. He is known everywhere as Prof. Reuben Fields, and probably the only man in the country who travels free on railroads and never has a pass, and don't bother about the long and short haul clause. Prof. Fields is undoubtedly a mathematical wonder. He has no education whatever, does not know a single letter of the alphabet, nor his own name if printed in sixteen-line pica wood type, bold face. Nor does he know one figure from another, though he will solve any problem in mathematics given him. The Professor called at the office of the Globe-Democrat correspondent to-day and entertained him and his friends for some time. He never carries a watch, but when asked what time of day he promptly answered fourteen minutes and thirty-four seconds after 3. Though four watches varied slightly as to the seconds, the minutes were all right. When asked on what day of the week the 23d day of November, 1861, came, he answered, "Saturday." He answered this and a number of similar questions without a moment's hesitation. To the question: "What will thirty-nine pounds of sugar at 13 cents a pound amount to?" He promptly answered, $5.07, and before those who were figuring with him could get the question on paper.

The question: "What will nineteen and a half yards of calico at six and three-quarter cents amount to?" was quickly answered—$1.31¼. These were very easy ones to the Professor, and he asked for something hard.

The following was given him:

"If I run twenty-seven yards in one minute, how long will it take to run six miles?" With very little study came the answer—391 1-9 minutes, or 6 hours, 31 1-9 minutes.

These problems seemed not to puzzle him, as the answers came as soon as the questions were asked. On the following, however, he required a little study, owing, as he said, to the noise about him. The question was: "From here to Louisiana, Mo., it is 159 miles; how many revolutions does the driving wheel of an engine, 16 feet in circumference, make in a run from this place to Louisiana?"

The Professor studied a little, muttering strings of figures. "Millions, billions, trillions, quadrillions, 352 to the mile—53,988 revolutions," came the answer before the calculators found out how many revolutions it made to the mile. The figures "734" were written on paper and shown him. He did not know what they were, and, in fact, he is ignorant on any other subject than mathematics, and then the question must be asked verbally. He is 36 years of age, and was born in Kentucky. He claims that his gift was given from heaven, and says that it came to him suddenly when 8 years old. He says the Lord made but one Samson, one Solomon, and one Reub. Fields. To the one he gave strength, to the other wisdom, and to himself mathematical instinct. He guards this instinct with the utmost care, and will not answer questions unless he is paid, fearing that it will be taken from him should he use it to satisfy idle curiosity. He also was given the following:

"A has a certain sum of money; he goes to a theatre and pays $1 admission, spends half of what he has left, and pays $1 to get out; he goes to a second theatre and pays $1 admission, spends half he has left, and pays $1 to get out; he goes to a third theatre, pays $1 admission, spends half of what he has left, and then pays his last dollar to get out; how much had he when he started?"

While one or two of those present commenced to scratch up half-forgotten algebra, the professor was soaring among the "millions, billions, trillions, quadrillions," and then suddenly dropped down to $21 before the algebraical calculators got their paper ready to commence. Before the professor left each one present knew the day of the week each one was born on. The professor accepted a dollar with thanks, and promised another call to-morrow.

Luxurious Lounge.

The "Parsee chair" is announced as the successor of the hammock. A seashore correspondent who has seen one describes it as a sort of box or cradle of mahogany, with a high back and low sides. It is covered with Hindu rugs, and has two large, soft pillows worked in rich, Turkish embroidery. At each corner the chair is supported by ropes which depend from the roof, and which run through hollow pieces of mahogany, making the supports seem like slender and flexible wooden columns. "In the Parsee chair," it seems, "a lady may lounge and swing in the most picturesque of attitudes, without suffering that curvature of the spine which the hammock entails."

A Long Sleep.

The fortnight's sleep of the French commercial traveller, Chaffat, which created such a sensation in London, England, last spring, has been completely eclipsed by a Russian sailor at the Walton workhouse, near Liverpool. Winstoffsky was brought to the workhouse in a sleepy condition, and at once went off into a pleasant doze, which lasted three weeks, when he woke up apparently much refreshed. On awakening, Winstoffsky was quite convinced that he had only taken his usual night's rest. He had been fed regularly, and his general condition of health was excellent.

THE Cremation Society of Zurich, Switzerland, has adopted the Bourry system, whereby only heated air communicates with the body, which is burned by the abundance of hot oxygen around it. The process of cremation takes an hour and a half, and can be seen through a window in the back of the sarcophagus. There is no smell of smoke.

EDELWEISS, the Alpine bridal blosom, is being forced by a New Jersey florist, and will be a fashionable flower the coming winter for trimming wedding gowns.

"Is there no balm in Gilead?
Is there no physician there?"

Thanks to Dr. Pierce, there is a balm in his "Golden Medical Discovery"—a "balm for every wound" to health, from colds, coughs, consumption, bronchitis, and all chronic, blood, lung and liver affections. Of druggists.

Experiments prove that electric lamps claiming to have 2,000 candle power have only 800.

No investment pays so well as a good education, as is clearly shown by the record of the Alumni of the RUGBY SCHOOL, LOUISVILLE, Ky. It offers the best advantages, and enjoys the highest class of patronage. For fifteen years it has stood with the foremost in preparing boys for college or business life. The terms are reasonable. Send for catalogue to

A. L. McDONALD, Principal.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Bronchitis is cured by frequent small doses of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

"Fools Rush In Where Angels Fear to Tread."

So impetuous youth is often given to folly and indiscretions; and, as a result, nervous, mental and organic debility follow, memory is impaired, self-confidence is lacking; at night bad dreams occur, premature old age seems setting in, ruin is in the track. In confidence, you can, and should write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the author of a treatise for the benefit of that class of patients, and describe your symptoms and sufferings. He can cure you at your home, and will send you full particulars by mail.

Coarse brown paper soaked in vinegar and placed on the forehead, is good for a headache.

Children Starving To Death

On account of their inability to digest food, will find a most marvelous food and remedy in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Very palatable and easily digested. Dr. S. W. COHEN, of Waco, Texas, says: "I have used your Emulsion in Infantile wasting with good results. It not only restores wasted tissues, but gives strength and increases the appetite. I am glad to use such a reliable article."

In Chicago, Ill., enough beer is consumed to give each inhabitant 720 glasses yearly.

THOSE who are trying to break up the baneful habit of intemperance will experience great benefit from the use of Prickly Ash Bitters. Liquors derange the system. Prickly Ash Bitters will remedy the evil results and restore the brain, stomach and liver to healthy action, thereby strengthening the will power, thoroughly cleansing and toning up the system and remove every taint of disease. It is purely a medicine, and while pleasant to the taste, it cannot be used as a beverage by reason of its cathartic properties.

Sweet clover is a reliable crop for owners of apiaries, from July until frost.

To Ladies

Suffering from functional derangements or any of the painful disorders or weaknesses incident to the sex, Dr. Pierce's treatise, illustrated with wood-cuts and colored plates (160 pages), suggests sure means of complete self-cure. Sent for 10 cents in stamps. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y.

Miss Minnie E. Folsom, relative of Mrs. Cleveland, is preceptress of Brookings College, Dak.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Dr. Thompson's Eye-water. All druggists sell it at 25c. a bottle.

Do Not Neglect

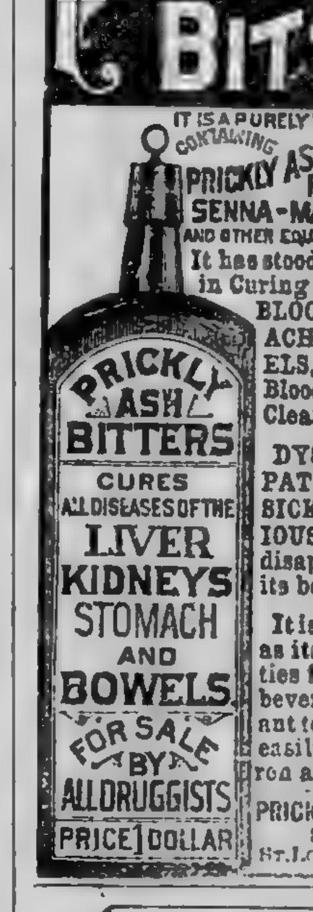
That tired feeling, impure blood, distress after eating, pains in the back, headache, or similar affections till some powerful disease obtains a firm foothold, and recovery is difficult, perhaps impossible. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the defender of health, in time to banish all bad feelings and restore you to perfect health. "When I took Hood's Sarsaparilla that heaviness in my stomach left; the dullness in my head, and the gloomy, despondent feeling disappeared. I began to get stronger, my blood gained better circulation, the coldness in my hands and feet left me, and my kidneys do not bother me as before." G. W. BULL, Attorney at Law, Millersburg, O.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS



IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES, SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.

DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.

It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

KIDDER'S DIGESTYLIN

A SURE CURE FOR

INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.

Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.

We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.

FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.

IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.

For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhoea, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.

Take DYGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty five years.

WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N.Y.

THOUSANDS say that Ely's Cream Balm cured them of HAY-FEVER

Apply Balm into each nostril.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
25 CTS 25 CTS

Singers and public speakers will find Piso's Cure for Consumption the best medicine for hoarseness and to strengthen the voice.

Children will take Piso's Cure without objection, because its taste is pleasant.

Thousands suffer from a short hacking Cough, who might be cured by a few doses of Piso's Cure.

Sold by druggists.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
25 CTS 25 CTS

MARLIN REPEATING RIFLE

BEST IN THE WORLD!

Guaranteed perfectly accurate and absolutely safe. Made in all sizes for large or small game.

BALLARD

Gallery, Hunting and Target Rifles. Send for Illustrated Catalogue. Marlin Fire Arms Co., New Haven, Conn.

Central University.

RICHMOND, KY. Next Session opens Sep. 14, '87

Full Faculty, thorough instruction, healthy location, moderate expense. For information and Catalogue apply to L. H. Blanton, D. D., Chancellor.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

ROUGH ON RATS

TRADE MARK
DON'T DIE IN THE HOUSE

Gone where the Woodbine Twineth.

Rats are smart, but "ROUGH ON RATS" beats them. Clears out Rats, Mice, Roaches, Water Bugs, Flies, Beetles, Moths, Ants, Mosquitoes, Bed-bugs, Insects, Potato Bugs, Sparrows, Skunks, Weasel, Gophers, Chipmunks, Moles, Musk Rats, Jack Rabbits, Squirrels. 15c. & 25c.

HEN LICE.

"ROUGH ON RATS" is a complete preventive and destroyer of Hen Lice. Mix a 25c. box of "ROUGH ON RATS" to a pail of whitewash, keep it well stirred up while applying. Whitewash the whole interior of the Hennery; inside and outside of the nests. The cure is radical and complete.

POTATO BUGS

For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, Shrubs, Trees, 1 pound or half the contents of a $1.00 box of "ROUGH ON RATS" (Agricultural Size) to be thoroughly mixed with one to two barrels of plaster, or what is better air slacked lime. Much depends upon thorough mixing, so as to completely distribute the poison. Sprinkle it on plants, trees or shrubs when damp or wet, and is quite effective when mixed with lime, dusted on without moisture. While in its concentrated state it is the most active and strongest of all Bug Poisons; when mixed as above is comparatively harmless to animals or persons, in any quantity they would take. If preferred to use in liquid form, a tablespoonful of the full strength "ROUGH ON RATS" Powder, well shaken, in a keg of water and applied with a sprinkling pot, spray syringe or whisk broom, will be found very effective. Keep it well stirred up while using. Sold by all Druggists and Storekeepers. 15c., 25c. & $1.

E. S. WELLS, Chemist, Jersey City, N. J.

DROPSY

TREATED FREE.

DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS,

Specialists for Thirteen Years Past,

Have treated Dropsy and its complications with the most wonderful success; use vegetable remedies, entirely harmless. Remove all symptoms of Dropsy in eight to twenty days.

Cure patients pronounced hopeless by the best of physicians.

From the first dose the symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed.

Some may cry humbug without knowing anything about it. Remember, it does not cost you anything to realize the merits of our treatment for yourself. In ten days the difficulty of breathing is relieved, the pulse regular, the urinary organs made to discharge their full duty, sleep is restored, the swelling all or nearly gone, the strength increased and appetite made good. We are constantly curing cases of long standing, cases that have been tapped a number of times, and the patient declared unable to live a week. Give full history of case. Name sex. How long afflicted, how badly swollen and where, are bowels costive, have legs bursted and dripped water? Send for free pamphlet, containing testimonials, questions, etc.

Ten days' treatment furnished free by mail.

If you order trial send 10cts in stamps to pay postage.

Epilepsy (Fits) Positively Cured.

H. H. GREEN & SONS, M. Ds.,
250½ Marietta Street, Atlanta, Ga.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS, Atlanta, Ga.

Send for Catalogue.

GOLDSMITH & SULLIVAN'S Business College!

Fitten Building, ATLANTA, GA. Most practical College South. Best course at least cost. Send for catalogue.

BUSINESS

Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

GOLD is worth $200 per pound, Pettit's Eye Salve $1,000, but is sold at 25 cents a box by dealers.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
25 CTS 25 CTS

A. N. U..........Thirty-Five, '87.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets

SIZE OF PELLETS.

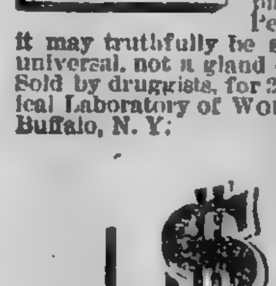
○ ○ ○
○ ○ ○

THE ORIGINAL LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS!

Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, or Little Sugar-coated Granules or Pills.

BEING ENTIRELY VEGETABLE, Dr. Pierce's Pellets operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a LAXATIVE, ALTERATIVE, or PURGATIVE, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.



SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, for 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

BOILS CURED. WILLIAM RAMICH, Esq., of Minden, Kearney County, Nebraska, writes: "I was troubled with boils for thirty years. Four years ago I was so afflicted with them that I could not walk. I bought two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, and took one 'Pellet' after each meal, till all were gone. By that time I had no boils, and have had none since. I have also been troubled with sick headache. When I feel it coming on, I take one or two 'Pellets,' and am relieved of the headache."

THE BEST CATHARTIC. Mrs. C. W. BROWN, of Wapakoneta, Ohio, says: "Your 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets' are without question the best cathartic ever sold. They are also a most efficient remedy for torpor of the liver. We have used them for years in our family, and keep them in the house all the time."

$500 REWARD

is offered by the PROPRIETORS OF

DR SAGE'S Catarrh Remedy

FOR A CASE OF CATARRH WHICH THEY CAN NOT CURE.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.

Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. However, only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties,

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY

CURES THE WORST CASES OF

Catarrh, "Cold in the Head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

PRICE, 50 CENTS.

UNTOLD AGONY FROM CATARRH. Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

CONSTANTLY HAWKING AND SPITTING. THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

THREE BOTTLES CURE CATARRH. ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 15	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	32 50
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton Vie

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors. "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1887.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

THE BROOKLYN DIVINE'S SUNDAY SERMON.

Subject: "Woman's Opportunity."

TEXT: "So God created man in His own image, the image of God created He him; male and female created He them."—Genesis i., 27.

In other words, God, who can make no mistake, made man and woman for a specific work, and to move in particular spheres—man to be regnant in his realm; woman to be dominant in hers. The boundary line between Italy and Switzerland, between England and Scotland, is not more thoroughly marked than this distinction between the empire masculine and the empire feminine. So entirely dissimilar are the fields to which God called them, that you can no more compare them than you can oxygen and hydrogen, water and grass, trees and stars. All this talk about the superiority of one sex to the other sex is an everlasting waste of ink and speech. A jeweler may have a scale so delicate that he can weigh the dust of diamonds; but where are the scales so delicate that he can weigh in them affection against affection, sentiment against sentiment, thought against thought, soul against soul, a man's world against a woman's world? You come out with your stereotyped remark, the man is superior to woman in intellect; and then I open on my desk the swarthy, iron-typed thunderbolted writings of Harriet Martineau and Elizabeth Browning and George Eliot. You come on with your stereotyped remark about woman's superiority to man in the item of affection; but I ask you where was there more capacity to love than in John the Disciple, and Robert McCheyne, the Scotchman, and John Summerfield the Methodist, and Henry Martin the missionary? The heart of those men was so large that after you had rolled into it two hemispheres there was room still left to marshal the hosts of heaven and set up the throne of the eternal Jehovah. I deny to man the throne intellectual. I deny to woman the throne affectional. No human phraseology will ever define the spheres while there is an intuition by which we know when a man is in his realm, and when a women is in her realm, and when either of them is out of it. No bungling legislature ought to attempt to make a definition, or to say: "This is the line and that is the line." My theory is that if a woman wants to vote she ought to vote; and that if a man wants to embroider and keep house, he ought to be allowed to embroider and keep house. There are masculine women and there are effeminate men. My theory is, that you have no right to interfere with any one's doing anything that is righteous. Albany and Washington might as well decree by legislation how high a brown-thrasher should fly, or how deep a trout should plunge, as to try to seek out the height or the depth of woman's duty. The question of capacity will settle finally the whole question, the whole subject. When a woman is prepared to preach, she will preach, and neither Conference nor Presbytery can hinder her. When a woman is prepared to move in highest commercial spheres, she will have great influence on the Exchange, and no boards of trade can hinder her. I want woman to understand that heart and brain can overfly any barrier that politicians may set up, and that nothing can keep her back or keep her down but the question of incapacity.

There are women, I know, of most undesirable nature, who wander up and down the country—having no homes of their own, or forsaking their own homes—talking about their rights; and we know very well that they themselves are fit neither to vote nor fit to keep house. Their mission seems to be to humiliate the two sexes at the thought of what any one of us might become. No one would want to live under the laws that such women would enact, or to have cast upon society the children that such women would raise. But I shall show you this morning that the best rights that woman can own, she already has in her possession; that her position in this country at this time is not one of commiseration, but one of congratulation; that the grandeur and power of her realm have never yet been appreciated: that she sits to-day on a throne so high, that all the thrones of earth piled on top of each other would not make for her a footstool. Here is the platform on which she stands. Away down below it are the ballot-box and the Congressional assemblage and the Legislative hall. Woman always has voted and always will vote. Our great grandfathers thought they were by their votes putting Washington into the presidential chair. No. His mother, by the principles she taught him, and by the habits she inculcated, made him President. It was a Christian mother's hand dropping the ballot when Lord Bacon wrote, and Newton philosophized, and Alfred the Great governed, and Jonathan Edwards thundered of judgment to come. How many men there have been in high political station who would have been insufficient to stand the test to which their moral principle was put had it not been for a wife's voice that encouraged them to do right, and a wife's prayer that sounded louder than the clamor of partisanship! Why, my friends, the right of sufferage, as we men exercise it, seems to be a feeble thing. You, a Christian man, come up to the ballot-box and you drop your vote. Right after you comes a libertine, or a sot—the offscouring of the street—and he drops his vote; and his vote counteracts yours. But if in the quiet of home life a daughter by her Christian demeanor, a wife by her industry, a mother by her faithfulness, casts a vote in the right direction, then nothing can resist it, and the influence of that vote will throb through the eternities.

My chief anxiety then is, not that woman have other rights accorded her; but that she, by the grace of God, rise up to the appreciation of the glorious rights she already possesses. This morning I shall only have time to speak of one grand and all-absorbing right that every woman has, and that is to make home happy. That realm no one has ever disputed with her. Men may come home at noon or at night, and they tarry a comparatively little while; but she, all day long, governs it, beautifies it, sanctifies it. It is within her power to make it the most attractive place on earth. It is the only calm harbor in this world. You know as well as I do, that this outside world and the business world, is a long scene of jostle and contention. The man who has a dollar struggles to keep it; the man who has it not struggles to get it. Prices up. Prices down. Losses. Gains. Misrepresentations. Gougings. Underselling. Buyers depreciating: salesmen exaggerating. Tenants seeking less rents: landlords demanding more. Gold fidgetty. Struggles about office. Men who are in trying to keep in; men out trying to get in. Slips. Tumbles. Defalcations. Panics. Catastrophes. O woman! thank God you have a home, and that you may be queen in it. Better be there than wear Victoria's coronet. Better be there than carry the purse of a Princess. Your abode may be humble, but you can, by your faith in God and your cheerfulness of demeanor, gild it with splendors such as an upholsterer's hand never yet kindled. There are abodes in the city—humble, two stories; four plain, unpapered rooms; undesirable neighborhood; and yet there is a man here this morning who would die on that threshold rather than surrender it. Why? It is home. Whenever he thinks of it, he sees angels of God hovering around it. The ladders of heaven are let down to that house. Over the child's rough crib there are the chantings of angels like those that broke over Bethlehem. It is home. These children may come up after a while, and they may win high position, and they may have an affluent residence; but they will not until their dying day forget that humble roof, under which their father rested, and their mother sang, and their sisters played. Oh, if you would gather up all tender memories, all the lights and shades of the heart, all banquetings and reunions, all filial, fraternal, paternal, and conjugal affections, and you had only just four letters with which to spell out that height and depth, and length and breadth, and magnitude, and eternity of meaning, you would, with streaming eyes, and trembling voice, and agitated hand, write it out in those four living capitals: H-O-M-E.

What right does woman want that is grander than to be queen in such a realm? Why, the eagles of heaven cannot fly across that dominion. Horses, panting and with lathered flanks, are not swift enough to run to the outposts of that realm. They say that the sun never sets upon the English empire; but I have to tell you that on this realm of woman's influence, eternity never marks any bound. Isabella fled from the Spanish throne, pursued by the nation's anathema; but she who is queen in a home will never lose her throne, and death itself will only be the annexation of heavenly principalities.

When you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you do not think of Catharine of Russia, or of Anne of England, or Marie Theresa of Germany; but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you think of the plain woman who sat opposite your father at the table, or walked with him arm-in-arm down life's pathway; sometimes to the thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave, but always together—soothing your petty griefs, correcting your childish waywardness, joining in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, toiling for you with needle or at the spinning wheel, and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then at last on that day when she lay in the back room dying, and you saw her take those thin hands with which she toiled for you so long, and put them together in a dying prayer that commended you to the God whom she had taught you to trust. O, she was the queen! The chariots of God came down to fetch her; and as she went in, all heaven rose up. You cannot think of her now without a rush of tenderness that stirs the deep foundations of your soul, and you feel as much a child again as when you cried on her lap; and if you could bring her back again to speak just once more your name, as tenderly as she used to speak it, you would be willing to throw yourself on the ground and kiss the sod that covers her, crying: "Mother! Mother!" Ah! she was the queen—she was the queen. Now, can you tell me how many thousand miles a woman like that would have to travel down before she got to the ballot-box? Compared with this work of training kings and queens for God and eternity, how insignificant seems all this work of voting for aldermen and common councilmen, and sheriffs, and constables, and mayors, and presidents. To make one such grand woman as I have described how many thousands would you want of those people who go in the round of godlessness, and fashion, and dissipation, distorting their body until in their monstrosities they seem to outdo the dromedary and hippopotamus, going as far toward disgraceful apparel as they dare go, so as not to be arrested by the police—their behavior a sorrow to the good and a caricature of the vicious, and an insult to that God who made them women and not gorgons; and tramping on, down through a frivolous and dissipated life, to temporal and eternal damnation?

O woman, with the lightning of your soul, strike dead at your feet all these allurements to dissipation and to fashion. Your immortal soul cannot be fed upon such garbage. God calls you up to empire and dominion. Will you have it? O, give to God your heart; give to God your best energies; give to God all your culture; give to God all your refinement; give yourself to Him, for this world and the next. Soon all these bright eyes will be quenched, and these voices will be hushed. For the last time you will look upon this fair earth. Father's hand, mother's hand, sister's hand, child's hand will be no more in yours. It will be night, and there will come up a cold wind from the Jordan, and you must start. Will it be a lone woman on a trackless moor? Ah, no! Jesus will come up in that hour and offer His hand, and He will say: "You stood by Me when you were well; now I will not desert you when you are sick." One wave of His hand and the storm will drop; and another wave of His hand, and midnight shall break into midnoon; and another wave of His hand, and the chamberlains of God will come down from the treasure-houses of heaven, with robes lustrous, blood-washed, and heaven-glinted, in which you will array yourself for the marriage supper of the Lamb. And then with Miriam, who struck the timbrel of the Red Sea; and with Deborah, who led the Lord's host into the fight; and with Hannah, who gave her Samuel to the Lord; and with Mary, who rocked Jesus to sleep while there were angels singing in the air; and with Florence Nightingale, who bound up the battle-wounds of the Crimea, you will, from the chalice of God drink to the soul's eternal rescue.

One twilight, after I had been playing with the children for some time, I laid down upon the lounge to rest. The children said, play more. Children always want to play more. And, half asleep and half awake, I seemed to dream this dream: It seemed to me that I was in a far-distant land—not Persia, although more than Oriental luxuriance crowned the cities; nor the tropics—although more than tropical fruitfulness filled the gardens; nor Italy—although more than Italian softness filled the air. And I wandered around, looking for thorns and nettles, but I found none of them grew there. And I walked forth and I saw the sun rise, and I said:

"When will it set again?" and the sun sank not. And I saw all the people in holiday apparel, and I said: "When will they put on workingman's garb again, and delve in the mine, and swelter at the forge?" but neither the garments nor the robes did they put off. And I wandered in the suburbs, and I said: "Where do they bury the dead of this great city?" and I looked along by the hills where it would be most beautiful for the dead to sleep, and I saw castles, and towers, and battlements; but not a mausoleum, nor monument, nor white slab could I see. And I went into the great chapel of the town, and I said: "Where do the poor worship? where are the benches on which they sit?" and a voice answered: "We have no poor in this great city." And I wandered out, seeking to find the place where were the hovels of the destitute; and I found mansions of amber, and ivory, and gold but no tear nor sigh did I see or hear. I was bewildered; and I sat under the shadow of a great tree, and I said: "What am I, and whence comes all this?" And at that moment there came from among the leaves, skipping up the flowery paths and across the sparkling waters, a very bright and sparkling group; and when I saw their step I knew it, and when I heard their voices I thought I knew them; but their apparel was so different from anything I had ever seen I bowed, a stranger to strangers, But after awhile, when they clapped their hands, and shouted: "Welcome! welcome!" the mystery was solved, and I saw that time had passed, and that eternity had come, and that God had gathered us up into a higher home; and I said: "Are we all here?" and the voices of innumerable generations answered: Here;" and while tears of gladness were raining down our cheeks, and the branches of the Lebanon cedars were clapping their hands, and the towers of the great city were chiming their welcome, we began to laugh, and sing, and leap, and shout: "Home! Home! Home!"

Then I felt a child's hand on my face, and it woke me. The children wanted to play more. Children always want to play more.

A Desperado of the Day.

—Life.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN.

Deeper than all sense of seeing Lies the source of secret being,
And the soul with truth agreeing
  Learns to live in thoughts and deeds;
For the life is more than raiment,
And the earth is pledged for payment
  Unto man for all his needs.

Life is more than what man fancies
Not a game of idle chances,
But it steadily advances
  Up the rugged heights of time,
Till each complex web of trouble,
Every good hope's broken bubble
  Hath a meaning most sublime.

More of practice, less profession;
More of firmness, less concession;
More of freedom, less oppression—
  In the Church and State;
More of life and less of fashion,
  That will make us good and great.

When true hearts, divinely gifted,
From the dross of error sifted,
On their crosses are uplifted,
  Shall the world most clearly see
That earth's greatest time of trial
Calls for holy self-denial;
  Calls on men to do and be.

But, forever and forever,
Let it be the soul's endeavor,
Love from hatred to dissever;
  And in whatso'er we do,
Won by truth's eternal beauty
From our highest sense of duty,
  Evermore be firm and true.

—F. A. Hinckley.

LIB.

The first time I ever saw Elizabeth Dill, she was hanging to the boot of a stage coach in the Rocky Mountains. I was climbing up a narrow, rocky pass, and the coach was coming down. As it passed me, I caught the sight of a pale-faced, scrawny little figure, in a dirty calico dress, holding the straps of the boot behind. Her tangled yellow hair was flying out in the breeze, and her bare feet just escaped the rocks in the road.

I sat down on a rock, and watched the clumsy coach until it went rolling and swaying around a curve in the pass. Here the girl dropped lightly to the ground, and came toward me, kicking up the dust as she quickly advanced.

A hundred yards or more ahead of me there stood a rough log cabin, to the door of which, before the girl reached me, there came a slatternly woman, with a dirty baby in her arms, and called, in a sharp, rasping voice: "Lib! You Lib Dill! Whar on airth are ye?"

The child was within ten feet of me when the woman called. In reply she cried out, in an injured and irritated tone: "Here I be!"

"What ye been doin'? Oh, I know; hangin' on to the stage, like the tomboy ye air! Want another lickin', eh?"

"I don't keer fer yer lickin's!" cried the child, tossing her unkempt hair defiantly, while a frown came over her thin face.

"Well, you better care, miss!" cried the woman angrily.

The girl stood directly in front of me now, fearless and unbashed. With one swift, angry movement of her right hand, she stripped her thin white arm of the loose calico sleeve that covered it, and held it out before me.

"Look there, and there, and there!" she cried, pointing her finger at three long, discolored marks on the upper part of her arm. "Do you think I keer fer any of her lickin's after that?" she asked, with an expression pitiful to see in the face of a girl of fourteen years.

"What ye doin', Lib Dill?" screamed the woman, "I see ye, an' ye'd better look out!"

"I said I was going to show them marks to everybody I could, long as they was there," said Lib to me. "She give 'em to me fer breakin' an old cracked teacup. It ain't fair fer her to lick me like that fer an old cup, is it, mister?"

There came a wistful expression to the child's face, a wistful and pathetic quaver in her thin voice, as she pointed with her bare arm toward the stage-coach, which had appeared again on a distant part of the pass.

"Do you know, mister, that if I could only do it, I'd hang on to that old coach some time till it had carried me clean away from here?"

"And leave your parents?" I asked.

"Parrents!" she sneered. "Them aint my parrents; wouldn't own 'em if they was. She ain't no kin at all, an' her man's only some forty-fifth cousin or other of my dead-an'-gone mother; but they're jist as much kin as I want 'em to be."

The words were uttered with scorn, and on Lib's face was a malignant look that no young girl's face should wear.

Unmindful of the woman's command to "Come right straight here!" Lib sat down on a rock near me, rested her chin in one of her thin hands, and asked:

"Where you from?"

"From New England," I said.

"Purty country, ain't it?"

"Very pretty indeed, at this time of the year." It was then October. "Have you ever been East?" I asked.

"Me!" Lib laughed that unpleasant laugh again. She stood on a bowlder, and pointed far away to the west, to where a long line of mountain peaks rose dark and unbroken in the distance.

"Mister," she said, "I ain't never been beyond them mountings in all the days of my life. Crystal City lays at the foot o' that range, an' I was born there. That stage coach goin' down this pass 'll be further east by noon than I ever was. From this rock I can see further north an' south than I ever was. Me been East? Better ask if I ain't been ter college too!"

"I don't suppose you have a school here," I said, as gently as I could.

"Mister, I'm the only boy or girl of school age or size in ten mile o' here. Have you any children, mister?"

"I have three," I said.

"Got a little girl, mebbe?"

"Yes," I said, "a little girl," thankful that she was not as this child was.

"Mebbe she's 'bout my size, mister?"

"She is," I said.

"Well, now, mister," said Lib, slowly and deliberately, "how would you like fer her to be like me? How would you like fer her to be licked fer nothin', like I am?"

I shuddered at the mere suggestion of such dread contingencies. Lib went on.

"You wouldn't like it, hey! I reckon not. Well, I do hope that little girl of yourn'll never be like I am, nor what I'm likely to be when I grow up."

The pathos and hopelessness in her voice brought tears to my eyes.

"And, mister, do ye know I'd walk, I'd crawl, away from this place this day if it wasn't fer—fer."—

Her ragged sleeve went up to her eyes, her head, held high in defiance until now, dropped low; her voice faltered as she went on:

"If it wasn't for Laty."

"And who is Laty?"

"The baby that that there woman held in her arms when she come to the door. Her baby, it is. He's the cunnin'est little thing! an' he loves me, he does. He puts his arm round my neck an' says so, plain as anything. Don't you want to see him? He ain't a bit afraid of strangers, and he likes men folks. She thinks a sight of Laty, she does; so does Laty's pa."

The woman here came out to the cabin, with the adored Laty in her arms. Lib and I went forward to meet them. The woman's face was harsh and forbidding.

"What's she ben tellin' you, mister?" she asked. "A pack of lies, I'll be bound. The truth ain't in her; no, it ain't. Now you git up to the cabin, miss, an' mind Laty. I'm goin' to tell yer pa on ye, an' you'll see what you'll git then."

"My paw!" cried Lib. "Jack Lane ain't my pap, an' you know it."

"Sass-box!" was all the answer the woman vouchsafed to this outburst from Lib.

I stayed three weeks in Jack Lane's cabin, for it was the only habitation within two miles of the place, and in those three weeks I saw enough to convince me that Poor Lib had not told "a pack of lies" in describing her sufferings. Her life with the Lanes was a hard one. They were maliciously and wilfully cruel to her. More than once did I intercede to save her from the cruelty of Jack and 'Mandy Lane.

Her devotion to baby Lathan did not win from his parents any corresponding kindness for Lib, his willing slave. I often met her carrying the heavy baby around in her weak arms on the mountain trails.

When the time came for me to go away, Lib followed me far down the dusty road, unmindful of 'Mandy's shrilly uttered commands to "come right straight back!"

"You had better not go too far, Lib," I said, when we had walked about half a mile; "'Mandy will be so severe with you."

"Oh, well, what if she is?" asked Lib, wearily; but her voice had none of its old defiant ring, and her bright eyes were red and downcast.

"I should be sorry to have you suffer on my account," I said.

"Oh, I don't mind it, but I reckon I'll go back now; Laty might need me. I jest thought I'd like to go a piece with you. I been thinkin' 'bout that little girl o' yourn to-day, an' I thought I'd kind 'o like to send her somethin'. I've got it in this little box. It ain't much of anything, but mebbe she'll like it, comin' so fer like."

Lib held out a small, flat pasteboard box. In it was a bunch of pressed mountain flowers, tied together with a bit of faded green ribbon—Lib's one treasured bit of feminine finery.

"Well, good-by, mister!" she said. "You've took more notice of me than most folks takes, an' I won't fergit ye; an' I'll try to remember some o' the things you've said 'bout me bein' patient an' good, an' all that. They'll do to tell Laty some day. I reckon I'm 'bout as good as I'll ever be. This ain't much of a place fer folks to grow decent in. If anything should ever happen to Laty I'd run away from here."

My heart ached for the forlorn little creature, as I watched her climbing the mountains in her rags, while I held in my hand the one poor possession she valued most.

My business took me to a small mining camp, five miles distant, where I was to remain for a month. It was the first of December before I could set a day for my departure. I intended starting on the third. On the afternoon of the second, signs of a storm were seen in the low-hanging clouds that hid the snow covered mountain peaks. The snow lay smooth and white on all the mountain sides, and it was feared that another fall would make the mountain roads impassable.

I watched with dismay that gathering storm on the afternoon of the third. By three o'clock it was snowing fast; the short day was nearly done; it was growing dark in the narrow gulch; the wind moaned up and down the long, black canyons; the stunted pines bent low; the mountain seemed frowning down on the helpless little mining camp, and the snow fell faster and faster.

I sat by the window of the office in the little mountain hotel and watched the daylight disappear. By four o'clock it was gone and the storm had increased.

"It's darker'n a stack o' black cats, an' the wind's blowin' a regular cyclone," said the landlord, at nine o'clock.

At ten o'clock he and I sat alone by the office stove. The wind had gone down a little, and it had stopped snowing. I was waiting to hear the conclusion of a "yarn" the garrulous landlord was telling me.

"An' sir," he was saying, "if you'll b'leeve me, that thar ole cattymount jist natchelly riz up an'—great Scotland! did ye hear that?"

He jumped to his feet and stood still, in a listening attitude.

"What is it!" I asked, eagerly. "I did not—"

"Sh-sh-sh!" he held his red and calloused hand up as a sign of silence, and tip-toed gently toward the door. Sharp and clear rose a prolonged cry as of one in pain.

"Somebody's in trouble!" cried the landlord, as he hurriedly thrust a lighted candle into his lantern, threw on his great coat of buffalo skins and started for the door.

I followed him, pulling on my overcoat and mittens as I went. We had taken but a few steps from the door when the cry was repeated. I could not tell from whence it came, but my companion's sense of hearing was more acute and better trained than mine.

"It's from the Red Mountain trail," he said, "an' the person that's doin' the yellin' is gittin' mighty weak."

Very weak, indeed, was the person whose pitiful cry we had heard. We found her half-buried in a great drift of snow far up the mountain side. As we bent over her the rays of the lantern fell across the thin, pale face of Elizabeth Dill—thinner than ever, and paler the suffering she had endured night.

She had fallen prostrate and w much exhausted to rise. A ragg cloak was wrapped around her and shawl had fallen from her tangled hair. A lantern lay by her side, l light was out.

She could not speak until we ha ried her down to the little hot chafed her chilled form for a long Her first words were, "Jack Lane—dy! Git a doctor an' go for them me be. Go to them an' to Laty. all alone. Poor little feller! Poor Poor 'Mandy?"

A dozen men were soon fightin way through the drifts to the Lane five miles distant. It was midnig fore Lib could tell her sorrowful and then it was told with sobs and "It was only a little after dark said. "We were all sittin' in the room. Laty was in my lap an', son or other I let the little fellow fal course Jack an' 'Mandy was m don't blame 'em; an' I didn't much when Jack whipped me w ramrod of his gun. I'd ought been keerful. 'Mandy was so m driv me out into the shed-room. know how that is, mister," Lib said ing to me.

"It runs back right up the mo an' there's a cave off the end of it Jack keeps his taters an' turnips winter. It was real snug in the an' old Tobe, Jack's dog, was in I snuggled up to him, an' cried 'ca hurt Laty.

"Purty soon the front door o little an' Laty came toddlin' in shed-room. I could see Jack an' playin' checkers by the fire, a didn't notice Laty. I slipped ketched the little fellow up in m 'You poor little feller,' I say didn't go to hurt you; Lib lo better 'n anything else on earth!'

"Then he coo-cooed in his little way, an' laid his wet little on mine in a way that like to 'av my heart. I was standin' in th door, holdin' him so; when the an awful roar. I saw Jack an' jump up, scared like, an' I stepp into the cave with Laty an' then"

Here Lib quite broke down, a for a long time before she said:

"Well, the next minute eve was pitch dark. Jack nor 'Man the cabin nor nothin' was to b There was the awfullest roarin' a in' ever I heerd. Me an' Laty a all cuddled up in a corner of the cave, scared out of our seven senses.

"After awhile I crawled to the cave door. The snow an' wind was blowin' in. The cabin was gone; there wasn't a sign of it. Then I knowed there'd been a snow-slide.

"I yelled an' yelled for 'Mandy an' Jack, but there wa'n't no answer at first. By-and-by I heerd some one cryin'. Jack's lantern was in the cave. He'd jest been in there, coverin' up the things with old rags an' straw, an' we always kept matches on a shelf in there. I got the lantern an' lighted it; then I covered Laty all up good with the rags an' straw, an' made Tobe lay down by him.

"Then I started out, an' I found 'Mandy wedged in 'mong some rocks 'bout a hundred yards down the mountain. She was cryin' an' goin' on awful, poor woman! The way she tuk on 'bout Laty was awful. She couldn't stand, an' I couldn't get her up to the cave.

"'Mandy,' says I, at last, 'I'm goin' down to Crystal Camp for help.'

"'You can't,' says she, awful feeble like.

"'I kin,' says I, 'an' I'm goin', too. An' now, 'Mandy,' says I, 'you jest brace up till I git back; you jest think of Laty. You're his ma an' he needs you; think o' that. An', 'Mandy,' says I, 'if I don't git back, an' you git out o' here all right, you remember that Lib Dill ain't no hard feelin's agin you nor Jack; an' if I do git back, an' you don't git out o' here, you remember to your last breath that Lib Dill will be a mother to your baby.'

"Then I brought straw an' rags an' covered her up the best I could. She lay still, cryin' an' goin' on fit to break one's heart. I bent over her an' said: 'Good-by, 'Mandy; I'm goin'.'

"She never said a word, but she flung her one free arm round my neck an' kissed me, an' that made it all right 'tween me an' 'Mandy Lane. Livin' or dead, I ain't nothin' agin her.

"I went back to the cave, and made Tobe lay down by Laty. 'Don't you move,' says I to the dog, and he won't. They'll find him an' Laty all covered up under straw an' rags behind a tater box in a corner of the cave where Laty can't get out. I ain't worried none 'bout him, but, O Jack! O 'Mandy!

"Yes," said Lib, wearily, a little latter, "I did have an awful pull to git here; but I knowed ev'ry foot of the way. It was lucky I snatched my old cloak and shawl when 'Mandy drove me out, or I'd froze."

Before noon the next day Silas Ray, the landlord, came down from the mountain carrying baby Laty tenderly in his strong arms. The child was asleep with the tears on his pretty face. Lib reached up her arms for the baby. Silas laid him gently down by her side and said: "I reckon you've as good a right to him as anybody now. They're bringin' his father an' mother down—dead."

My interest in the brave girl and her forlorn charge led me to take them with me when I left Crystal Camp, and I finally turned them over to some wealthy friends of mine in the East, who were both willing and able to provide for them.

This was ten years ago. A few days since I received a letter from Lib Dill, who is now a school teacher in a new town of one of our Western States, in which she says that Laty has grown to be a bright and good boy, and that she hopes to make a good man of him yet.

She also alludes to a certain young farmer, between whom and herself there appears to have sprung up a mutual interest, which has led to plans which, if carried out, will result in her having a home of her own. "We are all—Laty and the farmer and I"—she says, "very happy in planning for the future that promises so fair."—J. L. Harbour, in Youth's Companion.

A San Francisco concern is making pressed brick out of coal ashes and cinders. These bricks have stood the severest tests for strength, and are made without baking and burning.

Practi

Omaha Girl—"My dear, are engaged, we should begin practical views of life."

"Accepted Lover—"So I have thinking."

"I feel very much like having some cream, but first I want you to tell m frankly how much money you have in your pocket."

"Just twenty-five cents, and no more coming until pay day."

"It's so nice to begin figuring on expenses of living; seems as if we were married. Have you only twenty-five cents left, dear?"

"That's all."

"Well, we will get along with two plates to-night, and you save the other five cents for a nest egg, you know."—Omaha World.

A Fond Father.

An over-indulgent and recklessly extravagant father was lately heard to say to his son, a tender youth of twenty-five, six feet three in height:

"Now, Bub, if you'll lick in like the smart youngster you kin be when yer a min' to, an' hoe them five acres o' taters, an' hill-up that ten acre lot o' corn, an' weed out that acre o' onions, an' grub out that back lot, an' cut yer ma her winter's stove wood, an' split a thousand rails, an' weed the turnip patch, and do a few other little chores, I'm blamed if I won't give you fifty cents to go to the circus with! Yes, I will! An' if you'll hoe down the jimson weeds in that ten-acre lot o' seed corn I'll throw in ten cents extry that you kin lay out in lemmy-nade an' peanuts! Blamed if I don't bleeve in payrents lettin' their children have some enjiyment in this world."—Tid-Bits.

She Was Ready to Lend.

Borrowing Neighbor—"Have you a drawing of tea to lend me this morning, Mrs. Greene?"

Mrs. Greene—"Indeed I have not, Mrs. Maloney."

Mrs. Maloney—"Then have you a cupful of sugar against next Saturday night, sure?"

Mrs. Greene—"Not a drop of sugar have I in me house, Mrs. Maloney."

Mrs. Maloney—"And could you spare the children two or three slices of bread till me old man gets his pay?"

Mrs. Greene—"We haven't so much as a crust of bread in the house, ashamed am I to say it."

Mrs. Maloney—"Then in heaven's blessed name, what have you at all at all?"

Mrs. Greene—"Weve a house full of measles and mumps and scarlet fever and plenty to spare. Which will you have?"

The borrowing neighbor quietly subsided.—Chicago National.

A Stem Winder.

Stiggins was passing a watchmaker's establishment, and looking into the window he noticed a very pretty girl at the counter.

"Ha!" he soliloquized, "I'll go in and take a look at her under some pretext or other."

He entered, and was waited on by the young lady's father.

"What can I do for you?"

"I want to get a key for my watch," he stammered, feasting his eyes on the young lady.

"Let me see your watch," said the watchmaker.

As if in a dream he took out his watch. The watchmaker examined it, and said with surprise:

"Why, your watch is a stem-winder."

Stiggins don't remember how he got out, but he does remember that the young lady smiled audibly at his discomfiture.—Jewelers' Weekly.

Driving Home the Crackers.

It was an amusing sight, a few weeks since, to see one of those stiff, upright, anc

Pende.

He stop

"I hope

General. I troops they are

But Jackson a claimed:

"You must hold

Pender, you must

sir!"

This was the last orde

He was borne some distance

est house and examined by th and after midnight his left arm putated at the shoulder.

When Lee was told that his mo trusted Lieutenant had been wounded, he was greatly distressed, for the relations between them were almost tender.

"Jackson has lost his left arm," said Lee, "but I have lost my right arm."—St. Nicholas.

Pigeon-Toed Men and Women.

According to the New York correspondent of the Albany Argus, nine men out of every ten are pigeon-toed. I have made the same remark before, but I was the other day impressed anew with its truth. Something prompted me to keep tally of a few pedestrians on my mental abacus. I was walking up Broadway, and quite a bustle and rush of people contributed to the success of my observation. Out of the first twelve of whom I took notice seven toed out at varying angles from forty-five degrees to about five. Two toed out with the right foot alone. Two more kept their pedals advancing on parallel lines, and one person was flatly and unequivocally "pigeon-toed." I took no further observation at the time, feeling that the test had been a fair, average one, and that it would be safe to lay down the axiom that nine men out of every ten, as I said, are pigeon-toed, meaning in a qualified sense that the nine turn their feet at any other angle than the right one. I have spoken of men all along, as no one ought to suppose that I would be so ungallant as to scrutinize the attitudes of feminine shoe leather for the ungenerous purpose of publishing the results to the public. But I have reliable information on which to affirm that ladies do not walk correctly in respect to toeing-out any more than men, and moreover, that in childhood this fault might easily be corrected. To a person giving due attention to the matter, the result will soon be perceived in a better carriage and more elasticity and freedom in step.

A Soldier's Great Endurance.

C. B. Tower, the private in Company K, of the old Pennsylvania "Bucktails," who has just been granted a medal by President Cleveland, must have been a man of wonderfully vigorous constitution. The special acts for which the medal was granted were for continuing in the battle of the Wilderness after being wounded; for participation in the battles of Spottsylvania, North Anna River and Bethesda Church while suffering from his wound, and for escaping from the Confederates while being transported from Libby prison to Andersonville by jumping from a train and making his way across the mountains into West Virginia and thence back to his command.—New York Commercial.

Northern California has a character nicknamed "Strychnine Jack," through his capacity for taking that drug, of which he consumes a spoonful at a dose. If he cuts his flesh and lets a dog lick the wound the animal dies.

…ss

…te Ex-
…ts be at
…or the pur-
the books of
…s is a broadside
some of the over-
…ick themselves sore.
…e believe that some of
…ty officers court such in-
…ation and that if made it
… be altogether in their favor
…nd for their good.

On account of the recent publications in relation to the county jail, a representative of this press interviewed a member of the grand jury on the subject, after the body had made an examination of the building. He said:

"One juryman wanted only about four more such places to live in. Another remarked that if he had to take choice in going either to the county jail or to h—l, he would go right straight on the last mentioned place."

The juryman furnishing the information thought "better ventilation was needed and that the bedding needed sunning very much."

It is expected of the press making any claims to efficiency to publish such comments as have been published, asking and leaving the matter of investigation with the grand jury. That body having made the investigation the public must abide by its decision.

Notwithstanding the disagreement of the grand jury, for which there is all due respect, there are a number who still think that at a small outlay the jail could be rendered more healthful by turning the iron slats in the windows so that the rays of the sun could reach the inside of the building, and that to insure healthful ventilation some such alteration is necessary. However, it is believed the jury conducted its investigation impartially, and though there are some that would have been better pleased if something had been said in the report as to the sanitary condition of the jail, yet a grand jury should never attempt to please everybody—nor even anybody.

The report makes other good suggestions. One as to the streets of Clanton, another in regard to the unlawful sale of intoxicants, and another in recommending the publication of the county treasurer's reports of the receipts and disbursements of public funds. All to be commended.

The grand jury is to be congratulated upon such a report.

… of.

…ollowing are the State cases …isposed of at the recent term of the circuit court:

STATE VS.

F. J. Scales and Ira Miller. Murder. Not Guilty.

Newton Higgins. Grand larceny. Indictment withdrawn.

Andrew Jackson. Assault to murder. Nol pros.

John Leach. Violating contract. Indictment withdrawn.

Grat Crow. Injury to stock. Guilty and fined $1.

Jno. Watts and Robert Latham. Assault and battery. Not Guilty.

C. H. Abbott. Assault with weapon. Guilty of assault and battery and fined $5.

Floyd Kinneybrew. Rape. Defendant died in jail.

John Dutton. Abusive language. Not guilty.

James DuBose. Assault and battery with weapon. Guilty and fined $40.

John Moon. Cruelty to animals. Guilty and fined $10.

Wesley Stewart. Grand larceny. Not guilty.

Geo. DuBose. Assault and battery. Guilty and fined $25.

L. J. Hand. Keeping sheep killing dog. Guilty and fined $5.

G. B. Crow et al. Forfeited bail. Fined 1 cent and cost.

Sam Johnson. Assault to murder. Guilty of assault and battery with weapon and fined $200.

Nelson Varner. Burglary. Guilty and sentenced to 2 years in the penitentiary.

Ike Peebles. Grand larceny. Guilty and sentenced to 18 months hard labor for county and cost.

Dave Bugg. Grand larceny. Guilty of attempt and fined $5.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Jemison Locals.

The Rev. Mr. Lindsey, assisted by Dr. Armstrong, the Presbyterian minister, is conducting a union meeting at the Methodist church here, considerable interest is being manifested.

Mr. Jim Hand and family have returned to Jemison to live. We welcome them back.

Miss Laura Honeycutt has been dangerously ill, but is now convalescing. This is very gratifying to her many warm friends here for she is a most deserving and excellent young lady, and her death would have been a serious loss to the community.

Mr. Dave Hand, accompanied by his bonnie bride, recently visited his brother, Mr. L. J. Hand. May they live long and prosper.

Miss Carrie West, a charming young lady of Montgomery, is visiting the Misses Honeycutt.

Mrs. Sarah Chapman of Bibb County is visiting her son, Mr. E. W. Chapman.

Mr. Howard, of Georgia, is teaching a school in penmanship in Jemison. It is quite popular as it runs day and night, and this gives the boys and girls a chance, you know.

X. Y. Z.

Jemison is still extending her lines of improvement, and is destined at no distant day to be a trading and commercial centre of no mean note.

John Patton's new, large and commodious storehouse is rapidly approaching completion. John is a good business man and will doubtless do well in his new home.

Mr. James Skaggs is convalescent. Miss Laura Honeycutt some better, Miss Maria Murphy quite sick, and Dr. Caffey married sure enough. No more sorrow for him.

Jesse Edwards, of Clanton, was in town Saturday. Professional business of course?

Mr. J. Connel's interesting school at Rocky Mount closed last week. We cannot speak too highly of this young man's capabilities in teaching and training, both in literature and good morals. We never will forget the fine points in education given by Prof. Corlerie, at the close of the school exercises.

MATRON.

White's Cream Vermifuge affords immediate relief to children suffering with worms. There are many imitations of this invaluable preparation that are pretty good counterfeits as far as looks go but are really worthless. There is but one genuine remedy, and that is White's Cream Vermifuge which will surely bring worms from children who suffer from them.

From Beat Six.

Health of the community good.

Crops tolerably good. Cotton picking all the go.

Mr. W. T. Kemp was the first to haul cotton to Mr. W. I. Mullins' gin this season.

The trial of Patrick and Chambers on last Saturday was like they both look, pretty dry.

There is some talk of a ten month's school in our community, next year. We hope it will be a school and not so much talk.

We wonder if Sam Ming is dead. Sam is a good writer and he wrote very much about Bro. Ike's travels. But we think Sam was the traveler who rode lop-eared mules, and ran from Bull dogs until his claw-hammer coat stood out behind, and then laid it on Bro. Ike.

It helps our feelings to see Bill Dud going with the girls. It makes us think there is a chance for us and Simon Clark. Ah, me!

Mr. J. H. Gray is hauling rock lumber to repair his dwelling house.

We are looking forward to the day when we will have lumber sawing near W. I.'s head is not so red for nothing.

G. BUCK.

A keen observer can let his eye rove over a rose-bud garden of girls and select therefrom the one who permits concealment like a worm in the bud to feed on her damask cheek, and an experienced mother knows just when a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge is needed to expel the worms that feed on the life of her child.

There are more furnaces in Jefferson county Ala., than in any other county in the Union, Alleghany county, Pa., in which Pittsburg is located, not excepted.—Herald.

Many men of many minds have agreed that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment is unequaled. For any other disease it will do no good, but it is undoubtedly a safe, simple and permanent cure for piles one of the most painful diseases that ever befel a mortal, and we are sure every sufferer with it will hasten to relieve himself by using Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 5, 1887.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Taylor Davis against William Taylor for abandoning his Homestead entry No. 17157, dated Sept. 15th, 1885, upon the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4, township 20 north, range 16 east, in Chilton county, Ala. with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 27th day of October, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
sep 15 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

NOTICE NO. 6681.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 22, 1887, viz: John C. Arnold, Homestead 17903 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 24 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel Curry, Eli D. Barfield Gip G. West, John B. Moore all of Brierfield, Ala.

sep15 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6680.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d, 1887, viz: Sylvester Mims, Homestead 13479 for the w ½ of s e ¼ and s ½ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 21 north, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Oats, Jesse A. Culp, Diniel Dunnavin, and James R. Broadhead, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6679.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d 1887, viz: Tempy J. Oates, Homestead 13288 for the w ½ of n w ¼, the s e ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26 township 21 north range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, James R. Broadhead, Abram C. Mims, Sylvester Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

MOTHER'S FRIEND
MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!
SHORTENS LABOR.
LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT!
DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.
Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To Mothers," mailed free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Blacksmithing.
Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.
G. W. MARCUS & BRO.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE.
Pupils in attendance last session 211. Officers engaged 19.
Twenty-eighth session opens Wednesday, Sept. 14.
For catalogues apply to
ALONZO HILL,
aug18-1m] President.

A. J. MASSEY,
OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.
Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.
☞ Will go far and near.
Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

NOTICE NO. 6561.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Lowery J. Glasscock, homestead 11294 for the s w ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 14, township 24, range 14. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6650.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 31, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15, 1887, viz: John Morris, declaratory statement 1266 for the w ½ of n w ¼ sec 24, t 24 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henry Jones William Greie, George Eatres, Jonathan Eatres, all of Shelby Iron Works, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Wetmore's Book Store
SELMA, ALA.,
INVITES ORDERS FOR
Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.
☞ Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

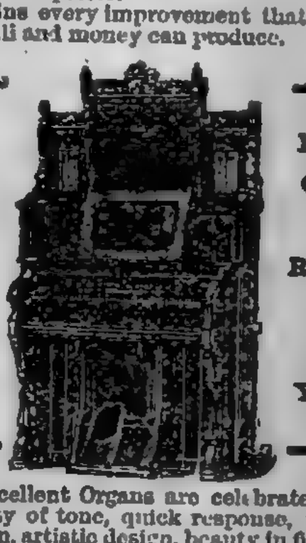
COLLINS AGUE CURE
HEADACHE.
Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.
MALARIAL FEVER.
A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.
BILIOUS COLIC.
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.
DIARRHŒA or FLUX.
Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT.
Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.
☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.
jun30-y

THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL. - 30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. - DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO. ATLANTA, GA. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

aug10-1y

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT.
NEVER FAILS TO CURE SPRAINS CUTS RHEUMATISM AND ALL DISEASES OF MAN AND BEAST THAT CAN BE REACHED BY AN EXTERNAL MEDICAL APPLICATION
50 CENTS PER BOTTLE
ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT IS GUARANTEED TO CURE ALL FORMS OF PILES
HODGES SARSAPARILLA CURES ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM AN IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD.
T. I. N. C.
IS THE ONLY INFALLIBLE CURE ON EARTH FOR ALL KINDS OF NEURALGIA
SOLD EVERYWHERE
MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. CO NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN
Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.
OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.
EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.



These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.
ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN
Instruction Books and Piano Stools.
Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.
The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

L & N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line
Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,
And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,
Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled
SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST
PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.
THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.
EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.
See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
Louisville, Ky.

THE Cheap Cash Store,
—OF—
R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries,
—AND—
General Merchandise.
I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

Wanted!

To purchase 50 head of calves and yearlings from six months to one and a half years old. Will pay spot cash.

J. F. MAULL,
Maull's Mill, near Strasburg, Ala.
aug25-4t

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.
References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,
Are displaying a Complete and Varied Assortment of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes, Clothing and Millinery.
Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.
R. E. BOLLING & SON,
Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.
Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

WILSON HOUSE.
A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!
I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Wool Carding.
Now is the time to get your wool carded. Our cards are in fine order. Ship to
E. G. WALKER,
Montevallo, Ala.

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements.

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 15, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.

—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:43 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Ladies' hats over the drug store.

We need more houses to rent in Clanton.

We are in favor of more rain and less dust.

Some interesting communications crowded out.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure is gentle in action, and warranted a certain cure. 50 cents a bottle.

Mr. J. T. Mullins, one of Verbena's prominent citizens, was in Clanton Tuesday.

Warm as July—the thermometer ranging up among the nineties for the past ten days.

The two weeks term of circuit court suits the boarding house folks as well as the lawyers.

The danger of a malarial atmosphere may be averted if you will occasionally take a dose of Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure.

The L. & N. R. R. is overrun with freight, and every freight car on the line is reported in service.

Mr. B. H. Chesnutt has been quite sick at his home in this place this week. We are glad to report that he is improving.

Send to the Birmingham Paint Glass and Wall Paper Co. for their new catalogue of choice goods in their line which they are selling so low.

Appetite and sleep may be improved, every part of the system strengthened and the animal spirits regain their bouyancy by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Littleton Gibson, arraigned in our circuit court on a charge of assault and battery was declared insane and sent to the asylum at Tuscaloosa.

Mrs. M. A. Butler keeps fresh butter and eggs and also chickens for sale at the lowest market price. Call on her on the west side of the railroad.

Sudden change of temperature and humidity of the atmosphere often produce disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Use Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm to check these troubles in their incipiency.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

W. A. Ricketts, gun and locksmith and dealer in guns and ammunition, Birmingham Ala., has an advertisement in the VIEW to which we call the attention of our readers.

The Methodist Sunday school was re-organized at the Academy last Sunday and will be held in that building regularly every Sunday until their new church is ready for use.

Judge J. E. Cobb, our able representative in Congress, was among his numerous friends and admirers here last week. Congress meets the first Monday in December, and we have great faith in our representative and expect to see him take a stand as the peer of any member of our State delegation.

Mixed News.

The hot well boom has proved a failure and we consider this bad news. To counteract this I will let you know that I am selling everything very cheap, and this is good news for those who buy goods in Clanton; the best market this side of Montgomery. Come and see for yourselves and bring your cotton to market while the price is good.

Yours Truly,

W. L. SAMPEY.

Mr. G. W. Willis, of Jumbo, gave the VIEW a call Monday to say that there was no news from his settlement. No marriages or deaths, and plenty of dry weather as well as dry times.

Mr. R. P. Woolley desires to inform the public that he is now carrying a full stock of men's shoes which he will sell as cheap as they can be bought anywhere. Call on him. 2t.

Dr. H. T. Caffey, of Jemison, son of Dr. H. W. Caffey, of Verbena, married Miss Lillian Winter, of Benton, on the 6th inst. They made a very pleasant visit to the family of the groom's father at Verbena this week.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which causes burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

A disordered condition of the stomach, or malaria in the system will produce sick headache, you can remove this trouble by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 cts. per vial.

For Sale.

I am offering for sale my drug store and stock of drugs, also my residence on Court House Avenue. There is no better property in Clanton. Parties wanting to buy will find this a profitable investment. Will sell cheap for cash.

W. H. PHILLIPS.

Prof. R. E. R. Hicks met with an unfortunate accident recently in the dislocation of an arm caused by the mule he was riding falling and throwing him violently to the ground. This accident has caused the delay in opening the Clanton Academy. The institution was to be opened last Monday, but Prof. H. was suffering so that the opening was postponed for a week.

Undue exposure to cold winds, rain, bright light or malaria, may bring on inflamation and soreness of the eyes. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve will subdue the inflamation, cool and soothe the nerves, and strengthen weak and failing Eye sight. 25 cents a box.

Unsuspected disorders of the kidneys are responsible for many of the ordinary ailments of humanity which neglected, develop into a serious and perhaps fatal malady. Experience would suggest the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

Mr. W. L. Weaver, of Dixie, the father of the tripple boys of recent birth in that burg, was over here attending court last week on jury duty, but when the judge was informed by Solicitor Fitzpatrick that Mr. Weaver had three little boy babies at home all the same age the judge's compassionate heart was touched and he excused Mr. Weaver from serving on the jury and told him he might go home.

Having purchased the school book and stationery business of W. M. Wilson, the VIEW Stationery Stand is now prepared to furnish you with any school book you may want and also all kinds of stationery, writing material and anything usually kept in a book and stationery store. If you want anything which we haven't got in stock we will take pleasure in ordering it for you. Call on us.

A beautiful woman must be healthy, and to remain healthy and beautiful she should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It imparts tone and flush to the skin, strength, vigor and pure blood; is equally adapted for all ages, from the babe to the aged, of either sex.

If the stomach performs its functions actively and regularly the food of which it is the receptical, is transformed into blood of a nourishing quality, which furnishes vigor and warmth to the whole body, the remedy to give tone to the stomach is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Clanton's Progress.

Notwithstanding the fact that the hot well boom has exploded our town continues to improve. We learn that the new Methodist church is soon to be painted: Mr. Wm. Wright is remodeling a small residence in West Clanton next to Mr. Cottingham's, to rent; Mr. W. L. Sampey's residence has been wonderfully improved by paint as has also the Thornton House; the frame work of Dr. Johnson's new drug store building is nearly all up; the new addition to Mr. Foshee's residence is about completed; Mr. Sartor is remodeling his residence and otherwise improving his place; Mr. I. B. Bowdoin will add to and improve his residence shortly; Mr. J. H. Chandler will build a residence at his mill near this place and move into it; Mr. Middleton, of Montgomery county will move his family here next week. A gentleman in Montgomery said to us last week that the collapse of the hot well by no means threw a damper on his desire to own some property in Clanton and we expect to soon be able to chronicle the fact of his buying a place here. We have the prettiest village, the coolest water and purest atmosphere to be found in a long journey and the population of our town and county is continually increasing. We now have fifteen business houses open and doing good business which is double the number of two years ago.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boshee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles.

The penalty of success is antagonism; it is gained at the price of embarrassments and obstacles overcome. This is true of community as well as individual effort. A steadfast purpose, however, and a determination to win honestly will succeed in every case consistent with the divine will. Therefore no one need be discouraged at meeting disappointment, for to overcome it may be the stepping stone to the realization of our desires.

T I N C

Don't suffer any longer, but use Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure, the only infallible cure on earth for all forms of neuralgia and nervous headache. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn 50 cents per box. Sold by all druggists. sep 1

A small boy with shining pail went gaily singing down th[illegible] to where the cow with the brin[illegible] tail on sweet clover did regail. A bumble bee did gaily sail far over the soft and shadowy vale, to where the boy with the shining pail was milking the cow with the brindle tail. The bee lit low on the cow's right ear, her heels flew up in the atmosphere—and up through the leaves of the walnut tree the boy soared into eternity.—Ex.

Now is the Time

to use Hodges' Sarsaparilla with Iodide of Potash, the great purifier for the blood. A certain cure for rheumatism, scrofulous affections, and all diseases peculiar to females. Renovates and invigorates the system. Physicians recommend it. Take no other. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Nashville, Tenn. $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

She Had Been There.

When a certain up-town young lady came home last night from a moonlight stroll with her sweetheart she asked of her elder sister; "Can anything be more poetical than a stroll in the moonlight?"

"Poetical indeed are these moonlight strolls you speak of, but when you have had my experience you will find out that a dark corner of the porch beats ten moonlight nights," came the fond sister's reply.

Attention R. R. L.

For sprains, bruises, rheumatism, cramps, inflammation, swellings, cuts, burns, etc., in man, and splint, ring bone, windgall, epizootic, scratches, etc. in horses, Rangum Root Liniment is a sure cure. The "King of Liniments" is a universal verdict. Never fails to cure any ailment that can be reached by an external medical application. 50 cents per bottle. For sale by all druggists.

Mr. R. L. Wooley, of northwest Chilton is the premium watermelon subscriber this year. His water melon weighed 42 pounds, which was about 7 pounds heavier than the next largest melon received at the office.

E P O

Don't waste time and money and undergo needless torture with the knife when when Ethiopian Pile Ointment will afford instant relief and certain cure in every case of blind, bleeding, itching, internal and external piles. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn. 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Tax Notice.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1887:

Strasburg	October	17
D. H. Mullins'	"	18
Archey's	"	19
Jemison	"	20
Providence	"	21
David Woolley's	"	22
Macedonia	"	24
Benson	"	15
Maplesville	"	25
R. Latham's	"	26
Dixie	"	27
Pilgrim's Rest Church	"	28
Kincheon	"	29
Energy Postoffice	November	2
Verbena	"	3
Cooper's	"	4
Clanton	"	6
Cane Creek Church	"	8
Maull's Mill	"	9
Chandler's Mill	"	10
Bivings, Duke & Co.'s	"	11

D. A. WHITE, T. C.

DON'T

Buy an thing in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 6647.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 7, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15th, 1887, viz: Noah L. Broadhead Homestead 18490 for the s ½ of s e ¼ sec 6, t 20 n r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Robert M. Robuck, E. F. Fuller, William F. Robuck, all of Maplesville, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6569.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 23rd, 1887, viz: James C. Williams, homestead 13282, for the w ½ of se ¼ and sw ¼ of ne ¼, sec 12, township 20, range 13. He names the following witnesses [illegible] his continuous residence upon [illegible] said land viz: William C. Dickerson, [illegible] and J. H. Griffis, [illegible] Ala.

aug11 [illegible] HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6559.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 10, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Sept. 24th, 1887, viz: Oma Hill, homestead 10336, for the s e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 14 township 24 north, range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel L. Arledge, Elijah Headley, Bailey Comer, Thomas Ray, all of Jemison, Ala.

aug11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6560.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., August 9, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on September 24th, 1887, viz: Thomas Craddock, homestead 10220 for the n ½ of s w ¼ and s w ¼ of n w ¼ sec 14 township 24 north range 14 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: George B. Glasscock, and Lowery J. Glasscock, of Shelby Iron Works, Ala., Elijah Headley and Samuel L. Arledge, of Jemison, Ala.

aug 11 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

W. A. Ricketts,

—DEALER IN—

Guns and Ammunition,

GUN AND LOCKSMITH,
205 20th St., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

THE

Verbena High School.

—:o:—

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

—:o:—

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MISS FANNY PURIFOY, Teacher of Music and Art.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class	$1 50
Intermediate Class	2 50
High School "	3 00
Commercial "	3 00
Collegiate "	4 00

Primary Department is confined to reading, writing and spelling.

Intermediate Department will include arithmetic and the first lessons in grammar, geography and elocution.

High School Department will include algebra, geometry and a complete English and Scientific course.

Commercial Course includes bookkeeping and the law of contracts.

Collegiate course includes higher Mathematics, French, Latin and Greek.

MISS CALLIER is a graduate of the Marion Female Seminary and has four years' experience in teaching.

MISS PURIFOY is a graduate of the Judson Female Seminary and has taken a special course in Music and Art.

MRS. DAVIS graduated at the Summerfield (Ala.) school in 1859 and has several years' experience.

Tuition is payable monthly in advance, but patrons are allowed the first two weeks in each month in which to settle.

Good board in private families at reasonable prices.

Students will be prepared for any class in college.

SHOW WALL CENTRE RIBBON CASES
ARTISTIC STORE FIXTURES.
Cedar Chests, Cabinets and Wardrobes.
CABINET WORK. TERRY SHOW CASE CO.
119 N. Cherry St., Nashville, Tenn. Catalogue Free
sep 8-y

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞ WATCH IT. ☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, • • Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,
COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES.
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [july8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

J. W. GUE, Proprietor.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

—o—

Wholesale Grocers,

—o—

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously, Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor,

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

Ellis' Magic Liver Pills are safe for children, and are more effective than any other cathartic pill on the market. If not found satisfactory return and get your money. For sale by W. H. Phillips. aug29-y

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager.
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand.
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS STAIR RAILS,
Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

The Chilton View Job Office,
IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR
JOB PRINTING,
SUCH AS
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
BILL HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
COMMISSARY CHECKS,
CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS
OF ALL KINDS,
NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.
SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

FARM AND GARDEN.

To Make Deep Milkers.

The time when cows are made and spoiled is when heifers are approaching calving with their first calves, and for six months thereafter. A heifer should be well fed on nutritious, growing food, roots, bran and some strong meal, corn, oats, cotton seed etc., besides hay and stalks. She should have daily exercise, and when she comes to the stall should be handled, the udder kneaded, rubbed, and the milk veins traced their whole length. She will learn to like this, and it produces a pleasant excitement about the parts, a tendency of blood to the milk glands, their growth, and an increased tendency to give milk. After calving, when she settles down to milking, she should, have strong-milking food, in which wheat bran should be a constant and an abundant constituent. The aim should be rather to cause a larger flow than much fat secretion. The heifer is herself growing rapidly. Many of the constituents of the milk are needed for her own increasing frame, but the flow of milk must be kept up and she should be milked almost up to her next calving.—Colonel Weld, in Dairman.

When to Pick Fruit.

When fruits are mature, they make preparation for falling, just as mature leaves do. A distinct line is formed upon the stem of the fruit, in preparation for the separation. When the apple or pear is mature, it will separate from the tree without any pulling; mere lifting the fruit from its hanging position to a horizontal one, will cause the separation from the tree to take place at once. A little observation will teach when the fruit is ready to be gathered. At this time, the fruit having made its growth, derives nothing more from the tree. After the fruit is full-grown its next step is toward decay. Decay in early kinds comes in a few days or weeks. In the late sorts it requires several months, but whether early or late, there is a stage in this progress from maturity to decay, when the fruit best suits our purpose, and we say, that is "ripe," or "mellow," or "in eating." This time in early kinds comes very quickly, and other varieties do not assume it before spring. Early kinds come "into eating condition" so soon, that they will bear but little transportation, hence are suited only to near markets. But these vary greatly, and there are from very early and autumn ripening kinds, to the very latest. The fruitgrower should be a careful observer of these points. The best fruit may be spoiled or materially depreciated in value by careless picking and handling. Properly constructed cold storage houses will do much toward keeping fruit in good condition, but unless the fruit is picked at the right time, it cannot be kept profitably even in the best fruit house.—American Agriculturist.

Care of Potatoe Fields.

Hoe potatoes early and often. There is no plant cultivated that will respond more readily to or pay better for clean culture, and frequent stirring of the soil than this. Run the cultivator through them often, and run it shallow. There is no call for deep working. What is wanted now is to keep the surface clean. The hilling may be done later or as the plants get larger. There is no crop grown among us that is so frequently neglected as is the potato. It is no uncommon thing in traveling across the country in the fall of the year to see fields so infested with weeds that it requires careful attention to discover the tops of the potatoes among them. Every one knows that it is not possible to secure a bountiful crop under such conditions.

Just how much potatoes should be hilled in the final hoeing depends somewhat on the condition of the land. The tubers must have a mellow soil to expand in. If the soil has been well plowed, and deeply and thoroughly stirred before planting, moderate hilling is all that is called for. It is far the better course to have the land properly prepared before planting. When this is done and the after culture is what it should be—clean and frequent—the potato becomes a sure crop, and usually a profitable one.

There is no room, however, for slack work and indifferent care where good crops are wanted. The old practice of "once hoeing" will not answer now. The varieties now raised must be grown quickly, and to do this they must have high culture, and must be kept clean.—Maine Farmer.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Never forget to salt and water your stock regularly.

Better uproot old, played-out fruit gardens. The land is wasted.

Glycerine and sulphur mixed are good for gapes in your chickens.

The red onion is said to hold its flavor longer than any other variety.

Feed Indian corn sparingly to fowls at this season, as it is too fattening.

Clover pasture increases the milk yield in cows and makes yellow butter.

The earth around potted plants should not be allowed to get entirely dry.

Queen bees should always be raised from the very best stock in the apiary.

Raise some variety of popcorn with very small kernels for the young chicks.

Impure air in the hennery causes many of the finest fowls to sicken and die.

Don't grow fruit or vegetables too thick; thinning out improves size and quality.

To destroy briars, elders, etc., cut them down now, and as often as they reappear.

The man who warms himself up every morning grooming his horses will be well remunerated for his trouble.

A new, cheap and effective insect killer is composed of one part muriate of potash in 1,000 parts of water.

There is no one thing that is so much required nowadays on the average farm as to thoroughly systematize labor.

Sluggish horses are generally made so by the way they are handled. A lazy man is pretty sure to have lazy horses.

Raw onions chopped fine and mixed with food twice a week are recommended as better than a dozen cures for chicken cholera.

You will be likely to save trouble by speaking kindly to your horses every time you approach them in the stable or elsewhere.

Pure linseed oil is claimed as the best remedy for pear blight, though it cannot be wholly relied upon when the trees are well under way with the disease.

Fine hay or cut of well broken straw makes good nests for hens. As good, perhaps better, nests can be made of shavings of soft wood from the carpenter's bench.

Fowls should not be allowed around barns, stables or carriage houses. They are neither useful nor ornamental adjuncts thereto; on the contrary, they are highly detrimental.

A few evergreens planted here and there add greatly to the beauty of a farm.

Recent experiments seem to show that eggs will keep in fair condition from June to November packed in salt, and that it is quite as good as the lime and salt pickle commonly used.

Never clean horses in the stable; the dust fouls their crib, makes them disgusted with their food, and vitiates the atmosphere, which should be kept healthful by every means at command.

For gapes put ten drops spirits turpentine in a pint of water, and give no other liquid to the chicks to drink. Put a teaspoonful of turpentine in a quart of corn meal and feed. Turpentine instantly destroys the gape worm.

The best way to break a horse from balking is to beat him at his own game! Tire him out by humoring and enforcing his freak, even if it continue all night! It is a trying remedy, not to say severe, but it will succeed in the end, which fact should render perseverance a desideratum.

A woman chicken fancier says: I have raised chicks for twenty years and know whereof I affirm when I say they will grow well enough on corn meal mixed with milk, provided they have clean quarters and plenty of range. I have had the same breed lay months earlier than my neighbor, who fed boiled eggs. &c.

A mess of feed given to a cow while she is being milked draws her attention and she will not hold up the milk as cows are apt to do when the calf is taken from them. The milking can be done more thoroughly as well as quicker, when the cow is quietly feeding. And if fed cabbage or turnips at this time the odor will not effect the milk.

The following is given as a good preparation for the destruction of the beetle or potato bug: Take three pounds of lime, slake, and add six to eight gallons of water, and a tablespoonful of concentrated lye. Mix all together and apply to the vines with a common sprinkler. It will work like a charm, one or two applications completely ridding the patch of the beetles and larvæ.

Perhaps no family of insects is more widely distributed or more generally destructive and better known than plant lice. These pests do not content themselves with any single part of a plant. Some work on the roots and sap the vitality of the herb or tree; others draw their nourishment from the stems and twigs and thus blight the plants; still others suck the vitality from bud and foliage. A few work on both roots and leaves. Most cultivated vegetables, grains and trees have their characteristic plant house enemies.

All of our domestic fowls are useful, but in varying degrees and different directions. No classification upon their useful qualities can be made which will be complete. The following, however, by the Poultry World, will be of value to many readers: Egg producers—Leghorns, Hamburgs, Russians, Minorcas, Black Spanish, Polish and Andalusian. Table fowls—Dorking, Hondares, La Fleche, Games, Crevecours, Brahmas, Cochins, Langshans. General utility fowls—Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Javas, Dominiques. But all such classifications are far from complete, for some of the table fowls are excellent layers and some of the great egg producers are fitted to satisfy the taste of an epicure.

The Seneca Lake grape growers recommend early plowing as a means of retaining moisture in the soil. An old vineyard does not require manure close to the vines, as the small roots are found nearer the centre of the rows; but young vineyards should be manured close to the vine and plowed close. Plowing away from the vines and then leveling with the cultivator are advisable. Hand hoeing must be avoided. Vines should be kept in good condition in dry weather by stirring the soil frequently, which serves also to gather the ammonia from the atmosphere. Vineyards on clay soil require more cultivation. Cutting the vines in summer is thought to be injurious, although good fruit is grown in an old vineyard where it was necessary to do this, as the trellises were not sufficient to keep the fruit from the ground. One grower said that his Isabella vineyard had been in bearing twenty-five years and still produced good fruit.

Some horses have a habit, when frightened by strange objects which they meet upon the road, of turning around so abruptly as to endanger the occupants of the carriage, if a four wheeled vehicle. Colts, when first harnessed, if driven to a certain point and turned around, often insist upon repeating the trick every time they reach that particular spot. They generally turn in the same direction every time. The simplest remedy that we have heard for breaking up this habit, says the Cultivator, is to take a light, strong bamboo fishpole, fasten the small end to the ring of the bit upon the side toward which the animal is accustomed to turn. Bring the other end of the pole back into the carriage. When the youngster attempts the turning feat push upon the pole with sufficient force to prevent his carrying out his purpose. This may not work in all cases where the animal is fully grown, and has been addicted to the habit for a long time, but it will break up the habit in a majority of cases when taken in season.

A Lion Snaps Off a Man's Head.

Not a week passes without some horrible accident in a menagerie. Yesterday a tamer named Agop, who was making his beasts perform before a large crowd at the fair of Bourges, was suddenly knocked down by a blow from the paw of one of the animals. Half of the unfortunate man's skull was snapped off almost instantaneously by the terrible brute, and his spinal column was cracked in twain as though it had been a dry twig. This is the most appalling of any of the menagerie accidents which have occurred for a long time, either in Paris or in the provinces. It is quite probable, however, that Paris may yet be startled by a similar atrocity if amateur lion tamers or hysterical females be allowed to enter the dens of wild beasts. The experiments on the hypnotised woman who entered the cage at the Folies Bergeres have already been detailed, but they have been eclipsed by the performance of a woman who actually entered one of the cages in M. Bidel's menagerie at Neuilly and kept a lion in momentary quietude by the magnetic force of "two lovely black eyes."

Luckily the daring venture of the dark-eyed damozel did not last long, and she escaped without having left her limbs in the mouth of the ex-monarch of the forests called Sultan. Her exploit was vociferously cheered by a crowd of mashers who had expressly attended to see the strange spectacle.—London Standard.

Average Farm Income.

By the latest returns of the Agricultural department, the leading farm products of the country amount to $4,014,000,000 yearly. That alone, independently of manufactures, fisheries, etc., represents an average income of $70 a year for every man, woman and child in the country.—Public Opinion.

Revolvers at a Seance.

HOW A PAIR OF PERFORMERS RAISED A BIG ROW IN THE AUDIENCE.

"One of the funniest incidents that ever came under my notice," said D'Alvina, the conjurer, "was out in Cheyenne a week ago. In our magic performance we use a cabinet, and while the 'spiritual manifestations' are going on therein all the lights are turned off in the building. This evening two or three of us were feeling rather glum, and we put our heads together and made up our minds that we'd do something to liven up the performance. In all conjuring shows, you know, there is a board walk from the stage down into the centre aisle of the auditorium. We call this the 'run-down.'

"Well, when this cabinet act was on two of us who were not engaged started out to have some sport. The lights were to be out only thirty seconds, and so we had no time to lose. As soon as the gas was turned out we skipped down the run-way and into the aisle. There we banged around lively among the spectators, hitting one a flat hand clip on the face and then another, pulling their hair, bumping two men's heads together, and playing all such pranks, and as quick as lightning. Just before the lights were turned on we skipped back onto the stage and into the wings, and there stopped to watch the sport.

"As soon as the light came we saw that there was great commotion in the house. Fifteen or twenty men were on their feet, and half a dozen were fighting with each other. One man had knocked his neighbor down under the seat and another had his two hands into the hair of the man sitting next to him. Revolvers were drawn and it seemed that everybody was accusing everybody else of having taken advantage of the darkness to play mean tricks. It was ten minutes before we could get the house quieted."—Chicago Herald.

Musical Sands.

Many people have heard of the singing beach at Manchester, Mass., where the sand, when driven over or stirred, gives out a peculiar and not unmusical sound, but few, very few, people know that near Pescadero, Cal., a beach exists much larger, giving out sounds in no uncertain manner. The beach near Manchester is said to be one-fifth of a mile in extent, but at Pescadero an investigating party found the sounds very clear, though varying in loudness, for a distance of one and a half miles along the coast line. The sound is loudest and most distinct where the sand is dry on top and damp beneath. A light vehicle driven over it gives a clear, musical sound, a footstep not quite so loud, and even the hands or a stick stirring or lifting the sand causes it to "sing" quite plainly.

Salvationists for Germany.

The Salvation Army is making renewed efforts to gain a footing in Germany. Its organ, the Heilsruf, says that the Salvation Army is nowhere more urgently needed than in Germany, "a country of 40,000,000 highly intelligent and industrious people, who are nevertheless steeped in darkness and unbelief." But in order to save the millions now "given over in infidelity and drunkenness" much money is required, and this the Heilsruf hopes soon to see forthcoming. The city of Worms is to be the first object of attack, and two other stations, one in Wurtemberg, the other in North Germany, are to follow.

Expensive Flags.

The flags to be presented to the New York fire department are said to be the finest ever made. They cost about $1,700. One is a national flag; the other is a white silk department flag. They are six feet six inches long by five feet six inches wide, and made of the best silk. The department flag is ornamented with gold fringe and the insignia of the department. These are the banners at the presentation of which Mrs. Cleveland has been asked to preside.

Consumption, Wasting Diseases, And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites; the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

A big church organ made of paper is said to be the latest discovery in the musical line.

"That Miss Jones is a nice looking girl, isnt, she?"

"Yes, and she'd be the belle of the town if it wasn't for one thing?"

"What's that?"

"She has catarrh so bad it is unpleasant to be near her. She has tried a dozen things and nothing helps her. I am sorry, for I like her, but that doesn't make it any less disagreeable for one to be around her."

Now if she had used Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, there would have been nothing of the kind said, for it will cure catarrh every time.

The Swiss Government purchased alcohol to cover the consumption for 12 months.

Relief is immediate, and a cure sure. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. 50 cents.

Bartholdi's Statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World"

Will be a reminder of personal liberty for ages to come. On just as sure a foundation has Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" been placed, and it will stand through the cycles of time as a monument to the physical emancipation of thousands, who by its use have been relieved from consumption, consumptive night-sweats, bronchitis, coughs, spitting of blood, weak lungs, and other throat and lung affections.

Hand-painted coffins are the latest society freak in Boston.

THOSE who are trying to break up the baneful habit of intemperance will experience great benefit from the use of Prickly Ash Bitters. Liquors derange the system. Prickly Ash Bitters will remedy the evil results and restore the brain, stomach and liver to healthy action, thereby strengthening the will power, thoroughly cleansing and toning up the system and remove every taint of disease. It is purely a medicine, and while pleasant to the taste, it cannot be used as a beverage by reason of its cathartic properties.

Father.

Loss of sleep sustained from anxiety spent over the little ones so slowly and pitifully wasting away from the effect of teething, unfit you for business, why not try Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial.

Sweet clover is a reliable crop for owners of apiaries, from July until frost.

* * * * Nervous debility, premature decline of power in either sex, speedily and permanently cured. Large book, 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Terrible forest fires in Michigan devour fences and crops, causing great loss to farmers.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA-MANDRAKE-BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES
It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.
DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.
It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CURES ALL DISEASES OF THE LIVER KIDNEYS STOMACH AND BOWELS FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS PRICE 1 DOLLAR
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO. Sole Proprietors, ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY

KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DYGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty-five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO., Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N. Y.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE
KNOW THYSELF.
PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above.
Name this paper.

ELY'S CREAM BALM CURES COLD IN HEAD CATARRH ROSE-COLD HAY-FEVER DEAFNESS HEADACHE PRICE 50 CENTS ELY BROS. OWEGO NY USA
It is a Perfect Cure.
I was severely afflicted with Hay Fever for 25 years. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and the effect was marvelous. It is a perfect cure.—Wm. T. Carr, Presbyterian Pastor, Elizabeth, N. J.
Apply Balm into each nostril.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for
TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢
I have retailed one hundred and three thousand (103,000) of your "Tansill's Punch" 5-cent cigars during the past four months, and over 1,400,000 during the past five years.
WM. M. DALE, Druggist, Chicago.
Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

SOLDIERS all get Pensions, if ½ disabled; Officers' travel pay, bounty collected; Deserters relieved; 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Laws sent free. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D.C.

FINE Blooded Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Dogs for sale. Catalogues with 150 engravings free. N. P. Boyer & Co. Coatesville, Pa

TEACHERS WANTED: SEPTEMBER SESSION. ADDRESS, with stamp, Southern Teachers' Agency, P. O. Box 410, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows, Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D.C.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

GOLD is worth $500 per pound, Pettit's Eye Salve $1,000, but is sold at 25 cents a box by dealers.

OPIUM Habit Cured satisfactory before any pay. Prof. J. M. BARTON, 18th Ward, Cincinnati, O.

Nervous People
Who take Hood's Sarsaparilla earnestly declare: "It gives us complete and permanent control of our nerves." By regulating the digestion it also overcomes dyspepsia and disagreeable feelings in the stomach, cures headache and heartburn. By its action on the blood impurities are expelled and the whole body is benefited.
"I never can thank Hood's Sarsaparilla for helping me so much. When I began taking it I was confined to the bed nearly all the time. Now I am up the best part of the day, have a better appetite than for five years, and am not nearly so nervous as I have been."
MRS. ANN A. HAILER, Nicetown, Philadelphia.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

ST. GEORGE'S HALL for Boys and Young Men, St. George's, Md. Unsurpassed. $230 to $300 a year. Prof. J. C. KINEAR, A. M., Principal.

This represents a healthy life,
Throughout its various scenes.
Just such a life as they enjoy
Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.
The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.
J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.
The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER is a perfect riding coat, and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. None genuine without the "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue free. A. J. Tower, Boston, Mass.

WHAT AILS YOU?
Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?
If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery
CURES ALL HUMORS,
from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.
"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.
CONSUMPTION,
which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.
For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.
Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.
☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,
World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

ROUGH ON RATS TRADE MARK DON'T DIE IN THE HOUSE
Gone where the Woodbine Twineth.
Rats are smart, but "ROUGH ON RATS" beats them. Clears out Rats, Mice, Roaches, Water Bugs, Flies, Beetles, Moths, Ants, Mosquitoes, Bed-bugs, Insects, Potato Bugs, Sparrows, Skunks, Weasel, Gophers, Chipmunks, Moles, Musk Rats, Jack Rabbits, Squirrels. 15c. & 25c.
HEN LICE.
"ROUGH ON RATS" is a complete preventive and destroyer of Hen Lice. Mix a 25c. box of "ROUGH ON RATS" to a pail of whitewash, keep it well stirred up while applying. Whitewash the whole interior of the Hennery; inside and outside of the nests. The cure is radical and complete.
POTATO BUGS
For Potato Bugs, Insects on Vines, Shrubs, Trees, 1 pound or half the contents of a $1.00 box of "ROUGH ON RATS" (Agricultural Size) to be thoroughly mixed with one to two barrels of plaster, or what is better air slacked lime. Much depends upon thorough mixing, so as to completely distribute the poison. Sprinkle it on plants, trees or shrubs when damp or wet, and is quite effective when mixed with lime, dusted on without moisture. While in its concentrated state it is the most active and strongest of all Bug Poisons; when mixed as above is comparatively harmless to animals or persons, in any quantity they would take. If preferred to use in liquid form, a tablespoonful of the full strength "ROUGH ON RATS" Powder, well shaken, in a keg of water and applied with a sprinkling pot, spray syringe or whisk broom, will be found very effective. Keep it well stirred up while using. Sold by all Druggists and Storekeepers. 15c., 25c. & $1.
E. S. WELLS, Chemist, Jersey City, N. J.

W. L. DOUGLAS $3 SHOE. FOR GENTLEMEN
The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world.
Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $3 Shoes advertised by other firms.
NO SEAM BEST KID BEST KID W. L. DOUGLAS' $3 SHOE. SEAMLESS SEWED
[Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.]
Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE. If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.

JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT
5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO., LaFayette, Ind.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Sold by druggists or sent by mail, 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

S. N. U.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$5 00	$7 00	$11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 25	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	35 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1887. NUMBER 46.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

The Railroad Gazette states that it is a well-known fact among railroad men that on railroads running north and south the west rails wear out the faster; that five rails will wear out on the west side of the tract while three are doing service on the east side.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says that the strikes in the shoe trade during the last year have cost in wages from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000. Nearly half this sum is said to have been lost in the five months' strike in Worcester county, Mass. The Wilmington strike of morocco workers lasted seven months and cost $325,000. The strikes at Salem and Peabody, Mass., entail a loss of $8,000,000 in wages. Lesser strikes bring up the total.

The monument over the grave of Israel Putnam, the Revolutionary hero, at Brookline, Conn., for which the State appropriated $10,000, will be dedicated June 17, 1888, the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill. The remains of General Putnam, in remarkable preservation, were lately removed from the Brookline cemetery to the new site, and the old tombstone, with the inscription prepared by President Timothy Dwight, of Yale College, was deposited in the rooms of the State Historical Society at Hartford.

A careful estimate has been made by officials connected with State Attorney Grinnell's office in Chicago as to the amount of money stolen by the Cook county thieves in the two years from September 1884, to September, 1886. Not less than $480,000 was stolen in 1884-'85, and fully $520,000 in 1886-'87. The total is estimated at $1,000,000 for the two years. The tax levy for county purposes for the same period was $2,300,000 — $1,200,000 for 1884-'85 and $1,300,000 for 1885-'86. The stealing, according to the estimate, amount to forty per cent. of the levy in both years.

Under the Constitution adopted by Holland in 1814 women were allowed to vote, the requisite qualifications, however, being that they should pay taxes on property and be able to read and write; but few of them have cared to exercise their privilege. Now that peril threatens the nation in the extinction of the royal house of Orange by the death of the present king, the women have become aroused, and regularly attend the polls, and by their presence and their ballots uphold the leaders who are arranging to defend their country. But more is ot come. Of the 17,000 persons just enfranchised great numbers are women; and so Holland, which has led the world in many things, will lead it again in this.

A prominent and experienced railroad engineer who has long held an important place in the West, declares that he had rather have under him men simply educated in high schools and practical work than graduates of technicals schools. He says the latter are unwilling to take the advice and orders of their superiors because they are so full of impracticable book theories which they regard as the highest authority. There is something radically wrong in teaching which does not impress upon the mind of the student the fact that practical experience is the ultimate appeal. All young men just starting out are apt to be over-wise in their own conceit, and this fact needs especially to be kept in mind by instructors in institutions which claim to send men out trained for special branches of practical work.

The Electrical World presents some remarkable figures as to the use of the telephone in four European countries—Belgium, Holland, Italy, and Russia. The tables give a list of the exchange subscribers in each country. The total of such is, allowing for a few untabulated exchanges, about 19,000. In other words, in these countries, with a total population of 136,000,000, there are only 19,000 subscribers, all told, or one in every 7,158; while in the United States there are 147,000 subscribers in a population of 50,000,000, or one in every 340. The disparity is remarkable. There are as many telephone subscribers in New York and Brooklyn as in all Italy with its twenty-eight millions of people; as many in Boston as in Holland with its four millions; more in Chicago than in all the dominions of the Czar.

An eminent English statesman, Mr. Giffen, has compiled tables which show in part the enormous sums sent back to the United Kingdom to the relatives and friends of emigrants who have gained homes in the United States. From 1848 to 1885, both years inclusive, there was forwarded from America through certain banks and mercantile houses $155,092,935, a large part of which eventually passed into the pockets of Irish landlords. In the last six years covered by the tables the contributions were greatly increased, the annual average being $7,427,474. Of course the statement is incomplete, for certain bankers declined to furnish the required information, and a great deal of money has reached Ireland from America without going through the hands of bankers. The average annual amount remitted from Australian colonies since 1875 has been only [illegible].

A FINE MEMORIAL.

A MONUMENT WHERE BURGOYNE SURRENDERED.

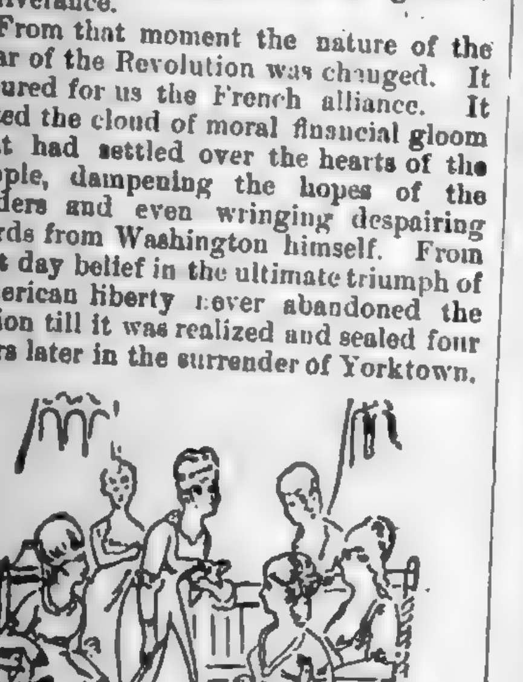
The Structure to be Completed Next Year—Its Artistic Features—The Story of the Revolution Told in Bronze.

At Schuylerville, twelve miles from the village of Saratoga, is a broadly rounded bluff which rises 300 feet above the Hudson. Its crest is crowned by an imposing monument, built of granite and of purely Grecian architecture. Power, repose and elegant simplicity seem combined with rugged strength to make this structure one of the finest works of art this country has produced. It overlooks a broad panorama, including the Hudson River, and bounded by Lake George, the Green Mountains and the Catskills.

WOMEN OF THE REVOLUTION.

It marks the spot where, according to Sir Edward Creasey, one of the fifteen decisive battles of the world was fought. It was here on the 17th of October, 1777, that Burgoyne surrendered, and with that event closed the most important chapter of the American Revolution. The elaborate preparation and departure of the finest army that ever left the shores of England, the arrogant proclamations that heralded the approach, the successful advance, the terror inspired by its savage allies, the early consternation and discomfiture of the colonies, the subsequent desperation, the indecisive conflict of September 19, the disastrous destruction of the Britons October 7—all culminated at Schuylerville in the capitulation of the entire army of Burgoyne and the thanksgiving of the nation for its glorious deliverance.

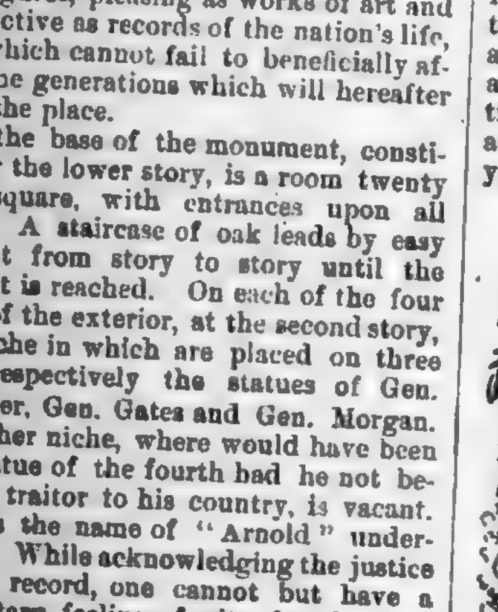
From that moment the nature of the War of the Revolution was changed. It secured for us the French alliance. It lifted the cloud of moral financial gloom that had settled over the hearts of the people, dampening the hopes of the leaders and even wringing despairing words from Washington himself. From that day belief in the ultimate triumph of American liberty never abandoned the nation till it was realized and sealed four years later in the surrender of Yorktown.



LADIES OF THE BRITISH COURT.

The design of the monument is twofold. Its lofty shaft, overlooking the plains of Saratoga and the battle fields of Bemis Heights, expresses the victory there gained, while its tout ensemble composes a grand collection of representations of historic and characteristic scenes and figures, pleasing as works of art and instructive as records of the nation's life, and which cannot fail to beneficially affect the generations which will hereafter visit the place.

At the base of the monument, constituting the lower story, is a room twenty feet square, with entrances upon all sides. A staircase of oak leads by easy descent from story to story until the summit is reached. On each of the four sides of the exterior, at the second story, is a niche in which are placed on three sides respectively the statues of Gen. Schuyler, Gen. Gates and Gen. Morgan. The other niche, where would have been the statue of the fourth had he not become a traitor to his country, is vacant. It bears the name of "Arnold" underneath. While acknowledging the justice of the record, one cannot but have a momentary feeling of pity for the man who played such an active part in winning the victory which is here commemorated. History corroborates the fact that when Gates had well-nigh given up all for lost, Benedict Arnold, who had before thrown up his commission as an officer in the patriot army, suddenly dashed upon the scene, assumed command, and led the troops up Bemis Heights, while the redcoats were mown down like grass before the scythe.



MRS. SCHUYLER FIRING HER WHEAT.

Over the entrances gables rise to the height of forty-two feet, and at each corner of the monument a granite eagle with folded wings and of colossal size is placed. The interior surface of the monument is covered by a series of thirty-six bronze sculptures representing, in bas-relief, characters, scenes and incidents of history. The first group in bronze represents the "Women of the Revolution," while opposite is seen "The Ladies of the British Court." Next comes the contrast of the King and his Ministers, who are devising methods for governing the colonists, and the town meeting, where an impassioned orator urges resistance to taxation. "The Rally of the People" and "The British Army in the Wilderness" are very characteristic and expressive groups.

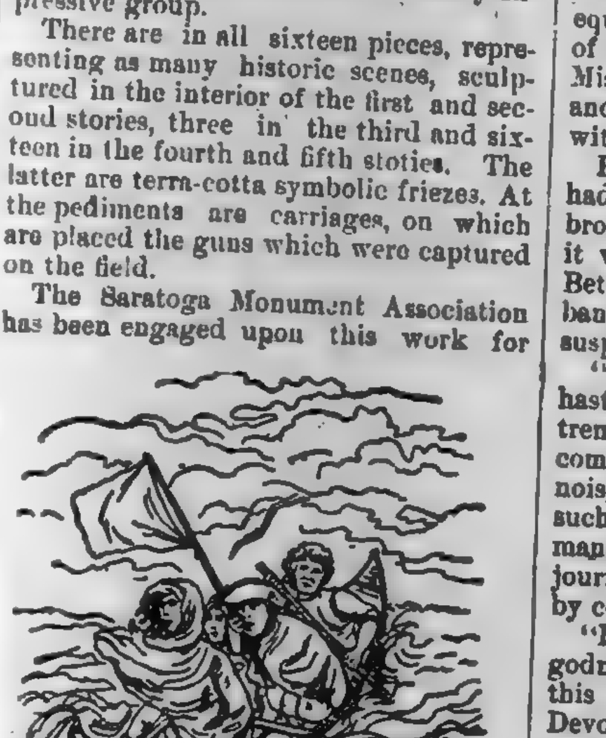
One of the most artistic groups is that of Mrs. Schuyler, with her child clinging to her skirts and accompanied by her little negro slave, as she sets fire to her wheat field to prevent its use by the British army. She shows herself worthy to be the wife of General Schuyler, who, in the next group, is seen felling the forest trees to obstruct the passage of the foe.

An impressive tablet is that representing Lady Harriet Acland that stormy night after the battle of September 19, securing the flag of truce and embarking in an open boat with her parson, her maid and her husband's valet to join her husband, wounded and a prisoner in the American camp. "The Massacre of Jane McCrea" represents strongly the terrible atrocity of the Indians, and the next group shows Burgoyne in the act of reprimanding the Indians for the cruelty, and their revolt. Another tablet represents "General Schuyler Turning Over His Command to General Gates;" and still another portrays "The Surrender of Burgoyne," which, by the way, did not take place upon the exact spot where the monument stands, but upon much lower ground, a little distant. "The Burial of General Fraser" furnishes a sadly expressive group.

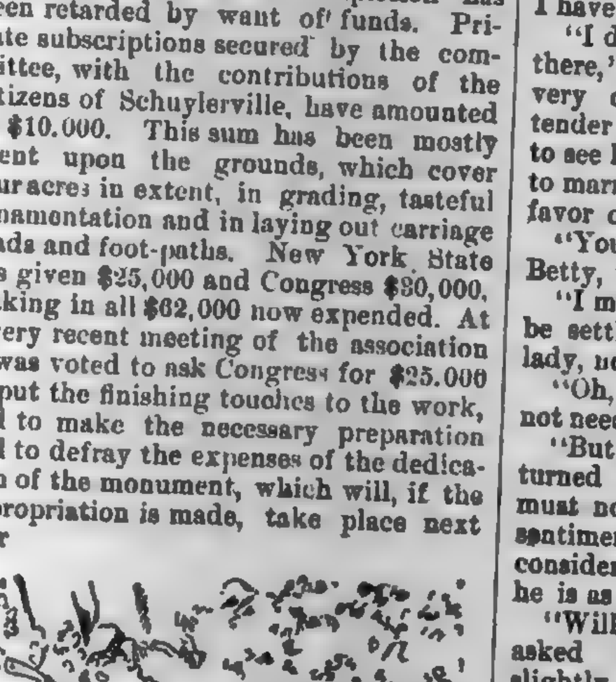
OBSTRUCTING THE MARCH OF THE BRITISH.

There are in all sixteen pieces, representing as many historic scenes, sculptured in the interior of the first and second stories, three in the third and sixteen in the fourth and fifth stories. The latter are terra-cotta symbolic friezes. At the pediments are carriages, on which are placed the guns which were captured on the field.

The Saratoga Monument Association has been engaged upon this work for several years, but its completion has been retarded by want of funds. Private subscriptions secured by the committee, with the contributions of the citizens of Schuylerville, have amounted to $10,000. This sum has been mostly spent upon the grounds, which cover four acres in extent, in grading, tasteful ornamentation and in laying out carriage roads and foot-paths. New York State has given $25,000 and Congress $30,000, making in all $62,000 now expended. At a very recent meeting of the association it was voted to ask Congress for $25,000 to put the finishing touches to the work, and to make the necessary preparation and to defray the expenses of the dedication of the monument, which will, if the appropriation is made, take place next year



LADY HARRIET ACLAND'S VOYAGE.



BURGOYNE REPRIMANDING THE INDIANS.

Special invitations to attend the dedication will be extended to the President and Cabinet, the Governors of all the States, representatives of foreign powers, especially of France, the Order of the Cincinnati, the Loyal Legion of the United States, the Grand Army of the Republic and all descendants of those who fought at Saratoga. For the rest, all the world will have a general invitation.—New York World.

Some Good Advice.

The Century Magazine prints for the first time these words of Abraham Lincoln, given in an official reprimand to a young officer who had been court martialed for quarrelling: "The advice of a father to his son, 'Beware of entrance to a quarrel, but being in, bear it that the opposed may beware of thee!' is good but not the best. Quarrel not at all. No man resolved to make the most of himself, can spare time for personal contention. Still less can he afford to take all the consequences, including the vitiating of his temper and the loss of self control. Yield larger things to which you can show no more than equal right, and yield lesser ones, though clearly your own. Better give your path to a dog than be bitten by him in contesting for the right. Even killing the dog would not cure the bite!"

THROUGH THE STORM.

I heard a voice, a tender voice, soft falling
Through the storm;
The waves were high, the bitter winds were calling,
Yet breathing warm

Of skies serene, of sunny uplands lying
In peace beyond;
This tender voice, unto my voice replying,
Made answer fond;

Sometimes, indeed, like crash of armies meeting,
Arose the gale;
But over all that sweet voice kept repeating,
"I shall not fail."

—Harper's Magazine.

BETTY'S MISTAKE.

BY ANNA KING.

Miss Campion was a little restless. She had dressed for dinner some time previously, and now moved backward and forward from her post of observation at the window to consult the little Swiss clock hanging over the writing table—for her eyes were not so good as they had been.

There were few people living who were very dear to her, and of these she was expecting this evening the two whom she loved best in the world—her goddaughter and namesake, Betty Carew, and Colin Campion, her nephew.

She had a definite object in view in bringing those young people together. A few weeks before she had had an attack of bronchitis, and this illness had suggested to her the advisability of making her will. When she began to consider how she should divide her property between Betty and Colin, her heart seemed torn asunder. She could not calmly contemplate her old lace and china, and all her favorite possessions, going out of the family, for she wanted Betty to have them. Colin must, of course, have the little estate, but then, too, he must have the money to keep it up, for she did not wish Forde to be neglected after her death.

At length an idea occurred to her which, if carried out, would obviate all difficulties. Why should not Betty and Colin marry and share her fortune equally, without any troublesome division of it? With this thought in her mind Miss Campion had invited them to Forde, and was now awaiting Betty's arrival with some nervousness.

Her nervousness increased when she had welcomed her goddaughter and brought her into the drawing-room—for it was necessary that she should make Betty understand how desirable a husband Colin would be without raising any suspicion in her mind.

"You are very tired, dear," she said, hastening to pour out a cup of tea with trembling fingers. "I shall never become reconciled to trains—they are so noisy and dusty. It is a pity we are in such a hurry always nowadays. They managed better in the last century, when journeys were made in a leisurely manner by coach."

"If we were eighteenth century ladies, godmother, I should be at the rectory at this moment—for the journey from Devonshire would have been impossible by coach. So I am glad that we were not born a hundred years ago."

"If you put it in that way, dear, so am I. I hope this visit will be pleasanter than usual," she added, nervously. "My nephew Colin is coming to-night; he is going to stay for some time."

"He is a doctor in London, isn't he? I have heard you speak of him."

"I dare say. He has bought a practice there," answered Miss Campion. "He is very clever in his profession, and so tender and kind! It is quite beautiful to see him with children. But he ought to marry; there is always a prejudice in favor of married doctors."

"You had better tell him so," said Betty, with a little smile.

"I mean to do so; and I think he will be settled before long," said the old lady, nodding her head mysteriously.

"Oh, if he is already in love, he will not need your advice, godmother!"

"But he is not in love, my dear," returned Miss Campion hastily. "You must not think that Colin is a foolish, sentimental young man. Indeed, he is considered rather cold in society; and he is as proud as you are, Betty."

"Will he marry if he is not in love?" asked Betty, raising her eyebrows slightly.

"Oh, no, my dear; of course not!"

"Then you think he will obediently fall in love when you tell him that he ought to marry? He must have his emotions under admirable control?"

"He would not fall in love with any one," said Miss Campion, with only a vague understanding of Betty's sarcasm; "but he cannot fail to see what a sweet girl——"

"I see," interrupted Betty, quietly, "you are saving him a great deal of unnecessary trouble in suggesting whom as well as when he should marry."

"Colin would not marry any girl whom he could not like and respect," said Miss Campion, a little anxiously.

"Oh, no! But he is not sentimental," suggested Betty. "The girl he marries will be a happy woman!"

"She will, indeed," agreed her godmother. "I am so glad that you appreciate Colin."

Soon after Betty had left the drawing-room to dress for dinner Doctor Campion arrived. When the first greetings were over, his aunt remarked, tentatively:

"I have asked Betty Carew to stay with me while you are here, Colin. You don't know Betty?"

"No," said Colin.

"She is a sweet girl," said Miss Campion nervously.

"Is she?"

"A very sweet girl. Do you know, Colin, I have thought lately that you ought to marry? Married doctors are always the most successful."

"And you think Miss Betty would make a good doctor's wife?" questioned Colin, suppressing a smile at his aunt's transparent plot.

"She is very dear to me, Colin; I should like Betty to be mistress here when I die," she returned wistfully.

Colin kissed her and said gently:

"I should like to please you in all things, Aunt Betty, but I must reserve the right of choosing my own wife. I [illegible] chance that Miss Carew would not be overcome by my many and undoubted charms. But we will let that pass."

"I won't say anything more about it," said Miss Campion, with a sigh; "but when you know her you will understand how happy she will make some one some day."

At dinner Colin sat opposite to Betty, and, as he watched her beautiful, tender face, he was quite prepared to indorse his aunt's opinion of her goddaughter, though Betty was anything but kind to him.

"Don't you think Colin is very much like the painting of my grand father in the drawing-room, Betty?" asked Miss Campion.

"Do you mean that very handsome soldier hanging between the windows?" asked Betty, regarding Colin critically. "Oh, no, godmother; I cannot see the faintest resemblance."

Miss Campion hastily changed the subject, to spare her nephew's feelings, though Colin was inwardly delighted at Betty's frankness—the more so because he was undoubtedly good-looking.

Presently another appeal was made to Betty by the fond aunt.

"Do you know, dear, Colin was placed first in every examination that he went in for when he was walking the hospitals?"

"Really?" said Betty, incredulously, raising to Colin the frankest, most innocent of eyes. "I thought clever people became doctors sometimes."

For a moment Colin suspected that she was trying to snub him, but Miss Campion attributed Betty's rudeness to fatigue, and sent her off to bed very soon after dinner

* * * * * *

During the next few days Betty found numberless opportunities of slighting Colin, but she was so gentle and affectionate to her godmother that he retained his first opinion as to the sweetness of her character. He accepted her slights with so much good temper, and received his aunt's praises with such genuine amusement, that Betty was at last compelled to confess to herself that her estimate of him had been altogether wrong. She felt that she could not respect him very much, for a man who would marry any girl for expediency's sake was not worthy of much honor; but she would be more polite to him, as his conduct would not in any way affect her.

Colin was very grateful for this change in her attitude toward him, and a friendship sprang up between them which on his side deepened into love. Of her feelings he could guess little. She was invariably sweet and frank; but the fear of losing her friendship by attempting to gain her love for some time prevented him from putting his fate into her hands. On the last day of her visit, however, the longing of his heart overcame this fear, and he poured out all his soul to her, not noticing that her face was hardening at his words.

"Tell me, Betty! Give me one word of hope! Have I any chance?" he pleaded.

She turned toward him then, her face white and stern, her mouth wearing a faint, bitter smile.

"How well you do it!" she said, in a hard voice.

"Do it? What do you mean?" he asked, his voice changing too. "Don't you understand? I love you, Betty!"

"Hush!" she interrupted, harshly. "That is quite enough. No, I can give you no hope; you have no chance. Never speak of this to me again!"—and, rising from her garden-chair, she went into the house and up to her own room.

This was what it all meant then! How blind he had been! She was the "sweet girl" whom Miss Campion thought a suitable wife for Colin. She had been invited here in order that Colin might see if she would "do." How grateful she ought to feel!

She went down stairs presently, feeling glad that this was her last day at Forde. She found Miss Campion sitting alone in the drawing-room, looking a little displeased.

"I am so cross, my dear," said the old lady, drawing Betty to a seat by her side. "Colin has ridden over to the Ladbrokes' for dinner. It was very thoughtless of him not to remember that this was your last evening."

"It does not matter, godmother," said Betty, with gentle coldness. "I would rather spend it alone with you."

"Would you, dear? I thought you and Colin had got on more comfortably lately."

"It was only a surface agreement," answered Betty, rather proudly. "We are too entirely opposed in character to be really friends."

"You will hardly believe it, Betty, but I had planned a match between you two. I thought you were so well suited for each other, and it would have been so nice for me to think of your living here together after my death!"

"And you spoke to him about it?" questioned Betty, without raising her eyes.

"Yes; on the evening before you came I told him what I wished. But I was to meet the fate of all match-makers, you see," she added, sighing. "Colin said that he would never marry unless he was in love—that he must reserve to himself the right of choosing his wife. And, as you say, dear, you and he were very far from falling in love."

"Did he say that?" asked Betty eagerly. "Wouldn't he agree to what you wished? Then I have wronged him terribly; he is ever so much nicer than I thought!"

"You thought?" questioned Miss Campion slowly. "Ah, I remember now—I told you that I was going to speak to him, and you believed that he would marry any one I suggested! How foolish and wrong I have been! You might have liked him if you had not been so prejudiced beforehand, and everything might have been different."

"Do not grieve, godmother," said Betty, gently. "If we have not been friends, it is quite my own fault. I had no right to judge him before I knew him."

But, in spite of her brave words, her heart sank strangely. She knew that she would have accepted Colin's love had she understood what he was offering her—for her belief in his unworthiness, though it had destroyed her trust in him, had not been strong enough to kill her love. And now her life would be one long sorrow for that mistake. Colin would never speak to her of his love again—had she not peremptorily forbidden him? He had gone away now to [illegible] never see him again. But at any rate, she would see him once more, and then ——. Oh, surely he would see that she was sorry for having misjudged him so.

But Colin remained at the Ladbrokes' for the night, and had not returned to Forde when she left it the next morning for home.

Betty had been right when she assumed that Colin had gone away on the previous afternoon to avoid her. Her harsh rejection of his proposal had roused his anger, and he had felt too hurt to bid her good-by. But on his return to London his anger grew less as time passed on, though his love for Betty did not diminish. As his thoughts dwelt on her so constantly, he began to seek for some reason for her unkindness, and the more inexplicable did her conduct appear. Her harshness and anger the day that he proposed to her were so at variance with her character that he at last concluded that some misunderstanding must exist in her mind which he ought to explain away.

This idea led him to make a journey to Devonshire, a few days later, though his hopes of winning Betty's love were small.

He walked over to the Rectory on the morning after his arrival, and was shown into the empty drawing-room by a neat maid-servant, who told him that Betty would be there in a few minutes, as she could be easily sent for to the church, whither she had gone to practice. Colin, however, decided to go himself, and had no difficulty in finding the sacred edifice, which was close at hand.

He seated himself just inside the door, struck by the beauty of the picture before him. The old church was cool and dim and still, the chancel alone glorified by the sunlight, which glinted through the colored windows, while the whole building was filled with the long, plaintive notes of the organ.

Colin sat down near the door and waited patiently till Betty should come. He heard her dismiss the little boy with a kind word of thanks for his services—saw her shut and lock the organ; and then he waited in almost trembling expectancy while she came slowly down the center aisle.

"Betty!" he said, softly, rising as he spoke.

"Doctor Campion!"

"You are surprised to see me here," he said," gently, walking out by her side.

The sun shone down hotly on her as she leaned against the stonework of the doorway, revealing to Colin how pale and thin she had become, and how sad were her eyes and lips.

"You have been ill!" he said, looking down at her anxiously.

"Oh, no; I am perfectly well—unusually well indeed!" she answered hastily, nervously fingering the flowers in her belt.

"You are surprised to see me here, seeing how we parted," he said, watching her intently. "We did not even say good-by."

"Have you come to wish me good-by now?" she asked, trying to smile.

"No; I have come to ask you why you were so angry that afternoon. You treated my proposal as if I had intended it as an insult; you spoke to me as if I were acting a part! I don't think I quite deserved it, Betty—do you?"

"I—it was a mistake," she faltered. "I thought you were acting; I did not believe in your love. I—I am very sorry."

"Betty," he said, taking her hands gently in his, "if you had believed in my love, would your answer have been different?"

"I—I think it might have been."

"Dear, do you believe in it now? Can you trust me now?"

"Yes," she said, looking up at him for the first time.

How News of a Hanging Was Sent Out of the New York Tombs.

When anybody in New York does anything that entitles him to publicity he very soon gains an idea of the immensity of that engine of human progress—the newspaper. More than forty reporters will besiege him, and his life will be made a burden until he ceases to be of public interest. One of the most striking recent cases illustrating newspaper enterprise in the Metropolis was witnessed at the hanging of the murderer, Peter Smith. A New York afternoon paper had arranged to publish an extra as soon as the doomed man had been hanged. The execution took place in the yard of the Tombs. In accordance with the statute only twelve reporters were admitted to witness the hanging, and they were given ingress to the prison enclosure only as members of the jury of inspectors. They had to remain until the execution had taken place, and then sign their names to the certificate averring that the criminal had been duly and thoroughly hanged. Not until each reporter had signed this document was he permitted to leave the jail yard, and it was fully twenty minutes before the forms of the law had been complied with.

The representative of an evening paper, foreseeing this delay, arranged in a unique manner to send the news of the execution to his journal. He purchased a big baseball, which he carried in his pocket within the high-walled inclosure of the Tombs. By a preconcerted arrangement at the office a boy stood outside the inclosure, having been warned that as soon as he should see the ball come over the wall he should note the time and run to the office of the paper, five blocks away, and carry the news, thus enabling his paper to get out an early extra edition announcing the execution. The boy stood outside the high walls that surround the Tombs, and never turned his eyes from the point where he had been informed the ball would be tossed over. The instant that Smith was hanged the representative of the paper, whose boy stood outside the prison wall, dashed away from the gallows and hurled the ball over the Tombs wall. The boy, seeing the ball come over, noted the time, ran to the office, and gave the news. Within five minutes after the murderer had been hanged an extra edition of the paper in question, announcing his death, was being sold on the streets. The boy who had taken the news to the office had not stopped to pick up the baseball thrown over the wall by the reporter, and a dozen lads of the crowd of boys who play about the Tombs walls, darted forward and seized the ball.—Amos J. Cummings.

What a country after all! The rich man as well as the poor can [illegible]

THEN AND NOW.

I.

When I was young the girls were thrifty,
Their work went right ahead,
They milked the cows, and churned the butter
And learned to make good bread.
'Tis thirty years since me and 'Zekel
First started out together,
And now we've got right smart o' money
Laid by for rainy weather.

II.

We don't go much on bonds or coupons,
Or railroad stocks, and sich,
We like the ring of gold and silver,
It makes one feel so rich.
But la! We've spent many a dollar
Upon our only dartor,
And Sairy Ann's so smart, we reckon
Schoolin' would make her smarter.

III

For five long years she went to college,
And stuffed her pretty head,
Till now she knows more than the parson,
But yet she can't make bread.
When she came home, says I, we'll see how What eddication is,—
For I catched cold one day a churnin'
And took the rheumatis.

IV.

She fixed her hair in what she told us
Was a McCarty roll,
And went to mixin' up her bread-dough
In my best butter bowl.
She made it, and she said she baked it,
And I set down and cried,
And for a while I didn't care much
Whether I lived or died.

V.

While 'Zekel, up and down the garden,
A rarin' and a pitchin',
Was swearin' at the college teachers
Cause they'd forgot the kitchen.
He wished there was no 'ology, or Any sick foreign stuff,
If graduates made bread like leather,
Only more sour and tough.

VI.

Our Sairy's no good in the kitchen,
But then she's awful smart,
She keeps the old pianner hummin',
Raves over works of art;
Reads French, and paints, and sings, but 'Zekel
Says he would give his head,
If she'd forget that tom-fool nonsense,
And learn to make good bread.

—Mary A. Benson, in Texas Siftings.

PITH AND POINT.

It is difficult for a drinking man to hold his breath; it is generally too strong for him.—Siftings.

"I was rapped in slumber," said the tramp as the policeman hit him with a club.—Washington Critic.

The chinch bug eats the farmer's grain,
The bee moth spoils his honey,
The bed-bug fills him full of pain,
The humbug scoops his money.
—Fialonia (Texas) Argus.

The man who is in the habit of trying to get at the bottom of things should beware of falling overboard in mid-ocean. Boston Courier.

"How to Get Into Print" is the title of a recent article in an eastern paper. How to get out of print is what is worrying most people.—Fort Worth Gazette.

"Man wants but little here below,"
Some people say, but it is best
To say—for it is true, all know—
That most of us want lots of rest.
—Pittsburg Dispatch.

He—"So you don't care to be mine with all that I have at my command?" She—"That's just the trouble. I don't want to be under your command."—Judge.

Connoisseur—"I tell you what it is, McDaub, those buzzards are simply superb. You shouldn't paint any but birds." Artist (disgusted)—"Those are not buzzards. They are angels!"—Siftings.

Before a Norristown young man started out with his girl for a premenade the other evening, he drew from his pocket a New York paper and read an article entitled, "Nearly One Hundred Persons Made Sick by Eating Ice Cream."—Norristown Herald.

A medical journal says it never knew of anybody that was hurt by a ripe watermelon; but the newspapers have frequently recorded cases of individuals in the South being filled full of shot while leaving a patch with a ripe melon under each arm. And that must have hurt.—Norristown Herald.

The Poison in Ice Cream.

The Journal of Analytical Chemistry, edited by Edward Hart, professor of analytical chemistry of Lafayette College, contains an article by Professor Victor C. Vaughan upon tyrotoxicon, the poisonous substance sometimes found in ice cream. This substance was discovered by Professor Vaughan about a year ago, and he has since spent a great deal of time in examining it. He has discovered that tyrotoxicon is identical with diazo-benzol, a substance which has been known for many years, and which was first prepared from aniline by Peter Griess, a German chemist. The poison is caused by a peculiar fermentation of the cream before it is frozen, and it can be separated from the cream by treatment with soda and then with ether, which dissolves the poison. An important point brought out by Professor Vaughan's researches is that the poison is entirely destroyed by boiling the ice cream mixture before it is frozen.

A Georgia Nimrod.

Elijah Youngblood, of Coffee county, Georgia, ought to be proud of his records as thus set forth in the Augusta Gazette: "Elijah Youngblood has killed 990 deer. He is one of Coffee's most successful farmers, and lives now on one of the poorest places in the county and makes plenty. It is said that since 1840 eleven families have starved on the place, but he makes plenty, and sells corn, potatoes and bacon. He says any man who cannot make a living in this country should not live. He is sixty-one years old, can walk all day in the woods, and can run a mile to head a deer or wildcat when he hears old 'Atman' bark. He has killed [illegible] wildcats."

Out in Iowa they have a new theory to account for drouths [illegible] think it is due to the artificial drainage by means of which [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 22, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

The Shelby Sentinel is offered for sale. A good investment for an experienced hand.

The Montgomery Dispatch proposes to get out a special edition during the State Fair that will be the best advertisement the State has ever had. The Dispatch can't be beat in this line and we expect it to more than fulfil its promise.

The VIEW has received numerous compliments from the press of the State. But we find no "spondulix" in compliments unless some of the irreconcilables write communications in reply. Then we strike it rich in more senses than one.

A son of Gen. Belknap some years ago wanted to secure a clerkship in one of the departments at Washington, but his father dissuaded him and advised him to undertake any other employment that was honorable. The young man secured a job as a railroad brakeman and stuck to it. Now he is assistant superintendent of the road.

The Voice disposes of the common assertion that the gospel is the only power that can save the drunkard, a favorite saying of those who do not believe in legal prohibition, on this wise: "Of course. And the only power that can save a thief is the gospel. But we intend here in New York State to keep the law against theft right on the statute books for some time to come."

The Chicago anarchist leaders, seven in number, are sentenced to be hung Nov. 11th and the Supreme Court has confirmed the sentence. The excitement in Chicago over the decision is intense. New York anarchists are also aroused and Herr Most, editor of an anarchist paper advises them to rescue their Chicago brethren from the rope, and in the same editorial speaks of the Supreme Court of Illinois as a body of "blood thirsty fools."

The VIEW has recently received advance sheets of Francis Fontaine's new novel, "Etowah: A Romance of the Confederacy." The era from which it draws its inspiration would furnish material for many interesting works of the kind. The work before us is at times vividly interesting, though the style is loose, and the author could have made his rhetoric more forceful and attractive by dispensing with the use of slang entirely. The book is to be sold on the agency plan. Address Fulton Co. Veterans Association, box 163, Atlanta, Ga.

No braver or truer man than Stonewall Jackson ever lived, and no man ever left behind him a better example for the youth of his land to follow. He was a consistent Christain in the truest sense of the word, a warrior who knew no fear, a man who was willing to die for what he conceived to be his duty. It has been said recently that the letter of Jefferson Davis had no little effect in deciding the Prohibition question in Texas. Admitting that any utterance of Mr. Davis is entitled to a respectful consideration, we do not think that it ought to decide a man's opinion for him. But if any of our readers want this kind of authority to sustain them in their adherence to a good cause, let us refer to the utterance of Stonewall Jackson, who was after Lee, the popular hero of the Confederate cause. "I never touch intoxicating liquor," he said. "I fear it more than I do the Yankee bullets."

There is some trouble in fully understanding the import of the passage of Scripture where the Savior 'preached to those in prison,' (we can't recall the exact words) but here is a sermon, a prayer, voluntarily gotten up, and signed by 402 convicts in the Tennessee Penitentiary, which will doubtless have a powerful influence in the coming Prohibition election in that State. The force of the appeal loses nothing by coming from the victims of the 'accursed traffic,' and is a complete answer to Mr. Jeff. Davis' argument favoring the traffic in Texas. Here is their card:

"We are in the penitentiary,—wearing the garb of disgrace, being dishonored and counted unworthy to mingle with the people of our State; we yet have the same love for our wives, the same devotion to our mothers, the same affection for our sisters, and for their sake, and for the sake of our children, we appeal to you to unite as one man and free the State from a curse created by the hands of men, discountenanced by the law of God."

The appeal of 'Dives' is disregarded because the scene is laid in the invisible world, but here is an appeal from living men, suffering the penalty of the violated law, the result of a traffic which dooms them to an eternal separation from their fellows and those they love. They have a right to speak a word of warning.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

Dr. Riley on Alabama.

"Alabama as it is" is the title of a work recently issued by the State for advertising purposes. It is to be had of the publisher, W. C. Holt, Montgomery, at the very reasonable price of 10 cents per copy. Rev. B. F. Riley is the compiler and author of the work, and received $2,000 from the State in payment for its use as an advertising pamphlet. The book is not so comprehensive as it might be. Much important matter seems to have been omitted, perhaps to prevent the work being too bulky. Chilton county is given two pages, and of course all of our advantages, resources and capabilities could not be mentioned in such a limited space. What it does say of our county is well said and is correct, with the single unimportant exception as to the date of the change of the name of the county from Baker to Chilton, which is given as 1875. The name was changed in December, 1874.

We think the investment will be a remunerative one. People who may be brought here by this little book will find that no effort has been made to create a "spread eagle" impression of the country. On the contrary he will inevitably be struck with the fact that much might have been said in its favor that has been left unsaid. So those whom it brings here will not be disappointed. Properly distributed the book will do the State much good, and a great deal depends upon proper circulation.

The Labor Party.

The United Labor Party held its first convention in Birmingham on Friday last. The officers of the convention were: President—L. G. Jeffrees, Jefferson; Vice Presidents—I. G. Wood, Jackson, J. J. Honeycutt, Chilton, and A. C. Jackson, Jefferson; Secretaries—E. S. Fowlkes and J. B. Donley, Jefferson. The following in regard to the convention is obtained from the Age:

The resolutions brought in by the committee were lengthy and exhaustive. They strongly condemned the convict labor system as injurious to the moral and financial status of the workman. They recommend the establishment of national and State bureaus of labor, which should make annual reports to the people. They opposed the national banking system, asked for legal tender of gold and silver, and that the surplus in the treasury be distributed among the people in the best possible manner. They denounced what was termed the class legislation of the past twenty years, and called for a legislation for the people as opposed to capitalists and monopolies.

A motion was made to adopt the Cincinnati platform, and there was another uproar. Some wanted it read; some didn't. Some knew nothing of the platform; some didn't want to know. After a heated discussion of half an hour, the platform was adopted.

The convention then went into the election of a State Central Committee. Mr. E. Lesser was unanimously chosen committeeman for the State at large. For the Congressional Districts having no representation, the choosing of a committeeman was left to the State Central Committee to be made at some future time. Those chosen were, W. W. Adams, of Chilton, for the Fifth District; Alfred Taylor, of Jefferson, for the Sixth, and I. G. Wood, of Jackson, for the Eighth. The other districts were without representatian in the convention.

Land plowed deep in the fall will produce, on an average, a fully one-third larger yield than the same land plowed in the spring, besides being in a more advantageous form for cultivation. Deep fall plowing mellows the land and causes it to yield up more readily the fertilizing qualities of the soil and retain better the elements of plant food. Let any farmer observe the difference in the crop production over the same quality of soil plowed in the spring. Especially will the difference be seen in a dry season.—Ex.

School satchels at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Mountain Creek and Bozeman.

The recent cool spell sent many Montgomerians back to their homes.

Mrs. W. J. Cameron and children who have been visiting Mrs. A. Cameron, left for their home in Birmingham Thursday night.

Misses Mary and Julia Henderson, of Troy, and Hattie Feagin, of Union Springs, have been visiting Miss Lizzie Marberry, of Bozeman. They made many friends while here.

Mrs. Stuart and Miss Burton, both of Montgomery, have been visiting Rev. J. Falkner and family at Mt. Creek.

Mrs. A. E. Kirtland, the proprietress of the Mountain Creek House, has gone to Birmingham to open a hotel. Mrs. J. F. Whitfield, of Montgomery, is now entertaining the city people.

Messrs. Charles Brown and Wm. Oates have been out on the Coosa on a fishing and hunting expedition.

Misses Mabson and McRae, of Union Springs, have been visiting Mrs. Blakey at Mountain Creek. GUSSIE.

So long has White's Cream Vermifuge been before the public that is only necessary to say that this never failing remedy can be had of all druggists. Its long-continued use is sufficient proof of its efficacy, and mothers who have tried it for worms in children, declare it to be the only preparation that moves the worms promptly and effectually.

Stanton Puffs.

The new bridge across Mulberry creek is completed. It is said to be the best one across Mulberry.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Stewart, which took place last Monday morning.

An interesting meeting was held at Mt. Carmel Church, near Clanton Ford some weeks ago. Three were baptised at that time. Four others were baptised last Sunday.

W. J. Ruddick has been recalled as pastor of Mt. Carmel for another year.

The patrons of Stanton Academy have secured the services of Mr. Harwood, of Uniontown. He comes well recommended as an educator. The Academy will open about the first of October.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. C. W. Plant continues to improve in health. We hope to see him out again soon.

The protracted meeting held by the Methodist ministers continued until last Thursday night week. It is the intention of the minister in charge of the circuit to permanently organize the church on October 1, and hold another protracted meeting.

The colored Baptists are building a new church at Spring Hill, just above Stanton.

The members of the Baptist Church are making some improvements on their church yard in the way of leveling the ground. The removal of the building has been spoken of. 89.

Incedulity may for a season give a cold reception to truth, but the latter has such a winning way that when she positively asserts that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment is absolutely the only speedy and lasting cure for piles, and gives as evidence the testimony of thousands who have been relieved by it, the merits of Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment is gracefully acknowledged.

Verbena Personals.

[Written on the 13th for last issue.]

Rev. Mr. A. J. Briggs filled his appointment Sunday morning. He preached from the text "And he worshiped leaning on his staff," and gave a fine sermon to a good congregation. No service at night on account of the Baptist protracted meeting.

Miss Sallie E. Judkins is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Matthews.

Mr. A. H. Townsend and family, of Montgomery, have moved into the Werth residence.

We have had several applications for houses from parties who want to move here to educate their children, have church advantages, &c.

Miss Fanny May Dudley, of Benton and Samuel Catts, of Florida, are with their grandfather Dr. Caffey; attending the high school here.

Rev. B. H. Crumpton, of Evergreen, arrived Tuesday the 6th, and has labored continuously since assisting Mr. Skipper with his protracted meeting. They have worked hard with much zeal and earnestness. Prayer, experience and inquiry meetings in the mornings, preaching at 11 o'clock, both well attended. Preaching every night to crowded houses. Those powerful sermons of Mr. Crumpton, and exhortations of Mr. Skipper; those pleading, soul stirring, fervent prayers of Bro. Green, all combined have fully revived the church people, and brought forward members to be prayed for. Thirteen came forward last night. Eight have joined the church; one by letter. Baptising this afternoon (Tuesday) at 5 o'clock. Meeting will likely close to-night.

No one can estimate the evil that may be produced by the neglect of one simple duty, and in matters pertaining to the health procrastination may have fatal results. Therefore, if your child has worms use White's Cream Vermifuge, a pure and simple remedy, which has stood the test and never failed to dislodge the worms. Try it.

CALERA, ALA., Sept. 14, 1887.

Having made very advantageous business arrangements elsewhere I will sell the material, good will, books and accounts of the Shelby Sentinel at a great bargain. The outfit includes a Campbell Country Cylinder Press, Jobber, and a large assortment of carefully selected Job Type.

The job patronage is unusually large for an office outside of a city.

H. G. McCALL.

The danger of a malarial atmosphere may be averted if you will occasionally take a dose of Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure.

Sudden change of temperature and humidity of the atmosphere often produce disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Use Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm to check these troubles in their incipiency.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR

WOMAN'S DISEASES

SUCH AS

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TUSKALOOSA FEMALE COLLEGE.

Pupils in attendance last session 211. Officers engaged 19.

Twenty-eighth session opens Wednesday, Sept. 14.

For catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL,
President.

aug18-1m]

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

NOTICE NO. 6647.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 7, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15th, 1887, viz: Noah L. Broadhead Homestead 18490 for the s ½ of s e ¼ sec 6, t 20 n r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Robert M. Robuck, E. F. Fuller, William F. Robuck, all of Maplesville, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6650.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 31, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15, 1887, viz: John Morris, declaratory statement 1266 for the w ½ of n w ¼ sec 24, t 24 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henry Jones William Greie, George Eatres, Jonathan Eatres, all of Shelby Iron Works, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

Wetmore's Book Store

SELMA, ALA.,

INVITES ORDERS FOR

Books, Stationery, Musical Instruments, Fancy Goods, etc.

Prices always lower than elsewhere. [mar24-6m

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

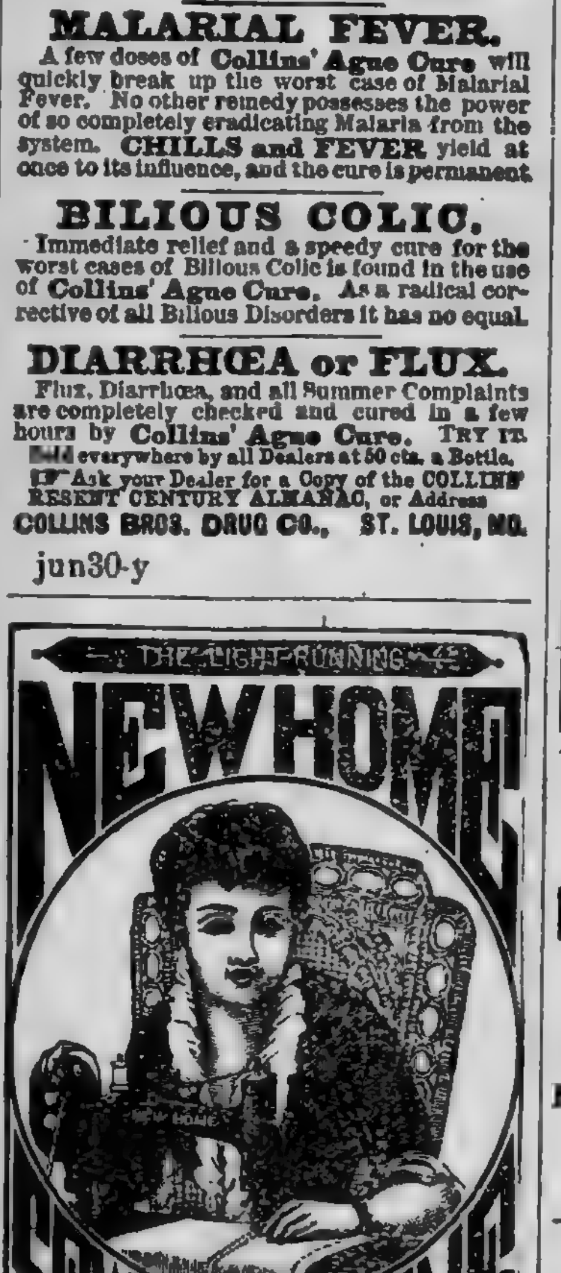
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Billous Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.

Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' RESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y



THE LIGHT RUNNING

NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE

PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR. NEVER OUT OF ORDER.

NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.

CHICAGO ILL. — 30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. — DALLAS, TEX.

ST. LOUIS, MO. — ATLANTA, GA.

aug10-1y

MARRIAGE GUIDE

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT.

NEVER FAILS TO CURE SPRAINS CUTS RHEUMATISM AND ALL DISEASES OF MAN AND BEAST THAT CAN BE REACHED BY AN EXTERNAL MEDICAL APPLICATION 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT IS GUARANTEED TO CURE ALL FORMS OF PILES

HODGES SARSAPARILLA CURES ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM AN IMPURE STATE OF THE BLOOD.

T.I.N.C. IS THE ONLY INFALLIBLE CURE ON EARTH FOR ALL KINDS OF NEURALGIA

SOLD EVERYWHERE

MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. CO NASHVILLE-TENN.

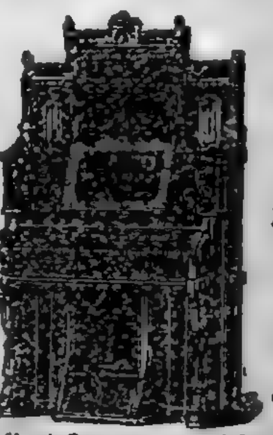
THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for houses, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION, UNEQUALED FACILITIES, SKILLED WORKMEN, BEST MATERIAL, COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co

Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,

CHICAGO, ILL.

L & N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,

And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE

From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES

From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices.

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,

Are displaying a Complete and Varied Assortment of

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes, Clothing and Millinery.

Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.
Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
SELMA, ALABAMA.

mar24-y]

WILSON HOUSE.

A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.

Birmingham, Alabama.

Jobbers and Retailers of

PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER, Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,

Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES.

We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

A. J. MASSEY,

OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

Will go far and near.

Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements.

GO TO BLANK BROS, LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 22, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	1:46 p. m.
No. 51	6:10 a. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	11:09 a. m.
No. 4	9:48 p. m.
No. 50	6:50 p. m.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Cotton Market.

BIRMINGHAM—Corrected weekly by Sol. D. Bloch & Co., cotton factors. Market steady. Demand good. Prices prevailing: Good Midling 9⅛c. Middling 8⅞c. Low Middling 8⅝c.

MONTGOMERY—Market firm. Demand good. Middling 8⅞c.

By-Gones.

For the Chilton View.]

Oh, sweet as the breath of the zephyr that kisses
The cheek of the rose as it blushingly smiles,
And soft as the low-murmured hum of bright waters
Come the voices of by-gones from memory's isles,

Ah! fancy clothes brightly those scenes of past pleasure,
And gilds with rich hues the pictures of yore,
And we sigh when we think of the joys that have vanished;
Those scenes of the past that can cheer us no more.

The hopes we once cherished that long since have faded
Whose gay gleaming star made the future so bright,
As they led us deluded and yet willing captives
'Till at last they fled from our wavering sight.

Ah! yes, there were thorns too among the bright flowers
That were scattered along our path as we roved;
And we still nurse the scars where the thorn-pierce hath rankled,
And place them in memory's vine-bowered groves

Yet who for all that would let by-gones be by-gones
And blot them from memory's echoing isles,
Though the thorns rankle sore, the flowers are still lovely
And we'll keep all the tears for the sake of the smiles

GEORGIA A. [illegible]

Chancery Court to-morrow.

Ladies' hats over the drug store.

Another building boom has struck our town.

Mrs. W. L. Sampey is visiting friends in Birmingham.

Clanton Academy opened Monday with about forty pupils.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure is gentle in action, and warranted a certain cure. 50 cents a bottle.

Miss Mamie Bivings is visiting Birmingham and Blount Springs.

Miss Lena Scheussler of Montgomery is visiting friends in Clanton.

A good rain on Friday night was received with grateful hearts by the dusty denizens of our burg.

Mrs. O. A. Duke is on an extended visit to relatives in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Appetite and sleep may be improved, every part of the system strengthened and the animal spirits regain their bouyancy by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Mrs. Hamrick, of Newnan, Ga., mother of Mrs. Jno. Chandler, has been on a visit to her daughter at this place.

Mr. T. M. Edwards will build a residence in West Clanton near Mr. Cast's place. Work will commence on it right away.

We were glad to see Mr. G. W. Haden in Clanton the past week, and to know that his health is improving. He was visiting relatives.

Mixed News.

The hot well boom has proved a failure and we consider this bad news. To counteract this I will let you know that I am selling everything very cheap, and this is good news for those who buy goods in Clanton, the best market this side of Montgomery. Come and see for yourselves and bring your cotton to market while the price is good.

Yours Truly,
W. L. SAMPEY.

The protracted meeting at the Baptist church commences next Sunday. We hope much good will result from it.

The wind and rain of last week brought a most desirable change of temperature, and now everybody can be happy awhile.

The baths at the cold-warm-hot well can't be beat. They are delightful, and several patients are still here using them very beneficially.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which causes burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

A disordered condition of the stomach, or malaria in the system will produce sick headache, you can remove this trouble by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 cts. per vial.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Mr. M. C. McRee has had a new window put in the front of his storehouse which gives him considable more light and shows his goods off to better advantage.

Mr. A. D. Bentley has had a nice law office fitted up adjoining Mr. Wilson's store where he will be found ready to accommodate all parties in need of his services.

Mr. R. P. Woolley desires to inform the public that he is now carrying a full stock of men's shoes which he will sell as cheap as they can be bought anywhere. Call on him. 2t.

Undue exposure to cold winds, rain, bright light or malaria, may bring on inflamation and soreness of the eyes. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve will subdue the inflamation, cool and soothe the nerves, and strengthen weak and failing Eye sight. 25 cents a box.

Unsuspected disorders of the kidneys are responsible for many of the ordinary ailments of humanity which neglected, develop into a serious and perhaps fatal malady. Experience would suggest the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

The VIEW has received from Mr. A. J. Hall some very excellent potatoes of the Dooley yam variety. These are the best sweet potatoes raised, and Mr. H. knows how to raise them.

The 4th and last quarterly conference, of the Methodist church, for Clanton and Verbena Station will be held next Saturday and Sunday at Verbena. The services will be protracted.

One of our young men has done the handsome thing by subscribing for the VIEW, to be sent to his girl who is off at school. We'll wager our old last winter's hat that she never goes back on him.

At the head of our local column will be found the prevailing price of cotton in Birmingham and Montgomery. The report will be corrected weekly during the business season, for the benefit of our farmer readers.

A beautiful woman must be healthy, and to remain healthy and beautiful she should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It imparts tone and flush to the skin, strength, vigor and pure blood; is equally adapted for all ages, from the babe to the aged, of either sex.

If the stomach performs its functions actively and regularly the food of which it is the receptical, is transformed into blood of a nourishing quality, which furnishes vigor and warmth to the whole body, the remedy to give tone to the stomach is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

The work of painting the new church is now in progress. Our citizens are indebted to the energetic and persevering president of the Methodist Ladies' Aid Society for her successful efforts in raising the money to commence the work.

Mr. J. H. Chandler attended the meeting of Unity Baptist Association which met at Plantersville last Thursday, as a delegate from the Clanton church. Mr. Oliver Mullins went as a delegate from Mt. Zion church in the Jumbo neighborhood.

Mr. Ed. M. Trimble, of Montgomery has recently formed a partnership with R. E. Bolling & Son, of that city. Mr. Trimble has a large circle of friends and acquaintances in this section who will be glad to hear of "the new firm." You will find him at the Temple Stores on Commerce St. Success to him say we.

Mr. J. M. Ponder informs us that he has sold Mr. J. H. Chandler a lot near Mr. Stanfield's place in West Clanton on which Mr. C. will build a residence and move his family into it instead of going out to his mill to live. Mr. Ponder says he has also sold a lot to a Mr. Watts, brother of Mr. N. Watts, who will build a residence on it very soon.

Off For School.

Several of our young people left Clanton last week to attend school at Colleges in different parts of the South. Mr. Ned Duke has gone to Nashville, to enter the Vanderbilt University; his sister, Miss Anna Lou, is also in Nashville, at Ward's Seminary. Misses Bessie and Gertrude Ponder left for Tuskegee where they will attend the Ala. Conference Female College; Misses Rosa and Lula Guilahorn went to Tuskaloosa to the Tuskaloosa Female College. We hope they will all make marks of distinction and that this may be a profitable scholastic year with each and everyone of them, if they didn't subscribe for the VIEW before leaving.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicine in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cedts remain the same size.

Subscribers who want to pay for their paper in potatoes will note that we want 100 bushels from about 50 different subscribers. Those who want to pay in wood will note that we want 300 loads right away. Those who want to pay in corn—we need only to remind them that our animule is named "Bones," and we will want a pile of corn, we will—so let us hear from you long and loud and often.

Attention R. R. L.

For sprains, bruises, rheumatism, cramps, inflammation, swellings, cuts, burns, etc., in man, and splint, ring bone, windgall, epizootic, scratches, etc. in horses, Rangum Root Liniment is a sure cure. The "King of Liniments" is a universal verdict. Never fails to cure any ailment that can be reached by an external medical application. 50 cents per bottle. For sale by all druggists.

To the Public.

We the undersigned citizens of Chilton county, certify that we witnessed the test of the hot well and watched the thermometer at different times and we hereby certify that the water on Monday morning before the boiler was in the least heated, would register 125 degrees, which would make the water twenty-one degrees hotter than when the last test was made on Sunday evening. We will also state that we are willing to make affidavit to the above statement at any time if necessary.

[Signed] JAMES F. JOHNSON,
J. M. WOOLEY,
R. P. WOOLEY,
J. W. PRITCHETT,
W. M. BURTON,
B. FLINSEY.

Now is the Time

[illegible] Sarsaparilla with Iodide of Potash, the great purifier for the blood. A certain cure for rheumatism, scrofulous affections, and all diseases peculiar to females. Renovates and invigorates the system. Physicians recommend it. Take no other. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Nashville, Tenn. $1 00 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

The Housekeeper for October will contain a full account of the wedding of the manageress of that paper, in the Minneapolis, Minnesota, Exposition, on the evening of September 28, together with accurate descriptions and illustrations of the participants wedding dresses and presents. A copy of this issue will be mailed free to any of our lady readers sending their address to THE BYCKEYE PUB. CO., Minneapolis, Minn.

TINC

Don't suffer any longer, but use Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure, the only infallible cure on earth for all forms of neuralgia and nervous headache. Ranguin Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn 50 cents per box. Sold by all druggists. sep 1

Slates, copybooks, pens, pencils, inks, mucilage, foot rules, penracks, &c., for sale at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

EPO

Don't waste time and money and undergo needless torture with the knife when when Ethiopian Pile Ointment will afford instant relief and certain cure in every case of blind, bleeding, itching, internal and external piles. Rangum Root Medicine Co., Manufacturers, Nashville, Tenn. 50 cents and $1 per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Tax Notice.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1887:

Strasburg	October	17
D. H. Mullins'	"	18
Archey's	"	19
Jemison	"	20
Providence	"	21
David Woolley's	"	22
Macedonia	"	24
Benson	"	15
Maplesville	"	25
R. Latham's	"	26
Dixie	"	27
Pilgrim's Rest Church	"	28
Kincheon	"	29
Energy Postoffice	November	2
Verbena	"	3
Cooper's	"	4
Clanton	"	5
Cane Creek Church	"	8
Maull's Mill	"	9
Chandler's Mill	"	10
Bivings, Duke & Co.'s	"	11

D. A. WHITE, T. C.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 6679.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d 1887, viz: Tempy J. Oates, Homestead 13283 for the w ½ of n w ¼, the s e ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26 township 21 north range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, James R. Broadhead, Abram C. Mims, Sylvester Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6681.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 22, 1887, viz: John C. Arnold, Homestead 17903 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 24 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel Curry, Eli D. Barfield Gip G. West, John B. Moore all of Brierfield, Ala.

sep15 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6680.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d, 1887, viz: Sylvester Mims, Homestead 13479 for the w ½ of s e ¼ and s ½ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 21 north, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Oats, Jesse A. Culp, Daniel Dunnavin, and James R. Broadhead, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 5, 1887.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Taylor Davis against William Taylor for abandonding his Homestead entry No. 17157, dated Sept. 15th, 1885, upon the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4, township 20 north, range 16 east, in Chilton county, Ala. with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 27th day of October, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
sep 15 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

W. A. Ricketts,

—DEALER IN—

Guns and Ammunition,

GUN AND LOCKSMITH,
205 20th St., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

THE

Verbena High School.

—:o:—

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

—:o:—

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MISS FANNY PURIFOY, Teacher of Music and Art.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class	$1 50
Intermediate Class	2 50
High School "	3 00
Commercial "	3 00
Collegiate "	4 00

Primary Department is confined to reading, writing and spelling.

Intermediate Department will include arithmetic and the first lessons in grammar, geography and elocution.

High School Department will include algebra, geometry and a complete English and Scientific course.

Commercial Course includes bookkeeping and the law of contracts.

Collegiate course includes higher Mathematics, French, Latin and Greek.

MISS CALLIER is a graduate of the Marion Female Seminary and has four years' experience in teaching.

MISS PURIFOY is a graduate of the Judson Female Seminary and has taken a special course in Music and Art.

MRS. DAVIS graduated at the Summerfield (Ala.) school in 1859 and has several years' experience.

Tuition is payable monthly in advance, but patrons are allowed the first two weeks in each month in which to settle.

Good board in private families at reasonable prices.

Students will be prepared for any class in college.

sep 8-y

This space is reserved by

A. J. BROOKS

AT VERBENA, ALA.,

FOR FUTURE ADVERTISING

☞WATCH IT.☜

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References:
J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank. of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalise freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES.
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 308. [July8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

—o—

Wholesale Grocers,

—o—

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photograhs, on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞Correspondence solicited.☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [June 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞MONTGOMERY STABLES,☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods,

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager.
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street.
LOUISVILLE, KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS STAIR RAILS,
Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

The Chilton View Job Office,
IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR
JOB PRINTING,
SUCH AS
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
BILL HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
COMMISSARY CHECKS,
CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS
OF ALL KINDS,
NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.
SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Ashes in Fruit Culture.

A correspondent of the American Garden says: I have always had the best results from the use of ashes in fruit culture, and in some cases the results were in proportion to applications far more liberal than I would have dared to recommend. Thus, one spring I was setting an apple tree two years old of the Maiden's Blush variety (never a precocious variety with me) in a location that seemed to have been intended by nature as "a thorn in the flesh" as long as I included it in my orchard. It was impossible to drain it at any expense justified by the probable results, and a tree rarely lived in it longer than two years. In this particular case, until I had the hole dug, it was nearly filled with water. I felt desperate, and, procuring a bucket of unleached wood ashes, put them in the hole, deposited the roots of the tree below the surface of the water and filled the hole as best I could. The tree blossomed the succeeding fall and ever after has been vigorous. Since then I have trenched around my orchard trees all the wood ashes, either leached or unleached, that I could conveniently get.

One spring I incorporated ashes in the soil about some grape vines that I was setting out, giving to each vine about half a bushel. I never before had grape vines do so well.

Selecting a Cow.

A model useful dairy cow may be known at a glance by an expert. She has a fine, long head, broad between the eyes, and a thin, wide muzzle; the eyes are large, and of a mild expression; the neck is thin and long; the ears are thin, and covered within with a deep yellow skin; the forequarters are light and thin, and the whole body has much the shape of a wedge, increasing in size to the rear; the legs are thin, with fine bone; the belly is large and deep, with great capacity for food; the back is broad and straight, and the ribs are well rounded toward the rear; the bones of the rump are wide apart; the tail is long and thin; the thighs are thin and are set widely apart; the udder is large and full, especially behind; the teats are of good size, and set far apart upon a broad, level udder, and the milk-vein, so-called, which is the large vein leading from the udder and passing into the abdomen, and which is an indication of the amount of blood circulating through the milk glands, and contributing to the milk secretion, should be full and tortuous in its short couse. A fine horn, a deep, yellow skin, and a general elegance of form, without any heaviness or beefiness in any part, are also important indications of good quality in a cow for the dairy—American Agriculturist.

The Sheepfold.

One way remains, says the Cultivator, by which sheep may be made profitable for the restoration of fertility. This is to buy in the fall and fatten during the winter. No kind of stock makes more or richer manure in proportion to its feed. It requires experience with sheep, and good judgment added, to buy them judiciously, but when thus bought, a flock of sheep in the fall can hardly fail to prove profitable for feeding.

The increased growth of wool from fattening sheep goes a good way toward paying for their feed. Clover hay is best for them, and with this and a very little grain sheep can be got in excellent condition in sixty to ninety days, and during this time a flock of one hundred will work down a large straw stack into manure, using most of it as bedding. It is in the barnyard, treading down straw and compacting it with evenly distributed manure, rather than the pasture, that the foot of the sheep is golden. Grain-fed hogs will make scarcely richer manure; but they do not relish clover hay nor tread down into manure the straw they use as bedding.

Wintering a flock of ewes so as to grow early lambs for market is profitable if rightly managed; but it requires extra warm quarters and plenty of roots or other succulent feed. It also needs greater skill and judgment than is required for fattening sheep. Merely in feeding less skill is demanded, for the breeding ewe has an appetite not easily cloyed, and its feed is more laxative and less nutritious than that usually given to fattening animals.

But the chief point in growing early lambs for market is to keep up as large a supply of milk as can be had from the dam, and then supplementing this just as soon as lambs become old enough to eat with the food that will bring them into the best condition. Spring lamb is food for the epicure, and whoever provides it requires skill proportioned to the difficulty of its production.

Wool is the farm product which brings most money in proportion to what it takes from the farm and with least labor to the producer. But the life of a shepherd, though not laborous, is exacting, especially at lambing time. If any one goes into the business of keeping sheep with the notion that it is an easy way of getting a living he makes a serious mistake. Possibly in rough, new countries, on land that costs little or nothing, a flock of sheep will produce something with little care on the part of their owner, but it is precarious business even there.

As a part of civilized farming on high priced land the sheep keeper must expect to give fully as much care to his stock, and even more, than any other farm stock would require. If through his neglect the stock becomes a failure his losses will be even greater than they would be in some other branch of farming. The man who thinks chiefly how he can have an easy time is not fit for any kind of farming, least of all for keeping sheep. In fact, there is no kind of business that such a one can begin with any prospect of succes. The idea that poorly kept sheep make either the land or their owner owner rich has been too long a delusion for those inexperienced in the business.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Thorough weeding is a most important point in onion culture.

If young horses suffer from cramps give laxative food, such as bran mashes.

A little more care for the ornamental trees would add greatly to the beauty and value of the farm homestead.

Most farmers can keep a few hives of bees to advantage. Honey, like fruit, should be often found on the farmer's table.

Early cut hay, cured green, gives both color and flavor to butter, while hay of ripened grass, while it makes harder butter, imparts less color and flavor, or none at all.

Animals at work during the day should have a run at pasture at night. If there is a stream at not too great a distance, give them, as well as the boys, a bath after work is over.

Wherever a farmer appreciates that his team is one of the heaviest items in his expenses, and must be kept at work every day when work is possible, he has a fair chance of success.

No farmer need sit down and expect some one to furnish him a ready-made system or plan of conducting his farm. He must make it himself is the opinion of an acute agriculturist.

Feeding bran to horses prevents them from becoming constipated on dry feed and grain. Bran is a cheap and valuable feed, especially when the horses are shedding coats in the spring.

There is considerable ground in the garden that for several months of good corn weather produces nothing but weeds, whereas it could be made to afford feed for many a pound of thirty-five cent butter in supplementing the pastures.

It is said that if eggs are packed with the small end downward, and in layers, without touching each other, with plenty of wheat or corn as a packing material, they will keep for hatching purposes for two months.

Sheep multiply fast and returns come from them quickly. The owner of a well managed flock has wool to sell in the latter part of spring, lambs in midsummer and mutton at other times of year, besides supplying his own table.

Eastern dairy men have found it a good plan to feed fresh skimmed milk and buttermilk together to cows. This is considered a profitable way of utilizing the skimmed milk, only, to render it effective, the skimmed milk must not be too old.

Remember that the greatest enemy a plant can have is another plant of the same kind growing by its side, as both feed on the same material. Remove the weaker plants and leave the stronger. One good plant will yield more than two plants under unfavorable conditions.

Turn the plants out of their pots, reduce the balls of earth as much as possible, so that all the worms can be picked out by hand, and then re-pot in clean pots, using fresh compost. To avoid them do no plunge your plants during the summer season; always plant them out.

Shade is indispensable for the raising of young chicks. Where the mother hens are allowed free range, one of the best shades can be formed by planting a few pumpkin seeds in hills here and there. The plants will grow rapidly and during the hot days both hen and chickens will take advantage of the shade given by the broad leaves.

No plant has a greater abundance of roots than has Indian corn. Prof. Thurman, of the Alabama Experiment Station, examined the roots of a corn plant only eight inches high from the surface of the soil, and radicals were found to occupy an area of thirty-six square feet. A number were found to penetrate the subsoil nine inches below the surface. Corn is a surface root and a surface-feeding plant.

Soot water is thus prepared: Tie up one gallon of soot in a cloth bag, throw it into a nine-gallon cask of hot water, work the bag well in the water, which should stand until clear, when it may be used, after being diluted with clear water. No hard-and-fast rule can be laid down as to the strength at which it is safe to use it. Each one must use his own judgment, according to the class and state of the plant requiring it. One had better use it too weak than too strong.

Peach growers should engage experienced pickers; all should be watched, as an over-ripe peach will spoil all in the basket or crate. An experienced picker knows by the touch or feel whether the peach is too hard to ripen by the time it reaches the consumer, or so soft as to decay on its way to market. Assorting peaches pays; make them into three qualities, firsts and seconds to go to market, and the third to be kept at home for the pigs or to be dried. Pack honestly. Select fine specimens of fruit of all kinds to exhibit at the county fairs, severely thinning to give these a chance.

After many years of experimenting, a correspondent of the Live Stock Journal gives utterance to the following conclusions: 1. Whole potatoes will produce a crop a week or ten days earlier than those which are divided. 2. Small potatoes will produce as good, if not better, results than large ones. 3. The seed end is the better one to plant, because it starts with more vigor and produces more and larger potatoes. 4. A large piece is better on ordinary soil than small pieces or eyes. 5. Potatoes with sprouts long enough to break off in planting are not so good as those with eyes advanced just enough to indicate vigor. 6. The form cannot, as a rule, be changed by planting in any particular form. 7. Two distinct varieties won't mix in the same hill. 8. The more we investigate the scab the less we know about it.

Among the many beautiful flowers grown from seed sown in early spring, none is more worthy of admiration than the mimulus, or, as it is commonly called, monkey flower. The varieties number among colors white, sulphur, scarlet and pink. The plant is a half-hardy perennial, growing low, rarely over a foot high and succeding best in moist, shady situations. The seed should be sown early in the spring and the plant blooms in early summer. A remarkably pretty effect may be produced by sowing seed of mimulus and portulaca in adjacent beds. The clear beauty of the portulaca forms a remark contrast to the spotted flowers of the mimulus. Our flower lovers are gradually drifting back to the culture of the old favorite annuals, biennials and perennials, and find as much pleasure in their culture as with rare kinds which are usually difficult to grow.

Professor Lazenby, of Columbus, Ohio, approves of soft soap wash for trees. He says:—"I am acquainted with an orchard of fifteen apple trees, now twenty-six years old, that has been regularly and systematically treated to a wash of soft soap about May 20 and again June 30 each year. Less than half a dozen borers have been found in this orchard and the trees are all in a thrifty, vigorous condition. In neigboring orchards, where this precaution has not been taken, the trees have been killed by scores, while many that remain are so much injured as to be worthless. Lye is sometimes used in the place of soap, but the latter is a much more effective preventive. It can be readily applied with an old broom. Besides making the tree obnoxious to the borer, the soap keeps the bark in a healthy condition. This remedy may be applied to all trees or shrubs liable to be attacked.

The Parisian custom of little tables put outside cafes on the sidewalk seems to be gradually working its way into favor in New York city. There are more than half a dozen cafes that do it, and the authorities don't seem to mind, provided the tables do not take up too much of the sidewalk.

It almost seems as though good serviceable paper can be made from every kind of vegetable fibre. Grasses and woods of all sorts, and even peat, have been brought into requisition, while one of the latest introductions is crushed bamboo, which has been used with satisfactory results.

SELECT SIFTINGS.

— mills are an Irish invention and were first run in Ireland in 214.

Eighty-four different languages and dialects are regularly spoken in New York city.

The business of cap-making was ruined in 1591 by the common wearing of hats, which then came into vogue.

Silver mines of Europe yield annually $13,000,000, and their total product has amounted to $3,628,000,000.

The distance from Queenstown to New York is 2,848 miles as sailed by the Umbria on her recent quick passage.

There is, in London, an annual circulation of periodicals of 1,017,000,000, in Paris of 1,100,000,000, and in New York and Brooklyn of 516,000,000.

Phœnicia was at the pinnacle of power between the years 2000 and 750 B. C., and its people were the instructors and civilizers of the whole Western world.

The admitted history of China began in 1122 B. C., and the Chinese claim twenty-two dynasties of emperors, two of them, His and Chang, before the age of Samuel.

In 1752 Buffon and Dalibard ascertained the identity of electricity and lighting by insulated rods; and the very same year Franklin made the same determination by a kite.

An eight-pound salmon was recently captured in the river at Williamsport, Penn., by a man named Conner, by striking it a well directed blow with a stick that stunned it. It had been napping.

The Continental Congress ceased to exist March 4, 1780, and the new Government provided for by the National Convention went into operation. Thus it is that the United States official year begins with March 4.

The German Government guarded its people against the introduction of our Colorado potato beetle by having faithful life-like pictures of him in all stages of development scattered throughout the Empire, with written descriptions of habits, time of appearance, and how to destroy the curse at first sight.

The Mint of the United States was established by act of Congress, April 2, 1792; but it was not put into full operation until 1795. Philadelphia being the seat of government at that time, the Mint was established in that city and never moved therefrom. The Philadelphia Mint remained the only one until 1832, when Congress created three branches.

The style or point of bone or metal which was used for writing on tables coated with wax gave place to the reed, pointed and split, and used as a pen with some colored liquids. The use of quills followed, the first to employ the later, so far as we have any record, being Isidore, who died in 636. Steel pens made their appearance early in the present century, and for the idea to which they owe their existence we are indebted to William Gadbury, a mathematical instrument maker, who constructed a pen from two pieces of steel watch spring.

Horse Thieves in New York.

"The public would be astonished to learn exactly how much horse stealing goes on in New York," remarked a prominent livery man to me. "Now and then you read an account of some case in the papers. Cases that don't get into the papers are numberless. There is scarcely a week that we do not have to set a detective hunting a cabbaged turnout. We take every possible precaution in the letting of vehicles, and rarely lose anything by that means. But if a turnout is left alone in the street it is always liable to be snapped up by some reckless thief and driven off. It may be taken out of town. Often it will be sold here. Sometimes the rig will be broken up—the horse sold to one person, the wagon to another and the harness to still another. Such is the stupidity of the thieves, however, that we rarely fail to recover the property.

"A curious case in point occurred this week. Last Wednesday a gentleman hired a horse and buggy from a stable in Washington street to drive to Westchester. He stopped by the way within a few blocks of the stable to call on a friend and left the horse hitched at the door. A young tough came along and took possession. He let the horse have his own way, and the sagatious beast walked right back to the stable it had just come from. The stableman was in his office when the thief walked in and asked him if he didn't want to buy the turnout. 'Certainly,' said the stableman, without turning a hair. 'Sit down a minute.' The young crook took a seat and waited till the policeman the owner telephoned for came and arrested him. When he discovered how he had been fooled he wanted to kill the horse."—New York News.

Benefits of an Erect Attitude.

An erect bodily attitude is of vastly more importance to health than most people generally imagine. Crooked bodily positions, maintained for any length of time, are always injurious whether in the sitting, standing or lying posture, whether sleeping or walking. To sit with the body leaning forward on the stomach, or to one side, with the heels elevated on a level with the hands, is not only in bad taste, but exceedingly detrimental to health; it cramps the stomach, presses the vital organs, interrupts the free motion of the chest, and enfeebles the functions of the abdominal and thoracic organs, and, in fact, unbalances the whole muscular system. Many children become slightly humpbacked or severely round-shouldered by sleeping with the head raised on a high pillow. When any person finds it easier to sit or stand or walk or sleep in a crooked position than a straight one, such person may be sure his muscular system is badly deranged, and the more careful he is to preserve a straight or upright position, and get back again, the better.—People's Health Journal.

An Absent-Minded Dominie.

One of the most absent-minded of men, a most worthy minister of the Gospel, lived and died not long ago in a town not far from Concord. He once called on a laby parishioner and invited her, with characteristic politeness, to go to ride. She accepted gladly and "fixed up," only to find with the dominie when they reached the door that he had made his call on horseback, and that his chaise was at his home a half-dozen miles away. The horse was often led to a brook to drink. One morning the loafers on the piazza of the village store were dumfounded to see the parson come out of the barn with the halter dragging from his hands folded behind his back, pass slowly down to the brook, then turn and look at the horseless halter and hasten back to the barn where thirsty old Dobbin in his box stall was pitying his kind, forgetful old master.—Concord (N. H.) Monitor.

"Mamma, do you know what a Maltese kitten is?" "What is it, my son?" "Why, it's a kitty that you [illegible]

An English statesman asserts, that not only do married men live longer than bachelors, but that the latter are more criminal. He says that there are 38 criminals among every 1,000 bachelors, while among married men the ratio is only 18. This only a bridal boom.

Over-Worked Women.

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. PRICE $1.00 A BOTTLE, OR SIX BOTTLES FOR $5.00.

A large treatise on Diseases of Women, profusely illustrated with colored plates and numerous wood cuts, sent for ten cents in stamps. Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Prof. Tyndall calls Mr. Gladstone "a hoary-headed rhetorician."

Consumption, Wasting Diseases,

And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites; the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

Frascuelo, the Madrid bull-fighter has accepted $50,000 for four performances in Mexico.

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" cleanse and purify the blood and relieve the digestive organs.

An earthquake shock has been felt at Bonn, Prussia. No great damage was done.

THOSE who are trying to break up the baneful habit of intemperance will experience great benefit from the use of Prickly Ash Bitters. Liquors derange the system. Prickly Ash Bitters will remedy the evil results and restore the brain, stomach and liver to healthy action, thereby strengthening the will power, thoroughly cleansing and toning up the system and remove every taint of disease. It is purely a medicine, and while pleasant to the taste, it cannot be used as a beverage by reason of its cathartic properties.

Old Alabama.

W. C. Lourd, Leesburg, Ala., writes: My little babe, ten months old, was almost dying from teething; gave it Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial. The happiest result followed. Every home should have it.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

The "Boulanger March," so popular in Paris, is an old polka, composed 15 years ago.

When all so-called remedies fail, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures.

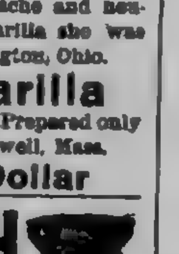
Count Lavörghan de Bragga will soon marry Miss Cora, daughter of the late Gen. Cuthbert.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Dr. Thompson's Eye-water. All druggists sell it at 25c. a bottle.

The best cough medicine is Piso's Cure for Consumption. Sold everywhere. 25c.

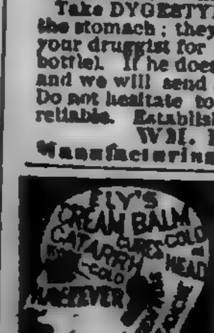
Sick Headache
Is one of the most distressing affections; and people who are its victims deserve sympathy. But the great success Hood's Sarsaparilla has had in curing sick headache makes it seem almost foolish to allow the trouble to continue. By its toning and invigorating effect upon the digestive organs, Hood's Sarsaparilla readily gives relief when headache arises from indigestion; and its neuralgic conditions by building up the debilitated system, Hood's Sarsaparilla removes the cause and hence overcomes the difficulty.
"My wife suffered from sick headache and neuralgia. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla she was much relieved." W. R. BABB, Wilmington, Ohio.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

GEM OF THE SOUTH
THE BEST VERTICAL MILL. IRON AND STEEL FRAME.
FRENCH BUHRS.
Neat. Durable. Compact. Write for Descriptive Circular. Mention this paper.
Straub Machinery Co., Cincinnati, O.



PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA—MANDRAKE—BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES
It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.
DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.
It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO Sole Proprietors, St. Louis and Kansas City

KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES. IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY. IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DYGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty-five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO., Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N. Y.

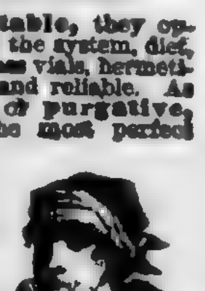


CATARRH AND HAY-FEVER CURE.
Ely's Cream Balm.
Apply Balm into each nostril.

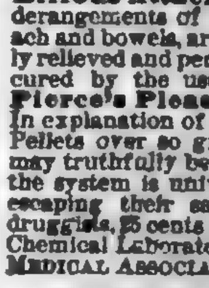
PENSIONS An increase may be one. Address MILO B. STEVENS & Co., Metropol'n Blk, Chicago, Ill.

SLICKER Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

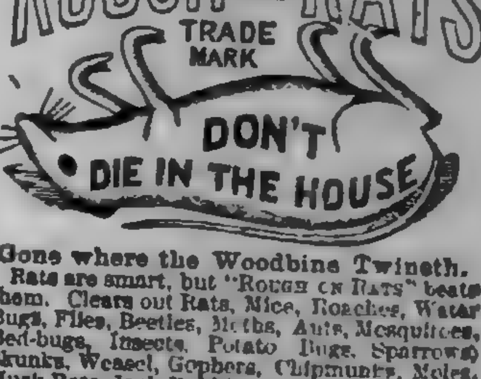
Pierce's The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS, ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.
Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.



SICK HEADACHE,
Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.



$500 REWARD
is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.
SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.
By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.
Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.
"Untold Agony from Catarrh."
Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."
"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."
THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."
Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.
ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."



Gone where the Woodbine Twineth.
Rats are smart, but "ROUGH ON RATS" beats them. Clears out Rats, Mice, Roaches, Water Bugs, Flies, Beetles, Moths, Ants, Mosquitoes, Bed-bugs, Insects, Potato Bugs, Sparrows, Skunks, Weasel, Gophers, Chipmunks, Moles, Musk Rats, Jack Rabbits, Squirrels. 15c & 25c.

ROUGH ON DIRT
Washing and Starching Powder. A revelation in housekeeping. A new discovery, beats the world. How to Wash and Iron.
Dishes, Glassware, Windows, made clear as crystal with Rough on Dirt.
YOUNG GIRLS The most inexperienced can, with Rough on Dirt, do as nice washing and ironing as can be done in any laundry. Boiling not necessary; unlike any other it can be used in boiling WASHING and STARCHING you need have no fear in using this article; being free from vile alkali it does not rot, yellow nor injure the finest fabric; clears, bleaches, whitens. The only article that can be added to starch (hot or cold) to give a good body and beautiful gloss; insist on your Druggist or Grocer getting it for you. 10 & 25c. E. S Wells, Jersey City.

ROUGH ON CORNS for hard or soft Corns 15c. At Druggists.

MARLIN REPEATING RIFLE
BEST IN THE WORLD!
Guaranteed perfectly accurate and absolutely safe. Made in all sizes for large or small game.
BALLARD
Gallery, Hunting and Target Rifles. Send for Illustrated Catalogue.
Marlin Fire Arms Co., New Haven, Conn.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO. JEWELERS. Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

GOLDSMITH & SULLIVAN'S Business College!
Fitten Building, ATLANTA, GA. Most practical College South. Best course at least cost. Send for catalogue.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

AGENTS WANTED AT ONCE in every County. A rare opportunity for new beginners. Unprecedented success. $5 to $12 a day easily made. GEO. A. BAKER & CO., Charleston, S. C.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

PATENTS obtained by E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for our book of instructions.

OPIUM Habit Cured. Treatment sent on trial. HUMANE REMEDY CO. LaFayette, Ind.

GOLD is worth $500 per pound. Pettit's Eye Salve $1,000, but is sold at 25 cents a box by dealers.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

A. N. U..........Thirty-Seven, '87.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 75
2 Inches	7 00	11 16	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 00	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 00	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION.'

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1887. NUMBER 47.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

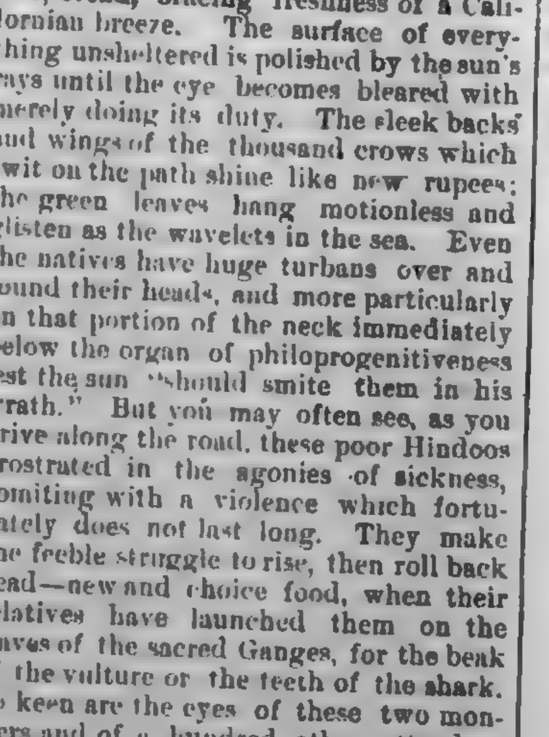
LIFE IN INDIA.

PLAGUES THAT INFEST NIGHT AND DAY.

Effects of the Great Heat—Bled by an Army of Lazy Servants—The Struggle With Insects.

India, beautiful india, is the essence of all known plagues, writes a correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle. It jags the edge of the sweetest temper, fixes a frown on the mildest face and ships at last its martyr off to his native home a crabbed, unbearable, combustible old man, to fret himself and society with his misanthropical tenets, or bore the best of good-natured hearers with egotistical stories of "pig sticking." To be a crabbed old man after a thirty years' existence there is justifiable degeneracy. He has fought a fight in which thousands have fallen in the first stroke of the battle; he has survived, with heaven's blessings, heat, servants and bites.

None but those who have become parched and crisped by the desiccating sun of india—who have traveled reeking on the cracked and splintered earth, beneath the great sky fixed ocean of molten silver—can appreciate thoroughly the free, broad, bracing freshness of a Californian breeze. The surface of everything unsheltered is polished by the sun's rays until the eye becomes bleared with merely doing its duty. The sleek backs and wings of the thousand crows which twit on the path shine like new rupees; the green leaves hang motionless and glisten as the wavelets in the sea. Even the natives have huge turbans over and round their heads, and more particularly on that portion of the neck immediately below the organ of philoprogenitiveness lest the sun "should smite them in his wrath." But you may often see, as you drive along the road, these poor Hindoos prostrated in the agonies of sickness, vomiting with a violence which fortunately does not last long. They make one feeble struggle to rise, then roll back dead—new and choice food, when their relatives have launched them on the waves of the sacred Ganges, for the beak of the vulture or the teeth of the shark. So keen are the eyes of these two monsters and of a hundred other attendant birds and fish that by the time a corpse has traveled five miles upon that holy stream of the Ganges there is not enough left of what was once a human being to taint a cubic foot of the most delicately rarefied atmosphere.



A BHESTIE.

To guard against the dangerous influence of the sun man has sought out many inventions. Carriages have double roofs; hats are built of pith and are ventilated by a cunning cupola in miniature ingeniously implanted in the crown; parasols are gigantic wooden mushrooms, and garments are of any substance that can possibly be obtained, which, in weight and fiber, does not exceed gossamer. The walls of the houses are about three feet thick, verandahed and terraced round. The rooms are halls worthy of containing the common council of any small American mining town. They are matted and not carpeted, unless in some houses where appearances are more studied than comfort. The glass windows have each outer ones of wood, similar to the Venetian ones so prevalent in Californian houses. These are closely shut fourteen hours of the twenty-four. Huge squares of matted straw are placed before such openings as cannot be closed, and it is the duty of a servant to sprinkle them with the coolest water obtainable ten times an hour.

The motive is obvious. The hot wind passing through the damp cusca is cooled almost to a welcome point, and from a scourge transferred by a simple device into a refreshment. We live in the breath of the punkah, for all day and night a servant stands by to fan us. If he halts for one second a glow of feverish heat steals over us and the pulkah-wallah submits mutely to the castigation he deserves and most unevitably gets. These poor wretches, possessed, it may be, of more intellect than brutes, but undoubtedly of less instinct and sagacity, ply their monotonous occupation like pieces of ill-fitting machinery. They are certain to fall asleep unless retained at high pressure by the constant application of a horsewhip. Silent, inane and expressionless as the gods of their idolatry, they crouch and bear all the stings and arrows of their outrageous fortune.

A SYCE.

The second plague of life in India, fully as monstrous as the first, is—servants. Take a professional man whose income is about 500 rupees, or $250 a month. He does not desire, in all probability, to domesticate himself in the cheeriess circle of a boarding-house community, where his absolute cost to the amiable landlady will be about twenty rupees per month, on which he is called every four weeks to pay 800 per cent. He therefore takes a house and becomes, he blindly imagines, "his own master." Never since Cain thought he could commit fratricide unpunished has a man been so mistaken. His house, if at all capable of affording real comfort, will be of a rental—speaking of Calcutta especially—of $700 a year at least; any other house, such as those which are termed "bungalows," which means one-storied houses, are pretty sure to treat the tenant in the "rains" to such a vast number of rheumatic aches, together with dysentery, cholera, liver complaints and utter prostration, that they are only cheap to such men as wish to find a grave here and have no broken ties which they would desire to renew in "the home of the free."

The house is taken. It is situated in a "compound," which means in America "its own ground." So spontaneous is vegetation that a "mallee" (gardener) is indispensable. Let the master's tastes be ever so much inclined to till his own garden and rear marvels in botany and horticulture, the heat forbids him. The pay of the mallee will vary between six and eight rupees a month ($4). The next necessary creature is the "mater," or house-sweeper—a man who always seems the acme of devotedness and activity, but who has really a remarkably easy life of it generally. His pay is equal to the mallee's. The "bhestie," who may be met with in the twelve signs of the zodiac, under the nomenclature of "Aquarius," is the servant to whom the tractable and sensitive heart most inclines to be liberal. He fills his "mus-cock" (a sealskin) many times a day with pure water and replenishes the bath. He fills the house buckets and deluges the carriage when it is being cleaned. Our gratitude, extreme as it is, goes no further than six rupees. Then come the table servants and the cook. The former are the "khansamar," who makes the market purchases—and is universally a rogue of the deepest dye—and the "khitmertgar," who waits upon you, and is generally the sharer of the khansamar's roguery. Their wages are from seven to ten rupees each; a cook's the same. The cook has an assistant, who cleans the dishes and knives. He is called the "musaichee," and gets about five rupees a month. Pursuing the list we reach the "sirdarbearer." This man trims the lamps and pulls the punkah and does nothing else for the world. His wages are seven rupees.

AN AYAH.

Another or even more important man is the bearer. Say, Old Indian of thirty hot years' standing, how often have you blessed this man above all others! He is valet, banker and general protector over all things you may possess; he wipes you dry as a tinder when you issue from your bath; he puts your hose on while you sit on a chair in a reverie; he does the same good turn for all the garments you desire to don. He has your hat and gloves beautifully prepared for you; he takes charge of your floating capital in the way of any odd rupees which you may happen to leave in your discarded waiscoat, and you may safely trust him with a thousand. He studies your every movement and replaces all mutilated buttons; in fact, he is to a great extent a wife, and if you give him a full and valuable wardrobe to be lord and master over as long as he may stay in your service, you will find it undiminished and precisely as you gave it. He looks after the "dhobbin" and "pinwallah"—two other servants—each male laundresses. One does the plain things and the other the fancy things. Their wages and the bearer's vary from 7 to 12 rupees. Some people, especially where there is a family, keep a "derzer," or tailor-milliner, and find it an economical arrangement at a cost of 8 rupees. Nothing can exceed the neatness with which this man sews: it is perfection itself. Now for the stable-yard. Each man of any standing has his carriage, for after it is once purchased it is cheaper traveling than by palanquin ("palkee"). The heat prevents one horse from being enough. There are consequently two. Each horse has a "syce" (groom), at 5 rupees each, and then comes the coachman at 7 rupees.

If a resident here is a married man he may, in the nature of things, be blessed with household gods—each god needs an "ayah." She is, of course, a female servant, and the most troublesome, except the syces, of them all. The wages of an ayah are very changeable and unfixed—few under ten rupees a month are of much good, though some are obtainable at half that sum. Beside the regular ayah to the wife and each child there must be the "materanni." It is her business to do certain things which, if executed by the others, would lose them their castes. Her wages are about six rupees.

A PUNKAH WALLAH.

To readers versed in the technicalities of natural history the third plague of India will be recognizable by the name of "culex," but is better known by the name of mosquito. The curtains round our beds at nights are not only valuable safeguards against mosquitoes, but against a hundred other insects, some of them very repulsive in appearance. Grasshoppers, flying beetles, fireflies, and others yet more horrible would invade our sanctuary, but can only gaze at us through the delicate squares of our gauze prison. They hum and buzz untiringly, like the singing fish of Ceylon, occasionally rising louder in their melody than the human voice.

All these insects will bite you some time or other, and I myself have been confined to the house a fortnight from the effects of mosquito bites. Occasionally you find a cobra in your bedroom. He is in size like a large eel, and his bite is often fatal. If you find one always search for another. They travel and abide in pairs. Ants are very troublesome. Their bites have pained me more than mosquitoes, but they are more readily cured. They are extremely large, for I have seen one nearly an inch long. As you dine at night, with all the windows thrown open, these insects above enumerated light heavily in your vermicelli or defile the "relish" which you have poured upon your dish.

Let none who read this letter, then, judge overharshly of any crabbed Indian veteran whom they may henceforth meet. I have offered a slight insight into the plagues he has had to bear and will finish what I have said with these positive facts: The thermometer in the room where I now am stands at ninety-eight degrees, though every opening is closed, a servant has just tried to swindle me out of 30 rupees and a mosquito has bitten me upon my nose.

The Boy and the Boardwalk.

"Stay near me, Tommy."

"Now I wonder where that boy has gone to."

"Ah, here you are?"—Life.

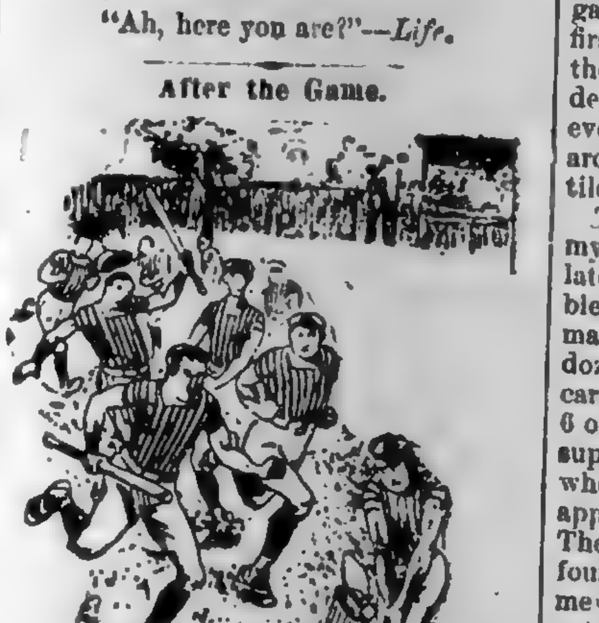
After the Game.



This poor man is not a murderer or a thief. He is simply a baseball umpire, and the nine men who are about to tear him to pieces comprise the losing club in the game which he has just umpired.

A Bore Rebuked.

Gus De Smith met a well-known bore. The latter said:

"I've just heard of the death of Judge Wilson. He was a man whom I esteemed very highly."

"Have you known him long?"

"For twenty-five years I have been very intimate with him."

"Poor fellow! His sufferings are over at last. There can be no doubt about his being better off, no matter where he may be," replied Gus, with tears in his eyes.—Siftings.

Items of Interest.

ALWAYS in a dress suit—a clean cat.

THE woman question—will it storm today?

THE anarchists hate bulls, because bulls hate red flags.

ALASKA courting must be immense—the nights are so long.

FULL-DRESS parade—peacocks and gobblers on the street.

"HE who steals my purse steals trash"—and not much of it.

IT is fun to give opinions and advice, as we pay no taxes on them.

Mitigating Circumstances.

Judge—"You acknowledge that you struck this man on the head with a large stick of pine wood?"

Prisoner—"I own up I hit him a pretty hard clip; but, Judge, there is one mitigating circumstance that should be taken into consideration."

"What's that?"

"The stick was of soft pine, Your Honor."—Texas Siftings.

FROM VELVET LIDS.

From velvet lids Love wings the dart
That deepest thrills the human heart.
The purest joy, the fiercest woe
That mortals here may ever know
From this sweet wound unfailing start.

When velvet lids—Love's gateways—part,
The tender god dons all his art,
And joy and woe commingled flow
From velvet lids.

From velvet lids whose fires impart
Ecstatic joy and keenest smart,
All men are warned, yet all men go
Where they may feel the kindling glow
Of charms that flash and gleam and dart
From velvet lids.

—W. DeWitt Wallace, in Current.

THE OUTLAW'S RUSE.

I have knocked about a good deal in my time, from doubling Cape Horn as a sailor to digging gold as a miner, and fighting Indians as a scout, and yet the closest escape I ever had from death was with my eyes wide open and through my own stupidity. Early in the seventies, I was down in the Indian Territory buying horses for shipment East. I had a partner, and we traveled with our own team in a covered wagon. That territory isn't any too peaceful now, but in '72-3 you not only wanted a trusty rifle with you, but you wanted the knack of dropping your man first. Traveling from ranch to ranch as we did, with everybody knowing we had money to buy horses with, our situation was one requiring constant vigilance. There never was a night that both of us slept at once, and never a day that we were not on the watch for some plan to get the better of us. In one trip of three months we had five different watch dogs poisoned, and finally gave up trying to keep one. You might imagine it would have been worth while for some of the predatory bands roaming the country to make an open attack on us, but the fellows reasoned differently. A couple of men armed with Winchesters and revolvers, and determined to defend their own at any cost, are antagonists not to be despised. Your Western outlaw, with very few exceptions, is just as careful about getting a bullet into his body as any one else.

One day in July, while we were on the north fork of the Canadian River, and about twenty miles below Shawneetown, one of the horses in our team was bitten by a rattlesnake. I was driving, and I saw the snake as it lifted itself from the grass and bit the horse twice on the leg. It was a hot day, the horses well heated up, and the poison took effect very soon. We had no remedy for it, but were compelled to stand by and see the animal suffer and die. It wasn't quite an hour after he was struck before he was dead. In buying horses we stipulated for delivery at certain points, and thus had no spare ones with us. To make our team whole one of us must take the other horse and ride off and make a purchase. I had been over the route before, and I knew that the nearest ranch was twelve miles up the river. It was now 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and we were within half a mile of the stream and in a wild and lonely district of the country. We had with us in a tin box in the wagon over $4,000 in gold, and the misfortune to our horse naturally increased our anxieties. My partner insisted that I should be the one to remain with the wagon, and he had no sooner moved away than I began to make things secure. The very first move was to take the tin box from the wagon and bury it in the ground under the vehicle, and after that I saw that every firearm was in good order, and beat around the camp to drive away any reptiles lurking about.

There was no use in expecting Patton, my partner, back before 8 o'clock or later. He would doubtless find a suitable horse at the first ranch, but the ranchman might be away, or there were a dozen other reasons to call for delay. We carried provisions with us, and at about 6 o'clock I built a fire and prepared my supper, and was about to begin eating when I caught sight of a horse and rider approaching camp from the northwest. The ground was open for three or four miles, and as I had a glass with me I made out, while the horse was yet a mile and a half away, that he bore a woman on his back. Had she been a squaw the sight would not have occasioned surprise, but the first look proved that she was white and that her horse was jaded and coming slowly. As I held the glass on her I saw her turn and look back, as one pursued, and long before she reached me I had become greatly interested in her case. She rode straight for the wagon, and when she finally came up her horse was very much blown, and the woman's face seemed to betray both hope and fear by turns. She was an average-looking female, about forty years' old and as she drew rein beside me we surveyed each other for half a minute before either spoke. During that interval I caught an expression on her face which I did not at all like. It was a sly, sinister look, but it passed swiftly away, and was replaced by one of anxiety. I was the first to speak, saying:

"Well, are you in trouble?"

"In great trouble, sir," she replied. "I have been living with my brother on a small ranch about fifteen miles distant. Two hours ago a dozen drunken Kickapoo Indians visited the place, wounded my brother, and set fire to the house, and would have killed me had I not fled on this horse. They pursued me for several miles, and I—I——"

Here she broke down and began to cry and sob. What could I do but ask her to dismount, gave her my promise of protection, and say that when my partner returned we would drive straight to the ranch and sacrifice our lives, if need be, to rescue her brother and teach the Indians a lesson? She did not come down without considerable palaver, seeming to be very sensitive about getting me into trouble, and when she did take a seat on the blankets prepared for her, she continued to cry and lament and would not touch a mouthful of food.

It had grown dark by the time I had eaten my supper, and it was now time to look for Patton. I sought, as any man would have done under the circumstances, to cheer the woman up, and by and by she gave over crying and seemed a bit more hopeful. She explained that she had removed to the Territory from Clarksville, Ark., three years before, being a widow with one son. The son had died within the year, and the brother, who was an old bachelor, and not in good health, had come on to remain until the place could be sold out. A Kickapoo buck had taken a great fancy to the woman and wanted to marry her, and her indignant refusal had called down the raid made that day. Her story filled me with indignation, and as the night came on I was terribly impatient for Patton to return. About half-past nine o'clock I heard the gallop of horses, and was ready to welcome my partner, but before they had come in sight the widow sprang up in great terror and cried out:

"Oh, sir, they are the Indians who have been on my trail! Don't let them take me away! Let me hide in the wagon!"

"In with you quick, and they will have to kill me before they lay hands on you," I replied, and she disappeared beneath the cover with astonishing celerity.

The gallop came nearer and nearer, and presently a voice hailed me:

"The camp thar—hello!"

"Who is it?"

"Friends."

"Come in."

With that a half-breed and a Kickapoo came riding into camp on horses which had neither saddle nor blanket. Both men looked savage and sullen, and were well armed. The half-breed could speak very good English, and when he had come to a halt and looked around, he said:

"We are after the woman who came into your camp a couple of hours ago. I see her horse over there."

"By what authority do you demand her?"

"None of your business. We have come for her, and we mean to have her."

"Do you mean that you will take her by force?"

"I do; and let me give you piece of advice. I see you are a tenderfoot. Don't put on too many airs in this county. It's a great place to have one's wings clipped in a hurry. Don't attempt any foolishness with us, or you'll never know what hurt you."

I had my Winchester in hand and two revolvers in my belt. Had I been a hot-tempered man, there would have been some shooting before he had concluded his bombastic speech. I am slow to anger, especially when human life may pay the forfeit, and I heard him through without being roiled. The woman was hidden away in the wagon, and had not revealed her presence to them by word or move.

"If the woman chooses to go with you, well and good," I answered, as I looked the fellow over by the light of the camp fire. "If she does not you cannot take her."

"Oh, we can't, eh? You crow pretty loud for a spring chicken. Well, ask the woman to make a choice."

The wagon was about ten paces from the fire, and in the shadow, although not so much so that I could not see it pretty plainly. I had made a step toward it when I saw a black object under the wheels, and, supposing it to be a wolf, I raised my gun and took a snap shot, caring only to send a bullet near enough to drive it away. The object disappeared with the echoes of the report, and as I walked along to the wagon the two men, who had not dismounted, accompanied me. Standing within five feet of the vehicle I called to the woman and asked if she desired to go with the men, and she replied:

"Oh! sir, save me from them, even if you have to shoot me."

"But you've got to come!" shouted the half breed.

"She shall not go!" I shouted at him. "I give you two villains sixty seconds in which to leave camp. Now go!"

They were both together, and my rifle covered both. They looked straight at me for fifteen or twenty seconds, and then turned and rode away in the darkness. I followed them for a hundred yards, when they urged their horses to a gallop, and rode to the north without looking back. I stood and looked after them until I could no longer hear the beat of their horses' hoofs, and I felt rather proud of my nerve in driving them away. It did not occur to me until next day that either or both of them could have got the drop on me up to the time I raised my rifle, and that while they were making threats of what they would do they left their rifles lying across their saddles. They simply permitted me to force them out of camp at the muzzle of my Winchester, and that was a part of their plan. When I returned to the fire the woman was beside it, her face betraying fear and success, and as soon as I came up she clasped her hands and tearfully exclaimed:

"Oh, you will not let them take me away—you will not!"

I assured her that they had been driven off, and that she was safe, and her gratitude was unbounded. It was now 10 o'clock and after, and Patton had not yet returned. It was useless to expect him until morning, and I set about preparing the camp for the night. As there was a strong probability that the two men driven off would secure reinforcements and return during the night, I tied the horse to the wagon, told the woman that she could occupy the vehicle, and prepared to spend the night on guard. She seemed to oppose this latter arrangement, doubting if the men would return, and declaring it was a sacrifice on my part she could not accept. I bundled her into the wagon, however, promising that I might catch a nap after 1 or 2 o'clock if all was quiet, and by and by I let the fire go down and took my circle around the camp with cat-like step. A few coyotes and wolves came about, but nothing seemed to disturb me, and the hours passed away until 3 o'clock. By that time I was very tired and sleepy. I dared not stretch out for a regular sleep, knowing that the danger was not yet passed, but I sat down on a knoll about forty feet north of the wagon to nap a little, knowing that any noise of account would instantly arouse me. It was perhaps a quarter of an hour before I actually fell asleep, and almost instantly I began to dream. I dreamed that I was tied fast to a tree on the plains, and that a rattlesnake was crawling toward me. The snake was coming to bite me, and I was helpless. Every movement of the reptile was as vivid as if the dream had been a reality, and my mind was as clear as a bell. The serpent came very slowly, halting every two or three feet to rear its head and look about, and when it was within ten feet its form changed. It was yet a serpent, but it had a small brown hand, and the hand clutched a bulldog pistol. The pistol was pointed full at me, and I saw that the hammer was up.

"Whizz!" went a shadow before my face, and then I saw behind me. The snake was no longer in front, but creeping up in my rear, and yet I saw him as plainly as before. He came on slowly—cautiously—always a little nearer. When within three feet of my heels the pistol was raised to the back of my head, and I said to myself:

"So I am to be shot. It is a large bullet, and it will go clear through my head. I wonder why he didn't bite me? If I was loose I would make a fierce fight for my life.

"Clug!" It was the sound of a pistol hammer striking on the centre of a cartridge—a cartridge which had failed to explode. In the same second I was on my feet. A human figure stood before me. I gave my heavy rifle a half sweep, and the figure sank down with a stifled shriek. Then I was fully awake, and I bent over the stranger, to find it was the woman who should have been asleep in the wagon. She was unconscious, but clutched firmly in her right hand was a bull-dog pistol. I wrenched it away and carried her to the embers of the fire, and when I had secured a blaze I saw that I had struck her on the head and given her a bad hurt. I examined the pistol, and when I found that the cartridge had been tried by the hammer, it did not take me long to unravel the plot against my life. I bound the woman hand and foot, and then kept vigilant watch until daybreak. She recovered consciousness long enough before this, but the only aid I extended was to loosen her hands and place a dish of water beside her. She did not address me, and I had no word for her.

When day broke there was another surprise for me. A Kickapoo Indian lay dead under the wagon, shot through the heart. It was a great mystery to me, but the woman was ready to clear it up. I untied her, washing the blood off her face and head, and then she gave the whole plot away. Patton had been made a prisoner by a gang of outlaws in order that I might be robbed. These men knew of the tin box in the wagon. The woman had been sent into camp with the story she told, knowing that she would get into the wagon. The two men came to distract my attention, and the Kickapoo crept up to receive the box. The woman couldn't find it, and I mistook the Indian for a wolf and killed him. Then the woman concluded that I had the money on me, and while I napped she crept up to shoot me and secure it. She told the particulars as coolly as I relate them to you, and when she had finished she asked what I was going to do about it. Patton had by that time returned, having raised such a row that his captors feared to detain him longer, and he answered the question by picking up a rope and starting for the nearest tree.

This broke the woman down, and she begged and pleaded so abjectly that we left her free to go where she would, when we drove on. To have taken her to Ockmulgee, Kickapoo, or any other town as a prisoner would have been to cause us great delay and annoyance, and it was some consolation to know that the blow I gave her caused a wound from which she would not recover for many days. She was penitent enough as we drove away, but six weeks later was killed with her husband while stealing stock from the Creek Indians.—New York Sun.

The Cause of Cyclones.

The conditions which lead to the formation of a cyclone are as follows: In those heated portions of land and sea where the circumstances permit the air to remain for a long time undisturbed, it becomes very warm and charged with moisture; the hotter it becomes the more moisture it contains, and the less it permits the heat radicating from the surface to pass through its texture; at the same time the upper air, deprived of its usual share of radiant heat, becomes abnormally cold; finally, as in the dust-whirls and tornadoes, the lower air breaks through the upper and rushes toward the sky. Although at its beginning a cyclone storm is probably of no greater size and of much less ascending force than a tornado, there are several reasons which make its history different from that of the smaller whirls. In the first place, the field of heated air which causes the cyclone is far more extensive than that which produces the tornado, though at the same time the difference of tempature between the upper and lower air may be less. The greater bulk of the lower stratum of hot and moist air permits the cyclone to grow larger, but the less ascensional force of the lower air makes it rather less violent in its movements.

As soon as the ascending current brings a portion of the heated air from the surface into the higher level it expands, and the force originally in the form of heat, which kept it in the state of vapor serves to increase the ascending column just as much as would the direct application of heat sufficient vaporize the water. Thus we have two sources of force to impel the air in the cyclone upward. Both these forces appear in the tornado, but there the original heat of the lower air is the principal cause of the motion.

Shaving Dead Men.

"I've been paid as high as $10, and never less than $3, for shaving dead men," said a Chicago barber to an Inter-Ocean reporter. "That is the regular price and I won't take less."

"A funny thing happened once when I was working in Pittsburg, Pa. One night a rich iron man died on Oakland avenue, and a colored barber went to fix him up. When he had shaved one side of the face it was necessary to turn the corpse over. I suppose there was some air in the lungs, but anyway, when he turned him over, the corpse gave an awful groan. The barber dropped the razor and let out a yell that brought the whole household to the spot on the run. Before anybody got there the barber was out of the house and down the avenue as if the 'old boy' was after him, and at every jump he let out a screech. When one of the men went into the room he saw the razor and nearly half of the left ear of the corpse lying on the floor. The razor had just happened to strike it when the barber dropped it and ran. A doctor was sent for, who sewed the ear on, and then he sent for me. I finished shaving the man, and left the house with a crisp $10 bill in my pocket."

NIGHT.

The dewy mists fall down o'er sea and land,
The sky is dark save where a twinkling star
Peeps through the clouds, and gazing from afar,
Tips every ripplidg wave that laves the strand
With sparks and streaks and shimmering threads of light.
A soft breeze spreads the breath of sleeping flowers,
And through the stillness, signaling the hours,
The whippoorwill's sad cry rings through the night.
The world is wrapped in darkness; shadows fall,
Like silhouettes, beneath each giant tree,
And from the meadows crickets chirp and call,
And woo the frogs in sweet security.
O'er the dim earth the vail of night is thrown,
And Darkness now claims all things as her own.

—Maud Kalbfleisch, in Boston Transcript

PITH AND POINT.

Bakers can be forgiven for being somewhat crusty.

A poet says: "Behind the clouds the sun is shining." There is just where we want it to shine.—Baltimore American.

A note of but a line or two
From an old and trusted friend,
Who said he'd meet it at the bank,
But stuck me in the end.
—Philadelphia Call.

Poots says he has no use for the bathing beach, since he only has to climb a steeple to make his head swim.—Siftings.

The man who swore to make his mark in the world has since thought better of it and concluded to learn to write his name.—New York News.

Every picnicker hates,
With a hatred intense,
The man who put up
That barbed wire fence.
—Washington Critic.

A rural correspondent ask: "How can I remove vermin from my hens?" Make use their combs. Your hens don't seem to have been brought up right.—Binghamton Republican.

A New York oculist says that only one man in six hundred knows how to take care of his eyes. It is evident that more people should take boxing lessons.—Detroit Free Press.

The ills which in this world are rife
Are to no class confined,
The organ grinder says his life
Is just "one horrid grind."
—Boston Courier.

Burglars are an inconsistent class. When they are on the outside of a house they want to break in. When they get into a nice stone building the State provides for them they want to break out.—Boston Courier.

She—"Here comes Masher; why is he so cool to you now?" He—"Because he tried to cut me out with the girl I've since married." She—"But why are you so savage with him?" He—"Because he didn't succeed."—Life.

How Gold is Shipped to Europe.

When one recalls the millions upon millions of dollars in gold that annually seek Europe to provide for the necessities of our import trade, the question of how gold is shipped to Europe becomes a curious and interesting one. The Bank of America, writes a New York correspondent of the Globe-Democrat, is the largest single shipper of gold abroad. Shipments are made in stout kegs, very like the ordinary beer keg. Every one contains $50,000 in coin or bar gold. The latter is the favorite for these shipments, since the government has permitted the sub-treasury to exchange bar for coin gold, as coin in $1,000,000 shipment is liable to a loss by abrasion of from eight to twenty ounces, from $136 to $320; and the bars only lose about three-fourths of that amount. When coin is sent double eagles are preferred. They are put in stout canvas bags, each bag containing 125 double eagles, or $5,000, and ten bags fill each keg. About the only precaution taken against tampering with the kegs is a treatment of the keg ends, technically known as "red-taping. Four holes are bored at equal intervals in the projecting rim of the staves above the head. Red tape is run through these, crossing on the keg's head, the ends meeting at the centre, where they are sealed to the head by the hardest of wax and stamped with the consignor's name. The average of insurance is about $1,500 per $1,000,000. Then there is an expense of $2 a keg for packing and cartage aboard ship, or $200 for the same sum; and the inevitable loss by abrasion, whatever it may prove to be. There are great Wall street firms shipping from $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 annually. Some of these have insured themselves, and assert that the saving has been sufficient to replace the loss of $1,000,000. These are large figures. But this has become a country of large figures and affairs.

California's Gold Product.

California has made such rapid strides for the last few years in agriculture, viticulture, and kindred pursuits, that gold mining has been, to a great extent, lost sight of, and the idea has become quite prevalent that this had ceased to be a gold-producing State, except in a few localities and in limited quantities. It was, of course, well-known that the entire gold product of California had been enormous, the figures being something over $740,000,000, but there was a belief that gold mining in California was "played out."

But some recent statistics show that those who mourned the decadence of the gold mining interests of California, and sighed for the good old times of '49 or thereabouts, based their calculations on erroneous or insufficient data. California still leads all the States in the yield of gold, being credited last year with $19,720,000, as against $4,450,000 for Colorado, $4,425,000 for Montana, and various lesser amounts for other States and territories. The total production of gold in the United States last year was $34,860,000, of which California furnished considerably more than half.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Complaisance renders a superior amiable, and equal agreeable, and an inferior acceptable. It smooths distinction, sweetens conversation, and makes every one in the company pleased with himself.

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 29, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Birmingham has a pin factory in prospect.

Our promising young friend Gordon DuBose and his witty pa seem to understand each other at last judging from an item in last week's Shelby Chronicle.

Mr. Rufus N. Rhodes, of the Birmingham Herald is spoken of as the "Pulitzer of Alabama journalism." He fully deserves all that there is in such a title.

A ship arrived at New York from Italy last week with four cases of Asiatic cholera aboard. Eight of her passengers had died of the disease on the way over.

Rev. Dr. Talmage asserts that men often fail in politics "simply because they are not of enough importance to be abused." The Doctor may be right. To be successful draws down envy upon a man, and envy leads to abuse.

The tax rate of Tennessee is three mills and her assessment for last year was $261,194,000. The amount raised as revenue for the State was $783,582. The tax rate in Alabama last year was six mills, the assessment $178,480,000 and the State Revenue raised $1,070,880.

The editor of this paper holds to the belief that the editorial control of a newspaper carries with it responsibilities of as grave a character as those of any calling save that of the clergy. Nowhere is honesty, integrity, boldness and independence more necessary to a full performance of duty than in the editorial rooms of a newspaper. Nowhere is the true man more needed than in the conduct of a journal which is to speak its honest sentiments to an honest people. Journalism is a business, but it is an honest business; and no journal that is not honest will live or deserve to live.—Bloomington Eye.

The Tuskaloosa Gazette says: For the first time perhaps in the history of Circuit Courts, the grand jury, now in session in Perry county, "took a vote among themselves and it was agreed to open the labors of the grand jury each day with prayer." That strikes us as being eminently proper. This body is usually selected, not that they are religious men, but because of their good judgment and their representative character as law abiding citizens. They are the guardians of the peace and good order of society; and we like to see men carry their religion—not their denominationalism—into the jury room, and everywhere else.

Gen. Lew Wallace began "the "Fair God" at 18; fought over the ground in the Mexican war, and afterward finished the story. As is generally known, Wallace wrote "Ben Hur" before he visited the Holy Land. When he got there, he says he actually found the tomb in which he makes the mother and sister of Ben Hur find retreat as lepers, and he even came upon a big white stone in the spot he had seated these unfortunates. Wallace obtained his correctness of geography and topography by the closest study of books, and when he went over to verify he had not a word to change. The book was written in the old palace of the Montezumas, at Santa Fe, when he was governor of New Mexico.

Col. Tompkins on the Tariff.

In an interview with a representative of the Birmingham Herald Col. H. C. Tompkins gave his views upon the tariff question which we republish below. Col. Tompkins will probably be a prominent candidate for United States Senator before the next Legislature. He is a man fully abreast with the times, and his views on all important questions will meet the approbation of the Democracy of the entire State. His views are thus admirably set forth:

"In short, it is right in selecting the subjects of such tariff taxation that whether or no a given subject can be produced here should influence the legislators, and in fixing the rate for sometime at least, regard should be had to the difference between the cost of labor in this country and in others, and also to the other fact that men have been induced by a system, a false one it may be, to invest in certain industries and that it would be rank injustice by revolutionary changes to sweep them out of existence."

"Now, I want it distinctly understood that I think that the Democratic party should carry out its pledges made at Chicago and should revise the tariff and reduce the revenue or should at least try and throw the responsibility of a failure to relieve the country of its burdens where it properly belongs, on the shoulders of the Republicans. That revision should be made with fairness to all classes and upon the principles laid down in that platform. No one can doubt that the policy of collecting out of the people so much more money than the government needs is a most dangerous one. To-day the scarcity of money has brought us almost to the verge of a panic, while millions of surplus lie idle in the treasury. This should not be, and the Democratic party should not permit itself to be held responsible for the continued existence of such a condition of affairs. I believe that a revision of the tariff can be made that would relieve this and yet do no injustice to any industry."

Ministers and the Public.

(Greensboro Watchman: Whenever we see a minister of the gospel unmercifully assailed through the public prints (and such occurrences are very common these days) the whole matter at once resolves itself in our mind to this: The minister has been getting in some good work on the crusty old sinners and they very naturally raise a row because their meanness has been exposed. In nine cases out of ten the above will hold good.

It is a mistaken idea, held by many people, that a preacher should wrap himself in his clerical robes and refuse to come in contact with or denounce the evils existing in his own community. Let's have a practical application of the truths of the Bible, and fewer learned theological discourses—for theology per se, won't answer the purpose. Our idea in reference to the position a minister should occupy in works of reformation is, that he should be head and shoulders above every one else—or in other words lead the fight. True it is, he will make enemies by so doing, but a man should give this no heed where it conflicts with the conscientious discharge of duties. People who don't amount to anything never have enemies any more than trees that don't fruit are stoned for apples. You never find bees buzzing around blossomless stalks; it is only where the sweetest blossoms grow that they congregate with endless fret and flurry. The fact that a man has an enemy proves that he is alive. Nobody ever yet took the trouble to ride a tilt against the peaceful dreamers in a cemetery. Diseases never came from a river that has a rocky channel and is forced to battle its way over discouraging and baffling stones, but rivers that have no obstructions are apt to go by the name of ponds, and the very serenity of their stagnation breeds unwholesomeness. A minister should be honored for the enemies he makes in advocating a good cause.

Bound For Eternity! Which Route Will You Take?

We invite attention to the following unique production which is sent by W. A. Dodge, of Cartersville, Ga.:

Great Salvation Railroad from Earth to Heaven. Scenery unsurpassed! Via Mt. Calvary, the River of Life, Paradise Garden, the High Lock. Through the Valley of the Shadow of Death by Daylight! To the Grand Central Depot of the Universe in the City of Gold without change of cars. Express Trains at all hours. Depot: Corner Faith and Repentance Avenues. All cars first-class. Fare, Thy Sins! No half passes. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved."—Bible.

PRINCE OF LIGHT,
PRESIDENT.

Damnation Railroad. Quick Route to Hell! Many miles and much time saved by this line. Terrific Scenery! Through the Dismal Swamp, Murderer's Gap, Hangman's Gorge, etc., reaching the Valley of the Shadow of Death, at midnight, plunging its passengers into Eternal Woe? Main Depot: Corner of Unbelief and Disobedience Streets. Specials from Ingersoll Park, Dime Novel Avenue, Theater Street, Smokers' Furnace, Sample Room Square. Lightning Train from Suicide Avenue. Extra trains on Sunday. This railroad connects at Libertine Landing with all night boats to Perdition. Fare, Thy Soul!! "He that believeth not shall be damned."—Bible.

PRINCE OF DARKNESS.
PRESIDENT.

Opposed to Birmingham.

The Birmingham Chronicle exultingly alludes to the late lynching at Leeds as "the first of a series." Save us from Birmingham if the Chronicle's sentiment is to prevail. The Chronicle also advocates suicide.—Eufaula Times.

It seems from the above that the Birmingham crowd will have to go to Eufaula for the Times man if they want to lynch him. He is becoming bitterly opposed to Birmingham. The Chronicle may be wrong in advocating suicide in his case as preferable to moving to the Magic City.

Changes in Fair Management.

The following are the changes made in the management of the State Fair since the catalogue was printed:

G. T. McElderry, McElderry, Ala., has been appointed General Superintendent, vice R. F. Kolb, appointed Commissioner of Agriculture. M. C. Scott, Montgomery, has been appointed Assistant Superintendent in place of McElderry promoted.

W. L. Johnson, Nixburg, has been made Superintendent of Department "C" Poultry and Bees, vice R. N. Hawkins, resigned. T. J. Carlisle, Brundidge, is superintendent of Department "D," Field crops, vice M. C. Scott promoted.

D. W. McCarty, Burkeville, takes the place of A. V. Gardner, declined as Superintendent of Department "F" Home Industry.

State papers friendly to the Fair will help the cause by making a note of these changes.

Phi Delta Theta.

The Alabama Alpha Alumni Chapter of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, under and by virtue of authority delegated by the President and Executive Committee of the State Association of the Fraternity, hereby announce that the dates for the seventh annual convention of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity of Alabama will be the 21st and 22d days of October next, and the place Montgomery, Ala. Members of the order throughout the State will take note accordingly, and those intending to be present must forward their names at once to the Secretary. Program of arrangements will be mailed at once to all of those applying for same to the committees on arrangements. It is important that each member respond promptly.

ALVA FITZPATRICK,
President of Chapter.

BEN ELMORE,
Grove Hill, Ala., Sec'y.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Swift Creek Dots.

Health of our community good.

Crops turning out good. Cotton picking will soon be over if the weather continues favorable.

Commissioner Robinson was in our city on Saturday for the purpose of letting a contract for a bridge. Mr. W. I. Mullins took the contract. Go it Will while your head is red.

The opossum and fox hunting season is on hand. One can hear the toot of the horn and howl of the hound. If the editor wants to let any more papers for 'possums let him say so.

Mr. J. L. Farr, of Cooper's, was on Swift Creek Saturday, looking out for a job of bridge building, but W. I.'s bid won.

Success to the VIEW. SNIP.

Maplesville Dots.

We had a hard rain Friday the 16th, which was very much needed. All crops but corn have suffered very much from the long drouth.

We think several of our young folks enjoyed a horse back ride the other evening.

Our merchants have just gotten in a new supply of fall and winter goods which they say they will sell very cheap.

Some two years ago Mr. N. W. Foshee, of Maplesville, while riding a mule had his leg broken near the knee cap, the mule falling to the ground, causing the accident. The hurt was very severe and the pain suffered was very great. A day or two since Mr. Foshee, while feeding his hogs on horseback, happened to even a more painful and much more serious accident, by the horse jumping from under him, the fall breaking his leg just above the ankle, forcing the broken bone through the skin. Dr. Little, of Stanton, was at once summoned, and it is said that he gave as his opinion that amputation of the broken limb would be absolutely necessary, so bad was the break. Mr. Foshee is the leading citizen, of not only the entire community in which he lives, but the surrounding country, and his many friends will learn with deep regret of his recent misfortune.

Well as all the boys are leaving this place the dunce has gone too, he will have a good time if there is any to be had, for he is one of those sort that never troubles trouble until trouble troubles him.

NOVA SCRIBITA.

The Dudes Know It.

Or if they don't they should know that Rangum Root Liniment cured Big Head in mules for W. E. Hunt, of Adairsville, Ky. J. H. Mallory, of Fort's Station, Tenn., cured his hogs of blind staggers with it. In fact this King of Liniments is invaluable for man and beast, and no family should be without it. Sold by all druggists.

NOTICE NO. 6739.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver United States Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on November 12, 1887, viz: Mary J. Thornton, Homestead 13247 for the n e ¼ sec 33, township 21 n, range 16 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Harrison Kendrick, Thomas P. Connel, Elijah Welden, Bud Kendrick, all of Verbena, Ala.

sep29 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR.
LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT!
DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To MOTHERS," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

NOTICE NO. 6647.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 7, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15th, 1887, viz: Noah L. Broadhead Homestead 18400 for the s ½ of s e ¼ sec 6, t 20 n r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Robert M. Robuck, E. F. Fuller, William F. Robuck, all of Maplesville, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6650.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 31, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15, 1887, viz: John Morris, declaratory statement 1266 for the w ½ of n w ¼ sec 24, t 24 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henry Jones William Greie, George Eatres, Jonathan Eatres, all of Shelby Iron Works, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6742.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on Nov. 11, 1887, viz: Ann Hicks, widow of George Hicks, Homestead 14686 for the n w ¼ sec 12 township 23 n, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Hightower and Jackson Campbell, of Randolph, Ala., and William Davis and Rebecca Hightower, of Jemison, Ala.

sep29 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE!

Pursuant to and by virtue of a commission issued by the Hon. Secretary of State on the 24th day of September, 1887, to the undersigned as incorporators of the Alabama Great Northern Railway Company, we will open or cause to be opened, books of subscription to the capital stock of said railway company on the 5th day of November, 1887, at the courthouse of the county of Chilton, in the town of Clanton, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

E. B. JOSEPH,
W. F. JOSEPH,
sep29-5t J. W. WOOLFOLK.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

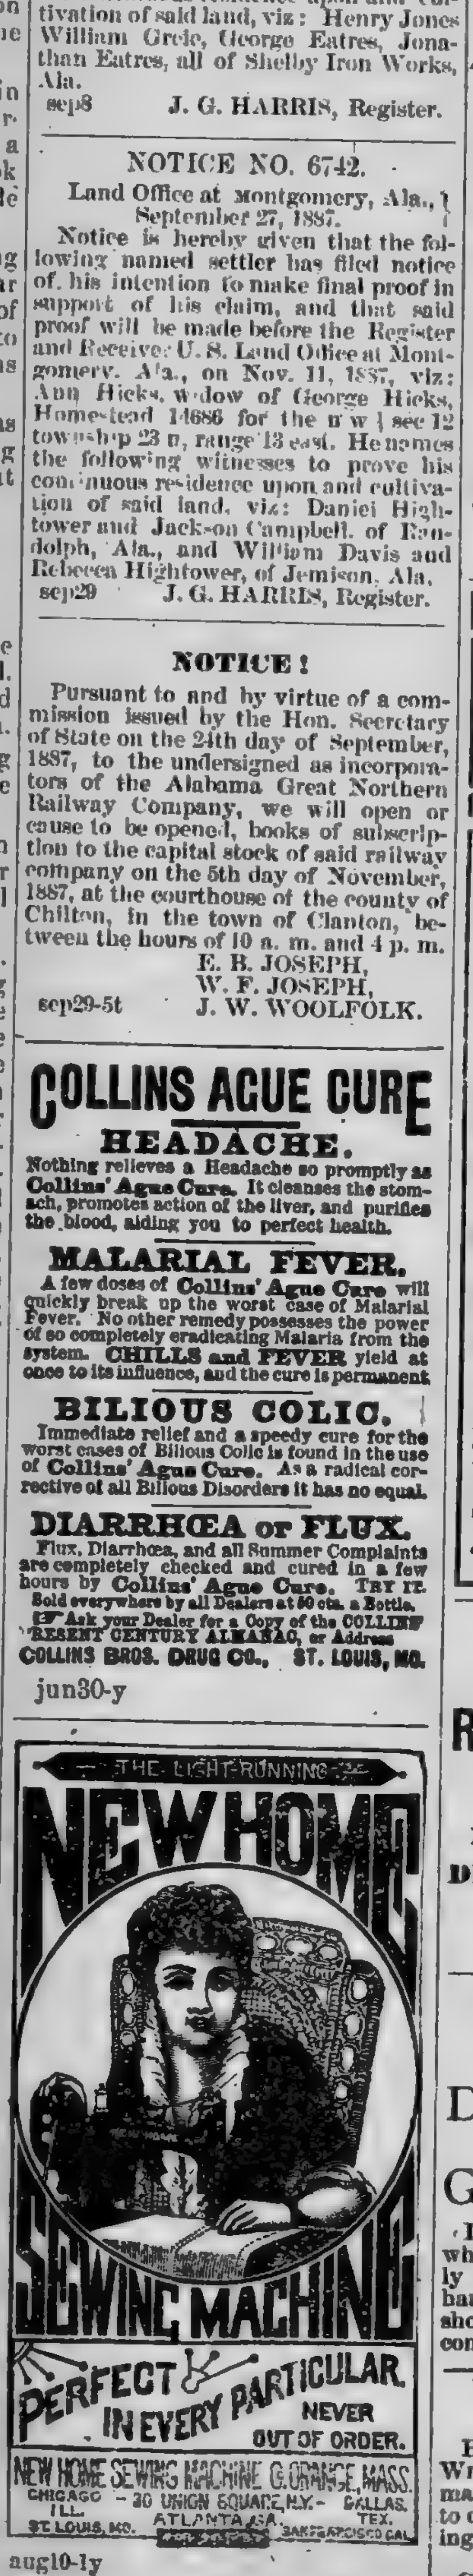
DIARRHŒA OF FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.

☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address

COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y



NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE

PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR. NEVER OUT OF ORDER.

NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL. – 30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. – DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO. ATLANTA, GA. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

aug10-1y

NEVER FAILS TO CURE BLIND BLEEDING
50 CTS & $1
ITCHING INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL PILES PER BOTTLE
ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT.

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT
CURES SPRAINS, BRUISES, RHEUMATISM SORE THROAT, SPAVIN SPLINT, RINGBONE EPIZOOTIC, Etc. 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

HODGES SARSAPARILLA
CURES RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA & ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD.
$1 PER BOTTLE. 6 FOR $5.

TANNERS INFALLIBLE NEURALGIA CURE
CURES ALL FORMS OF NEURALGIA & NERVIOUS HEADACHE. 50 CTS PER BOX.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.
MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. CO
NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE

CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

L&N

(LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.)

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of NASHVILLE, MEMPHIS, MONTGOM'Y, MOBILE, and N. ORLEANS

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to

NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
Louisville, Ky.

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,

Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,

Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,

Are displaying a Complete and Varied Assortment of

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes, Clothing and Millinery.

Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.
Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

WILSON HOUSE.

A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.

Birmingham, Alabama.

Jobbers and Retailers of

PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER, Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,

Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜

We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

I am prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

A. J. MASSEY,

OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

☞ Will go far and near.

Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements.

GO TO BLANK BROS., LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., SEPT. 29, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	6:47 a. m.
No. 5	6:22 p. m.

GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	6:22 p. m.
No. 4	9:41 p. m.
No. 6	8:45 a. m.

Cotton Market.

BIRMINGHAM—Corrected weekly by Sol. D. Bloch & Co., cotton factors. Market easy. Demand irregular. Prices prevailing: Good Midling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8¼c.

MONTGOMERY — Market quiet. Demand good. Good Middling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8¼c.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

School satchels at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Manufacturing enterprises are what we need to build up our town.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure is gentle in action, and warranted a certain cure. 50 cents a bottle.

Misses Mary and Lily Janney, of Montgomery, visited friends in Clanton this week.

A small amount of capital invested in the manufacture of brick at this place would pay.

The danger of a malarial atmosphere may be averted if you will occasionally take a dose of Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure.

Rev. A. J. Briggs requests us to announce tnat he will fill his regular appointment at Clanton next Sunday.

Slates, copybooks, pens, pencils, inks, mucilage, foot rules, penracks, &c., for sale at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Mr. Ned Duke has returned from Nashville and has gone to Auburn to attend the State Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Sudden change of temperature and humidity of the atmosphere often produce disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Use Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm to check these troubles in their incipiency.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father, near Jemison, on the 22nd inst., by J. M. Corderie, Esq., Mr. J. P. Nix and Miss Elizabeth Webb.

The fleecy staple is coming into our town at a lively rate now and our gin is kept busy turning out bale after bale of that all important production.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Appetite and sleep may be improved, every part of the system strengthened and the animal spirits regain their bouyancy by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

For Rent.

A comfortable four room residence, well located and with excellent water. Terms reasonable. Apply at VIEW office.

Read Mr. A. J. Brook's announcement in our advertising columns. This is not an announcement for office but one by which you can save money in the matter of trading.

Mr. and Mrs. Brame, of Calera, accompanied by their little daughter, Minna, spent Sunday in Clanton. Mr. Brame returned home Monday morning but his wife will remain in Clanton awhile hoping to improve her health thereby.

Mixed News.

The hot well boom has proved a failure and we consider this bad news. To counteract this I will let you know that I am selling everything very cheap, and this is good news for those who buy goods in Clanton, the best market this side of Montgomery. Come and see for yourselves and bring your cotton to market while the price is good.

Yours Truly,

W. L. SAMPEY.

Pritchett's Rice Mill.

Mr. J. W. Pritchett requests us to say that he will have his rice mill ready for work in Clanton by the time the farmers get through with their cotton picking.

Everybody in this section of country will attend the State Fair in Montgomery next month and see the President. The occasion promises to be the most notable in the history of State Fairs in Alabama.

Miss Annie Mahone, of Loachapoka, will assist Prof. Hicks in teaching at Clanton Academy this session and will also have charge of the music department of the school. She is now here and has entered upon the discharge of her duties.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which causes burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

A disordered condition of the stomach, or malaria in the system will produce sick headache, you can remove this trouble by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 cts. per vial.

Mr. Robt. Williams, of this county, was run over by a freight train, on the L. & N., at Calera last Thursday and killed. He had been brakesman on the road but a few weeks. His remains were interred Friday last at Mt. Zion church cemetery.

Interesting protracted services are in progress at the Clanton Baptist Church, and will be continued during the week. The pastor is assisted by Rev. S. M. Adams, of Bibb. Go out to hear them. Services in the forenoon at 10 and 11 and in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The bad handling of the mails is causing some inconvenience. We are frequently getting letters from Montgomery and points south after they have passed our station and been sent back, and sometimes they are days getting back. We believe our Verbena locals take a jaunt through Tennessee sometimes before stopping here.

Undue exposure to cold winds, rain, bright light or malaria, may bring on inflamation and soreness of the eyes. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve will subdue the inflamation, cool and soothe the nerves, and strengthen weak and failing Eye sight. 25 cents a box.

Unsuspected disorders of the kidneys are responsible for many of the ordinary ailments of humanity which neglected, develop into a serious and perhaps fatal malady. Experience would suggest the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

Coal Wanted.

The L. & N. railroad has no freight cars to furnish the mines for transporting coal, and every town and station in this section is uneasy in consequence. We hope the railroad company will build or buy some cars and let us get some coal into this part of the country before cold weather is upon us.

We are glad to be able to chronicle the fact that Mr. W. H. Phillips who advertised his business and residence in this place for sale recently has decided to let well enough alone, and to remain in Clanton. He has done much to build up the place and now has a foothold that will insure him success. We hope that he may never regret having decided to remain.

Mr. A. J. Marler, one of W. L. Sampey's salesmen, met with an unfortunate accident Saturday afternoon. He fell from a wagon and the front wheel of the vehicle passed over his body and one of his arms—breaking the arm just below the elbow. He suffered much pain several days, but we are glad to know is now getting along very well, and will soon be at his post.

A beautiful woman must be healthy, and to remain healthy and beautiful she should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It imparts tone and flush to the skin, strength, vigor and pure blood; is equally adapted for all ages, from the babe to the aged, of either sex.

If the stomach performs its functions actively and regularly the food of which it is the receptical, is transformed into blood of a nourishing quality, which furnishes vigor and warmth to the whole body, the remedy to give tone to the stomach is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Mr. I. N. Langston at Jemison has an extensive mercantile trade over the country, and in order to extend it further he has inserted a liberal advertisement which will appear next week on the fourth page of the VIEW and to which attention is invited. Mr. Langston is a clever and accommodating merchant and carries a large stock of goods which he is ready to sell at reasonable prices. As salesmen you will find in this store some of the most popular and energetic "counter-jumpers" in all the land always glad to wait upon you and show goods.

Some of the best novels published are for sale at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

A little bird has whispered something in the ear of the VIEW man which will doubtless be news to many of our readers: It said that Miss Lucy Meredith, who is well known and has many friends in this place, is soon to be married to Mr. Henry Lyman, of Birmingham. The VIEW takes advantage of this opportunity and extends congratulations in advance of the happy event.

I Told You So.

Mr. E. A. Ireland, of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tenn., says: "I was afflicted with piles for twenty years, and I tried every remedy offered me; finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment. It gave me instant relief, and has effected a permanent cure." Sold by all druggists. sep 29

The VIEW is under obligations to the management of the Ala. State Fair for a complimentary season ticket. The fair this year opens Oct. 17th, and promises to be the most complete and attractive exhibition of the kind in the history of the State. We understand that the railroad fare will be reduced to one cent a mile during the week on the L. & N., and this low rate will carry a large crowd from along this line to the show. President and Mrs. Cleveland will attend the fair on Thursday, Oct. 20th. Let everybody attend who can.

Did You Ever.

W. H. Revels, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says: "I have been in the practice of medicine for over eighteen years, but never have I seen the equal of Hodges' Sarsaparilla. It has worked miracles here in curing Rheumatism and Scrofula. Have almost come to the conclusion that I cannot practice without it." Sold by all druggists.

Notice the change in the S. & N. schedule at the top of local column. Accommodation trains No. 50 and 51 have been discontinued and trains No.7 and 12 take their places while two new trains have been put on which will be strictly passenger trains and will make regular passenger time. They will do local passenger work, carrying no sleeping cars and stopping at all stations along the line between Birmingham and Montgomery. They will nearly always be on time, having such a short run, and the traveler will find them a great convenience owing to the fact that the through passenger trains are frequently behind time.

After Three Years.

W. F. Welton, of Springfield, Tenn., says: I have been suffering with Neuralgia in my face and head off and on for three years. I purchased a box of Dr. Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure and took eight of the pills. I have not felt any symptoms of Neuralgia since. It gives me pleasure to recommend it." Sold by all druggists.

For Sale.

Having decided to make a change in my business, I offer for sale one of the most desirable places on the L. & N. R. R. between Montgomery and Birmingham, located at Clanton. Two hundred and forty acres of land, 25 acres in orchard, consisting of every variety of fruit. I have the noted LeConte pear in full bearing. The place is well watered, two bold springs and a creek running through it. Good range. No better place in the State for a dairy farm. Farm in high state of cultivation. For further information address me at Clanton, Ala.

J. M. PONDER.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boshee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles.

Come to the VIEW office to buy school books, writing material and fancy stationery of all kinds.

Tax Notice.

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1887:

Strasburg	October	17
D. H. Mullins'	"	18
Archey's	"	19
Jemison	"	20
Providence	"	21
David Woolley's	"	22
Macedonia	"	24
Benson	"	15
Maplesville	"	25
R. Latham's	"	26
Dixie	"	27
Pilgrim's Rest Church	"	28
Kincheon	"	29
Energy Postoffice	November	2
Verbena	"	3
Cooper's	"	4
Clanton	"	5
Cane Creek Church	"	8
Maull's Mill	"	9
Chandler's Mill	"	10
Bivings, Duke & Co.'s	"	11

D. A. WHITE, T. C.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,

aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 6679.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d 1887, viz: Tempy J. Oates, Homestead 13283 for the w ½ of n w ¼, the s e ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26 township 21 north range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, James R. Broadhead, Abram C. Mims, Sylvester Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6681.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 22, 1887, viz: John C. Arnold, Homestead 17903 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 24 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel Curry, Eli D. Barfield Gip G. West, John B. Moore all of Brierfield, Ala.

sep15 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6680.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d, 1887, viz: Sylvester Mims, Homestead 13479 for the w ½ of s e ¼ and s ½ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 21 north, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Oats, Jesse A. Culp, Diniel Dunnavin, and James R. Broadhead, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 5, 1887.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Taylor Davis against William Taylor for abandonding his Homestead entry No. 17157, dated Sept. 15th, 1885, upon the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4, township 20 north, range 16 east, in Chilton county, Ala. with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 27th day of October, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
sep 15 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

W. A. Ricketts,

—DEALER IN—

Guns and Ammunition,

GUN AND LOCKSMITH,

205 20th St., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

THE

Verbena High School.

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MISS FANNY PURIFOY, Teacher of Music and Art.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class	$1 50
Intermediate Class	2 50
High School "	3 00
Commercial "	3 00
Collegiate "	4 00

Primary Department is confined to reading, writing and spelling.

Intermediate Department will include arithmetic and the first lessons in grammar, geography and elocution.

High School Department will include algebra, geometry and a complete English and Scientific course.

Commercial Course includes bookkeeping and the law of contracts.

Collegiate course includes higher Mathematics, French, Latin and Greek.

MISS CALLIER is a graduate of the Marion Female Seminary and has four years' experience in teaching.

MISS PURIFOY is a graduate of the Judson Female Seminary and has taken a special course in Music and Art.

MRS. DAVIS graduated at the Summerfield (Ala.) school in 1859 and has several years' experience.

Tuition is payable monthly in advance, but patrons are allowed the first two weeks in each month in which to settle.

Good board in private families at reasonable prices.

Students will be prepared for any class in college.

SHOW WALL CENTRE RIBBON CASES
ARTISTIC STORE FIXTURES.
Cedar Chests, Cabinets and Wardrobes.
CABINET WORK.
TERRY SHOW CASE CO.
119 N. Cherry St., Nashville, Tenn.
Catalogue Free

sep 8-y

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Having determined to anticipate the wants of the trade, I shall from October first, mark down my entire stock lower than any merchant in Chilton county and Sell For Cash Across the Counter.

No exceptions made for anybody.

A. J. BROOKS.

Verbena, Ala., Sept. 23, 1887.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜ [jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar21-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT,
CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods,

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager.
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand.
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street,
LOUISVILLE KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS STAIR RAILS,
Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

The Chilton View Job Office,
IS PREPARED TO DO YOUR
JOB PRINTING,
SUCH AS
NOTE HEADS,
LETTER HEADS,
BILL HEADS,
ENVELOPES,
CARDS,
COMMISSARY CHECKS,
CIRCULARS AND PAMPHLETS
OF ALL KINDS,
NEATLY AND WITH DISPATCH.
SEND US YOUR WORK. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Roughness and Bran as a Resource.

Mr. J. M. True, referred to as a most experienced agriculturist of Sauk county, Wis., being rather heavily stocked with fine cattle and horses, and short of hay on account of drouth, adopted a course of grain feeding with "roughness," which he thus refers to in the Western Farmer, and bases upon the encouraging experience a bit of good advice to others similarly situated:

"I bought heavily of wheat bran, cut and stored all my corn fodder, put my straw where it could not be trampled under foot, and, with the full knowledge of the necessity of economy, commenced the winter. My stock never was in better shape in the spring than last. My colts had grown finely. My brood mares dropped strong, vigorous colts, and my cattle were in fine condition. I thought I had made a discovery; hence, in the present emergency, I advise—if you have good stock, such as it pays to keep at all—don't sacrifice it. Make the most of your crops. Watch the prices of bran and other mill feeds, and when you can buy bran for $10 or less per ton, fill up, storing in a dry, airy place. Plan to feed more grain feeds and less hay the coming winter, and see if you do not continue the practice, even when plenty again fills our barns with hay."

Methods of Feeding Meat.

It is universally conceded among poultry raisers in our country that a supply of meat is an absolute necessity to laying hens, says a writer in the New England Farmer, but as to methods of meeting this need diversities of opinion are numerous. But not to expatiate upon the different modes in which meat is fed to hens, I will briefly state my opinions on the subject, giving the method which, in my experience, has proved itself most satisfactory and profitable.

In the summer, when hens are given their freedom in roaming about they will obtain a sufficient quantity of insects, worms, etc., to supply their want of animal food. But in the winter, as they have no such opportunities, the continuation of their animal diet is dependent upon the owner. The best method of supplying hens with meat diet is to obtain a beef creature's head, which can be purchased for 10 or 15 cents from any butcher, and twice or three times a week, with an axe; a part should be chopped up for them. As bone is also a necessity to hens, when this head is chopped up bone and flesh together, hens receive two very essential elements of their necessary diet. After the requisite supply of meat is chopped off the head should be allowed to remain in a convenient corner in the hen house, that the fowls may have an opportunity to pick it over and devour the particles of bone and meat which remain, thus affording them considerable exercise.

Sowing Grass Seed.

sowing grass and clover seeds an even stand is desirable, and to secure this, great care is to be taken in the sowing. A very good practice is to make the last harrowing with great care, evenly and with the marks all parallel. Then the sower can follow these marks, first taking the edge of the field and returning six short paces distant from the first course. Then returning on the second course, and always sowing with the right hand to the left. Six feet for each cast is as much as can be taken with light seed, as orchard grass, blue grass, red-top, etc., and as much as should be taken with timothy, and the quantity of seed taken may be readily gauged to the width of the cast. The cast is made with each movement of the right foot. When the wind is blowing, even slightly, the casts should be made low, to avoid irregular dropping of the seed, and when the light seeds are sown it is easier to walk across the harrow marks when the tracks made are easily seen, and as the wind may carry the seed to one side, the sower may go out of the straight track to accommodate the wind, and on returning can easily distinguish the foot marks of the previous track in the soft soil.

The sowing should be done as soon as the last harrowing is finished, when the seed sinks in the loose soil, or is covered by the first shower. A smoothing plank is a good thing to cover seed with. It may be eight or ten feet long, and is fitted with a tongue and two stiff braces. The tongue is fitted to the plank on the level, so that when it is raised the front end of the plank is elevated a little. This prevents the plank from gathering stones or seeds in front of it, and causes it to ride over them. It leaves a smooth, even surface.—American Agriculturist.

Water for Animals.

All animals should be provided with pure water, and with none is it more necessary than with milch cows. Serious results have been known to follow the use of impure or stagnant water. It is not every farm that has a natural and unfailing supply of water, although many have a condition that should be observed in the purchase of a farm, as it is one of the most valuable considerations that can be named. A never-failing spring of abundant supply cannot be too highly prized; it costs nothing for repairs and is always in good working order; but such blessings are not shared by all, and hence arises the necessity for providing some artificial means of supply. Wells with pumps will answer all demands upon farms with a small number of animals, but upon farms where they are numbered by scores pumping water from a well by hand would be both laborious and expensive. In such cases there would probably be no better mode of supply than by wind power, which when adopted should be so situated that the power could be utlized for other purposes upon the farm. Of course this is an expensive method of procuring water, but under some conditions becomes a necessity. In a district with an undulating surface reservoirs can be formed, whereby the surplus of water in autumn and winter can be stored for summer use, and may serve satisfactory. Upon some farms there are springs, which, if utilized properly, by conducting the water into troughs, would be amply sufficient, but left to themselves are insufficient to do more than make a mass of mud where the cattle tread continually to slake their thirst. Quite a small spring run into some troughs or tubs will furnish an abundant supply.—Germantown Telegraph.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Give your fowls granulated charcoal. It is a capital preventive of disease.

White clover, as a summer pasturage for hogs, is highly esteemed in Iowa.

Keep your work horses from flies in hot weather by blanketing them thinly.

The best time to cut grass for hay is in the afternoon when the heat has subsided.

The feeding value of early cut clover or mixed hay is greater than that of fodder corn.

Poultry do well running in the orchards, and the latter are benefited likewise.

The right way with peaches is to plant a few trees every year. They will hit occasionally.

Feed all fattening animals liberally, for every little backset counts largely on the losing side.

The thicker hay mows are made and the tighter they are tramped the less apt will the hay be to mould.

A light dusting with white lead after the dew is on is said to afford protection against striped bugs on vines.

The best experiment for bringing up a herd of grade cattle to superior excellence is to employ only pure bred males.

An old farmer says: "You bless your stock and increase your store when you go into winter with a good supply of roots."

The Ohio Experimental Station says the larger corn grows the shallower should be the plowing, for the small roots increase with great rapidity.

A farmer in Kentucky is cited who keeps worms off cabbages by sprinkling on them a mixture of two gallons of water with one gallon of buttermilk.

A New York farmer says he failed to get a crop of turnips until he used unleached ashes to fertilize the ground. Ashes will raise a crop on any kind of land.

Plants growing too thickly together cannot thrive. Some of them are as weeds to the others. Thin them out if too thick, and a larger yield will be the result.

Rancid butter may be made sweet by washing it with fresh sweet milk, and then with clear cold water. It should then be used at once, or it will grow rancid.

A flock of turkeys will range the fields all summer, destroying millions of insects, and part of them living without taxing the housekeeper for the means of support.

The hoe and cultivator are the leading implements for corn cultivation which are not likely to be superseded. Keep them running until the crop is ready to be "laid by."

It may not be agreeable, at all times, to have hens running at large, but it is their nature, and with the exercise they get, and the variety of food, the production of eggs is usually much increased.

Hard water contains too much limestone, and causes bread mixed with it soon to dry out. Use soft water to mix the dough, and you will get a much better article of bread and one that will retain its freshness.

Lands to be sown with wheat or grass seed this fall should be plowed as early as possible, worked even with cultivator or good harrow, and thoroughly harrowed again before sowing time. It is of great importance to have a good seed bed.

A contemporary says: "The object of plowing corn in a dry season is not so much to kill the weeds as to form a mulch of dry dirt, that will condense the moisture in the shape of dew, and that will consume or save the moisture that comes up from the hidden reservoirs below."

Mr. J. W. Clark, of Hadley, Mass., a considerable peach-grower, says he has come to the conclusion that no certain degree of cold can be named which is sure death to peach buds, but that under varying conditions they may live or die within a considerable range of temperature.

Dr. Race, of Pittsfown, Hunterdon County, N. J., has found that when pear trees bear an exceptionally large crop, they are liable to an unhealthy appearance. The leaves turn yellow, small reddish shoots start up from the large branches near the trunk, and the wood soon becomes of a dark, brownish color. For the last six years he has used potash, salt and bone in treating trees for yellows.

When haying and harvest are over, take a vacation. Hitch up the horses to the spring wagon, load up the needed conveniences and the family, and get away to the shores of the sea or a lake, or to some pleasant hill or mountain, even if not over a mile from home, provided the spot is an attractive one and the farm out of sight. Camp out for a week, if two cannot be afforded. Rest and recreation are the objects sought; so do not worry about how things are going on at home.

The Spy of the Shenandoah.

Pardon Worsley, "the Union Spy of the Shenandoah," died at his home at Fosterbrook, N. Y., recently aged sixty-seven years. Beginning life as a fancy goods merchant in Massachusetts, at the opening of the civil war he raised a company of the Fourteenth Massachusetts Heavy Artillery. He was soon afterward employed by General B. F. Butler, in the name of the United States, to go into the British provinces to look into the system of blockade running then in vogue. He was successful in the mission, for General C. C. Augur, in his report of August 25, 1865, says that it was through the instrumentality of Mr. Worsley that the extensive system of blockade running from Baltimore and Washington was broken up.

After returning from this trip Worsley went out as a spy upon Mosby, under orders from General Augur, though not until he had returned to Boston and married Helen Isabel Francis, who survives him. Accompanied by his young wife Worsley set out, ostensibly upon a peddling trip through Virginia. His real object was soon suspected by Mosby, and a spy was placed upon his track. The spy was a handsome young lady, who was to be conducted to Washington by Worsley. The Union spy was too smart to be caught, and instead of using his pass through the Union lines he conducted the lady through swamps and by-roads until she became disgusted with the trip, and she returned to Mosby convinced of the loyalty of Worsley. Mosby was not, however, convinced, and at one time placed a pistol to Worsley's head, threatening to blow his brains out. The young lady interceded and Worsley's life was saved. Afterward Mosby became his firm friend, fighting a duel with a nephew of General Lee because Lieutenant Lee had set a guard upon Worsley and had condemned him as a spy.

On two occasions Worsley furnished information by which the Federal forces were enabled to surround the house in which Mosby was quartered, but the dashing Confederate cut his way out and escaped. On several occasions he got information of intended raids upon Washington in time to allow the authorities to mass their forces and save the capital. At the time of the assassination of President Lincoln Worsley received command of a squad of detectives, and when Booth was killed he retired to private life. For the past ten years he has run a park restaurant in the Bradford oil field.—New York Sun.

A colored woman put $94 in a Baltimore savings bank in 1857, and when it was drawn out by her descendants the other day it had increased to a little over $2,300.

JOHN HOWARD PAYNE'S LOVE.

Death of the Woman to Whom "Home, Sweet Home" was Addressed.

A singular woman was buried at Athens, Ga., whose life has been a romance. In her coffin was placed the original copy of "Home, Sweet Home," which had been addressed to her by John Howard Payne, who was then a suitor for her hand. Miss Mary Harden, the daughter of Gen. Harden, of Savannah, is the lady whose name is thus linked with the great household hymn. Miss Harden had been living for many years a secluded life, rarely passing beyond the threshold of her own domicile. Years ago she was a young and attractive maiden, in all the freshness of young womanhood. At that time she met John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home." Time and again he offered her his hand and his heart. She liked him not well enough to wed him, but her friendship for him was sufficiently strong to cause her to treasure his memory, and preserve with almost religious reverence the few mementos of her former and long since dead lover.

Frequently has she been importuned by autograph hunters and speculator to part with the manuscript of "Home, Sweet Home." One gentleman, the agent of a well known magazine, offered her $300 for the manuscript, but she refused him, saying: "I have been offered many times $300 for it." It is said by some who have seen the original that the manuscript is interlined with love messages and other tokens of affection in Payne's handwriting, and the fact that these tokens of a once breathing love would be put before the public deterred her from ever parting with it. It is not known by any one what disposition she has made of this document. It is even hinted that she destroyed it, fearing, in case of her death, that it might fall into other than friendly hands, and a love that was once sacred and tender to her become a sport and a jest with the world. But the general opinion is that it was buried with her.

Miss Harden was a lady of advanced age. Her father, the late Gen. Harden, was at one time a very wealthy man, but after the war most of his fortune was swept away. When he died his daughter applied herself to the task of recovering most of the property, and succeeded in getting back much of it. Her natural talents were great and varied. She wrote and spoke several languages, especially being proficient in French. For many years she was in the employ of well known publishing houses in the North, her work being translating the works of French authors into English. She not only maintained herself by this work, but was successful in laying aside each year a snug sum, which was applied to the object she ever had in view, regaining possession of the property of her father. It is not known how much her estate will be worth. It has been considerably reduced. At one time it was large, but now the largest estimates do not place it beyond $25,000.

The Drink Habit.

A statement is furnished by a physician connected with the staff of the Fort Hamilton, N. Y., Home for inebriates, regarding the first step to inebriety on the part of women treated in that institution. Of 200 inebriate women who came under this physician's care, some of them belonging to the highest social circles, 126 began by drinking beer, 20 with wine, 37 with whiskey, 8 with gin, and 11 could not remember what beverage first formed their appetite for liquor. While but 37 began with whiskey, 187 ended by using it as their favorite beverage. The average age at which the drinking began was 18½ years. One hundred and thirty-two began to drink socially and with female friends.

THE results of the survey and last census of India are that the area of the peninsula of Hindoostan is 1,382,624 square miles, and the population 253,891,821. Although immense tracts of country are annually cultivated, according to the most recent survey, 10,000,000 acres of land suitable for cultivation have not as yet been plowed. At the same time 120,000,000 of acres are returned as waste lands.

THE latest fad for ladies is the wearing of differently colored stockings; for instance, a straw-colored one on the right foot and a pale blue one on the left.

A Sad Case of Poisoning is that of any man or woman afflicted with disease or derangement of the liver, resulting in poisonous accumulations in the blood, scrofulous affections, sick-headaches, and diseases of the kidneys, lungs or heart. These troubles can be cured only by going to the primary cause, and putting the liver in a healthy condition. To accomplish this result speedily and effectually, nothing has proved itself so efficacious as Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which has never failed to do the work claimed for it, and never will.

Garrison, the famous jockey, has been engaged for next year at a salary of $12,000.

Consumption, Wasting Diseases, And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites; the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

The Swiss Government purchased alcohol to cover the consumption for 12 months.

What can be more disagreeable, more disgusting, than to sit in a room with a person who is troubled with catarrh, and has to keep coughing and clearing his or her throat of the mucous which drops into it? Such persons are always to be pitied if they try to cure themselves and fail. But if they get Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy there need be no failure.

Kansas obtains about 6,900,000 tons of coal from her mines annually.

* * * * Rupture radically cured, also pile tumors and fistics. Pamphlet of particulars 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

How can business be in a healthy condition when money is tight all the time?

SAFE, permanent and complete are the cures of bilious and intermittent diseases, made by Prickly Ash Bitters. Dyspepsia, general debility, habitual constipation, liver and kidney complaints are speedily eradicated from the system. It disinfects, cleanses and eliminates all malaria. Health and vigor are obtained more rapidly and permanently by the use of this great natural antidote than by any other remedy heretofore known. As a blood purifier and tonic it brings health, renewed energy and vitality to a worn and diseased body.

The Old Grandmother insists on the mother giving the little one Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial. She knows it will cure both young and old of all bowel troubles, and not constipate as many preparations do with injurious effect.

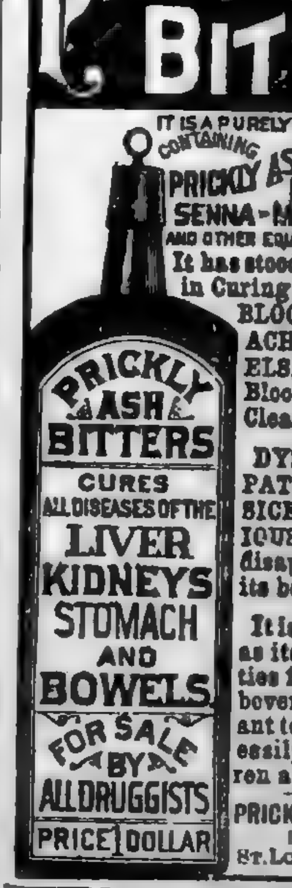
Farmers and others who have a little leisure time for the next few months will find it their interest to write B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, whose advertisement appears in another column. They offer great inducements to persons to work for them all or part of their time.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers. Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free, securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N. Y.

Best, easiest to use and cheapest. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. By druggists. 25c.

We Point with Pride
To the "Good name at home," won by Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is prepared, there is more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold than of all other medicines. Whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time, and it has given the best of satisfaction since its introduction ten years ago. This could not be if the medicine did not possess merit. If you suffer from impure blood or debility, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and you will realize its peculiar curative power.
"I had salt rheum on my left arm three years, suffering terribly. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the rheum has entirely disappeared." H. M. MILLS, 71 French St., Lowell, Mass.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
IT IS A PURELY VEGETABLE PREPARATION CONTAINING PRICKLY ASH BARK AND PRICKLY ASH BERRIES SENNA–MANDRAKE–BUCHU AND OTHER EQUALLY EFFICIENT REMEDIES
It has stood the Test of Years, in Curing all Diseases of the BLOOD, LIVER, STOMACH, KIDNEYS, BOWELS, &c. It Purifies the Blood, Invigorates and Cleanses the System.
DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, JAUNDICE, SICKHEADACHE, BILIOUS COMPLAINTS, &c disappear at once under its beneficial influence.
It is purely a Medicine as its cathartic properties forbids its use as a beverage. It is pleasant to the taste, and as easily taken by children as adults.
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS CO
Sole Proprietors,
ST. LOUIS and KANSAS CITY



KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DIGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N. Y.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.

KNOW THYSELF.
PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above.
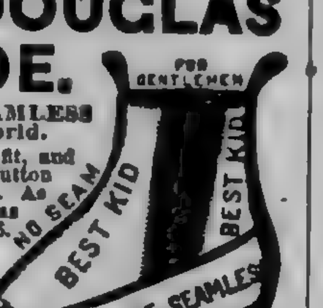
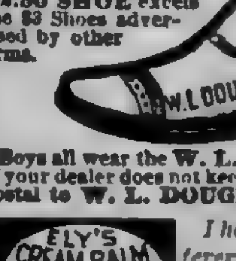
Name this paper.

W. L. DOUGLAS
$3 SHOE.
The only $3 SEAMLESS Shoe in the world.
Finest Calf, perfect fit, and warranted. Congress, Button and Lace, all styles toe. As stylish and durable as those costing $5 or $6. W. L. DOUGLAS $2.50 SHOE excels the $3 Shoes advertised by other firms.



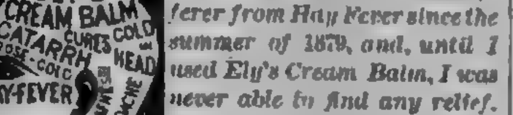
FOR GENTLEMEN
NO SEAM
BEST KID
BEST KID
W. L. DOUGLAS' $3 SHOE. SEAMLESS
SEWED
[Name and price stamped on bottom of each Shoe.]

Boys all wear the W. L. DOUGLAS $2 SHOE.
If your dealer does not keep them, send your name on postal to W. L. DOUGLAS, Brockton, Mass.



I have been a periodical sufferer from Hay Fever since the summer of 1879, and, until I used Ely's Cream Balm, I was never able to find any relief. I can say that Cream Balm cured me.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y.
Apply Balm into each nostril.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for



My retail sales of your "Tansill's Punch" 5-cent cigar for last year (1882) were 162,000. This year I expect to sell at least 200,000 of this justly popular brand. Chas. S. Prowitt, Drug. Ist, Denver, Co.
Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.

$100 to $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. AGENTS preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

SOLDIERS all get Pensions, if ¼ disabled; Officers' travel pay, bounty collected; Deserters relieved; 22 years' practice. Success or no fee. Laws sent free. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D. C.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy.
Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Attorney, Washington, D. C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

GOLD is worth $500 per pound, Pettit's Eye Salve $1,000, but is sold at 25 cents a box by dealers.

OPIUM Habit Cured satisfactory before any pay. Prof. J. M. BARTON, 25th Ward, Cincinnati, O.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.
As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.
As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.
"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."
As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."
"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.
"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.
Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.
For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address,
World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

ROUGH ON DIRT
Great Starching
AND IRONING POWDER.
HOW TO WASH AND IRON
The art of starching, ironing and washing brought to perfection in "ROUGH ON DIRT." Added to starch gives splendid gloss, body, stiffness and polish. The only washing compound that can be so used. Prevents starch rolling or rubbing up. Makes iron slip easy. Saves labor. Saves three-fourths the starch. A revelation in housekeeping. A boon to women. A new discovery, beats the world. Cleans and purifies everything. Invaluable as the only safe, non-injurious and perfect washer and cleanser for general household purposes.
STARCHING. The most inexperienced girl can, with Rough on Dirt, do as nice washing and ironing as can be done in any laundry. Boiling not necessary. 10 & 25c. pkgs. at all first-class, well stocked Grocers. E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N. J., U. S. A.

JONES
HE PAYS the FREIGHT
5 Ton Wagon Scales,
Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

A. N. U.....................Thirty-Eight, '87.

This represents a healthy life. Throughout its various scenes.
Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.
Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.
J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.
The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat.
The FISH BRAND SLICKER is warranted waterproof, and will keep you dry in the hardest storm. The new POMMEL SLICKER [illegible] and covers the entire saddle. Beware of imitations. [illegible] "Fish Brand" trade-mark. Illustrated Catalogue [illegible]

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Space.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 00	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1887. NUMBER 48.

WILD ANIMALS.

A VISIT TO CINCINNATI'S FAMOUS MENAGERIE.

Taking the Animals with the Aid of a Camera—The Giant Giraffes, the King of the Carnivora, Etc.

Over the hills on the high ground, snugly settled betwixt luxurious Clifton and opulent Avondale, lies the Queen City's fairest and most favored attraction, the Zoological Garden, stretching over plateau, hill and dale. The forty-five broad acres form a beautiful park, pleasing and satisfactory in itself, without taking into account the hundreds of rare and interesting inhabitants that come from every quarter of the globe. From the time its gates were first opened, thanks to the honored and lamented Andrew Erkenbrecher, its founder, there has been in the Zoo a constantly increasing interest to those who love the beautiful in nature and the study of the wonders of the animal kingdom.

KING OF THE CARNIVORA.

In the great stone building known as the Carnivora is the best collection of animals of the cat tribe on exhibition anywhere. In the same building is a huge hippopotamus that is only three-quarters grown, but looks as big as a sawed-off elephant. Down the hill near the Carnivora are the bear pits, a great structure of stone and iron, with a pair of huge grizzlies, one of which recently killed a keeper; a superb pair of Polar bears and a happy family of cinnamon and black bruins. Upon the plateau is the great stone monkey-house, with a crowd of comical, chattering residents, bossed by a huge babboon with enough brilliant colors about him to shame a rainbow. These are the largest of the little town of buildings, that contain all manner of rare beasts, birds and reptiles, and new ones are building, notably an eagle-house, a handsome structure of iron.

One day last week a couple of Commercial Gazette able editors, with a taste for photography, zoology and a camera, visited the garden with the intention of "taking" some of the animals. The invasion was in several respects a success. An attempt has been made to present the portraits of a few of the wild boarders at the Garden. The cuts are from tracings on photographs taken by the Commercial Gazette's artist on the spot. The forms and attitudes are therefore perfect, though somewhat lacking in expression. Greater difficulties than may be generally surmised were encountered in catching the shadows of these prisoners behind the bars. Some of them, usually demure enough, acted as if they really suspected that their pictures were about to be taken for the "rogues' gallery," and accordingly acted in the refactory manner often resorted to by captured rascals when brought into the presence of a photographer. The mild persuasions of keepers, the offer of tempting morsels, in most cases failed of the desired results in bringing the subject within range and causing them to assume "easy and natural positions" and pleased expressions."

KATIE.

THE GIANT GIRAFFES.

Animals in the large inclosures persistently kept at a distance, and coaxing words and proffers of weeds and umbrella handles to chew upon had little effect in bringing them near.

When the big bull buffalo was called upon for a sitting he straightway went over to make a bluff at the big bull yak, and they roared and fought at one another through the fence for a full hour. The zebra held aloof, and as he had recently chewed the shoulder off a man the photographer refused to climb the fence and go into the paddock to see him.

No difficulty at all was encountered in capturing the grand old lion—that is to say, capturing his picture. This fine fellow is the father of all the vigorous young leonine family at the Garden, and he seemed conscious of his ancestral honors as he lay behind the bars gazing out with a far-away look as though he were taking in some distant country, and would not deign a glance at the humble artist before him. Old Belshazzar had just feasted, and came out on his front porch to meditate. He needed only a pipe in his mouth to complete the picture. The lady was in the house washing the supper dishes. She came once to the door and growled. She and the old man may have had a little spat at the meal. Perhaps he had intimated that the beef was a little tough, and she retorted that he nevertheless seemed to be taking the lion's share of it.

At the further end of the row of aristocratic mansions Katie, a royal Bengal tiger, reclined on the front porch, and thus we have her in the picture. Katie is one of two blue-blooded old maids, occupying the house in common. Her companion is known as "Ben Butler," because she has a bad eye. Katie is in good health, but at times limps a little because of an ingrowing nail.

FEEDING THE ACROBATIC SEA-LION.

Some time ago she underwent a surgical operation for it. With ropes and nooses and other tackle she was drawn up to the bars, and the offending nail cut away. Katie struggled and roared in royal Bengal fashion, and the readers may well imagine what a task it was to pare an old maid tiger's toe-nails against her will.

Taking the pictures of the giraffes was amusing. The lights and obstructions were such as to make the instantaneous process impracticable, and the ungainly creatures would persist in stalking about their pen as if they were engaged in a walking match. At length an obliging keeper rushed towards them with a club, there was a waving of umbrellas and fluttering of focusing cloths, the giraffes stopped and looked out quizzically to see what all the fuss was about, and appeared just as you see them in the picture.

These animals are the finest pair in the country. The huge male is the largest of his kind in captivity. One might suppose he could pick acorns from the highest oak tree that grows.

The sea-lion encircled his pool in swift and eager circles, now gliding through the water like a shark in pursuit of game, now gracefully diving and anon looking for his keeper. He was expecting some fish. The keeper mounted the bridge with a bucketful of finny edibles. The sea-lion mounted his stone tower, climbing the ladder awkwardly, but rapidly. The keeper descended to the top of the tower. The sea-lion met him there like a dog and took a fish from his hand. The picture—an instantaneous one—shows this interesting performance.

HATNEE, THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND.

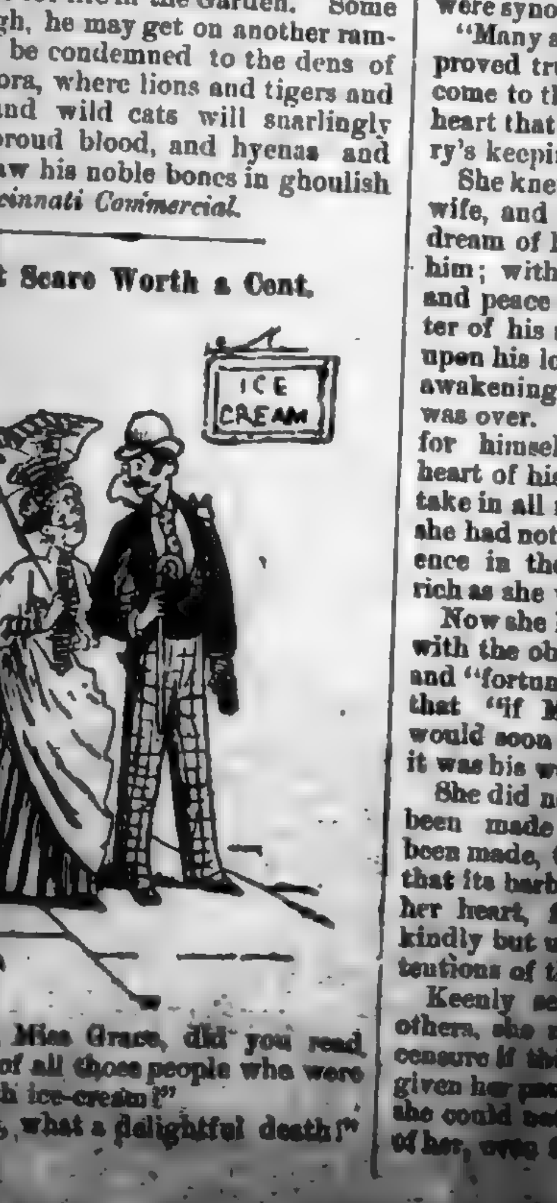
The great center of attraction for the little folks is the pony track. Besides the drove of ponies and donkeys, the famous elephant Hatnee makes that her headquarters. She shows wonderful docility and training, and never appears so happy as when she has a pack of children on her back. It is a merry go for everybody, and the temptation to take a picture of the elephant and one of her happy burdens could not be resisted.

The pictorial efforts of the day closed with a portrait of Herman Lackman's monster Holstein bull. This magnificent animal had the misfortune one day to fall out with his keeper, and to end the dispute by killing the luckless man. The murderer was condemned to death, but the sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life in the Garden. Some day, though, he may get on another rampage, and be condemned to the dens of the carnivora, where lions and tigers and leopards and wild cats will snarlingly lick his proud blood, and hyenas and jackals gnaw his noble bones in ghoulish glee.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Don't Scare Worth a Cent.



HE—"Ah, Miss Grace, did you read in the paper of all those people who were poisoned with ice-cream?"

SHE—"Oh, what a delightful death!" —Judge.

WHAT I KNOW.

I know the summer's day is sweet;
I know that love is sweeter still;
I know that bliss is ne'er complete;
I know of no perpetual ill;
I know that life has many sides,
That some things here seem hardly meet;
I know that baseness often rides,
While virtue walks with weary feet;
Yet often want and wealth, I know,
But for each other's mask have stood;
And men, I know, where'er we go
Are mostly happy when they're good.
I know that life, upon the whole,
Is well worth all we have to give;
And that the grander is the goal,
So much the grander 'tis to live.
I know that death is very nigh,
That evil shrinks before his breath;
That only goodness gives "good-by"
A rainbow in the cloud of death.

HER BLIND WOOER.

The door of the country school-room closed behind behind the last noisy pupil, and the young teacher was alone. She bowed her head wearily upon her hand and looked around the bare, comfortless room, with its hard benches, curtainless windows and rusty, broken stove with a shudder of disgust.

There were days—and this had been one—when every fibre of her sensitive being shrank from association with the motley crowd of urchins and from contact with the dirty, dog's-eared books, the grimy desks and dingy walls; but she never allowed these feelings to influence her; the duties of her positions were conscientiously performed, the more so, perhaps, because they were so disagreeable.

She had dismissed school an hour earlier to-day, ostensibly to enable her to correct the compositions handed in for to-morrow's reading; really because she had seen Roy Carlton drive by, and knew that he would return to ask her company for an hour's drive behind his handsome bays; and she had told herself that she would—because she must—refuse, henceforth and forever, all things that he might ask of her; and she wished to have a little time to strengthen herself, to "have her dark hour unseen," before she should shut the gate forever between that world of ease and happiness, and, more than all else, of Roy's love, and her world of poverty, loneliness and sorrow.

She could not help but love him, he had laid so many drifts of sunshine across her otherwise shadowed pathway, had been such a rock of refuge in her desert of friendliness since she came, over a year ago, to this dreary little village to earn her living by teaching.

She was not fitted to do battle with the grim fiend of poverty; she had, until two years before, "fed on the roses and lain in the lilies of life." Then came the death of her father, followed almost immediately by that of her mother, and she was left unprepared to face the world alone.

Her father's wealth, which she always supposed from their style of living to be ample, faded away before the demands of his creditors like snow in the springtime. Her high sense of honor would not allow her to hold back even the old homestead and household furniture so dear from the associations clustering around it, and reserving but one or two articles she allowed the rest, even her piano, to be sold.

Her summer friends drifted away one by one, and she noted their departure with scarcely a sigh over their defection. Was it because she realized of how little worth was their evanescent friendship? or had her heart, suffering a deeper wound, become dead to the smarting of lesser hurts?

Harry Vance had been her ideal of a gentleman. She had cherished for him a strong friendship, which, before her father's death, had bid fair to ripen into love. His attentions had been very loverlike, and the small world in which the two moved had already, in imagination, coupled their names together, when the clouds of misfortune shrouded her, and he, with some trite sentences of condolence upon his tongue, had stepped out of their shadow, probably congratulating himself that he had not gone so far but what it was still easy to recede.

She sighed, not for him, but for her shattered ideal, when she saw that he saught out a shallow, brainless favorite of fortune, and sought by a vigorous courtship to obtain her hand in marriage and possession of the property he knew she held in her own right; and in that sigh exhaled the last lingering perfume of the friendship Ellice Gray had felt, not for Harry Vance, but for the man she had imagined him to be; and in its place grew loathing and contempt for Harry Vance the fortune-hunter, intensified a hundred fold when, later, she heard of the debts and duns that harassed his pathway. For, strictly upright and honorable herself, she could tolerate no dishonesty in others, and in her vocabulary theft and debt without means or intention of payment were synonymous terms.

"Many a heart is caught in the rebound" proved true in this case, for Ellice had come to this little village to lose the heart that had never really been in Harry's keeping.

She knew Roy would ask her to be his wife, and she had allowed herself to dream of how happy she could be with him; with what a blessed sense of rest and peace she could creep into the shelter of his manly arms and lay her head upon his loving breast. But now the awakening had come, and the dream was over. She had loved him so entirely for himself, for the great, generous heart of his, that seemed large enough to take in all mankind as his brothers, that she had not once thought of the difference in their circumstances, for he was rich as she was poor.

Now she had heard her name coupled with the obnoxious terms, "adventuress" and "fortune-hunter," and the prophecy that "if Mr. Carlton married her he would soon know, as did all others, that it was his wealth that won her."

She did not know that the remark had been made expressly for her ear, had been made, too, with the unuttered hope that its barbed bitterness might rankle in her heart, for had she not dared to, kindly but unmistakably, refuse the attentions of the speaker's son?

Keenly sensitive to the opinions of others, she might yet have dared their censure if this latter suggestion had not given her pause. She loved him so truly she could not bear that he should think of her, even for a moment, as she thought of Harry Vance; better that they should part at once and forever. This was what she had told herself again and again every hour of that long day and night.

"If she was sure, quite sure," she told herself, "that her willingness to accept him had not been caused, in part at least, and almost unconsciously to herself, by her intense hatred of the drudgery of teaching, she would not give a thought to what others might think or say, but she must be sure, quite sure, herself, then"——but the day had been so wearying, she was so tired, she must have time to think it all out. But time she was destined not to have, for scarcely had the echoes of the shout of the last emancipated urchin died away in the distance when Mr. Carlton came up to the unpainted pine desk where the young teacher sat with her head bowed upon her hand.

Her face was so pale; she did not look up and smile as she was wont to do; her whole attitude was so suggestive of weariness, if not of despair, she was such a wee morsel of humanity and he was so strong and manly that somehow, before he well knew what he was saying, he was telling her his passionate longing to take her into his arms and shield her henceforth from every discomfort.

She looked up then, with something of the look the hunter sometimes sees in the eyes of a wounded doe, looked up, and crushed the hope out of his heart with a cold refusal.

Then came, for her, the slow agony of living on, day after day, knowing that she had in that one hour of weakness cast aside all that made life worth living; of walking daily through the furnace of trial, with the ghosts of her dead hopes ever reproaching her with the cowardice that put an end to their bright but brief existence.

So two years drifted by, and along the thorny pathway that she trod Ellice Gray learned priceless lessons of self-reliance and courage; learned to be a law unto herself, and, once having chosen a pathway, knowing it to be right, grew strong to follow it steadfastly to the end, though a thousand tongues might censure.

Within a month after his rejection Roy left his affairs in the hands of his steward, to whom he gave power of attorney, and went away to the city. A year passed, and the dishonest steward, turning everything except the Carlton homestead into money, gathered his booty and fled; and no one knew Roy's address.

Ellice Gray knew nothing of this. When vacation came she had given up her school, for she could not stay where everything reminded her of Roy. She was teaching in a distant village, when one morning the postman brought her a letter which proved to be from a former pupil in Shafton, Roy's home. It told of the loss of his property, stated that he had of late returned to his home, that while in the city he had joined a volunteer corps of firemen and while in the discharge of this duty had been struck on the head by a falling timber and carried away insensible.

"When he revived," the letter went on to say, "he was blind. The physicians talked of paralysis of the optic nerve, thought time or electric treatment, when he had somewhat recovered from the shock, might be beneficial, but," said the letter, "Mr. Carlton does not get better, he seems to have lost all interest in life." Then the letter went on to give the other news of the village, but Ellice did not read it.

Hastily she prepared for her journey and when the next train left the station it bore her in the direction of Shafton.

The rosy blushes chased each other over her otherwise pale cheeks whenever she thought of her errand, but she did not falter, even when she rang the bell at the "Squire's" and was ushered, by the prim housekeeper, into the empty parlor. Her heart beat tumultuously as she heard the slow, uncertain step come down the stairs and the hand grope for the knob of the door. He came in and closed the door, then stood moving his head from side to side, as if looking for some one.

"I beg your pardon," he said at last, for Ellice did not speak, "but does any one wait to see me? I am blind."

"Yes, Roy," Ellice answered, in a choked voice, putting out her hand to lead him to a seat. It was the first time she had ever called him by his given name, and she saw the light flash over his face.

"Ellice, oh, my darling!" he exclaimed, then he stammered, "forgive me, Miss Gray, that I forgot for a moment. It was very kind of you to come."

"I fear you will think the motive selfish when I have given you my reasons for coming," she replied, struggling bravely for composure as she sat down near him. Then: "The train leaves in two hours, and I must return, so you will pardon me if I am somewhat abrupt in naming my errand?"

"Certainly," he replied, courteously.

"Well," said his visitor, somewhat weakly, striving to gain time, now that the decisive moment had come, "the fact is, I am thinking of getting married."

"Ellice," he said, brokenly, "it was cruel to come here to tell me that. Did you think I had still any hopes that you cared for me, that you should come here to kill them with that announcement?"

"No, she replied, and then, as no other words would come, sat staring helplessly at his pale face, as he leaned against the cushions of his chair. Presently she arose and stood beside him, letting her fingers toy with the crisp, dark curls that shaded his brow.

"Roy," she whispered, hurrying into speech, lest her courage should fail, "Roy, don't you know that I love you better than anyone else in the world? I loved you then, but I love you a hundred times more now. My life has been one long regret ever since. I came here today to ask you to marry me. Don't refuse me, Roy. I have suffered enough for my mistake and I love you."

"Oh! Ellice," he cried, between pain and pleasure, "how can I consent? It would be such a sacrifice."

"I know it Roy," she answered, wilfully misunderstanding him, "when you are worthy of the best woman living, but only let me be your wife and I will try so hard to make you happy."

"I am blind," he murmured, hopelessly.

"Let me be your eyes. Oh! Roy," she sobbed, turning away and covering her face with he hands, "don't send me away. I cannot bear it. I cannot live without you."

He was silent for a moment, then he arose and turned towards her.

"It seems unmanly to accept your sacrifice, Ellice, he cried," "but my life is so dark, and," his voice grew infinitely tender, "I love you so, come to me little one," holding out his arms, "for I cannot see you."

Then, as he clasped her to his heart, and kissed the warm lips so near his own, he whispered:

"I never knew before what the deprivation the loss of sight is."

"And how soon can we be married, darling?" he asked, as she was about to leave him.

"Whenever you wish, Roy," she replied.

"Really?"

"Yes, really," she answered.

"To-day, then," he said, promptly.

"Oh, well, not quite so soon as that," she said, laughing, "but in a fortnight, perhaps; yes, two weeks from to-day."

"It will be an age," he declared, kissing her good-by.

A week later she received a few lines from him. The words were blotted and the letters uneven, but she did not think of that, for he wrote:

"You brought me sight. I can distinguish the shape of the paper upon which I write, and I live in hopes that when we meet I shall be able to see your dear face."

And that hope was not in vain.—New York Journal.

Bears Catching Salmon.

The Carbon River is a wild, turgid stream, fed by the great glaciers at the base of Mount Tacoma. It tears down through a region indescribably grand and picturesque, and as it rushes onward toward Puget Sound other streams join it until it is a broad and sweeping affluent. Almost all the way along this river fish and wild animals of many sorts are to be found in abundandance. Henry Thorndyke, of Carbonado, is at a down-town hotel.

"Did you ever hear," said he yesterday to an Examiner man, "how the bears fish for salmon on the Carbon River? They do for a fact. I live on the margin of the river, and I pledge you my word that in the Bottomless Canyon, twelve miles from my home, I have seen as many as three bears within a scope of a mile, sitting at the river's brink and fishing as industriously as any man you ever saw. Others in the same vicinity have seen many of them ofteutimes. They are black bears, and live in the thick woods along the stream.

"The fish they particularly like are the hook-nosed salmon, a large fish, not well liked by most persons on account of their age. The fish get up in the Carbon River, and, being unmolested by men, stay there. The noses of the old ones are long and hooked. The bears sit on the side of the stream, watch their chance, and swipe them up as they come along. There's a great many in the river, and, being largely unmolested, they are pretty tame. The bears often rake out fish there that are a couple of feet or more long. Well, so many of these hook-nosed salmon do these bears eat that people do not like the bear meat, it is so fishy. The result is that it is a great country for bears, too. There are lots of them, and they are as fat as butter. From one end of the Carbon River to the other bears in profusion are to be found."—San Francisco Examiner.

Raising Telegraph Poles.

"It looks easy enough," said a superintendent of the construction department of a telephone company, the other day to a New York Commercial Advertiser reporter, "to put up one of those sticks, but it isn't so simple as it looks, by any manner of means. One of the first things we meet when we start out is the public spirited citizen. He don't want to have a pole in front of his house, and he generally declares he won't have. We don't argue with such men, we simply get around bright and early in the morning, and when Mr. Man gets up he sees a pole towering up some eighty feet in the air. When we get ready to sink a pole we drop what we call a sheer pole and hold it in place by four guy ropes. On the top of this pole is a block and tackle. The rope is then made fast to the centre of the big pole on the ground, and the horse to which the other end is attached starts up. The pole rises in the air, and when it gets up a certain height half a dozen of our men take hold of the butt end and sink it into the hole. It takes about twenty men and a horse to put up one of these monsters, and we can put up from eight to ten per day in the city. In the country, where we erect poles all the way from forty to fifty feet, we can raise anywhere from fifty to seventy-five per day. As to the pay of these men, some get $30 per month and board, and the more expert climbers $40 per month and board. The hanging of the wire is quite a trick. The horse does his share in stringing the wire also. We attach the copper wire to a rope and then throw the rope over a dozen poles. The horse is at the last pole, and when he starts up the wire is drawn just as tight as can be. The whole business is now right down to a science, even to gripping the poles and stringing the wires."

Paupers in England and Wales.

The number of paupers in England and Wales steadily declined during the five weeks ended in April from 742,957 to 729,098. Indeed, since the fourth week in January, when the number was 788,498, there has been a continuous decline, uninterrupted, save in the third week in March, when there was a slight increase on the preceeding week. The number 829,690 represents a population of 36.2 in 1,000 in a total estimated population of 27,870,586. This figure is equal to that of the same period in 1884, and slightly larger than for 1885 (25.9) but it is smaller than any year since 1857. In London with an estimated population of 4,149,548, the number at the end of April was 96,654, the five weeks in April showing a constant decrease. This shows a proportion of 23.1 in 1,000, which is a trifle higher than that of any of the previous three years—for instance, 1885, the lowest known, shows a proportion of 22, and neither 1884 nor 1886 reached 23 in 1,000. Of the total number of paupers 180,816 were indoor and 548,282 outdoor; while in London the numbers were 58,033, and 38,621 indoor and outdoor, respectively.—London Times.

Parents sometimes need instruction as much as the children [illegible]

BUDGET OF FUN

HUMOROUS SKETCHES FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

The Trouble at Sandy Flat—The Moon at Its Best—Too Much Fuss—Seeing the Sea Serpent, Etc.

He'd jes' come down frum Roarin' Run, he told the boys he met,
An' he'd come down to wade in blood an' hev a time, you bet;
Fer he'd heered the Flat were some on the fight an' shoot an' kill,
An' that they kinder blowed erround they thought he'd get his fill;
But he allowed 'twould jes' be fun,
Ter swing erround a ten-inch gun,
An' learn 'em all ter hev respect fer men frum Roarin' Run!

He explained he were a slycone as could tear an' snort and rip—
He'd then perceed to do it all ef they give him any lip;
That when he fit he al'ays come a-sweepin' like a gale,
An' ef he had a enemy he camped right on his trail;
An' that they'd say he weighed a ton
About the time the fight begun,
An' that Harney's Peak were on 'em when they'd done with Roarin' Run!

He stepped up to a feller as he 'lowed 'u'd make a bite,
An' slapped him one, he said, "ter inaugerate the fight;"
But the cuss he swung a billiard cue that knocked him on the floor,
An' then he kicked him through the screen as stood up by the door;
An' then they 'lowed the fight were done,
About the time that it begun,
An' the terror scooted up the gulch that led toward Roarin' Run!

—Dakota Bell.

The Moon at Its Best.

"When do you think the moon is at its loveliest, George, dear?" she asked.

George, dear, stole his arm and a cautious glance around the immediate vicinity, and whispered:

"When it is behind a cloud, love," and they were as happy as if they had each taken a hypodermic injection of morphine.—New York Sun.

Too Much Fuss.

Johnny Fizzletop is not as industrious at school as he might be, and his father endeavors to correct the evil.

"So you were kept in again to-day at school for not knowing your lesson. Just walk into that room," said old Fizzletop, hunting for a strap.

"O no, pa. Don't for heaven's sake let us have another of those scenes."—Siftings.

Seeing the Sea Serpent.

Pauline (who is very sentimental)—"Oh, dear, I would so love to see that sweet, precious sea-serpent while we are here at the shrine of Neptune?"

Claude (who is aggravatingly practical)—very well, my love; I'll tell you how you can have your wish gratified."

Pauline (rapturously)—"What a dear, kind husband you are! Tell me, my angel, how I can get a glimpse of the fascinating creature."

Claude (deliberately)—"Just before you retire to-night eat heartily of devilled crabs, lobster salad, pickles, pie, ice cream and milk. That will bring out all the mythological monsters ever created."

He Was Rewarded.

"Is the lady of the house in?" asked a Western Addition tramp of the presiding genius of a small Grove street residence.

"No, she is not," was the answer, for the man was obviously a beggar and unwelcome.

"How particularly unfortunate," said the outcast, as he turned away with a look of settled melancholy in his face. "I am really very sorry for I heard some gentlemen across the street saying that the lady who lived here was a perfect picture of the beautiful Mrs. Langtry and I felt sure it was yourself, madam, as soon as you came to the door."

He had three kinds of pie and hot coffee.—San Francisco Post.

Lucky for the Burglar.

Mr. Poots—"Where is that burglar, Maria? Where is he? Where's the villain gone?"

Mrs. Poots—"Gone to the station-house. Oh, dear, I'm so distracted. A policeman came and took him. Oh, John, why did you leave me all alone when the alarm rung and run into the garret?"

"Why did I run into the garret? I kept my arms in the garret, that's why."

"But you've been gone an hour."

"Took over an hour to oil up my gun and grind my hatchet. But it's lucky for the burglar that my arms were not in order."—Siftings.

He Didn't Count on the Plaster.

There is a young man living in Columbus, a good-looking fellow, who has a sweetheart out in the country a few miles, and he spends two evenings in every week in her society. A few nights ago he stayed to the usual hour, and as he passed out the front door he discovered that it was cloudy and dark. He did not relish the idea of walking home alone through the gloomy night, and hinted a good deal to get an invitation to remain, but it was not forthcoming. But the young man was equal to the emergency. Going down the steps he artfully contrived to slip and fall gently to the ground. Thereupon he quickly set up a tremendous groaning. The ruse worked admirably. The girl screamed and the men came and carried the young man tenderly into the house. Then he was assisted to undress and deposited in the spare room. He had barely begun to chuckle over the success of the stratagem when the girl's mother put in an appearance, armed with a mustard plaster a foot square. This she immediately proceeded to clap on the young man's shoulders, where he incautiously located the damage to his frame. For two mortal hours that woman sat by the bed, and was not satisfied till she beheld a blister an inch deep. The young man is now reformed.—Columbus Courant.

Caused by Thought.

"Your hair is much thinner than it was when I last met you," said a man addressing an acquaintance.

"Yes, considerable of it came out."

"How do you account for it?"

"Thought."

"What! you don't mean to say that thinking caused it to come out?"

"Yes."

"That goes to prove that baldness is often caused by mental work. I have for some time been thinking of preparing an article on that subject, and I would like for you to give me your experience."

"Well, I can do so in a few words. Several weeks ago I was talking to a fellow named Jackson. We were engaged in a dispute concerning the settlement of a debt, and directly after thinking of something my hair began to fall out."

"I don't understand it."

"I do. I said what I thought, and he reached after me."—Arkansaw Traveler.

Where He Wanted to Get Off.

The other day a man got aboard of a train on the Detroit and Lansing road, accompanied by a big dog, and in due course of time the baggageman walked back into the car and said:

"Mister, that dog must go into the baggage car."

"I guess not."

"But I guess he will! No dogs are allowed to ride in passenger cars."

"Well, we'll wait and hear what the conductor says. He is a friend of mine, and if he says the dog can't ride here, that will settle it."

It was half an hour later before the conductor, accompanied by the baggageman, got around to the man.

"That dog must come out o' here!" announced the conductor.

"For why? He isn't hurting anybody."

"Because no dogs are allowed in the cars."

"And if I don't take him to the baggage car you'll—"

"Put him off."

"If you put him off," replied the man, after taking a look from the window, "I shall go with him. My dog is just as good as I am."

"Will you take your dog forward?"

"No, sir."

The train was stopped and the dog led out and pushed off the platform.

"Are you going, too?" queried the conductor, with his hand on the bell-rope.

"Yes, I guess I will. I live in that farm-house over there, and if I go on to Howell, where I bought my ticket to, I'll have to walk four miles back. Much obleeged to you, conductor. I just kind o' figgered to have the dog put off at the right spot."—Detroit Free Press.

A Nose Renovator and Eye Painter.

There is a modest little tin sign in black and white in a Sixth avenue doorway that attracts much attention. It reads:

NOSES
Repaired, Reduced, Enlarged and Painted.

Up three flights of stairs in a dingy, ill-furnished back room the reporter found the Professor. His sleeves were rolled up, and he was perspiring over a male patient with a broken nose. The patient reclined in an invalid's chair behind a paper screen. After ten minutes' work the bone was set and the man liberated.

"I can take the fiery redness from a nose in five minutes," the Professor said, "and give it a pure flesh-colored tint. The preparation I use, although vulgarly called nose paint, is really a lotion. It instantly changes the hue of the skin, which, after repeated applications, resumes its normal color. Price, $1 a sitting, and a cure guaranteed for $5."

"You advertise to reduce and even enlarge noses. Can you do that?"

"Certainly, although it is far easier to enlarge than to reduce. The process for enlarging is simple, and is effected by means of a mechanical appliance placed over the organ. By exhausting the air it forces blood to the part, and in perhaps a month, no matter if it is the veriest little pug before treatment, the nose becomes a thing of symmetry and beauty."

"How do you reduce the size of a nose?"

"Well, sir, the easiest way would be to cut it off, I suppose," facetiously remarked the Professor, with a ghastly grin; "but I adopt another method. Of course, it would be unbusinesslike for me to give details so I will only say that the desired result is attained largely through rubbing, dieting and bathing in a liquid of which I am the inventor. Price $10 for the full course of treatment."

"Who are your patients?"

"My best customers are young society swells who in trying to paint the town have got themselves into fights in which their noses are either broken or flattened, and their eyes put in mourning. I put them in good trim again and send them on their way rejoicing. Up to date," and the Professor consulted a memoranda, "I have enlarged 81 noses, reduced 17, painted 105 red ones, mended 44, and dressed over 200 black eyes. Oh, yes, it's an odd business: still I manage to make a comfortable living by it."—New York Sun.

A City of Bicycles.

Washington is the city of bicycles, says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Record. Its smooth streets make it the best "riding town" in the world. There are two or three flourishing clubs, a "cycleries," where you can hire a "bike" or a "trike" by the hour, as though it were a livery stable hack, to say nothing of hundreds of men and women who are independent of the formal organizations. Like bicyclers everywhere, Washingtonians know that it is their business to get around pedestrians, and not the business of the pedestrians to get away from them. Therefore they regard bells as useless and lanterns as worse than useless, because their only effect is to make the steering hard. But the triumvirate of District Commissioners take a different view, and among other municipal regulations just put in force, is one requiring the bicyclers to carry and use both bells and lanterns. This regulation roused indignation in the bicycler's breast. He complied with it the first day by hanging a discordant cow-bell on his "machine" and carrying a torchlight over his shoulder. Thus equipped, he paraded in large numbers up and down in front of the residence of the Commissioners until he had worked off his spleen. He has come down to the regulation bell and lamp, however. He annoyed himself the first day more than he did the Commissioners.

In Germany the school history [illegible] to events down to 1815 only [illegible] country it goes down to [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 6, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Four more cases of cholera reported in New York city.

The road between Birmingham and Memphis has been completed.

President Cleveland is meeting with a cordial reception wherever he goes in the West.

James Gordon Bennett will publish a newspaper in Paris to be known as the European Herald. It will be modeled after the New York Herald.

Nearly $15,000,000 of actual cash has been paid out by the government this month. This reduces the national debt and puts this money in circulation for it must seek investment.

The Birmingham Herald is at the top round of enterprising Southern journalism. Last Sunday's issue was the largest and best patronized as well as the most readable newspaper ever issued in Alabama.

It is said that the second congressional district of Tennessee voted prohibition for the sake of Congressman Houk, all other means to keep him sober having failed. But isn't it a slam on the second Tennessee that it should have a gutter-snipe to represent it in Congress?

Schools and colleges all over Alabama have had auspicious openings. The State University opened with 200 in attendance. The Southern University at Greensboro with 150. The A. & M. College and the Howard both had good openings notwithstanding the disadvantages under which they are temporarily placed. This speaks well of the condition of the people.

Foraker's Soliloquy:—Was I snubbed or was I not snubbed, that is the question. I, by my reading of the public prints, know not if insult hath been heaped upon me, or whether I received that which was my meed. Of this I'm certain. If perchance, fair Frances offered not her hand. I'm heartily glad o't. For by that deed she gave to me that fame which before I dreamed not of. By all my jugglery of truth, and waving of the blood stained ragged shirt of war, I ne'er attained so much distinction as I now enjoy. Long live the snub.—Birmingham Chronicle.

The Montgomery Dispatch is rejoicing over the prosperity which surrounds the second anniversary of its birth. The Dispatch assuredly fills a broad and useful field in Alabama journalism. Very recently the principal stock-holder Col. D. S. Troy was denounced in rather unceremonious terms by an anonymous scribe who seems to have crawled into a hole and pulled the hole in after him. We are barely acquainted with Col. Troy, but we remember having one of the Troy family as a near neighbor for a number of years, and we don't believe the country furnishes many better people. We have heard only good of the Montgomery branch of the family. But if Col. Troy is not all that he should be, a redeeming feature is that he is backing a good paper.

Light from Lucifer.

An emissary of the Great Dragon broke into our office the other night and left the following:

To the View:—My purpose is to give your readers a little light from the darker realm. I am a partner of Belzebub in the regions of the damned. Many have supposed we were one and the same. A mistake. We constitute a fiery combine, and our business is a tremendous trafic in sulphur and brimstone in this arena of flame. If the firm is not flourishing it is kept well warmed up with the business in hand.

Revivals in the upper sphere have just snatched from us timber—mortal souls—that we had counted within our grasp. We felicitate them upon their escape from a terrible, a horrible fate, for such is life in this piping pit.

I once led a better life than I now lead, and had not a thought of arriving at or suffering the horrible tortures of this Kingdom of Sin. My purpose here is to increase the number of subjects under the sceptre of Gog and Magog by every means fair or foul, high or low. My work is easy enough; my success astonishing and my reward fearful! And yet I am here, lamenting the religious revivals there.

I was once a young fellow who was called more cautious than teckless. In the world I thought I had no friends, and believed I had no enemies. I feared to make enemies and desired to make friends—popularity was the goal for which I saw fit to strive. I was but a man after the order of mammon. I found that if I made many friends where I was it might prove detrimental to my future life in the spirit world, but would serve my purpose on earth, and enable me to move onward and upward in the mundane sphere. I had been thrown among bad men. But I resolved to make friends of them fearing lest they might become my enemies. With this resolution formed, I had no difficulty in forming the friendships desired. The result: I was soon leading the van and I am now in this miserable abode of fire with all my earthly friends—who are my most bitter enemies here. They each and altogether charge me unceasingly with bringing them here, and I am even more sure that if I had never seen them I would not be here myself. I now see the folly of my worldly existence when it is too late to mend. I have learned that the man who is of any mortal account will have friends, likewise enemies. If he has neither and is not a simpleton, he can obtain a fine salary as the leading attraction in London Museum, as no such specimen of intellectual bipeds has ever been on exhibition there. I am lamenting here, when too late, over the knowledge that if I had permitted duty to be my guide—seeking neither friends nor heeding enemies—my fate would have been different. Instead of a demon of darkness, I might have been a Prince of Light.

There may have been other ways to fall. My mention is of the manner in which I fell. Experience is a terrible school. Such has been my school. And for him who will learn in no other, we have here a roasting place. There's the red hot grind stone to grind down his nose, and red hot rings to wear on his toes; and if he mentions that he don't like fire, I'll sew up his mouth with red-hot wire; and then, dear sir, you should see him squirm, while I roll him over and cook to a turn. And to the readers of this, you can each remember me as a suitor for your souls till you "shuffle off this mortal coil" and journey hence.

Yours with warmth,
Lucifer.

The State Treasury.

The Auditor will make no report this year, the law requiring them only every two years. The usual table of articles taxed and valuations are not therefore obtainable in printed form but are on file in his office. The assessors' returns show that they have done their work closely and faithfully. Sixty counties, out of sixty-six, have abstracts on file. The aggregate of taxes reported on them, to be collected during the fiscal year commencing to-day is $1,087,154.74 The counties of Clay, Covington, Dallas, Hale, Jackson and Russell have not yet reported. The aggregate of their taxes for the year just ended was $108,920.39. If they do as well for current year, as for the past; and of this there is scarcely a doubt, the grand total of taxes for the year ending September 30, 1888 will be $1,195,075 13. The total returns for taxes for the past year was $1,063,327.33. This makes an increase for the present over the past year of $132,747.80.

This is a remarkably good showing and is far beyond expectations It is on a tax basis of half a mill less than last year, and therefore shows a great increase in values. The utmost hoped for at the time of the tax reduction was that the same amount would be realized as under the higher tax. Not only has this been done, but there is a large increase. If the assessment had not increased there would have been a falling off at the reduced rate of over $90,000 and made this year's tax receipts foot up say $975,000. But not only is there no decrease or stand still, but the amount it was feared would be lost by decreased rates has been overcome and $132,747 additional secured. This is strong evidence of the good work done by Auditor Burke and the faithful assessors. The collectors for the past year are entitled to credit for their promptness as nearly every dollar reported on the abstracts last year has been collected and paid into the State Treasury.

While the county of Jefferson is entitled to the credit of reporting the largest, nearly every county in the State has made some increase. In many the amount was small. Only a few have shown a decrease. On the assessment to begin in January and which will be collected in the fiscal year commencing October, '88, the rate will be half a mill lower still, being 50 cents instead of 55 on the $100 worth of property. There will be no trouble in Alabama meeting all her obligations at that rate. There will be no increase in the rate of interest for nearly ten years, and from present indications there will be no call for extraordinary expenditures. If the treasury warrants it the appropriation for the schools ought to be increased, until they can be kept open at least six months in the year.—Advertiser.

A WORK OF ART.

The Production of a Montgomery Lady to be Presented to Mrs. Cleveland.

Florence Wave.

It has been our privilege as well as pleasure, to inspect one of the most unique and artistic productions of Mrs. M. D. Montgomery, of Montgomery, Ala., consisting of a picture made entirely of pressed flowers, representing a rich painting of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, copied from a wood cut in Harper's Bazar. The scene consists of a small landscape for a back-ground, the body of the trees being made from Alabama's magnolia blossom, the delicate tracing of the leaf and branch made from sweet-ferns. The stone steps appearing in the distance are made of white rose leaves; a little boat awaiting the advent of her liege lord is made from a section of hornet's nest gathered at the Natural bridge of Virginia. The entire costume of Mrs. Cleveland being of white satin is beautifully imitated in different shades, the white althea blossom; the garniture of orange blossoms is ingeniously constructed of alder buds and flowers. The chair in the immediate foreground upon which shell-like hands repose is composed of two shades of magnolia typifying the hardwood frame; the upholstering is represented in its full richness of light and shade by scarlet geraniums. The Russian rug upon which she stands is composed of hollyhocks, althea, cypress, geranium, petunia, roses, honeysuckle, tiger lilly, okra blossoms, magnolia, laurel and popy. This work of art being made from Alabama flowers by an Alabama woman is to be presented to Mrs. Cleveland as a souvenir of her highly appreciated visit to the "Iron Crowned Queen of the Southern States"—Alabama.

High License Catechism.

Q. What is high license?

A. It is a law which for a stipulated sum authorizes the rum-seller to manufacture drunkards.

Q. What raw material does the rum-seller manufacture?

A. Boys.

Q. Whose boys?

A. Anybody's boys—your neighbors and your own.

Q. What benefit is to be derived from a high license law?

A. It will elevate the business.

Q. What business?

A. The business of making drunkards.

Q. How does it propose to do this?

A. By shutting up the dead-falls and rendering the palace saloons more attractive.

Q. What is the difference between a dead-fall and a palace saloon?

A. A palace saloon is where the boys take their first lesson in crime; the dead-fall is where they graduate.

Q. What is the difference between prohibitionists and high licenists?

A. High licenists believe in putting whisky into a boy through a $1,000 funnel, and then putting the boy into the gutter. Prohibitionists believe in putting the whisky into the gutter and saving the boy.—Waco Advance.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. G. L. Skipper filled his regular appointment here Sunday morning and night.

Rev. C. W. Hare, editor of the Alabama Baptist, and family are here permanently.

Judge McDuffie and family from Lowndes have moved here to educate their children.

Miss Purifoy, of Furman, music teacher in high school, has thirteen pupils.

Mrs. Capt. Paine, has returned from the mountains of Georgia.

Miss Bertie Shepherd, of Hayneville, is visiting Dr. Caffey's family.

Young Mr. S. M. Brewer, of Tuskegee, made a very pleasant visit to Mr. Matthews family. Miss Sallie Evans Judkins is one of the family.

Miss Mamie Bivings, of Clanton, and Miss Jennie DeBardeleben, of Birmingham, spent some time with Mrs. Wingate.

Mr. Mitchell Williamson, of the Magic City came to see his father's family and a friend or two.

Mr. Wm. G. Merriwether, of this place has eleven acres in cotton, and will make nine good bales full weight.

Mr. W. M. Pyron caught six trout from his pond, that weighed thirty seven pounds. The largest one weighed seven and a half pounds. Ask Hugh and the Judge what they think of that.

The Dudes Know It.

Or if they don't they should know that Rangum Root Liniment cured Big Head in mules for W. E. Hunt, of Adairsville, Ky. J. H. Mallory, of Fort's Station, Tenn., cured his hogs of blind staggers with it. In fact this King of Liniments is invaluable for man and beast, and no family should be without it. Sold by all druggists.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR. LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT! DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To Mothers," mailed free.
Bradfield Regulator Co., Atlanta, Ga.

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON,
CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

NOTICE NO. 6647.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 7, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15th, 1887, viz: Noah L. Broadhead Homestead 18490 for the s ½ of s e ¼ sec 6, t 20 n r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Robert M. Robuck, E. F. Fuller, William F. Robuck, all of Maplesville, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6650.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 31, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15, 1887, viz: John Morris, declaratory statement 1266 for the w ½ of n w ¼ sec 24, t 24 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henry Jones William Greie, George Eatres, Jonathan Eatres, all of Shelby Iron Works, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6742.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on Nov. 11, 1887, viz: Ann Hicks, widow of George Hicks, Homestead 14680 for the n w ¼ sec 12 township 23 n, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Hightower and Jackson Campbell, of Randolph, Ala., and William Davis and Rebecca Hightower, of Jemison, Ala.

sep29 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE!

Pursuant to and by virtue of a commission issued by the Hon. Secretary of State on the 24th day of September, 1887, to the undersigned as incorporators of the Alabama Great Northwestern Railway Company, we will open or cause to be opened, books of subscription to the capital stock of said railway company on the 5th day of November, 1887, at the courthouse of the county of Chilton, in the town of Clanton, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

E. B. JOSEPH,
W. F. JOSEPH,
sep29-5t J. W. WOOLFOLK.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.
Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.
A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

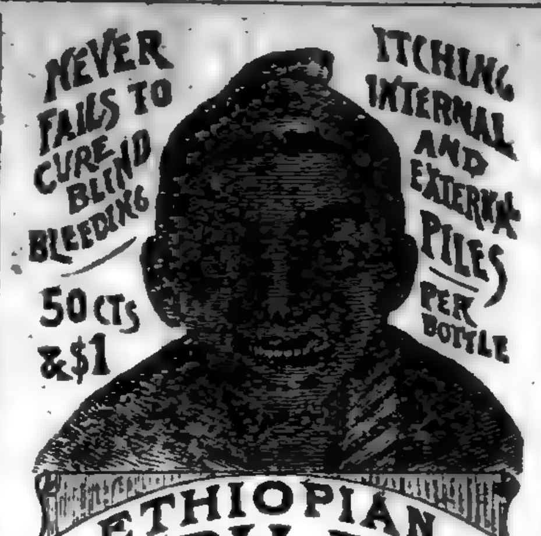
BILIOUS COLIC.
Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.
Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.
☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' RESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address
COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

THE LIGHT RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL.
30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO.
ATLANTA, GA.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

aug19-1y



NEVER FAILS TO CURE BLIND BLEEDING
50 CTS & $1
ITCHING INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL PILES PER BOTTLE

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT.

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT
CURES SPRAINS, BRUISES, RHEUMATISM SORE THROAT, SPAVIN SPLINT, RINGBONE EPIZOOTIC, Etc. 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

HODGES SARSAPARILLA
CURES RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA & ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD.
$1 PER BOTTLE. 6 FOR $5.

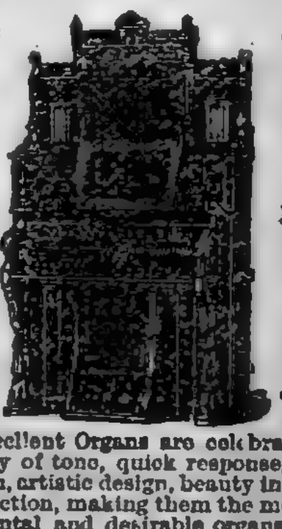
TANNERS INFALLIBLE NEURALGIA CURE
CURES ALL FORMS OF NEURALGIA & NERVIOUS HEADACHE. 50 CTS PER BOX.

SOLD EVERYWHERE
MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. Co
NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

L & N
(LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.)
THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS,
And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOMERY, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
(3) Louisville, Ky.

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries,
—AND—
General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.
Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.
FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY
1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.
☞ Fine Stock of Chess Catley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.
WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing
Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.
NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,
Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,
Are displaying a Complete and Varied Assortment of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes,
Clothing and Millinery.
Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.
R. E. BOLLING & SON,
Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.
Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.
SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

WILSON HOUSE.
A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.
The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.
Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.
Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.
Birmingham, Alabama.
Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.
☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜
We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.
WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

We are prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with
A. D. BENTLEY,
Att'y at Law, Clanton Ala., or
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma8'ly Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

A. J. MASSEY,
OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.
Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.
☞ Will go far and near.
Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

Now is a good time to place Fall advertisements.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 6, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	6:47 a. m.
No. 5	6:22 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	6:22 p. m.
No. 4	9:41 p. m.
No. 6	8:45 a. m.

Cotton Market.

BIRMINGHAM—Corrected weekly by Sol. D. Bloch & Co., cotton factors Market steady. Demand fair. Prices prevailing: Good Midling 8⅝c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8⅜c.

MONTGOMERY — Market quiet. Demand good. Good Middling 8⅝c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8⅜c.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Subscribe for the VIEW.

Clanton Academy has sixty pupils.

School satchels at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Read I. N. Langston's advertisement on next page.

Mrs. Lee Holt has been visiting relatives in Birmingham.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure is gentle in action, and warranted a certain cure. 50 cents a bottle.

Miss Myrtle Alvis, of Brierfield, is visiting relatives in Clanton.

Miss Mamie Bivings has returned from her visit to Birmingham.

Mr. W. D. Sartor's new residence is assuming immense proportions.

The danger of a malarial atmosphere may be averted if you will occasionally take a dose of Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure.

Capt. DeJarnette, of the steamer Jewel, is on a visit to his family at this place.

Miss Dalee Thornton, of this place, is visiting relatives in Birmingham.

H. L. Williams, Esq., of Wetumpka, was in Clanton last Thursday and paid us a call.

A disordered condition of the stomach, or malaria in the system will produce sick headache, you can remove this trouble by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 cts. per vial.

Confectioneries and family groceries at C. L. Phillips'. Call on him near the drug store.

Come to the VIEW office to buy school books, writing material and fancy stationery of all kinds.

Mr. Pou DeJarnette, of Birmingham, spent last Sunday with relative and friends in Clanton.

Mrs. McDonald and daughter, Miss Clara, of Memphis, Tenn., are visiting Mrs. McNeil in Clanton.

Mrs. Boykin and her daughter, Mrs. Glover, of Pratt Saw Mill, have visited friends in Clanton the past week.

Appetite and sleep may be improved, every part of the system strengthened and the animal spirits regain their bouyancy by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Our shooting club keeps up its weekly shootings and they seem to be much enjoyed by all the participants.

We want to hear something from our neighborhood correspondents about the crops and everything in general.

Slates, copybooks, pens, pencils, inks, mucilage, foot rules, penracks, &c., for sale at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Mr. Jno. Aldridge and wife, of Calera, visited the family of their brother, Mr. Peyton Aldridge, at this place last week.

New Goods.

I have added several new items to my stock, and have marked them down at reasonable figures. I have a nice lot of Jerseys at $1.00, $1.15, $1.25, and $1.75. Worsted dress goods of nice quality. A few shopping bags of fine material. Velvets in colors and black at 50 cts. per yard, for trimmings. Clothing, hats, and shoes for all who want to buy at low prices.

Mr. W. D. Courtney brought to our office this week some very fine apples which grew on his place. For which we return thanks.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Miss Mamie Marsh, formerly of this place, was married on Thursday last at Irondale, near Birmingham, to Mr. William Cook. We wish them the greatest joy.

Mr. Chas. K. Bivings, of Dunham, Ala., was up on a visit to relatives Sunday. Glad to see him looking so well and to know that he is prospering in his new home.

Sudden change of temperature and humidity of the atmosphere often produce disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Use Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm to check these troubles in their incipiency.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which causes burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

Wanted, 500 bushels cotton seed for which I will pay the highest market price in cash.

L. A. THORNTON,

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 6th, tf.

Mr. W. M. Wilson's horse ran away with him last Thursday and throwing Mr. Wilson off sprained one of his legs so badly that he has been unable to be out at his business since.

Mr. Jno. Maxwell, of this place, while getting off his horse last Thursday accidentally fell and falling with his right arm under him broke the bones between the elbow and wrist.

Mr. B. H. Chestnut, who has been at home sick for several weeks past has recovered sufficiently to return to his post at Youngblood & Ehrman's lumber yard in Birmingham.

Undue exposure to cold winds, rain, bright light or malaria, may bring on inflamation and soreness of the eyes. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve will subdue the inflamation, cool and soothe the nerves, and strengthen weak and failing Eye sight. 25 cents a box.

Unsuspected disorders of the kidneys are responsible for many of the ordinary ailments of humanity which neglected, develop into a serious and perhaps fatal malady. Experience would suggest the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

Mr. A. D. Bentley, is absent this week attending court at Rockford. Mr. Bentley is now associated with H. L. Williams, Esq., of Wetumpka, as agent for the loan of money on improved farm lands. See their card in our advertising columns.

Births.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Callen, of this place, on the 28th ult., a son.

To Mr. and Mrs Lee Stewart, also of this place, on the morning of 3rd inst., a daughter.

A negro woman, wife of Rich Mitchell, accidently shot herself in a singular manner on Friday afternoon last at Cooper's Station. She was driving a nail into a hole in which a loaded cartridge had been placed by some one. The cartridge exploded and rebounding inflicted a fatal wound in the abdomen, from which death resulted next day.

A beautiful woman must be healthy, and to remain healthy and beautiful she should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It imparts tone and flush to the skin, strength, vigor and pure blood; is equally adapted for all ages, from the babe to the aged, of either sex.

If the stomach performs its functions actively and regularly the food of which it is the receptical, is transformed into blood of a nourishing quality, which furnishes vigor and warmth to the whole body, the remedy to give tone to the stomach is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Dr. Sam Johnson has a cow that has learned to grabble potatoes, so his colored hostler tells us. She was turned into the patch to pasture; and would eat the vines to the hill and then go into the hill for the potatoes. If the animal has really been getting away with the Doctor's potatoes without assistance from the darkey, she ought to be carried to the Fair.

Notice

Is hereby given to all persons forewarning them not to trade for a certain promisory note executed by me on or about the 30th of June, 1887, to S. A. Blasingame for five hundred dollars payable 1st of February, 1888, as there is a complete failure of consideration for which said note was given. I shall not pay it, neither shall I pay forfeiture on said building unless the well proves otherwise than fraud.

A. J. MASSEY.

Sept. 22d, 1887.

Through the Fields.

A scribe took a trip to Verbena last week by buggy. The crops along the route on each side of the railroad seem to be turning out much better than was expected a month ago. Taking a sigzag route Verbena was approached from the northwest in order to go through Maj. G.'s famous elm grove. For this feature of the landscape there is a future ahead—in the distance—Major.

That accommodating merchant, Mr. Brooks, was found so busy selling goods "for cash across the counter," that it is not even probable he would have stopped to talk about running for Congress. Such is the contentment brought about by judicious advertising. Returning by the route east of the railroad the crops along the way were found to be excellent. The cotton crop around the Mitchell place was particularly good. The country along this road showed considerable improvement in the way of new houses and new lands opened for cultivation; and altogether an encouraging growth.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicine in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

Negro Killed.

On last Friday night a negro named Simon Young went to the house of another negro, Albert Hill, one mile east of Cooper's, and raised a disturbance. Hill reports that on coming into the house Young struck him (Hill) on the head with a hatchet. Hill then grasped a gun which Young had brought with him. Hill's wife and another woman living in the house came to his assistance and in the struggle which ensued for possession of the gun, the weapon was discharged, the contents entering Young's head, killing him instantly. It seems from all reports that the blame was on Young as he went to the house armed and was first to begin the affray. Hence no arrest has been made. Hill was not seriously hurt.

I Told You So.

Mr. E. A. Ireland, of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tenn., says: "I was afflicted with piles for twenty years, and I tried every remedy offered me; finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment. It gave me instant relief, and has effected a permanent cure." Sold by all druggists. sep 29

The protracted meeting at the Baptist church closed Monday night with an admirable and timely sermon by Rev. A. E. Burns from the text, "What meaneth this." After the sermon the ordinance of baptism was administered to six applicants for church membership. The congregations during the meeting seemed to increase with every sermon, and on the closing night the church building could not hold the people who had gathered, and numbers were forced to remain outside. There were seven accessions to the Baptist church by letter in addition to the six by experience. There were also four accessions to the Methodist church by letter.

Did You Ever.

W. H. Revels, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says: "I have been in the practice of medicine for over eighteen years, but never have I seen the equal of Hodges' Sarsaparilla. It has worked miracles here in curing Rheumatism and Scrofula. Have almost come to the conclusion that I cannot practice without it." Sold by all druggists.

The L. & N. railroad company are putting in two new side tracks at the depot at this place. This will give us five parallel tracks, causing our depot to present a very important appearance. The increase in its business at this place both as to receipts and shipments has made it necessary to have more side tracks to hold cars and give room for trains to pass at this point.

After Three Years.

W. F. Walton, of Springfield, Tenn., says: I have been suffering with Neuralgia in my face and head off and on for three years. I purchased a box of Dr. Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure and took eight of the pills. I have not felt any symptoms of Neuralgia since. It gives me pleasure to recommend it." Sold by all druggists.

Ex-Mayor Powell, of Union Springs, died Monday. He was the youngest son of Col. James B. Powell.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

NOTICE NO. 6679.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d 1887, viz: Tempy J. Oates, Homestead 13283 for the w ½ of n w ¼, the s e ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26 township 21 north range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, James R. Broadhead, Abram C. Mims, Sylvester Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6681.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 22, 1887, viz: John C. Arnold, Homestead 17903 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 24 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel Curry, Eli D. Barfield Gip G. West, John B. Moore all of Brierfield, Ala.

sep15 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6680.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d, 1887, viz: Sylvester Mims, Homestead 13479 for the w ½ of s e ¼ and s ½ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 21 north, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Oats, Jesse A. Culp, Daniel Dunnavin, and James R. Broadhead, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 5, 1887.

Complaint having been entered at this office by Taylor Davis against William Taylor for abandonding his Homestead entry No. 17157, dated Sept. 15th, 1885, upon the n w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4, township 20 north, range 16 east, in Chilton county, Ala. with a view to the cancellation of said entry; the said parties are hereby summoned to appear at this office on the 27th day of October, 1887, at 10 o'clock a. m., to respond and furnish testimony concerning said alleged abandonment.

J. G. HARRIS, Register.
sep 15 WM. C. JORDAN, Receiver.

NOTICE NO. 6739.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver United States Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on November 12, 1887, viz: Mary J. Thornton, Homestead 13247 for the n e ¼ sec 33, township 21 n, range 16 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Harrison Kendrick, Thomas P. Connel, Elijah Welden, Bud Kendrick, all of Verbena, Ala.

sep29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

THE

Verbena High School.

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MISS FANNY PURIFOY, Teacher of Music and Art.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class		$1 50
Intermediate Class		2 50
High School	"	3 00
Music	"	3 00
Collegiate	"	4 00

Tuition is payable in advance. Students will be prepared for any class in college.

W. A. Ricketts,

—DEALER IN—

Guns and Ammunition,

GUN AND LOCKSMITH,

205 20th St., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

RUBBER STAMP with your name in Fancy Type, 25 visiting Cards, and India Ink to mark Linen, only 25 cts. (stamps.) Book of 2000 styles free with each order. Agents wanted. Big pay. THALMAN M'F'G Co., Baltimore, Md. 0010-6m

SHOW WALL CENTRE RIBBON CASES

ARTISTIC STORE FIXTURES

Cedar Chests, Cabinets and Wardrobes.

TERRY SHOW CASE CO.

99 N. Cherry St., Nashville, Tenn.

CABINET WORK Catalogue Free

sep 8-y

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Having determined to anticipate the wants of the trade, I shall from October first, mark down my entire stock lower than any merchant in Chilton county and

Sell For Cash Across the Counter.

No exceptions made for anybody.

A. J. BROOKS.

Verbena, Ala., Sept. 23, 1887.

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES,
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 123. [july8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,

Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜

[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors,

Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chas Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜

Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,

Telephone 446. july

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds

Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT.

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

COME TO JEMISON
And Buy Your Goods at the
CHEAP CASH STORE
—OF—
I. N. Langston.
NO SHODDY GOODS!
LOW PRICES
"QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS" IS MY MOTTO.
I can sell you Anything you want to buy, and will pay Highest Market Price for your Cotton and Produce.

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager.
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y)

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street
LOUISVILLE, KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
For Catalogue Address College as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS STAIR RAILS,
Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will causes you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

ADVERTISE NOW.
We will insert you a nice, well-displayed advertisement at as low rates as any first-class paper can afford to do. Advertising rates made known on application.
SUPPORT YOUR HOME PAPER.

JOB PRINTING
Neatly and Expeditiously —EXECUTED—
AT THIS OFFICE!

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

Breeding Dairy Cows.

Henry Stewart says, in the Agriculturist: "The art of breeding is governed by a few rules which are simple and easy to understand. The first and most important of these is that 'like produces like,' by which is meant that animals of certain peculiarities of form, color, character, disposition, habit and quality, when bred together, reproduce their own characteristics in their progeny. This rule has been so uniformly and constantly proved by practice, and is so reasonable and natural, that it may be taken as a safe guide in the rearing of dairy cows. Every person may see it proved by practice every day of his life. There is more or less of family likeness in persons as well as in inferior animals. The progeny of a Jersey is always a Jersey, and the same is true of all other breeds. A good rich milker produces calves that are good milkers, provided the bull is also of a good milking family. It is the fashion to assert that only pure breeds have this physiological power of propagating their own characteristics. All animals possess this power to some degree, however, and by a careful course of selection this natural proclivity may be encouraged, developed and strengthened until the breed, as it is then called, has this power in an eminent degree and the progeny partakes very closely of the character of the parents. This is the point to be aimed at by dairymen, who should first learn by careful tests which are the best cows, then seed them liberally to develop their qualities to the fullest extent, breed them to males of known hereditary excellence, and pursue the same plan with their progeny. The male should be selected from some pure breed, not haphazard, but after careful investigation of its antecedents, and especially of its parentage. Milking quality is the only point to be considered, for this alone brings the profit desired. A dairyman should look to his special business for his profit, and never be induced to compete with professional breeders in the rearing of stock for sale. Hundreds of dairymen have been misled into disastrous losses during the progress of what might be called the Jersey speculation, during seven or eight years past, by purchasing at high prices animals belonging to certain families which were popular at the time, but whose popularity was soon eclipsed by new favorites. It matters not what breed is chosen. If it is the Shorthorn, the Holstein-Friesian, the Jersey, the Guernsey, or Ayrshire, as good a bull as can be afforded should be purchased, and this may be safely done if the pedigree is right, and the milking quality of his dam and both his grandams has been found satisfactory. It is more profitable to pay a large price for a good animal than a small price for a poor one. The bull is half the herd, as regards the calves, and more that that when it is procured for the purpose of improving native stock. The spare male calves may be easily disposed of to neighbors who are not so particular, or not so experienced in this respect, for some advance on the common stock, and will in good part repay the cost of the sire. Breed is undoubtedly dependent upon feed. Feeding and training have given the value to the breed, and this value must be kept up by feeding and training. The mistake is often made of getting a pure bred animal and subjecting it to all the careless management which is given to the common stock, and expecting that this animal, by virtue of its parents' character, can lift up the common herd, and double or treble its value in a few years. Such a hope is doomed to disappointment from the outset. When a pure animal is brought into a herd its care should be at least equal to that which it has been used to, and the very same system of feeding and general management should be followed with the whole herd. If this practice is carried out, the desired end will surely be reached."

Farm and Garden Notes.

Don't keep ahead of the weeds, but go hot after them.

Do not allow potatoes to be exposed to the sun any longer than is needed to dry them.

Mixed farming is most useful in keeping up the soil to a degree of fertility. The specialties engaged in should be in keeping with the soil and conditions of the farm.

It is poor economy to use old and dirty sections for comb honey. It will pay better to commit all such to the flames and buy new and clean sections for new and delicious honey.

Every time you use the cultivator in order to kill out the grass and weeds you are at the same time stirring the soil, thereby admitting more air to the roots of the plants, providing a greater amount of moisture and converting the insoluble substances into plant food.

Many farmers who have an abundance of straw are too careless about stacking it. The stack should be well built, even if one intends to rot the straw. Dry straw is comparatively light and easy to handle, and it can be thrown from the stack and scattered over the yard from time to time without much trouble.

German millet, sown and lightly harrowed in, in the proportion of one bushel of seed per acre, makes an excellent crop for summer. But it must be cut as soon as it shall be in blossom, for if allowed to ripen its seed, it will become hard and woody. On good, well-manured land it should produce two tons of hay per acre.

A Missouri fruit grower has found bagging a perfect preventive of grape rot if applied before the spores causing the rot has found a lodgement on the young berries. He thinks it is a safe rule for all grapes to be bagged by the time the Concord attains a size of, say, one-fourth of an inch in diameter, and as much sooner as possible.

Procure new crop turnip seed and have the ground fine. The rows may be wide apart, so as to allow for working with the cultivator. The ground should be as fine as an ash heap. Drop the seed in small clusters, about six inches apart in the rows, as the insects will often destroy young turnips. If too thick, when up they can be thinned out. Too much fine well-rooted manure cannot be used on turnips. Do not put turnips on ground occupied by corn the previous year.

To secure full blooming among roses after blooming in the spring, the strong new canes should not be cut back, but be allowed to remain and be bent down to or toward the ground, fastening them securely with pegs. In this position a great many shoots will start out with more or less bloom. In the following spring cut away as much of the previous year's growth as may be thought best. Very strong growing kinds can be allowed more wood than the weaker ones.

Sometimes it happens that geraniums from late spring cuttings, planted in rich moist soil, grow all to leaf and yield but few flowers. To do better than this they should become potbound and show bloom before planting out. Planting pots and all is of doubtful benefit. Better have the soil less rich by digging deep. With a moist season and rich soil no geraniums flower well. Old cutback plants, full of shoot and bloom, planted out the latter part of May, should flower well all summer.

Newly planted trees often suffer apparently for want of water, when really there is much moisture in the soil. This usually comes from the earth not having been packed in tightly about the roots at planting. Hence a good plan in such cases is to pound the earth with a heavy rammer around the trees. After this practice it will be noted often that the earth looks quite damp in the morning where it seemed hard and dry before. This is simply the pulverizing of the soil so much insisted on by gardeners of the old school.

The freight on a barrel of nice apples is no higher than on a barrel of culls. When they reach market the barrel of nice apples sells for something very soon, while the barrel of culls stands round until it looks worse and worse than at first. Then it has to be given away almost if sale is possible, or dumped out a total loss and worse if sale is impossible. In the one case there is pretty sure to be a satisfactory price realized over and above expenses, in the other almost with equal certainty a deficit to be made good. Can you or any one else, then, afford to ship poor goods to market?

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Beds and Bed Clothing.

The covering of a bed ought to be light as well as warm. Woolen blankets are far more healthful than are heavy comforters which admit of no ventilation, but instead, absorb and retain the exhalation from the body. Beds and bed clothing should be aired frequently. Many housewives consider the airing of the sleeping room all-sufficient, but this is a mistake. Not only should mattresses be turned and aired at least three times each week, but pillows and bolsters ought to be beaten, shaken and exposed to the sun every two or three days. If beds and their furnishings are not carefully cared for the bedding soon comes to have a stuffy, disagreeable odor, and that odor means sleepless nights, for perfect rest is gained only in a bed that is fresh and clean.

Treatment of Insect Stings.

The sting of insects, such as gnats, mosquitoes, etc., says Le Pharmacien Populaire, are often painful. In such a case apply spirit of hartshorn or volatile alkali to the part. Spider bites are not only painful, but often venomous, and it is necessary to wash them with salt water or diluted vinegar. The sting of the bee is harmful only when the sting remains sticking in the wound. So the first thing to be done is to press the wound in order to make it bleed, since the blood that flows will carry along a portion of the poison. Then suck the wound and wash it well with water, and then with a solution of knos powder. This latter, which is much used in England, consists of three parts of chloride of lime to eight of common salt. An ounce of this powder is to be dissolved in a tumbler of water. If this composition is not to be had, Goulard's extract may be used. For the sting of the scorpion, volatile alkali should be used, and after the pain subsides, an emollient cataplasm may be applied.

Health Hints.

To relieve earache, turn a drop of milk as hot as can be borne into the ear and cover it quickly with a bit of cotton batting.

It is claimed that the juice of a lemon squeezed into a cup of strong coffee will afford immediate relief in neuralgic headache.

Don't ask a convalescent if he would like this or that to eat and drink, but prepare the delicacies and present them in a tempting way.

For a gunpowder burn keep the wounds wet with a mixture of linseed oil and water for three days, and then apply vaseline to heal.

For poisoning from phosphorous, as when children suck matches, give a tablespoonful of magnesia, and then, freely, gum arabic water; less magnesia if only a little phosphorus is taken.

The following is a remedy for boils: Cut a ripe tomato into slices, and bind a slice over the boil. It affords almost instant relief, and effects a rapid cure, seeming to eat away the core rather than draw it, and is cool and very soothing in its effects. Change the poultice frequently, burning the refuse slices, as they are covered with poisonous matter.

Babies are much more susceptible to cold than are adults, yet a mother will go out warmly clad from head to foot and let her child patter along beside her with less than half of her protection. Another precaution should be to avoid exposing the babe to drafts of cold air from windows. Many a babe has had an attack of croup from this cause. The mother should give her intuitions a freer play, obey them and she will have less use for doctors.

The Largest Farm in the World.

Our Eastern farmer may obtain a new idea of large farms from the description given below, furnished to the St. Louis Republican by a correspondent. It is located in the southwest corner of Louisiana and extends 100 miles north and south and many miles east and west. It is owned and operated by Northern capitalists, whose general manager, J. B. Watkins, gives the following account of its working:

"The 1,500,000 acres of our tract," Mr. Watkins said, "was purchased in 1883 from the State of Louisiana and from the United States Government. At that time it was a vast grazing land for the cattle of the few dealers in the neighborhood. When I took possession I found over 30,000 head of half-wild horses and cattle. My work was to divide the immense tract into convenient pastures, establishing stations or ranches every six miles. The fencing alone cost in the neighborhood of $50,000. The land I found to be best adapted to rice, sugar, corn and cotton. All our cultivating, ditching, etc., is done by steam-power. We take a tract, say a half a mile wide, for instance, and place an engine on each side. The engines are portable, and operate a cable attached to four plows, and under this arrangement we are able to plow thirty acres a day with only the labor of three men. Our harrowing, planting and other cultivation is done in like manner. In fact, there is not a single draft-horse on the entire place. We have, of course, horses for the herders of cattle, of which we now have 16,000 head. The Southern Pacific Railroad runs for thirty-six miles through our farm. We have three steamboats operating on the waters of our own estate, upon which there are 300 miles of navigable waters. We have an ice-house, a bank, a ship-yard and a rice mill."—Our Country Home.

There is no suffering to a sensitive nature like that which comes from doubt.

SUPERSTITIONS OF ENGINEERS.

Railroad Men Who Obey Omens—The White Rabbit—A Pilot's Story.

"Railroad engineers, as a rule, are a superstitious class of persons," said an old railroad man. "They have foolish fancies and attach importance to signs and warnings; but I know of instances where hundreds of lives have been saved by engineers' fancies and superstitions. For over thirty years I have been a railroad conductor, and during that time I have seen and heard many things that under ordinary circumstances I would have discredited. One of the best engineers that ever ran on the West Shore Railroad was a man named Bronson. One morning, just before starting time, while he sat chatting with the fireman, the engine bell suddenly rang out three times. As neither the engineer nor fireman had touched the bell, and as no other person was on or around the engine, the men felt troubled over the strange circumstance. They regarded it as an ill omen and both men were filled with dread. The train started on its journey, and mile after mile was quickly traveled, the engineer meanwhile keeping an anxious lookout for danger. When within about an eighth of a mile of a rocky cut, the bell again, apparently of its own accord, sounded three ominous notes, clear and distinct. The engineer beside himself with terror, exclaimed: 'My God, Bill! It's a warning of some great danger, and I believe it's our duty to stop. I'm going to shut her down if I lose my place by it.' The engine came to a sudden standstill, and within ten feet of the engine, lying across the track was a great rock several tons in weight, which had become loosened by a recent storm, and broken away from the great mass above. A terrible calamity was averted and hundreds of lives saved.

"And now I'll tell you of another instance," continued the same speaker, "of how an engineer lost his life by not heeding a voice of warning. One of the most careful and trusted engineers on our road was James Welch. One morning his wife noticed that he was not in his usual cheerful frame of mind, and questioned him about it. He told her that he was not ill, but he said he had a premonition that he would be killed during the day. His wife, being a sensible woman, did not sneer or laugh at his fears, begged him to stay at home that day. Welch, who was a disbeliever in signs and omens, laughed at his fancies and went to his death. Two hours later the engineer was lying, crushed to death, at the bottom of a deep ravine."

"Yes, I know such things to be true," said another man. "Silly as it may seem, I wouldn't run a train after seeing a white rabbit cross the track, without first stopping to investigate, if I were to be made president of the road. I remember one dark night we were scooting across country at a pretty lively rate, when all of a sudden, I saw a white rabbit dart across the track just in front of the engine. The wee thing gave me such a look in that brief second that something compelled me to stop the train. The conductor and train men came rushing up to the engine to find out the cause of our sudden halt, and it didn't take long to find out either. Only a few feet ahead on the track were some heavy logs. They had most likely been placed there and tied down by tramps, who in the confusion of a frightful accident, such as would have taken place if I hadn't stopped the train, would have robbed and plundered the dead and dying passengers."

Ended at Last.

The other day a quiet lady, 74 years old, died in New York. She was comparatively unknown, and it was not until her death that her neighbors learned that she was Mrs. Emma A. Williams. She claimed to belong to Los Angeles, California, and was on a visit to a niece. Thirty years ago she was a Mrs. Cunningham. At that time she lived in New York, and among her lodgers was Dr. Harvey A. Burdell, a wealthy dentist, who was found dead on the floor of his room. He had several knife wounds in his body, but there was no clue to the perpetrator of the crime. Several of the inmates of the house were suspected, several arrested, but the most astute detective work of the century failed to unearth the murderer. Mrs. Cunningham claimed that she had been privately married to Burdell, and sued for a share of his estate, but was detected by the authorities in a deep-laid scheme by her producing a bogus baby, and her claims were rejected. She retired to California, where she married Mr. Williams, a man of wealth and position. In the course of time her husband deserted her, and she died comparatively poor. The case is recorded as one of the most mysterious in the annals of crime in this country.

Yes, He Drank Beer.

The fact that New York city consumes 6,000,000 barrels of beer annually—which, being averaged, gives each man, woman and child about five barrels—and considering the further fact that there is a large proportion of non-drinking persons, especially children, suggests the idea that there are many people in that metropolis who get more than their share of the amber Teutonic beverage; and it also suggests a story about an old German brewer, who was brought in as a witness to testify as an expert whether or not beer is intoxicating. The lawyer for the defence asked:

"Do you drink much beer?"

"Vell, I trink me a glass aboud efery ten minnid."

"Yes. Well, do you find it intoxicating?

"Nein."

The judge then asked a question:

"How much beer do you drink every day, sir?"

The brewer looked up with a somewhat puzzled expression, as if he had been plied with a problem impossible of solution, and finally blurted out:

"Vat you mean, shudge? Kegs?"

Pope Leo has received more than $150,000 for the expenses of his Jubilee mass which he will celebrate in person. All nations will be represented and all tongues spoken. The representatives of more than 210,000,000 adherents of the Catholic Church will be gathered within the walls of Rome to do honor to one feeble man who long since has passed the allotted three score and ten years.

Don't hawk, hawk, blow, spit, and disgust everybody with your offensive breath, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and end it.

Immense rainfalls follow the line of construction of the Mexican Central Railroad.

In every community there are a number of men whose whole time is not occupied, such as teachers, ministers, farmers' sons and others. To these classes especially we would say, if you wish to make several hundred dollars during the next few months, write at once to B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, Va., and they will show you how to do it.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Dr. Thompson's Eye-water. All druggists sell it at 25c. a bottle.

No Opium in Piso's Cure for Consumption. Cures where other remedies fail. 25c.

It Is Not Singular

that consumptives should be the least apprehensive of their own condition, while all their friends are urging and beseeching them to be more careful about exposure and overdoing. It may well be considered one of the most alarming symptoms of the disease, where the patient is reckless and will not believe that he is in danger. Reader, if you are in this condition, do not neglect the only means of recovery. Avoid exposure and fatigue, be regular in your habits, and use faithfully of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It has saved thousands who were steadily failing.

The Bank of England tries to stop the flow of gold to this country by raising the discount.

Consumption, Wasting Diseases, And General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites; the one supplying strength and flesh, the other giving nerve power, and acting as a tonic to the digestive and entire system. But in Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful. Thousands who have derived no permanent benefit from other preparations have been cured by this. Scott's Emulsion is perfectly palatable and is easily digested by those who cannot tolerate plain Cod Liver Oil.

Miss Mildred Lee, daughter of the late Gen. R. E. Lee, is at the Hotel de Normandie, Paris.

Beautiful Women

are made pallid and unattractive by functional irregularities which Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will infallibly cure. Thousands of testimonials. By druggists.

Within the last five months Harvard College has received gifts amounting to $3,000,000.

Safe, permanent and complete are the cures of billous and intermittent diseases, made by Prickly Ash Bitters. Dyspepsia, general debility, habitual constipation, liver and kidney complaints are speedily eradicated from the system. It disinfects, cleanses and eliminates all malaria. Health and vigor are obtained more rapidly and permanently by the use of this great natural antidote than by any other remedy heretofore known. As a blood purifier and tonic it brings health, renewed energy and vitality to a worn and diseased body.

The Little Orphan.

Mrs. Seago, one of the Trustees of the New Orleans Orphan Home, gives Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial for the relief of all bowel troubles. She never suffers herself to be without it.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Tired All Over

Is the expression a lady used in describing her condition before using Hood's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is wonderfully adapted for weakened or low state of the system. It quickly tones the whole body, gives purity and vitality to the blood, and clears and freshens the mind. Take it now if you feel "tired all over."

"Feeling languid and dizzy, having no appetite and no ambition to work, I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, with the best results. As a health invigorator and medicine for general debility I think it superior to anything else."—A. A. Rikes, Albany St., Utica, N. Y.

N. B.—Be sure to get the Peculiar medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health. It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young. As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

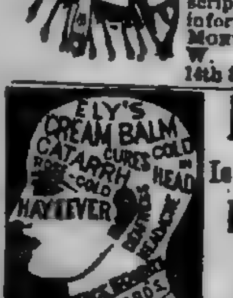
KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DYGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty-five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N.Y.

A GREAT OFFER!

We call attention of our lady readers to the handsome present that is being prepared for them. By special arrangement with Demorest's Monthly, the Greatest of all Family Magazines, we will print in our next issue an ORDER, entitling every one of our readers to a pattern of this handsome Jacket (free). Look out for it, for it is worth 25 cents.

While Demorest's is not a Fashion Magazine, many suppose it to be, because its Fashion Department, like all its other Departments, is so perfect.

Don't subscribe for another Magazine for next year before sending for this pattern, for the pattern's descriptive envelope will contain full information about Demorest's Monthly, which is published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th Street, New York.



Ely's Cream Balm
Is worth $1000 to any Man, Woman or Child suffering from
CATARRH.
Apply Balm into each nostril.

SOULE BUSINESS COLLEGE, Renowned for Superior Courses of Practical Study. Perfect Equipments, and Efficient Faculty. Over 5,000 Students now in Business. Send for circular. Address COL. GEO. SOULE, New Orleans, La.

AGENTS WANTED to sell NOVELTY RUG MACHINES and RUG PATTERNS, for making Rugs, Tidies, Hoods, Mittens, etc. Machine sent by mail for $1. Send for late reduced price list. E. Ross & Co., Toledo, O.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows. Pensions now for you all. Address E. H. Gelston & Co., Washington, D.C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Attorney, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

PENSIONS An increase may be due. Address Milo B. Stevens & Co., Grover Bd'g, Washington, D.C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

WHAT AILS YOU?

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula, Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

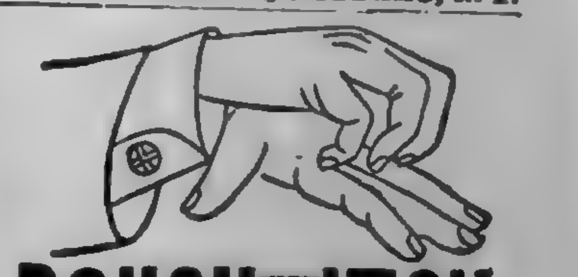
For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.



ROUGH ON ITCH.
"Rough on Itch" Ointment cures Skin Humors, Pimples, Flesh Worms, Ring Worm, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Frosted Feet, Chilblains, Itch, Ivy Poison, Barber's Itch, Scald Head, Eczema. 50c. Druggists. E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N.J.

ROUGH ON PILES
Cures piles or hemorrhoids, itching, protruding, bleeding, internal or other. Internal and external remedy in each package. Sure cure, 50c. Druggists or mail. E. S. Wells, Jersey City.

ROUGH ON BILE PILLS. 10c. 25c. Active but mild. Cathartic. Small Granules. Small Dose. For Sick Headache, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Constipation, Anti-Bilious.

ROUGH ON CATARRH Complete cure worst chronic cases. Unequaled for Catarrhal throat affections, foul breath, offensive odors. Ask for "Rough on Catarrh." 50c. Druggists.

ROUGH ON TOOTHACHE Instant relief. 15c.

ROUGH ON CORNS HARD OR SOFT CORNS. 15c.

FINE GUNS

DALY HAMMERLESS.
MANHATTAN HAMMERLESS.
DALY THREE BARREL.
PIEPER BREECH LOADERS.
Send for Catalogue of Specialties.
SCHOVERLING, DALY & GALES,
84 and 86 Chambers Street, New York.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

Printers' EXCHANGE
—DEALERS IN—
New and Second-Hand Printing Presses
—Manufacturer and Dealer in—
Printers' Supplies.
Printers' Rollers cast every day. THOS. P. SEITZINGER, 31 West Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga.

GOLDSMITH & SULLIVAN'S
Business College.
Fitten Building, Atlanta, Ga. Most practical College South. Best course at least cost. Send for catalogue.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

AGENTS WANTED at once in every County. A rare opportunity for new beginners. Unprecedented success. $5 to $12 a day easily made. GEO. A. BAKER & CO., Charleston, S. C.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

GOLD is worth $200 per lb. Pettit's Eye Salve is worth $1,000, but is sold at 25c. a box by dealers.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND
SLICKER
Is the Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 50	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 50
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1887. NUMBER 49.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

LIFE-SAVERS.

MEN WHO RISK THEIR LIVES TO SAVE OTHERS.

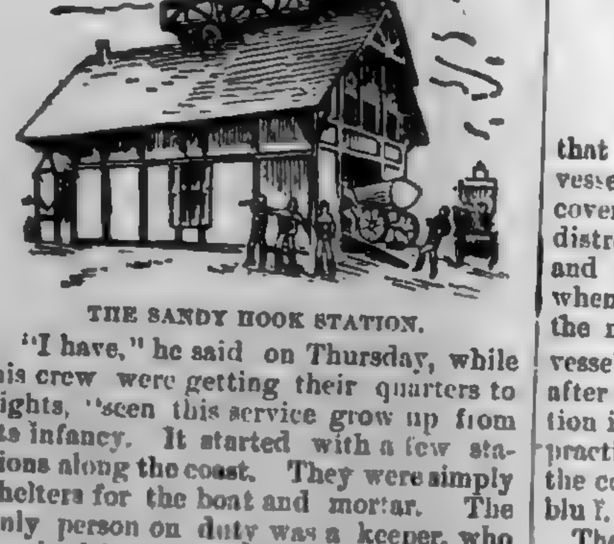
Drilled Every Day in Various Branches of the Service—How Vessels are Warned or Succored, Etc.

"Hello, Cap!"

"Good morning, George."

The first speaker was George Milliken, Surfman No. 1 of the Sandy Hook Life-Saving Station, and he was greeting Captain T. H. Patterson, the keeper of the station. Five other stalwart, suntanned men (you would have known them at once for toilers of the sea) come to the station on Thursday morning. They were Surfmen Alvin Mount, Thomas Truax, Ferd Newman, Sam Van Brunt and Ed Worth, and they were reporting to Captain Patterson for duty. The house on the sand-hills of the Hook will be their dwelling until April next. Night after night, though it be through drenching rain, freezing sleet or the pitiless turmoil of winter storms, they will tramp along the beach peering out to sea for vessels in distress and ready to risk their lives to save the lives of others.

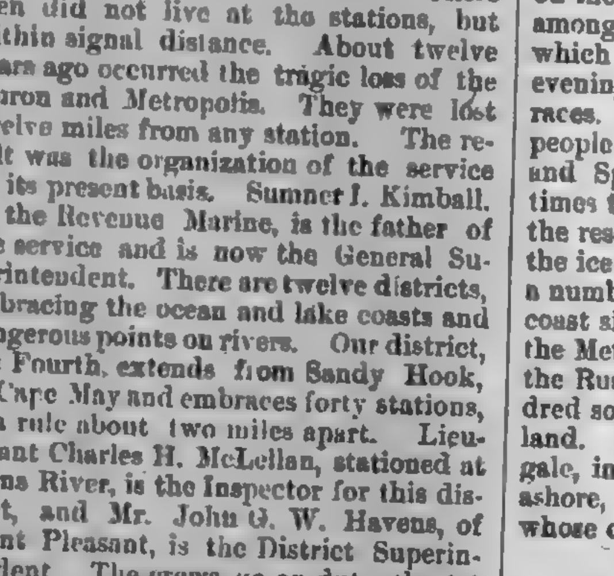
Captain Patterson is familiar with every inch of Sandy Hook, for he has lived there since he was a year old. The sand-hills and the ponds among the tangled forest of cedars and scrub-oak are as familiar to him as the lawns and lakes of Central Park are to New Yorkers. His father, Charles W. Patterson, was for twenty-five years previous to his death the keeper of the Sandy Hook light and had been longer in the service than any keeper excepting Captain Brooks, of the Faulkner Island light. Captain Patterson has been in the Life-Saving Service for six years and keeper of the Sandy Hook Station for three years.



THE SANDY HOOK STATION.

"I have," he said on Thursday, while his crew were getting their quarters to rights, "seen this service grow up from its infancy. It started with a few stations along the coast. They were simply shelters for the boat and mortar. The only person on duty was a keeper, who received $200 a year, and if he discovered a vessel in distress he had to collect a volunteer crew. Along the wilds of Barnegat Beach a keeper would have to tramp miles before he could get a crew together, and perhaps by the time they reached the station the vessel would be broken up and all hands lost.

"About fifteen years ago the service was improved by the engagement of crews for three months in the winter at $40 a month for each surfman. These men did not live at the stations, but within signal distance. About twelve years ago occurred the tragic loss of the Huron and Metropolis. They were lost twelve miles from any station. The result was the organization of the service on its present basis. Sumner I. Kimball, of the Revenue Marine, is the father of the service and is now the General Superintendent. There are twelve districts, embracing the ocean and lake coasts and dangerous points on rivers. Our district, the Fourth, extends from Sandy Hook, to Cape May and embraces forty stations, as a rule about two miles apart. Lieutenant Charles H. McLellan, stationed at Toms River, is the Inspector for this district, and Mr. John G. W. Havens, of Point Pleasant, is the District Superintendent. The crews go on duty the 1st of September and remain on duty until the 1st of April. There are a keeper and a crew of six at this station from September to December, when a seventh surfman is added. Each surfman receives $50 a month and the keeper $100, but we have to provide our own rations. The keeper is on duty all the year, and in case of a disaster has to organize a volunteer crew. When the Sarah Craig capsized on July 30, 1883, I happened to be able to get the crew of another vessel that had been lost in the same gale; but that was a mere chance, and a long time might elapse before I could go to the rescue of a vessel."



LAUNCHING THE SURF-BOAT.

"What is the outfit of a station?"

"We have in this station one Jersey surf boat—the only kind of a boat that can be launched on this coast. As the surf is often too high for the launching of a boat, we have on the bay side of the Hook a lifeboat and a three-ton English self-bailing and self-righting lifeboat. These boats can be used in England, because most of the stations there are in harbors. This English boat is not yet of much use to us because the launching ways haven't been laid. We can launch the lifeboat and pull around into the open sea in ten minutes. We also have a dingy on the bay side. In the station we have also the beach apparatus—that is, the ebrouquette mortar, which fires over a vessel in distress the line with which its crew hauls the hawser and breeches buoy aboard. The buoy is easier to handle than the old car that used to be run along the hawser."

"Are the men drilled regularly?"

"Yes. There is a drill every day excepting on Sunday and on Saturday, on [illegible] day the crew clean house. Monday and Thursday we drill with the mortar; Tuesday with the boat; Wednesday with signals, and on Friday we practice the resuscitation of the drowned. The men are drilled to have the mortar ready to be discharged in one minute. Each man is drilled to do one specific thing, so that he can do it when it is too dark for him to see his hands, as it often is in a winter night's storm. When we're getting ready to launch each man knows his tangle or rope lanyards for the car. We have drawn the car on to the beach, unloaded and crossed oars in one minute and a half. Of course, the time taken in launching varies according to the condition of the surf."

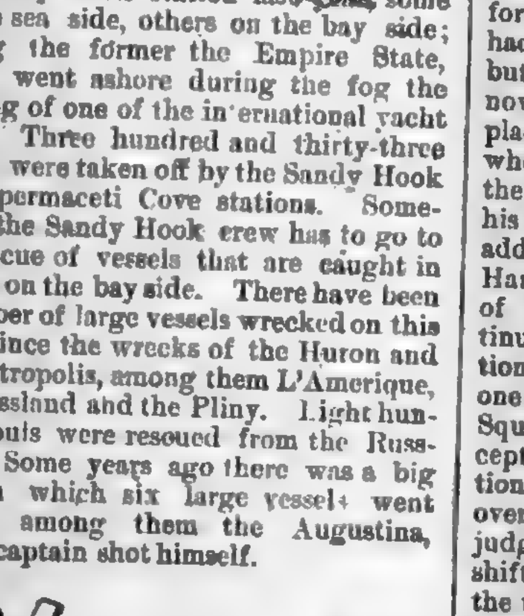
"How are the duties of watching and patrolling distributed?"

"A man goes on duty at sunrise, and from sunrise until sundown there is always a man on guard. It is the guard's duty to keep a record of every passing vessel. I presume the authorities compare the records of neighboring stations and thus judge if the guards of each have been faithful to their duties. At sundown surfmen Nos. 1 and 2 begin the patrol of the beach in opposite directions. The surfman patrolling to the south tramps until he meets the surfman from the Spermaceti Cove station, with whom he exchanges brass checks. The surfman whose patrol is to the north tramps to a point where we have placed a watchman's clock. The clock and the checks furnish the record of the surfmen's faithfulness. Nos. 1 and 2 patrol until 8 P. M., Nos. 3 and 4 till midnight, Nos. 5 and 6 till 4 A. M., and Nos. 1 and 2 again until sunrise. Each surfman carries a Coston signal with him in a leather satchel. With this he warns off vessels that are nearing danger, or signals to vessels in distress that they have been discovered. Having discovered a vessel in distress, he hurries back to the station and we go to the rescue in the boat, when we carry or throw the line with the mortar, with which we can reach a vessel as far away as 700 yards, though after a distance of 450 yards the operation is difficult. The mortar is not so practicable at this station as further down the coast, where it can be fired from the bluff."

FIRING THE LIFE LINES.

The value of vessels and cargo "assisted" by the stations in the Fourth District annually exceeds that of any other district, even when the number of vessels is not so great. According to the last report the value of vessels and cargo saved in this district within a year was $552,030, which exceeds that of the district ranking next, the Tenth (Lakes Huron and Superior) by nearly $100,000.

Twenty-two vessels were assisted from the Sandy Hook station last year, some on the sea side, others on the bay side; among the former the Empire State, which went ashore during the fog the evening of one of the international yacht races. Three hundred and thirty-three people were taken off by the Sandy Hook and Spermaceti Cove stations. Sometimes the Sandy Hook crew has to go to the rescue of vessels that are caught in the ice on the bay side. There have been a number of large vessels wrecked on this coast since the wrecks of the Huron and the Metropolis, among them L'Amerique, the Russland and the Pliny. Eight hundred souls were rescued from the Russland. Some years ago there was a big gale, in which six large vessels went ashore, among them the Augustina, whose captain shot himself.



SAVED.

As much as $36,277,939 worth of property has been saved and as many as 25,236 people have been rescued by the Life-Saving Service since it was established November 1, 1871, on its present basis. Medals are awarded for especially heroic rescues, such as those of the crew of the barkentine Ephraim Williams by Captain Benjamin B. Dailey, of the Cape Hatteras station, and his men, assisted by Captain Etheridge, of Creeds Hill station, December 22, 1885, and those of the crews of several vessels by Captain Goodwin and his men, of the Cleveland station, late in 1883. The Women's National Relief Association aids in the good work by generous contributions of food, cordials and clothing.—New York World.

Broke.

The first glints of dawn were stealing through the loopholes of the iron shutters when the gambler rose from the table "cleaned out."

"I'm broke," he said. Then his eye fell upon the loopholes of the windows and he added with a smile:

"And I've got company, for I notice day's broke, too."—Boston Courier.

Unfounded Fears.

Friend (to young author)—"How is your new book going, Charley?"

Young Author (dubiously)—"It's going pretty fast. I've already given away five hundred copies."

Friend—"Five hundred copies! Why, I congratulate you, old boy. I was afraid you wouldn't be able to give away more than half that number."—New York Sun.

A JEWEL.

Love placed a jewel in my crown,
  A stone as brilliant as the day.
He called it Friendship, and it shone
  For me alway.

Love burnished it, though I knew not,
  I thought its splendor all its own.
But now the stone is dull and dim,
  For love has flown.
—Edith Danforth

A Mining Speculation.

BY FLAVEL SCOTT MINES.

The clatter of the farm-yard, mingled with the drowsy humming of the bees, fell pleasantly on the air as Squire Harvey sat on his front piazza, toward the end of a hot summer afternoon, reading the newspaper. Now and again a particularly obnoxious fly would alight on the bald spot in the centre of his head, causing the Squire to raise his hand and to bring it down suddenly, often harder than necessary, with a subdued exclamation that sounded like "B'gosh." But for this frequent aggressive movement one would imagine that he was sleeping. It was nearly time for supper and the Squire had picked up the paper merely to have something to hold during the few minutes that elapsed before the welcome meal. He was not reading, for his thoughts were busy with the farm, and he was wondering at what price Farmer Griggs, who was in somewhat straitened circumstances, would sell his corner lot. "It is very convenient to my property," mused the Squire, "and I ought to be able to make a good bargain with my impecunious neighbor."

The sun sank a little lower in the west, throwing its beams through the branches of the trees, and one little ray, as golden as his thoughts, twinkled before the Squire's eyes. With a sound midway between a chuckle and an exclamation of disgust, Silas Harvey elevated his paper to shut out the sunbeam, and as he did so his eyes fell upon the following advertisement:

SILVER CRESCENT MINING COMPANY.—Of the Silver Crescent Mines, situated on the banks of the Smith River, Nevada.

Stock paying 25 to 30 per cent. annually to to the holder.

The chance of a life-time! Only a few more shares left.

Write to Secretary S. C. Mining Co., Box 336, New York.

"H'm," muttered the Squire, as he re-read the advertisement. Then the supper bell broke in upon his meditations. He laid down the paper and entered the house.

After supper, however, the Squire, in a very agreeable frame of mind, picked up the paper once more, and with a pencil made some calculations with which he was apparently satisfied, for he nodded his head in an approving manner. Again and again he read the seductive advertisement, his brain busy with figures. Before he retired that night, a check for two thousand dollars had been made out to the Secretary of the Silver Crescent Mining Company.

Silas Harvey was undoubtedly the leading spirit of Northbrook. It was not a very progressive place, in fact it was rather behind the age, but the townspeople preferred to follow the slow but sure guidance of the good man, who was decidedly conservative in many matters, rather than the aggressive spirits who proposed gas, patent sewerage and reform. Forty-five years before, the Squire had come to the village poor and unknown but a "go-a-headitiveness," which he had now outgrown, had won him a place in the esteem of the farmer for whom he worked and finally he married the farmer's daughter. On the death of his father-in-law, whose many acres were added to his small plot of ground, Silas Harvey arrived at the prosperous period of his life, from which point he continued to advance until he held the position of first man in the county. But no one remembered those days now, and the Squire was not apt to refer to them, except to point a moral to the rising generation. As Justice of the Peace he presided over the welfare of the village, and no judge viewed with a sterner eye the shiftlessness of an individual; and woe to the unhappy mortal who came before him charged with vagrancy or theft. On the other hand he was lenient to the very unfortunate, and many a weak, erring man or woman received the kindest attention at his hands, blessing the fate that threw them into the path of Silas Harvey.

A nephew of his, a partner in a flourishing banking house, had spent a few weeks of the summer vacation at Northbrook, and from him the Squire heard of the doings of the stock-market. The young man gave glowing accounts of the fortunes made in the "Street." But of the many who lose their all this nephew did not tell. Why should he? There is no need to spoil a pleasant little story by introducing unpleasant features that might as well remain in the background. The young man did not dream of planting in the heart of his interesting listener the desire for speculation, and though the Squire did not offer to invest any money in that way, he formed his own opinions on the subject. When his nephew had returned to the city Silas Harvey anxiously scanned the papers for an "opportunity." "A man to make money must watch his interests himself and not leave it to any one else," said the Squire, and, in the simplicity of his heart, he resolved to do a little speculation on his own account. He had read the advertisement—the opportunity had come and the Squire straightway embraced it—hence the check.

A few days later he received an acknowledgment of the check for two thousand dollars from New York and the letter closed with the flattering information that at a meeting of the directors of the S. C. Mining Company, Silas Harvey, Esq., had been elected to fill a vacancy in the board, and it was hoped that Mr. Harvey would give the company the privilege of using his name, etc. This pleased the gentleman beyond measure and he joyfully accepted the position. As to his duties as a director he was somewhat in the dark, for the letter made no mention of them. When he saw his name in print heading the list of trustees of the Silver Crescent Mining Co., he felt that perhaps he had lost somewhat by not mingling more freely with the outside world where he would have had an opportunity to display his talents to greater advantage. For some reason or other the S. C. Mining Co. did not pay the expected [illegible] at the end of the [illegible], but [illegible] courteous letter that all the funds had been invested in improvements for the mine, which would eventually yield threefold the amount originally put into it. So the Squire was thoroughly contented, chuckling over his ability and judgment.

Other things engrossed his attention, however, and as the weeks passed by he almost forgot his investment. A resolution for the introduction of some new system was before the Board of Education, of which the Squire was a member, and in order to maintain his reputation for conservatism, he felt bound to oppose it. So he set to work to prepare a scathing condemnation of the resolution whereby he hoped to squelch it at the meeting. The day came, and the Squire, full of his speech, arrived a little late. As he entered the hall, he noticed that two strange men stood near the entrance, and, in passing, he heard one of them whisper to the other: "There goes the old hypocrite." It is not a very pleasant thing to hear some one designated as a hypocrite, especially when you believe that the term refers to yourself. But, paying no attention to the remark, the Squire hurriedly passed to the platform, where, after opening the meeting, he proposed to deliver his address.

"The Chair begs leave to make a few remarks," he began, and then waited in order that the words might have the desired effect. He had learned the phrase from a newspaper report of a meeting, and was proud of it, so he stopped and gravely eyed his listeners.

"The Chair would say——" he went on, when a tap on his shoulder interrupted him, and, turning, he saw one of the men he had noticed at the door.

"May I speak a few words with you?—alone," he added, mysteriously. Wondering what it was all about, the Squire led the stranger into a corner.

"Silas Harvey, I believe, Director of the so-called Silver Crescent Mining Co.?" said the man. The Squire nodded.

"I am a detective from New York. Here is a warrant for your arrest. Will you come with me quietly, and take the nine o'clock train to the city? It will save trouble," remarked the individual, hurriedly.

The room swam before the Squire. Detective—arrest? What did it mean? Whispering a few words to a colleague, and in an agitated voice begging the audience to excuse him on the plea of urgent business, Silas Harvey, like one in a dream, followed the man out of the room.

He knew scarcely anything until he found himself on the train speeding to New York, with the detective at his side and the other man seated opposite.

"Look a here," began the loquacious officer, pleased that he caught his man so easily, "we've got two of the other of you fellows safe enough, and they've made a clean breast of the whole affair; so you had better speak right out to the Judge. Tell him all. I'm givin' you a friendly 'tip' now. This is the third company gone to smash this week, and it'll go pretty bad with you, I guess."

"What—what company is this?" gasped the Squire, a faint idea of the business beginning to dawn upon him.

"What company?" laughed the detective. "No funny games now, old man." Silas Harvey winced perceptibly at the last words and glanced at a paragraph pointed out in a paper that was handed to him.

"Two directors of the last swindle, the Silver Crescent Mining Company, were caught to-day, and another one is regarded by the police as safe. The others managed to get out of the way and have left for parts unknown."

The Squire sat as one dazed. He connected with a swindle, his name heading a list of frauds! The old man saw his error too late. He inwardly cursed his greed, his vanity. He felt that he was a disgraced man. He saw the daily papers holding him up to scorn, his name in flaring headlines that told of his deceit, and he wished that he could throw himself from the car window. Above all, he felt most deeply the probable loss of his position in Northbrook. Had he lived and labored all his life to die a felon? The detective looked curiously at his prisoner, who seemed almost unconscious, and the train rattled on, bearing the Squire nearer and nearer to his fate.

How he reached the police station Silas Harvey knew not. He remembered but dimly entering a carriage and giving his name, age and occupation to the sergeant at the desk, and then he found himself within the four walls of a cell. The whole seemed to him like a horrible nightmare, and when he confronted the Judge the next morning he had grown grayer and more haggard, and walked like an old, old man.

"Bail is fixed at $2,500 in this case," remarked the Judge when he had heard the charge. "Do you know any one in the city?"

"My nephew," the Squire gasped, as the first thought came to him that he perhaps might receive some help from that quarter.

"Well, you may write to him," was the rely. "Call the next case."

The innocent prisoner scratched off a few lines which he gave to an officer, and then he wearily trudged back to the cell. Hours seemed to drag slowly by until he heard a pleasant greeting, and looking through the iron bars he saw his nephew standing there. Then the heavy door swung open and his laughing relative beckoned to him.

"Come on, uncle, you're out on bail," cried the young man, and the Squire came slowly forth. Although only a few hours in confinement, the broken-down old man imagined that half his life had been spent within the narrow dungeon, and with a deep sigh he took the arm offered to him.

"Ha, ha, ha!" commenced the young fellow, when they had entered the carriage that was waiting for them, "ha, ha! excuse my laughing, but it is so rich, ha, ha!"

The Squire blinked sorrowfully at his nephew, which sent the young man off again. "Who would have imagined such a thing, my old respected uncle a director in a fraudulent concern! How did you happen to join it?"

"You, Harry, you," murmured his uncle, so sadly that the graceless Harry was threatened with an outbreak. "You told me all about stocks and I thought one thing was as good as another in that line."

"Now, look here, Uncle Si," at last remarked the convulsed listener, "I am driving you to the railway station. Go back to Northbrook as though nothing had happened and my lawyer will [illegible] I'll get those other fellows to make a confession that will clear you of all blame."

"No, Harry, no: think of the papers, the disgrace," and the old man shook his head at the idea of returning to his home.

The pedestrians looked wonderingly after the carriage from which came peals of laughter as the merry nephew held his sides and gave vent to his mirth.

"The papers?" he cried, when the flood of merriment had been checked, "why uncle, dear, it's not worth noticing in the papers, except in a little paragraph, and there will be no room for names."

A feeling of relief came to Silas Harvey. He felt that he was saved and he poured forth his joy in tears. His nephew was touched by this display of feeling, and so assured the poor old squire that all would be right that he was rewarded with a hearty kiss which nearly caused a renewal of laughter.

As the late director of the Silver Crescent Mining Company entered his house, he thought of the ill-fated two thousand dollars for the first time, and he inwardly muttered: "Dang it."

Ten days later his nephew wrote him, saying that the matter had been arranged as he said it would be, and after reading the good news, Silas Harvey, in his easy chair on the piazza, slept the sleep of the just, while a fly exercised itself undisturbed upon the Squire's bald pate until the supper bell rang. The Silver Crescent Mining Stock was old Harvey's first and last speculation.—The Epoch.

Vehicles in Mexico.

Besides the livery stables, which are confined to the largest cities where families of great wealth reside, there are in every Mexican town, writes Fannie B. Ward, many hacks, carriages, coupes, victorias, barouches, etc., which are really owned and run by the government, and whose price is fixed by law. To secure them you do not send to a stable—for nobody seems to know where they are kept—but look for them in the streets. In the capital alone there are 250 of these public conveyances, ranking officially as those of the first, second, third and fourth classes. Their "class" is distinguished by small tin signs in the form of a flag stuck up in front—those of the first-class painted green, the second blue, third red and fourth white. Their legalized tariff is respectively $2.00, $1.50, seventy-five cents and fifty cents per hour, except before 6 o'clock A. M., and after 10 o'clock P. M., and on Sundays and all feast days, when the price is doubled; and as fiestas are of every-day occurrence, one may safely calculate upon what to pay. Most of them are dilapidated old rattle-traps, in imminent peril of going to pieces on these wretched pavements, like the deacon's one-horse chaise, and as a rule there is little difference in them except in the color of the flag. With customary pride, Americans usually insist upon the most expensive—foolishly, however, for the flag is immediately hauled down as soon as the vehicle is engaged and nobody can guess what you pay for it.

Besides the coachman, each carriage furnishes a footman without additional charge, though the proper thing is to give the unbargained-for appendage a shilling. The footman is called a mozo, and acts as a sort of apprentice or private secretary to the cochero, or driver. On entering a vehicle, the passenger who does not wish to be swindled should request of the driver his boleto, or ticket, upon which is printed the number of the carriage and its lawful tariff. Then the mozo rushes off to the nearest clock and brings you a card upon which the hour is written. At this point you will do well to consult your own watch and calculate accordingly, to avoid the dispute which otherwise is sure to occur if you insist upon your rights at the journey's end. The mozo also jumps off and opens the door for you, makes any inquiries you may desire and takes in your card when you are calling; and when the ride is ended he again produces the card upon which the hour was written, and you pay from the time of starting. After all these precautions, should any differences of opinion arise between youself and the cochero, they may be settled at the office of public carriages, located in the municipal palace of the town. The cocheros, heedless of the fact that you may be getting more ride than your money's worth and bumps without numbers, drive pell-mell over the worse pavements in the most reckless manner; and more than once, in my experience, have coach and horses parted company, leaving me sitting forlornly in the street in the condition of the girl whom the poet left behind him.

The Thousand Islands.

The Thousand Islands in the St. Lawrence River are mostly owned and occupied by wealthy men who use them as summer resorts. George M. Pullman and other millionaires are among the number. The late Dr. J. G. Holland, author and poet, owned one which he named "Bonniecastle." Many fanciful and poetic names are printed on the rocks like advertisements, telling to the world that the owners desire to be recognized. In the early ages, when the accumulated waters from the great chain of lakes tore through this spot to find an outlet to the sea, they washed away all the dirt and loose stones and left nothing but solid rock behind. On this a thin soil was gradually deposited, out of which came grass and trees, and thus the islands were made. Near the source of the river the rocks are large enough to divide the water and form two channels for many miles. The rockiest and wildest part of the river between Kingston and Montreal lies within the first fifty miles from Kingston. About forty miles down from Kingston the two channels come together and form one stream.

Notable People In Georgia.

Dooly County can boast of the tallest man as well as the smallest woman in Georgia. Sam Cason stands in his stocking feet seven feet and two inches; and there is room enough above for several more inches. Cason is so slim that he hardly casts a shadow, but he can get over ground about as fast as a locomotive. Mrs. A. H. Hall has a daughter, Anna, who was born in 1872, consequently she is fifteen years old and only thirty inches in height. She is a perfect model of a woman, is sprightly, intelligent and pretty. She goes about her household duties like a little lady, but being so small, she is not required to do [illegible].—Sumter (Ga.) Republican.

BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SKETCHES FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

Didn't Want Any—Frolics in the Atlantic—Security Demanded—Sectional Hate—A Suggestion, Etc., Etc.

Barber (to bald headed customer)—"Ah, Mr. Jones, you ought to try some of Professor Invigorator's hair restorer. It's—"

Customer—"But I don't want any hair."

Barber (in astonishment)—"Don't want hair?"

Customer—"No, I'm married.—New York Sun.

Frolics in the Atlantic.

French Woman (at Long Branch)—"Oh, we hat sooch a fine time bathing in de otecun. M'sieur Brown, he gif me—vot you calls 'em—a gosling."

American Woman—"A gosling! Why, a gosling is a little duck."

French Woman—"Zat is vat he gif me—a leetle duck.—Tid-Bits.

Security Demanded.

Teacher—"Class in interest, take the floor. What is the medium of exchange in the United States?"

Class (in concert)—"money."

"Yes, but there is something more. Can't you think of another article that is used as a medium of exchange?"

Class silent.

"Supposing I were to come to you and want to borrow a hundred dollars, what would you demand of me?"

Class (animatedly)—"Security."—American Commercial Traveler.

Sectional Hate.

"Going West, sir?" inquired a Chicago drummer of a fellow passenger, by way of opening the conversation.

"Yes, sir, I expect to take in the representative cities."

"You will find Chicago a lively town."

"Oh, I shan't visit Chicago; only the representative cities, you know."

"Conductor," whispered the Chicago drummer a little later, "who is that four-eared mongrel I was talking to a moment ago?"

"He's a St. Louis fish dealer," said the conductor.

A Suggestion.

"Gosh blame the measley hammer any how," howled a traveling man who was tacking down a piece of carpet, as he flung down the hammer."

"What's the matter?" asked his wife.

"Look at that," he said, taking out his hand from under his arm and showing the thumb. "I can't hardly bend it."

"Why don't you aim at your thumb when you are tacking down carpet?" asked his wife sweetly.—Merchant Traveler.

Only a Brief Interruption.

It was in one of the stately mansions of Beacon street, Boston, that our story opens:

He was declaring his love in language that only a Boston youth can use, and even he must be sober.

"Dearest Penelope," he said, "if I had loved you less I could have told you that I loved you long ago. I——"

But he suddenly stopped. A far away whither-am-I-drifting look had come over the girl's face, and his heart sank within him.

"If my words are displeasing to you, Miss Penelope," he went on in his broken tones, "if I have said what I ought not to say, or you ought not to hear; if I——"

"Not at all," interrupted Penelope, looking wildly about her, "but I have certainly lost my spectacles. Oh, there they are. Thanks. As you were saying, Mr. Waldo——"—New York Sun.

A Surprising Reception.

Book Agent—"I am offering to the public a new work, the 'Encyclpedia Universal, Eternal,' only five—"

Omaha Man—"Come in, sir. Don't stand there in the hot sun."

"I—I guess you didn't understand. I am selling—"

"Certainly. There, take that seat by the window. I am delighted to see you."

"Permit me to 'xplain. This book, glorious work, is complete in forty-five volumes, at $5 a volume, and I am the agent for it."

"I am sorry you brought only one volume. Can you get the rest soon?"

"Oh, yes, but—"

"By the way, there's the bell. Stay to dinner, won't you?"

"I—I beg pardon This is very strange. Am I awake or dreaming?"

"Yes, the house don't look very pretty, does it? You see, this is a private lunatic asylum, and I am one of the patients."—Omaha World

Held on Like Grim Death.

First Omaha Burglar—I tell you, it's awful the way things are in New England, twenty or thirty women to every man.

Second Omaha Burglar—I suppose so. All the men have come West.

"Yes, that's how it is."

"Did you get much boodle there?"

"Yes; but I had a narrow escape once. I noticed a lot of the finest diamonds you ever saw on a Boston girl just going out of the house to a lecture or something, and I watched my chance and got in and hid under her bed. You see, I was thinkin' she would be so interested in the lecture she went to that she wouldn't think to look around for burglars, you know."

"Yes."

"But when she came in the first thing she did was to look under the bed, and there she saw me."

"Did she scream or faint?"

"She just grabbed me with both hands and held on like grim death."

"Eh! How did you get away?"

"I explained to her that I was already married and she let me go."—Omaha World.

He Lost.

The occupant of an office on Larned street went out the other afternoon, leaving a boy in charge, and pretty soon a stranger called and asked: [illegible]

"Be in soon?"

"I—I don't know."

"Gone out of town?"

"I dunno. You want to see him personally?"

"Yes. How long has he been out?"

"Quite a spell. Can't you come in tomorrow?"

"No; must see him to-day."

The boy got up and walked around for two or three minutes, breathing as if considerably excited, and then observed:

"Say, mister, if you've got a case for Mr. Blank he ought to know it; if you've got a bill he won't pay it. I'll take the chances and ask what you want to see him for?"

"To collect a debt of $7."

"Humph! I took the chances and lost. He won't be home for a week."—Detroit Free Press.

A Postponed Funeral.

A lady who is famous among her friends for the correctness with which all her social duties are performed, and who is particular in attending to all the details of intercourse with her acquaintances and friends, was recently put in an amusingly awkwark position by the stupidity of a servant. A neighbor being dangerously ill, this lady one morning sent her new maid over to inquire concerning her condition.

"Go over," she said, "and inquire how Mrs. X. is this morning. And if she is dead," she added, as the girl started, "ask when the funeral will be."

The messenger went as directed, and soon returned with the air of one who has done her whole duty.

"Mrs. X. is better this morning," was her report, "and they cannot tell when the funeral will be."—Boston Courier.

Capture of an Arab Slave Dhow.

The London Times describes the capture of an Arab dhow and fifty-three slaves by Lieut. F. F. Fegen, in the pinnace of the British ship Turquoise at Pemba. On the pinnace reaching the dhow the slavers attempted to run it down with the intention of carrying her by boarding. Lieut. Fegen immediately rushed forward to repel the Arabs (the dhow having caught the pinnace's forestay with the bowsprit), seven of whom were ready to board. He promptly shot two with his revolver, then drew his cutlass and ran another through the body. While thus engaged he received a very severe sword cut on the right arm from an Arab who came to assist the one he was engaged with. This Arab was run through the body by John W. Pearson, A. B., before he had time to inflict further injury. Notwithstanding his severe wounds, Lieutenant Fegen still continued fighting with his cutlass until the dhow got clear (at this there were three men in the bottom of the boat wounded), the remainder of the crew, three in number, fighting hard and supporting him. When the dhow got clear nine Arabs had already been killed. No sooner had this occurred than she endeavored to escape. Lieut. Fegen, picking up his dingy, gave chase, and a running fight was maintained until the helmsman of the dhow was shot, when she broached to and capsized in shallow water. He immediately anchored his boat as near the sunken dhow as possible, and proceeded to rescue the slaves, the four unwounded men saving as many as they could by means of the dingy and also jumping overboard: 53 all told were saved. Capt. Woodward was informed by Mr. Holmwood, Consul-General, that of the 13 Arabs on board the dhow nine were the most notorious slave dealers in Pemba, and in all there were upward of 20 armed men, the arms being Snider rifles and swords. Of the 13 Arabs 11 were killed and two succeeded in reaching the shore, one of whom died subsequently of his wounds, and the other escaped, but measures have been adopted for his capture. During the action four of the boat's crew were severely wounded, one of whom has since died.

The Great Tumble Weed.

This weed once grew plentiful through this country and Colorado. When green they present a very pretty appearance and look more like a dwarf tree than a weed. They are very dangerous in case of a prairie fire, and often dangerous in plain wind storms when there is no fire. In case of fire the flames seem to strip the plant of its leaves, and it at once goes rolling before the flaming hurricane a perfect wheel of fire. These revolving wheels of fire will jump any ordinary furrow or fire break and carry the fire into the timber or grass, as the case may be. Nothing can stop their progress but a river. Into these they jump, leaping out into the stream forty, fifty and sixty feet, and go down with a hiss, throwing up a column of steam where they sink.

In Colorado windstorm-storms these weeds are also a source of much danger. In Middle Park, a few years ago, a party of travelers were suddenly overtaken by a storm. Seeing what they supposed to be a mass of huge boulders in the distance, they made for them, thinking they would afford at least partial shelter. To their surprise, as they approached, the boulders suddenly broke loose and commenced rolling toward them at a furious rate, cutting all sorts of curious capers and gyrating menacingly as they came. At times they would strike an obstruction and bound high in the air, and again striking the ground resume their rapid circular motion. The travelers put spurs to their horses, and it was only by the greatest effort they managed to escape from the track of these monsters. On examination they found their supposed boulders were really immense weeds, which had been torn up by the roots by the windstorm.

These weeds are so solid that they are a great menace to man and beast under such circumstances. Impelled by a heavy wind, they go with force enough to kill a horse, and a human being is in great danger if he cannot get out of the track of these monsters when they are rushing before a hurricane or in case of a prairie fire.—Wichita (Kan.) Journal.

There is actually living at Washington C. H. a widow of a revolutionary soldier. It is Mrs. Casey, aged [illegible], who was married when she was [illegible] Casey, who was then [illegible] old. Mrs. Mary [illegible] of New Hampshire [illegible] revolutionary [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 13, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four "	50

Elmore's tax collector has been suspended from office. The amount of his shortage is $822 67.

The proper way to check slander is to despise it; attempt to overtake it, and it will out run you.

Ex-Gov. T. H. Watts and Col. H. C. Tompkins will be candidates for the U. S. Senate to fill Senator Morgan's place.

According to the Mobile Register all "the leading people" of that city are candidates for congress, and when Mr. Clark, who is a pronounced candidate, passes down one side of the street they all go over on the other so as to avoid committing themselves.

Dr. J. T. B. Foard, the noted county superintendent of education of Escambia county, who got away with $3,000 of the school funds of which he was custodian and who was afterward captured and placed under bond to await trial, has again absconded and left his bondsmen in the lurch. He was popular and easily gave bond on being captured. His case was to have been tried in the circuit court of the county last week. He failed to appear on the day set for his trial, and now his bondsmen are very sick men. Foard, though very popular, proved to be a very slick rascal.

The last Legislature increased the appropriation for the relief of maimed soldiers $5,000 making the entire appropriation $30,000 and included widows in its benefits. From the increased number of applicants it appears that there are about twice as many widows of deceased soldiers now living than disabled soldiers. The number of applications from widows being 2,525 and from soldiers 1,733 making a total of 4,258. Thus it will be seen that including the widows added nearly two thirds to the total number of applicants while there was only one sixth added to the amount of the appropriation. This has reduced the average amount to be paid to each applicant down to such an insignificant sum that it is not worth the trouble one has to undergo to secure it. The appropriation should be greatly increased or else done away with entirely for as it is it does no one any good. Each applicant is to receive $6.69.

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Maplesville Dots.

Mr. Shelton, who came from Birmingham, with typhoid fever several weeks since has returned quite well, which is complimentary to our healthful climate.

Mrs. Crit Woolley and family have returned to their home in Selma, after a pleasant visit of several weeks.

The Rev. Mr. Star, of Plantersville, will preach at the new Methodist Church at this place on the second Sunday in October.

Mr. N. W. Foshee is rapidly improving and through the skill of his physicians amputation is not thought necessary.

Maplesville needs a boom. Why don't somebody scratch around and find a diamond mine?

Rev. J. M. Keilin has gone to Louisville, to attend the Theological Seminary. Our best wishes go with him.

Miss Fannie McMath, of Montevallo, spent a few days with friends at this place last week.

NOVA SCRIBITA.

Benson Jottings.

Crop gathering is progressing finely. Crops unusually good.

Our farmers have been delayed in ginning on account of Capt. Tom Rasberry's engine being unable to do the work. He now has a 10 horse power, which does the work with great satisfaction.

We congratulate the good people of Jemison on securing Prof. G. L. Speer as principal of the school there. The genial gentleman showed his face among us last Saturday and Sunday which is evidence that we still hold a place in his big heart.

On next Sunday the pastoral services of Rev. J. M. McCord will close at the Baptist Church at this place. He has been pastor so long and we have learned to love him so much that we cannot understand why we must give him up. We most earnestly recommend him to good people everywhere, and wish him all the success in his new field of labor that a good christian gentleman is entitled to.

It is really interesting to watch the continued progress and prosperity of this community.

At a mass meeting last Tuesday night of the people of the settlement, a board of trustees was elected and instructed to advertise for a first-class teacher to be employed by the year to teach a first-class preparatory school. We believe that this is the best locality for a first-class school anywhere to be found away from the railroad. So we invite all good people seeking homes and school advantages to give us a call. The board of trustees is composed of gentlemen whose names are a guarantee of success, with Dr. J. S. Johnson, Sr., as chairman.

We believe that much of this good and co-operative work is brought about by the power and influence of the VIEW. So long may it live to do its noble work.

J.

Rocky Mount Camp Meeting.

JEMISON, ALA., Oct. 10th, 1887.

It is a pleasure to let the people know that the camp meeting at Rocky Mount a few miles east of Jemison, which closed last Thursday morning was blessed with wonderful success; and it is not strange when we remember how many good preachers of different denominations labored zealously for reformation. They were Rev. James Hand, Rev. W. H. McDaniel, Mr. McLane, George Lee, Mr. Lindsy and our beloved brother J. L. Freeman. The last named gentleman has been quite sick at Mr. J. J. Green's since last Tuesday. There are now hopes of his early recovery. Let us continue to pray in his behalf, also those that are so tenderly caring for this worthy, heaven guided man, Elder J. L. Freeman, whose home is at Walnut grove, Etowah county. Oh Father! let choice blessings surround this man, and his devoted pious wife who is by late affliction doomed to blindness for life.

MRS. IRA CAMPBELL.

White's Cream Vermifuge is good for the chaps certain, when the chaps are troubled with worms. When their presence is indicated in the stomach by the usual unmistakable symptoms, only give the boys and girls a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge and worms will follow as surely as night does the day. Remember White's Cream Vermifuge will expel worms.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. A. J. Briggs preached Sunday morning and night here, and Sunday afternoon in Chestnut Creek Church at Coopers.

Mr. C. A. Lanier wife and daughter, Miss Wilsie, returned to Mrs. Gibson's last week from Montgomery White, Va., and left Friday morning for the "Windsor."

Miss I. V. Powell, of Lowndes, is visiting her cousin, Miss Mary Powell.

Miss Emma Terry has gone to school near Lynchburg, Va., to finish her education.

Capt. Clisby, wife and daughter, Miss Anna, have returned from Birmingham. The Captain "lit out" for Montgomery yesterday, Tuesday, to be ready for the President.

Our postmaster, Mr. A. J. Brooks, has resigned. Mr. A. L. Haralson has been appointed and made bond.

Mr. Milo Barrett and wife from Montgomery, spent Tuesday in Verbena.

Mrs. Mott, of New Orleans, paid us a pleasant visit a few days since.

Mrs. Rabb and daughter, of Birmingham, are visiting her aunt, Mrs. Fanny Davis.

Fashion may change in some things but an old, well tried remedy is grappled with hooks of steel. Such is White's Cream Vermifuge, which has a larger sale than any so-called remedy, because it never fails to expel worms from a child who is their victim. Therefore do not defer its use, but relieve your child speedily by a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge.

Stanton Puffs.

Prof. Harwood, of Uniontown, has opened his school at Stanton. We wish him success in his new field.

Mr. C. W. Plant continues to improve, slowly, but we hope surely. We are anxious to see him again in his usual place in the planing mill.

Rev. J. M. McCord has accepted the pastorate of Ebenezer Baptist Church. He will preach there the 3d Sunday night in October.

Dr. Little has been very successful in the performance of some surgical operations lately, notably that of Mr. Noah Foshee's leg, which is improving very rapidly.

Our new road across Mulberry is now ready for the travelling public.

This scribe has had occasion to travel over a number of our public roads lately, and he must say that they were passable, and when that is said, all is said.

The Methodist protracted meeting is expected to commence on Friday, before the 5th Sunday in October.

Mrs. O. P. McGee is on a visit to relatives in Tennessee.

I have been somewhat dilatory lately, hope to be on time hereafter, and continue regularly to boom Stanton and the VIEW.

The Dades Know It.

Or if they don't they should know that Rangum Root Liniment cured Big Head in mules for W. E. Hunt, of Adairsville, Ky. J. H. Mallory, of Fort's Station, Tenn., cured his hogs of blind staggers with it. In fact this King of Liniments is invaluable for man and beast, and no family should be without it. Sold by all druggists.

NOTICE NO. 6647.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 7, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court, or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15th, 1887, viz: Noah L. Broadhead Homestead 18490 for the s ½ of s e ¼ sec 6, t 20 n r 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Lee Hayse, Robert M. Roback, E. F. Fuller, William F. Roback, all of Maplesville, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6650.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 31, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge of the circuit court or in his absence the Clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 15, 1887, viz: John Morris, declaratory statement 1266 for the w ½ of n w ¼ sec 24, t 24 n r 15 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Henry Jones William Greie, George Eatres, Jonathan Eatres, all of Shelby Iron Works, Ala.

sep8 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6681.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 22, 1887, viz: John C. Arnold, Homestead 17906 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 28, township 21 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel Curry, Eli D. Barfield Gip G. West, John B. Moore all of Brierfield, Ala.

sep15 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6742.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on Nov. 11, 1887, viz: Ann Hicks, widow of George Hicks, Homestead 14636 for the n w ¼ sec 12 township 23 n, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Hightower and Jackson Campbell, of Randolph, Ala., and William Davis and Rebecca Hightower, of Jemison, Ala.

sep29 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6800.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 12, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: Thomas Harrison, Homestead 16,483 for the s w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4, township 22 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: J. F. Maull, F. G. Crocheron, G. W. Hill, J. P. Clyhan, all of Strasburg, Ala.

oct13 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6680.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d, 1887, viz: Sylvester Mims, Homestead 13479 for the w ½ of s e ¼ and s ½ of s w ¼ sec 25, township 21 north, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Oats, Jesse A. Culp, Daniel Dunnavin, and James R. Broadhead, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6679.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d 1887, viz: Tempy J. Oates, Homestead 13283 for the w ½ of n w ¼, the s e ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26 township 21 north range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, James R. Broadhead, Abram C. Mims, Sylvester Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6739.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver United States Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on November 12, 1887, viz: Mary J. Thornton, Homestead 13247 for the n e ¼ sec 33, township 21 n, range 16 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Harrison Kendrick, Thomas P. Connel, Elijah Welden, Bud Kendrick, all of Verbena, Ala.

sep29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6823.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: Mary E. Gentry, homestead 12826 for the n ½ of n e ¼ sec 26, township 23 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, Levi J. Martin, Walter Gothard, William R. Cofer, all of Jemison, Ala.

oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

—SUCH AS—

Painful Profuse Suppressed Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION OR MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' [illegible] CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

NEW HOME

PERFECT SATISFACTION

NEVER OUT OF ORDER.

aug10-1y

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

[illegible]

NOTICE NO. 6825.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 18, 1887, viz: Orville Roper, Homestead [illegible] for the [illegible] and [illegible] e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jasper N. Smith, James C. Mims, Francis M. Headley, of Clanton, Ala., and Lee Hayse, of Maplesville, Ala.

oct13 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6000.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 12, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 21st, 1887, viz: Albert N. Wilson, Homestead 18234 for the s e ¼ of section 6, township 20 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James H. Griffis, Robert L. Williams, Solomon Owen, Ely Owen, all of Kincheon, Ala.

oct 13 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6824.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 18, viz: Monroe M. Durbin, Homestead 13060 for the s ½ of n w ¼ and n ½ of s w ¼ sec 30 township 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James R. Broadhead, Madison Popwell, John Edwards, and Newton Culp, all of Kincheon, Ala.

oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6822.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: James P. Gentry, Homestead No. 16038 for the s w ¼ of n e ¼ and n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26, township 23 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Geo. W. Gothard, Levi J. Martin, Walter Gothard, William R. Cofer, all of Jemison, Ala.

oct 13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NEVER FAILS TO CURE BLIND BLEEDING 50 CTS & $1

ITCHING INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL PILES PER BOTTLE

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT.

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT

CURES SPRAINS, BRUISES, RHEUMATISM SORE THROAT, SPAVIN SPLINT, RINGBONE, EPIZOOTIC, Etc. 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

HODGES SARSAPARILLA

CURES RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA & ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD. $1 PER BOTTLE. 6 FOR $5.

TANNERS INFALLIBLE NEURALGIA CURE

CURES ALL FORMS OF NEURALGIA & NERVOUS HEADACHE. 50 CTS PER BOX.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. CO NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.
It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

L & N

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT

Through Trunk Line

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to [illegible] Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville, to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

[illegible] C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A. Louisville, Ky.

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,

CLANTON, ALA.,

IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,

—DEALER IN—

Dry Goods, Groceries,

—AND—

General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices.

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotts, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,

Are displaying a Complete and Varied Assortment of

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes, Clothing and Millinery.

Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.
Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,

CRACKED CORN for STOCK,

The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish

BOLTED MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
SELMA, ALABAMA.

mar24-y]

WILSON HOUSE.

A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.

Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.

BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Office and Salesrooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.

Birmingham, Alabama.

Jobbers and Retailers of

PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER, Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,

Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES.

We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.

Money to Loan!

We are prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

A. D. BENTLEY,
Att'y at Law, Clanton Ala., or
H. L. WILLIAMS,
Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

ma5 1y

A. J. MASSEY,
OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

Will go far and near.

Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements.

GO TO BLANK BROS., LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 13, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD. —Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.
No. 1. at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:17 p. m.
No. 7	6:47 a. m.
No. 5	6:22 p. m.
GOING NORTH.
No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	6:22 p. m.
No. 4	9:11 p. m.
No. 6	8.45 a. m.

Cotton Market.

BIRMINGHAM—Corrected weekly by Sol. D. Bloch & Co., cotton factors Market steady. Demand fair. Prices prevailing: Good Midling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8⅛c.

MONTGOMERY — Market quiet. Demand good. Good Midling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8⅛c.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

See the new final proof notices in this issue.

The Calera wild man has been in Clanton this week.

See tax collector's notice of last round in another column.

Chalk, for use in school room, for sale at VIEW Stationery Stand.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure is gentle in action, and warranted a certain cure. 50 cents a bottle.

Mr. R. C. Hide, of Nashville, is visiting relatives in Clanton.

A new shed is the latest improvement at the drug store.

Mr. Henry Thornton, of Lincoln, Ala., was in Clanton last week.

The danger of a malarial atmosphere may be averted if you will occasionally take a dose of Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure.

Mrs. W. H. Foshee will soon take a trip to Arkansas to visit relatives.

Mr. J. M. Bell brought us a lot of very fine turnips last week which he raised.

Payson's indelible ink, for marking clothes, for sale at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Mrs. T. M. Edwards, and Mrs. W. M. Burton have both been quite sick the past week.

A disordered condition of the stomach, or malaria in the system will produce sick headache, you can remove this trouble by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 cts per vial.

Gordon DuBose, Esq., was in Clanton Sunday. He is now city editor of the Anniston Watchman.

Mr. Jim Bell expects to move down in South Alabama soon to engage in business with a brother.

Confectioneries and family groceries at C. L. Phillips'. Call on him near the drug store.

Our Benson correspondent is a good one, and now that he has made a start, we want to hear from him regularly.

The attendance at Clanton Academy continues to increase. Prof. Hicks informs us that he now has seventy-odd pupils.

Appetite and sleep may be improved, every part of the system strengthened and the animal spirits regain their bouyancy by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

Miss Gamma Middleton, a recent acquisition to Clanton society, is assisting Prof. Hicks in instructing the pupils at Clanton Academy. Miss Mahone has charge of the music department exclusively.

New Goods.

I have added several new items to my stock, and have marked them down at reasonable figures. I have a nice lot of Jerseys at $1.00, $1.15, $1.25, and $1.75. Worsted dress goods of nice quality. A few shopping bags of fine material. Velvets in colors and black at 50 cts. per yard, for trimmings. Clothing, hats, and shoes for all who want to buy at low prices.

W. L. SAMPEY.

School patrons of this township should attend the meeting to be held at the courthouse next Monday, the 17th inst.

Wanted, 500 bushels cotton seed for which I will pay the highest market price in cash.

L. A. THORNTON,
Clanton, Ala., Oct. 6th, tf.

Parties who may want their teeth filled or extracted can have the same done by calling on Dr. Mahone at the residence of Mrs. Hannon. He will remain in Clanton for a few days only.

A young negro boy name Buddi Graham stabbed Tom Dupree, another negro, in the back with a pocket knife Sunday night just after coming out of church. The cut though painful is not serious.

Sudden change of temperature and humidity of the atmosphere often produce disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Use Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm to check these troubles in their incipiency.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which causes burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

To maimed or disabled soldiers and widows of Confederate soldiers: I have warrants on the State Treasurer for $6.69 for you. Call, or send a receipt for the warrant and get it. Yours Respectfully,

H. J. CALLEN,
Judge of Probate.

The Montgomery Dispatch says: The people along the Alabama river are loud in their praise of Capt. DeJarnett, who is making friends at every landing for the trade company. He is kind and accommodating, and is always attentive to his passengers, who are made to feel at home.

A Card of Thanks.

I take this method of returning my heartfelt gratitude to my friends, who have so kindly and liberally contributed to my wants in purchasing for me an invalid's chair. May the great God of Heaven add to them a hundred fold of his richest blessings for their sympathy and liberality in thus assisting a poor, old afflicted man.

MINOR WOOLLEY.
Oct. 1st, 1887.

Undue exposure to cold winds, rain, bright light or malaria, may bring on inflamation and soreness of the eyes. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve will subdue the inflamation, cool and soothe the nerves, and strengthen week and failing Eye sight. 25 cents a box.

Unsuspected disorders of the kidneys are responsible for many of the ordinary ailments of humanity which neglected, develop into a serious and perhaps fatal malady. Experience would suggest the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

Notice.

All the school patrons of township 22, range 14, are hereby notified that a meeting will be held at the court-house in Clanton at 10 a. m. on Monday, the 17th day of October, to determine how many schools shall be established in this township, where they are to be located, and how much money is to be expended on each school, and how many transfers are to go from this township.

W. E. SEWART,
T. Superintendent.

Of all glad words of tongue or pen, the gladdest are these to the sufferer with piles. A pleasant, speedy and permanent cure for piles is found in Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment, a preparation that has never been equaled as a remedy for that disease, and the sufferer does not not need to be told this the second time.

The Montgomery Dispatch tells of a successful operation performed by several Montgomery physicians upon Mr. J. E. Brown, who lives near Clanton, and who has suffered many years with stone in the bladder. Inside the substance taken from the bladder was found a piece of lead. Mr. B. having mentioned that he was shot during the war by bushwhackers, the opinion of the physicians was that the lead was the remains of a slug received more than twenty-four years ago by Mr. Brown, while he was fighting for his country. The case excited much comment among Montgomery physicians as a very singular one. When last heard from Mr. Brown was on the road to recovery, which his friends hereabouts will be very glad to know.

A beautiful woman must be healthy, and to remain healthy and beautiful she should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It imparts tone and flush to the skin, strength, vigor and pure blood; is equally adapted for all ages, from the babe to the aged, of either sex.

If the stomach performs its functions actively and regularly the food of which it is the receptical, is transformed into blood of a nourishing quality, which furnishes vigor and warmth to the whole body, the remedy to give tone to the stomach is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

Wedding Bells.

Wednesday evening Sept. 28th, the Methodist church of Avondale was filled to its utmost capacity by the citizens of Avondale and the Magic City to witness the marriage of Mr. W. W. Cook, of Virginia, and Miss Mamie Marsh, of Clanton. Precisely at 8:15 o'clock the organ, with Mrs. Grant as organist, pealed forth a beautiful wedding march and the bridal party entered.

The bride was a picture of loveliness in an artistic costume of cream albatross draped with a robe of Spanish lace and trimmed with choicest flowers. The groom, a tall and handsome young man, wore a regulation suit of black.

Rev. J. L. Ferguson performed the ceremony in a solemn and impressive manner.

After the marriage a number of invited guests repaired to the residence of Mrs. M. J. Marsh, the bride's mother where congratulations and good wishes were extended. A sumptuous repast was served and a pleasant evening spent when the happy couple were given many hearty good nights. Many handsome and useful presents were presented to the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook will stop in Avondale for a few days, after which they will locate in Birmingham.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boshee's German Syrup within a few years, has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by Physicians, as it does not dry up a Cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price, 75 cts., large bottles.

A ginger-cake colored nigger named Adam Green, a graduate of a college up in Maine, came down to Aberdeen, Miss., and shot off his pen, abusing the Southern people, calling them robbers and thieves, and saying they were indolent and thriftless, and also said the white women were the laziest, most shiftless set of women in existence. When his printed letter was read, there was great excitement and he barely escaped being lynched. A vigilance committee waited on him and warned him never to put his foot on Aberdeen soil again. He went the way of Montgomery's Duke.

I Told You So.

Mr. E. A. Ireland, of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tenn., says: "I was afflicted with piles for twenty years, and I tried every remedy offered me; finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment. It gave me instant relief, and has effected a permanent cure." Sold by all druggists. sep29

A fortune teller can hit a woman's case nine times out of ten. "You've had sickness and trouble. You'll have some property fall to you. You do not have full confidence in your husband. Beware! He is deceiving you! You have a very gentle nature. Everybody loves you. You have had trouble with a relative. It was not your fault. Beware of a blue eyed woman with a mole on her left cheek. She will make you trouble. Good by—$1—call again."—Detroit Free Press.

Did You Ever.

W. H. Revels, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says: "I have been in the practice of medicine for over eighteen years, but never have I seen the equal of Hodges' Sarsaparilla. It has worked miracles here in curing Rheumatism and Scrofula. Have almost come to the conclusion that I cannot practice without it." Sold by all druggists.

A young Chicago lawyer a few years ago had a case in the Federal court before a judge who, while noted for wisdom and his integrity, is exceeding impatient of contradiction. The attorney propounded the rule applicable to a certain point, when the court abruptly declared: "That is not the law."

"I beg the court's pardon," said the young attorney, "but I have a case exactly in point."

"Do you mean to contradict me?" demanded the court, mad as a decapitated hen.

"O, no, certainly not, I don't. The Supreme Court of the United States does, though, and I want to read this case to show you what a fool that court was."—Chicago Tribune.

After Three Years.

W. F. Walton, of Springfield, Tenn., says: I have been suffering with Neuralgia in my face and head off and on for three years. I purchased a box of Dr. Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure and took eight of the pills. I have not felt any symptoms of Neuralgia since. It gives me pleasure to recommend it." Sold by all druggists.

"Since a young lady in Ohio, struck by lightning, became old in appearance, the fair sex will be more than ever timid during thunder storms. It is likely, too, that wire bustles will be entirely abandoned, the simple newspaper device being the safest as well as the cheapest.—Courier Journal.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

The most successful remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effect and does not blister. Read proof below.

Orange Mills, Fla., June 30, 1886.
Dr. B. J. Kendall Co.
Gents:—I have used your Kendall's Spavin Cure and it is wonderful to say the least. Yours respectfully,
J. L. CRARY.

From the "Spirit of the Times," June 26, 1886. The old idea that a spavin was incurable has given way before the improvements made by modern science. Among these wonderful improvements must be mentioned the most successful remedy ever discovered for the cure of this disease, Kendall's Spavin Cure, one that is certain in its effect, and will not blister. It is prepared by Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburg Falls, Vt., and has received praise on every hand for its thorough and reliable work in cases of spavin or hock lameness. It is a certain cure for rheumatism, enlargement of the joints, corns, etc., while blood spavins and bursal enlargements promptly disappear on its use. It is a standard remedy among horse owners and breeders, where its work has often been proven. It is for sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle or six for $5, or will be forwarded to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.

THE

Verbena High School.

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MISS FANNY PURIFOY, Teacher of Music and Art.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class	$1 50
Intermediate Class	2 50
High School "	3 00
Music "	3 00
Collegiate "	4 00

Tuition is payable in advance.
Students will be prepared for any class in college.

Tax Notice.

(LAST CALL.)

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1887:

Strasburg	November	15
Pine Hill	"	16
D. H. Mullins'	"	17
Jemison	"	18
Hunt's Mill	"	19
Providence	"	22
Concord Church	"	21
Macedonia	"	23
Benson	"	14
Maplesville	"	21
Howison & Carter's Mill	"	30
R. Latham's	"	25
Stanton	"	26
Dixie	"	29
Valley Creek Church	"	28
Kincheon	December	12
Verbena	"	8
Cooper's	"	7
Clanton	"	3
John Gore's	"	5
Joe Allred	"	6
Pratt Saw Mill	"	9
Wells & McCranie's Mill	"	10
Patrick's Old Mill	"	13

And at Clanton ten last days of the year.

oct 13 D. A. WHITE, T. C. C. C.

NOTICE!

Pursuant to and by virtue of a commission issued by the Hon. Secretary of State on the 24th day of September, 1887, to the undersigned as incorporators of the Alabama Great Northwestern Railway Company, we will open or cause to be opened, books of subscription to the capital stock of said railway company on the 5th day of November, 1887, at the courthouse of the county of Chilton, in the town of Clanton, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

E. B. JOSEPH,
W. F. JOSEPH,
sep29-5t J. W. WOOLFOLK.

W. A. Ricketts,

—DEALER IN—

Guns and Ammunition,

GUN AND LOCKSMITH,

205 20th St., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

RUBBER STAMP with your name in Fancy Type, 25 visiting Cards, and India Ink to mark Linen, only 25 cts. (stamps.) Book of 2000 styles free with each order. Agents wanted. Big pay. THALMAN M'F'G Co., Baltimore, Md. oct6-6m

SHOW WALL CENTRE RIBBON CASES
ARTISTIC STORE FIXTURES.
Cedar Chests, Cabinets and Wardrobes.
CABINET WORK. TERRY SHOW CASE CO.
119 N. Cherry St., Nashville, Tenn. Catalogue Free
sep 8-y

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Having determined to anticipate the wants of the trade, I shall from October first, mark down my entire stock lower than any merchant in Chilton county and

Sell For Cash Across the Counter.

No exceptions made for anybody.

A. J. BROOKS.

Verbena, Ala., Sept. 23, 1887.

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO,

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

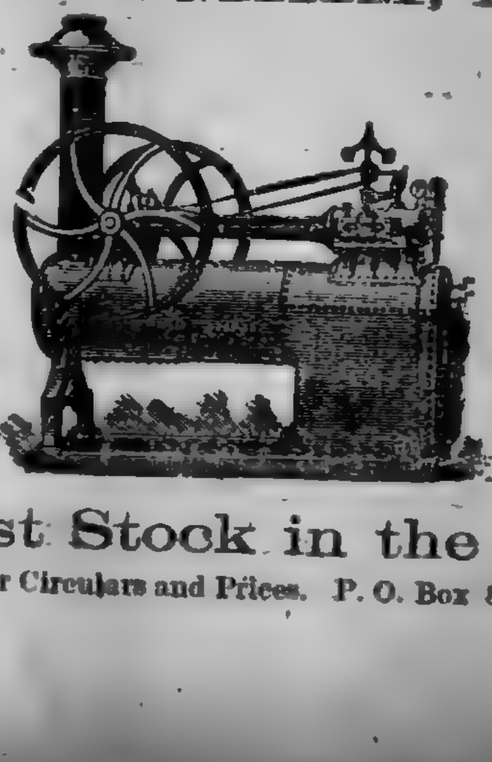
WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

—MORRIS AVENUE AND 22D STREET.—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,



COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES.
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 808. [July8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.
☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs, on Silk, Satin and Linen.
Photographs on watch dials.
Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously.
Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chess Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand,
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. janly

J. H. SHEPHERD
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER,
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA:
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT,
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods.
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

COME TO JEMISON
And Buy Your Goods at the
CHEAP CASH STORE
—OF—
I. N. Langston.
NO SHODDY GOODS!
·:· LOW ·:· PRICES ·:·
"QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS" IS MY MOTTO.
I can sell you Anything you want to buy, and will pay Highest Market Price for your Cotton and Produce.

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS.
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager.
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street
LOUISVILLE, KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS STAIR RAILS,
Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala
☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

ADVERTISE NOW.
—o—
We will insert you a nice, well-displayed advertisement at as low rates as any first-class paper can afford to do. Advertising rates made known on application.
SUPPORT YOUR HOME PAPER.

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

The Canada Thistle.

This "evil weed" is the subject of many dissertations annually. Here is the sustance of the last we have seen: "The Canada thistle while subdued somewhat by frequent and repeated mowings is not often destroyed by this means alone. The thistle root has numerous points, each one of which has power to send up a shoot, consequently while the main stalk and its immediate root connections are killed it does not follow that the numerous one root points are likewise destroyed. In fact, they seldom are, and herein lies the secret of the plant's irrepressibility. The best results are gained when the thistles are but in their early bloom and before the seeds have formed. It is also well to cut during or just before a warm rain.

A Remedy Against the Curculio.

H. R. B. recommends the following plan for driving off the curculios from plum and cherry trees, viz.: To get a quantity of tar and an old iron pot, heat the pot over a fire and carry it to the tree, put in some of the tar and hold the pot so that the tree is well smoked. This is done as soon as the young fruit is set and is repeated when the soot wears off.

There is no other plan so effective as jarring the trees twice or three times a day, with a sheet slit on one side so as to cover the ground under the tree; the beetles are very inactive and fall to the sheet, from which they are gathered and put into an empty fruit can with some water and a little kerosene oil in it, by which they are quickly killed. If with this the plum trees are inclosed and some fowls kept in the lot and fed there by scattering meal about the trees one may be sure of full crops of plums.—New York Times.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Use every endeavor to induce the birds to build near the house and barn, as they are the best insect exterminators.

Buttermilk thickened with wheat middlings and ground oats, with plenty of grass, is the best food for growing pigs.

A dairyman advises against the common practice of selling the calves and relying upon buying fresh cows as very risky, and often causing loss.

Sheep droppings are highly concentrated, and should be carefully saved, the best mode of so doing being to mix them with the compost heap.

It is true that it is better not to pick the small fruit than to mix the berries. Quantity does not pay as well as quality, if the commission merchant is faithful.

Beets, carrots, parsnips and turnips are not only acceptable for feeding purposes of themselves, but they also promote digestion and keep stock in good condition.

When a young tree runs up in height with but few strong branches and a slender trunk the top should be trimmed off a few inches, especially of the main shoots.

It is best not to allow a tree so to overload itself with fruit as to compel the use of props to the limbs. The fruit should be thinned out, leaving only the choicest.

The Husbandman says that the farmer who picks out his fattest and best sheep and lambs to sell will find, after a time, his flock so far run down that nobody will care to buy.

Young turkeys over ten weeks old are usually past danger. They will be tender until they shall have the red face, but after that time they will be hardier than chicks.

Boiled milk is recommended as a sure cure for looseness in colts, calves, or human beings, or as a check for chicken cholera. For fowls it must be carefully fed with a spoon.

By feeding the oats unthreshed, we save the labor of threshing, and also get the straw and grain together in the stomach, getting a better digestion of both than when they are fed separate.

In turning weeds under the work will be thrown away unless they be completely covered, as covering the roots only and leaving the tops out of the ground will permit them to continue growing.

Open sheds in the barn yard are serviceable in providing shade in the summer and in affording protection from driving storms in winter. Every barn yard should have an opening shed, if convenient.

It costs very little to plant trees along the road, and when they shall reach a fair size they will add something to the value of the farm. Attractiveness is often as much value as fertility when disposing of a farm.

The earliest Lima beans, which are usually found near the lower parts of the vines, should not be picked until enough have been allowed to dry for seed, as next season they will produce earlier than the higher grown seed.

Where sheep are troubled with flies and maggots they rapidly lose flesh, as they get but little rest and have no appetites. Damp pastures are also injurious, often causing foot rot. The sheep should always be sheltered at night.

Carrots are valuable as food for all kinds of stock, and 500 bushels may be raised on an acre, but turnips are grown in preference, because they germinate from the seed sooner, and are not easily overrun with grass and weeds.

It is not generally known that hyacinth and tulip bulbs, lifted after the foliage begins to die, kept in a cool, dry place through the summer and reset in October, produce the most abundant and perfect flowers. This is worthy of trial.

The white and brown Leghorn fowls begin to lay when only five months old. They are non-setters, lay white eggs, and rank very high as egg-producers. They are, however, small in size, and do not answer as well for market as do the larger breeds.

A fast horse is not the best for the plow or cultivator, as such horses not only soon exhaust themselves, but the driver also. The best work can usually be done with a slow animal, as the grass and weeds can thus more easily be destroyed.

The St. Louis Republican says not a few of our progressive farmers are adopting a practice common among English agriculturists and growing carrots as a field crop. They believe there is no better root for cows and horses, sheep and oxen. Carrots cause other food-grain, for example, to digest more easily.

The food that is given the hen should contain all the elements that exist in the egg. These are found in wheat, oats, corn, bran, linseed, crushed bone, mustard seed, sunflower seed, and vegetable matter. Reasonable mixture of all of these, varied more or less with the aid of crushed limestone or gypsum, would afford every element called for to produce a constant yield of eggs.

HOUSEHOLD MATTERS.

Recipes.

COD FISH.—Pick the fish fine, and let stand in cold water over night; put in a saucepan with sufficient milk to cover it well; when it boils, thicken with flour and butter.

COOKIES.—Two eggs, one and one-half teacupfuls of sugar, one cupful of butter, one-half cupful sweet milk, two teaspoonfuls cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of soda, nutmeg to taste. Mix in enough flour to roll, cut into round cakes and bake in a quick oven.

NOODLES FOR SOUP.—Beat three eggs very light; add flour enough to make a stiff batter, and a pinch of salt; roll out thin, sprinkle with flour and roll up tight; begin at one end and shave off like cabbage. Be sure that the soup is boiling when they are dropped in.

LEMON PIE.—Take the grated rind and juice of two lemons, add one and one-half cups of sugar, two tablespoons of flour, small piece of butter, yolk of four beaten eggs and one quart of milk; bake with an undercrust. When done pour over the top the whites of the eggs beaten to a froth and sweetened; then set in the oven to brown.

APPLE MARMALADE.—Wipe the apples well, and do not pare, but core and slice them. Have ready a syrup of three pounds of sugar to a pint of water, boiled quickly for five minutes. Into this boiling syrup throw the sliced apples and boil quite rapidly for an hour, reckoning from the time of its first boiling up. Stir often. It should them be clear, jellified and rather stiff. Allow three pounds of sugar to four of apples.

CHICKEN JELLY.—Boil a chicken in as little water as possible until the meat falls from the bones; chop it very fine, and season highly with salt and pepper; put into the bottom of a mold some slices of hard-boiled eggs, then a portion of the chicken, then sliced egg, and so on till the mold is full. Boil the chicken water down to a cupful, season it and pour it over the chicken. Let it stand on ice, or in a cool place, six or eight hours for the jelly to congeal. If there is any fear that it will not be firm enough, soak a little gelatine and add it to the stock.

Useful Hints.

Milk bread dries out faster than water bread.

Do not let stale flowers remain in a sick-chamber.

In boiling a pudding leave room for it to swell. If cooked in a mold do not fill it full.

Scald peaches and the skin can be removed much easier than by peeling without scalding.

Egg shell crushed and shaken in glass bottles half filled with water will clean them quickly.

In baking apple or peach dumplings fill the pan two-thirds full of water; they are not so dry and hard.

Wash your flat iron in soapsuds and dry thoroughly, if they at all trouble you by dropping black specks.

In baking custard set the pan containing it into another pan containing hot water, and it will cook much better.

A few leaves of green wormwood, scattered where black ants congregate, is said to be effectual in dislodging them.

A few drops of salicylic acid or oxide of zinc mixed with acacia powder is a remedy for excessive sweating of the hands.

Oilcloth may be improved in appearance by rubbing it with a mixture of a half-ounce of beeswax in a saucerful of turpentine.

For sumac (dogwood) poisoning make a strong solution of alum water and bathe the affected parts freely for a few times and it will effect a cure.

A glossy starch is made by mixing together a quart of starch, a teaspoonful of salt and one of white soap scraped fine; boil after adding hot water until as thick as you wish.

The French method of administering castor oil to children is to pour the oil into a pan over a moderate fire, break an egg into it and stir up. When it is done flavor with a little salt or sugar or currant jelly.

Saturate the edges of carpets with a strong solution of alum water to destroy moths; if an unpainted floor, wash the floor with it before putting down the carpet. Do the same to shelves where black ants appear.

Equal parts of strong ammonia water, ether and alcohol form a valuable cleaning compound. Pass a piece of blotting paper under the grease spot, moisten a sponge first with water to render it "greedy," then with the mixture, and rub the spot with it. In a moment it is dissolved, saponified, and absorbed by the sponge and blotter.

A Bloodless Man.

Physicians and scientists are at a loss to account for a strange freak of nature which lives a few miles from here, says a letter from Berlin, Germany. The man, whose name is Otto Schreiber, apparently has no blood. This fact was discovered less than a month ago, when Schreiber, who is a corporal, had a duel with a fellow soldier. His opponent ran him through with a sword, but no blood flowed, and he did not appear to be harmed in the least. The man was so astonished that Otto had no difficulty in killing him. Since that time he has let his comrades amuse themselves by sticking knives and daggers through his body, with no injury whatever, not even a drop of blood flowing. He visited a medical college in Berlin, and in the presence of the whole college had a sharp knife run through his mouth, coming out at the back of his head. No mark whatever was left. He was then examined by a committee of distinguished surgeons, who confessed themselves totally unable to explain the miracle. Otto Schreiber is a corporal in the German army, and next year, when his time is up, he will exhibit himself in Berlin, Paris, London and America.

The Glaciers of Alaska.

The Alaskan glaciers are, according to all who had seen them, among the chief wonders of the great Northern region, and the trip to them and the country near is fast becoming a popular one for the summer vacation season. The Davidson Glacier has a precipitous point between 300 and 400 feet high, and the mass extends inland to lofty summits of about 4,500 feet altitude. It is at the head of Lynn Canal, better known as Chatham Strait, and north of Juneau and Douglass Island and east of Sitka. The water close up to the frowning height is deep and clear. Back of the Davidson Glacier and the Muir Glacier to the south and west is supposed to be a vast sea of mingled snow, ice and rocks, and this district promises well as a field for exploration.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A son of King Bell, of Cameroons, Africa, is apprenticed to a carpenter in Altona, Germany.

About Colors.

About the question as to what brides should wear on their wedding day, the Pope has recently spoken his mind. His niece, Maria Pecci, is to be married to Count Michael Maroni, an officer in the Papal Guards. The Pope is superintending the trousseau of the bride-elect, and has sent a letter to her, in which he expressly stipulated that her choice of colors is to be limited to three—white, blue and black. He writes that they are the three colors most becoming to young people; "gray and brown suit only old women;" and as for all other colors, he does not like them.

"The Blood is Life."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and soundness of constitution will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors from the common pimple, blotch or eruption, to the worst scrofula or blood poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing salt rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint disease, scrofulous sores and swellings, enlarged glands and eating ulcers.

Golden Medical Discovery cures consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs), by its wonderful blood purifying, invigorating and nutritive properties. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, bronchitis, severe coughs, asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. It promptly cures the severest coughs.

For torpid liver, biliousness or "liver complaint," dyspepsia and indigestion, it is an unequaled remedy. Sold by druggists.

The alliance between Russia, Germany and Austria is at an end and will not be renewed.

Lung Troubles and Wasting

Diseases can be cured if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. FREEMAN, Sidney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

A N. C. farmer cleared $800 from an acre of land planted in wax beans.

Sick and bilious headache and all derangement of stomach and bowels cured by Dr. Pierce's "Pellets"—or anti-bilious granules. 25 cents a vial. No cheap boxes to allow waste of virtues. By druggists.

Farmers should dig the sweet potato crop the first week in November.

SAFE, permanent and complete are the cures of bilious and intermittent diseases, made by Prickly Ash Bitters. Dyspepsia, general debility, habitual constipation, liver and kidney complaints are speedily eradicated from the system. It disinfects, cleanses and eliminates all malaria. Health and vigor are obtained more rapidly and permanently by the use of this great natural antidote than by any other remedy heretofore known. As a blood purifier and tonic it brings health, renewed energy and vitality to a worn and diseased body.

Many Englishmen of prominence are joining the Irish National Land League.

* * * * Delicate diseases of either sex radically cured. Send 10 cents in stamps for book. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Bishop Potter, of New York, will soon be known as "Archbishop" Potter.

The Mind Cure.

The theory of the mind cure may do for some hysterical cases, but for chronic bowel troubles, croup, colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, Dr. Biggers' Huckleberry Cordial is the surest and best cure. Keep it.

Extraordinary but nevertheless true. We refer to the announcement of B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, in which they propose to show working energetic men how to make from $100 to $300 a month over and above expenses.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

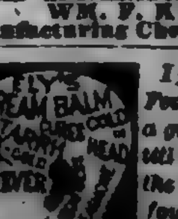
3 months' treatment for 50c. Piso's Remedy for Catarrh. Sold by druggists.

FLORIDA: "Its Advantages and Drawbacks." For this book free, or Florida maps, books, lands or tickets, address O. M. CROSBY, Box 1,8?7, New York.

What Is the Use
Of your dragging yourself around day after day, without any life or activity, feeling all tired out and miserable, when you might be as quick and lively and strong as ever? Take care of yourself at once, or in the depicted condition of your system, a complaint otherwise trivial may fasten upon you with serious or fatal results. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just the medicine you need to build up your entire system, to purify and quicken your blood, and to give you appetite and strength.
"Hood's Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier has no equal. It tones the system, strengthens and invigorates, giving new life. I have taken it for kidney complaint, with the best results."—D. R. SAUNDERS, 81 Pearl Street, Cincinnati, O.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.
It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.
As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DYGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty-five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N. Y.

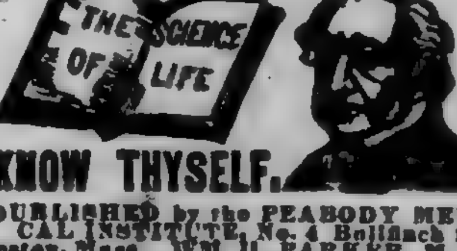


I found it a specific for Hay Fever. For 10 years I have been a great sufferer from Aug. 8th till frost. Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventive I have ever found. Hay Fever sufferers should know of its efficacy.—Frank B. Ainsworth, Publisher, Indianapolis, Ind.
Apply Balm in a each nostril.
FREE By return mail. Full Description [illegible]
Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

FLORIDA HOMES AND ORANGE GROVES FREE
10 Orange Grove Tracts of 40 acres.
20 Orange Grove Tracts of 20 acres.
40 Orange Grove Tracts of 10 acres.
330 Orange Grove Tracts of 5 acres.
400 Orange Grove Tracts of 2½ acres.
100 City Building Lots.
We are giving away a portion of our lands that the remainder may be greatly increased in value. Advertising space costs too much to give full particulars here; but send your full name and postoffice address to our Northern office, where all deeds are made, and we will send you by return mail, in a sealed envelope, a
NUMBERED Land CERTIFICATE FREE
Which certificate will enable you to secure one of the above divisions of valuable Florida property, free. No charge of any kind is made for either the Numbered Land Certificate or the Property it designates. ALL FREE. Address W. H. Whetstone, Sec'y, 237 Main Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
YOU WILL BE A TRAITOR to your own interests and to those dependent on you if you fail to avail yourself of this Great Free Land Offer. Secure it for your children.
Send your application not later than two weeks from the date of this paper.

PATTERN FREE!
By Special Arrangement with DEMOREST'S MONTHLY, the greatest of all family magazines, we are enabled to make every one of our lady readers a handsome present. Cut out this slip and inclose it before Dec. 1st (with a two-cent stamp for return postage) to W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th Street, New York, and you will receive by return mail a full-size pattern, with full description and illustration, of this Jacket (worth 25 cents.)
Cross out with pencil the size desired. Bust 34, 36, 38 and 40.
Do not subscribe for another Magazine for the coming year, before sending for this handsome pattern. Its descriptive envelope will contain full information about DEMOREST'S Monthly.

EXHAUSTED VITALITY
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.



KNOW THYSELF.
PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above.
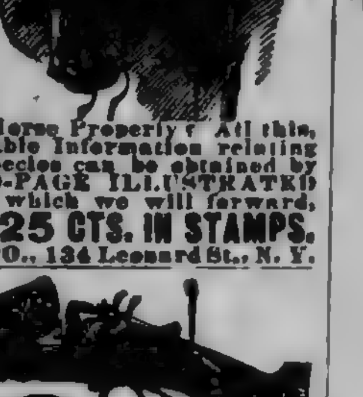
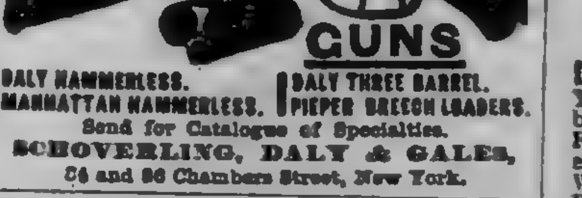
Name this paper.

MEN AND BOYS!

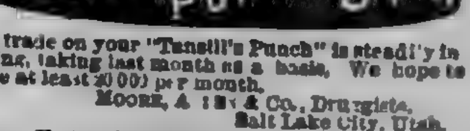


Do you want to learn all about a Horse? How to Pick Out a Good One? How to Know Imperfections and so Guard against Fraud? How to Detect Disease and effect a cure when same is possible? How to Tell the Age by the Teeth? What to call the Different Parts of the Animal? How to Shoe a Horse Properly? All this, and other Valuable Information relating to the Equine Species can be obtained by reading our 100-PAGE ILLUSTRATED HORSE BOOK, which we will forward, postpaid, on receipt of ONLY 25 CTS. IN STAMPS.
HORSE BOOK CO., 134 Leonard St., N. Y.

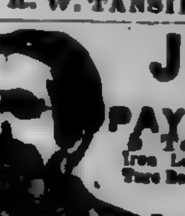


GUNS
DALY HAMMERLESS. MANHATTAN HAMMERLESS. | DALY THREE BARREL. PIEPER BREECH LOADERS.
Send for Catalogue of Specialties.
SCHOVERLING, DALY & GALES,
84 and 86 Chambers Street, New York.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for



Our trade on your "Tansill's Punch" is steadily increasing, taking last month as a basis. We hope to handle at least 3000 per month.
MOORE, A 1 ?? & Co., Druggists, Salt Lake City, Utah.
Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.



JONES HE PAYS the FREIGHT
5 Ton Wagon Scales, Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
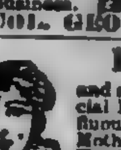
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address JONES OF BINGHAMTON, BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

SOULE BUSINESS COLLEGE,
Renowned for Superior Courses of Practical Study. Perfect Equipments, and Efficient Faculty. Over 5,000 Students now in Business. ☞ Send for circular. Address COL. GEO. SOULE, New Orleans, La.



FACE, HANDS, FEET,
and all their imperfections, including Facial Development, Hair and Scalp, Superfluous Hair, Birth Marks, Moles, Warts, Moth, Freckles, Red Nose, Acne, Black Heads, Scars, Pitting and their treatment. Send 10c. for book of 50 pages, 4th edition.
Dr. J. H. Woodbury, 37 N. Pearl St., Albany, N.Y., Est'b'd 1870.

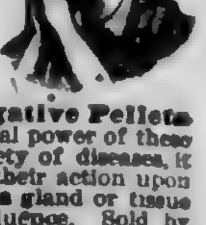
AGENTS WANTED to sell NOVELTY RUG MACHINES and RUG PATTERNS, for making Rugs, Tidies, Hoods, Mittens, etc. Machine sent by mail for $1. Send for late reduced price list. E. Ross & Co., Toledo, O.

$100 to $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. AGENTS preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

SOLDIERS all get Pensions, if ½ disabled; Officers' travel pay, bounty collected; Deserters relieved; 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Laws sent free. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D. C.

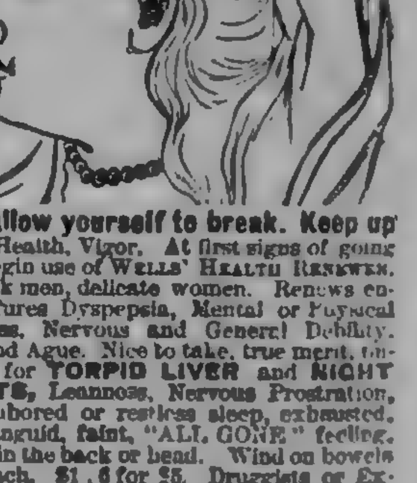
PATENTS obtained by E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C. Send for our book of instructions.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets
The Original LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.
Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative, these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.
SICK HEADACHE,



Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

$500 REWARD
is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.
SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.
By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.
Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.
"Untold Agony from Catarrh."
Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."
"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."
THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 2902 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."
Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.
ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."



Don't allow yourself to break. Keep up Youth, Health, Vigor. At first signs of going back, begin use of WELLS' HEALTH RENEWER. For weak men, delicate women. Renews energy. Cures Dyspepsia, Mental or Physical Weakness, Nervous and General Debility, Fever and Ague. Nice to take, true merit, unequaled for TORPID LIVER and NIGHT SWEATS, Leanness, Nervous Prostration, heavy labored or restless sleep, exhausted, tired, languid, faint, "ALL GONE" feeling, distress in the back or head. Wind on bowels or stomach. $1, 6 for $5. Druggists or Express. E. S. WELLS, Jersey City, N. J., U. S. A.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Attorney, Washington, D. C.

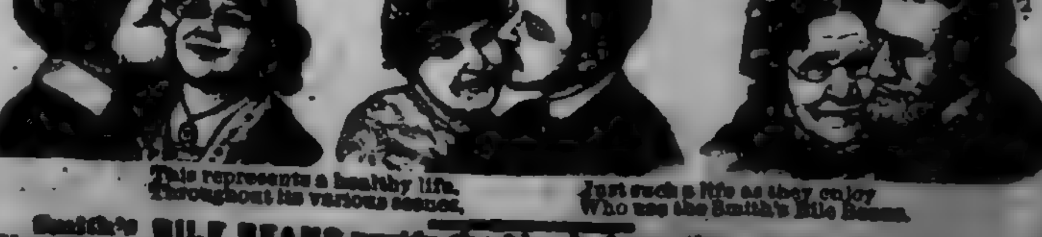
OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

GOLD is worth $600 per lb. Pettit's Eye Salve is worth $1,000, but is sold at 25c. a box by dealers.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Sold by druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren, Pa.

A. N. U..........Forty, '87



This represents a healthy life, Throughout its various scenes.

Just such a life as they enjoy Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle, mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.
J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.
The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address, BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

TOWER'S FISH BRAND SLICKER The Best Waterproof Coat

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	1 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ [illegible]	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 [illegible]	11 75	20 00
3 Inches	[illegible]	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 [illegible]	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	14 00	22 50	33 00
¼ Column	14 [illegible]	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1887. NUMBER 50.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

The Tulare (Cal.) Times says that as high as $20 per acre rental is paid for land on the American River, in Sacramento County, for use in raising peanuts, and considers it a profitable industry even at three cents a pound.

English physicians say that a form of ophthalmia, caused by the vitiated atmosphere arising from overcrowding, has been practically banished whenever sanitary improvements have been introduced. Pure air produced immediately better eyesight.

A New York writer says that the two principal causes which have led to decline in matrimony among fashionable circles in New York are the "increased comforts and diminished expense of bachelor life and the ever-worship to which we have accustomed our women."

In the exhibition recently opened at Havre there is an interesting collection of specimens of poisonous fishes. Some are poisonous when eaten; others are merely venomous. Among the first are many Sparoids, a Tetrodon, and many Clupea, which are abundant near the Cape of Good Hope. In the Japan Sea is found a very peculiar Tetrodon, which is sometimes used as a means of suicide. It brings on sensations like those produced by morphia, and then death.

A Western writer plainly sets the limits to girlhood and dares to say when a woman is an "old maid." She says: The longevity of girlhood, according to the ethics of society, has increased in the last dozen or fifteen years. A girl is not an "old maid" now until she is past thirty. Once she was an "old maid" at twenty-five. She is a girl now for five years beyond that age. It is even deemed not only possible but probable that some man will find her fair and lovable after that advanced age and she marry.

The Rev. Sam. Jones says: "If I wanted to get good, square judgment on something I had done, I would rather go to a newspaper office than to any court of justice. I know that newspapers probe into men's characters, and the pure need not fear all the newspapers in America. The way to be safe from so-called newspaper attacks is to be a Christian. The reporters are the best detective force in this country. They have brought more criminals to justice, and punctured more shams, than all other agenies combined."

Mr. A. W. Franks has presented to the British Museum a most remarkable coin lately received from India. It is a decadrachm of the Bactrian series, the first ever met with, and bears on the obverse a man charging with his lance an elephant, holding a thunderbolt and a spear; in the field is a monogram, composed of the letters A B. The obverse records some victory of the Greeks over the barbarians, and the reverse may be a representation of Alexander the Great. The coin evidently comes from the district of the Oxus, and was struck about the middle of the second century B. C.

In a pamphlet issued lately by the United States Hydrographic Office, Lieutenant Underwood says that mineral oils are not so effective for use at sea as vegetable or animal. A comparatively small amount of the right kind of oil, say two quarts per hour, properly used, is sufficient, he asserts, to prevent much damage, both to vessels and to small boats, in heavy seas. The greatest result from oil is obtained in deep water. In a surf, or where water is breaking on a bar, the effect is not so certain; but even in this case oil may be of benefit, and its use is recommended by Lieutenant Underwood. He advises that, when an attempt is about to be made to board a wreck, the approaching vessel should use the oil after running as close as possible under the lee of the wreck. The wreck will soon drift into the oil, and then a boat may be sent alongside of her.

Two interesting bits of information relative to Colombia, the little Central American republic, are made public. The first states that "the Government of Colombia is authorized to grant a reward of $10,000 in silver to every one who discovers a new mercantile article of export. Under this law Senor Rafael Vanegas has filed two claims, one for the discovery and employment of a valuable medicinal plant; the second for the discovery that wild cocoa trees exist in profusion in the virgin forests which stretch from the waters of the Ariari down to the River Guayabero. If investigation should prove the correctness of this statement, it will throw millions of dollars annually into Colombia and place a valuable article within the reach of many who are now deprived of the use of it owing to the price." The second item says that "a newspaper at Bogota (the capital of Colombia) reports that the gold which is now being dug out of the cemeteries at Hilandia and other places near Pereira, in Cauca, has led more than 3,000 workmen to flock to that spot, and a town has sprung up there within the last four years which now contains more than fifty thousand inhabitants. These people are almost all Antioquians, and the majority of them have obtained sufficient gold to render themselves and their families independent of work for the remainder of their lives."

LOVE AND DUTY.

Oh, love is for a summer day,
That dawns and glows and fades away,
And night comes down all dark and gray,
And pleasures disappear!
But duty lights the nightly path,
And braves spring rains and winter wrath,
A star that shines from birth till death,
Thro' all the changing year.

Oh, Love seeks but for self-delight,
While lips are red and eyes are bright,
From eld's gray locks he wings his flight
Nor lingers sick beds near!
But duty's spent for others' sake,
By fever's couch will watch and wake
Will dare the martyr's fire and stake
And dry the falling tear.

Oh, love is like that poison wine
That tasted savors of divine,
But drunk will cause the wretch to pine
With death throes dread and drear!
But duty's cup, though bitter first,
Soon slakes the sufferer's burning thirst;
And health and bloom that blessed him erst,
Like June flowers reappear.

—O'Neill Ryan, in the Current.

The Sutler's Daughter.

BY GEORGE P. PARISH.

We had been in the saddle all day, facing the sharp, driving snow, and buffeted about by the cold north wind, until it seemed as if the very blood had frozen in my veins, as my horse continued to move slowly forward, his head hanging heavily down. It was nearly midnight now as we drew in towards the Fort Wheeler stockade and were greeted by the welcome challenge of the sentry:

"Who comes?"

Aroused into new life by the cry, I straightened up in the saddle and shook the weight of snow from my shoulders.

"An officer from Reno with recruits," I said.

I heard the sharp click of the musket brought to a salute, and as we rode by, bent down to ask:

"Where is the commandant's quarters?"

"Straight ahead, sir; where them lights be. The women folks have a party to-night."

Followed by the little troop, I pushed forward across the snowy parade-ground, beyond the short row of log huts, up toward a larger frame building that seemed fairly ablaze with lights.

As I halted my men before the house, and, stiff in every joint, swung from the saddle, the door was thrown suddenly open and a dozen faces looked out eagerly into the night. The officer in command, a tall, soldierly looking fellow, with long, white mustache, stepped outside, shading his eyes, and as I moved forward into the circle of light, a moving mound of snow, his puzzled face broke into a smile of welcome, and he came down the steps with both hands extended towards me.

"Brian, by all that's glorious!" he exclaimed. "Welcome back to the old regiment, my boy!" And without waiting for a reply, he turned to an officer beside him: "Finley, take these men to quarters and see that they are well cared for. Now, Brian, come in; no excuses, please; you have had a hard ride, and a little fire will do you good;" and after throwing my wet coat to a sergeant, I had to follow his lead into the pleasant parlor. "My wife and daughter you have met before," continued the colonel, without much ceremony. "Mrs. Carter and Miss Sopha, allow me; gentlemen, this is Captain Brian, of 'ours.'"

We shook hands most cordially all around, and I met not a few old friends in that little group—men whom I had known in various garrisons and campaigns—and questions and congratulations poured in from every side. The ladies were of the ordinary style of garrison women, pretty enough to pass muster, but shallow from the limited associations allowed them in the life they were compelled to lead, and the warm fire was commencing to make me sleepy, when my eyes fell upon a girl seated in the further corner of the room, to whom I had not been introduced. She was more than merely pretty, and something about her strangely interested me from the first. She was seated upon a low sofa, carelessly talking to a young lieutenant, whose name I did not know; a tall, rather slender girl, with large brown eyes and a strangely fair complexion, almost like marble, were it not for the faint flush that occasionally crept into her cheeks. She smiled pleasantly at something the fellow was saying, and as she leaned forward to reply, the firelight flashed up into the masses of her hair, and gave to it almost a tinge of auburn.

I ventured to ask the colonel who she was, after we had completed our business together, and the only answer I received was:

"She is a Miss Burke, connected with the garrison."

And with that I was compelled to be content, but more than ever determined to solve the mystery, if mystery there was.

"Compliments of Mrs. Colonel Carlin," said an old sergeant at my door the next morning; "the ladies would be pleased to have you join them upon the ice."

Glad thus to kill time, I borrowed a pair of skates and sallied forth. Walking carelessly down the steep bank to the frozen river, I found myself in the midst of a merry party, and was at once taken possession of by Belle Carlin, the lively, pretty daughter of the colonel. Hand-in-hand we went, skating down to the bend and back without halting. The ice was like glass, the air quiet and cold, and we sped along as easily as birds upon the wing. As we dashed back into the little group, some of whom were without skates, I noticed Miss Burke, some distance beyond the circle, alone, and gliding here and there as gracefully as if born upon the ice.

Determined to know more of this strange girl who so greatly interested me, I broke away as soon as possible from my companion, and with a dozen strokes reached Miss Burke's side. She glanced up, startled by the ring of my steel, and hesitated as if meditating flight. But for that I gave her no time, for with lifted cap I asked:

"May I not claim your company for one turn to the bend?"

Her dark, expressive eyes fell as if in embarrassment, but without a word she held out her little gloved hand to me, and then catching the stroke, we glided swifty away together.

"That was a most delightful spin, Captain," she exclaimed, as we reached the banks once more, her black eyes dancing with excitement and her usually pale cheeks flused in the keen air.

"Then shall we not have another?" I asked, looking at her in admiration.

I verily believe she was intending to say yes, but just at that moment, Major Dane, a tall, dark-featured man, who was passing at a little distance, suddenly circled about, and came to a stop before us.

"You so seldom skate with any one," he said politely to my companion, "that we forget to ask the privilege; but as you have broken your custom and favored Captain Brian, may I hope you will be equally kind to me?"

There was a moment's pause, as if in surprise at the interruption, and then the girl glanced straight up into his face.

"I am tired and shall skate no longer to-day," she said calmly.

The man looked down into her dark eyes, as if to read her thoughts, bowed low, and turned away, apparently unconcerned.

"Then that must mean me as well?" I whispered.

"Could it be otherwise?" her eyes cast down. "I must get my hood, and then I will go in, I think."

"You do not ask me to call upon you," I dared to venture. "Is it because you do not wish me to?"

She crimsoned deeply, but held out her hand.

"You would, of course, be welcomed but by to-morrow, I think, you will not care to call upon Ada Burke." And before I could say a word or ask a question, she had turned from me and was flying across the frozen surface like a bird.

I stood for a moment watching her slender, graceful figure, when suddenly she gave a quick cry that echoed along the river, and the same moment disappeared from sight.

"My God, an ice-hole!" cried the Major's voice, but that instant I thrust him heavily aside and was speeding forward.

Such things pass so quickly as to leave but a faint impression on the mind as to minor details. I vaguely remember bending over the ice-hole, seeing nothing, hastily kicking off my skates and dropping into the icy water. I remember the terrible struggle for breath as I felt about under the ice; the thrill of joy that swept over me as my hand clutched the girl's dress. How we regained the opening I know not, but a dozen strong hands grasped us and drew us to the surface, and then I, for one, lost all consciousness of everything about me. It is like the faint impression of a dream.

The shock and the cold, however, did my system but little harm, and after a warm supper and receiving tidings that the girl, though quite weak, was in a fair way to recovery, I felt so much better as to desire a change.

"Where are the boys?" I asked of my orderly, who was bustling about.

"All in the messroom, sir; leastwise I heard 'em laughin' thar a moment ago."

I found them gathered there, sitting cozily around the great fireplace, with the blue clouds of tobacco-smoke curling up in rings to the ceiling.

"Have a chair, Captain," said Carter, kindly; "you are the lion of the garrison at present."

"Yaas," put in Dane, with a drawl that was decidedly irritating to my nerves. "By Jove, if we only had a band now, we'd make them play 'See the Conquering Hero,' don't you know!"

"Thanks, I answered calmly, accepting a proffered cigar; "but really I don't feel that way at all myself."

"No; very cool, ain't you? Just like a novel, by Jove! If only the heroine was somebody, now, what a romance it would be!" and he leaned back, staring up hard at the ceiling. "By-the-way, Brian, I just took the trouble to call, and the girl is coming on splendidly."

"I am very glad," I answered coolly. "By-the-way, Finley, turning from the conceited puppy in disgust, "I wish you would inform me who this Miss Burke is?"

Somebody laughed rather harshly at the question, and I turned around angrily. It was the Major.

"Who Miss Burke is?" he echoed, as if the question was a splendid joke. "Well, I can tell you, if anybody can; she simply isn't anybody, that's all. Do you happen to be honored with the acquaintance of Tony Burke?"

I shook my head not venturing to speak.

"Well, you ought to know him. Tony is a character. Why, he was sutler for the Twelfth Infantry for years, and now he is the sutler here, and Miss Burke is his daughter. I never had the pleasure of making the mother's acquaintance—deuced pretty girl the daughter, though, ain't she?"

I looked at him intently.

"Not only very pretty, but a lady," I said.

"Yes, and that is what bothers Dane," chimed in Finley; "she has proved altogether too much for him."

The Major started as if stung by the remark.

"Do you really think so?" he sneered, complacently. "I'll bet you a cool hundred that I can win Ada Burke's heart inside of a month, if I want it."

"You're crazy, man."

"No, I'm not. Come, money talks—is it a bet?"

We gathered closer about the two men, to listen. Finley's face reddened. For a moment he seemed to hesitate, and then replied:

"It is not very gentlemanly, Major Dane, but I'll cover your money. Now, how shall we know the result—from the lady herself?"

"Yes, if you like. It makes no difference to me. The bet is that I win the heart of Miss Burke within a month from to-night," and he passed out, leaving me burning with indignation and a wild desire to insult him in some way.

The winter rolled slowly along, with concerts, parties, sleigh-rides and everything, in fact, that would help to pass away the time where we could have no papers to read, no news from the outside world till spring.

I did not meet Miss Burke at the varied little gatherings given by the ladies of the garrison. She seemed to be more and more estranged as the weeks passed on; but I did not forget or neglect the girl. I [illegible] I learned of the hardship of her position, and of her loneliness. Impelled first by sympathy, I did call upon her, not only once, but many times, until sympathy grew into respect and mutual confidence. Of course the colonel's wife early took me to task for this breach of garrison etiquette, and Mrs. Carter hinted things which were very disagreeable to hear, yet nevertheless I continued to pass many evenings most agreeably in the little cramped up parlor at the rear of the dingy sutler's store, and on pleasant afternoons we frequently rode out together down to the Cedar Grove and back through the keen wintry air. I did all this to tease the garrison, perhaps, as much as anything else, but it ended, as such things will, in my falling in love with the girl.

The time for the Major to prove his wager was fast approaching, but I had heard nothing more regarding it, save the idle bantering of the mess-room, where it continued a standard topic of conversation. Indeed, I now instinctively avoided the man on all possible occasions, and when we met, as we often did, coming and going from the sutler's quarters, we barely exchanged words of greeting and hurried on. I do not suppose he liked my attentions to Miss Burke, but I felt no jealousy of him, for I knew well enough how he ranked with the lady.

I could control my anger no longer.

In the afternoon I sat down to do some writing. It was an hour after dark before I had finished, and I knew from the rattling at my window that the wind had changed and that everything promised a dark, tempestuous night.

Just then some one knocked, and supposing it to be Finley, I bade him enter, without looking up. A gust of wind swept over me, and a heavy foot dragged along the floor.

"Captain, your honor," said a hoarse voice, and in surprise I glanced up to see the sutler, Tony Burke, standing there cap in hand, his face drawn down, and coat laden with snow.

"What is it, Burke?" I asked, anxiously, for the man's face spoke of evil tidings.

He appeared to hesitate for a moment, twirling his cap awkwardly in his great hands, but finally said, without looking up:

"I thought, maybe, as how you had been so kind to my gal, sir, and ought to know that she is lost like—"

"Lost? My God, on such a night as this!"

"Yes, sir. She went out riding, on Vixen, your own horse, sir, just before sundown, and—and hasn't come back." For a moment the man broke down, and I saw the tears start, but he drove them back and continued: "I've been tryin' to find her, air, but it's just awful outside to-night, and I didn't know anybody to come to, only you."

"You did right, Burke. I'll find your girl, or die with her!" and flinging on my overcoat, I hurried from the room.

It was indeed a terrible night, as I found out before reaching the Colonel's quarters, but I felt no hesitation, only a burning desire to be off.

He looked up in astonishment as I burst in.

"Well, Brian, rather an unexpected call, this."

"I have a favor to ask of you, sir!" I exclaimed, breathlessly.

"A favor—oh, leave of absence, increase of rations, or what?"

"No"—impatiently—"I want the privilege of taking ten men out to the Cedar Grove to-night."

He glanced into my face as if he thought me crazy, and then at the snow driving against the windows.

"Why don't you ask permission to commit suicide?" he asked.

"It is desperate, sir, I know that—but Miss Burke is lost."

"Lost!" He started to his feet. "Poor girl!"

"Yes, lost," I cried; "since before supper—for God's sake, sir, can I go?"

The man in him answered at once.

"Go, yes, and take the whole garrison with you if you need it," but, waiting for no more, I was beyond the reach of his voice, and running toward the barracks of my company.

"Lads," I cried, coming suddenly upon them, "I am going upon a desperate service, and I want ten volunteers." Had I said a hundred I could have had them, and within five minutes we were beyond the gates.

It was indeed a rough, wild night, and we found it out when we came upon the level plain and felt the full force of the wind that came sweeping down in fierce gusts from the mountains, hurling the snow, which was almost sleet, into our faces as we pushed on. The keen wind seemed to penetrate the heaviest clothing and chilled us through and through. We could scarcely see three yards ahead of us, but on all sides stretched away the same dead level of drifting, eddying snow.

I led the men down upon the river, and by keeping close in under the high banks, we managed to make very good progress, without feeling the wind quite as keenly; but nevertheless it was tough work plowing along over brittle crust, and I was panting and breathless when we finally mounted the bank again, four miles above the fort, and came out into the full fury of that prairie storm.

Bending before it, scarcely able to breathe for the force of air in my face, and staggering through the heavy snow underfoot, I felt a hand touch my sleeve.

"What is it, Morgan?" I asked of the old Sergeant.

"Parker, sir; he's played out." I looked back at the dim forms in the trail.

"Have two men take him back under the bank, and tell them to make a fire if they can find any driftwood."

As I spoke, I stepped backward and fell plump over something in the snow. As I struggled, bewildered, to my feet, I saw the Sergeant bending down; then he lifted a light form in his arms—the form of a woman.

She was alive and conscious. The mass of snow had kept the cold from her, but she was heavy with sleep. I poured some brandy down her throat, and then Morgan and I carried her down the steep bank out of the fury of the wind.

"Sergeant," I said, as we placed her, comfortably as possible, beneath a hanging rock, and the men scattered in search of driftwood for a fire, "we can scarcely carry two helpless ones back to the fort in this storm."

"No, sir," he replied, glancing up at the snow sheeting over our heads, "I think we'd better camp here until morning."

I went back to the girl, wound a heavy shawl closer about her, and told her our decision.

She shivered a little, and drew up closer to me.

"Father will worry so," she said, and then was still.

The men made their fire, and nestled about it, and thus the night wore slowly away, and I sat there in the deep shadow of the rock, with Miss Burke leaning heavily upon my shoulder.

"How the wind roars!" she whispered once.

"It is a terrible night," I answered; "and I thank God that we came in time. How did it all happen?"

"I had dismounted to fix my saddle-girth," she said, "when the horse became frightened at something and ran. Then I struggled on until I fell exhausted. I scarcely dared to hope that any one would venture from the garrison on such a night in search for me."

"You did us an injustice."

"I might have done so to some, but not to all." There was a depth of pathos in her low words that touched me deeply.

"I have learned one thing more," I said, "from this accident to you to night."

She glanced up quickly into my face.

"What is it?" she asked curiously.

"That I love you, Ada, and I want you to be my wife."

She did not withdraw the hand I caught, nor did she look up again. I had my answer.

And there, out in the great white solitude, the storm howling overhead and the little group of soldiers at our feet, we watched the light breaking into the eastern sky and ushering in the happiest day of both our lives.

Even the Major was forgotten, and indeed he never troubled either of us again.—Frank Leslie's.

Thawing Out the Frozen.

Many persons have the idea that life is endangered only, if the patient be brought too suddenly from the cold into a warm place. They believe that, if one proceed very carefully and slowly with the warming, the cold can never produce a lasting injury to the system. There is certainly no doubt that sudden warming is very dangerous, and that a great deal depends upon the right treatment of the frozen limb. Experience shows that, while some people have frozen joints treated in such a manner that they are completely restored, others are less fortunate, and suffer frequently in after-years. But one must admit that intense cold alone, without being followed by sudden warming, which proves so disastrous, suffices to cause severe suffering. In this respect, a great deal depends on the nature of the person. If very sudden transitions from heat to cold and from cold to heat be avoided, a healthy person can withstand intense cold without serious consequences, especially if he be mentally active, energetic, and muscular, and has a sound heart—that is, if his pulse be regular and strong. A robust person can withstand the temperature at which alcohol and mercury freeze. Members of north pole expeditions have experienced temperatures of fifty or more degrees below zero without suffering harm.

However, it happens not unfrequently that even moderately cold weather, when the thermometer is but a few degrees below the freezing-point, causes serious ills, and sometimes even fatal results. This is apt to happen to persons who are anæmic, poorly fed, effeminate or mentally depressed. Old men, children, anæmic girls, drunkards and people with a weak heart, are all liable to be frost-bitten, and easily freeze to death if they succumb to sleep while exposed to cold. They fall into a kind of stupor, sit down to rest, soon fall asleep, and in most instances never awake. For a long time they remain in a condition bordering on death; they breathe a little, and the heart makes feeble attempts to maintain the circulation of the blood.—Popular Science Monthly.

Undersized City Children.

City children are apt to be undersized. They strike me as microscopic frequently. Ask a country man used to lads and lasses brought up on the farm the age of the next boy he passes on the pavements, and three chances to four, measuring the height and shoulder girth with his eye, he will put it two or three years lower than it is. The fourteen-year-old doesn't look above eleven to him, nor the fifteen-year-old as if he had entered his teens. I got hold of some figures the other day which show that these things need not be as they are. Dr. Anderson, who is well known in connection with the Physical Education Association, has compared the height and weight of 350 girls, pupils of a Brooklyn school where regular gymnasium exercise is insisted upon, with similar figures for 10,000 Boston school girls taken at random. The results are as follows:

	HEIGHT.
Years........	10	11	12	13	14	15
With exercise....	50.57	53.98	55.92	[illegible]	61.50	[illegible]
Without..........	51.94	53.42	52.99	56.16	59.94	61.16
	WEIGHT.
With exercise	62.21	67.12	92.19	101.53	115.46	122.78
Without......	62.36	69.84	78.81	86.63	98.43	107.00

The figures show an average, in height at least, of two years difference, which is attributed to no cause but education of the body as well as of the mind. The near approach of the opening of the school year ought to make parents careful to have an eye to muscles as well as text books. This is especially necessary in the case of girls, for the average boy will to some extent look out for himself in such matters.—Philadelphia Press.

Origin of "John Bull."

The national name for an Englishman was derived from the name of Dr. John Bull, a famous music composer in the time of Queen Bess. Traveling incognito in Europe he accomplished some very rapid composition, which led to the remark that the author must be either the Devil or John Bull. The name was unknown previous to this event, but has since become synonymous for an Englishman.—Detroit Free Press.

There was an increased area of no less than 75,000 acres under cultivation in Ireland last year.

It is hardly possible to look at anything with the eyes of [illegible]

CLOUDS AND RAIN.

THE THEORY OF STORMS TOLD IN POPULAR LANGUAGE.

How They Originate, Progress and Pass Away—Tempests Which Travel Round the Globe —Thunder Storms.

Sergeant E. B. Dunn, the Signal Service Officer in charge of the station on the Equitable Building, thus explained the theory of storms the other day:

"Storms are caused," he said, "first by the meeting and commingling of inequal atmospheric temperatures or pressures; second, by the rotation of the earth, and, thirdly, by unequal specific gravity of different layers of air. The first of these causes is the prime one; the other two are but of secondary and comparatively slight importance in the generation of a storm.

"It is a well-known fact that warm air rises. It is equally well known that the earth becomes heated by the sun's rays falling upon it, and by the absorption and radiation of this stored up heat renders the temperature higher at the surface than at elevated points. For a time this hot air on the surface is kept down by atmospheric pressure, but there comes a time when the expansion becomes so great as to break through the cold air pressure and the hot air goes up with a rush, rising sometimes to great height. As this warm air rises, it creates a vacuum below, and the cooler air rushes in from all sides to fill its place. This cool air, as it gets gradually heated, also rises, and more cool air rushes in to again fill the vacuum. Right at this point where the hot air first rises is the center of a storm. The vacuum caused by the ascending hot air sucks into its votex the air from every point of the compass, and this suction causes wind, but places affected by a storm thus formed, it will be seen, will have the wind from different points of the compass, according to their direction from the storm center. Thus, a locality directly south of a storm center will have the wind from the south, as it rushes north. When this warm air has accumulated at a sufficiently high altitude, and becomes surrounded by cooler air the moisture in it begins to condense, forming rain.

"The rushing in of the cool air to fill the vacuum caused by the rising hot air gives motion to the accumulation of warm air, and it begins to whirl about in a circle, but at the centre all is calm and clear. Thus it is that sometimes we experience 'a lull in the storm,' as it is called. Such a brief respite is nothing more than the passing of a storm centre directly overhead, through which the sun even may shine unobstructedly.

"As this storm keeps whirling about overhead it continues to gather energy, and grows by the accession of more heated air, exactly as a snowball is increased in diameter by rolling it in the snow. At last the accumulation becomes of such proportions as to feel the effects of the earth's rotation, and it begins to move. This rotation of the earth, being from West to East, gives all the storms of any extent the same general direction. Such general direction, however, from West to East, is liable to deflections from various causes, such as mountains, conditions of the atmosphere, by coming in contact with other storms or air currents, and by large areas of water.

"Nine out of ten American storms originate in the mountainous regions of the Northwest, where the warm air of the valleys rises and comes in contact with the cool air from the great elevations of the Rocky mountains. These storms take a generally southeasterly direction until they get into the dry regions of Kansas, and there, becoming famished, as it were, for want of moisture, and as if scenting the water for which they long from the direction of the great lake region, they make a turn to the northeast and proceed to the Great Lakes, where they absorb abundance of moisture, and then travel on east, deluging us with this water from the lakes. All such general storms pass out from this country to the Atlantic, through the St. Lawrence valley. Within recent years these American storms have been actually traced across the Atlantic to Europe, and some of them even as far as Asia.

"All storms originate in the same way, whether on land or at sea; in summer or in winter. The under current of air which rises need not necessarily be warm to make it rise; as, for instance, where the temperature is below the freezing point; but the under current must be of a higher temperature than that above and surrounding it to force it to rise. In other words, a storm is originated by a commingling of unequal atmospheric temperatures.

"Cyclones arise at sea, and though generated just as land storms are, revolve with much greater rapidity and cover much smaller areas. They travel in a serpentine course, and in no one general direction, with the greatest force of wind at the centre of the storm.

"A tornado is a tower or spiral storm, which travels in a band across the country. It differs from a cyclone principally in that one of its characteristics is to suck, or draw up anything movable over which it passes, and this confines its destructive operations to a very limited area, while a cyclone scatters destruction broadcast. A hurricane is the same thing as a tornado.

"The difference between a high and a low barometer storm is that with a high barometer the wind is thrown off from the circumference of the storm centre with no rain, while with a low barometer storm the winds are sucked or drawn in to the centre from every point of the compass, and rain falls.

"Thunder storms are formed in the same manner as other storms, only they are entirely local in their nature. The thunder storms that we experience in New York are formed by the hot air of the city coming in contact with the cool air from the Orange mountains, and thus it is we see most of them approach the city from the north and west. There are data at hand to lend weight to the theory that storms which land upon our Pacific coast have traveled all around the globe, after having originally been generated among the Rockies. Storms become dissipated by division when thrown against mountain peaks, or expend themselves over dry, arid districts where they cannot obtain their food—water."—[illegible]

ONLY A WEED.

"Only a weed;
Ragged, forlorn, unkempt of branch and leaf,
A common vagabond, a hunted thief,
No place it has on hill or plain or lea,
Its growth is waste; its life a piracy.

"Only a weed;
Its pale discs spill no largesse of perfume;
The seeded fruitage of its haggard bloom
Blow broadcast over field and fallow place
In sullen increase of its hated race.

"Only a weed;
Yet its pale capsules may unfold a spell,
A filtered dust, a pollened miracle,
Secrets of price that science longs to win
Occult and hidden power of medicine.

"Only a weed;
Of this be sure; it was not made in vain;
The wandering thistle as the bearded grain
Is of God's harvest; and His richest gold
The gypsy brotherhood of weeds may hold."

PITH AND POINT.

Jurymen, of necessity, often get in a trying situation.

A man who does business on a large scale—A coal dealer.

Librarian (recording the condition of a book): "Page 47 a hole (turns the leaf), page 48 another hole."—Fliegende Blaetter.

Paper bottles have just been introduced. That will never do. What will we have to throw at the midnight cat?—Boston Post.

An experienced boy says he regards hunger and the schoolmaster's rattan as about the same thing, as they both make him holler.

When the poet said the wind was blowing free he probably referred to what in nautical parlance is known as "a dead head wind."—Life.

It is a singular phase of human nature that when a man gives his wife a dime to buy a box of hairpins or a gum ring for the baby it looks about seven times as big as when he planks it down for bitters.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

AN OLD TRUTH UPSET.

A splendid lieutenant from Skye,
Was as thin as the capital I;
He said: "It's too bad,
But then I can pad,"
Which shows that figures do lie.

—Life.

A Cincinnati pastor, in announcing to his congregation that he was about to leave for his vacation, added: "During my absence my brother will occupy the pulpit and will take great pleasure in responding to calls, especially funeral calls, from the members of this church while I'm away."—Troy Times.

It is said that nature shudders
When a woman throws a stone,
And that when she sharpens pencils
Then all nature gives a groan.

But there's nothing that gives nature
More keen anguish and distress
Than to see a struggling father
With a babe he tries to dress.

—Judge.

Sleep and Its Counterfeits.

The Frenchman, whose long trance or sleep attracted extraordinary attention in the latter part of March and the beginning of April, was commonly spoken of as "the Soho sleeper;" but when we speak of a man "sleeping" for several days or weeks consecutively, it is obvious that we do not use the term in its ordinary sense. We all know by experience what sleep is, and we cannot conceive ourselves as sleeping for an indefinite time. Yet it is difficult to draw a line between normal and abnormal sleep; the physiological condition merges by insensible degrees into all kinds of pathological states, known as lethargy, trance, stupor, coma. Through the usual phenomena of dreaming, we pass likewise into those of nightmare, somnambulism, hypnotism, ecstacy, and the like. Yet it is important sharply to define typical instances of these conditions, so as to avoid hopeless confusion in an already obscure field of scientific inquiry, and though we may for the sake of convenience occasionally use the term sleep in the wider since, yet the distinction between the various states included under it must be kept present to our minds.—Popular Science Monthly.

The Utility of Dogs in War.

The experiments which have for some time been going on in the German army, to test the utility of dogs in warfare, have on the whole been successful. The ancients used dogs for actual fighting purposes; the Germans are content to use them as messengers and sentries. Ten or a dozen dogs have been attached to the Twelfth Battalion of Light Infantry, at present in garrison at Schwerin. They have been placed principally upon picket duty. Hastily pencilled notes are fastened to their collars; and the experiments have shown that they are usually carried speedily to the rear. At night the dogs are found useful in giving early notice, by their barking, of the approach of strangers. A considerable period of training is obviously necessary before even the most intelligent dog will learn to dash off at the word of command to the main body of troops, which may be a mile or more away; but if a sufficient number of dogs can be taught to do this there can be no doubt that a canine messenger service will be a valuable addition to the means of communication upon the battle-field.—St. James's Gazette.

A Fight Between Sea Fishes.

The passengers on the steamer City of Para on her last trip from this city to the Isthmus of Panama were treated to a great fight between a black and sword fish just the other side of Fortune Island. It was along in the afternoon and the sea very calm, when suddenly a big black fish, ten feet in length, was seen to leap out of the water some thirty yards from the steamer. Poking out after him came the long sword of a monster sword fish. The black fish wiggled in the air for a few moments and then fell back upon the perpendicular sword. Then the two fishes tackled each other, dashing the water to a great height in their fury. Presently the black fish was seen to leap again. Its stomach was [illegible] and its entrails hung down several feet. The sword fish, who had got in his work, again appeared under [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 20, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year	$1.50
One copy six months	75
One copy four	50

A coal famine in Alabama, where there are thousands of tons gotten out of the mines daily is a peculiar state of affairs.

Birmingham! How the name has resounded throughout Europe and America, and how much louder become its claims as the months come and go. What Poe was among poets, defying all laws and restrictions of poesy and fixing those of his own; What Lincoln was among Presidents, rising suddenly from obscurity into loftiest prominence; what Napoleon and Jackson were among military captains, moving in defiance of the settled regulations of war; such is Birmingham among the cities of the past and present. Emphatically it may be said "there is but one Birmingham!"—Eutaw Whig.

Tompkins and Morgan are men of ability, and while Senator Morgan has "quirks" on the tariff and the Blair bill, he is a man of too much ability and influence in the Senate to lightly relegate. If a Senatorial change has to be made Gov. Tom Seay is the man. Protection for the sake of building of monopolies is wrong—free trade is foolishness. We stand on the platform of 1884, which demands a reform of the present tariff, which can be done and ought to be done. The revenue can be taken off of tobacco (not off of whisky), and a thousand articles be placed on the free list without hurting iron or flooding the country with pauper labor or Anarchists.—Tuscaloosa Gazette.

Somehow or somehow else a popular impression has long been abroad to the effect that to succeed in newspaper work a man must have an unlimited stock of gall and brass. But that is a mistake. It is hard work and good sense that wins in the long-run. A newspaper man has as much right to be a gentleman and act one as anybody else.—Montgomery Advertiser.

So it seems that somebody or somebody else has been criticising our philosophical friend of the Advertiser, and he comes back in a very truthful and philosophical manner. A great element of success in the newspaper business we think is criticism. Whether the criticism comes from good men or from flunkeys and gutter-snipes, whether it be adverse or favorable, good or bad, it must be secured in order to attain the highest degree of success. The adverse criticism of bad men is as much to be desired as the favorable criticism of good men, and the successful and shrewd newspaper can always dispose of either kind at a fair profit. Our good friend should not "kick" at criticism, but might hang upon the outer wall these words: "We solicit a continuance of past criticism for the future, and will forgive our critics because of the good they may do us."

OVER THE COUNTY.

News Gathered by Our Correspondents.

Strasburg Locals.

Mr. J. F. Maull and [illegible] and Miss [illegible] Saturday evening [illegible] Maplesville [illegible] Fair.

The [illegible] of Cowling & Garner who [illegible] are doing [illegible]

Mrs. M. R. W[illegible]

Mr. Maull [illegible] nearing completion [illegible] They add considerably to the appearance of Strasburg.

Rev. A. E. Burns preached his last sermon [illegible] New Salem last Sunday. We [illegible]

We are glad to welcome Mr. W. H. Welch and family [illegible]

Inca.

Maplesville Data.

Our new church is nearing completion and is a very pretty structure.

Mrs. [illegible] Goodwin, of Selma, is visiting Mrs. N. N. Cobbins, of this place.

[illegible]

[illegible] and A. J. Boggs [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Mr. N. W. Fisher [illegible]

Stanton Falls.

We had several frosts in our neighborhood last week.

Quite a number of our citizens have gone to the Piedmont Fair at Atlanta, and will probably shake hands with the President.

The new locomotive has not been started yet but is likely to be put to work this week.

Rev. Geo. W. Mills closed his pastorate at Ebenezer Baptist Church last Sunday. Mr. McCord will enter on his duties sometime next month.

Richard Adams is a happy man this week, a new boy came to his house.

The school patrons in the Clanton ford neighborhood expect to build a school house shortly, so that there may be no teaching in the church.

The attendance on the Stanton Academy is increasing; we hope it will continue to do so.

89.

Verbena Personals.

Rev. L. G. Skipper preached in his church Sunday morning. Held conference after church but was too unwell to have service at night.

Prof. Acree, now of Dale, spent several days here looking after some unfinished business.

Col. S. T. Brittle, proprietor and paymaster of the Pratt Manufacturing Co., brought a bag of money and made his little army happy on the 15th.

Mr. George Brittenham and family, of Columbus, Ga., are with our friend W. F. Claughton. Mrs. B., is his (C's) sister.

The Misses Logan, Miss Sidney Pitts, Miss Mamie Green, Mr. Charlie Green, Mr. Logan and Mr. Harris have gone to the Piedmont Exposition.

Mr. Kennerly Williamson and wife left this (Wednesday) morning for the "Lone Star" State.

Mr. F. M. Billing and family have moved back to Montgomery for the winter.

Mrs. Mary Thompson is visiting her sister Mrs. Josiah Morris in Montgomery.

Mrs. Matt and Miss Mattie Tutt have returned to their homes in New Orleans.

Jemison Locals.

Jemison Academy opened two weeks ago with forty pupils, but the number has since increased to seventy or seventy-five. Prof. G. L. Speer, principal, and Miss Kate Sherrill, assistant, are first class educators, and the patrons of the school can feel assured that their children will receive thorough instruction. Prof. Speer will bring his family to Jemison at an early day.

The L. & N. R. R., are re-covering their depot and enlarging the platform at this place in order to accommodate the increased business of our growing town.

The Farmer's Alliance will open a store of general merchandise here at an early day with Mr. Dick Honeycutt in charge. Jemison is also to have a new saw mill, Pickett machine and scroll saw works, all of which will be in operation soon.

Messrs. Jim and Dave Hand have each purchased a lot in South Jemison and will erect residences thereon. We welcome all such people back in our midst and are glad to know that they will become permanent citizens.

Mr. W. D. McMeans has also returned to Jemison and expects to build and make his home with us. We welcome him and his excellent wife.

The sound of the hammer and saw is heard in our town "from early morn till dewy eve;" improvements and progress are visible on every side.

Mr. Clyde McCary, of Birmingham, accompanied by his lovely and accomplished bride visited friends here last week.

Mr. L. J. Hand and several others went to the Coosa hills last week on a hunting excursion and deer hunt. Dr. Dunklin is absent this week at Gallatin, Tenn., he is also on a Dear hunt.

Mrs. Hayden and daughter, Miss Belle, have returned from Miss., to make their home with us.

Miss Carrie West has returned to her home in Montgomery, after a visit of several weeks to friends here.

Our town proposes to visit Montgomery next Thursday by special invitation from President Cleveland, to see him at that point.

X. Y. Z.

The weekly press of Alabama is a credit to the profession. The size of the sheets, the paper used and the typograhy, considered as supports to the editorial ability and tone, make up an excellent standard of journalism. The general news columns are filled with choice reading, and the remarkable variety is highly instructive. We have before us one of the smallest of the number, yet on its columns we find a touching poem, the narrative of a traveller in the Eastern Hemisphere, a serial tale of literary merit, two lengthy biographical sketches and various short articles of interest. The inside pages of the folio are devoted to spirited editorial comments on practical events, and to local and personal items essential to the cultivation of neighborly feelings among county people. When applied to individuals they excite a pleasing remembrance of the name mentioned in all parts of the county. They act no small part in creating a community sympathy.—Birmingham Age.

The Dudes Know It.

Or if they don't they should know that Rangum Root Liniment cured Big Head in mules for W. E. Hunt, of Adairsville, Ky. J. H. Mallory, of Fort's Station, Tenn., cured his hogs of blind staggers with it. In fact this King of Liniments is invaluable for man and beast, and no family should be without it. Sold by all druggists.

Money to Loan!

We are prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

A. D. BENTLEY,
Att'y at Law, Clanton Ala., or
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 1y Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

A. J. MASSEY,

OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

☞ Will go far and near.

Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

NOTICE NO. 6681.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Oct. 22, 1887, viz: John C. Arnold, Homestead 17993 for the n e ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 24 north range 12 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Samuel Curry, Eli D. Barfield Gip G. West, John B. Moore all of Brierfield, Ala.

sep15 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6742.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on Nov. 11, 1887, viz: Ann Hicks, widow of George Hicks, Homestead 14686 for the n w ¼ sec 12 township 23 n, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Hightower and Jackson Campbell, of Randolph, Ala., and William Davis and Rebecca Hightower, of Jemison, Ala.

sep29 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6809.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 12, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: Thomas Harrison, Homestead 16,483 for the s w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4, township 22 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: J. F. Maull, F. G. Cocheron, G. W. Hill, J. P. Givhan, all of Strasburg, Ala.

oct13 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6680.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following-named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or, in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d, 1887, viz: Sylvester Mims, Homestead 13479 for the w ½ of s e ¼ and s ½ of s w ¼ sec 26, township 21 north, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land viz: Henry Oats, Jesse A. Culp, Daniel Dunnavin, and James R. Broadhead, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6679.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 15, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge of the circuit court or in his absence, the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on October 22d 1887, viz: Tempy J. Oates, Homestead 13223 for the w ½ of n w ¼, the s e ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼ sec 26 township 21 north range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jesse A. Culp, James R. Broadhead, Abram C. Mims, Sylvester Mims, all of Clanton, Ala.

sep15* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6789.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver United States Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on November 12, 1887, viz: Mary J. Thornton, Homestead 13247 for the n e ¼ sec 36, township 21 n, range 16 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Harrison Kendrick, Thomas P. Connell, Elijah Welton, Bud Kendrick, all of Verbena, Ala.

sep29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6823.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: Mary E. Gentry, homestead 12336 for the n ½ of n e ¼ sec 26, township 23 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, Levi J. Martin, Walter Gothard, William R. Cofer, all of Jemison, Ala.

oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

MAKES CHILD-BIRTH EASY!

SHORTENS LABOR.
LESSENS THE PAIN ATTENDING IT!
DIMINISHES THE DANGER to LIFE of MOTHER and CHILD.

Should be used a few months before confinement. Send for book "To Mothers," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE. Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER. A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC. Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX. Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle. ☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

THE LIGHT-RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE CO. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL.
30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y.
DALLAS TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO.
ATLANTA, GA.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

aug16-ly

BRICK WORK
J. M. DAWSON.
CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

NOTICE NO. 6825.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 18, 1887, viz: Orville B[illegible], Homestead [illegible] for the e ½ [illegible] n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec [illegible] township [illegible] range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jasper N. Smith, James C. Mims, [illegible] M. Headley, of Clanton, Ala., and Lee Hayse, of Maplesville, Ala.

oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6846.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 12, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 21st, 1887, viz: Albert N. Wilson, Homestead [illegible] for the [illegible] e ½ of section 8, township 20 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James H. Griffis, Robert L. W[illegible], [illegible] Owen, Ely Owen, all of [illegible], Ala.

oct 13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6824.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 18, viz: Monroe M. Durbin, Homestead [illegible] for the s ½ of n w ¼ and n ½ of s w ¼ sec 20 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James R. Broadhead, Madison Powell, John Edwards, and Newton Culp, all of Clanton, Ala.

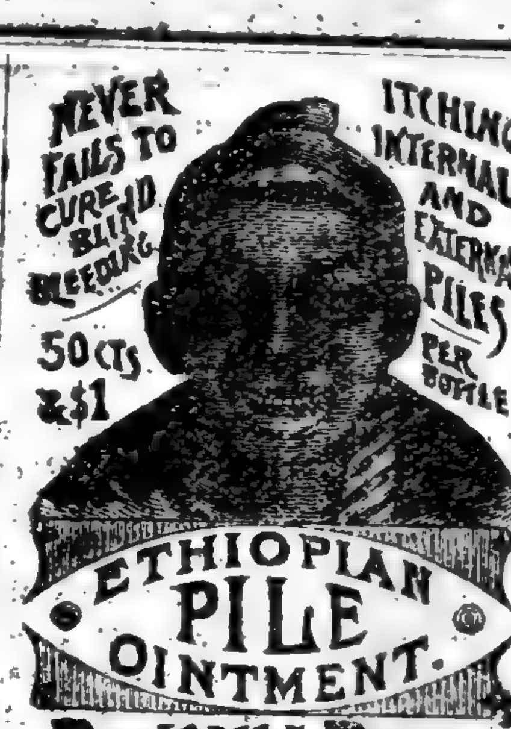
oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6822.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: J[illegible] P. Gentry, Homestead No. [illegible] for the s w ¼ of n e ¼ and s w ¼ of [illegible] sec 26, township [illegible], range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Geo. W. Gothard, Levi J. Martin, Walter Gothard, William R. Cofer, all of Jemison, Ala.

oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.



NEVER FAILS TO CURE BLIND BLEEDING
50 CTS & $1
ITCHING INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL PILES PER BOTTLE

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT.

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT
CURES SPRAINS, BRUISES, RHEUMATISM, SORE THROAT, SPAVIN, SPLINT, RINGBONE, EPIZOOTIC, Etc. 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

HODGES SARSAPARILLA
CURES RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA & ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD.
$1 PER BOTTLE. 6 FOR $5.

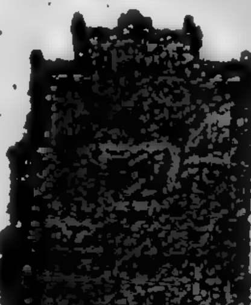
TANNERS INFALLIBLE NEURALGIA CURE
CURES ALL FORMS OF NEURALGIA & NERVIOUS HEADACHE. 50 CTS PER BOX.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.
MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. CO
NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE
CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.



OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.

EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS
THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

L & N
(LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.)

THE GREAT
Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOMERY, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
Louisville, Ky.

[illegible]
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS [illegible]

E. C. [illegible],
DEALER IN
Dry Goods, Groceries,
[illegible]
General Merchandise

[illegible] which [illegible] Jemison [illegible] convinced.

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MA[illegible] & BRO.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. [illegible]

BAINS & PEEBLES.

(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)

WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1028 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜
P. O. BOX 570.
June 19 y

S. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,

Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,

Second Ave. and Twentieth St.

Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Weidte & Co, Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotts, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,

The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,

—DOES—

Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Gentlemen's and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.

—DEALERS IN—

HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,

Are displaying a complete and Varied Assortment of

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes, Clothing and Millinery.

Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.
Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

WE ARE OPENING CHEAP

SEED RICE for PLANTERS,

AND CLEANED RICE FOR TABLE USE.

[illegible] for STOCK,

[illegible] We can furnish

[illegible] MEAL

IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVVERS & WISE,
SELMA, ALABAMA.

WILSON HOUSE.

A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.

Corner [illegible] Street and 2nd Ave.,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

[illegible], President. J. E. [illegible], Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

[illegible] Depot and Warehouse [illegible]

Birmingham, Alabama.

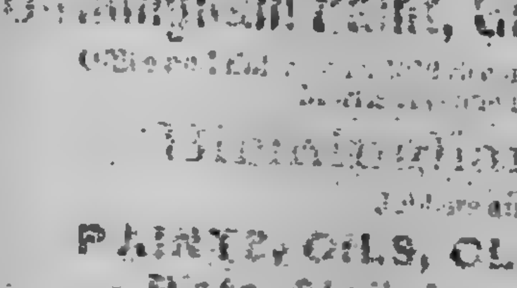
Jobbers and Retailers of [illegible]

PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜

We solicit Trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.



SHOW WALL CENTRE RIBBON CASES
ARTISTIC STORE FIXTURES.
Cedar Chests, Cabinets and Wardrobes.
CABINET WORK.
TERRY SHOW CASE CO.
110 N. Cherry St., Nashville, Tenn.
Catalogue Free.

sep 8-y

CHILTON VIEW.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 20, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

—Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	6:47 p. m.
No. 7	6:47 a. m.
No. 5	6:22 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	6:22 p. m.
No. 4	9:41 p. m.
No. 6	8:45 a. m.

Cotton Market.

BIRMINGHAM—Corrected weekly by Sol. D. Bloch & Co., cotton factors. Market steady. Demand fair. Prices prevailing: Good Middling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8¼c.

MONTGOMERY — Market quiet. Demand good. Good Middling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8¼c.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

Now is a good time to plant Fall advertisements.

Mr. Joe Hill, of Jemison was in Clanton last Saturday.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure is gentle in action, and warranted a certain cure. 50 cents a bottle.

Mr. Tom Evans and his mother are on a visit to Atlanta.

Chalk, for use in school room, for sale at VIEW Stationery Stand.

Work on the new side tracks of the L. & N. road, at this place, is progressing finely.

The danger of a malarial atmosphere may be averted if you will occasionally take a dose of Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure.

Payson's indelible ink, for marking clothes, for sale at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Mr. C. L. Phillips is the happy father of a bright little girl who made her appearance last Friday.

Confectioneries and family groceries at C. L. Phillips'. Call on him near the drug store.

A disordered condition of the stomach or malaria in the system will produce sick headache, you can remove this trouble by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 cts. per vial.

Mr. W. H. Lawrence, of this paper is taking in the Piedmont Fair at Atlanta and the State Fair at Montgomery this week.

Miss Ines Collier, of this place, left Tuesday morning for Marion where she will attend the Judson Female Institute.

Mrs. O. A. Duke, of this place has returned home after an extended visit to friends and relatives in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Appetite and sleep may be improved, every part of the system strengthened and the animal spirits regain their buoyancy by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

In spite of the bad weather the people of this section are visiting the Fair at Montgomery this week in a wholesale manner.

Mr. J. L. Gartman, Clanton's best carpenter has gone to Birmingham to work during the winter months. His family will remain here.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

A petition is being gotten up requesting the L. & N. railroad company to build a bridge over the cut North of the depot. If the request is complied with a street will be opened through there and it will soon become one of our most popular thoroughfares.

New Goods.

I have added several new items to my stock, and have marked them down at reasonable figures. I have a nice lot of Jerseys at $1.00, $1.15, $1.25, and $1.75. Worsted dress goods of nice quality. A few shopping bags of fine material. Velvets in colors and black at 50 cts. per yard, for trimmings. Clothing, hats, and shoes for all who want to buy at low prices.

W. L. SAMPEY.

The president and his party will pass here on a special train about 4 o'clock this afternoon; Wonder if they would'nt like to stop and visit the hot well.

See the advertisement of Jno. B. Roden in another column, and patronize him. He has the oldest established and largest stationery business in the Magic City.

The new Methodist church, at Maplesville, is completed and Rev. Mr. Briggs will preach the dedicatory sermon on the 4th Sunday in this month at 11 o'clock A. M. Clanton should follow suit.

Sudden change of temperature and humidity of the atmosphere often produce disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Use Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm to check these troubles in their incipiency.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which causes burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

L. G. Jeffers, Esq., chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Union Labor party of Ala., called on the VIEW Tuesday morning but the VIEW hadn't got up so he left his card.

Died,

In the Kincheon neighborhood on Monday the 10th inst., a six year old son of Mr. Chas. Edwards, and on Saturday morning the 15th a three year old daughter of Mr. Gill Island.

"If your local paper," writes an old journalist, now long out of business, "happens to tread on your toes a little in preforming its mission, don't get your back up and abuse the paper, but stop and take a good breath, and think for a season, and see if you can't remember some of the favors and kindness it has shown you in the past. Then reflect that it may not be long before you may want some favors again.

A beautiful woman must be healthy, and to remain healthy and beautiful she should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It imparts tone and flesh to the skin, strength, vigor and pure blood; is equally adapted for all ages, from the babe to the aged, of either sex.

If the stomach performs its functions actively and regularly the food of which it is the receptacle, is transformed into blood of a nourishing quality, which furnishes vigor and warmth to the whole body. The remedy to give tone to the stomach is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

It is with pleasure that we note the fact that Mr. Thomas Prim, of Verbena, Ala., has taken rooms at the residence of Mrs. Alex Williams, and will soon bring his mother to Greensboro, and will also be accompanied by perhaps a dozen students for the University, who purpose to board with him. Mr. Prim comes well recommended as a young man of fine integrity, and the fact that he comes among us, a poor young man, working his way up, and determined to acquire an education at all hazards commends him to every one. We like to grasp the hands of such young men. Labor omnia vincit.—Greensboro Watchman.

Appreciated In and Out of the County.

Some of our subscibers take occasion to drop us encouraging words at times. The following is from a recent subscriber:

WADSWORTH, ALA.,
Oct., 12th 1887.

EDITOR VIEW:—Please write me what is the amount I am due you up to date, and subscription in advance for one year. I like the paper and want it to continue coming. I have neglected in paying up, please excuse me, I will try and do better in the future.

Very respectfully,
S. B. W.

Undue exposure to cold winds, rain, bright light or malaria, may bring on inflammation and soreness of the eyes. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve will subdue the inflammation, cool and soothe the nerves, and strengthen weak and failing Eye sight. 25 cents a box.

Unsuspected disorders of the kidneys are responsible for many of the ordinary ailments of humanity which neglected, develop into a serious and perhaps fatal malady. Experience would suggest the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

A wreck of a freight train at Boseman on Monday night delayed the north bound express train about 10 hours. The writer and his wife happened to be among the passengers thus delayed. The berths in the sleeping car were soon all taken but fortunately we fell into the hands of Mr. Mitchell, the clever storekeeper of Smith & Marbury, who kindly furnished us with a nice room where we spent the night most comfortably. He probably knew that our delinquent subscribers had not paid up their dues promptly this fall for he would accept no compensation, save thanks, for his kindness. He will reap his reward hereafter.

Many weary passengers had not where to lay their heads except on the hard arms of the seat and window casing, for them our hearts went out—in our sleep.

We congratulate our esteemed friend of the Tuskaloosa Gazette, Mr. Nunnelee the elder, upon securing his pension at last, as a Mexican veteran. He says of it: We are glad to get our pension, even at this late day, for it assures us a peck of meal and a ration of bacon, as we totter on along the 'down grade' of life. This somewhat fortifies us against the losses from publishing a paper on a credit, and under the enormous exemption laws which makes it a farce to attempt to collect even a few dollars by law. But because we have fallen heir to $8.00 a month, those who are indebted for subscription needn't feel any hesitation about calling and settling,—our 'gude wife' has no pension. We know that our brother editors will feel a little envious that we are placed above the petty cares of this life, by this governmental windfall; but we advise them never to abandon the pen for the sword, for every editor might not be so fortunate as to live through even one bloody war, seeing that they are such a chivalric, bloodthirsty set of devils. There is about as much honor, and a great deal more safety in shedding ink than in shedding blood.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicine in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

"I wish," says a physician "to give the public a sure and simple test of death which I have practiced during forty-eight years in the profession.—First expose the arm of the body, apply a piece of thick paper with a hole in it, an inch in diameter, on the arm, and wet a piece and cover over it, and run a hot smoothing-iron over it. The heat of the iron will raise a blister. If the blister contains serum or water, it shows still a circulation is going on in the system; if nothing but air, death. This is a sure test. Another test is to wind the fore-finger, with a piece of twine within an inch of the end of the finger. If there is life, the end of the finger will show blood in it."

I Told You So.

Mr. E. A. Ireland, of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tenn., says: "I was afflicted with piles for twenty years, and I tried every remedy offered me; finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment. It gave me instant relief, and has effected a permanent cure." Sold by all druggists. sep 29

The most independent young men of the country are those who have learned trades, and the sensible people of this country are beginning to realize the fact. While in Birmingham we saw the sons of rich men in the foundries and work shops, with their coats off and sleeves rolled up, hard at work learning the rudiments of mechanism. They are determined to be independent and valuable citizens and their good sense tells them that this is the way to do it. Good mechanics are in demand, while clerks are superabundant.

After Three Years.

W. F. Walton, of Springfield, Tenn., says: I have been suffering with Neuralgia in my face and head off and on for three years. I purchased a box of Dr. Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure and took eight of the pills. I have not felt any symptoms of Neuralgia since. It gives me pleasure to recommend it." Sold by all druggists.

The Columbia Sentinel, of Georgia, publishes this death notice; "On Friday last just after the sun had kissed this world good night, and passed into its bed of crimson and gold, the spirit of A. G. Sturgis vacated its habitation of clay, and wended its way to the Father who gave it, and today is walking the glory-lit hills of immortality in the new Jerusalem, where there is no night.

Did You Ever.

W. H. Revels, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says: "I have been in the practice of medicine for over eighteen years, but never have I seen the equal of Hodges' Sarsaparilla. It has worked miracles here in curing Rheumatism and Scrofula. Have almost come to the conclusion that I cannot practice without it." Sold by all druggists.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,
aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

The most successful remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effect and does not blister. Read proof below.

Orange Mills, Fla., June 30, 1886.
Dr. B. J. Kendall Co.
Gents:—I have used your Kendall's Spavin Cure and it is wonderful to say the least. Yours Respectfully,
J. L. CRARY.

From the "Spirit of the Times," June 26, 1886. The old idea that a spavin was incurable has given way before the improvements made by modern science. Among these wonderful improvements must be mentioned the most successful remedy ever discovered for the cure of this disease, Kendall's Spavin Cure, one that is certain in its effect, and will not blister. It is prepared by Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburg Falls, Vt., and has received praise on every hand for its thorough and reliable work in cases of spavin or hock lameness. It is a certain cure for rheumatism, enlargement of the joints, corns, etc., while blood spavins and bursal enlargements promptly disappear on its use. It is a standard remedy among horse owners and breeders, where its work has often been proven. It is for sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle or six for $5, or will be forwarded to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.

THE

Verbena High School,

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.
MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.
MISS FANNY PURIFOY, Teacher of Music and Art.
MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class		$1 50
Intermediate Class		2 50
High School	"	3 00
Music	"	3 00
Collegiate	"	4 00

Tuition is payable in advance.
Students will be prepared for any class in college.

Tax Notice.

(LAST CALL.)

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1887:

Strasburg	November	15
Pine Hill	"	16
D. H. Mullins'	"	17
Jemison	"	18
Hunt's Mill	"	19
Providence	"	22
Concord Church	"	21
Macedonia	"	23
Benson	"	14
Maplesville	"	24
Howison & Carter's Mill	"	30
P. Latham's	"	25
Stanton	"	26
Dixie	"	29
Valley Creek Church	"	28
Kincheon	December	12
Verbena	"	8
Cooper's	"	7
Clanton	"	3
John Gore's	"	6
Joe Allred	"	8
Pratt Saw Mill	"	9
Wells & McCranie's Mill	"	10
Patrick's Old Mill	"	13

And at Clanton ten last days of the year.

oct 13 D. A. WHITE, T. C. C. C.

NOTICE!

Pursuant to and by virtue of a commission issued by the Hon. Secretary of State on the 24th day of September, 1887, to the undersigned as incorporators of the Alabama Great Northwestern Railway Company, we will open or cause to be opened, books of subscription to the capital stock of said railway company on the 5th day of November, 1887, at the courthouse of the county of Chilton, in the town of Clanton, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

E. B. JOSEPH,
W. F. JOSEPH,
sep29-5t J. W. WOOLFOLK.

W. A. Ricketts,

—DEALER IN—

Guns and Ammunition,

GUN AND LOCKSMITH,
205 20th St., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

RUBBER STAMP with your name in Fancy Type, 25 Visiting Cards, and India Ink to mark Linen, only 25 cts. (stamps.) Book of 2000 styles free with each order. Agents wanted. Big pay. THALMAN M'F'G Co., Baltimore, Md. mar26-6m

LOOK! LOOK!! LOOK!!!

JOHN B. RODEN,
Bookseller and Stationer,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.,

Now proposes to surprise everybody with the lowest prices and the most beautiful stock ever seen in Ala. Big drives in books, fancy writing paper, gold pens, albums, and also music and jewelry.

☞ Mr. Roden has a music house and also a jewelry store, seperate from his book store, where you can find anything you want. Give him a call. o20y

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Having determined to anticipate the wants of the trade, I shall from October first, mark down my entire stock lower than any merchant in Chilton county and

Sell For Cash Across the Counter.

No exceptions made for anybody.

A. J. BROOKS.

Verbena, Ala., Sept. 23, 1887.

J. M. WILKERSON. JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.
REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.
Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,
Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,
FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS,

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.
PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.
GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.
THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.
OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants
MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.
—AND DEALERS IN—
Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollack & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

WALTER W. DAVIN & CO.
Machinery & Mill Supplies,
—MORRIS AVENUE AND 2D STREET.—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES,
BOILERS,
SAW MILLS,
CORN MILLS,
SHINGLE MACHINES,
CORN MILLS,
SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS,
COTTON PRESSES,
PULLEYS,
SHAFTING,
BELTING, and
MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. P. O. Box 869. [july8]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,
Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,
MONTGOMERY, ALA.
P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

STOP AT
Morris Avenue Hotel,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street
ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.
HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,
1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,
Artistic Photographer
10 COURT SQUARE,
Montgomery.
Life Size Photographs a Specialty.
Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.
All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.
☞ Correspondence solicited. ☜
[jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,
Wholesale Druggists,
FIRST AVENUE,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
MEDICINES,
Fine Wines, Liquors,
Oils, Etc.
☞ Agents for Chas Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's
BOARDING, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.
Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to.
Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt.
Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.
RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.
Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.
☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, ☜
Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O.,
Telephone 446. [jauly

J. H. SHEPHERD,
THE LEADING
PHOTOGRAPHER.
—OF—
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE
(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)
Photographs of All Kinds
Work Done in the
BEST STYLE.
Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,
BLACKSMITH
—AND—
WHEELWRIGHT.
CLANTON, ALA.
Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,
Leading Tailor.
1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
Keeps constantly in stock a full line of
Elegant Goods,
ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

DON'T
Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on
T. M. Edwards,
Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.
Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

COME TO JEMISON
And Buy Your Goods at the
CHEAP CASH STORE
—OF—
I. N. Langston.
NO SHODDY GOODS!
-:- LOW -:- PRICES -:-
"QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS" IS MY MOTTO.

I can sell you Anything you want to buy, and will pay Highest Market Price for your Cotton and Produce.

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
PAT WALSH, Manager.
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Catchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street
LOUISVILLE, KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞For Catalogue Address College, as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS STAIR RAILS,
Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
☞When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

JOB PRINTING
—OF—
EVERY DESCRIPTION
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.
Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention!
GIVE US A TRIAL!

A CHAPTER ON RATTLERS.

WHAT OLD SIMON KENT KNOWS ABOUT THEM.

Ready to Feast on Anything but Rats, Bantams, and Hogs, and Not to be Trusted at All.

"Yes," said Simon Kent, the "rattlesnake king" of Clinton County, Penn., to a New York Times correspondent, "I think I know a few things about rattlesnakes. I ought to. I've lived next door neighbor to them for forty years. They're friends of mine, but I wouldn't trust one of them a single second if he was in reach of me."

Kent and a sixteen-year old son live alone in the woods. The father is a man of intelligence, but spends most of his time in capturing rattlesnakes, which are abundant in his locality. He has sometimes as many as 200 of these venomous reptiles in captivity at one time. He supplies side shows and museums with live rattlers, and he has quite a trade in tanned rattlesnake skins, which are used extensively by manufacturers of fancy articles. He also sells large quantities of rattlesnake oil, faith in its efficacy as a liniment being general throughout this part of Pennsylvania.

"I've got a rattlesnake at home," continued the rattlesnake king, "that I have had eleven years. I raised him from the time that he was three inches long, and I think the world of him, but he's got his fangs in, and I know that he would just as leave sock them into me as into anybody else. I call him Nicodemus. I have learned a good deal about rattlesnakes during my long experience with them, but I have discovered more things about them through Nicodemus than in any other way. Among other things I have found that the rattlesnake changes its skin twice a year—in July and September—and that if they can't get to water while they're shedding their skin it will come off slowly and in pieces, instead of peeling off in one whole piece from head to tail. But I've never caught on to just how they get the skin off. I've gone to bed at night and left Nicodemus without his showing any more sign of peeling himself than if he'd been a stick of wood, but in the morning his old clothes would be lying in one corner of the cage, and he would be as bright as an old-fashioned patchwork quilt in his new ones.

"It is the general impression that when a rattlesnake is shedding his skin he gets blind. There is no mistake that his eyes do get covered with a bluish film at that time, but just put a mouse in his cage and see how quick he'll coil up and send for it and hit it in the neck every time. A rattlesnake always strikes for the neck, and he always strikes his prey before he eats it; but you may fill his cage with rats, or mice, or frogs, or anything else he likes, and he'll never touch one of them unless he's hungry. He kills only enough for one meal, and when that is swallowed anything and everything that's left can crawl over him, jump on him and tumble him around as much as it pleases and he'll never say 'boo.' The rattlesnake is not a wanton destroyer, nor is he a glutton. Two mice will make him an ample meal. I had my pet rattlesnake ten months before he ate a mouthful or drank a drop of anything. A rattlesnake has been known to remain fourteen months in captivity without eating and drinking, and then all of a sudden begin to find his appetite.

"There is no telling how long an animal will live after being struck by a rattlesnake, and it may not die at all. I have known a rat to die within six minutes after Nicodemus set his fangs in its neck, and have known one, again, to live more than a day after being struck. I turned a little bantam hen into Nicodemus's cage one day, and when he struck her it made her so mad that she turned and pitched into him so fiercely that she drove him into a corner bleeding like a stuck pig. I was afraid this excited little fowl would kill him, and I took her out as soon as I could. She keeled over an hour afterward, and I supposed, of course, that she was done for, with all that rattlesnake poison in her, but she lived three days in a stupor and then gradually got well. That was the only instance I ever knew of anything recovering from the bite of a rattlesnake without being treated for the poisoning."

"Except hogs, pop," interjected the rattlesnake king's son once more.

"Oh, yes, except hogs," replied the father. "Hogs don't mind rattlesnakes any more than I mind flies. I had an old sow once—do you mind old Jennie, Bob?—that was a terror after rattlesnakes. She could find the trail of one as surely as the hound can find the deer's track, and she'd follow that trail till she came up with the snake that made it, and then the rattler was her meat. She didn't seem to care for any other kind of snakes, but she'd hunt rattlers from the beginning of the season till the end. If I could have taught that pig to retrieve she'd have been worth a good deal to me, for the number of snakes she'd have brought in during the season would have been immense; but she wasn't on the retrieve. She was hunting for her own accommodation, and ate every snake she caught, leaving only the head. I used to find so many rattlesnake heads on my tours through the woods that it began to dawn on me that my old sow was working dead against me by destroying the snake crop, and I was finally forced to kill her for my own protection.

"I am a firm believer in whisky as an antidote for rattlesnake poisoning. I have known seven different cases of persons being bitten by rattlers where whisky was administered promptly and liberally, and not one was fatal. Besides the case of the man whom my snake killed I know of two others where the victims died. They were both treated by doctors, but whisky was not used in either case.

"When any one tells you that a snake's age can be told by the number of its rattles, don't believe it. I've caught snakes two feet long that had more rattles than others twice their size. My pet rattlesnake is eleven years old, and he has fourteen as nice rattles as any snake fancier ever saw, besides a beauty of a button at the end of 'em. It's a very rare case, too, where a rattlesnake gets to be more than four feet long in this latitude."

Overtaken by Fate.

"Remarkable thing that about the Guiteau curse," said one Austin man to another.

"Yes, it is."

"He said misfortune would come upon all who had anything to do with his trial."

"I know he did."

"A good many of them are dead already."

"So I have read in the papers."

"No parallel for this is found in history, I think."

"Oh, yes, there is."

"What?"

"The fate that befell the assassins of Julius Cæsar—all dead, every one of them."—Texas Siftings.

QUEER THINGS IN JAPAN.

GLIMPSES OF A FESTIVAL IN THE STREETS OF YOKOHAMA.

Curious Articles That the Merchants Sell on a Gala Day—A Japanese Temple.

W. J. Holland, the naturalist, in a letter from Yokohama, Japan, to the Philadelphia Press, says: "Our telegrams home having been dispatched, I proceeded forth, under the guidance of Mr. Loomis, to see Yokohama by night. We had scarcely turned the corner of the hotel before my attention was attracted by the sound of several gongs being beaten at quick intervals, and looking across the canal which separates the quarter of the city occupied by Europeans from the native town, I saw a temple illuminated by a multitude of Japanese lanterns and throngs of men and women swarming upon the streets. "What's up?" I exclaimed. "Ah!" said my friend, "you are quite in luck. This is a chance you may not have again for many days, or even a month. There is a matsuri or heathen festival in progress. The sound of the gongs comes from that temple on the brow of the hill; below in the street the merchants are holding a bazaar and selling their wares by lamplight. Do you wish to see the affair?" "Of course I do," was my answer. Crossing one of the numerous bridges which span the canal, we found ourselves in the midst of a bewildering scene. The long street was lighted up from end to end by innumerable Japanese lanterns. Before every shop the wares for sale were displayed in boxes and in trays, and at every street corner there were men and women with stands displaying the most singular objects of merchandise.

The first shop to which we came was that of a green grocer. The fruit and vegetables were neatly arranged in flat trays and baskets. I proceeded at once to sample the fruit, my appetite being sharpened for this by my long sea voyage. The biwas, or loquats, were not bad, though the outside is a little woolly and the inside a little stony. The plums, apricots and peaches proved a delusion and a snare. Though fair of exterior to the eye, to the tongue they were an abomination, for the reason that they had been taken from the trees long before they had ripened. The custom of plucking the fruit for market before it is ripe is universal in Japan, and the reason assigned is the alleged fact that if allowed to remain upon the trees until ripe the fruit would be destroyed by insects.

Besides the fruits mentioned the green grocer's stall furnished sweet potatoes and common Irish potatoes, egg plants of small size, but apparently good quality, onions, leeks, beets, cucumbers, a species of gourd which is pickled, and small, flat, dark green squashes, cabbages and bamboo shoots. The young shoots of the bamboo are cut off just as they begin to emerge from the ground as asparagus is taken with us, and being tender and succulent, are much esteemed as an article of diet. I tried some stewed bamboo shoots the other evening and found them not unpalatable, though it was, I confess, a little strange to think of eating cooked fishing rods. Most conspicuous, however, among the vegetables was the dai-kon or giant radish. These radishes attain to huge proportions, especially in one or two of the southern islands. The common form is long, and specimens vary from two to five feet in length, and from four to ten inches in diameter at the top. The dai-kon is variously prepared, but is most commonly salted down in brine and allowed to ferment. In this condition it acts as a mild laxative, counteracting the opposite tendency of the rice and the tea, which form the staple articles of diet among the natives. Fermented dai-kon is anything but agreeable to Caucasian nostrils.

From the green-grocer's we wended our way to a candy store. The Japanese are very fond of confectionery, and their candies are put up very tastefully in boxes and papers. My companion directed my attention particularly to a certain form of candy prepared from the mizu-ami, or syrup extracted from malted rice. By the process of malting the starch in the rice is converted into dextrine, and the syrup, which is clear, colored like honey and very tough and viscous in consistency, is extremely nutritious. It is in its properties not dissimiliar to some of the artificial foods which are popularly used among the Western nations to nourish infants and invalids. The candy, which in reality contains no sugar, is quite palatable, and is exported to Europe and America to some extent.

Near the confectionary store we found the tea merchant and close by the dealer in Japanese lanterns. The florist had set forth a wonderful display of curiously dwarfed and grotesquely trained plants, and beside him, squatting on the ground, was the dealer in Japanese katydids and fire-flies. The former are sold in little bamboo cages about four inches square. A cage and its occupants fetch the modest sum of ten cents. The dealer had about one hundred cages in his stand, and the insects, nothing dismayed by the crowds and the noise, were keeping up a cheerful chirping, which sounded like a low bird concert, and could be heard a hundred feet away above the jabber of the multitude and the clatter of their wooden shoes upon the pavements. The fire-flies are sold by the dozen in little gauze cages, and as the dealer thrust his hand into the gauze bag, which contained about a peck of the hapless little beetles, in order to withdraw a dozen or two for one of his juvenile customers, the effect was little short of being splendid. His yellow, skinny hand was spangled for an instant by living gems and corruscated with blue and yellow lights rivaling in beauty the flashes of the diamond.

At last we found ourselves before the temple. Stepping up under the wide, overhanging eaves of the grotesque structure, we were surrounded by a motley throng of worshippers. Immediately under the rafters, before the screen which hides the idols from view, were suspended two great gongs, and before each of them hung a heavy rope, so arranged that by pulling it the gong was made to sound. Under the gongs, raised a little above the level of the pavement, was a platform covered with white cloth. Scores of paper lanterns hung in festoons from the ends of the rafters. As each worshipper came forward he stopped for a moment, ejaculated a brief prayer, tossed a small copper coin, generally one-tenth of a cent, upon the platform, and jerking the rope sounded the gong overhead, and turning, disappeared in the crowd or passed into one of the numerous side shows or lemonade booths which surrounded the temple area.

Turning to my guide, who is thoroughly familiar with these things, I asked him for an explanation. "These people," he said, "all belong to the poorer classes. Educated Japanese are not generally frequenters of these temples. Notice the money on this platform. There is a two-cent piece. That is the largest coin in value upon the cloth. The whole pile of coppers does not probably amount in actual value to more than $15. The prayers which are offered are very brief, as you notice. There is no confession of sin or unworthiness. The prayer's are mostly the expression of a desire for good luck, prosperity in business or escape from evil that is feared. That young girl has just asked the god within for the safe return of her lover from sea; that woman who is going away prayed for a blessing upon her rice crop; that old man asked to be cured of his rheumatism. Having prayed and tossed their coin upon the platform they sound the gong to notify the god within that they have duly deposited a contribution and that accounts are square, and then go away about their business or their pleasure.

I stood and looked on awhile, bowed to the old priest who was sitting cross-legged before the temple, smoking his pipe and watching the cash, and then turned around and took a peep into the side shows, admired the eyeless and mouthless puppy, a monstrosity preserved in alcohol, saw the trained badger go through with his tricks, listened to the boy who sold bamboo whistles imitating all manner of birds, scrutinized the lemonade stands, bought a cent's worth of peanuts, and finally left the precincts of the sacred edifice.

Profitable Mistakes.

An enterprising young undertaker once went out to Jamaica from London in hopes of bettering his condition. He was not disappointed, business florished, and he wrote to his father in England to send him a supply of black and gray cloth and twenty gross of black tacks. Carelessly, however, he omitted to cross the T, and the order read "twenty gross of black jacks." So his relative had made and shipped to him this large quantity of quart and pint tin pots, ornamented with plainting, and to which the maker had given the quaint name of "Black Jacks." The young man, as may be imagined, was aghast at receiving this apparently useless consignment; but an ingenious friend consoled him by offering to take them off his hands at the invoice price, and glad enough he was to agree to this proposition. His bright friend then advertised for sale a new and fashionable punch vase just imported from England, and disposed of every one of the jacks, making 200 per cent. Some time afterward, as the young men were talking over the lucky blunder, the friend said to the undertaker in fun: "Write to your father now and order a gross of warming pans, just to see whether the well-informed people of London will have the sagacity to consider such articles necessary in this latitude." Number one laughed at the idea, but thinking it a good joke really did as suggested, and sure enough the literal old goose of a father actually dispatched a gross of warming pans to the tropical island of Jamaica.

Again the son was in despair, and again his friend came to the rescue and purchased the lot. He then knocked off the covers and sold them to the planters as a new kind of sugar ladle. They went off like hot cakes, and he realized a large profit.

Both young men returned home to England with fortunes, and had many a good laugh as they related the story of the black jacks and warming pans, number two always ending with, "Nothing is lost in a good market," and he might have added, "A ready wit can make things fit."—American Agriculturist.

No Thrashing Machines in India.

Needless to remark, says Harold Cox, there are no thrashing machines in India; as among the Jews in the days of the Old Testament, the corn is trodden out by oxen. This practice largely accounts for the dirty condition in which Indian wheat arrives in England. The method of winnowing employed in India has also the merits of simplicity and antiquity. Choosing a windy day, the cultivator or one of his family, or a laborer, takes a quantity of unwinnowed corn into a basket specially made for the purpose, and, lifting it up, lets the corn gradually fall to the ground, the wind blowing the chaff away. An exactly similar method is employed in Italy and parts of France, and perhaps is still known in parts of England. For cleaning the wheat before grinding the same method is employed, another man sometimes standing by with another basket, fanning the wheat as it falls, in order to more effectually blow off the dirt.

Sunday in London.

If London is the dullest city in Europe Sunday the country surrounding it and the river cannot be called quiet on that day, says a Chicago Tribune letter. The greater part of the middle class people of London make it a point to get out of the city on some kind of a frolic every pleasant Sunday during the summer. Every place of amusement in London is closed Sunday, and extra price is charged at the Zoological gardens, and everything made as dismal as it is possible. To the very great number of London drunkards, however, a concession is made. After church is over in the morning every liquor saloon, or public, as they call them, is open until midnight. So by the time evening comes about the only persons to be seen on the streets are either drunk or well on the way to being so. This kind of a crowd naturally drives respectable people to the suburbs.

A Plague of Wild Cats.

It is hard to please everybody. In some parts of the world rabbits are looked on as pests, and now there comes a cry from South Africa that if the wild cats are not put down soon there will be not a rabbit left in Robben Island. A big black cat was traced to its den, and though its hunters could not catch it, they found proofs of its industry and destructiveness in the innumerable skins and tails of baby rabbits with which its lair was littered. The spot was cleared out and visited next day, when thirteen wee bunnies were found, only recently killed.—Little Folks.

A hospital for animals in London is being planned, together with free dispensaries in the poorer quarters of the metropolis, where, beside treatment of the suffering creature themselves, lectures can be given and pamphlets published for public instruction. In many poor neighborhoods horses, donkeys, etc., often endure long misery, owing to their owners being unable to pay for professional aid, and by this plan skilled treatment would be brought within the reach of the poorest.

One of the largest wheat fields in the world is that of ex-Congressman C. F. Reed, of Stanislaus county, Cal. It consists of 10,000 acres in one unbroken stretch along the bank of the San Joaquin River, and much of the land is protected by levees, as the stream is higher than the shore. The grain this year is as high as the back of a horse, and it is estimated the yield will be forty bushels to the acre. This will give 400,000 bushels, which will load ten large vessels.

Knowledge of our duties is the most useful part of philosophy.

THOUGH the scarlet fever in London, England, has continued to increase, until now there are nearly 1,700 cases in the public hospitals, the actual death rate in spite of this epidemic is below the average of normal times.

A Wonderful Freak of Nature

sometimes exhibited in our public exhibitions. When we gaze upon some of the peculiar freaks Dame Nature occasionally indulges in, our minds revert back to the creation of man, "who is so fearfully and wonderfully made." The mysteries of his nature have been unraveled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, and through his knowledge of those mysteries he has been able to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a specific for all blood taints, poisons and humors, such as scrofula, pimples, blotches, eruptions, swellings, tumors, ulcers and kindred affections. By druggists.

The daughter of Gen. Boulanger, of France, is about to become a nun.

Lung Troubles and Wasting

Diseases can be cured if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. FREEMAN, Sidney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

Prince Charles, of Sweden, is the handsomest man in Europe. He is an author.

$500 Not Called For.

It seems strange that it is necessary to persuade men that you can cure their diseases by offering a premium to the man who fails to receive benefit. And yet Dr. Sage undoubtedly cured thousands of cases of obstinate catarrh with his "Catarrh Remedy," who would never have applied to him, if it had not been for his offer of the above sum for an incurable case. Who is the next bidder for cure or cash?

900,000 British temperance women have petitioned Queen Victoria to close bars on Sunday.

A Bonanza Mine

of health is to be found in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," to the merits of which, as a remedy for female weakness and kindred affections, thousands testify.

A wax figure of Pranzini has been added to the Toussard collection, in London.

SAFE, permanent and complete are the cures of bilious and intermittent diseases, made by Prickly Ash Bitters. Dyspepsia, general debility, habitual constipation, liver and kidney complaints are speedily eradicated from the system. It disinfects, cleanses and eliminates all malaria. Health and vigor are obtained more rapidly and permanently by the use of this great natural antidote than by any other remedy heretofore known. As a blood purifier and tonic it brings health, renewed energy and vitality to a worn and diseased body.

A Woman's Dress

is an important matter as regards their health. They are much more subjected to cold than men, and should be careful to protect themselves, but if they contract a cough or cold they should take Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein.

The great success of many agents employed by B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, is a pretty good evidence of the excellence and popularity of the books they offer to sell through their agents. This is a reliable house, and any contract made with them you can depend on will be faithfully carried out.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Make No Mistake

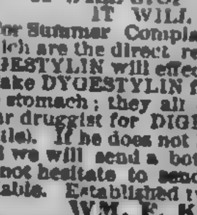
If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion and preparation curative power superior to any other article of the kind before the people. Be sure to get Hood's.

"In one store the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's Sarsaparilla. But he could not prevail upon me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was, I had taken it, was perfectly satisfied with it, and did not want any other."—MRS. ELLA A. GOFF, 61 Terrace St., Boston.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels.
Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.
It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.
As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.

KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DIGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N.Y.



Ely's Cream Balm
Gives relief at once for COLD in HEAD, —CURES—
CATARRH.
Not a Liquid or Snuff.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
Ely Bros., 235 Greenwich St., N.Y.

AGENTS WANTED to sell NOVELTY RUG MACHINES & PATTERNS, for making Tidies, Hoods, Mittens, etc. Machine sent by mail for $1. Send for reduced price list. E. Ross & Co., Toledo, O.

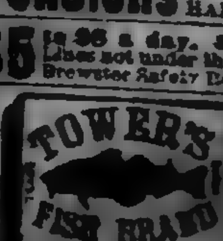
Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

PENSIONS An increase may be due. Address MILO B. STEVENS & CO., Grover Bd'g, Washingt'n, D.C.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.



SLICKER Is The Best Waterproof Coat Ever Made. [illegible]

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

For large, illustrated Treatise on Diseases of Women (160 pages, paper-covered), send ten cents in stamps. Address,

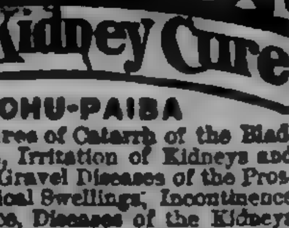
World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

WELLS' HAIR BALSAM
restores Gray Hair to original color. An elegant dressing, softens and beautifies. No grease nor oil. A Tonic Restorative. Prevents hair coming out; strengthens, cleanses and heals scalp.
50c. Druggists
E. S. WELLS, JERSEY CITY, N. J.

If you are losing your grip on life Try "Wells' Health Renewer." Goes direct to weak spots. For weak men, delicate women.

BUCHU-PAIBA
Great Kidney Cure
BUCHU-PAIBA
Remarkable Cures of Catarrh of the Bladder, Inflammation, Irritation of Kidneys and Bladder, Stone or Gravel Diseases of the Prostate Gland, Dropsical Swellings, Incontinence or over Continence, Diseases of the Kidneys and allied Organs in either sex. $1. Druggists or Ex. 6 bots., $5. E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N. J.

MEN AND BOYS!



Do you want to learn all about a Horse? How to Pick Out a Good One? How to Know Imperfections and so Guard against Fraud? How to Detect Disease and effect a cure when same is possible? How to Tell the Age by the Teeth? What to call the Different Parts of the Animal? How to Shoe a Horse Properly? All this, and other Valuable Information relating to the Equine Species can be obtained by reading our 100-PAGE ILLUSTRATED HORSE BOOK, which we will forward, postpaid, on receipt of ONLY 25 CTS. IN STAMPS. HORSE BOOK CO., 134 Leonard St., N. Y.

FINE GUNS

DALY HAMMERLESS. MANHATTAN HAMMERLESS. DALY THREE BARREL. PIEPER BREECH LOADERS.
Send for Catalogue of Specialties.
SCHOVERLING, DALY & GALES,
84 and 86 Chambers Street, New York.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

GOLDSMITH & SULLIVAN'S
Business College!
Fitten Building, ATLANTA, GA. Most practical College South. Best course at least cost. Send for catalogue.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

PENSIONS to Soldiers and Heirs. Send for circulars. No fee unless successful. E. H. GELSTON & CO., Washington, D. C.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. BINGHAM, Patent Attorney, Washington, D. C.

GOLD is worth $200 per lb. Pettit's Eye Salve is worth $1,000, but is sold at 25c. a box by dealers.

Rates of Advertising

One Dollar per square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Space.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
2 Inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
3 Inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
4 Inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
5 Inches	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
¼ Column	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
½ Column	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1 Column	[illegible]	[illegible]	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1887. NUMBER 51.

Special Advertising

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞ The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

A DIFFERENT VIEW.

I like not these grim sages, who would pray
For solitude and silence, far apart
From the fierce beating of the vast world's heart—.
Who would ere night their burdens lay away,
And in some cavern's dim and ghostly shade
Would nurse their wounds and count the battle scars
That they received in many hard-fought wars -
And tell the agony the sword-thrust made.
This is not life, nor is this longing meet
For men whose blasted lives again may bud.
For me—ah, this would seem to me most sweet—
To stand breast high within the seething flood,
Unsheltered to the noonday's fiercest heat,
On truth and right bestowed my heart's best blood.

—Alice M. Schoff.

BARBARA'S LEGACY.

"If any relatives of the late James Hanford, some time curate of Widston, be still living, they may hear something to their advantage by applying to Messrs. Dod & Son, Solicitors, King street."

Barbara Reed put down the paper with a jerk.

"I wonder if that means me," she said, thoughtfully. "My grandfather's name was certainly James Hanford, and I know he was a curate, but I did not know there was any money in the family."

"If you think it worth while, go to Messrs. Dod & Son and find out," suggested a sharp-featured elderly lady, who sat stitching at the table opposite.

"Of course I will!" Why, there may be five thousand pounds waiting for me there."

"Or five pounds, more likely," supplemented the stitcher.

Barbara laughed. "I'd rather think of the thousands, Mrs. Stewart; they would be much more to my advantage."

"I know of something that would be more for your advantage than all the money you are ever likely to get from advertisements, if you had but the good sense to see it," returned that lady significantly.

Barbara flushed as she left the room to get her cloak and bonnet and set out for home. She was the music-mistress in Mrs. Stewart's school, and had been one of the most promising pupils in it before that. She was almost alone in the world, except for a distant aunt with whom she lived, and after school ended it became necessary that she should do something toward keeping up the little household, and she had been very glad when Mrs. Stewart's proposal to retain her for the younger girls' music lessons saved her from applying to strangers. Still, notwithstanding her obligations, there were times when Barbara felt strongly disposed to protest against that lady's authority, which was pretty much as it had been in the days she was "quite a child," as Barbara often phrased it to herself.

"She never seems to remember that I am grown up and able to manage my own affairs. It does not follow that because I was her pupil once she has any right to interfere in this manner now."

She was marching down the road, her head well up, while she argued the matter out to her own satisfaction, when some one quietly fell into step beside her. The shadow vanished from her brow like morning mist as she looked around.

"What are you in such a hurry for? I could scarcely keep you in sight," inquired the new comer.

It was the subject of Mrs. Stewart's admonition, her drawing-master—clever enough at his profession, but of his industry and general dependableness she had not the highest opinion. Not so Miss Barbara, who was fast developing a very warm sentiment for the good looking young artist.

"I am going home to deposit my music, and after that I think of making a journey into the city, to King street."

"King street! That is an expedition."

"Isn't it! But I have some idea of coming into a fortune, and that is the place I am to apply to."

Mr. Lawrence's face showed such genuine interest in the news that Barbara speedily told him all she knew, perhaps with a little unconscious exaggeration, by way of justifying her first announcement.

"You will be sure and let me know the result of your expedition!" he said, earnestly, with a lingering clasp of the hand, as he left her at the corner of her own street. "I shall be most anxious to hear, and no one deserves such a fortune better than yourself.

The dingy, jolting omnibus that conveyed Barbara to the city that afternoon might have been a royal chariot for all she felt of it. She was absorbed in bright visions of her coming greatness. No more of the interminable practicing at Mrs. Stewart's for herself, no drawing-lessons for some one else. Who could tell but next May there might be a new member at the Academy, a new picture to attract all eyes? No man tied down to mere teaching could have a fair chance. Barbara's face glowed with the thought that it might be her hand that should set the fettered genius free.

The glow was still there when she turned into King street and ran full against a plain, rather commonplace, young man coming out of one of the warehouses. "Why, Miss Barbara, it is not often you find your way to this quarter," he said, as he held out his hand. It was a brown, ungloved hand, and bore evident traces of hard service. Barbara gave the tips of her fingers rather coolly, contrasting it with the well-shaped yellow-gloved one that had pressed hers a little before.

"I came on some business, Mr. Grant," she said. "I believe there is a legacy waiting for me; it is advertised in the papers, and I am going to see the solicitors now."

John Grant laughed. Well, I hope you may get it, Miss Barbara; for myself, I never had much faith in legacies since I wasted twenty-five shillings once in answering advertisements about one."

"That may have been a very different matter from this," returned Barbara, stiffly. "I had better not detain you any longer, Mr. Grant."

"And that is the man Mrs. Stewart thinks worth half a dozen like Alfred Lawrence!" said Barbara to herself, as she walked into Messrs. Dod & Son's office.

Her face was several shades longer when she came out again. Messrs. Dod & Son had not received her with by any means the respectful enthusiasm she expected. There had been awkward questions to answer and proofs and genealogies that she had not been prepared to answer; indeed, she had half fancied they took her for an impostor, they had been so reluctant to part with any information. She should hear from them in a few days, and in the meantime she must kindly fill in the answers to certain questions on a paper they had given her.

"And I thought I should almost have had it in my pocket by this time," she said to herself, ruefully. "Well, I must have patience for another week or so. It is sure to be settled then; only—only I'd have liked to have something certain to tell Mr. Lawrence."

Mr. Lawrence sympathized with her over the delay almost as deeply as she did with herself when she told him the result of her visit the next day. Barbara was quite struck with the way he seemed to enter into all her feelings.

"And they did not even give you an idea how much it was likely to be?" he asked.

"Not exactly," admitted Barbara; "but they were so cautious I could tell by their manner that it must be a good deal."

"I don't know if that is altogether a criterion. These old lawyers are very deceptive sometimes," he replied. "However, you can get that paper filled up and sent in; and I would not lose any time about it, if I were you," he added.

John Grant was the next person to whom she had to explain her non-success.

"Just what I expected, Miss Barbara," he said, cheerfully. "One is never sure of a chance of that kind till one has actually got it. I would not build upon it in any way, if I were in your place."

"You don't seem to have had a fortunate experience in that way," retorted Barbara, ungratefully. "It is only deferred in this case, and I am in no hurry for a few days."

"Days!" echoed John. "There's a man in our office has waited years, and is likely to wait, as far as I can see."

Mrs. Stewart was another painful thorn in the path at this juncture.

"Barbara, my dear," she remarked one day after school was dismissed, "were you paying any attention whatever to the practice this afternoon?" Barbara flushed scarlet. "I was beside the piano the whole time," she declared.

"Your body may have been there, but your mind certainly was not. Now, my dear, you must really endeavor to put this unfortunate legacy out of your head for the present; you have been fit for very little since it was first mentioned. So far it has proved decidedly the reverse of any advantage to you."

Ten days later came the much-looked-for communication from Messrs. Dod & Son. "They were in receipt of Miss Reed's paper, and could assure her the matter should have their best attention, and were hers most obediently," etc.

Barbara flung it into her desk with a disappointed face. It was tedious to be obliged to wait in suspense like this. She would hardly know how to get through the time but for Mr. Lawrence's attention and warm interest in the upshot. John Grants's indifference, not to say scepticism, on the subject threw up his rival's superior qualities in full relief, and yet there were times when Barbara felt just a little puzzled that Mr. Lawrence went no farther. With all his solicitude, and looks that said more than words, he never absolutely committed himself to anything more binding than friendship.

"I can't ask him," she said one day, under her breath, as she walked slowly home after one of these "accidental" meetings. "But, oh, I do wish he would say straight out what he means, or else keep away altogether. It makes one feel so unsettled."

Poor Barbara was to feel more unsettled still before she reached home. It was a lovely summer evening, and fifty yards farther on she was joined by another cavalier—John Grant this time. She shrank back at first, half afraid of some jesting inquiry after Messrs. Dod & Son, but she speedily discovered that he seemed to have forgotten their very existence. There was something else in his mind, and he lost no time in saying very "straight out" indeed what it was.

"I may not be able to offer you a fine house and luxuries," he said, "but I have saved plenty to begin in comfort, and I think we might be very happy together if you would only try. I have thought about it for the last two years and worked hard to be able to tell you so."

Barbara looked up him with genuine tears in her eyes. "I am so sorry!" she said. "I never thought of such a thing—at least, not in serious earnest," as she remembered sundry remarks of Mrs. Stewart's. "Besides, there's lots of other better girls you might find."

"That is not the point," he interrupted; "it's you, not other girls, I want. Try and think of it, Barbara. I don't want to hurry you, but let me have a line as soon as you can; it means a good deal to me."

Barbara went home in kind of a haze. She had never thought so highly of John Grant and his straightforward dependableness as at that moment; but, on the other hand, there was Mr. Lawrence, with his handsome face and dashing manner, and there was a little undefined sense of resentment against Mrs. Stewart, who had always been a strong, if not entirely judicious advocate for John Grant; and—and then there was this probable fortune that might be coming to her. Barbara looked at the peaceful evening sky in sore perplexity as to what she ought to do, or what she really wished. "He said he didn't want to hurry me," she decided, finally. "I'll just wait and see how things go."

For another week or two things continued to go in much the same fashion. Mrs. Stewart wore a chronic air of disapproval. John Grant was invisible. Only Mr. Lawrence was to the fore with his sympathetic inquiries, but in some mysterious way Barbara began to find them irritating rather than flattering. She got tired of having the same response: "Nothing yet," and of hearing the same polite remarks about his admiration of her. They did not go deep enough. "If he has nothing more than that to say he ought not to have said it at all," she reflected, contrasting it half unconsciously with John Grant's very opposite line of conduct.

At last, one Saturday morning, as she was setting out for Mrs. Stewart's she met the postman, who gave her a blue official-looking envelope. Barbara stood still on the steps, holding her breath as she opened it.

"Messrs. Dod & Son's compliments to Miss Reed, and beg to inform her that Mrs. Elizabeth Drake has been proved the nearest kin, and consequently heir-at-law to the £500 left by the late Mr. Jas. Handford."

Miss Reed folded up the letter and put it soberly into her jacket pocket. She had scarcely realized before how much she had been counting upon it. There was nothing left now but to put on a brave face and make the best of it.

"Mrs. Stewart," she said, knocking at the door of that lady's sitting-room before she began her morning practice, "I want to tell you I have heard about that legacy at last."

"Well?" Mrs. Stewart looked up from her desk, pen in hand.

"It's not well," said Barbara, trying to smile. "There is some one nearer than I am—a Mrs. Elizabeth Drake. She gets it all—it was £500."

Mrs. Stewart laid down her pen and patted the girl's shoulder kindly. "Never mind, Barbara; you may be glad to have missed it some day, though it's not pleasant now. There are many other good things in the world beside money."

"It would have helped very nicely, though," sighed Barbara.

"No doubt; but it's not to be, so just try and forget it. You know you are not utterly dependent upon it."

As Barbara crossed the hall to the school-room that afternoon she encountered Mr. Lawrence. He was standing at the table buttoning his light gloves. She saw at the first glance that Mrs. Stewart had told him of her disappointment. She hesitated one instant, then went straight up to him.

"You see I am not to come into a fortune after all," she said quietly.

"So it seems," he said coldly, not looking up from a refractory button. "But it was not much of a fortune after all. I thought it was to be five or six times that amount."

"I wish I had never heard of it," spoke Barbara, looking at him in scornful surprise. "It has been nothing but an upset and annoyance."

"Y-es, it is rather a pity—disappointing and waste of time, too. Well, I am going into the country for a few weeks, Miss Reed, so good afternoon if I don't chance to see you again."

"Good afternoon," returned Barbara, with a frigid bow, as she opened the school-room door.

A tiny note was dropped into the pillar post that same evening addressed to Mr. John Grant.

"Dear John," it ran, "I'm not half good enough for you, but if you still wish it—I'll try."

It was not, perhaps, a great achievement in the way of composition for a young lady who had been under Mrs. Stewart's guidance for so long, but it perfectly satisfied the person it was intended for, and much loftier epistles have often failed in that respect.

"Mrs. Stewart, that unfortunate legacy was something to my advantage, after all," Mrs. John Grant said some months later: "I don't know what Mrs. Elizabeth Drake did with it, but I do know I would not change with her. The missing it has brought me far more happiness than the getting it ever could."

Mark Twain's Courtship.

Mark Twain has been the subject of many good stories in his day, and the appended one from the Indianapolis Journal, about a trying moment in his courtship, is worth reproducing:

As every one knows, Mr. Clemens first met his beautiful wife while on the famous voyage of the Quaker City, and he pursued his acquaintance after their return so closely that at last the young lady's papa one day called the ardent and devoted Mark into his private study and said, after some preamble: "Mr. Clemens, I have something to say to you which bears upon a subject of grave importance, at least to me and mine. You have been coming here for some time, and your manner leaves no doubt in my mind as to your object. Now, my daughter's welfare is very dear to me, and before I can admit you to her society on the footing of a suitor to her hand, I would like to know something more than I do about you and your antecedents, etc. Stop a minute! You must remember that a man may be "a good fellow, and a pleasant companion on a voyage and all that, but when it is a question as grave as this a wise father tries to take every precaution before allowing his daughter's affections to become engaged, and I ask of you, as a gentleman, that you shall give me the names of some of your friends in California to whom I may write and make such inquiries as I deem necessary, that is, if you still desire our friendship." It was now Mark Twain's turn. "Sir," said he, bowing profoundly, as became a young man who respects his hoped-for father-in-law, "your sentiments are in every way correct. I approve of them myself, and hasten to add that you have not been mistaken in my sentiments toward your daughter, whom I may tell you candidly seems to me to be the most perfect of her sex, and I honor your solicitation for her welfare. I am not only perfectly willing to give you references, but am only too glad to have an opportunity to do so, which my natural modesty would have prevented me from offering. Therefore permit me to give you the names of a few of my friends. I will write them down. First is Lieutenant-General John McComb, Alexander Badlam, General Lander and Colonel W. H. L. Barnes. They will all lie for me just as I would for them under like circumstances." This conclusion broke the old man all up, and he never asked more reference nor wrote to those gentlemen.

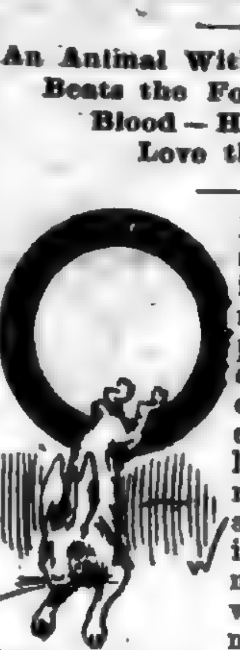
A Warning to the Crows.

An old farmer said to our Livermore Falls correspondent: "There's no trouble with crows if you only handle them right. Well, sir, I've got three acres and a half as good corn as there is around here, and they haven't touched it. I'll tell you how I do it. As soon as the crows put in an appearance I shoot as many as I can, and when my corn gets up I hang their dead bodies around the field, and they don't touch it. Yes, sir, if the crows see some of their dead companions and haven't tasted of the corn, they never will."—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

THE JACK RABBIT.

AN EXCITING SPORT ENJOYED IN THE WILD WEST.

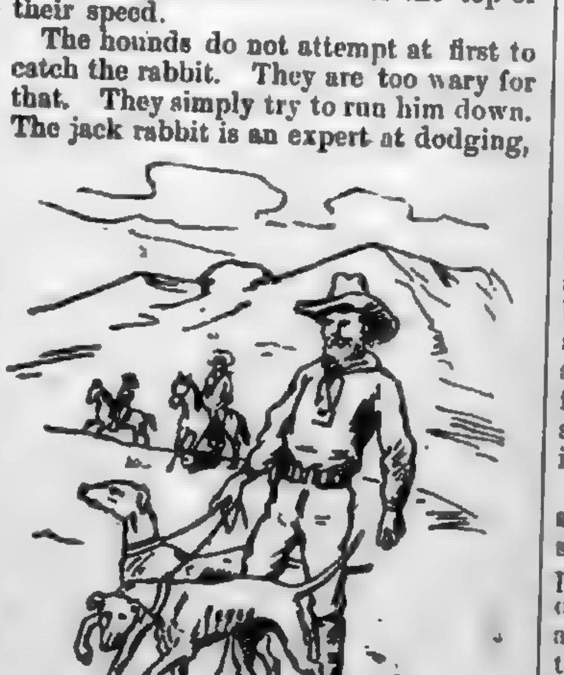
An Animal With Long Ears that Beats the Fox For Sporting Blood—Hounds that Love the Chase.



ONE of the most exhilarating sports known in the West is jack rabbit coursing on the plains. It is not indulged in in the Eastern States to any great extent, owing to a lack of plains and jack rabbits. But to many a man who has lived in the West the mere mention of the words will call up a train of memories of stirring dashes over the snow-covered prairies after the rabbit and hounds.

A brace of racing greyhounds held with a leash, followed by a score or more of lovers of the sport on horseback, start out on a bracing winter morning, when there is a light covering of snow on the ground, for the places where the jack rabbits are wont to congregate. The jack rabbit is unknown in the Eastern part of this country. He is the counterpart of the English hare. He is larger than the common rabbit or "cotton tail." He has long legs, and in a race is a runner worthy the attention of the fleetest of greyhounds. The coursers search in the snow for a fresh jack rabbit track and follow it up. When the rabbit is spied the hounds are let loose and rush after him. The whole crowd of horsemen follow after, whooping and yelling and urging on their horses to the top of their speed.

The hounds do not attempt at first to catch the rabbit. They are too wary for that. They simply try to run him down. The jack rabbit is an expert at dodging, and the hounds try to head him off whenever he attempts to make a sharp turn. At last, by superior strength, and the advantage of two to one, they succeed in tiring him out, and he falls an easy victim. Every time a hound heads the rabbit off it is a point in his favor. Two points are placed to the credit of the dog which catches the rabbit. A referee, mounted on a swift, sure horse, leads the followers of the dogs and marks the points. In this way it is decided which hound wins. Stakes of from $25 to $100 are usually up on these races. Mr. Alonzo Williams, who spent several years in Colorado and is an enthusiastic lover of the sport, tells the following story of his last coursing experience:



SEARCHING FOR GAME.

"Last February business engagements called me to Colorado and I happened to spend a day in Denver, which for several years had been my home. I met in the lobby of the Windsor Hotel an old friend who, like myself, was an enthusiastic lover of coursing. My friend told me that the Colorado Coursing Club was to have a meet the next morning. That was enough for me. In five minutes I had all the arrangement made to accompany the club, my friend agreeing to procure me a mount.

"Early next morning we all met at a stable in town and started off for the plains. We were a motley throng as we clattered through the quiet streets. First, there was old 'Greyhound Bill,' as we called him. He was a graduate of a cattle ranch. Being an enthusiastic lover of dogs, he had given up raising cattle and gone to raising and taking care of greyhounds. He was a big stalwart fellow, and was clad in his cowboy costume. He drove a wagon in which was a dog cage containing the four hounds which were to take part in the day's racing. Then there was Dr. Van Hummel, a leading physician of Denver and a great dog fancier. He was superbly mounted, and was arrayed in a stunning English riding suit. There were some twenty-five of us, all told, on horseback or in racing sulkies.

A JACK STARTED.

"A ride of twelve miles brought us to the open prairie, the home of the festive jack rabbit. We couldn't have had a better day for the sport if we had made it ourselves. The air was just cool enough to be bracing. A light covering of snow, just deep enough to make plain the tracks of the rabbits and not deep enough to interfere with riding, lay over the plains. The snow was gridironed with rabbit tracks. After a little marching 'Greyhound Bill' found a fresh one. Then he let out of the cage the two hounds which were to run the first race. They knew what was coming, and were hot for the chase. They rushed from the cage and began to jump around Bill [illegible].

"They were beautiful specimens. Flora, the largest, was a dark mouse color all over, with the exception of a white spot on her breast. She had long, supple legs and body and a long, thin snout. Belle, the other one, was a small greyhound, but exquisitely formed. She was my friend's dog and the heroine of many a race.

"Bill fastened the two dogs to a leash, and started out on foot to follow the rabbit track. The whole crowd on horseback or in sulkies followed after him. My friend was well mounted on his big Kentucky thoroughbred. He had been unable to secure anything for me except a little broncho pony. He was an odd little beast, and, with his arched neck and pink eyes, looked more like a rabbit than anything else himself. He was fairly gentle, as bronchos go, but they had put on him a saddle meant for a full-sized horse. The girth was too long and I couldn't or didn't try to shorten it. As a result the saddle slipped from side to side ominously as we rode along. I think I had forebodings then of impending disaster, but I didn't think much about them.

"We followed that rabbit track for over two hours, over hills and bluffs, down through dry gullies or 'arroyas,' across streams and over the flat prairie, but no trace of him did we find. He was evidently just ahead of us—and he kept ahead. We were riding along the dry beds of an arroya and were just coming around a mass of rocks when we heard a sharp 'hist!' from Bill. There, not twenty feet ahead of us, was a big jack rabbit sitting in front of a little cave or niche in the rocks.

A HOT CHASE.

"He saw us and was off like a white streak over the rocks. In an instant Bill slipped the leash from the straining, panting dogs. With a dash they were off, and the whole yelling crowd were after them, spurring on their horses to the top of their speed.

"What a race that was! The country was unusually hilly right there. One minute we would be dashing over a sharp bluff and down a steep hill. Again a high hill would shut off from sight for a moment the dodging rabbit and the dogs. Up the hill we would rush pell mell, and would get a better view from the top of the spirited chase. The old rabbit was an unusually large one, and was apparently possessed of great toughness of muscle and strength of lung.

"He led the hounds a noble chase. It was fully five minutes before they caught up to him at all, although they were straining every nerve. Flora was bounding over the snow with long leaps, her snout thrust down almost to the ground. Belle was dashing along, with head erect, and every muscle at its greatest tension. The old rabbit was bounding along on his long legs, looking like nothing but a streak of light brown on the snow.

"Finally they caught up with him. Then the fun began. He circled and dodged and doubled on his trail time and again, until we began to think they never would catch him. Now they are right on to him. The old rabbit makes a sudden dash. Flora is too quick for him. She wheels and drives him back to his former course.

"'Hooray! score one point for Flora!' everybody cries out.

THE FINISH.

"Nobody pays any attention to the cry, but the riders keep up a constant shouting and yelling, probably as a vent for the excitement of the moment. On they go, the rabbit trying all manner of dodges to shake off his pursuers. Now he tries the doubling dodge. He wheels quickly and starts back between the two dogs toward the horsemen.

"With a few strides, Belle is ahead of him, and sends him back about his business. The rabbit is now beginning to show signs of fatigue. He does less running and more dodging. The dogs are apparently as fresh as ever, and can run all around him and head him off wherever he starts to go; but they can't catch him yet. He is too artful and slippery for them. But he won't last long. His struggles are becoming weaker and weaker. He and the hounds are running, turning, and twisting in every direction. According to the referee's account, Flora has now scored six points and Belle five.

"The horsemen, who during the race have been scattered hundreds of yards apart, according to the swiftness of their steeds, are now beginning to get together again as the swifter ones slow up on account of the twisting and turning of the rabbit. My broncho, although he is a stout, sturdy little fellow, and has carried me bravely over the hills and through the valleys, is unable to compete with the fleet running horses on which most of the men are mounted. [illegible] rabbit, and in an instant the race will be over.

"I was dashing down the last steep hill at the base of which the horsemen with fleeter steeds were gathered. In the excitement of the moment I forgot about my loose saddle girth. Suddenly the world seemed to turn around, and I found myself lying on my back with what seemed to be about forty hoofs waving over my head. The saddle had turned around on to the little broncho's stomach. He ran off about twenty yards and began to kick wildly at the saddle, which had now fallen down on to his hind legs. A moment later he had sent the saddle flying into the air and was off over the plains at a headlong run.

"I heard a shout from the men at the foot of the hill. I jumped up, and forgetting my bruises and vanishing pony, saw the finish of the prettiest race it was ever my good fortune to witness. The rabbit had made four dodges, and each dog had scored two points, making the score eight to seven in favor of Flora. Just as I looked up Belle had made a charge on the rabbit, thrust her long nose under his left fore leg and thrown him in the air. The two dogs pounced upon him as he fell, and in an instant the race was over. Belle had won by a score of nine to eight. The beautiful hounds stood proudly over their prey and received the plaudits of their masters and the spectators with wagging tails. Their mouths were open and their tongues hung out as they panted for breath, but they seemed little disturbed by their run.—New York Sun.

An Odd Royal Favor.

A good and authentic story is told of a German Diogenes. When King Frederick William IV. of Prussia visited the Rhine provinces in 1843, he stopped some hours at Wesel, in which strongly fortified town, as the military commander of the post informed him, the oldest man in the monarchy was then living. The King went to see the oldest of his subjects and found him, a hale and still hearty veteran of one-hundred-and-six, comfortably seated in an old arm-chair, enjoying his inseparable companion—a short pipe. On the approach of the King he rose, and advanced a few steps, but the King made him sit down, and conversed quite freely with him, the pipe, however, not leaving his lips a minute. On parting the King asked him if he had any wish that he could gratify. "No, your Majesty," was the reply, "I thank you; I have everything I need in this world." "Have you indeed? Just think for a moment—we mortals generally have some wish or other." "Well, Sire, on second thought I might ask a favor. My physician insists upon my taking a walk every day on the ramparts. Every time I pass the powder magazine, the sentry hails me from a distance, crying out: 'Take the pipe out of your mouth,' and so I can advance but slowly, my pipe goes out every time. Now if Your Majesty will be gracious enough to give the order that the sentry shall let me smoke my pipe in peace the whole of the way, I shall esteem it the greatest boon of my remaining days." The order was given, and the old man enjoyed the privilege for upwards of two years, dying with his pipe in his mouth.

Wealth of the Ancients.

Crœsus possessed in landed property a fortune equal to £1,700,000, besides money, slaves, and furniture amounting to an equal sum. He used to say that a citizen who had not sufficient to support an army or a legion did not deserve the title of a rich man.

The philosopher Seneca had a fortune of £3,500,000.

Tiberius, at his death, left £29,624,000, which Caligula spent in twelve months.

Vespasian, on ascending the throne, estimated all the expenses of the state at £35,000,000.

The debts of Milo amounted to £600,000.

Cæsar, before he entered upon any office, owed £2,995,000. He had purchased the friendship of Corio for £500, and that of Lucius Paulus for £300,000.

At the time of the assassination of Julius Cæsar, Antony was in debt to the amount of £3,000,000; he owed this sum on the ides of March, and it was paid by the kalends of April; he squandered £147,000,000.

Apicius spent in debauchery £800,000; and finding on examination of his affairs that he had only £80,000, poisoned himself, because he considered that sum insufficient for his maintenance.

Cæsar gave Satulla, the mother of Brutus, a pearl of the value of £10,000.

Cleopatra, at an entertainment she gave to Antony, dissolved in vinegar a pearl worth £80—not several hundred pounds, as is commonly stated—and swallowed it.

HASH.

A MAN who talks about himself is sometimes a fool, but seldom a slanderer.

POLITICIANS ought to learn to sing, and see if they cannot keep harmony in their parties.

GOOD fellows are not always the best citizens, especially if they get too numerous in a town.

PIGS pay better than mines for a steady business the world over, although both are "salted" after death.

MEN who look for fights are generally accommodated where the peaceable could go through unscathed.

A PHILADELPHIA church is said to have decided upon having a lyre. There is a chance for Eli Perkins.

PUBLIC opinion can only be relied upon to change, but what new form it will take is always a matter of doubt.

THE man who has nothing to do generally telephones to busy people to see if they will go on an errand for him.

"WHAT is a boomerang, pap?" "A woman, I reckon," grimly replied the pap, whose wife had just been lecturing him.

THE Boston Traveller says that Cyrus Field is "on a new tack." Poor man! aren't his folks done housecleaning yet?

CHRONIC grumblers are like flies in butter; they do not ruin what they mix with, but they spoil the symmetry of the scene.

A Musical Wonder.

"Jenkins is drinking a good deal, isn't he?" said a traveling man to a friend.

"Yes; he's going it pretty hard."

"I wonder whether he wouldn't have made a good musician."

[illegible]

HARVEST.

I.

The purple wine skins cluster upon the drooping vine,
The sun fed peach leans low upon the garden wall,
With their burden gold and ruddy the apple boughs incline,
The pear and plum bend down to the eager reach of all.

II.

The polished nuts are dropping from sheaths of bursting burrs,
The golden gorse is weaving a field of cloth of gold,
The airs are heavy laden with the balsam of the firs,
The aster's royal splendor is a marvel on the mold.

III.

A tender flush of Summer lingers still on hill and plain,
And on the fields close stacked and on the woods aglow;
There's a sound of harvest singing, and a sound of falling grain,
And a sound of flashing sickles as the reapers come and go.

IV.

The sadness of perfection lies in these sweet late days,
With cool crisp morns and eves and noons of mellow fire;
As on the full bloom rose that forecasts its own decay,
Too fair and faultless to leave room for hope or for desire.

—Jennie Waxwell Paine.

PITH AND POINT.

Bills are usually presented in due time.

The crow is a sensible bird for he seldom opens his mouth without caws.—Waterloo Observer.

I never was on the dull, tame shore,
But I loved the great sea more and more;
And ne'er on the steamer's deck I stand,
But that I'd give my boots for land.—Life.

Advice to young ladies who are setting their caps: Use percussion caps so that the "pop" may be heard.—New Haven News.

The reason that dogs are seldom drowned is because they always have their bark with them.—Duluth Paragrapher.

What is ancestry after all? The rich man as well as the poor one begins life without a shirt to his back.—Charleston Advertiser.

A policeman declares that he has to handle about as many pieces of male matter as they do at the postoffice.—New York News.

Some think it adds to a woman's beauty to bang her hair, but others think a woman is ugly who bangs her heir.—St. Paul Herald.

What is that sound, so deep and strong,
That seems the skies to burst?
What great event so moves the throng?—
McGinnis is out at first.
—Washington Critic.

There is no need of your taking your daughter to Europe in order that she may marry a title. For $3,000 a man can be ennobled in Hawaii.—Minneapolis Tribune.

The number of photographers in the United States has increased to eleven thousand, but you can try them all and not get a picture to do you full justice.—Detroit Free Press.

"How did you break that lamp?" roared Mr. Testy. "Just lighted it, and that broke it," said his wife; "darkness falls, you know, but light breaks." "It's a wonder your head doesn't break, then," Mr. Testy was going to say, but unfortunately, he didn't think of it.—Burdette.

A FELT WANT.

The social young fellow,
Whose years are a score,
Who hath at the mountains,
Or on the sea-shore,
With sad prodigality
Squandered his store,
Now taketh no comfort in Pleasuring that
Hath gone down the past
With its blisses ecstat-
Ic; but bitterly sayeth
In language quite pat,
"It would fill a felt want,
If I had a fall hat!"
—Tid-Bits.

Ye Storie of Ye Doggie.

Once in ye very olden tyme a Merchantt sayd too an Eddytor, "I doan thynke advertizing payes."

"Let me show yov," said ye Eddytor, "I pvtt 1 lyne in my Papyr and not charge yov a pennie."

"All right," replied the Merchantt, "and we will see."

So ye Eddytor pvtts ye lyne in his papyr:

WANTED A DOGGE. JOHN JONES, 22 Olde st.

Now yt happened that 400 Peple eache broughte a Dogge on ye next daye thereafter, so that Mister Jones (whych was ye Merchantt's nayme) was overrunne with Dogge's.

"Synce there are so manye Dogges," sayd he, "I thynke I myght make some bysiness and will give you a pennie for eache Dogge."

Ye people tooke ye pennie each for his Dogge becavse there were so manye Dogges, and Mister Jones skynned ye 400 Dogges and made bootes and gloves from ye 400 hydes and thvs mayd and thereafter added to yt by advertizing in ye Eddytor's papyr.—American Grocer.

A BYG FORTVNE,

A Transformation Scene.

They are very business-like in Europe and very exact in their methods. My friend was in Vienna. He had taken from here a letter of credit on one of the best known banks, and he wanted to draw on it. So he sought the agency of the bank in Vienna. He walked into an office which had a big barricade in front of a long desk and two small holes cut for the convenience of customers. He walked up to the first of them. A face came up. He handed the letter of credit to him. The man looked at it and said very gruffly: [illegible] My friend went to the next window; a man came up, took the letter of credit, looked at it, smiled pleasantly, and said: "That's all right. [illegible]

CHILTON VIEW.

Published Every Thursday Morning.

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 27, 1887.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

One copy one year - - - - $1.50
One copy six months - - - - 75
One copy four " - - - - 50

The Morris Eye, Ear and Throat Infirmary, under the management of Dr. B. J. Baldwin at Montgomery, is a fine institution for the treatment of diseases of the eye, ear and throat. A beautiful new building has recently been erected on Perry street which has been elegantly fitted up, and in which patients can receive every attention. Dr. Baldwin has in his hands a noble work in the successful management of this institution.

A few years back one of the complaints of the Northern Republicans against the South was that the people of this section would not allow Northerners to come among them, and ill-treated and ostracised all who attempted to come. Now that the South is disproving their slanders in regard to its industry and thrift, they say that it is Northern enterprise and capital that has developed the South and built her manufactories.

The Montgomery Dispatch of last Thursday was something novel in the newspaper line. It consisted of a special edition of thirty-two pages, containing elaborate articles upon the history and resources of each county in Alabama. Two copies of the paper were printed on white satin, beautifully and expensively trimmed and enclosed in a very handsome crimson plush roll: One of these was presented to President Cleveland and the other to Col. D. S. Troy, President of the Dispatch Publishing Co.

Gov. Gordon, of Georgia, thinks prohibition has helped Atlanta as well as every county in the State where the law prevails and is enforced. It is refreshing to note that the Governor of a great State has the courage to express his opinion on such an important question in the face of great opposition. Another election on this question will be held in Atlanta and Fulton county in November. With Gordon, Grady and the Constitution all in favor of prohibition, it will probably carry the day again.

Corrected.

The special edition of the Montgomery Dispatch of last Thursday was defective in one particular—it suffered from the shortcomings of a bad proof reader. In the write up of Chilton county a very noticeable error was in the following sentence: "For the first assessment (1870) the county gave in 139,459 acres of land valued at $214,879; in 1887 the number of acres has increased to 399,743, valued at $250,334." We beg to correct that proof reader by reminding him that the last lot of figures ought to be increased by exactly $300,000, and should be $550,334. A figure 5 in place of 2 would have made it alright.

The Montgomery Advertiser issued a great paper in honor of President Cleveland's visit to that city. We can only regret that our own county had no mention in that issue. Cleveland's history written up by Mr. Thos. H. Clark was a fine article indeed, and deserves circulation from Maine to California as a campaign document: Editorially the Advertiser contained the following sensible paragraph in its welcome to the President:

"The people welcome him because he is one of them, and in no act has he proved recreant to his trust. Unmoved by favoritism and unswerved by personal considerations, he has done at all times and under all circumstances what he believed to be right. It has not been a question of personal or party advantage with him. The grand controlling sentiment was a desire to find the right thing to do, and to do it without fear, favor or affection. Such a man, governed by such principles, is bound to gain the affections of the people whose interests have been committed to his care.

A Faithful Official.

Evergreen Star.]

No portion of public trust within the gift of the people is more important than that of state auditor. That place is now filled in Alabama by a man who thoroughly understands his duties. Since M. C. Burke has been state auditor he has saved thousands of dollars to the state. He understands his duties and his responsibilities. Not only this, he takes special pains in the instruction of his subordinates. Scarcely a week that he does not send circulars to probate judges, clerks, sheriffs, tax assessors and collectors, instructing them to their duties. It is impossible for county officials to go astray if they will follow the instructions given to them by the present auditor. Sometimes the people of the state or a county elect a man to office who very soon shows to the public that he is indispensible to them. Such has Mr. Burke shown himself to be, and we hope the time is remote when the people of this great state will conclude that they can dispense with the services of their present auditor.

AT THE ATLANTA FAIR.

Breezy Items of Interest About the Piedmont Exposition.

Anniston Hot Blast.]

The Tuskaloosa coal is said to have been painted. Of course this must be fun.

Sheffield's exhibit of iron ore was taken from beds sixteen miles distant.

The Birmingham Age's Atlanta correspondent did not fancy the president's appearance or demeanor. He says: "In the president's manner there is something which repels rather than attracts the masses who come to welcome him. On the streets expressions of disappointment are heard from all classes of people, and it is clearly apparent that Cleveland is wholly wanting in that personal magnetism which makes rulers popular with the masses of the people."

The correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star says:

The Constitution goes further and says: "The carriage in which the president" [with a small p] "will ride to-day is the one in which President Davis" [with a big P] "sat when he rolled through the streets covered with flowers eight months ago."

The Atlanta Constitution is not pleased with the Associated Press reports of the president's little circus and complains that the agent "carries his illuminated rhetoric in a carpet-bag." Editor Grady seems to carry his at a right shoulder shift. His introduction of Jeff. Davis as "the most glorious event since the resurrection of Christ," left him nothing more grandiloquent to say yesterday than that "the descent of Grover beats everything since the Fall of Adam," and he didn't even think to say this.

A Hot Blast reporter dreamed the subjoined conversation:

Cleveland: Dan'l, which is the empire state of the south?

Lamont: Georgia is popularly supposed to have that distinction, sire.

Cleveland: Did the sun shine when we were in Georgia, Dan'l?

Lamont: It did not, sire. It did not make an appearance until we reached Alabama.

Cleveland: That is a fact. Let it be henceforth recorded that Alabama is the empire southern state, and Mrs. Cleveland will, when we return home, send the cake to Governor Seay.

Lamont: "What will Grady, Gordon and Julius Brown (who lunched us) say to that, your highness?"

Cleveland: "No matter what, Dan'l. We will draw the deadly parallel column on them, if they kick. The cake goes to Alabama which beat Georgia in sunshine and also in mineral exhibits. Dan'l, let it be recorded."

Lamont: "It is recorded sire. Alabama gets the cake and Atlanta's cake is all dough."

The Coming Style.

Chicago Tribune.]

Clergyman (closing his sermon): Finally, beloved, abstain from the appearance of evil. While there may be nothing wrong in the exercise of dancing, considered in and of itself, yet the associations connected with the public dancing hall are such that I cannot, as a faithful shepherd to whose keeping is committed the spiritual welfare of this flock, commend it as a proper place of resort either for the old or young.

Individual in back seat (rising up)—With the permission of the pastor and congregation, I would like to say a few words in reply to the sermon that has been just delivered. As a man who has been for years engaged in conducting a dancing hall, I cannot keep silent under such unjust and slanderous charges. I have always followed my profession conscientiously. I keep an orderly and quiet academy (which I may state incidentally is the Apollo Belvedere Hall, No. 27 Terpsichore Place), and I defy any of you to say that there has ever been a breath of scandal connected with the name of Prof. C. Herbert Lightfoot, instructor in dancing and deportment. Winter season opens December 5. Terms given on application. Office hours from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Take elevator.

(This appears to be the coming style.)

Jemison Locals.

Married, near Gallatin, Tenn., on the evening of the 19th inst., by the Rev. J. O. Bell, Dr. F. H. Dunklin to Miss Mary Bell. Dr. D. is one of Chilton's rising young practitioners and has the confidence and esteem of a host of friends at Jemison. Miss Bell was one of Middle Tennessee's fairest daughters, and has already won many friends by her modest mien and gentle, winning ways. We welcome her in our midst. May their pathway through life be strewn with many flowers.

The Farmer's Alliance store has opened under favorable auspices and will soon be in full blast.

Mr. C. H. Smith has moved to Birmingham and gone into the grocery business.

Mrs. O'Connor and Mr. E. H. Chapman treated their friends to some delightful music last night.

X. Y. Z.

God bless our Grandmothers! We all love the young folks of course, but for good, solid comfort, give us the steady unwavering love of the old grandmother as she watches over the health of the household, administering when needed to the little ones a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge because experience taught her it is the best worm medicine ever made.

Grey eyes are the most expressive of all eyes, and denote strong qualities of mind and soul. Persons with grey eyes usually have a great deal of patriotism.

The Dudes Know It.

Or if they don't they should know that Rangum Root Liniment cured Big Head in mules for W. E. Hunt, of Adairsville, Ky. J. H. Mallory, of Fort's Station, Tenn., cured his hogs of blind staggers with it. In fact this King of Liniments is invaluable for man and beast, and no family should be without it. Sold by all druggists.

No woman can have her patience more severely taxed than by a fretful child, whom nothing can please, and a dose of White's Cream Vermifuge will relieve the child if it be troubled with worms. Therefore do not allow your child to be tortured further when such a remedy is at hand.

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," and if you know a sufferer from piles, recommend to him Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment, a preparation composed of safe and simple ingredients, and which is regarded as the best remedy known for Piles. Do not forget that Tabler's Buckeye Pile Ointment cures Piles when used according to directions.

Money to Loan!

We are prepared to negotiate mortgage loans on farming lands in Chilton county in sums of three hundred dollars and upwards. Rates cheap and negotiations speedily concluded. Apply to or correspond with

A. D. BENTLEY,
Att'y at Law, Clanton Ala., or
H. L. WILLIAMS,
ma5 ly Att'y at Law, Wetumpka.

A. J. MASSEY,
OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without Pain. Inserting teeth a specialty.

☞ Will go far and near.
Clanton and Rockford, Ala. [aug18-6

NOTICE NO. 6742.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
September 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver U. S. Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on Nov. 11, 1887, viz: Ann Hicks, widow of George Hicks, Homestead 14686 for the n w ¼ sec 12 township 23 n, range 13 east. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Daniel Hightower and Jackson Campbell, of Randolph, Ala., and William Davis and Rebecca Hightower, of Jemison, Ala.

sep29 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6809.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 12, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: Thomas Harrison, Homestead 16,483 for the s w ¼ of n e ¼ sec 4, township 22 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his contiduous residence upon and cultivation of, said land, viz: J. F. Maull, F. G. Crocheron, G. W. Hill, J. P. Givhan, all of Strasburg, Ala.

oct13 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6739.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Sep. 27, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver United States Land Office at Montgomery, Ala., on November 12, 1887, viz: Mary J. Thornton, Homestead 13247 for the n e ¼ sec 33, township 21 n, range 16 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Harrison Kendrick, Thomas P. Connel, Elijah Welden, Bud Kendrick, all of Verbena, Ala.

sep29* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6823.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: Mary E. Gentry, homestead 12826 for the n ½ of n e ¼ sec 26, township 23 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: George W. Gothard, Levi J. Martin, Walter Gothard, William R. Cofer, all of Jemison, Ala.

oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6681.

U. S. Land Office,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 25, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on Dec. 8, 1887, viz: John S. Davis, homestead 16776 for the s w ¼ of n w ¼ and n w ¼ of s w ¼ sec. 28 township 24 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: French Nabors, of Montevallo, Ala., Sam Curry, William D. Carter and Shelby Lucas, of Brierfield, Ala.

oct27 J. G. HARRIS, Register.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

A SPECIFIC FOR WOMAN'S DISEASES

—SUCH AS—

Painful, Profuse, Suppressed, Scanty and Irregular MENSTRUATION or MONTHLY SICKNESS.

If taken during the CHANGE OF LIFE, great suffering and danger will be avoided. ☞ Send for book "MESSAGE TO WOMEN," mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR Co., Atlanta, Ga.

COLLINS AGUE CURE

HEADACHE.

Nothing relieves a Headache so promptly as Collins' Ague Cure. It cleanses the stomach, promotes action of the liver, and purifies the blood, aiding you to perfect health.

MALARIAL FEVER.

A few doses of Collins' Ague Cure will quickly break up the worst case of Malarial Fever. No other remedy possesses the power of so completely eradicating Malaria from the system. CHILLS and FEVER yield at once to its influence, and the cure is permanent.

BILIOUS COLIC.

Immediate relief and a speedy cure for the worst cases of Bilious Colic is found in the use of Collins' Ague Cure. As a radical corrective of all Bilious Disorders it has no equal.

DIARRHŒA or FLUX.

Flux, Diarrhœa, and all Summer Complaints are completely checked and cured in a few hours by Collins' Ague Cure. TRY IT. Sold everywhere by all Dealers at 50 cts. a Bottle.

☞ Ask your Dealer for a Copy of the COLLINS' PRESENT CENTURY ALMANAC, or Address

COLLINS BROS. DRUG CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

jun30-y

THE LIGHT-RUNNING
NEW HOME
SEWING MACHINE
PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
NEVER OUT OF ORDER.
NEW HOME SEWING MACHINE Co. ORANGE, MASS.
CHICAGO ILL. - 30 UNION SQUARE, N.Y. - DALLAS, TEX.
ST. LOUIS, MO. ATLANTA, GA. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.
FOR SALE BY

aug10-1y

BRICK WORK

J. M. DAWSON,

CLANTON, ALA.

Is prepared to do all kinds of brick work in the best style. The patronage of the public solicited.

feb15-tf]

NOTICE NO. 6825.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 18, 1887, viz: Orville Roper, Homestead 13419 for the e ½ of ne ¼ and s w ¼ of n e ¼ and n e ¼ of s e ¼ sec 28 township 21 n range 13 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Jasper N. Smith, James C. Mims, Francis M. Headley, of Clanton, Ala., and Lee Hayse, of Maplesville, Ala.

oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6846.

U. S. LAND OFFICE,
Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 12, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 21st, 1887, viz: Albert N. Wilson, Homestead 13234 for the s e ¼ of section 6, township 20 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James H. Griffis, Robert L. Williams, Solomon Owen, Ely Owen, all of Kincheon, Ala.

oct 13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6824.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court, at Clanton, Ala., on November 18, viz: Monroe M. Durbin, Homestead 13060 for the s ½ of n w ¼ and n ½ of s w ¼ sec 30 township 21 n range 14 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: James R. Broadhead, Madison Popwell, John Edwards, and Newton Culp, all of Kincheon, Ala.

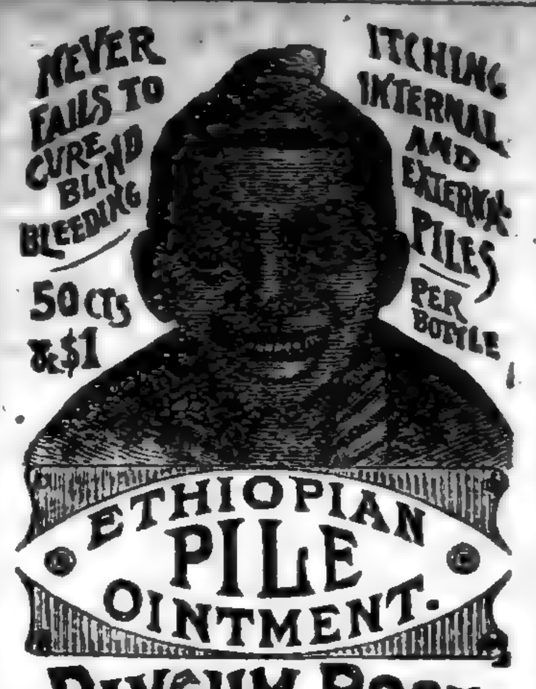
oct13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.

NOTICE NO. 6822.

Land Office at Montgomery, Ala.,
October 11, 1887.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Judge or in his absence the clerk of the circuit court at Clanton, Ala., on November 19, 1887, viz: James P. Gentry, Homestead No. 10888 for the s w ¼ of n e ¼ and n w ¼ of s e ¼ sec 26, township 23 n, range 12 e. He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz: Geo. W. Gothard, Levi J. Martin, Walter Gothard, William R. Cofer, all of Jemison, Ala.

oct 13* J. G. HARRIS, Register.



NEVER FAILS TO CURE BLIND BLEEDING
ITCHING INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL PILES
50 CTS & $1 PER BOTTLE
ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT.

RANGUM ROOT LINIMENT

CURES SPRAINS, BRUISES, RHEUMATISM SORE THROAT, SPAVIN SPLINT, RINGBONE EPIZOOTIC, Etc. 50 CENTS PER BOTTLE.

HODGES SARSAPARILLA

CURES RHEUMATISM, SCROFULA & ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD. $1 PER BOTTLE. 6 FOR $5.

TANNERS INFALLIBLE NEURALGIA CURE

CURES ALL FORMS OF NEURALGIA & NERVIOUS HEADACHE. 50 CTS PER BOX.

SOLD EVERYWHERE

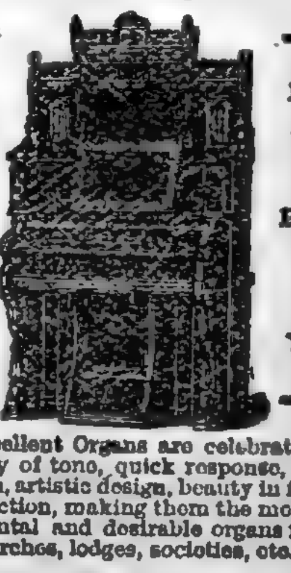
MADE BY RANGUM ROOT MED. Co NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE CHICAGO COTTAGE ORGAN

Has attained a standard of excellence which admits of no superior.

It contains every improvement that inventive genius, skill and money can produce.

OUR AIM IS TO EXCEL.



EVERY ORGAN WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

These excellent Organs are celebrated for volume, quality of tone, quick response, variety of combination, artistic design, beauty in finish, perfect construction, making them the most attractive, ornamental and desirable organs for homes, schools, churches, lodges, societies, etc.

ESTABLISHED REPUTATION,
UNEQUALED FACILITIES,
SKILLED WORKMEN,
BEST MATERIAL,
COMBINED, MAKE THIS

THE POPULAR ORGAN

Instruction Books and Piano Stools.

Catalogues and Price Lists, on application, FREE.

The Chicago Cottage Organ Co.
Corner Randolph and Ann Streets,
CHICAGO, ILL.

L & N
LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THE GREAT Through Trunk Line

Between the Cities of CINCINNATI, LEXINGTON, LOUISVILLE, EVANSVILLE, ST. LOUIS, And the Cities of N. ORLEANS, MOBILE, and MONTGOM'Y, MEMPHIS, NASHVILLE,

Without Change and with Speed Unrivaled

SHORTEST AND QUICKEST ROUTE
From New Orleans, Mobile and Montgomery, to
NORTH, EAST & WEST

PULLMAN CARS Without change to Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, with but one change to all NORTHERN AND EASTERN CITIES.

THROUGH COACHES
From Chattanooga and Nashville to St. Louis, connecting direct for Cities in the Northwest.

EMIGRANTS Seeking homes on the line of this road will receive special low rates.

See Agents of this Company for rates, routes &c., or write C. P. ATMORE, G. P. & T. A.
(3) Louisville, Ky.

R. P. WOOLEY & CO.,
CLANTON, ALA.,
IS THE PLACE TO BUY YOUR
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES.

M. C. McRee,
—DEALER IN—
Dry Goods, Groceries,
—AND—
General Merchandise.

I am now receiving a new lot of goods which I am going to sell at astonishingly low prices. Try my shoes. I am handling the very best and cheapest shoes manufactured. Try them and be convinced. [aug 25-6

Blacksmithing.

Having purchased the business of Mr. Wm. Wright, Sr., we have located permanently in Clanton, and are prepared to do all work in the line of blacksmithing and wagon and buggy repairing.

G. W. MARCUS & BRO.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. 25-6.

BAINS & PEEBLES.
(SUCCESSORS TO BAINS & HERRING.)
WHOLESALE DRUGGISTS.

Mail and Express Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention.

FINE WINES AND LIQUORS A SPECIALTY.

1926 FIRST AVENUE, BETWEEN 19th and 20th STREETS,
Birmingham, Ala.

☞ Fine Stock of Chess Carley's Oils at Company's Prices. ☜

P. O. BOX 570. June 19 y

E. WALL. P. GIACOPAZZI.

WALL & GIACOPAZZI,
Wholesale Fruit, Produce and Commission Merchants,
Second Ave. and Twentieth St.
Birmingham, - - - Ala.

References: S. Oteri, New Orleans; Jos. Denunzio, Louisville; Buhr, Wendte & Co., Cincinnati; Underhill, Stewart & Shotta, N. Y.; Wm. D. Clarke & Co., New Orleans; Cowing & Clark, Cincinnati; A. G. Conant & Co., N. Y.; First National Bank, Birmingham, Ala.

BLOOM,
The Tailor, of Montgomery, Ala.,
—DOES—
Dyeing, Scouring, Cleaning, and Repairing

Of Gents' and Ladies' garments of all colors.
Orders by Mail or Express will receive prompt attention.
Prices to suit the times. Work Guaranteed.

NO. 5 Court Street, Upstairs, - - Opposite Dollar Store.

Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth,
Birmingham, Ala.
—DEALERS IN—
HARDWARE,

Sash, Doors and Blinds, Paints, oil and glass, Cement and Plaster, Mantles and Grates.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA,
Are displaying a Complete and Varied Assortment of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Hats, Shoes, Clothing and Millinery.

Special attention given to Mail Orders. Samples cheerfully furnished on application.

R. E. BOLLING & SON,
Temple Stores, - - Commerce St.
Montgomery, Ala.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
WE ARE OPENING CHEAP
SEED RICE for PLANTERS,
AND POLISHED RICE FOR TABLE USE,
CRACKED CORN for STOCK,
The best feed on the market. No danger of colic. We can furnish
BOLTED MEAL
IN LARGE OR SMALL LOTS. COW FOOD A SPECIALTY, AND CHEAP.

SHIVERS & WISE,
mar24-y] SELMA, ALABAMA.

WILSON HOUSE.
A. P. SIMS, Proprietor.
Corner 21st Street and 2nd Ave.
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

The above house is first-class in all its appointments, and is under the exclusive control of A. P. SIMS, an experienced hotel manager.

T. T. ASHFORD, President. J. E. MALAHY, Vice-President. T. L. McGOWAN, Sec'y and Treas'r.

Birmingham Paint, Glass and Wall Paper Co.

Office and Salerooms, 1912 Second Avenue. Depot and Warehouse Morris Avenue and 14th Street.

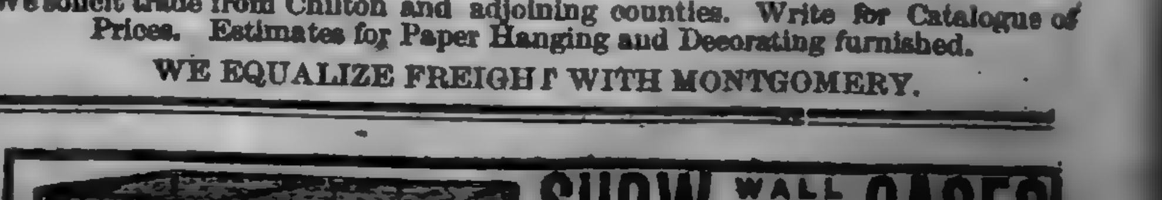
Birmingham, Alabama.

Jobbers and Retailers of
PAINTS, OILS, GLASS, WALL PAPER,
Plate, Skylight and Colored Glass,
Artist and Painters' Supplies, Cornice Poles, Mirrors and Mirror Plates, Picture and Room Moulding.

☞ MANUFACTURERS OF PICTURE FRAMES. ☜

We solicit trade from Chilton and adjoining counties. Write for Catalogue of Prices. Estimates for Paper Hanging and Decorating furnished.

WE EQUALIZE FREIGHT WITH MONTGOMERY.



SHOW WALL CENTRE RIBBON CASES
ARTISTIC STORE FIXTURES.
CABINET WORK
TERRY SHOW CASE CO.

GO TO BLANK BROS., LEADING CLOTHIERS, 2112 SECOND AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

CHILTON VIEW,

CLANTON, ALA., OCT. 27, 1887.

THE VIEW is published every Thursday morning, and will endeavor to cover the field of reputable country journalism. It will show no quarter to the deceitful, the immoral or the ungodly. It will always be good natured, although it can bite if necessary.

Those answering advertisements will confer a favor by mentioning this paper.

COURT CALENDAR.

Chancery—First Thursday after the third Monday in March and September and continue three days.

Circuit—Third Monday after the first Monday in February and on the fifth Monday after the fourth Monday in July, and continue two weeks each time.

Commissioners'—Regular term second Monday in February and August, and first Monday in April and November. Special term second Monday in July.

County—First Monday in each month.

SCHEDULE S. & N. ALA. RAILROAD.—Trains pass Clanton daily, as follows:

GOING SOUTH.

No. 1 at	5:45 a. m.
No. 3	5:47 p. m.
No. 7	6:47 a. m.
No. 5	6:22 p. m.

GOING NORTH.

No. 2	9:15 a. m.
No. 12	6:22 p. m.
No. 4	9:41 p. m.
No. 6	8:45 a. m.

Cotton Market.

BIRMINGHAM—Corrected weekly by Sol. D. Bloch & Co., cotton factors Market steady. Demand fair. Prices prevailing: Good Midling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8¼c.

MONTGOMERY — Market quiet. Demand good. Good Middling 8¾c. Middling 8½c. Low Middling 8¼c.

LOCAL DOTTINGS.

A heavy frost Saturday morning.

Mr. J. M. Ponder took a business trip to Georgia last week.

Invitation cards and envelopes at the VIEW Stationery Stand.

Mr. R. P. Woolley had a fine cow killed by a train on Monday night.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure is gentle in action, and warranted a certain cure. 50 cents a bottle.

Mr. Sartor has moved into his new residence on West Main street.

Mr. B. H. Chesnutt, of Birmingham, spent Sunday with his family at this place.

Confectioneries and family groceries at C. L. Phillips'. Call on him near the drug store.

Mr. Wm. McDow, of Gainesville, visited the family of Mr. Lee Holt at this place last week.

The danger of a malarial atmosphere may be averted if you will occasionally take a dose of Dr. J. H. McLean's Chills and Fever Cure.

Mrs. W. H. Foshee leaves this morning for an extended visit to relatives in Arkansas.

A nice lot of fancy writing paper at the VIEW Stationery Stand from 25 to 75 cents a box.

The belfry on the Methodist church has received its last coat of paint and looks very pretty.

Mr. F. T. Downey, of Birmingham, was among his friends in Clanton Friday and Saturday.

A disordered condition of the stomach, or malaria in the system will produce sick headache, you can remove this trouble by taking Dr. J. H. McLean's Little Liver and Kidney Pillets. 25 cts. per vial.

Thirteen freight cars were wrecked at Blasingame's switch near the depot at this place last Thursday.

Mr. Cicero May, of Montgomery county is attending school at Clanton Academy. He is boarding at Mr. O. R. Bell's.

Appetite and sleep may be improved, every part of the system strengthened and the animal spirits regain their bouyancy by the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

The Methodists expect to be able to complete their new church and use it by January. It will have chair seats instead of benches.

Go to Blank Brothers, Leading Clothiers, 2112, 2nd Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., to buy anything you need in the way of clothing and gent's furnishing goods.

The negro woman who accidentally shot herself with a cartridge at Cooper's Station some weeks since, and who was supposed to be dying for some hours afterwards is getting well. The bullet was never taken from her abdomen for fear of fatal results from the operation.

Winter Shoes.

I am now selling a heavy grade of shoes for winter wear. They are the kind to keep your feet dry and warm, as well as last a long time. Come and see the shoes, examine the quality, consider the low prices, and then buy and be happy all the winter. I have a fine handsewed shoe at $5.00 per pair.

Yours Truly,

W. L. SAMPEY.

Mr. W. K. Baskin, representing the hardware firm of Thompson, Francis & Chenoweth, of Birmingham, spent Tuesday in Clanton.

We have just received a new supply of job printing stationery and are prepared to do your work on short notice. Send in your orders.

Rev. A. E. Burns appointment at the Baptist church last Sabbath was filled by Rev. Jos. Shackleford, editor of the Alabama Baptist. He preached two excellent sermons.

Our citizens should not be discouraged about the bridge over the railroad on account of the railroad company refusing to build it, but should go to work and build it themselves.

Sudden change of temperature and humidity of the atmosphere often produce disorders of the kidneys and bladder. Use Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm to check these troubles in their incipiency.

Frequently accidents occur in the household which causes burns, cuts, sprains and bruises; for use in such cases Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy.

The festive tramp is abroad in the land. The increase in their forces around these parts is evidence of approaching winter. They should be arrested as vagrants and put to work for the county.

Our friend Gordon DuBose keeps us busy putting his name in the paper. We wish he would bring things to a climax with that best girl of his down here so we could give more of our valuable space to our county correspondents. Eh! Gordon.

A little excitement was created at the depot last Friday morning by a fight between a white fireman and negro brakesman. Engineer Will Robinson also took a hand in it. The negro had a pistol but was knocked down and robbed of his weapon. No one was hurt except the negro who simply got his mouth mashed.

Undue exposure to cold winds, rain, bright light or malaria, may bring on inflamation and soreness of the eyes. Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Eye Salve will subdue the inflamation, cool and soothe the nerves, and strengthen weak and failing Eye sight. 25 cents a box.

Uususpected disorders of the kidneys are responsible for many of the ordinary ailments of humanity which neglected, develop into a serious and perhaps fatal malady. Experience would suggest the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm.

We must apologize to our readers on account of the bad print of the inside pages of the VIEW last week. We were working a new roller that persisted in showing us how not to do it, until we became disgusted ourselves and ordered another roller, with which we expect to give our subscribers a clearly printed paper.

See the advertisement of the Davin Machinery Co., of Birmingham, in these columns. Mr. Walter W. Davin, the energetic manager of this establishment desires to inform the trade of this section that he is now associated with a company who have plenty of capital to meet any emergency and can sell you your machinery as cheap and on as reasonable terms as any firm in the country.

The ladies of the M. E. Ladies Aid Society, extend many thanks to Mrs. McNeil for the untiring energy, and faithful discharge of duty as president of their society during the past six months. Also to Miss Dalce Thornton who made an efficient treasurer.

We hope that we may accomplish as much during the coming six months and that each member of the Society will be awake to its interests.

M. E. L. A. SOCIETY.

Clanton, Oct. 25, 1887.

A beautiful woman must be healthy, and to remain healthy and beautiful she should take Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It imparts tone and flush to the skin, strength, vigor and pure blood; is equally adapted for all ages, from the babe to the aged, of either sex.

If the stomach performs its functions actively and regularly the food of which it is the receptical, is transformed into blood of a nourishing quality, which furnishes vigor and warmth to the whole body, the remedy to give tone to the stomach is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier.

A Tremendous Caning.

Now don't get excited and jump out of your boots. Mr. A. J. Hall brought to the VIEW office on Monday a specimen of cane brought by his uncle from British Honduras, Central America. It is a pleasing curiosity and can be seen in our cabinet. The specimen measures five inches in diameter, and Mr. H. tells us grows to the remarkable height of a hundred feet, which is a greater height by forty feet than botanists give the bamboo of the East Indies.

Married.

In Autauga county, near Benton, on Thursday, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Wood, Miss Etta Haralson was married to Mr. Lovelady, of Pratt Mines. The bride is a daughter of Mr. A. L. Haralson, of Verbena, and is a charming young lady of whom Verbena and Chilton county feel proud. They will make their home at Pratt Mines where the groom is in successful business. The VIEW wishes them much happiness.

The Prattville Progress says: More permanent and effective as a reforming and restraining influence is that rule of business which makes drunkenness a disqualification for employment, and that cannon of society which makes it a disgrace. Better than any prohibitory statute, which naturally arouses human instinct against coercion by law in matters of personal liberty, is that unwritten code of employers that an intemperate man is an untrustworthy man and that unwritten code of society that drunkenness is disrespectable.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicine in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

Wanted to Welcome the President.

VERBENA, Oct. 21st, 1887.

CHILTON VIEW:—Quite a number of us who failed to go to Montgomery yesterday, assembled at the depot hoping to see the President, but the train did not stop. We wanted to hail him with an endorsement of his administration and tell him we were all second termers, and we wanted to greet him as the champion of the Democracy of our country, and welcome him in our midst.

CITIZEN.

I Told You So.

Mr. E. A. Ireland, of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tenn., says: "I was afflicted with piles for twenty years, and I tried every remedy offered me; finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment. It gave me instant relief, and has effected a permanent cure." Sold by all druggists. sep 29

An Offer.

We have a due bill on a $265.00 organ, which, with $46.00 in cash will pay for the organ, or $36.00 in cash and the due bill will pay for a $150.00 organ. This due bill is valid only until the 13th of next January. The VIEW proposes to give this due bill to the Methodist church of Clanton if they will agree to raise the amount in cash necessary to purchase one or the other of these instruments for their new church, and order it by the 1st of January. We will surrender the due bill to any member of the church who is authorized to receive it and make said agreement.

After Three Years.

W. F. Walton, of Springfield, Tenn., says: I have been suffering with Neuralgia in my face and head off and on for three years. I purchased a box of Dr. Tanner's Infallible Neuralgia Cure and took eight of the pills. I have not felt any symptoms of Neuralgia since. It gives me pleasure to recommend it." Sold by all druggists.

Nothwithstanding the fact that a great many of our citizens went to Montgomery last Thursday to see the President a large crowd gathered at the depot to see the special train pass, bearing himself and party on their way back to Washington. The train was barely in motion as it passed the station. The president made a graceful salute as an ear-spliting and hair-lifting cheer was given him by the enthusiastic crowd. Mrs. Cleveland did not show herself. A great many mistook conductor Callahan for Cleveland as he came out on the platform and received several handsome boquets for the president. The train was beautiful. The party were dining when they passed here.

Did You Ever.

W. H. Revels, M. D., of Baltimore, Md., says: "I have been in the practice of medicine for over eighteen years, but never have I seen the equal of Hodges' Sarsaparilla. It has worked miracles here in curing Rheumatism and Scrofula. Have almost come to the conclusion that I cannot practice without it." Sold by all druggists.

The mail trains are trying to give us the go by. We will have to read them the law in regard to stopping at county sites.

1887 1887

Fall & Winter!

We have in stock the most complete line of

General Merchandise

COMPRISING

Dry Goods, Groceries, Clothing, Shoes, Notions, Hardware, Drugs, Etc.

We sell goods at reasonable prices, and guarantee correct weights and measures. Highest price paid for cotton in cash, and goods exchanged for produce.

T. E. CALLIER & SON,

aug25-3m Dixie, Ala.

The most successful remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effect and does not blister. Read proof below:

Orange Mills, Fla., June 30, 1886.

Dr. B. J. Kendall Co.

Gents:—I have used your Kendall's Spavin Cure and it is wonderful to say the least. Yours respectfully,

J. L. CRARY.

From the "Spirit of the Times," June 26, 1886. The old idea that a spavin was incurable has given way before the improvements made by modern science. Among these wonderful improvements must be mentioned the most successful remedy ever discovered for the cure of this disease, Kendall's Spavin Cure, one that is certain in its effect, and will not blister. It is prepared by Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburg Falls, Vt., and has received praise on every hand for its thorough and reliable work in cases of spavin or hock lameness. It is a certain cure for rheumatism, enlargement of the joints, corns, etc., while blood spavins and bursal enlargements promptly disappear on its use. It is a standard remedy among horse owners and breeders, where its work has often been proven. It is for sale by all druggists at $1 per bottle or six for $5, or will be forwarded to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, Dr. B. J. Kendall Co., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.

THE

Verbena High School.

VERBENA, CHILTON COUNTY, ALA.

Will Open Sept. 5th and Continue in Session Ten Months.

FACULTY:

E. D. ACKER, A. B., LLB., Principal, Teacher of Nat. Sciences, Eng. Language and Literature, Commercial Course, Mathematics, Latin and Greek.

MISS FANNIE CALLIER, Teacher of Elocution, Calisthenics and French, and Assistant Teacher of Intermediate and High School Branches.

MISS FANNY PURIFOY, Teacher of Music and Art.

MRS. FANNIE H. DAVIS, Teacher of Primary and Intermediate Classes.

CLASSIFICATION AND RATES OF TUITION

Primary Class	$1 50
Intermediate Class	2 50
High School "	3 00
Music "	3 00
Collegiate "	4 00

Tuition is payable in advance.

Students will be prepared for any class in college.

Tax Notice.

(LAST CALL.)

I will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of collecting the State and county taxes of Chilton county for the year 1887:

Strassburg	November	15
Pine Hill	"	16
D. H. Mullins'	"	17
Jemison	"	18
Hunt's Mill	"	19
Providence	"	22
Concord Church	"	21
Macedonia	"	23
Benson	"	14
Maplesville	"	24
Howison & Carter's Mill	"	30
R. Latham's	"	25
Stanton	"	26
Dixie	"	29
Valley Creek Church	"	28
Kincheon	December	12
Verbena	"	8
Cooper's	"	7
Clanton	"	3
John Gore's	"	5
Joe Allred	"	6
Pratt Saw Mill	"	9
Wells & McCranie's Mill	"	10
Patrick's Old Mill	"	13

And at Clanton ten last days of the year.

oct 18 D. A. WHITE, T. C. C. C.

NOTICE!

Pursuant to and by virtue of a commission issued by the Hon. Secretary of State on the 24th day of September, 1887, to the undersigned as incorporators of the Alabama Great Northwestern Railway Company, we will open or cause to be opened, books of subscription to the capital stock of said railway company on the 5th day of November, 1887, at the courthouse of the county of Chilton, in the town of Clanton, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

E. B. JOSEPH,

W. F. JOSEPH,

sep29-5t J. W. WOOLFOLK.

W. A. Ricketts,

—DEALER IN—

Guns and Ammunition,

GUN AND LOCKSMITH,

205 20th St., BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

RUBBER STAMP with your name in Fancy Type, 25 Visiting Cards, and India Ink to mark Linen, only 25 cts. (stamps.) Book of 2000 styles free with each order. Agents wanted. Big pay. THALMAN M'F'G Co., Baltimore, Md. oct6-6m

LOOK! LOOK!! LOOK!!!

JOHN B. RODEN,

Bookseller and Stationer,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.,

Now proposes to surprise everybody with the lowest prices and the most beautiful stock ever seen in Ala. Big drives in books, fancy writing paper, gold pens, albums, and also music and jewelry.

☞ Mr. Roden has a music house and also a jewelry store, seperate from his book store, where you can find anything you want. Give him a call. o20y

ANNOUNCEMENT!

Having determined to anticipate the wants of the trade, I shall from October first, mark down my entire stock lower than any merchant in Chilton county and

Sell For Cash Across the Counter.

No exceptions made for anybody.

A. J. BROOKS.

Verbena, Ala., Sept. 23, 1887.

J. M. WILKERSON, JOHN A. CALDWELL.

WILKERSON, CALDWELL & CO.

REAL ESTATE, RENTING & COLLECTING AGENTS AND STOCK BROKERS.

Tuscaloosa, - - Alabama.

Buy and sell for principals. Prompt attention given to all business entrusted to us. Collecting rents a specialty.

Office over store of Fitts Bros., next to Telegraph Office. Correspondence solicited. feb24

References: J. H. Fitts & Co., Bankers and First Nat. Bank, of Tuscaloosa.

IF YOU WANT NICE FRESH GROCERIES CALL ON

W. H. SARTOR,

FIRST DOOR WEST OF THE DRUG STORE, MAIN STREET,

Clanton, Ala.

☞ In addition to everything in the Grocery line I also carry a nice stock of fresh Stick and Fancy Candies, Fruits and other Confectioneries. Highest market price paid in trade for Country Produce. mar4

LOMB, HERSHEY & CO.,

FOUNDERS and MACHINISTS.

—JOBBERS IN—

Tools, Machinery and Railroad Supplies,

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, &c.

PLANTATION AND BRICK-MAKERS' SUPPLIES, HAND AND POWER ELEVATORS, ETC.

GRAY IRON A SPECIALTY.

THE ONLY FIRM IN THE SOUTH WHO SELL UNIFORMLY AT MANUFACTURERS' NET PRICES.

OFFICE COR. 1ST AVE. AND 21ST STREET, BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

[aug 18-y]

SOL. D. BLOCH & CO.

2017 FIRST AVENUE, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

MANUFACTURERS' AND INSURANCE AGENTS.

—AND DEALERS IN—

Bagging, Ties, Cotton Gins, Etc.

We respectfully solicit consignments of cotton from the merchants and shippers of Chilton and adjoining counties. We will equalize freights with Montgomery or Selma. Daily market quotations will be furnished when desired. NO DRAYAGE.

We refer by permission to Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, President Alabama National Bank, Gen. E. W. Rucker, Hudson & Perryman, Birmingham, Ala.; Col. John T. Milner, New Castle, Ala.; Hon. James T. Beck, Messrs. Jones & Jones and Maj. N. McArthur, Camden, Ala.; Messrs. W. H. Ross & Co., and J. Pollock & Co., Mobile, Ala. [aug18-6

DAVIN MACHINERY COMPANY,

Machinery & Mill Supplies,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

ENGINES, BOILERS, SAW MILLS, CORN MILLS, SHINGLE MACHINES, CORN MILLS, SUGAR MILLS,

COTTON GINS, COTTON PRESSES, PULLEYS, SHAFTING, BELTING, and MACHINISTS' SUPPLIES.

Largest Stock in the State.

Write for Circulars and Prices. [oct6y]

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY,

Nos. 17 & 19 N. Lawrence Street,

MONTGOMERY, ALA.

P. O. BOX 282.

☞ Orders by mail are solicited and will receive prompt attention.

STOP AT

Morris Avenue Hotel,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Corner Morris Avenue and 20th Street

ELYTON LAND CO. BUILDING.

HUGH KIRKMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Splendid rooms, well ventilated and elegantly furnished. Rates reasonable.

BANDMAN & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

P. O BOX 251,

1st Avenue, bet. 18th and 19th Streets,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

jan 13 6m

TRESSLAR,

Artistic Photographer

10 COURT SQUARE,

Montgomery.

Life Size Photographs a Specialty.

Photographs on Silk, Satin and Linen. Photographs on watch dials. Enameled Photographs.

All Sittings made Instantaneously. Old Pictures Copied and Enlarged.

☞ Correspondence Solicited. [jan21-tf]

Nabers & Morrow,

Wholesale Druggists,

FIRST AVENUE,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

MEDICINES,

Fine Wines, Liquors, Oils, Etc.

☞ Agents for Chas Carley & Co.'s Oils. [june 10]

J. M. Hutchason's

BOARDING, LIVERY

—AND—

SALE STABLES.

Select Dray and Plantation Mules constantly on hand.

Draying and Hauling Promptly Attended to

Always ready to take Contracts for filling in Dirt

Moving Stone, Engines, Boilers, Machinery and other heavy hauling.

RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS AND DAMAGE.

Satisfaction Guaranteed. Handsome Carriages and Double Teams, with or without Drivers.

☞ MONTGOMERY STABLES, Lawrence Street, Opp. P. O., Telephone 446. jan1y

J. H. SHEPHERD

THE LEADING

PHOTOGRAPHER,

—OF—

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

NORTH SIDE SECOND AVENUE

(Between 19th and 20th Sts.)

Photographs of All Kinds Work Done in the

BEST STYLE.

Call on him and have your picture taken. [mar24-y

G. E. WILLIAMS,

BLACKSMITH

—AND—

WHEELWRIGHT,

CLANTON, ALA.

Horse-shoeing done, wagons, buggies, &c., repaired, and satisfaction guaranteed. Give me a trial.

M. ISRAEL,

Leading Tailor.

1900½ Cor. 1st Ave. and 19th Street,

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Keeps constantly in stock a full line of

Elegant Goods.

ready to be made up in the latest style and with the best workmanship. Perfect fit and entire satisfaction guaranteed. Give him a trial. [mar 24-y

DON'T

Buy anything in the Grocery line until you have called on

T. M. Edwards,

Who keeps constantly on hand Fancy and Family Groceries and confectioneries.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24th, '87.

COME TO JEMISON
And Buy Your Goods at the
CHEAP CASH STORE
—OF—
I. N. Langston.
NO SHODDY GOODS!
-:- LOW -:- PRICES -:-
"QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS" IS MY MOTTO.

I can sell you Anything you want to buy, and will pay Highest Market Price for your Cotton and Produce.

MINERAL CITY TIN AND STOVE HOUSE.
SECOND AVE. BETWEEN 18th AND 19th STREETS,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
FAT WALSH, Manager,
A Large Line of HEATING and COOKING STOVES always on hand
ALL KINDS OF
Tin, Sheet Iron Roofing and Job Work
DONE ON SHORT NOTICE.
☞ Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. nov-11

Butler & Gatchell,
922 Broad Street, SELMA, ALA.
CHEAPEST PLACE in the State for SCHOOL BOOKS, Blank Books, Writing Paper, Gospel Hymns, Hammocks, Base Ball Goods, Pictures and Picture Frames, Photograph and Autograph Albums,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,
Sheet Music and Scrap Books,
Rubber Stamps made to order. Mail or telegraph orders promptly attended to. Subscriptions received for any paper or magazine published. (mar 24-1y)

THOROUGH BUSINESS EDUCATION.
Bryant and Stratton } THE LOUISVILLE Business College,
Corner Third and Jefferson Streets. Entrance, No. 406 Third Street
LOUISVILLE, KY.
BOOK-KEEPING, BANKING, PENMANSHIP, TELEGRAPHY, SHORT-HAND AND ENGLISH TRAINING.
☞ For Catalogue Address College as Above.

JOHN P. LEEPER.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN
DOORS, SASH AND BLINDS STAIR RAILS,
Balusters, Newel Posts, Etc.
Office and Warerooms, cor. Morris Avenue and 22nd Street,
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
YOUR ORDERS SOLICITED.

H. H. BARCLIFT & CO.
—DEALERS IN—
DRY GOODS & GROCERIES
CORNER SECOND AVE. AND SPRING STREETS,
Avondale, Ala.
☞ When you are in the city be sure to call on us, and the prices we will quote you, will cause you to buy whatever you may need in the Dry Goods or Grocery line. [mar 24-1y]

JOB PRINTING
—OF—
EVERY DESCRIPTION
NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE.
Orders Will Receive Prompt Attention!
GIVE US A TRIAL!

AGRICULTURAL.

TOPICS OF INTEREST RELATIVE TO FARM AND GARDEN.

Best Time for Harvesting Crops.

In harvesting, important principles are involved. While we allow root crops to grow as long as they can, and harvest them before frost damages them, grains, wheat, barley, oats, etc., need to be cut before perfectly ripe, if we would secure the largest amount of starch in the kernel, which improves the quality of the flour, the value for malting, etc., while at the same time, the straw is better for feeding. Indian corn is quite sensitive to frost. Sorghum should be cut when the grain is fully ripe to secure also the largest quantity of sugar in the stalk.

Grass when cut before it is in blossom is innutritious, and dries out greatly in making hay. When cut in full blossom, or when just out of blossom, it is in full flavor, in its highest degree of nutritious value, and loses far less in drying. When cut after the seed has formed, much of the foliage will have turned brown and dried, the stems will be woody, and, though it dries with comparatively little loss of weight, yet it is far less relished by cattle, and is less nutritious, while in very few grasses does the seed make good the damage to the rest of the plant. The same general principles apply to clover and other forage crops. Thus corn for ensiloing or for drying for coarse fodder should be cut up after the ears are well formed, and before they are fully ripe, for then the stalk is richer in sugar, has more foliage, and less woody fiber.—American Agriculturist.

Oat Straw for Stock.

In a recent report of conclusions, reached through a long series of experiments concerning the feeding of oat straw, Professor Sanborn, of Missouri, says that this straw is mainly valuable as a heat and fat producer. It does not produce much fat, because cattle will not eat enough of it. It contains but 1.4 per cent. of digestible albuminoids, or flesh formers, and 40 per cent. of digestible carbohydrates, or fat formers. Hence, to use it with advantage and get the full benefit of it, it must be fed with a food of directly the opposite kind, such as oil meal or cottonseed meal. The Professor found that thirty-four pounds of oat straw and six pounds of cottonseed meal gave the same results as fifty pounds of the hay, because cottonseed meal has 33.2 per cent. of albuminoids and but 17.6 per cent. of carbohydrates, thus forming, with the straw, a well-balanced ration. Oil meal contains 27.6 per cent. of albuminoids and 27 per cent. of carbohydrates, so that a pound more of oil meal than of cottonseed meal should be fed. The cost of this feed as compared with hay at $5 a ton, or ¼ of a cent per pound, is an important question. It is said to take twenty-five pounds of it to make a steer gain a pound a day, or 6¼ cents daily to keep him in good growing condition. But if by feeding four pounds of oil meal, worth 1¼ cents per pound, the same gain can be made, and by feeding a proportionately less amount we can keep up the weight, it will help out a short crop of hay. But to the farmer who has not and cannot get oil meal the following facts will be of value: Clover hay contains about 9 per cent. of albuminoids, timothy contains 5.8, and oat straw 1.4 per cent; therefore, it will be seen that a ton of clover hay fed with a ton of oat straw will be equal in value to two tons of timothy, because clover hay contains an excess of albuminoids, and it is waste to feed it by itself, as it is waste to feed oat straw alone. A steer fed on the straw long enough would starve, but when fed with clover they are a well-balanced ration, and make a poor hay crop go much farther. It is clearly established that the food value of oat straw can be obtained only by feeding with something that has an excess of albuminoids and a deficiency of carbohydrates. The farmer's food of this class is clover hay.

Farm and Garden Notes.

It is a mistake to suppose that sour, fermented slop for hogs is better than a fresh mixture that is sweet and clean.

Professor Stewart reports the feeding of 104 cows on an acre of corn in the milk, and it gave them full feed for four days, equal to 416 days for one cow.

If in a very fat condition the chances are that the hen will show an inclination to set. Even the so-called non setters on becoming fat will attempt to hatch a brood.

When the leaves of plants assume a yellow tinge the application of fifty pounds nitrate of soda (saltpetre) will often cause them to again become green and thrifty.

A poulterer says: We would never attempt to keep a flock of chickens through the winter without plenty of dry earth for a dust bath. The best time to store it is when it is dry.

A farmer writes that he considers a cow three-quarters Jersey and one-quarter corn meal about as good for butter as any he can find. He has a small herd of such cows whose butter sells at a handsome advance over the average price.

The dairy cow may be regarded as a machine for transforming the food which she receives into milk, butter and cheese. She has no power, however, to produce something out of nothing. The best she can do is to perform her work economically.

Farmers will find it to their advantage to corn mutton in a weak brine for home consumption. The hams can be smoked and used like dried beef, or they can be boiled. The corned mutton will be found an agreeable change from sausage and spare ribs.

Store beets, carrots, parsnips and turnips in bins in the cellar and pack them in dry sand or earth and they will keep well for winter use. This method will enable the farmer to use them at any time, which will not be the case if they be stored in mounds in the open air.

Sassafras is a nuisance in any field, but it cannot be destroyed very easily except by grubbing it out, removing all the roots. Being a hardy and persistent plant it must be killed in its younger stages. If allowed to overrun a field it will entail nearly as much labor as is required to clear new land from brush.

An observing writer remarks that farmers may naturally be divided into three classes: 1. Those who grow crops below the average, and whose lives are a struggle with poverty. 2. Those who grow average crops and make a living by close economy. 3. Those whose crops are always above the average, and who are prosperous.

Those making use of driven wells should remember that the patent expired two years ago, and that the wells put down since then are free of any royalty; also, that the right of any person claiming to act as agent of the patentee should be clearly established before money is paid him. It is a good rule in all such cases to go slow and act with neighbors.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

Cooking Vegetables.

The cooking of vegetables is an art of no mean pretensions, requiring, like other cooking, close attention. A little heart as well as art must needs go into the oven or the kettle, or a delicate taste will discern the lack of it. All kinds of green vegetables need to be examined with great care before washing, to see that nothing lurks underneath the leaves. Distinctly impressed upon my memory is the horror with which I found that my fork had bisected a large insect boiled with the cauliflower, served at an elegant dinner-party, which discovery spoiled the remainder of the entertainment for me—an insignificant occurrence, perhaps, but one which is always connected in my mind with the charming dining-room of the hostess.

Lettuce, spinach and cauliflower need to be washed in several waters, and left in ice-cold water a few moments before draining. The use of the greens is very apparent to one who studies the chemistry of food. By them slight indispositions are often removed, and very likely grave disorders obviated. Almost every kind of vegetable has its specific effect. Celery, it is well known, is a nervous sedative, and acts favorably upon rheumatism and neuralgia; lettuce and cucumbers, with the acid which is used in dressing them, are cooling during the early heat of summer; asparagus is an admirable blood purifier; tomatoes stimulate the action of the stomach and liver; onions are a remedy for sleeplessness, and are very wholesome; beets and turnips furnish waste material, while peas and beans are nutritious and strengthening in a high degree. But from the first of the list to the last, much depends on the way they are served.

Contrary to the old opinion, it is now believed by many of the best scientists of the present day that vegetables and cereals furnish all substances needed for the nourishment and maintenance of the body. However that may be, fruits, grains and vegetables largely preponderate over meat in the dietary, and we cannot over-estimate the necessity of preparing them so as to be at the same time appetizing and strength-giving.

In boiling vegetables it is much better to use soft water than hard. This is no fancy, but has been and may be demonstrated. The housewife who is dependent upon her cistern for soft water may dislike to use it in cooking, but a home-made-filter will make cistern water palatable: A tight wooden keg with pebbles in the bottom, a layer of sand above, and coarsely powdered charcoal over that, with a faucet to draw off the water; this any farmer's boy can set up for his mother in the corner of the back kitchen. In some portions of the country where lime is abundant, such a filter for drinking and cooking water ought to be indispensable. Occasionally a sensitive person cannot use alkaline water without injury.

All vessels used in cooking vegetables ought to be so clean that they would not soil a white cloth. After draining, either steam them—a way not sufficiently popular—or plunge in water that has just come to the boiling point. Drain and dish the moment they are done.—Good Housekeeping.

Recipes.

Buttermilk Pie.—One cup buttermilk, one cup sugar, six tablespoonfuls butter, six tablespoonfuls flour. Flavor to taste.

Cookies.—Sift into five cups of flour five even teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add two cups of sugar, one-half cup shortening. Rub all together with hands and wet with one cup of milk. Add one egg.

Succotash.—Boil a piece of pork almost an hour. Put the beans in about fifteen minutes after the pork. Then cut lightly the corn off the cobs, and scrape the cobs with the back of the knife. Put in the corn fifteen minutes after the beans. Use two-thirds corn to one-third beans. Boil the cobs with the corn. If the corn is not very sweet, add a piece of sugar half as large as a walnut. (Another excellent authority says: "Boil the pork and beans three hours, and the corn at least an hour.") Lima beans should be used.

Peach Meringue.—Peel six ripe peaches, cut them in halves and remove the stones. Beat half a pint of rich cream until it is three times its original quantity; keep it on ice until wanted. Dredge the peaches with sugar. Beat the whites of four eggs to a stiff froth, and add four ounces of sugar (powdered). Cover a board with white paper, drop the beaten egg on it by tablespoonfuls, place them on the stove for half an hour, then brown slightly in oven. Remove soft part when cold and place one-half a peach in the cavity. Cover with whipped cream.

To Bake and Stuff a Fish.—Select a large, firm-fleshed fish, wash it carefully in cold water and dry in a cloth. Grate some bread crumbs and chop some parsley, a teaspoonful of the thyme and marjoram, mix all with the bread crumbs, adding salt and pepper to taste; mix with two ounces chopped suet; fill the fish with this stuffing, and then sew it up; brush the fish over with egg, and then roll it in bread crumbs, covering it all over; grease a dish or tin and lay the fish on, put into the oven, and bake for three-quarters of an hour, basting it with dripping.—Good Cheer.

Pictures By the Yard.

There is a firm in Philadelphia which paints pictures by the yard. The work is simple. A piece of canvas, nearly one hundred feet long, is stretched in a gallery shaped like a corridor. On each picture, which, by the way, costs $4.50, five men were employed. Each man had his particular line. One put in the foreground, another the background, and still another did the clouds, and the cows you see browsing in the pasture. A fourth man did the trees and shrubbery. In this way they were enabled to work fast. In exactly three hours five of those landscapes were finished, which is thirty-six minutes' time given to each. The fifth man did the finishing touches and perhaps performed more and better work than any of the others.—Cleveland Plain-dealer.

A Taste Destroying Plant.

It has been for some time reported that there existed in Madras a plant the leaves of which, when chewed, destroyed the taste to such an extent that one could not distinguish sugar from sand. The report was supposed to be founded on a mere notion. Specimens received in Europe prove it to be a reality. The plant is Gymnema sylvestre. The use of such a plant in removing nausea from disagreeable doses, and in many other ways, is apparent. It belongs, however, to a natural order, Asclepiadaceæ, which have patent powers of their own, and it has yet to be known whether its power of destroying taste may not also destroy the value of the medicines it may be used with.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Rains and floods have interfered with the rice harvest in Louisiana and Georgia.

Real Estate Bubble.

The prediction is made that the California real estate bubble is bound to burst in the next three or four months. It is estimated that, taking the whole country between San Diego and Sacramento, in which the speculation has been most rampant, the deferred payments, due in November and December, will foot up $45,000,000. That is to say, the great army of men and women speculators who have purchased for a rise and paid a third or less down must pay up between forty and forty-five millions between now and next January or forfeit their purchases and what they have already paid.

Paid in Gold Coin.

In Dec., 1886, I. S. Johnson & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass., offered eight premiums payable in gold coin, which they say created a great interest among people who kept hens, so much so, in fact, that they authorize us to say that they shall offer Nov. 1st, 1887, another list of premiums for the bests results from the use of Sheridan's Powder to Make Hens Lay. Of course all who compete cannot get one of the premiums, but some of the last year's reports sent us show that the parties ought to have been well satisfied if they had not received any other benefit than the increase of eggs they got while making the trial. For example the first premium was twenty-five dollars taken by C. A. French, Washington, N. H., who fed thirty hens the Sheridan's Powder for eight weeks. The first week he got only ten eggs; the third week the hens laid 201 eggs, and the eighth week 208 eggs. During the eight weeks trial he got 1396 eggs which, at the price of eggs in Boston or New York markets in mid-winter, would have yielded $46.60, or $1.55 for each hen in eight week's time. Considering the small expense of keeping a hen no animal on a farm will pay like that. The fourth premium, which was ten dollars, went to Mrs. E. B. Carlin, Conklin Centre, N. Y., who in the eight weeks received from forty hens 1707 eggs. The first week she only got 36 eggs, but the last week 277 eggs.

This clearly demonstrates that the use of Sheridan's Powder to Make Hens Lay will increase the profit several hundred per cent.

Johnson & Co. will send two 25 cent packs of Sheridan's Powder postpaid to any address for 50 cents in postage stamps; or a large 2¼ pound can of Powder for $1.20. To each person ordering a large can as above they will send free one copy of the "Farmer's Poultry Guide" (price, 25 cents).

There are about 25,000 Hebrews in California, and they make desirable citizens.

Life in the Paris Sewers is possible, for a short time to the robust, but the majority of refined persons would prefer immediate death to existence in their reeking atmosphere. How much more revolting to be in one's self a living sewer. But this is actually the case with those in whom the inactivity of the liver drives the refuse matter of the body to escape through the lungs, breath, the pores, kidneys and bladder. It is astonishing that life remains in such a dwelling. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" restores normal purity to the systems and renew the whole being.

Prohibition dominates eight of North Carolina's ninety-eight counties.

Lung Troubles and Wasting

Diseases can be cured if properly treated in time, as shown by the following statement from D. C. Freeman, Sidney: "Having been a great sufferer from pulmonary attacks, and gradually wasting away for the past two years, it affords me pleasure to testify that Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime and Soda has given me great relief, and I cheerfully recommend it to all suffering in a similar way to myself. In addition, I would say that it is very pleasant to take."

The victory of the Volunteer makes 8 yacht victories for the Americans over the British.

"Her face so fair, as flesh it seemed not,
But heavenly portrait of bright angel's hue,
Clear as the sky, without blame or blot,
Through goodly mixture of complexions due,
And in her cheeks the vermeil red did show."

This is the poet's description of a woman whose physical system was in a perfectly sound and healthy state, with every function acting properly, and is the enviable condition of its fair patrons produced by Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." Any druggist.

15 counties in Florida voted local option law, and prohibition has carried 12 of them.

For weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, consumption, night-sweats and all lingering coughs, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Superior to cod liver oil. By druggists.

Three million women in the United States work for money.

Every person is interested in their own affairs, and if this meets the eye of any one who is suffering from the effects of a torpid liver, we will admit that he is interested in getting well. Get a bottle of Prickly Ash Bitters, use it as directed, and you will always be glad you read this item.

"I want to thank you," writes a young man to B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., "for placing me in a position by which I am enabled to make money faster than I ever did before." This is but a sample extract of the many hundred similar letters received by the above firm. See their advertisement in another column.

Addition Making Shorter.

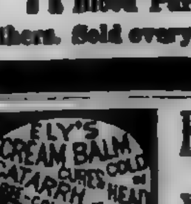
What word is that to which if you add a syllable it will make it shorter? Short,—Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum and Mullein will shorten your cold and cure your cough.

Daughters, Wives and Mothers.

Send for Pamphlet on Female Diseases, free; securely sealed. Dr. J. B. Marchisi, Utica, N.Y.

Purity and Strength
The former in the blood and the latter throughout the system, are necessary to the enjoyment of perfect health. The best way to secure both is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which expels all impurities from the blood, rouses the kidneys and liver, overcomes that tired feeling, and imparts that freshness to the whole body which makes one feel perfectly well.
"I have taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and must say it is one of the best medicines for giving an appetite, purifying the blood and regulating the digestive organs, that I ever heard of. It did me a great deal of good."—Mrs. N. A. Stanley, Canastota, N. Y.
Hood's Sarsaparilla
Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.
100 Doses One Dollar

The best and surest Remedy for Cure of all diseases caused by any derangement of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels. Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Constipation, Bilious Complaints and Malaria of all kinds yield readily to the beneficent influence of
PRICKLY ASH BITTERS
It is pleasant to the taste, tones up the system, restores and preserves health.
It is purely Vegetable, and cannot fail to prove beneficial, both to old and young.
As a Blood Purifier it is superior to all others. Sold everywhere at $1.00 a bottle.



Ely's Cream Balm
Price 50 cents.
Will do more in Curing
CATARRH.
Than $500 in any Other Way.
Apply Balm into each nostril.
Ely Bros., 235 Greenwich St., N. Y.

SOLDIERS all get Pensions, if ¼ disabled; Officers' travel pay, bounty collected; Deserters relieved; 21 years' practice. Success or no fee. Laws sent free. A. W. McCormick & Son, Washington, D. C.

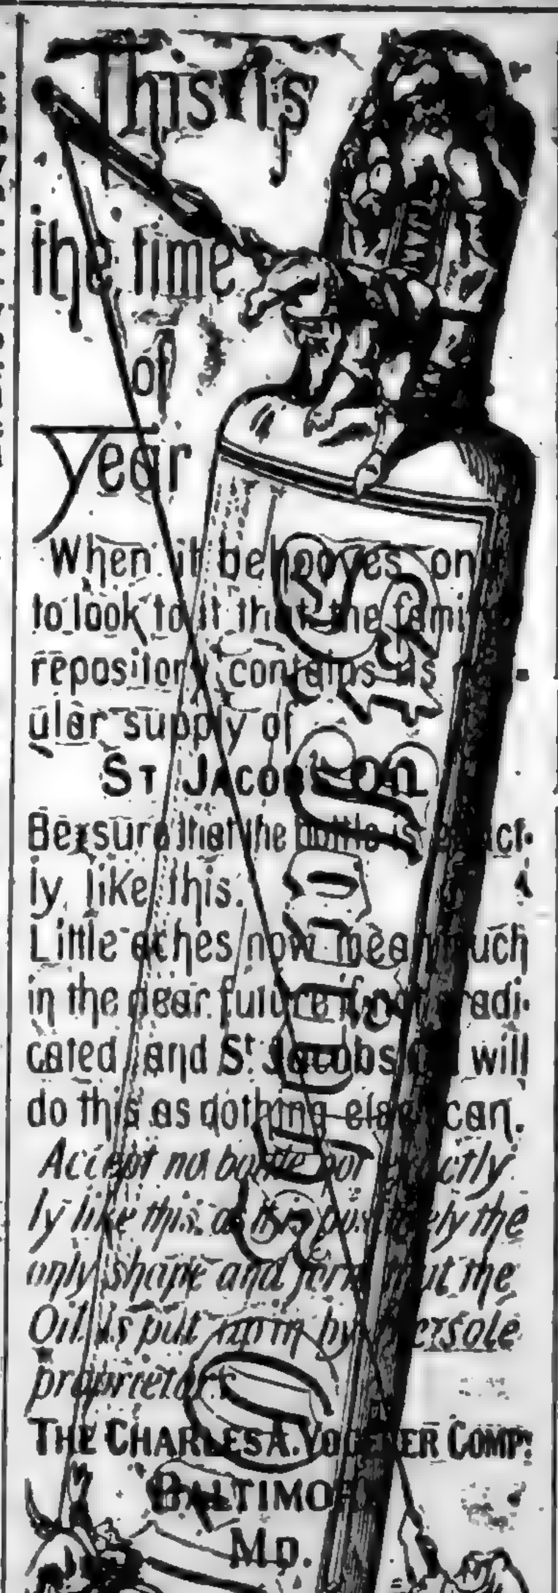
OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 days. No pay till cured. Dr. J. Stephens, Lebanon, Ohio.

MEXICAN WAR SOLDIERS and their Widows, Pensions now for you all. Address E. M. Gelston & Co., Washington, D.C.

FREE By return mail. Full Description Moody's New Tailor System of Dress Cutting. MOODY & CO., Cincinnati, O.

$5 to $8 a day. Samples worth $1.50, FREE. Lines not under the horse's feet. Write Brewster Safety Rein Holder Co., Holly, Mich.

GOLD is worth $500 per lb. Pettit's Eye Salve is worth $1,000, but is sold at 25c. a box by dealers.



This is the time of year when it behooves one to look to it that the family repository contains its regular supply of St. Jacobs Oil.

Be sure that the bottle is exactly like this.

Little aches now mean much in the near future if not eradicated, and St. Jacobs Oil will do this as nothing else can.

Accept no bottle not exactly like this, as it is positively the only shape and form that the Oil is put up in by the sole proprietors.

The Charles A. Vogeler Comp'y, Baltimore, Md.

WHAT AILS YOU?
Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, lifeless, and indescribably miserable, both physically and mentally; experience a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, or of "goneness," or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter or bad taste in mouth, irregular appetite, dizziness, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, hot flushes, alternating with chilly sensations, sharp, biting, transient pains here and there, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, constant, indescribable feeling of dread, or of impending calamity?
If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. If not cured, complications multiply and Consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the Liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ, cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the Kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts, this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery
CURES ALL HUMORS,
from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.
"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."
Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.
CONSUMPTION,
which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.
For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.
Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.
☞ Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,
World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

KIDDER'S
DIGESTYLIN
A SURE CURE FOR
INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.
Over 5,000 Physicians have sent us their approval of DIGESTYLIN, saying that it is the best preparation for Indigestion that they have ever used.
We have never heard of a case of Dyspepsia where DIGESTYLIN was taken that was not cured.
FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.
IT WILL CURE THE MOST AGGRAVATED CASES.
IT WILL STOP VOMITING IN PREGNANCY.
IT WILL RELIEVE CONSTIPATION.
For Summer Complaints and Chronic Diarrhœa, which are the direct results of imperfect digestion, DIGESTYLIN will effect an immediate cure.
Take DIGESTYLIN for all pains and disorders of the stomach; they all come from indigestion. Ask your druggist for DIGESTYLIN (price $1 per large bottle). If he does not have it send one dollar to us and we will send a bottle to you, express prepaid. Do not hesitate to send your money. Our house is reliable. Established twenty five years.
WM. F. KIDDER & CO.,
Manufacturing Chemists, 83 John St., N. Y.

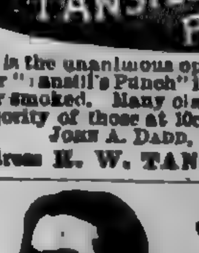
EXHAUSTED VITALITY
A Great Medical Work for Young and Middle-Aged Men.

KNOW THYSELF.
PUBLISHED by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4 Bulfinch St., Boston, Mass. WM. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician. More than one million copies sold. It treats upon Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline, Exhausted Vitality, Impaired Vigor, and Impurities of the Blood, and the untold miseries consequent thereon. Contains 300 pages, substantial embossed binding, full gilt. Warranted the best popular medical treatise published in the English language. Price only $1 by mail, postpaid, and concealed in a plain wrapper. Illustrative sample free if you send now. Address as above.
Name this paper.

MEN AND BOYS!

Do you want to learn all about a Horse? How to Pick Out a Good One? How to Know Imperfections and so Guard against Fraud? How to Detect Disease and effect a cure when same is possible? How to Tell the Age by the Teeth? What to call the Different Parts of the Animal? How to Shoe a Horse Properly? All this, and other Valuable Information relating to the Equine Species can be obtained by reading our 100-PAGE ILLUSTRATED HORSE BOOK, which we will forward, postpaid, on receipt of ONLY 25 CTS. IN STAMPS.
HORSE BOOK CO., 134 Leonard St., N. Y.

One Agent (Merchant only) wanted in every town for
TANSILL'S PUNCH 5¢
It is the unanimous opinion of my customers that your "Tansill's Punch" is the best 5c. cigar they have ever smoked. Many claim that it is as good as the majority of those at 10c.
John A. Dadd, Druggist, Milwaukee, Wis.
Address R. W. TANSILL & CO., Chicago.



JONES
HE PAYS the FREIGHT
5 Ton Wagon Scales,
Iron Levers, Steel Bearings, Brass Tare Beam and Beam Box for $60.
Every size Scale. For free price list mention this paper and address
JONES OF BINGHAMTON,
BINGHAMTON, N. Y.

$100 to $300 A MONTH can be made working for us. AGENTS preferred who can furnish their own horses and give their time to the business. Spare moments may be profitably employed also. A few vacancies in towns and cities. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 1013 Main St., Richmond, Va.

AGENTS WANTED to sell NOVELTY RUG MACHINES and RUG PATTERNS, for making Rugs, Tidies, Hoods, Mittens, etc. Machine sent by mail for $1. Send for late reduced price list. E. Ross & Co., Toledo, O.

PATENTS Obtained. Send stamp for Inventors' Guide. L. Bingham, Patent Attorney, Washington, D. C.

HERBRAND FIFTH WHEEL. Latest Buggy and Carriage improvement. HERBRAND CO., Fremont, O.

ROUGH ON DIRT
Great Starching
AND IRONING POWDER.
HOW TO WASH AND IRON
The art of starching, ironing and washing brought to perfection in "Rough on Dirt." Added to starch gives splendid gloss, body, stiffness and polish. The only washing compound that can be so used. Prevents starch rolling or rubbing up. Makes iron slip easy. Saves labor. Saves three-fourths the starch. A revelation in housekeeping. A boon to women. A new discovery, beats the world. Cleans and purifies everything. Invaluable as the only safe, non-injurious and perfect washer and cleanser for general household purposes.
STARCHING. The most inexperienced girl can, with Rough on Dirt, do as nice washing and ironing as can be done in any laundry. Boiling not necessary. 10 & 25c. pkgs. at all first-class, well stocked Grocers. E. S. Wells, Jersey City, N. J., U. S. A.

FINE GUNS
DALY HAMMERLESS.
MANHATTAN HAMMERLESS.
DALY THREE BARREL.
PIEPER BREECH LOADERS.

Send for Catalogue of Specialties.
SCHOVERLING, DALY & GALES,
84 and 86 Chambers Street, New York.

J. P. STEVENS & BRO.
JEWELERS.
Atlanta, Ga.
Send for Catalogue.

OPIUM and WHISKEY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga. Office 65½ Whitehall Street. Mention this paper.

BUSINESS
Education a specialty at MOORE'S BUSINESS UNIVERSITY, Atlanta, Ga. One of the best schools in the Country. Send for Circulars.

Blair's Pills. Great English Gout and Rheumatic Remedy. Oval Box, 34; round, 14 Pills.

Pensions to Soldiers & Heirs. Send stamp for circulars. COL. L. BINGHAM, Att'y, Washington, D. C.

OPIUM Habit Cured satisfactory before any pay. Prof. J. M. BARTON, 28th Ward, Cincinnati, O.

A. N. U........................Forty-two, '87.

This represents a healthy life.
Throughout its various scenes,
Just such a life as they enjoy
Who use the Smith's Bile Beans.

Smith's BILE BEANS purify the blood, by acting directly and promptly on the Liver, Skin and Kidneys. They consist of a vegetable combination that has no equal in medical science. They cure Constipation, Malaria, and Dyspepsia, and are a safeguard against all forms of fevers, chills and fever, gall stones, and Bright's disease. Send 4 cents postage for a sample package and test the TRUTH of what we say. Price, 25 cents per bottle. Mailed to any address, postpaid. DOSE ONE BEAN. Sold by druggists.
J. F. SMITH & CO., PROPRIETORS, ST. LOUIS, MO.

The original Photograph, panel size, of this picture sent on receipt of 10c. in stamps. Address BILE BEANS, St. Louis, Mo.

The man who has invested from three to five dollars in a Rubber Coat, and at his first half hour's experience in a storm finds to his sorrow that it is hardly a better protection than a mosquito netting, not only feels chagrined at being so badly taken in, but also feels if he does not look exactly like
A WET HEN
We offer the man who wants service (not style) a garment that will keep him dry in the hardest storm. It is called TOWER'S FISH BRAND "SLICKER," a name familiar to every Cow-boy all over the land. With them the only perfect Wind and Waterproof Coat is "Tower's Fish Brand Slicker." [illegible] and take no other. If your storekeeper
Ask for the "FISH BRAND" SLICKER [illegible] does not have the FISH BRAND, send for descriptive catalogue. A. J. Tower, 20 Simmons St., Boston, Mass.

Rates of Advertising.

One Dollar per Square, of one inch space or less, for the first, and Fifty Cents for each subsequent insertion.

Inches.	3 m.	6 m.	12 m.
1 Inch	$ 5 00	$ 7 00	$ 11 25
2 Inches	7 00	11 [illegible]	16 00
3 Inches	10 00	15 00	22 50
4 Inches	12 50	20 00	27 00
5 Inches	15 00	22 50	30 00
¼ Column	18 00	27 00	40 00
½ Column	27 00	40 00	60 00
1 Column	40 00	60 00	100 00

The Chilton View.

W. H. & J. C. LAWRENCE, Editors and Proprietors.

"WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION."

TERMS: $1.50 Per Annum.

VOLUME VI. CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1887. NUMBER 52.

Special Advertising.

Business Notices Ten Cents per line each insertion.

Obituaries and Tributes of Respect, half rates.

Announcing candidates for office, Five Dollars, strictly in advance.

Communications recommending candidates for office will be headed as advertisements and charged for accordingly.

Liberal contracts made with those advertising by the year.

☞The money is due on all advertising after the first publication.

There was but one yacht club in all the United States forty years ago. To-day there are eighty clubs and 2,621 yachts. But it is complained that our merchant marine has decreased as our pleasure fleets have increased.

A lesson against the slaughter of birds comes from Japan. In that country, insect pests have become so numerous that it is a custom to pluck the fruit for the market before it is ripe to prevent its destruction by insects.

It is expected that the cotton crop of the United States this year will fall little short of 7,000,000 bales. The mills throughout the country are reported to be running short of unmanufactured stock, and extensive purchases will probably be made this month. According to the Boston Commercial Bulletin, the visible supply of cotton in the world is now in the immediate vicinity of 1,250,000 bales, against 1,150,000 bales last year and 2,175,000 bales in 1885.

The locomotive industrial works of the United States have been very busy lately, in the production of new motors for the increasing traffic of our own and foreign roads. This is shown very forcibly in the report of the last six months' production of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia. With labor force of 2,000 men, 318 locomotives, nearly two per day, have been finished. Orders for 150 more are in hand, and it is expected that the output for the year will reach the grand total of 650.

It will, perhaps, surprise many persons to know how many spies of the French Government have been arrested and punished in Germany since 1875—more than thirty. Of course, such incidents are kept somewhat quieter than during any belligerent times. Loison, arrested at Metz, received ten years in 1876; Lieutenant Tissot, three years in 1882; Krazewski, nine years in 1881; Baron de Graillet and Baron von Krettmar, five years each in 1882; Captain Sarant, twelve years, and solitary confinement, in 1886, and Thomas, of the Imperial Arsenal at Spandau, ten years in the same year.

It is asserted by Mr. Ashburner, the geologist, that not only is natural gas not a modern or recent discovery, but that even its utilization for the purposes of the mechanic arts was long ago successfully attempted in China, where, by pipes of bamboo, it was conveyed from natural wells to suitable furnaces, and by means of terra cotta burners of suitable size and construction, was consumed. Of its origin, concerning which so many diverse theories have been advanced, Mr. Ashburner is strongly of the opinion that the gas arises from the decomposition of forms of animal or vegetable life imbedded in the rocks in certain situations.

There are 400 Mormon bishops in Utah, 2,463 priests, 2,947 teachers and 5,854 deacons. Salt Lake City is divided into wards of eight or nine blocks each, and a bishop is put in charge of each ward. Under him there are two teachers, whose business it is to learn the employment and income of every resident of the ward and report the same to the bishop. Then the bishop collects the tenth of each man's income and turns it in to the church authorities. The same complete system exists all over the Territory. As the bishops get a good commission on their collections they make very zealous and persistent collectors.

English railroads do the major portion of their own carting, collecting and delivering freight at the freighter's doors One of the largest companies, the Midland, has in constant employment no fewer than 3,200 horses; and of these 1,000 are located in London. Some of these horses are, however, employed in switching cars, at which business a heavy horse weighing about 2,000 pounds can do good service. They soon become very expert, and start the car by standing with the trace chain slack, and then, without moving their feet, throw their shoulders forward, when their weight starts the car. They also learn to judge when the car has aquired sufficient speed, and step aside without a word of command, letting the cars come gently together.

A reporter of the New York Tribune has been making a tour of prominent business houses in various lines of trade and summarizes the result as follows: "So far as could be learned by observation and personal inquiry, the healthful indications instanced were common to all the various lines of trade. The closeness of prices and stirring competition are facts that aid materially in swelling the activity of the autumn market. Besides, there are a larger number of actual buyers present from East, South, West and Southwest, than have been seen here for many years. Commission houses and manufacturers report also a large increase in the line of future orders for both foreign and domestic goods, indicating that the foundation of the present improvement is not of a transient and evanescent character, but that an area of prosperity is dawning which gives promise not only of health and briskness but, it is hoped, of permanence also."

KEEP THE UPPER HAND.

Bear your burdens manfully,
Whatsoe'er they be;
Never let them over you
Gain ascendency.

Never let them master you,
Never for them wait:
Hands of labor strong to bear,
Ring the Bell of Fate.
—Texas Siftings.

ON SILVER MOUNTAIN.

BY F. L. STEALEY.

Heavy snows had fallen that season, adding to the never-melted accumulations in the gulches that gashed the northern slope of Silver Mountain. Huge, undulating drifts, too, projected along the lofty crest, threatening to break away, and start the annihilating avalanche.

From the dingy log-dens below, the miners read these snow-signs with experienced eyes. Stout hearts had those seekers for silver, but apprehension of the snow-slide could shake even them.

But from two log-shanties, placed one above the other in a clump of giant pines well up on the mountain side, smoke still arose at the morning and evening, and from the ragged mouths of two tunnels that were being driven in the slope above, there still came daily the silvery clink of hammer striking drill, intermitted by a muffled roar, as giant powder shattered the mountain's breast.

In the upper of these shanties lived "Uncle Jimmy" Trout, with his son, young Jimmy; in the lower, "old man" Trail, with his son Sam.

These were rival claimants to the same lead, to which old man Trail gave the significant name of "The Last Chance," and which Uncle Jimmy, in more cheerful spirit, called "The Blue Bird," as a harbinger of the spring of hope in the winter of his life.

Many were the complications involving intricate points of miners' law about this disputed claim, and which claimant had the right thereof no man could tell. The listener to Uncle Jimmy's wrongs would be firmly convinced that he must be right, until he heard old man Trail expatiate on the equity of "first diskivery," marking each "pint" with a hard forefinger in a horny palm, to the utter confusion of all previous convictions.

Each indignantly rejected all attempts at arbitration; and as, fortunately for themselves, both were too poor for the expensive luxury of litigation, it only remained, as Uncle Jimmy declared, "to sit right thar until they'd sot it out, regyardless of expenses." And though Uncle Jimmy, with his rotund body and red face set in a casing of close-cut gray whisker, was one of the easiest-going of men, the energetic and determined air with which he made this declaration was indicative of a protracted "set" on the part of the Blue Bird.

As for old man Trail, one look in his cavernous eyes, as he ran his hand slowly over the tangles of his unkempt beard, would suffice to show that there was as little yield about him as about one of the granite crags that guarded the entrance to the Last Chance Tunnel.

Jimmy, who was, to use his father's own expression, "light complected," stood a clear ten inches above the head of his house; strong, too, of arm and shoulder from swing of hammer, and every whit as stout of heart.

That stalwart son of the Sierras, Sam Trail, though of leaner build than Jimmy, was in size and strength his match, "dark complected," and in other respects like the sombre and self-contained christener of the Last Chance.

Often when at sundown the two boys, tin buckets in hand, met at the little spring that served for the use of both cabins, brows bent in wrath were reflected in that crystal basin. For the feud went loyally down from father to son.

Even the two "jacks"—one of these Mexican donkeys being owned by each claimant, and used for packing up supplies from the camp blow—became imbued with partisan animosity. Each grazed aloof on the bunch-grass growing on the breezy slopes; and, meeting by the cabin doors, they bit and kicked over the bacon rinds flung therefrom with a heartiness that partook of the spirit of their respective masters.

It had been "skifting" snow on the mountain for a day or two. But the morning was clear, and the sun, hanging on the pines that crested the opposing slope, shot his rays through glittering particles of flying frost into the open door of the upper cabin. Within, the two Trouts sat at their slab table before a Spartan breakfast of slap-jacks and salt pork.

"Jimmy, that outfit down thar," said the elder Trout, indicating the cabin below with his hand as he spoke—"they sent to camp yesterday. Suppose you take the jack and go down to-day, fur our grub pile is gettin' low, and git the drills sharpened. I'll rustle round and wash up some clothes while you're gone."

The air of the early morning was keen, and Jimmy waited until the sun was well up before he put the pack-saddle on the jack, and started down. Uncle Jimmy, meantime, set the camp-kettle on the coals in the rough fireplace, and prepared for washing.

Daily the two old men passed each other on the deep-worn paths leading from cabins to tunnels, but without a word or look of recognition. But, rigid as was the silence maintained between them, it could be broken by one thing—want of tobacco. After a few hours' unsatisfied craving for this universal solace of the miner, either would yield and apply to the other, never to be refused.

On this morning old man Trail, who had sent Sam to camp the previous day, had resisted this craving a whole day, but at last he succumbed, and slowly sauntered up to the Trout cabin.

"Kin you spar' me a piece of terbacker till my boy gits back?" he asked in his deliberate speech, disdaining politer forms of salutation, as he paused on the doorstep.

Uncle Jimmy, in overalls and red shirt with rolled up sleeves, was vigorously soaping flannels. He pointed with one suds-dripping hand to the rough mantel.

"It's on the shelf. Come in and help yourself," he said, endeavoring vainly to throw a hospitable heartiness into his tone.

The old man stepped in, drew his sheath-knife, and was about to part the coveted plug, when the attention of both was caught by a sound, loud and strange among the many noises of the mountain, coming from above.

"The slide!" cried the old man.

Almost as he spoke the topmost of the pines snapped before the avalanche, and then it struck the cabin. Stout as this was it shivered to the shock, the logs on the upper side were driven party in, and the centre roof-logs, already burdened by the weight of the dirt-roof, were sprung down and splintered with an ominous cracking.

But the spruce timbers were green and tough, and the cabin hung together. The slide, being partially broken by the trees, tore over it, closed the stout slab-door, and passed on down with a roar. Then followed darkness and silence.

All their tools were in the tunnels; they had nothing wherewith to effect an escape, even were escape possible. Fortunately the fire had gone out, so there was no smoke to add to their torture. But hidden thus from all the world, suddenly shut away from all its hopes, hatreds and fears, those two were to await, together, the inevitable.

For a time the suddenness of the catastrophe stunned both in silence. It was broken at length by the old man Trail, whose gruff tones were hardly recognizable in this softened whisper:

"Uncle Jimmy, I'm mighty glad the boys is both safe."

"I'm with you thar, old man," Uncle Jimmy replied, in a voice equally subdued.

The minutes, as they passed, might have been years, so faint and far away seemed their dispute over the lead.

"I'm sorry, old man. We mought 'a' settled this here business 'twixt me and you long 'go; but now, I reckon it's goin' fur to settle us," and Uncle Jimmy's voice gave faltering indications of breaking down.

"Brace up, Uncle Jimmy! The boys is both safe, and me and you was a-gittin' old, and couldn't in natur' 'a' helt on much longer. And arter all, Uncle Jimmy, this here aint a plum' playout; it's jest a slip in the paystreak, and we'll strike it agin 'acrost the range.'"

The old man's voice was wonderfully clear, as he paused and seated himself composedly on the bunk. Uncle Jimmy groped his way to him, and kneeling, rested his head and shoulders on the blankets. Then the hands of those ancient enemies met, and clung in a firm-locked clasp, reassuring each to each as they waited for the end.

To Jimmy, a visit to the camp was a welcome break in the monotony of life on Silver Mountain, and his step was accordingly light as he prodded the jack down the drifted trail with the pointed end of the scrub-oak stick that served him alike for staff and goad.

As he progressed downward, frosty clouds passed between him and the sun, giving the air a sudden chill as their shadows darkened the sparkling surface of the snow. The summit was lost to view, and, driven by the wind, snow began to fly, coming partly from the clouds and partly from the drifts above. Jimmy, however, was used to these mountain "squalls," and knew that, as long as the nimble-footed jack could keep the trail, he was safe to follow.

A mile or less from the cabin the trail made an abrupt bend around a granite crag. Firm-bedded in the mountain, this thrust its tapering pinnacle to the tops of the surrounding pines. Where the trail hugged its base there had been a "catch" of soft sand conglomerate which, worn away by action of frost and air, had gradually dropped out and been washed down the slope, leaving a shelving recess.

Just as Jimmy reached this recess he encounteged Sam Trail, coming upward. The two inimical jacks, brought suddenly face to face, alike laid long ears back and breathed forth defiance in trumpet notes that woke the echoes of the mountain defiles. Behind each pugnacious little beast his equally pugnacious driver halted squarely in the middle of the narrow trail.

"Turn out!" cried Sam Trail, in such a tone that Jimmy would have shot both jacks head-first down the slope rather than have complied. "Turn out, and let my jack hug the rock."

"Turn out yo'self!" retorted Jimmy. "My jack's got as good a right to the inside as yourn. Everybody turns to the right, and I'm a-goin' to."

"The pack 'll tip my jack over the slope ef I take the outside," replied Sam, "and I aint a-goin' to do it."

Both boys and beasts were by this time half-blinded by the snow, which was being sucked around the crag and whirled in their faces by the rising wind. Their passions kept pace with its fury. Each jack stood ready to rush open-mouthed; each driver got a firmer grasp on his oak stick and made a forward stride.

Just then, half-broken by the wind, came the sound of muffled thunder from the direction of the shanties. Following it, from immediately above them, came a crunching noise that caused the uplifted sticks to be held in air.

The snow-caps above had given way, and gathering momentum with increasing bulk and velocity, the slide, to which the one at the cabin was but a plaything, came tearing down, carrying along the granite boulders scattered in its path. Before its rush, the giant pines, with sap hard-frozen, snapped like reeds, each making a sharp report above the duller rumble of the mass.

Counted by the beating of their hearts, it was long before it struck the crag. Huge as was this, it trembled; but nothing less than an earthquake could have tumbled that mighty cone from its imbedded base, and the slide broke over it and pasied on.

Cowering in the recess, the boys were covered with snow as the great avalanche thundered past, swept the pines from the slope below, and shot up on the opposite side of the gulch, where at last it settled with a sound and a shock that seemed to shake the mountain.

"O Sam, my pa and yourn!" cried Jimmy, in a voice quite different from his former one. "That first one sounded like it was at the shanties."

As he spoke, with one accord they drew nearer together. No longer they seemed to be the two who had so lately met on the trail. And the slide had wrought other changes. Even the wind, no more soughing through the broken pines, whistled in altered cadence about the naked pinnacle of their bulwark.

"We must git out and git to the shanties somehow. Let's take the shovel and cut steps in the snow-bank," said Sam, pointing to a new shovel with its handle slipped through the many turns of rope that held the pack on the saddle of his jack.

Both brightened at the prospect of action. Sam, cutting the steps, was out first, and Jimmy clambering after, they stood looking around.

The dark green trees were gone. Some, torn up by the roots, had been carried bodily down; while here and there the stump of some broken giant stuck up its yellow splinters from the snow.

Both looked above, but the view was limited by the snow, driven by the furious wind, which, as they stepped from the crag, struck them with full power and forced them back.

"We can't go up agin it," said Sam "It'll fall 'fore long, I reckon. It didn't look like more'n a squall as I came up the trail. And maybe, Jimmy, the slide didn't strike the shanties, and ef it did, our pa's might 'a' been in the tunnels."

"My pa wasn't," said Jimmy, shaking his head. "He was just going to wash our clothes when I left."

"Them shanties was both put there to stay, and yourn was the stoutest built—even pa always 'lowed that." For Sam, though silent enough generally, could speak out on occasion.

"Now, Jimmy, I was bringing up a coffee pot. 'Taint no use standin' doin' nothin', and we'll melt some snow and have some coffee. I've got some already ground in the pot."

"I'll make the fire," said Jimmy, starting up as Sam unhooked the coffee pot from the crosses of the pack saddle. "There's a big mountain rat's nest under this rock. I've noticed it every time I passed, and the sticks are good and dry."

The fire was quickly made, and coffee was boiled. Then, cups being wanting, the pot was set away in the snow to cool sufficiently to permit of drinking from it. Sam, meantime, cut slices of salt pork from the piece in his pack, and these, having been singed in the fire, the two ate, and drank alternately from the same spout in loving fellowship.

In the background the jacks hung over the feast with pleading eyes. Each was rewarded now and then by a tid-bit of rind from his master's hand. And when the pork was finished Sam got out a small sack of oatmeal, and pouring a little into his hollowed hand, the two jacks licked it up by brotherly turns.

Soon after the meal the wind began to fall, and the clouds, breaking away, the sun, now declining, struck into the gulch. Then they widened the steps sufficiently to permit of the jacks clambering up, and set out for the shanties.

The trail was obliterated, but the snow was packed hard and they had little difficulty in gaining the site of the cabins. Then their fears were confirmed. Both had disappeared, and no human sound broke the solemn stillness. They had some difficulty, too, in locating the exact spots where the cabins had stood.

This they at length did, however, by the aid of the torn and twisted trees. These, they saw, had broken the force of the slide, and deflected it as well, so that the main shoot had turned and passed directly over the lower cabin. The upper one, inhabited by the Trouts, had been covered but a few feet from the great side-pressure of the mass.

After they had determined the location, Sam paused, and leaning on the shovel which he had brought up, said, with generous self-restraint, "Now, Jimmy, we aint got but one shovel. Which shanty shall we go at first?"

"Let's draw straws," replied Jimmy, after a moment's indecision.

"All right; you fix 'em."

Jimmy stooped, and taking two needles from a broken pine bough at his feet, turned his back.

"Short is our shanty, long is yourn. Draw, Sam," he said, as he faced about.

Each knew the minutes now were fraught with life or death to their imprisoned fathers. Jimmy's big hand trembled as he held the fateful needles pressed between thumb and finger. Sam's lean, brown one never quivered as he reached and drew—the short one.

"Your shanty," he said, with a long breath, and flung off his coat. "I'll take first shift. We'd better run in an incline, so as to strike the door, ef it's still thar."

Taking short runs, after a couple of hours' rapid work, they heard a muffled cry from within. Then the door was soon reached, forced open, and there, to their great joy, each saw his father.

To the anxious boys the faces of the fathers looked white and ghastly from their confinement in the stifling place, but the fresh air soon revived them. The old man Trail, struggling to his feet, was the first to speak.

"We might er knowed, Uncle Jimmy," he said, "that the boys was bound to git us out."

"Old man," Uncle Jimmy replied, too much impressed by recent events to think of aught else, "this slide has settled it fur me. S'pose we cut the claim in the middle and you take fust choice?"

"I was jest thinkin'," said the old man, with due deliberation, "this here thing of drivin' in two tunnels side and side is kinder foolishness. If we'd consolidate on one we'd strike pay rock all the quicker."

"That's a fact, pardner, and we can call it the Last Chance." Uncle Jimmy responded with self-denying alacrity, for the christening of his find is a matter of moment to the prospector's heart, and that of the Blue Bird had been evolved only after long and labored thought.

"I was thinkin'," the old man replied, with the same thoughtful slowness—"ef it's all the same to you, pardner—of consolidatin' the names likewise into 'The Blue Bird's Last Chance,' and so a-lettin' of Silver Mountin know this here thing betwixt me and you and Jimmy and Sam is done settled, now and fur good."

As the old man concluded he extended his hand to Uncle Jimmy. The "shake" that sealed the compact then went round. And so, despite the torn trees and drifted devastation, the sun set in peace on Silver Mountain.—Youth's Companion.

The coins of the German Empire may be used also as weights. A pfennig piece weighs exactly two grains; so does a gold five-mark piece. A nickel ten-pfennig and a ten-mark gold piece weigh each four grams.

No microbes have ever been found in tobacco. They are probably afraid that devotion to the weed would injure their constitutions.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SKETCHES FROM VARIOUS SOURCES.

An Early Riser—The Clergyman's Dinner Out—Not Cured in English—He Had Known Sorrow, Etc.

Mrs. Van Coover (to caller)—"I have such a splendid cook, and she is such an early riser. The ice man leaves the ice at five o'clock and she is always there to bring it in. She is a perfect treasure. I don't know what I should do without her."

Splendid Cook (opening the door)—"Plaze, mum, it's a wake's notice oim given yez. Oim to marry Dennis, the ice man, in a month come Thoorsday."—New York Sun.

The Clergyman's Dinner Out.

"That's what I call a good dinner," remarked Bobby, as he leaned back in his chair with an air of repletion.

"Bobby," said his mother, "I am ashamed of you." The minister of the chapel, who was dining with the family, laughed heartily.

"Bobby appreciates the good things of life," he said, "like the rest of us."

"Don't you think it was a good dinner?" Bobby asked of the minister.

"Yes, indeed," he said, "I enjoyed it very much."

"Ma said she thought you would, because she didn't suppose you got very much at home," remarked Bobby.—Toronto Truth.

Not Cured in English.

There is a young man in Minneapolis who stutters so badly that a space of about three years has escaped from him during the years that he has talked. He went to Germany some time ago to receive treatment for the affliction. He wrote home that he was cured, perfectly cured, of the stuttering. In consequence there was great rejoicing among his friends. When he arrived he was greeted at the depot by a party of friends.

"How did you get along?" they inquired.

"P-p-pretty well," he replied.

"How did you like it?"

"F-f-first rate. Nice c-c-country."

"How did you get along with the treatment?"

"Sp-p-splendidly."

"We thought that you were cured?"

"S-s-so I am."

"But you do not talk any better than when you went away."

"W-w-well, you s-s-see I was only cured in G-g-german. I wasn't t-t-treated in English."—Minneapolis Journal.

He Had Known Sorrow.

They were talking pensively and confidentially in the dimly-lighted parlor, and she looked at him with ineffable sweetness and said:

"I have so often noticed an expression of the most intense melancholy on your face. Mr. Sudeye, tell me truly—does some secret sorrow prey upon your heart?"

"Matilda," he answered hoarsely, "I would not intrude my griefs upon you. Better to bear them alone, even though they desolate and corrode the heart."

"Tell me, Ernest, tell me all! Let me share your sorrow with you!"

"If you must know, my dear, I spilled a bottle of ink on those light pants I bought a month ago.—Nebraska State Journal.

Willing to Let Mr. Jobson In.

"William," said the old gentleman at the breakfast table.

"Sir!"

"I am not pleased to see you so much in the company of young Jobson. He is a dissipated young man and he gambles. I should prefer that you avoid his society."

"He gambles, father, I suppose. He can afford to. He has just made $100,000 in the wheat corner."

"Well—still—you better be careful."

After a little while William rises from the table.

"William!"

"Sir!"

"If Mr. Jobson is disengaged this evening you can bring him up to dinner. Perhaps a little good example may save him—and, William, you can just tell him something about the new mining company I am floating."

Rapid Transit.

A man came to the house of a prominent New York gentleman, who was renowned for not paying his debts, and knocking at the door, asked the boy who appeared if his father was in.

"No, sir, he has left town to be gone a month. He is in Chicago right now."

"I am sorry, for I wanted to pay a little bill I was owing him."

"O, you want to pay him money, do you?"

"Yes, certainly. Here it is."

"Well, then, I'll run in and ask him if he hasn't got back."

The man had got back from Chicago, but the visitor, who was a deputy sheriff, served a citation on him for house rent. —Texas Siftings.

How Brignoli Apologized.

The following incident is told of Signor Brignoli, the tenor: He was singing in concert for a charitable object, when the prima donna was suddenly attacked with singers' sore throat, and it became necessary for some one to apologize to the audience. The manager declared that he was suffering from nervousness and could not do it; and he begged Bignoli to make the explanation. The tenor, going forward, said:

"Ladies an' gentlemen, I regret to zay zat Mme. W—— eez a leetle horse diz evenin'."

Peals of laughter greeted this announcement, and the tenor supposed he had been misunderstood.

He advanced once more and, with thundering voice, roared out:

"I—zay—zat—Mme.—W—— eez—a leetle—horse—diz—evenin'!"

Can't Dodge 'Em.

A Wayne County farmer, who had a little time to spare during the drought, went at it and created seven artificial mounds to resemble graves, in a field close to the road. Signboards were put up and labeled: "Tramp No. 1," "Tramp No. 2," and so on through, and when the work was finished the granger went up to the house with a grin on his face and said to his wife:

"That 'ere dodge will beat all the laws in Michigan to keep tramps away."

Breakfast was not yet over next morning when there was a knock on the kitchen door, and the farmer opened it to find five gaunt tramps standing in a half circle.

"You here!" he yelled as soon as he could credit his senses. "Didn't you see those graves down by the road?"

"We did, sir," answered the oldest tramp for all. "That's just why we stopped. We wanted to know if they come to their death by over-eating?"—Detroit Free Press.

His Master's Sober Request.

The policeman had given his testimony, which was unqualifiedly to the fact of the old gentleman's intoxication. Then the old servant was called to the stand. There was a mingled expresion of indignation and determination on his countenance. He testified flatly, to the suprise of the court room, that the old man was sober when he came home. The Prosecuting Attorney proceeded to question:

"You say that Mr. —— was sober when he came home?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did he get to bed alone?"

"No, sir."

"Did you put him to bed?"

"Yes, sir."

"And was he perfectly sober?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did he say when you put him to bed?"

"He said 'Good night.'"

"Anything else?"

"He said as how I was to call him early."

"Anything else?"

"Yes, sir."

"What was it? Tell us exactly what he said, every word."

"He said as how I was to wake and call him early, for he was to be the Queen of the May!"

The old man was fined.—Boston Transcript.

The "Toddy Palm."

"When I was down in Washington the other day," remarked a Western politician at the St. James, "they showed me a wonderful Indian palm in the botanical garden. They call it the caryota ureus, and it cuts a bigger figure in the world as an intoxicant than all the distilleries of the United States. Just in proportion as the followers of Brahma and Buddha in India are far more numerous than the Christian population of the United States, in the same proportion does that palm tree surpass all our appliances for making an intoxicant. It is a beautiful tree, with a trunk something over a foot in diameter, grows to the height of about sixty feet, and is surmounted by an elegant crown of gracefully curved leaves. The flower spikes are ten or twelve feet long, and issue from the trunk at the base of the leaves, hanging down like a horse's tail. They are not produced till the tree has arrived at its full period of growth, and the manner in which the numerous spikes succeed each other is rather singular. The first spike issues from the top of the tree, and after it has done flowering another comes out below it, and so on, a flower spike being produced from the angle of each leaf stalk, or from the circular scar left by leaves that have fallen away from the trunk, until the process of flowering reaches the ground, when the tree is exhausted and dies.

"The English in India gave it the name of Toddy Palm, because they traced a kinship between their old home toddy and the juice of the tree. The natives work it in this fashion: When the spikes are in the bud they cut them off, and the sap that would have flowed into the bud is caught by them in a gourd and used as a liquor. It's very powerful, and produces a fine crop of delirium tremens in India. They expect this Oriental distillery to flow some time this fall. Yes, it's the only Toddy Palm in this country."—New York Sun.

Things Seen in Paris.

Economical country in point of wrapping paper. No clean paper bags in grocery like ours. Old newspapers used to wrap your sugar, etc., in. French printing ink very strong of tar, turpentine and other stickiness. Your butter and cheese wrapped in bits of old ledgers. No tramps. Beggars authorized somehow by law. Carry a bundle of checks or colored slips of paper. Give one a penny, and he or she gives you a check. For services rendered somehow. Very common and cheap coffee. When sold poured out of a black bottle. As black as the bottle. Tastes like shoe blacking warmed over. Only a counterfeit of coffee. Gingerbread abundant. No ginger in it. Exclusive lotteries and fairs for selling gingerbread. Made in chunks two feet long and three inches thick. Ditto in molds of gingerbread kings and queens two feet long. Bend like India rubber. Tastes like ditto. Is carried all over France from fair to fair. Piled by the curb in the sun. Exposed to various weathers. Stale if not mouldy. Sometimes stuffed with boiled chestnuts. Which makes it worse. Kept at grocery stores. Set out in front, along with tubs, pails and brooms. Dogs smell of it. Children finger it during their age of stickiness. Cats run over it. Mice nibble it. Dust works through it. Should see the old feather broom the shopman sweeps it which every morning. Gingerbread king held by the foot very pliable. Will bend nearly double. Saw one so carried by lady in street car. Gingerbread auctions and lotteries. Lottery man attracts crowd by baiting hook and line with hunk of gingerbread. Sweeps it over crowd of small boys who must catch it in their mouths. Marks each piece with chalk to correspond with lottery ticket dealt out. When won hands it to winner, first rubbing off chalk on aged pair of pantaloons.—Ohio State Journal.

A plant has been discovered in India which is said to destroy the power of tasting sugar. It will be useful in counteracting a morbid appetite for sweetmeats, which is an active promoter of indigestion. Another plant found in Madras destroys the relish for cigars and tobacco. Thus two important curatives are added to the materia medica.

The manufacture of rubies has reached such perfection that the artificial product is often as valuable as the natural stone.

THE LESSON OF LIFE

Drop follows drop and swells
With rain the sweeping river.
Word follows word and tells
A truth that lives forever.

Flake follows flake like sprites
Whose wings the winds dissever.
Thought follows thought and lights
The realm of mind forever.

Beam follows beam to cheer
The cloud the bolt might shiver.
Throb follows throb and fear
Gives place to joy forever.

The drop, the flake, the beam
Teach us a lesson ever.
The word, the thought, the dream
Impress the soul forever.

Day follows day and brings
Manhood and its endeavor.
Year follows year on wings
That sweep right on forever.

Night follows night, we rest
Till fate our slumbers sever
Morn follows morn, the test
Of life that lasts forever.

Deed follows deed, we cheer
The art and artist clever.
Friend follows friend, and here
We meet no more forever.

To-day, the night, the morn
Depart, returning never.
Souls of the Spirit born
Will live and live forever.
—George W. Bungay.

PITH AND POINT.

In the bright lexicon of speculation there is nothing so uncertain as a sure thing.

Man reaps what he sows; but women often rips what she sews.—Commercial Bulletin.

Some men find fault because they are never lucky enough to find anything else. —Lowell Citizen.

"I've got my-self in an ice-box!" as the butcher remarked when he found himself locked up in a fresh-meat refrigerator.—Goodall's Sun.

Johnny's sitting in the corner:
Pensive is his mien,
Don't disturb him, he's a mourner
'Cause the fruit was green.
—Merchant Traveler.

At a Restaurant—"Waiter, this salmon isn't fresh?" "How can that be, sir? It's just off the ice, sir." "Then it's your ice that isn't fresh, waiter." Judge.

A two-story house fell on a Chicago reporter, and when they dug him out of the debris he had a two-column article written about the accident.—Newman Independent.

They were discussing art matters. "Have you ever been done in oil, Mr. Smith?" she asked. "Oh, yes," he replied. "Who was the artist?" "He wasn't an artist; he was a broker."

"Guibollard" visits an insane asylum: "I hear that you sometimes incarcerate people here who are not insane." "Oh, yes; but that don't matter—they invariable become insane in less than a week here.—Paris Charivari.

If you drop your collar button, there is one sure method of finding it. After you have hauled the bureau across the room to look under it, then replace the furniture and put on a pair of heavy shoes. Start to walk across the room, and before you have taken three steps you will step on the collar button and smash it all to pieces.—Dansville Breeze.

He sat him down on the circus seat
Beside of a girl he had not seen before;
He thought himsel and his style "complete,"
